PULP, a not for profit organization, seeks to protect and advance the interests of residential consumers in energy and utility matters, with emphases upon affordability of service for persons with low and fixed incomes, customer protection, and universal service. The Consolidated Edison Company of New York ("Con Edison") lockout of 8,500 of its employees on or about July 1, 2012, the attendant reduction in services and maintenance, the closing of customer service walk-in centers, and the cessation of most meter reading (with apparent reliance on estimated bills), all militate for close scrutiny by the Commission whether the utility is violating its basic duty to serve its customers and the public, and for prompt interim relief to protect customers.

PULP has participated as an active party in prior proceedings of the Public Service

Commission involving Con Edison and its rates, terms and conditions of service, including a prior proceeding which culminated in an Order of the Commission requiring Con Edison to reopen and to maintain offices for in-person customer service. PULP's participation in this proceeding will not prejudice any other party, and will contribute to the development of a more complete record upon which the Commission will make its decisions, and is in the public interest.
