Indian Point Closure Task Force Identifies Responses to Power Plant's Closure — Panel of State, Local and Labor Representatives Moves Forward to Address Employment and Property Tax Issues; Monitor Compliance with Closure of Facility Agreement —

ALBANY — The Indian Point Closure Task Force met for the first-time last night and publicly discussed and identified initiatives to help the local community prepare for the facility to cease power generation operations and shut down by 2021, as a result of an agreement reached earlier this year.

Critical goals of the 23-member task force include identifying ways to respond to potential local tax and workforce impacts while closing the plant in a safe and responsible manner. By evaluating site reuse options, identifying new local economic development and workforce retraining opportunities, and advocating for appropriate decommissioning timelines, the task force seeks to assist the region overall for a prosperous and sustainable future during and after the decommissioning of the facility.

“Created by Governor Andrew M. Cuomo and the State Legislature, this task force of key state agencies, prominent state and local elected officials, and labor union representatives, has hit the ground running to help ensure that the closure process effectively addresses the needs of the communities surrounding Indian Point,” said Task Force Chairman and Department of Public Service Executive Deputy Tom Congdon. “Given the early successes that have already been achieved in this important process, I am confident the task force will successfully meet its long-term goals, benefitting the community and region at large.”

Examples of the early successes of task force members include legally establishing its operating authority and scope of operation in the State Budget, requiring a study of re-use options of the Indian Point property, adding an additional $15 million to the State's Power Plant Cessation Mitigation Fund starting in 2020, extending the timeline for payments from that fund, and authorizing the Hendrick-Hudson School District to start a reserve fund to plan for future tax impacts. To ensure transparency, the task force will submit a detailed annual report starting on April 30, 2018, and each year thereafter through 2023.

The task force held its first meeting on Wednesday, May 31 in Cortlandt, Westchester County. At the initial meeting, the task force members discussed the process that will be used to hire an independent consultant to understand Indian Point site reuse and reutilization options. The Task Force will also assess resources and opportunities for school funding gaps that might develop, as well as ongoing discussions with the local labor unions on workforce retraining opportunities.

The next meeting of the task force is scheduled for Sept. 28, 2017. During the intervening months, individual members will be busy continuing to advance the core work of the task force and will report back to the larger group in the fall. The task force is required to meet three times a year. The annual report will be issued for formal public comment.
