¶ 1. Petitioner's dental office is not a "place of public accommodation" and thus not subject to the City's Human Rights Law where discriminatory practices are proscribed (Ad Code § 8-102(9)) in view of the facts that petitioner takes patients by referral only and does not advertise through the telephone directory or by any other means. Accordingly the NYC Commission on Human Rights lacks jurisdiction over petitioners practice under the City's Human Rights Law for failing to provide dental services to AIDS patient.-Sattler v. NY Commission on Human Rights, 147 Misc. 2d 189.

¶ 2. In Ad Cd § 8-102(2) sexual orientation is defined as heterosexuality, homosexuality or bisexuality. The term deals with sexual preferences and practices, not transsexualism.-Maffei v. Kolaeton Industry, 164 Misc. 2d 547 [1995].

¶ 3. A blind person proved that he was qualified for the position of telephone interviewer, the burden shifted to the employer to show that it could not accommodate him reasonably, Ad Cd § 8-102(18). The employer did not meet this burden and the refusal to modify its existing programs is discriminatory.-Harris & Assoc. v. DeLeon, 199 AD2d 78 aff'd 84 NY2d 698 [1994].

¶ 4. This section, which substantially limits the "private club" exception to the anti-discrimination laws, is constitutional as a valid exercise of police power. There is a compelling governmental interest in giving women and minorities access to facilities at which business is actually conducted. Moreover, the statute was not pre-empted by or inconsistent with state anti-discrimination laws. New York State Club Association v. City of New York, 69 N.Y.2d 211, 513 N.Y.S.2d 349 (1987).

¶ 6. See Franklin v. Consolidated Edison Co., 1999 WL 796170 (U.S. Dist. Ct. S.D.N.Y.), discussed in the annotations for 8-107, regarding the definition of disability.

¶ 7. The New York City law on disability is broader than the federal law in terms of defining disability. It is possible to be "disabled" within the meaning of the City law without showing that the disability "substantially" limits a major life activity. Giordano v. City of New York, 274 F.3d 740 (2d Cir. 2001).

¶ 8. A notice of claim must be filed in the case of a discrimination claim against a municipal convention center operating corporation. In other words, the notice of claim requirement applies to all claims, not just to those that are "founded in tort." Aguilar v. New York Convention Center Operating Corp., 174 F.Supp.2d 49 (S.D.N.Y. 2001).

¶ 9. A defendant's wife did not count as an "employee" for purposes of determining whether or not defendant came within the definition of "employer." Guzman v. Lorenc, 293 A.D.2d 711, 741 N.Y.S.2d 424 (2d Dept. 2002).

¶ 10. A restaurant, a place of public accommodation under Administrative Code section 8-102(9), was found to have engaged in discrimination by requiring an African American customer to pay for her food before receiving it, while three non-African American customers were not required to pay for their food until receiving their food orders. Respondents failed to demonstrate a legitimate, non-discriminatory motive for treating the African American customer differently. The administrative law judge recommended a fine of $2,000, which was modified to $10,000 by the Commission on Human Rights. On appeal, applying the principal of proportionality, the court reduced the fine to $5,000. Comm'n on Human Rights v. Silver Dragon Restaurant, OATH Index No. 677/03 (May 30, 2003), modified on penalty, Comm'n Dec. (July 28, 2003), Complaint No. M-P-R-3-1013639, modified on penalty, NYLJ, Mar. 31, 2004, at 24 (Sup. Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 11. Individual employees named as respondents are liable as an "employer" only where they either "possess ownership interests in the employing company or have discretionary authority to make final personnel decisions." Supervisor who was not a decision maker in complainant's termination was not an employer; Director of Sales, who confirmed that he made the decision to terminate the complainant was an employer for liability purposes. Comm'n on Human Rights ex rel. Manning v. HealthFirst, LLC, OATH Index No. 462/05 (Mar. 15, 2006), adopted, Comm'n Dec. (May 10, 2006).

¶ 12. Commission rejected ALJ's ruling that an employer should be required to accept substandard performance from a disabled employee. However, where evidence showed that attaining 100% of the monthly sales goal was not an essential requisite of the position, terminating the complainant for failing to perform at that level was discriminatory and in violation of the Human Rights Law. Comm'n on Human Rights ex rel. Manning v. HealthFirst, LLC, OATH Index No. 462/05 (Mar. 15, 2006), adopted, Comm'n Dec. (May 10, 2006).

¶ 13. Court affirms Commission's order that landlord widen doors and install a ramp and a lift in the lobby to accommodate a disabled tenant, adopting the Commission's ruling that depreciation is a "tax fiction" which is irrelevant when determining whether the proposed accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the owner. Court upholds Commission's finding that the owner did not meet its burden of proving undue hardship where owner made a profit on the building for the past three years when depreciation is factored out. T.K. Management v. Gatling, Index No. 14255/05, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3593 (Sup. Ct. Queens Co. Nov. 2, 2005).

¶ 15. An employer is not required to accommodate an employee where it is unaware of his disability. Thus, an employee who keeps his disability hidden will not be successful in a subsequent claim under the disability laws. Nande v. JP Morgan Chase & Co., 17 Misc.3d 1103(A), 2007 WL 2792155 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 16. Section 8-102's protection against discrimination on the basis of disability protect an employee who is recovering from drug abuse and is free from such abuse. An employee is a current addict who was caught discussing the purchase of drugs and cannot use the statute to avoid termination of employment. Iannone v. ING Financial Services, LLC 2008 NY Slip Op. 2468, 49 AD3d 391, 853 NYS2d 339, 2008 NY App. Div. Lexis 2415 (App. Div. 1st Dept.), leave to appeal dismissed, 11 N.Y.3d 808, 868 N.Y.S.2d 586 (2008).

§ 8-103 Commission on human rights.

There is hereby created a commission on human rights. It shall consist of fifteen members, to be appointed by the mayor, one of whom shall be designated by the mayor as its chairperson and shall serve as such at the pleasure of the mayor. The chairperson shall devote his or her entire time to the chairperson's duties and shall not engage in any other occupation, profession or employment. Members other than the chairperson shall serve without compensation. Of the fifteen members first appointed, five shall be appointed for one year, five for two years and five for three years; thereafter all appointments to the commission shall be for a term of three years. In the event of the death or resignation of any member, his or her successor shall be appointed to serve for the unexpired period of the term for which such member had been appointed.

§ 8-105 Powers and duties.

The powers and duties of the commission shall be:

(1) To work together with federal, state and city agencies in developing courses of instruction, for presentation to city employees and in public and private schools, public libraries, museums and other suitable places, on techniques for achieving harmonious intergroup relations within the city of New York, and engage in other anti-discrimination activities.

(2) To enlist the cooperation of various groups, and organizations, in mediation efforts, programs and campaigns devoted to eliminating group prejudice, intolerance, hate crimes, bigotry and discrimination.

(3) To study the problems of prejudice, intolerance, bigotry, discrimination and disorder occasioned thereby in all or any fields of human relationship.

(4) (a) To receive, investigate and pass upon complaints and to initiate its own investigations of:

(i) Group tensions, prejudice, intolerance, bigotry and disorder occasioned thereby.

(ii) Discrimination against any person or group of persons, provided, however, that with respect to discrimination alleged to be committed by city officials or city agencies, such investigation shall be commenced after consultation with the mayor. Upon its own motion, to make, sign and file complaints alleging violations of this chapter.

(b) In the event that any investigation undertaken pursuant to paragraph a of this subdivision discloses information that any person or group of persons may be engaged in a pattern or practice that results in the denial to any person or group of persons of the full enjoyment of any right secured by this chapter, in addition to making, signing and filing a complaint upon its own motion pursuant to paragraph a of this subdivision, to refer such information to the corporation counsel for the purpose of commencing a civil action pursuant to chapter four of this title.

(5) (a) To issue subpoenas in the manner provided for in the civil practice law and rules compelling the attendance of witnesses and requiring the production of any evidence relating to any matter under investigation or any question before the commission, and to take proof with respect thereto;

(b) To hold hearings, administer oaths and take the testimony of any person under oath; and

(c) In accordance with applicable law, to require the production of any names of persons necessary for the investigation of any institution, club or other place or provider of accommodation.

(6) In accordance with the provision of subdivision b of section 8-114 of this chapter, to require any person or persons who are the subject of an investigation by the commission to preserve such records as are in the possession of such person or persons and to continue to make and keep the type of records that have been made and kept by such person or persons in the ordinary course of business within the previous year, which records are relevant to the determination whether such person or persons have committed unlawful discriminatory practices with respect to activities in the city.

(7) To issue publications and reports of investigations and research designed to promote good will and minimize or eliminate prejudice, intolerance, bigotry, discrimination and disorder occasioned thereby.

(8) To appoint such employees and agents as it deems to be necessary to carry out its functions, powers and duties and to assign to such persons any of such functions, powers and duties; provided, however, that the commission shall not delegate its power to adopt rules, and, provided further, that the commission's power to order that records be preserved or made and kept pursuant to subdivision b of section 8-114 of this chapter and the commission's power to determine that a respondent has engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice and to issue an order for such relief as is necessary and proper shall be delegated only to members of the commission. The expenses for the carrying on of the commission's activities shall be paid out of the funds in the city treasury. The commission's appointment and assignment powers as set forth in this subdivision may be exercised by the chairperson of the commission.

(9) To recommend to the mayor and to the council, legislation to aid in carrying out the purpose of this chapter.

(10) To submit an annual report to the mayor and the council which shall be published in the City Record.

(11) To adopt rules to carry out the provisions of this chapter and the policies and procedures of the commission in connection therewith.

§ 8-107 Unlawful discriminatory practices.

1. Employment. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice:

(a) For an employer or an employee or agent thereof, because of the actual or perceived age, race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status of any person, to refuse to hire or employ or to bar or to discharge from employment such person or to discriminate against such person in compensation or in terms, conditions or privileges of employment.

(b) For an employment agency or an employee or agent thereof to discriminate against any person because of such person's actual or perceived age, race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status in receiving, classifying, disposing or otherwise acting upon applications for its services or in referring an applicant or applicants for its services to an employer or employers.

(c) For a labor organization or an employee or agent thereof, because of the actual or perceived age, race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status of any person, to exclude or to expel from its membership such person or to discriminate in any way against any of its members or against any employer or any person employed by an employer.

(d) For any employer, labor organization or employment agency or an employee or agent thereof to declare, print or circulate or cause to be declared, printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for employment or to make any inquiry in connection with prospective employment, which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to age, race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status, or any intent to make any such limitation, specification or discrimination.

(e) The provisions of this subdivision and subdivision two of this section: (i) as they apply to employee benefit plans, shall not be construed to preclude an employer from observing the provisions of any plan covered by the federal employment retirement income security act of nineteen hundred seventy-four that is in compliance with applicable federal discrimination laws where the application of the provisions of such subdivisions to such plan would be preempted by such act; (ii) shall not preclude the varying of insurance coverages according to an employee's age; (iii) shall not be construed to affect any retirement policy or system that is permitted pursuant to paragraph (e) and (f) of subdivison three-a of section two hundred ninety-six of the executive law; (iv) shall not be construed to affect the retirement policy or system of an employer where such policy or system is not a subterfuge to evade the purposes of this chapter.

(f) The provisions of this subdivision shall not govern the employment by an employer of his or her parents, spouse, domestic partner, or children; provided, however, that such family members shall be counted as persons employed by an employer for the purposes of subdivision five of section 8-102 of this chapter.

2. Apprentice training programs. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for an employer, labor organization, employment agency or any joint labor-management committee controlling apprentice training programs or an employee or agent thereof:

(a) To select persons for an apprentice training program registered with the state of New York on any basis other than their qualifications, as determined by objective criteria which permit review.

(b) To deny to or withhold from any person because of his or her actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status the right to be admitted to or participate in a guidance program, an apprentice training program, on-the-job training program, or other occupational training or retraining program.

(c) To discriminate against any person in his or her pursuit of such program or to discriminate against such a person in the terms, conditions or privileges of such program because of actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status.

(d) To declare, print or circulate or cause to be declared, printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for such program or to make any inquiry in connection with such program which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status, or any intent to make any such limitation, specification or discrimination.

3. Employment; religious observance. (a) It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for an employer or an employee or agent thereof to impose upon a person as a condition of obtaining or retaining employment any terms or conditions, compliance with which would require such person to violate, or forego a practice of, his or her creed or religion, including but not limited to the observance of any particular day or days or any portion thereof as a sabbath or holy day or the observance of any religious custom or usage, and the employer shall make reasonable accommodation to the religious needs of such person. Without in any way limiting the foregoing, no person shall be required to remain at his or her place of employment during any day or days or portion thereof that, as a requirement of such person's religion, he or she observes as a sabbath or other holy day, including a reasonable time prior and subsequent thereto for travel between his or her place of employment and his or her home, provided, however, that any such absence from work shall, wherever practicable in the judgment of the employer, be made up by an equivalent amount of time at some other mutually convenient time.

(b) "Reasonable accommodation", as used in this subdivision, shall mean such accommodation to an employee's or prospective employee's religious observance or practice as shall not cause undue hardship in the conduct of the employer's business. The employer shall have the burden of proof to show such hardship.

4. Public accommodations. a. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person, being the owner, lessee, proprietor, manager, superintendent, agent or employee of any place or provider of public accommodation, because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, age, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status of any person, directly or indirectly, to refuse, withhold from or deny to such person any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges thereof, or, directly or indirectly, to make any declaration, publish, circulate, issue, display, post or mail any written or printed communication, notice or advertisement, to the effect that any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of any such place or provider shall be refused, withheld from or denied to any person on account of race, creed, color, national origin, age, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status or that the patronage or custom of any person belonging to, purporting to be, or perceived to be, of any particular race, creed, color, national origin, age, gender, disability, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status is unwelcome, objectionable or not acceptable, desired or solicited.

b. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the provisions of this subdivision shall not apply, with respect to age or gender, to places or providers of public accommodation where the commission grants an exemption based on bona fide considerations of public policy.

c. The provisions of this subdivision relating to discrimination on the basis of gender shall not prohibit any educational institution subject to this subdivision from making gender distinctions which would be permitted (i) for educational institutions which are subject to section thirty-two hundred one-a of the education law or any rules or regulations promulgated by the state commissioner of education relating to gender or (ii) under sections 86.32, 86.33 and 86.34 of title forty-five of the code of federal regulations for educational institutions covered thereunder.

d. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to preclude an educational institution-other than a publicly-operated educational institution-which establishes or maintains a policy of educating persons of one gender exclusively from limiting admissions to students of that gender.

e. The provisions of this subdivision relating to disparate impact shall not apply to the use of standardized tests as defined by section three hundred forty of the education law by an educational institution subject to this subdivision provided that such test is used in the manner and for the purpose prescribed by the test agency which designed the test.

f. The provisions of this subdivision as they relate to unlawful discriminatory practices by educational institutions shall not apply to matters that are strictly educational or pedagogic in nature.

5. Housing accommodations, land, commercial space and lending practices. (a) Housing accommodations. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for the owner, lessor, lessee, sublessee, assignee, or managing agent of, or other person having the right to sell, rent or lease or approve the sale, rental or lease of a housing accommodation, constructed or to be constructed, or an interest therein, or any agent or employee thereof:

(1) To refuse to sell, rent, lease, approve the sale, rental or lease or otherwise deny to or withhold from any person or group of persons such a housing accommodation or an interest therein because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of such person or persons, or because of any lawful source of income of such person or persons, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person or persons.

(2) To discriminate against any person because of such person's actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status, or because of any lawful source of income of such person, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person, in the terms, conditions or privileges of the sale, rental or lease of any such housing accommodation or an interest therein or in the furnishing of facilities or services in connection therewith.

(3) To declare, print or circulate or cause to be declared, printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for the purchase, rental or lease of such a housing accommodation or an interest therein or to make any record or inquiry in conjunction with the prospective purchase, rental or lease of such a housing accommodation or an interest therein which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status, or any lawful source of income, or whether children are, may be, or would be residing with a person, or any intent to make such limitation, specification or discrimination.

(4) The provisions of this paragraph (a) shall not apply:

(1) to the rental of a housing accommodation, other than a publicly-assisted housing accommodation, in a building which contains housing accommodations for not more than two families living independently of each other, if the owner members of the owner's family reside in one of such housing accommodations, and if the available housing accommodation has not been publicly advertised, listed, or otherwise offered to the general public; or

(2) to the rental of a room or rooms in a housing accommodation, other than a publicly-assisted housing accommodation, if such rental is by the occupant of the housing accommodation or by the owner of the housing accommodation and the owner or members of the owner's family reside in such housing accommodation.

(b) Land and commercial space. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for the owner, lessor, lessee, sublessee, or managing agent of, or other person having the right of ownership or possession of or the right to sell, rent, or lease, or approve the sale, rental or lease of land or commercial space or an interest therein, or any agency or employee thereof:

(1) To refuse to sell, rent, lease, approve the sale, rental or lease or otherwise deny or to withhold from any person or group of persons land or commercial space or an interest therein because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of such person or persons, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person or persons.

(2) To discriminate against any person because of actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person, in the terms, conditions or privileges of the sale, rental or lease of any such land or commercial space or an interest therein or in the furnishing of facilities or services in connection therewith.

(3) To declare, print or circulate or cause to be declared, printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for the purchase, rental or lease of such land or commercial space or an interest therein or to make any record or inquiry in connection with the prospective purchase, rental or lease of such land or commercial space or an interest therein which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status, or whether children are, may be or would be residing with such person, or any intent to make any such limitation, specification or discrimination.

(c) Real estate brokers. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any real estate broker, real estate salesperson or employee or agent thereof:

(1) To refuse to sell, rent or lease any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein to any person or group of persons or to refuse to negotiate for the sale, rental or lease, of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein to any person or group of persons because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of such person or persons, or because of any lawful source of income of such person or persons, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person or persons, or to represent that any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein is not available for inspection, sale, rental or lease when in fact it is so available, or otherwise to deny or withhold any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein or any facilities of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein from any person or group of persons because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of such person or persons, or because of any lawful source of income of such person or persons, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person or persons.

(2) To declare, print or circulate or cause to be declared, printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for the purchase, rental or lease of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein or to make any record or inquiry in connection with the prospective purchase, rental or lease of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status, or any lawful source of income, or to whether children are, may be or would be residing with a person, or any intent to make such limitation, specification or discrimination.

(3) To induce or attempt to induce any person to sell or rent any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein by representations, explicit or implicit, regarding the entry or prospective entry into the neighborhood or area of a person or persons of any race, creed, color, gender, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status, partnership status, national origin, alienage or citizenship status, or a person or persons with any lawful source of income, or a person or persons with whom children are, may be or would be residing.

(d) Lending practices. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person, bank, trust company, private banker, savings bank, industrial bank, savings and loan association, credit union, investment company, mortgage company, insurance company, or other financial institution or lender, doing business in the city and if incorporated regardless of whether incorporated under the laws of the state of New York, the United States or any other jurisdiction, or any officer, agent or employee thereof to whom application is made for a loan, mortgage or other form of financial assistance for the purchase, acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, repair or maintenance of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein:

(1) To discriminate against such applicant or applicants because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, sexual orientation, age, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of such applicant or applicants or of any member, stockholder, director, officer or employee of such applicant or applicants, or of the occupants or tenants or prospective occupants or tenants of such housing accommodation, land or commercial space, or because children are, may be or would be residing with such applicant or other person, in the granting, withholding, extending or renewing, or in the fixing of rates, terms or conditions of any such financial assistance or in the appraisal of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein.

(2) To use any form of application for a loan, mortgage, or other form of financial assistance, or to make any record or inquiry in connection with applications for such financial assistance, or in connection with the appraisal of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein, which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, sexual orientation, age, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status, or whether children are, may be, or would be residing with a person.

(e) Real estate services. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice to deny a person access to, or membership in or participation in, a multiple listing service, real estate brokers' organization, or other service because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, sexual orientation, age, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of such person or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person.

(f) Real estate related transactions. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person whose business includes the appraisal of housing accommodations, land or commercial space or interest therein or an employee or agent thereof to discriminate in making available or in the terms or conditions of such appraisal on the basis of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, sexual orientation, age, marital status, partnership status, or alienage or citizenship status of any person or because children are, may be or would be residing with such person.

(g) Applicability; persons under eighteen years of age. The provisions of this subdivision, as they relate to unlawful discriminatory practices in housing accommodations, land and commercial space or an interest therein and lending practices on the basis of age, shall not apply to unemancipated persons under the age of eighteen years.

(h) Applicability; discrimination against persons with children. The provisions of this subdivision with respect to discrimination against persons with whom children are, may be or would be residing shall not apply to housing for older persons as defined in paragraphs two and three of subdivision (b) of section thirty-six hundred seven of title forty-two of the United States code and any regulations promulgated thereunder.

(i) Applicability; senior citizen housing. The provisions of this subdivision with respect to discrimination on the basis of age shall not apply to the restriction of the sale, rental or lease of any housing accommodation, land or commercial space or an interest therein exclusively to persons fifty-five years of age or older. This paragraph shall not be construed to permit discrimination against such persons fifty-five years of age or older on the basis of whether children are, may be or would be residing in such housing accommodation or land or an interest therein unless such discrimination is otherwise permitted pursuant to paragraph (h) of this subdivision.

(j) Applicability; dormitory residence operated by educational institution. The provisions of this subdivision relating to discrimination on the basis of gender in housing accommodations shall not prohibit any educational institution from making gender distinctions in dormitory residences which would be permitted under sections 86.32 and 86.33 of title forty-five of the code of federal regulations for educational institutions covered thereunder.

(k) Applicability; dormitory-type housing accommodations. The provisions of this subdivision which prohibit distinctions on the basis of gender and whether children are, may be or would be residing with a person shall not apply to dormitory-type housing accommodations including, but not limited to, shelters for the homeless where such distinctions are intended to recognize generally accepted values of personal modesty and privacy or to protect the health, safety or welfare of families with children.

(m) Applicability; use of criteria or qualifications in publicly-assisted housing accommodations. The provisions of this subdivision shall not be construed to prohibit the use of criteria or qualifications of eligibility for the sale, rental, leasing or occupancy of publicly-assisted housing accommodations where such criteria or qualifications are required to comply with federal or state law, or are necessary to obtain the benefits of a federal or state program, or to prohibit the use of statements, advertisements, publications, applications or inquiries to the extent that they state such criteria or qualifications or request information necessary to determine or verify the eligibility of an applicant, tenant, purchaser,

(n) Discrimination on the basis of occupation prohibited in housing accommodations. Where a housing accommodation or an interest therein is sought or occupied exclusively for residential purposes, the provisions of this subdivision shall be construed to prohibit discrimination in the sale, rental, or leasing of such housing accommodation or interest therein and in the terms, conditions and privileges of the sale, rental or leasing of such housing accommodation or interest therein and in the furnishing of facilities or services in connection therewith, on account of a person's occupation.

(o) Applicability; lawful source of income. The provisions of this subdivision, as they relate to unlawful discriminatory practices on the basis of lawful source of income, shall not apply to housing accommodations that contain a total of five or fewer housing units, provided, however:

(i) the provisions of this subdivision shall apply to tenants subject to rent control laws who reside in housing accommodations that contain a total of five or fewer units at the time of the enactment of this local law; and provided, however

(ii) the provisions of this subdivision shall apply to all housing accommodations, regardless of the number of units contained in each, of any person who has the right to sell, rent or lease or approve the sale, rental or lease of at least one housing accommodation within New York City that contains six or more housing units, constructed or to be constructed, or an interest therein.

6. Aiding and abetting. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person to aid, abet, incite, compel or coerce the doing of any of the acts forbidden under this chapter, or to attempt to do so.

7. Retaliation. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person engaged in any activity to which this chapter applies to retaliate or discriminate in any manner against any person because such person has (i) opposed any practice forbidden under this chapter, (ii) filed a complaint, testified or assisted in any proceeding under this chapter, (iii) commenced a civil action alleging the commission of an act which would be an unlawful discriminatory practice under this chapter, (iv) assisted the commission or the corporation counsel in an investigation commenced pursuant to this title, or (v) provided any information to the commission pursuant to the terms of a conciliation agreement made pursuant to section 8-115 of this chapter. The retaliation or discrimination complained of under this subdivision need not result in an ultimate action with respect to employment, housing or a public accommodation or in a materially adverse change in the terms and conditions of employment, housing, or a public accommodation, provided, however, that the retaliatory or discriminatory act or acts complained of must be reasonably likely to deter a person from engaging in protected activity.

8. Violation of conciliation agreement. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any party to a conciliation agreement made pursuant to section 8-115 of this chapter to violate the terms of such agreement.

9. Licenses and permits. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice:

(a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c), for an agency authorized to issue a license or permit or an employee thereof to discriminate against an applicant for a license or permit because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, age, gender, marital status, partnership status, disability, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status of such applicant.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c), for an agency authorized to issue a license or permit or an employee thereof to declare, print or circulate or cause to be declared, printed or circulated any statement, advertisement or publication, or to use any form of application for a license or permit or to make any inquiry in connection with any such application, which expresses, directly or indirectly, any limitation, specification or discrimination as to race, creed, color, national origin, age, gender, marital status, partnership status, disability, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status, or any intent to make any such limitation, specification or discrimination.

(c) Nothing contained in this subdivision shall be construed to bar an agency authorized to issue a license or permit from using age or disability as a criterion for determining eligibility for a license or permit when specifically required to do so by any other provision of law.

10. Criminal conviction. (a) It shall be unlawful discriminatory practice for any person to deny any license or permit or employment to any person by reason of his or her having been convicted of one or more criminal offenses, or by reason of a finding of a lack of "good moral character" which is based on his or her having been convicted of one or more criminal offenses, when such denial is in violation of the provisions of article twenty-three-a of the correction law.

(b) Pursuant to section seven hundred fifty-five of the correction law, the provisions of this subdivision shall be enforceable against public agencies by a proceeding brought pursuant to article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules, and the provisions of this subdivision shall be enforceable against private employers by the commission through the administrative procedure provided for in this chapter or as provided in chapter five of this title. For purposes of this paragraph only, the terms "public agency" and "private employer" shall have the meaning given such terms in section seven hundred fifty of the correction law.

11. Arrest record. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice, unless specifically required or permitted by any other law, for any person to make any inquiry about, whether in any form of application or otherwise, or to act upon adversely to the person involved, any arrest or criminal accusation of such person not then pending against that person which was followed by a termination of that criminal action or proceeding in favor of such person, as defined in subdivison two of section 160.50 of the criminal procedure law, in connection with the licensing, employment or providing of credit to such person; provided, however, that the prohibition of such inquiries or adverse action shall not apply to licensing activities in relation to the regulation of guns, firearms and other deadly weapons or in relation to an application for employment as a police officer or peace officer as those terms are defined in subdivisions thirty-three and thirty-four of section 1.20 of the criminal procedure law.

12. Religious principles. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to bar any religious or denominational institution or organization or any organization operated for charitable or educational purposes, which is operated, supervised or controlled by or in connection with a religious organization, from limiting employment or sales or rentals of housing accommodations or admission to or giving preference to persons of the same religion or denomination or from making such selection as is calculated by such organization to promote the religious principles for which it is established or maintained.

13. Employer liability for discriminatory conduct by employee, agent or independent contractor. a. An employer shall be liable for an unlawful discriminatory practice based upon the conduct of an employee or agent which is in violation of any provision of this section other than subdivisions one and two of this section.

b. An employer shall be liable for an unlawful discriminatory practice based upon the conduct of an employee or agent which is in violation of subdivision one or two of this section only where:

(1) the employee or agent exercised managerial or supervisory responsibility; or

(2) the employer knew of the employee's or agent's discriminatory conduct, and acquiesced in such conduct or failed to take immediate and appropriate corrective action; an employer shall be deemed to have knowledge of an employee's or agent's discriminatory conduct where that conduct was known by another employee or agent who exercised managerial or superivsory responsibility; or

(3) the employer should have known of the employee's or agent's discriminatory conduct and failed to exercise reasonable diligence to prevent such discriminatory conduct.

c. An employer shall be liable for an unlawful discriminatory practice committed by a person employed as an independent contractor, other than an agent of such employer, to carry out work in furtherance of the employer's business enterprise only where such discriminatory conduct was committed in the course of such employment and the employer had actual knowledge of and acquiesced in such conduct.

d. Where liability of an employer has been established pursuant to this section and is based solely on the conduct of an employee, agent, or independent contractor, the employer shall be permitted to plead and prove to the discriminatory conduct for which it was found liable it had:

(l) Established and complied with policies, programs and procedures for the prevention and detection of unlawful discriminatory practices by employees, agents and persons employed as independent contractors, including but not limited to:

(i) A meaningful and responsive procedure for investigating complaints of discriminatory practices by employees, agents and persons employed as independent contractors and for taking appropriate action against those persons who are found to have engaged in such practices;

(ii) A firm policy against such practices which is effectively communicated to employees, agents and persons employed as independent contractors;

(iii) A program to educate employees and agents about unlawful discriminatory practices under local, state, and federal law; and

(iv) Procedures for the supervision of employees and agents and for the oversight of persons employed as independent contractors specifically directed at the prevention and detection of such practices; and

(2) A record of no, or relatively few, prior incidents of discriminatory conduct by such employee, agent or person employed as an independent contractor or other employees, agents or persons employed as independent contractors.

e. The demonstration of any or all of the factors listed above in addition to any other relevant factors shall be considered in mitigation of the amount of civil penalties to be imposed by the commission pursuant to this chapter or in mitigation of civil penalties or punitive damages which may be imposed pursuant to chapter four or five of this title and shall be among the factors considered in determining an employer's liability under subparagraph three of paragraph b of this subdivision.

f. The commission may establish by rule policies, programs and procedures which may be implemented by employers for the prevention and detection of unlawful discriminatory practices by employees, agents and persons employed as independent contractors. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, an employer found to be liable for an unlawful discriminatory practice based solely on the conduct of an employee, agent or person employed as an independent contractor who pleads and proves that such policies, programs and procedures had been implemented and complied with at the time of the unlawful conduct shall not be liable for any civil penalties which may be imposed pursuant to this chapter or any civil penalties or punitive damages which may be imposed pursuant to chapter four or five of this title for such unlawful discriminatory practice.

14. Applicability; alienage or citizenship status. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, it shall not be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person to discriminate on the ground of alienage or citizenship status, or to make any inquiry as to a person's alienage or citizenship status, or to give preference to a person who is a citizen or a national of the United States over an equally qualified person who is an alien, when such discrimination is required or when such preference is expressly permitted by any law or regulation of the United States, the state of New York or the city of New York, and when such law or regulation does not provide that state or local law may be more protective of aliens; provided, however, that this provision shall not prohibit inquiries or determinations based on alienage or citizenship status when such actions are necessary to obtain the benefits of a federal program. An applicant for a license or permit issued by the city of New York may be required to be authorized to work in the United States whenever by law or regulation there is a limit on the number of such licenses or permits which may be issued.

15. Applicability; persons with disabilities.

(a) Requirement to make reasonable accommodation to the needs of persons with disabilities. Except as provided in paragraph (b), any person prohibited by the provisions of this section from discriminating on the basis of disability shall make reasonable accommodation to enable a person with a disability to satisfy the essential requisites of a job or enjoy the right or rights in question provided that the disability is known or should have been known by the covered entity.

(b) Affirmative defense in disability cases. In any case where the need for reasonable accommodation is placed in issue, it shall be an affirmative defense that the person aggrieved by the alleged discriminatory practice could not, with reasonable accommodation, satisfy the essential requisites of the job or enjoy the right or rights in question.

(c) Use of drugs or alcohol. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prohibit a covered entity from (i) prohibiting the illegal use of drugs or the use of alcohol at the workplace or on duty impairment from the illegal use of drugs or the use of alcohol, or (ii) conducting drug testing which is otherwise lawful.

16. Applicability; sexual orientation. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to:

a. Restrict an employer's right to insist that an employee meet bona fide job-related qualifications of employment;

b. Authorize or require employers to establish affirmative action quotas based on sexual orientation or to make inquiries regarding the sexual orientation of current or prospective employees;

c. Limit or override the present exemptions in the human rights law, including those relating to employment concerns employing fewer than four persons, as provided in subdivision five of section 8-102; owner-occupied dwellings, as provided in paragraph (a) of subdivision five of section 8-107; or any religious or denominational institution or organization, or any organization operated for charitable or educational purposes, which is operated, supervised or controlled by or in connection with a religious organization, as provided in subdivision twelve of section 8-107 of this chapter;

d. Make lawful any act that violates the penal law of the state of New York; or

e. Endorse any particular behavior or way of life.

17. Disparate impact.

a. An unlawful discriminatory practice based upon disparate impact is established when:

(1) the commission or a person who may bring an action under chapter four or five of this title demonstrates that a policy or practice of a covered entity or a group of policies or practices of a covered entity results in a disparate impact to the detriment of any group protected by the provisions of this chapter; and

(2) the covered entity fails to plead and prove as an affirmative defense that each such policy or practice bears a significant relationship to a significant business objective of the covered entity or does not contribute to the disparate impact; provided, however, that if the commission or such person who may bring an action demonstrates that a group of policies or practices results in a disparate impact, the commission or such person shall not be required to demonstrate which specific policies or practices within the group results in such disparate impact; provided further, that a policy or practice or group of policies or practices demonstrated to result in a disparate impact shall be unlawful where the commission or such person who may bring an action produces substantial evidence that an alternative policy or practice with less disparate impact is available to the covered entity and the covered entity fails to prove that such alternative policy or practice would not serve the covered entity as well. "Significant business objective" shall include, but not be limited to, successful performance of the job.

b. The mere existence of a statistical imbalance between a covered entity's challenged demographic composition and the general population is not alone sufficient to establish a prima facie case of disparate impact violation unless the general population is shown to be the relevant pool for comparison, the imbalance is shown to be statistically significant and there is an identifiable policy or practice or group of policies or practices that allegedly causes the imbalance.

c. Nothing contained in this subdivision shall be construed to mandate or endorse the use of quotas; provided, however, that nothing contained in this subdivision shall be construed to limit the scope of the commission's authority pursuant to sections 8-115 and 8-120 of this chapter or to affect court-ordered remedies or settlements that are otherwise in accordance with law.

18. Unlawful boycott or blacklist. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice (i) for any person to discriminate against, boycott or blacklist or to refuse to buy from, sell to or trade with, any person, because of such person's actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, disability, age, marital status, partnership status, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status or of such person's partners, members, stockholders, directors, officers, managers, superintendents, agents, employees, business associates, suppliers or customers, or (ii) for any person willfully to do any act or refrain from doing any act which enables any such person to take such action. This subdivision shall not apply to:

(a) Boycotts connected with labor disputes;

(b) Boycotts to protest unlawful discriminatory practices; or

(c) Any form of expression that is protected by the First Amendment.

19. Interference with protected rights. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person to coerce, intimidate, threaten or interfere with, or attempt to coerce, intimidate, threaten or interfere with, any person in the exercise or enjoyment of, or on account of his or her having aided or encouraged any other person in the exercise or enjoyment of, any right granted or protected pursuant to this section.

20. Relationship or association. The provisions of this section set forth as unlawful discriminatory practices shall be construed to prohibit such discrimination against a person because of the actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status of a person with whom such person has a known relationship or association.

Provision of LL 52/1989 § 1

Section one. Declaration of legislative intent and findings. New York City is currently home to more than one million aliens. These individuals make a unique contribution to the stimulating economic and cultural diversity which is one of the City's primary features. As a city of immigrants, New York City has a special obligation to assist those who, like most of our ancestors, have come to our country seeking a better way of life. Even under the best of circumstances, newcomers to this country find it difficult to obtain housing, employment and other necessities. However, this difficulty is compounded when landlords, employers or other persons practice discrimination against aliens. Aliens are also especially vulnerable to exploitation by unscrupulous entrepreneurs in many areas of life. The entire City suffers when a substantial part of its population lacks adequate housing, insurance coverage, health care or education.

Recent changes in federal immigration law, intended in part to discourage the entry of undocumented aliens into the United States, have aroused fears among immigrants of a growing bias within the community against those who may look or sound foreign. It has come to the City's attention that such people have been asked to document their citizenship status when such documentation was not required by law. Inquiries of this nature indicate that not only aliens, but those suspected of being aliens, face the threat of discrimination. Such intolerance harms the City and aggravates the difficult adjustment to American life which every newcomer must make.

It is the intent of the Council to prevent aliens from being treated unfairly in housing, employment and other areas of life. This law prohibits discrimination against aliens unless such prohibition is contrary to Federal, State or City law. Victims of alienage-based discrimination will have recourse to the City Commission on Human Rights. Unless otherwise mandated by law, all aliens are entitled to and will be guaranteed equal treatment. Nothing in this local law is intended to or shall have the effect of contradicting the requirements of federal law concerning the employment and provision of benefits to aliens.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. The New York City law on human rights is constitutional.-Feigenbaum v. Comm. on Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 360 [1967].

¶ 2. A summary inquiry into an agreement between the Commission on Human Rights and a landlord which committed the landlord to make efforts to increase the number of non-white and Puerto Rican tenants in certain of its houses would not be ordered where petitioner's papers revealed no violation or neglect of duty by Commission. Moreover, this section was not intended to be used "to thwart public officials who are reasonably and conscientiously performing their duty."-Application of Larkin, 58 Misc. 2d 206, 295 N.Y.S. 2d 113 [1968].

¶ 4. Damages for discrimination, outrage and mental anguish as a result of discrimination were not warranted where complainant had been canvassing the area for an apartment, had filed other complaints before the Commission and had already obtained compensatory damages from another landlord as the business of collecting damages in the nature of fines should not be encouraged.-Id.

¶ 5. Hearing on charge that advertisements for public and private employment in South Africa constitute advertisements which are directly or indirectly discriminative as to race and color would not be enjoined as beyond the jurisdiction of the agency in that it related to the foreign affairs of the United States and hearing should proceed so that the jurisdictional and substantive issues could be explored.-Matter of N.Y. Times Co. v. City of N.Y. Commission on Human Rights, 76 Misc. 2d 17, 349 N.Y.S. 2d 940 [1973].

¶ 6. Order of Human Rights Commission holding that advertisements in newspaper for employment in the Republic of South Africa had been "expressive of discrimination" although no reference to race appeared in advertisements on theory that use of the words "South Africa" constituted an expression of discrimination was vacated since Commission was questioning the employment practices of a foreign government and order was an unjustified extension of its jurisdiction and powers.-N.Y. Times v. Commission on Human Rights, 79 Misc. 2d 1048, 362 N.Y.S. 2d 321 [1974], aff'd 49 App. Div. 2d 851, 374 N.Y.S. 2d 9 [1975]; aff'd 41 N.Y. 2d 345 [1977].

¶ 7. Commission did not act arbitrarily or unreasonably in finding no probable cause where petitioner, an American Indian, charged that her employer was guilty of reverse discrimination when it promoted her from teller to business representative to fulfill its E.E.O. requirements and that she suffered mentally and physically because she was not qualified to handle the duties of representative where there was no evidence in the record to support the charge.-In re Spinelli (Robinson Jr.) 182 (76) N.Y.L.J. (10-18-79) 6, Col. 1 T.

¶ 8. Proceeding to evict tenant on ground that she was violating a substantial obligation of the lease by living with an unrelated man dismissed on ground that lease provision which prohibits tenant's living arrangement constitutes discrimination on the basis of marital status.-Hudson View Properties v. Weiss, 106 Misc. 2d 251 [1980].

¶ 9. Female employee who filed complaint with Commission charging employer with discriminating against her on account of sex in violation of this section in that after her position was terminated because of employer's financial difficulties she was unable to obtain an executive sales position with employer and had initial burden of establishing a prima facie case of discrimination and after that was established employer had burden of showing that termination was for an independent legitimate reason that was not pretext for discrimination or substantially influenced by impermissible discrimination.-Burlington Industries v. N.Y.C. Human Rights Commission, 82 App. Div. 2d 415, 441 N.Y.S. 2d 821 [1981].

¶ 10. Error to refuse to dismiss petition in holdover proceeding in which landlord claimed violation of substantial obligation of tenancy in that tenant was allowing a person who was not a tenant to occupy the premises where tenant claimed that such action constituted discrimination in housing on the basis of marital status and the record did not indicate that the landlord, in seeking to enforce the restrictive covenant in the lease limiting occupancy to the tenant and members of the tenant's immediate family, had any interest in the marital status of tenant or the occupant of the apartment.-Hudson View Properties v. Weiss, 59 N.Y. 2d 733 [1983], reversing, 109 Misc. 2d 589 [1981].

¶ 11. "Single only" restriction in lease violates public policy of state since if tenant married or lived with a man without benefit of marriage subsequent to inception of lease restriction would constitute marital discrimination.-Leonidas Realty Corp. v. Brodowsky, 115 Misc. 2d 88 [1982].

¶ 1. This section mandates that if a finding of immediate family status can be made without regard to the formalities of marriage, it must also be made without regard to sexual orientation. Therefore, respondents are entitled to rent-stabilization renewal leases in their own names as the survivors in a family like relationship.-Yorkshire Towers v. Harpster, 134 Misc. 2d 384 [1986].

¶ 2. Tenant and respondent had a homosexual relationship for 17 years. Respondent's claim to be de facto member of deceased's family entitled to continue rent-controlled occupancy must be heard. Any other determination would raise equal protection constitutional issues. Rent stabilization cases may not be reliable guides regarding "family".-Raynes Assoc. v. Augresani, 140 Misc. 2d 208 [1988].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Dentist engaged in discriminatory rental practices when he terminated agreement to lease operating space and equipment to another dentist who treated patients with acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). This violated § 8-107(5)(b) because it was a commercial space and § 8-108 because persons with AIDS are physically handicapped and $15,000 award was not excessive.-Barton v. N.Y.C. Comm. on Human Rights, 140 Misc. 2d 554 [1988].

¶ 2. Dental office is within jurisdiction of City Human Rights Commission for hearing in an unlawful discriminatory practice complaint, pursuant to §§ 8-107(2), 8-108. Patient with AIDS was refused further treatment. Dental office is a "place of public accommodation", § 8-102(9). However the dentists' decision to refer AIDS-infected persons elsewhere for treatment may constitute reasonable accommodation and is subject to judicial review.-Hurwitz v. New York City Commission on Human Rights, 142 Misc.2d 214, 538 N.Y.S.2d 1007, aff'd 159 A.D.2d 417, 553 N.Y.S.2d 323.

¶ 3. Staff housing lease agreements at Booth House premises, which provide for termination of employment and ancillary housing tenancy "without cause", would not be enforceable if they were unlawfully terminated because of a prior AIDS disability. This discrimination is prohibited by §8-108 [8-107 subd 15].-NY Infirmary v. Sarris, 154 Misc. 2d 798 [1993].

¶ 4. The Federal Fair Housing Act does not preempt state or local law regarding reasonable accommodations for handicapped or disabled persons in their residences. Both the Ad Cd and the federal act provide that it is unlawful for any person or entity to refuse to make reasonable accommodations to the handicapped, Ad Cd §8-107(5)(15), §8-102(18), 42 USC §3604(f), (3)(B). Petitioner's policy of refusing to expend corporate funds to construct or modify any improvements to the common grounds or areas of Bell Park Gardens to accommodate disabled residents is a clear violation.-Matter of United Nations Veterans Mut. Hous. No. 2 Corp. v. NYC Human Rights Comm., 207 AD2d 551 [1994].

¶ 5. A determination of the NYC Human Rights Commission that a hospital discriminated against a complainant by unlawfully withholding the accommodations, advantages or privileges of its facilities, Ad Cd §8-107(2), from her because her son has AIDS was affirmed by court and $25,000 in compensatory damages was awarded for mental anguish suffered when discriminatory conduct prevented her death bed visit.-Matter of Brooklyn Hospital Medical Center v. DeLeon, 208 AD 624 [1994].

¶ 6. Prohibition against discrimination because of sexual orientation does not apply to transsexualism. Maffei v. Kolaeton Industry, 164 Misc. 2d 547 [1995].

¶ 7. The NYC police department engaged in a pattern of gender-based discrimination. The NYC human rights commission, in ordering retroactive appointments for seniority purposes, had legal authority to back date appointments earlier than the effective date of the law that first prohibited gender-based discrimination, Administrative Code §8-107(1)(a). The sex-based discriminatory seniority system in NYPD had roots preceding the prohibition against sex discrimination and commission's remedy, to back date the seniority, was rationally related to the redress and prevention of recurrence of discrimination.-Matter of Beame v. DeLeon, 209 AD2d 252 modified 87 NY2d 289 [1996].

¶ 8. In a proceeding that petitioner discriminated because of blindness, the NYC Human Rights Commission was correct when it placed the burden on petitioner to show that it was unable to reasonably accommodate respondent or that respondent's proposals for accommodation imposed undue hardship.-Harris & Assoc. v. DeLeon, 199 AD2d 78 aff'd 84 NY2d 698 [1994].

¶ 9. Employer's act of contesting the complainant's right to receive unemployment benefits, after assuring complainant she would be entitled to such benefits, solely because she filed a complaint with the State Division of Human Rights, was a disadvantaging employment action for purpose of establishing a claim of retaliation. The conduct was actionable even though it occurred after the discharge of complainant.-Matter of Elect- chester Housing Project, Inc. v. Rosa, 639 N.Y.S.2d 848 (App.Div. 2nd Dept. 1996). Accord, Landwehr v. Grey Advertising, Inc., 211 A.D.2d 583, 622 N.Y.S.2d 17 (1st Dept. 1995).

¶ 10. The governmental policy against discrimination enjoys the highest statutory priority, based upon legislative findings that discrmination threatens the right and proper privileges of the City's institutions and endangers the institutions and foundations of a democratic state.-Beame v. DeLeon, 87 N.Y.2d 289, 639 N.Y.S.2d 272 (1995).

¶ 11. Court upheld a discrimination award by the Commission in favor of a tenant who was HIV-positive; $100,000 for mental anguish and a civil penalty of $75,000. The landlord, acting either himself or through others, burglarized the tenant's apartment, disabled door locks, turned off electricity, refused to accept timely rent checks, called the tenant "faggot" and stated that he hoped the tenant died of AIDS. The court noted that it was possible to recover for mental anguish based on the tenant's testimony alone, without proof of psychiatric treatment.-Matter of 119-121 East 97th Street Corp. v. NYC Commission on Human Rights, 642 N.Y.S.2d 638 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 1996).

¶ 12. The court annulled finding of discrimination, holding that there was insufficient proof of the claim. In order to prove that discharge was in retaliation for the bringing of a discrimination claim, claimant must produce evidence of a subjective retaliatory motive. For example, it could be shown that the filing of a discrimination claim was followed closely by discriminatory treatment, or that the employer engaged in a pattern of discriminatory treatment of fellow employees who filed similar complaints.-Matter of Pace University v. New York City Commission on Human Rights, 85 N.Y.2d 125, 623 N.Y.S.2d 765 [1995].

¶ 13. The complainant established a prima facie case of housing discrimination on the basis of race and national origin, where the property owner told the complainant (a West Indian woman) that the house was no longer available even though he continued to advertise it in a local newspaper and was showing the house and negotiating its sale with others.-Fugardi v. Angus, 216 A.D.2d 86, 628 N.Y.2d 77 (1st Dept. 1995).

¶ 14. It was not unlawful religious discrimination for a landlord to install electric locks in the doors to the front entrance of the building, even though an Orthodox Jewish tenant alleged that it impaired his ability to enter the building on the Jewish sabbath. He alleged that Jewish law forbade him from breaking an electric circuit on the sabbath. However, the mere fact that the landlord's act created an additional burden for this tenant (who had to arrange for non-Orthodox persons to open the door for him on the sabbath) did not render the act illegal.-Siegel v. Blair-Hall, Inc., 207 A.D.2d 539, 615 N.Y.S.2d 937 (2nd Dept. 1994).

¶ 15. A complaint alleging that the landlord unlawfully sought the removal of a subtenant because he treated AIDS patient was sufficient to state a cause of action under this section; it was sufficient if the patients were the indirect victims of discrimination.-Bernstein v. 1995 Associates, 185 A.D.2d 160, 586 N.Y.S.2d 115 (1st Dept. 1992).

¶ 16. To establish a prima facie case of retaliation, a complainant must prove (1) participation in protected activity known to the retaliator; (2) an employment action disadvantaging to the person engaged in the protected activity; (3) a causal connection between the protected activity and the adverse employment action. Refusal to offer a university faculty member any new teaching assignments because she refused to withdraw a sex discrimination case, constituted retaliation.-Pace University v. Commission on Human Rights, 200 A.D.2d 173, 611 N.Y.S.2d 835 (1st Dept. 1994).

¶ 17. An employer can be liable under this section where there is alleged hostile environment by reason of the employee's sex change operation. Without going into the medical changes undergone by the previously male employee, the court concluded that the complaint stated a cause of action based on gender discrimination. The court cited federal cases decided under Title VII for the definition of hostile environment-conduct that a reasonable person would find hostile or abusive.-Maffei v. Kolaeton Industry, Inc., 164 Misc.2d 546, 626 N.Y.S.2d 391 (Sup.Ct. New York Co. 1995).

¶ 19. A hostile work environment exists for purposes of the discrimination laws when the workplace was permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule and insult that is sufficiently severe and pervasive that as to alter the conditions of the victim's employment and create and abusive working environment (court's discussion was based on Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000e-2[a][1], but the court stated that the indentical standard applied in sexual harassment claims under stated law). The court upheld a "hostile environment" claim which alleged that plaintiff's supervisor repeatedly made offensive sexual remarks to her over many months, inquired as to her sexual preferences, and arranged a trip for her to Boston, for a non-existent computer training seminar, where he raped her. It was also alleged that the defendant's president tolerated such misbehavior by impliedly warning plaintiff that her job was at stake if she refused to be "more understanding" of her supervisor. Espaillat v. Breli Originals, 227 A.D.2d 266, 642 N.Y.S.2d 875 (1st Dept. 1996).

¶ 20. The federal Airline Deregulation Act, 49 U.S.C. § 4713(b)(1), pre-empts an age discrimination action brought by pilots under local law. Abdu-Brisson v. Delta Airlines, 927 F.Supp. 108 (S.D.N.Y. 1996).

¶ 21. In order to maintain a claim for discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, plaintiff must show that the defendant's actions were directed specifically against gay persons. Plaintiff alleged that a landlord unreasonably barred her from moving in with a tenant because of concern that she might later claim succession rights under rent regulation. However, since succession rights could just as easily arise between two people in a long term heterosexual relationship as it could from a long term gay relationship, the landlord's real motive (assuming the complaint's allegations are true) would be economic rather than a desire to discriminate against gay persons per se. Thus, the discrimination claim was dismissed. Costa v. David Frankel Realty, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Oct. 23, 1996, page 33, col. 6 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 24. A medical school had a housing policy under which two students could share an apartment, but under which a student could share an apartment with a non-student only if the non-student was the spouse of the student. Two lesbian women, who had unsuccessfully sought to share an apartment with their respective non-student partners, brought an action against the university. The court agreed that the university's policy was facially neutral (heterosexual partners could not share an apartment unless both were students or unless they were married). However, the court found that there was a triable issue as to whether the policy had a disparate impact upon gay persons. Defendants cited Hudson View Properties v. Weiss, 59 NY2d 733, 463 N.Y.S.2d 428 (1983), in which the court upheld a lease provision limiting occupancy of an apartment to the tenant, the tenant's spouse and the immediate family members of both of them. The court, however, said that Hudson held only that the policy did not on its face discriminate on the basis of marital status. In other words, the Hudsoncourt did not consider whether a lease provision such as the one in Levinhad an impermissible disparate impact upon people in plaintiffs' position. In assessing whether or not there was disparate impact discrimination, it was appropriate to count not only single persons but also married persons. Levin v. Yeshiva University, 96 NY2d 484, 730 N.Y.S.2d 15 (2001).

¶ 25. Under the New York City Human Rights Law, as under the New York State Human Rights Law (Executive Law § 296(1)(a)), a corporate employee, even though holding a managerial title, is not personally subject to suit for discrimination if he or she does not have an ownership interest or have any power to do more than carry out personnel decisions made by others. However, a senior officer whose powers extend well beyond carrying out decisions made by others, can be personally liable under the Human Rights Law. Harrison v. Indosuez Corp., 6 F.Supp.2d 224 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

¶ 26. Since the statute permits recovery for emotional distress caused by sexual harassment, the claimant in such a case should not be asserting a common law tort claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress. McIntyre v. Manhattan Ford, Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., 682 N.Y.S.2d 167 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 1998); 256 AD2d 269, appeal dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 919, 691 N.Y.S.2d 383 (1999), leave to appeal denied, 94 N.Y.2d 753, 700 N.Y.S.2d 427 (1999).

¶ 27. An alleged victim of ethnic discrimination can assert claims under both the City Human Rights Law and the New York Executive Law (state law). However, an allegation of discrimination by reason of sexual orientation is covered only by the City law. Nacinovich v. Tullet & Tokyo-Forex, Inc., 257 A.D.2d 523, 685 N.Y.S.2d 17 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 1999).

¶ 28. The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, as a bi-state agency, is not under subject to the administrative code provisions regarding discrimination. Rose v. Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, 13 F.Supp.2d 516 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

¶ 29. In order to maintain a hostile work environment claim, plaintiff must show that the workplace is permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule and insult. The discriminatory conduct must be so severe and pervasive that the plaintiff's employment conditions are altered. In order to maintain a claim for retaliation, plaintiffs must show that they engaged in a protected activity (i.e. making complaints about discrimination) and that the employer took adverse employment action against them because of said activity. Galonsky v. Williams, N.Y.L.J., July 7, 1998, page 27, col. 3 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 30. One court held that overmedication and acts of physical abuse directed developmentally disabled deaf persons constituted discrimination against disabled persons within the meaning of the city human rights law. Thus, where plaintiff contends that she was constructively discharged in retaliation for her making complaints about other employees who engaged in the above practices, she had a cause of action for retaliatory discharge within the meaning of the statute. Torge v. New York Society for the Deaf, 270 A.D.2d 153, 706 N.Y.S.2d 622 (1st Dept. 2000), leave to appeal denied, 95 N.Y.2d 768, 721 N.Y.S.2d 605 (2000).

¶ 31. The statute prohibits discrimination against an individual by reason of that person's disability. The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. §12101 et seq.) also prohibits discrimination against a non-disabled person by reason of the known disability of a person with whom the qualified individual is known to have a relationship or association ("association discrimination"). However, the New York City Human Rights Law does not cover association discrimination. Thus, plaintiff could not use the city statute to assert a claim that she lost her employment by reason of the fact that she was known to be caring for a disabled daughter. Abdel-Khalek v. Ernst & Young, LLP, N.Y.L.J., Mar. 11, 1999, page 32, col. 5 (U.S. Dist. Ct. S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 32. A plaintiff can support a claim of race discrimination by showing that similarly situated employees of a different race were treated more favorably than plaintiff. To be similarly situated, the other employees must have been subject to the same standards of performance evaluation and discipline as plaintiff, and must have engaged in conduct similar to that of plaintiff. Norville v. Staten Island University Hospital, 196 F.3d 89 (2d Cir. 1999).

¶ 33. In an age discrimination case, the mere fact that in an interview, the prospective employer asks the year of plaintiff's graduation from school, does not in itself give rise to an inference of age discrimination. Norville v. Staten Island University Hospital, 196 F.3d 89 (2d Cir. 1999).

¶ 34. In one case, an employee alleged that the employer engaged in retaliatory conduct by reason of the plaintiff employee's having complained about sexual harassment. The court said that normally, if corporate management exercised reasonable care to prevent and correct harassing behavior on the part of the offending employee, the corporation could avoid liability. Where, however, the alleged offender was a 50 percent shareholder in the employer and was obviously high in the corporate hierarchy, the above defense could not be used by the corporation. Randall v. Tod-Nik Audiology, Inc., 270 A.D.2d 38, 704 N.Y.S.2d 228 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 2000).

¶ 35. It was improper for an employer to refuse to hire the complainant by reason of out-of-state criminal charges that resulted in the equivalent of an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal. Johnson v. New York City Comm. on Human Rights, 270 A.D.2d 186, 706 N.Y.S.2d 18 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 2000).

¶ 36. In one case, a landlord brought an eviction proceeding, alleging that the tenant had engaged in bizarre behavior by shouting offensive epithets at other tenants. The court recognized that the case raised issues as to whether the tenant, who was mentally impaired, was being subjected to discrimination by reason of disability. However, in order to prevent eviction, the tenant's representative would have to produce expert testimony regarding, for example, the nature of the disability, the nature of medications taken by the tenant, and the treatment plan. In other words, it would have to be shown that medical personnel would be able to manage the situation so that the tenant would not engage in offensive behavior in the future. Kirso Realty Co. v. Brief, N.Y.L.J., Sept. 8, 1999, page 31, col. 3 (Civ.Ct. Richmond Co.).

¶ 37. An allegation that a female supervisor harassed a female subordinate after the breakup of a non-work-related romantic relationship, did not state a cause of action under the statute, because the discrimination was not on the basis of gender. Stallings v. U.S. Electronics, 270 A.D.2d 188, 707 N.Y.S.2d 9 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 2000).

¶ 38. Franklin v. Consolidated Edison Co., 1999 WL 796170 (U.S. Dist. Ct. S.D.N.Y.), contains extensive discussion of the law governing discrimination cases. Where a plaintiff alleges the existence of a hostile work environment, the requirements of 8-107 are similar to those of Title VII of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964. The following must be shown: (A) the workplace was permeated by discrimination or intimidation that was sufficiently severe or pervasive as to alter the conditions of the work environment; and (B) there must be a specific basis to impute that conduct to the employer. In terms of requirement (B), the court considers such factors as: (1) severity; (2) frequency; (3) whether the conduct was physically threatening; (4) whether the conduct interfered with work; and (5) the psychological harm to the plaintiff. Plaintiff alleged here that a co-worker made sexual comments regarding her body, and made sexual jokes in her presence. The allegations clearly met requirement (A), but the question was whether requirement (B) had been met. Where a co-employee (other than a plaintiff's supervisor) engaged in sexual harassment, the employer was not liable unless it failed to provide any reasonable avenue of complaint, or unless the employer knew about the harassment and failed to take action. The court held that where the employer provided reasonable avenues of complaint, and there was no evidence that it knew about the harassment, it was not liable for the co-worker's conduct. Plaintiff contended that although the alleged harasser was nominally a co-worker, he was a de facto supervisor. The court, however, stated that even if the alleged harasser had been her supervisor, the employer could avoid liability by exercising reasonable care to prevent and promptly stop the harassment, and the employee failed to avail herself of corrective or preventive opportunities provided by the employer. Plaintiff also alleged that discrimination against her was based in part upon disability. The court compared and contrasted the city statute with the federal Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA). Unlike the ADA, the city law does not specifically require the employer to accommodate the disabled person. The City law's definition of disability is less stringent than that of the ADA. The City law defines disability as an "impairment" while the ADA defines disability as an impairment which affects a major life activity (see also, Mora v. Danka, 1999 Westlaw 777888 (U.S. Dist.Ct. S.D.N.Y., on this point). However, both the city law and the ADA will cover a claim that disabled persons have been subjected to disparate treatment as compared to that afforded non-disabled persons. Under both the ADA and the city law, the claimant would have to show that he or she has a disability, was otherwise qualified to perform the basic functions of the position in question, and was subjected to discrimination by reason of disability.

¶ 39. In one case, a diplomat sued by reason of the refusal of a condominium board of managers to approve a lease of a unit to the diplomat. The court stated that one exception to the business judgment rule is that a condominium board of managers cannot violate the anti-discrimination laws. However, the court held that the board could lawfully require, as a condition of approving leases, that foreign diplomat lessees waive diplomatic immunity. This was necessary, the board said, because the by-laws stated that in the event of a default in paying common charges, the condominium could bring an eviction proceeding against the occupant of the unit. The lessee argued that under 8-107(n), the condominium could not discriminate against persons by reason of their occupations. However, the court said that although being a diplomat could be regarded as a form of occupation, the action of the board was not based on the work that diplomats perform but was based upon the financial concerns revolving around diplomatic immunity. The court noted that the board would have consented to the lease if the diplomat had been willing to waive immunity. Park Tower Holding Corp. v. Board of Managers, 500 Park Tower Condominium, N.Y.L.J., Aug. 5, 1999, page 26, col. 5 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 40. Plaintiff, who worked with disabled people, claimed that defendant terminated his employment by reason of his advocacy for those people. The court held that this allegation did not state a cause of action under the City human rights law. Apparently, it is only where an employee suffers adverse employment consequences as a result of his own disability that the statute comes into play. Torge v. New York Society for the Deaf, 707 N.Y.S.2d 6 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 2000); 270 AD2d 153 and leave to appeal denied, 95 N.Y.2d 768, 721 N.Y.S.2d 605 (2000).

¶ 41. The New York substantive law on punitive damages applies to a discrimination case under the Administrative Code, and the principles are similar to that of federal law. To recover such damages, it must be shown that defendant acted with malice or reckless indifference to plaintiff's rights. The employer must have had at least a perceived risk that its conduct would violate the law, but the conduct need not rise to a level that would be considered "egregious" or "outrageous." Greenbaum v. Svenska Handelsbaken, 67 F.Supp.2d 228 (S.D.N.Y. 1999); see also, Weissman v. Dawn Joy Fashions, Inc., 214 F.3d 224 (2d Cir. 2000).

¶ 42. The New York City and New York State prohibitions against discrimination on the basis of disability, parallel the federal anti-discrimination statutes. Plaintiff must plead (1) that he or she suffered from a disability; (2) that the plaintiff is otherwise qualified to perform the essential functions of the job; and (3) that the plaintiff suffered the alleged adverse employment actions because of the disability. It is not enough for the employer to show that employee's physical impairment is somehow related to the position sought. Unless it is shown that the employee's physical condition precludes him or her from performing the work, the disability is irrelevant to the job and cannot lawfully form the basis for denying him or her the job. Moreover, an employer can be liable even if it offers the employee an alternative position, if the alternative position pays substantially less and has substantially less promotion potential than the position that the employee sought. Shine v. Roosevelt Hospital, N.Y.L.J., Jan. 5, 2000, page 26, col. 5 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 43. In order to make a prima facie case of employment discrimination, plaintiff must show, among other things, that he or she suffered an adverse employment action. An adverse employment action constitutes a significant change in employment status, such as hiring, firing, failing to promote, reassignment with significantly different responsibilities, or a decision causing a significant change in benefits. In order to base a case upon constructive discharge, plaintiff must show that defendant made her working conditions so intolerable that she was forced to resign. A constructive discharge cannot be proven merely by evidence that an employee disagreed with the employer's criticisms of the quality of his work or did not receive a raise, or preferred not to continue working for that employer. Esterquest v. Booz-Allen & Hamilton, Inc., 2002 WL 237846 (S.D.N.Y.) (decided under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Administrative Code).

¶ 44. Plaintiff, who had suffered a mild heart attack, offered to return to work within 4 to 5 weeks. The employer refused to contact plaintiff's doctors to verify his claim that he could return to work soon, took the position that it could not afford to be short-handed, and terminated plaintiff's employment. After the employer fired him, he brought an action alleging discrimination on the basis of disability. The court noted that the Administrative Code contains no cap on punitive damages, unlike the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA), which, for an employer of defendant's size, would have had an applicable cap of $100,000 in punitive damages. However, although the court found defendant's conduct could constitute unlawful discrimination (resulting in compensatory damages), the employer's conduct was not sufficiently reprehensible to warrant the imposition of punitive damages. Weissman v. Dawn Joy Fashions, Inc., 214 F.3d 224 (2d Cir. 2000).

¶ 45. The New York substantive law on punitive damages applies to a discrimination case under the Administrative Code, and the principles are similar to that of federal law. To recover such damages, it must be shown that defendant acted with malice or reckless indifference to plaintiff's rights. The employer must have had at least a perceived risk that its conduct would violate the law, but the conduct need not rise to a level that would be considered "egregious" or "outrageous." Greenbaum v. Svenska Handelsbaken, 67 F.Supp.2d 228 (S.D.N.Y. 1999); see also, Weissman v. Dawn Joy Fashions, Inc., 214 F.3d 224 (2d Cir. 2000).

¶ 46. Generally speaking, an isolated incident will not give rise to a "hostile environment" type of sexual harassment claim. If the alleged conduct, however, is extraordinarily severe, a single incident of sexual assault may create a hostile environment claim. Thus, the court sustained a complaint in which plaintiff alleged that while on a business trip, her immediate supervisor came into her room while she was sleeping and climbed into bed, attempting to kiss and touch her, and that on another occasions, the same supervisor exposed and fondled his genitals and attempted to make plaintiff touch him. San Juan v. Leach, 278 A.D.2d 299, 717 N.Y.S.2d 334 (App.Div. 2d Dept. 2000).

¶ 48. In cases alleging discrimination based on disability, the employer may assert, as an affirmative defense, that the employee could not with reasonable accommodation satisfy the essential requisites of the job. Where an employee is chronically absent for long periods of time, and because the employee's job duties required regular attendance at work (she was a teacher), no reasonable accommodation existed which would have enabled her to perform the essential functions of the job. Under the circumstances, the defendant's action in "excessing" the employee from her high school did not constitute unlawful discrimination by reason of disability. Sirota v. New York City Board of Education, N.Y.L.J., Jan. 23, 2001, page 26, col. 5 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 49. According to a complaint based on racial discrimination, the African-American plaintiff was denied admission to the Stadium Club because her attire did not meet the club's dress code. After discussing the matter with Yankee personnel, she went back to her car and changed into attire that met the dress code, after which she was admitted to the club. While at the club, she observed non-minority women wearing the same type of attire that previously had caused her to be denied admission. The court held that though she ultimately was granted admission to the club, she nevertheless had a viable civil rights claim if she could prove that the Yankees had compelled her to meet dress requirements that non-minority women were not required to meet. Joseph v. New York Yankees Partnership, N.Y.L.J., Oct. 24, 2000, page 35, col. 5; 2000 WL 1559019 (U.S. Dist. Ct. S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 50. Admin. Code Secs. 8-107(13)(d) and (e) permit an employer to plead and prove various factors where liability for discriminatory conduct is based solely on the conduct of an employee, agent or independent contractor. Among the factors that can be pleaded is a "meaningful and responsive procedure for investigating complaints" and a"firm policy against such practices which is effectively communicated." These factors, however, are not a total defense to an employee's claim for punitive damages, but are only factors to be considered in mitigation of punitive damages. Thompson v. American Eagle Airlines, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Oct. 20, 2000, page 36, col. 3; 2000 WL 1505972 (U.S. Dist.Ct.

¶ 51. In one case, Nike, a manufacturer of athletic apparel, helped to sponsor St. John's University athletic programs, in return for which university staff members were expected to wear Nike apparel. A former university employee, who had previously worked in connection with the university's athletic department, claimed that the university refused to rehire him by reason of his refusal to wear the apparel and by reason of his criticism of Nike's labor practices in foreign countries. Specifically, the employee, who was Catholic, believed that it was immoral for Catholics to endorse Nike products because, according to him, the foreign workers who produced those products labored under intolerable conditions. In other words, the employee alleged that St. John's which is a Catholic institution, discriminated against him because his view of Catholic morality differed from that of those of university administrators. The court, however, dismissed the discrimination claim. In order to have a viable discrimination claim, plaintiff must be a member of a protected class, the court said. The complaint, at best, alleged not that plaintiff was being singled out for being Catholic, but that plaintiff was not rehired because of political differences with other Catholics. Thus, he was not subject to discrimination by reason of membership in a protected class. Keady v. Nike, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Sept. 29, 2000, page 34, col. 6 (U.S. Dist. Ct., S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 53. Sometimes, tenants who have been brought into court on holdover proceedings have asserted counterclaims based on unlawful discrimination. Where the holdover is dismissed, the tenant's counterclaim should also be dismissed, without prejudice to assertion of the claim in a plenary action. Smalkowski v. Vernon, 30 Housing Court Reporter 120C (Civ. Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 54. In one case, a cooperative board of directors allegedly rejected a sale of the apartment to a young couple which was currently childless but which (in the opinion of the board) was likely to have children in the foreseeable future. This action was allegedly taken in an effort to keep out families with children. The court held that even though it was the prospective buyers, rather than the shareholder-seller, who were the subject of the alleged discrimination, the shareholder would have a cause of action against the cooperative under the New York City Human Rights Law. Axelrod v. 400 Owners Corp., 189 Misc.2d 461, 733 N.Y.S.2d 587 (Sup.Ct. New York Co. 2001).

¶ 55. A heterosexual former employee of a not-for-profit organization that serves people with AIDS, brought an action alleging discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. She attempted to establish a case by describing the remarks of her former supervisor, who said that plaintiff lacked passion for the job because it "wasn't part of her community." Plaintiff alleged that this comment meant by implication that since the heterosexual community is not as severely afflicted with AIDS, heterosexuals such as plaintiff were not up to the job. The court, however, had an entirely different interpretation of the remarks. Apparently, the supervisor was expressing concern that plaintiff, who had no prior experience with AIDS, would have difficulty in relating to any AIDS patients. The court noted that the organization assisted anyone with AIDS, whether or not such person was gay. Thus, the court dismissed the action. Berner v. Gay Men's Health Crisis, 743 N.Y.S.2d 99 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 2002), 295 A.D.2d 119, 743 N.Y.S.2d 99 (1st Dept. 2002).

¶ 56. Where a discrimination claim is based upon failure to hire or failure to promote, plaintiff must show that she was qualified for the position in question. Whether plaintiff is qualified must be determined according to the criteria used by the employer. At the same time, while the conclusions of the employer are to be respected, the role of the qualification prong is simply to help eliminate the most common non-discriminatory reasons for the plaintiff's rejection. Plaintiff need only show that she possesses the basic skills required for the job. The test does not ask if she is the best qualified for the job-it only asks if she is qualified. Sandman v. Mediamark Research, Inc., 2002 WL 424660 (S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 57. A heterosexual former assistant stage manager alleged that she was subject to discrimination because of her sexual orientation (i.e. that the Metropolitan Opera's general manager refused to renew her contract and subjected her to a hostile working environment). The court agreed that if the other required elements of a discrimination claim are present, a heterosexual has a cause of action for discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. The fact that discrimination against heterosexuals is not as pervasive as that against gay persons does not change the clear wording of the statute nor does it lessen the impact of such prejudices on the individuals involved. The court, however, dismissed the action for failure to prove a case. In the absence of specific remarks demeaning her sexuality, plaintiff should have offered evidence regarding different treatment given to gay persons as opposed to heterosexual persons in this mixed-orientation environment. It is not enough to say that she does not know of any gay persons who were treated poorly. Plaintiff complained that the presence in the office of photographs of naked men created a hostile working environment. While the court agreed that such photographs were inappropriate for an office setting, it found that the pictures could be offensive to both gay and heterosexual persons, and did not constitute discrimination specifically directed at heterosexuals. Brennan v. Metropolitan Opera Assn, 284 A.D.2d 66, 729 N.Y.S.2d 77 (1st Dept. 2001).

¶ 58. In one case, a plaintiff brought a federal action under 42 U.S.C. Sec. 1985 (conspiracy to deprive him of civil rights) and added a cause of action under Adm. Code Sec. 8-107, which claim could be heard in federal court by virtue of pending jurisdiction. The Second Circuit held that where the District Court dismissed the Sec. 1985 claim, it should not have retained jurisdiction of the 8-107 claim but should have dismissed that claim without prejudice to assertion in state court, the court that could better hear the claim. Keady v. Nike Inc., 2001 WL 116833 (U.S. Ct. of Appeals, 2d Cir.), 23 Fed.Appx. 29, 160 Educ. Law Reports 765.

¶ 59. In one case, a plaintiff alleged that the employer retaliated against her by reason of her having filed a discrimination claim based on disability. The court said that in order to state a claim of retaliation, plaintiff must show that he or she engaged in a protected activity; the employer was aware of that activity; that an adverse employment action occurred; and that a causal link exists between the protected activity and the adverse employment action. In order for plaintiff to show that she engaged in protected activity, it is not required that she was actually disabled, so long as she possessed a good faith reasonable belief that the employer's actions violated the law. Where a daughter and mother were employed by the same agency, a daughter who allegedly suffered an adverse employment action by reason of her writing a letter in support of her mother's disability complaint, was held to have a viable claim for retaliation. Sacay v. Research Foundation of the City University of New York, 193 F.Supp.2d 611 (E.D.N.Y. 2002).

¶ 60. In a mixed motive case (in this particular case, sex and national origin), a plaintiff must demonstrate that a prohibited discriminatory factor plays a motivating part in a challenged employment decision. Once the plaintiff has established that fact, the burden shifts to the employer to prove by a preponderance of evidence that it would have made the same decision anyway. Ames v. Cartier, Inc., N.Y.L.J., Apr. 23, 2002, page 27, col.1 (U.S. Dist. Ct. S.D.N.Y.). (The court analyzed the case under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, but said that the same analysis applied to discrimination claims under the City law).

¶ 62. Plaintiff, a former employee, sued after he was terminated, following an accusation of sexual harassment. He then brought a claim alleging disparate treatment. Plaintiff was able to meet the first three tests of disparate treatment (work satisfactory, he was member of protected class, and he was subject to adverse employment action) by alleging that although he and the female employee supposedly both engaged in talk of a sexual nature, he was the only one subject to disciplinary action. Defendant argued that he could not maintain an action because he had not shown that any female employee accused of sexual harassment was treated better than he was, but the court disagreed. First, disparate treatment did not require analysis of treatment given to someone who had been in an identical position to plaintiff. Second, while disparate treatment is one way of establishing discrimination, it is not the only way. In other words, he had a potential cause of action for discrimination on the basis of gender, whether or not he and the female employee were similarly situated. Nevertheless, the court dismissed the disparate impact claim because of lack of proof. Plaintiff had argued that the company's policy of disciplining the subjects of sexual harassment charges, without conducting a fair and adequate investigation, while facially neutral, had a disparate impact upon men since the large majority of sexual harassment cases involve accusations against men rather than women. His problem is that instead of analyzing the positions taken by his company with respect to men and women accused of sexual harassment, he merely quoted general statistics, taken from a website of the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) regarding percentages of sexual harassment complainants and respondents in terms of gender. Iglesias v. Citibank, N.Y.L.J., May 24, 2002, page 18, col. 5 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 63. In order for racist comments, slurs and jokes to give rise to a hostile work environment, there must be more than a few isolated incidents of racial enmity, i.e. instead of sporadic racial slurs, there must be a steady barrage of opprobrious racial comments. Curtis v. Citibank, 2002 WL 27780 (U.S. Dist. Ct., S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 64. To establish a claim for discrimination, plaintiff must show that he or she sustained an adverse employment action by reason of the disability. At the very least, the employer must have had knowledge of the disability.

¶ 65. A reasonable accommodation for an employee with a disability might include reassignment to a vacant position for which he or she is qualified, but the employer does not have to create a new position. Moreover, employers are required only to provide a reasonable accommodation, and are not required to provide the particular accommodation required by the employee. Romanello v. Shiseido Cosmetics, N.Y.L.J., Oct. 15, 2002, page 37, col. 5 (U.S. Dist.Ct., S.D.N.Y.), 2002 WL 31190169.

¶ 66. Where a plaintiff alleges a retaliatory discharge, the New York City Human Rights Law has the same standard as Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. A plaintiff must show that he or she engaged in a protected activity; that the employer was aware of the activity; that the employer took an adverse action against him or her; and that there was a causal connection between the adverse employment activity and the adverse employment action. Once a prima facie case is made out, the burden shifts to the defendant, who must articulate a legitimate, non-discriminatory reason for its adverse action. If the defendant meets its burden, the plaintiff must then prove that the defendant's proffered reason was a pretext for retaliation, i.e. that its actual motive was impermissible retaliation for plaintiff's protected activity. To establish that plaintiff was engaged in a protected activity, the plaintiff must show that he or she had a good faith and reasonable belief that the challenged acts violated the law. Protected activities include informal as well as formal complaints, and complaints to management. Evidence offered by plaintiff in support of the prima facie case may be considered in determining whether the employer's proffered reason was pre-textual, but the reverse is not true; evidence of pretext cannot be used to create a prima facie case in the first instance.

One way for plaintiff to establish a prima facie case is to show that he or she was treated differently from similarly situated persons outside of the protected class. In order to be deemed similarly situated, the other employee must be similarly situated in all material respects, i.e. must have dealt with the same supervisor, must have been subject to the same standards and must have engaged in the same conduct without such differentiating of mitigating circumstances as would distinguish their conduct or the employer's treatment of them for it.

Where a supervisor who took an adverse employment action against plaintiff is the same person who hired him a relatively short period of time beforehand (known as "same actor" defense), this creates an inference that the adverse action was not motivated by a discriminatory motive. Spiegler v. Israel Discount Bank, 2003 WL 21488040 (U.S. Dist.Ct., S.D.N.Y.)

¶ 67. Some discrimination case plaintiffs allege an adverse employment action, even though they have not lost any pay or fringe benefits by reason of the adverse action. To constitute an adverse employment action, a change in working conditions must be "materially adverse." A materially adverse change must be more disruptive than a mere inconvenience or an alteration of job responsibilities. A lateral transfer that does not result in reduction in pay or benefits does not constitute an adverse employment action so long as that transfer does not alter the terms and conditions of plaintiff's employment in a materially negative way. (A transfer to a less prestigious unit that has fewer opportunities for professional growth might be considered an adverse action.) Where the employer's own policies differentiate between positions that, in theory, have the same rank (e.g. where employees who desire a certain assignment must apply for it), this constitutes some evidence that the transfer to a "less desirable" position is an adverse employment action. A denial of an assignment that would have given plaintiff a steady day shift, as opposed to more irregular hours, might constitute an adverse employment action. Moreover, where the employer's choice of assignments denies the employee the opportunity to use his or her specialized skills, that would constitute an adverse action (e.g. where a police officer skilled in dealing with domestic violence issues is given an assignment that provides no opportunity to use his or her skills).

The discriminatory animus of intermediate supervisors who have an input in the decision-making process will not give rise to liability, if the supervisor with final authority bases an adverse employment action exclusively on an independent evaluation. However, the employer will be liable where the decision-maker "rubber stamps" the recommendation of the subordinates; in such cases, the decision maker is considered to be a conduit of the subordinates' improper motive. If the discriminatory animus of an intermediate supervisor plays a substantial role in the final decision (this need not be the sole factor), the bias of the intermediate supervisor will give rise to liability. Fullard v. City of New York, 2003 WL 21414312 (U.S. Dist.Ct., S.D.N.Y.)(case described Title VII standard, and said that the Administrative Code was similar; although the court ultimately held that plaintiff had failed to make out a prima facie case, its statements of law may be helpful to future discrimination plaintiffs).

¶ 68. A complaint which alleges that plaintiff was "harassed, shunned and subjected to an intimidating work environment," and which does not set forth specific actions of the employer which materially changed the terms and conditions of employment, does not set forth an actionable claim for retaliation. Quarles v. Bronx-Lebanon Hospital Center, 228 F.Supp.2d 377 (S.D.N.Y. 2002).

¶ 69. A Japanese employee in the New York office of the Tokyo Metropolitan Government (TMG) filed a complaint against the TMG and the Governor of Tokyo in his individual capacity. The court held that in the absence of any allegations of wrongful conduct by the governor himself, no cause of action existed against him in his individual capacity. Kato v. Ishihara, 239 F.Supp.2d 359 (S.D.N.Y. 2002).

¶ 71. A corporate employee is not subject to suit under the statute if he or she is not shown to have any ownership interest or any power to do more than carry out the personnel decisions made by others. Kadesh v. United Airlines, N.Y.L.J., Mar. 4, 2003, at 31, col. 4 (U.S. Dist.Ct. S.D.N.Y), 2003 WL 435632.

¶ 72. A court rejected a claim by the Transit Authority that Public Authorities Law §1266(8) made the TA exempt from the City Human Rights Law. Reilly v. Transport Workers' Union, N.Y.L.J., Jan. 2, 2003, page 18, col. 5 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 73. Under the New York City Human Rights Law, a claim of discrimination based on sexual orientation is established when it is demonstrated that a policy or practice of a covered entity results in a disparate impact to the detriment of any protected group, and the covered entity fails to plead and prove as an affirmative defense that the policy or practice at issue bears a significant relationship to a significant business objective or does not contribute to the disparate impact. Reilly v. Transport Workers' Union, N.Y.L.J., Jan. 2, 2003, page 18, col. 5 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 74. A co-employee of the plaintiff can be liable for discrimination, along with the employer, but only if the co-employee acts with or on behalf of the employer in hiring, firing, paying, or in administering the terms and conditions of employment, i.e. in some agency or supervisory capacity. Priore v. New York Yankees, 307 A.D.2d 67, 761 N.Y.S.2d 608 (1st Dept. 2003), leave to appeal denied, 1 N.Y.3d 504, 775 N.Y.S.2d 781, 807 N.E.2d 894 (2003).

¶ 75. To state a prima facie case of employment discrimination due to a disability, a plaintiff must show that he or she suffers from a disability and that the disability caused the behavior for which he or she was terminated. Once a prima facie case is established, the burden shifts to the employer to demonstrate that the disability prevented the employee from performing the duties of the job in a reasonable manner, or that the employee's termination was motivated by a legitimate non-discriminatory reason. If the employer establishes that it had legitimate non-discriminatory reasons for discharging the plaintiff from employment, the burden shifts back to the plaintiff to raise a triable issue of fact as to whether the stated reasons were pre-textual. In one case, the employer established its prima facie right to judgment as a matter of law, by showing that the plaintiff's narcolepsy prevented him from performing his duties as a resident in anesthesiology despite the hospital's reasonable attempt to accommodate his needs. Timashpolsky v. State University of New York Health Science Center at Brooklyn, 306 A.D.2d 271, 761 N.Y.S.2d 94 (2d Dept. 2003).

¶ 77. In one case, a female law firm associate alleged that she was subjected to discrimination because she served an income execution on the firm after her ex-husband (who was a partner) failed to pay child support and maintenance. The court held that these allegations did not set forth a claim for discrimination on the basis of marital status. The law firm's negative response to her occurred because she sued one of the partners for maintenance, not because of her status as a divorced woman. Shapiro v. Zevnik , N.Y.L.J., Aug. 30, 2002, page 18, col. 1 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 78. In one case, plaintiff was discharged as a bus driver after defendant's physicians found that he was color blind. In order to have a cause of action for discrimination based on a perceived ("regarded as") disability, plaintiff must show that he was able, with reasonable accommodation, to perform the essential requisites of the job. Where plaintiff was unable to distinguish between certain colors (and thus potentially would not recognize red or yellow lights), and the retention of such driver would have violated state and federal regulations for bus driver certification, plaintiff could not recover based on his discharge. Shannon v. New York City Transit Authority, 332 F.3d 95 (2d Cir. 2003).

¶ 79. In a discrimination case, plaintiff alleged that defendant unlawfully engaged in sexual stereotyping when two supervisors complained to her about her personal appearance. Allegedly, the supervisors told her that she wore a type of makeup which exaggerated the appearance of her lips, and that her makeup application was inappropriate for the corporate environment, in which women were expected to wear "discreet and subtle" makeup. Plaintiff's theory was that defendant required women to have a facial appearance which was not required of male employees. The court, however, held that plaintiff had failed to make out a case of sex discrimination. For one thing, the same supervisors who hired her were involved in the decision to discharge her, which undercut the claim that the adverse employment action was gender-based. Moreover, it was not unlawful to have some differences between men and women in terms of appearance standards (e.g. analogous cases under Title VII have upheld hair length requirements for men, even though those requirements did not apply to women). Moreover, although the standards were different for men and women, both men and women were subject to stringent standards. For example, women had to wear certain types of makeup, while men were forbidden to have long hair, earrings or beards. Plaintiff failed to establish that the grooming standards were applied in a discriminatory manner. Romanello v. Shiseido Cosmetics, N.Y.L.J., Oct. 15, 2002, page 37, col. 5 (U.S. Dist.Ct., S.D.N.Y.)

charts, and her failure to document the medical basis for plaintiff's request for a leave in order to take care of an allegedly sick family member), and plaintiff fails to show that the reason given was a pretext for discrimination, defendant is entitled to summary judgment dismissing the claim. Moreover, a mere allegation by plaintiff that African-Americans were treated differently from other employees, which is unsupported by evidence showing the disparate treatment, will not be sufficient to withstand defendant's motion for summary judgment. Furthermore, the alleged occurrence of a few incidents of racial epithets (the details of which the parties sharply disputed) were not enough to establish a claim for a hostile racial environment. What is required is harassment sufficiently severe or pervasive as to alter the conditions of employment and create an abusive working environment. In other words, racist statements do not give rise to a cause of action unless they unreasonably interfere with plaintiff's job performance. Plaintiff's complaints that she was required to share an office with another person, that her caseload was increased due to an organizational change and understaffing, and the imposition of exacting demands regarding chart documentation, were not the types of things that a reasonable person would find to be an abusive environment. Finally, the court rejected plaintiff's claim the adverse employment actions taken against her violated statutory prohibitions against retaliation. To be actionable, the alleged retaliation must have been in response to a protected activity.Although the plaintiff had made complaints to higher management regarding the conduct of immediate supervisors, none of those complaints mentioned racial discrimination. Thus, the complaints to the employer cannot be deemed protected activity for purposes of the discrimination statutes related to retaliation.

Not every on-the-job dispute that arises between people of different races constitutes employment discrimination. Animosity on the job is not actionable, but unequal treatment based on race is actionable.

In order to have a discrimination complaint, there must have been an adverse employment action. An adverse employment action requires a materially adverse change in the terms and conditions of employment. To be materially adverse, a change in working conditions must be more disruptive than a mere inconvenience or alteration of job responsibilities. For example, a demotion involving a decrease in salary, a less distinguished title, a material reduction in benefits, or a material reduction in responsibilities, may be an adverse employment action. Forrest v. Jewish Guild for the Blind, 309 A.D.2d 546, 765 N.Y.S.2d 326 (1st Dept. 2003), aff'd 3 N.Y.2d 295, 786 N.Y.S.2d 382, 819 N.E.2d 998 (2004).

As described in the special note at the beginning of the annotations, the Williams case expanded the types of cases in which liability may attach under the New York City Human Rights Law (NYCHRL), even though there may have been an insufficient basis for liability under the New York Executive Law or Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Williams mentioned Forrest as one of the cases whose result might have been different had the amended version of the NYCHRL been in effect at the time in question.

¶ 81. A single instance of discrimination is sufficient for a finding of a violation of the anti-discrimination laws. Silver Dragon Restaurant v. City Commission on Human Rights, N.Y.L.J., Mar. 31, 2004, at 24, col. 3 (Sup.Ct. Kings Co)(restaurant allowed Caucasian customers to receive food without paying for it in advance, but required an African-American customer to pay for her food in advance).

¶ 82. Where an age discrimination claim is based on disparate treatment, when comparing plaintiff to another employee (comparator), a case can be made out even if the comparator is within the protected class covered by the age discrimination statute, so long as the comparator is significantly younger than plaintiff. Spiegler v. Israel Discount Bank of New York, 2003 WL 21983018 (S.D.N.Y.)(case however, was dismissed by reason of plaintiff's failure to prove that the employer had a discriminatory motive for its actions).

¶ 83. The anti-discrimination laws prohibit harassment against employees who engage in protected activity. The term protected activity refers to action taken to protest or oppose statutorily prohibited discrimination. To establish a retaliation claim, the plaintiff need not prove the merits of the underlying discrimination claim, but only that he was acting under a good faith, reasonable belief that a violation existed. In terms of adverse employment actions allegedly taken in retaliation for engaging in protecting activity, the action need not involve termination or reduced wages or benefits, but could involve less flagrant reprisals. However, the reprisals must be more than mere unpleasantness. Disciplinary memoranda (known informally as being "written up") or negative evaluations can be adverse employment actions if they affect employment decisions like promotions, wages or termination. In terms of proving that the adverse employment action was the result of retaliation, plaintiff can make out a case indirectly, by showing that the protected activity was followed closely by adverse treatment, or directly, through evidence of specific retaliatory animus directed against plaintiff by defendant. If plaintiff bases a case on timing alone, the timing must be very close. Knight v. City of New York, 303 F.Supp2d 485 (S.D.N.Y. 2004), aff'd 147 Fed. Appx. 221 (2d Cir. 2005).

¶ 84. In one age discrimination case, plaintiff alleged that he was subject to discrimination because he had slowed down in his work, gained weight and tended to perspire. The court, however, said that, even assuming that these factors were correlated with age, these facts, without more, did not amount to a claim of age discrimination. There was no claim that defendant unfairly stereotyped him because of age. Moreover, there were no claims that plaintiff was replaced by someone younger, that other older workers were discharged, or that anyone at the Pierre ever made disparaging comments about his age. Thus, plaintiff did not make out a prima facie case of discrimination. Even if plaintiff had made out a prima facie case, the employer proffered a non-discriminatory reason for plaintiff's discharge. A financial consultant's report concluded that two employees had been stealing, and the employer fired both of them. Plaintiff alleged that the consultant's report was erroneous and that the accusation of theft was merely a pretext for age discrimination. The court, however, rejected the pretext claim. Although plaintiff was 52 years old at the time of his discharge, the other fired employee was 20 years younger, thus negating the claim that the firings were based on age. Rodriguez v. Pierre New York, FRC, 299 F.Supp.2d 214 (S.D.N.Y. 2004)

¶ 85. In one case, an employee made out a prima facie case of pregnancy discrimination, showing that before announcing her pregnancy, she had received salary increases and promotions, that the company hired a full-time replacement for her while she was out on maternity leave, and that the company sent her a severance package approximately two weeks before she was due to return from maternity leave. In response, the employer said that due to a downturn in the economy, the company was forced to reduce staff. The court held that the employer needed only to proffer some legitimate non-discriminatory reason for its actions, that there was no need to assess the credibility of the proffered reason at that stage, nor did the employer have to show that it actually relied on this reason. The burden now shifted back to plaintiff to show pretext. At that point, the court said, the question was not whether unlawful discrimination was the sole reason for the discharge but whether, based on the evidence in the record, a rational jury could find that, despite any legitimate ground it might have had, unlawful discrimination played a motivating role in the employer's decision to take the adverse action. Where plaintiff showed at least some evidence of pretext, her case survived the employer's motion for summary judgment even though there was no reason to doubt that there had been downturns in the employer's industry. Batka v. Prime Charter, Ltd., 301 F.Supp.2d 308 (S.D.N.Y. 2004).

¶ 86. In a university gender discrimination case, a claim cannot be made out against the former dean of the school, where plaintiff could not show that the dean, who left less than a year after plaintiff was hired, personally participated in the adverse employment actions that led to the lawsuit. One factor was that the decision denying plaintiff tenure was made more than two years after the dean left the school. Hirsch v. Columbia Univ. College of Physicians and Surgeons, 293 F.Supp.2d 372 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

¶ 87. A non-profit organization, which offered prevention and education services relating to HIV/AIDS in the Latino community, leased space, and was required to share the common areas, such as restrooms, with the other commercial tenants on the floor. Plaintiff alleged that the landlord's agent refused to renew the lease due to various complaints that plaintiff's transgender clients were using common area bathrooms that did not coincide with their biological sex. The tenant sued the landlord, alleging that the landlord's refusal to renew the lease violated the Administrative Code. The court dismissed the action with leave to replead. The complaint alleged not that the transgender persons were selectively excluded from the bathrooms, which might trigger the Human Rights Law, but that they were excluded on the same basis as all biological males and/or females were excluded from certain bathrooms-their biological sexual assignment. The court found that the landlord's designation of restroom use, applied uniformly, on the basis of "biological gender" was not discrimination.

Hispanic AIDS Forum v. Estate of Bruno, 16 A.D.3d 294, 792 N.Y.S.2d 43 (1st Dept. 2005).

Hispanic Aids Forum v. Bruno 16 Misc.3d 960, 839 N.Y.S.2d 691 (Sup.Ct. New York Co. 2007) was a follow-up to the Appellate Division decision which had held that it was not illegal to bar males from bathrooms designated for females, and to bar females from bathrooms designated for males. However, the building in question also had one or more single-user bathrooms. The landlord barred transgender individuals from using these bathrooms, even though their presence did not disturb any other persons. The court held that as to the single-user bathrooms, plaintiff had a viable cause of action for discrimination on the basis of disability (gender identity disorder).

¶ 88. Discrimination plaintiffs often combine federal claims (e.g., Title VII or the Age Discrimination in Employment Act) with state-claims (such as Section 8-107). The federal court can bootstrap the state cases onto the federal claims by virtue of the doctrine of pendent jurisdiction. However, where the federal court dismisses the federal claims, the state claims will likely also be dismissed, without prejudice to the prosecution of those claims in state court. Baca v. City of New York, N.Y.L.J., July 24, 2003, at 27, col. 1 (U.S. Dist.Ct. S.D.N.Y.), 2003 WL 21638211.

¶ 89. At an administrative hearing, a restaurant, a place of public accommodation under Administrative Code section 8-102(9), was found to have engaged in discrimination against an African American customer by asking her to pay for her food before receiving it, while three non-African American customers were not required to pay for their food until receiving their food orders. Respondents failed to demonstrate a legitimate, non-discriminatory motive for treating the African American customer differently. The administrative law judge recommended a fine of $2,000, which was modified to $10,000 by the Commission on Human Rights. On appeal, applying the principal of proportionality, the court reduced the fine to $5,000. Comm'n on Human Rights v. Silver Dragon Restaurant, OATH Index No. 677/03 (May 30, 2003), modified on penalty, Comm'n Dec. (July 28, 2003), Complaint No. M-P-R-3-1013639, modified on penalty, NYLJ, Mar. 31, 2004, at 24 (Sup. Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 90. A restaurant argued that it should not be strictly liable for the discriminatory actions of an employee, relying on section 8-107(13), which provides that employers are not strictly liable for actions of employees in employment and apprentice training programs. As the restaurant was charged with violating section 8-107(4), relating to public accommodations, an affirmative defense was unavailable. Comm'n on Human Rights v. Silver Dragon Restaurant, OATH Index No. 677/03 (May 30, 2003), modified on penalty, Comm'n Dec. (July 28, 2003), Complaint No. M-P-R-3-1013639, modified on penalty, NYLJ, Mar. 31, 2004, at 24 (Sup. Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 91. Civil penalties to be imposed by the Commission on Human Rights for unlawful discriminatory practices, pursuant to section 8-126 of the Administrative Code, are not to exceed fifty thousand dollars to vindicate the public interest. In view of a restaurant's undisputed mitigating evidence of no complaints of prior or subsequent discriminatory actions, an administrative law judge recommended a $2,000 penalty, which was modified to $10,000 by the Commission on Human Rights. On appeal, applying the principal of proportionality, the court reduced the fine to $5,000. Comm'n on Human Rights v. Silver Dragon Restaurant, OATH Index No. 677/03 (May 30, 2003), modified on penalty, Comm'n Dec. (July 28, 2003), Complaint No. M-P-R-3-1013639, modified on penalty, NYLJ, Mar. 31, 2004, at 24 (Sup. Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 92. In one case, a female employee who was 72 years of age, sued for age discrimination after her employment was terminated during a process that the employer described as corporate downsizing. Plaintiff sought to introduce certain remarks as evidence of discrimination. An employee, who was not plaintiff's supervisor, gave his wife some jewelry as a gift, and told plaintiff that if she were twenty years younger, blond and beautiful she would get a similar gift. The court held that such a stray remark, whether or not made by a decision-maker, would not in itself be sufficient to constitute evidence of discrimination. In determining whether a comment is probative evidence of discrimination or is a mere stray remark, a court considers the following: (1) who made the remark-was it a decision-maker, supervisor or lower-level co-worker?; (2) the relationship, if any, between the remark and the employment; (3) the content of the remark-whether a reasonable juror could view the remark as being discriminatory; and (4) the context in which the remark was made-whether the remark was related to the decision-making process. The remark is considered to be evidence of discrimination where it is made either by a decision-maker or a person whose recommendation is sought by the decision-maker, and where it is made close in time to the adverse employment action. Conversely, stray remarks tend to be those that were made by a non-decision-maker, or made by a decision-maker but not related to the decision process, or, although they were made by a decision-maker, were unrelated to the decision process or well removed in time from the adverse decision. Since the remarks were not evidence of discrimination, the court dismissed the action. One factor against a finding of age discrimination was that plaintiff was 64 years of age when she was first hired. Plaintiff had worked as an executive assistant. At the time that one executive for whom she had worked left the office, she was given another executive assistant position. She was 70 years old at the time. At the time that the second executive left, there were no other executive assistant positions available in the company. Moreover, during the downsizing process, other much younger executive assistants, whose executives had left the firm, were also laid off. Seltzer v. Dresdner, Kleinwort, Wasserstein, Inc., 356 F.Supp.2d 288 (S.D.N.Y. 2005).

¶ 93. A tugboat captain, who was required to take drug and alcohol tests after the boat ran aground, did not have a viable cause of action for discrimination on the basis of disability. The statute does not protect employees from disciplinary action based on alcohol or drug use. Smith v. McAllister Towing of New York, Inc., 361 F.Supp.2d 348 (S.D.N.Y. 2005).

¶ 94. In one case, evidence of persistent negative comments about plaintiff employee's Muslim religion, which comments increased after the September 11, 2001 terrorist attack on the World Trade Center, was held to be sufficient to establish a discrimination case (religion and national origin) based on hostile work environment and constructive discharge. There was a triable issue as to whether the workplace was permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule and insult that was sufficiently severe as to alter the conditions of plaintiff's employment. However, the court held that a single remark, in which plaintiff was called a "prostitute," was insufficient to constitute discrimination based on sex. Kaptan v. Danzig, 19 A.D.3d 456, 796 N.Y.S.2d 706 (2d Dept. 2005).

¶ 95. In a proceeding brought under CPLR Article 78, petitioner charged that the selection of the Mosholu golf course, located in Van Cortlandt Park, Bronx, New York, as the preferred site for a water treatment chemical plant, violated the anti-discrimination statutes. It was alleged that the anticipated adverse affect on air quality violated the rights of minority persons in the community. The court, however, declined to extend the definition of "public accommodation" to the air quality of a particular borough or neighborhood. To the extent that petitioner asserted that the Dept. of Environmental Protection (DEP) was the provider of "advantages or privileges" of air quality and park space, the court rejected the claim, since DEP did not "provide" air quality or park space. Moreover, the discrimination claim was not properly brought within the context of an Article 78 proceeding. Bronx Environmental Health and Justice, Inc. v. New York City Dept. of Environmental Protection, 8 Misc.3d 1002(A), 2005 WL 1389360 (Table) (Sup.Ct. Queens Co.).

¶ 96. One of plaintiff's co-workers accused the corporate owner of sexual harassment. The owner hired an attorney to investigate the allegation. The attorney interviewed plaintiff, and then prepared a draft affidavit for his signature, based on the information he provided. She then mailed the draft affidavit to the plaintiff with instructions for him to sign it and return it to her. She further requested that plaintiff let her know if the affidavit was incorrect in any way, in which case she would make the requested corrections and send him a new version. Plaintiff's employment was terminated for failure to cooperate in the investigation, after he refused to sign the affidavit or to indicate what, if anything, in the affidavit was inaccurate. When plaintiff brought suit under Section 8-107, the court dismissed the action. To assert a claim for retaliatory discharge, an employee fired for refusing to participate in the employer's investigation of discrimination must show that the employer pressured him or her to give false statements or to provide evidence that he or she did not possess. Since defendant did not violate the foregoing standard, there was no basis for the action. Nieves v. Admiral Heating & Cooling, Inc., 17 A.D.3d 331, 792 N.Y.S.2d 584 (2d Dept. 2005).

¶ 97. Plaintiff was injured in an automobile accident which was unrelated to employment. She sued after the employer refused to extend her medical leave. In dismissing the case, the court said that although extensions of medical leave can constitute a reasonable accommodation for an employee with a disability, the employer is not required to hold an injured employee's position indefinitely while the employee attempts to recover. Although a specific return date is not required to render an accommodation "reasonable," the request for additional time should, at the least, make it clear that the accommodation will allow the employee to perform her job. In other words, where the employee is asking for leave, the supporting physician's statement should indicate that, given the additional time off, the employee will be able to return to work and perform the necessary functions of the employment. McKenzie v. Meridian Capital Group, Inc., 8 Misc.3d 1005(A), 2005 WL 1490141 (Sup.Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 98. Unlike the New York State Human Rights Law, the New York City Human Rights Law grants standing to those who have been discriminated against by virtue of their association with a disabled person. Thus, a corporate tenant can maintain a cause of action against a building owner who has refused to provide a reasonable accommodation for the tenant's executive director, who has a disability. Both the building owner and the managing agent (even though the latter is an independent contractor) can be liable. Bartman v. Shenker, 5 Misc.3d 856, 786 N.Y.S.2d 696 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 99. Where a woman alleges that she was discharged because of her sex, a necessary element of her prima facie case is that she was replaced by a male. Where plaintiff's replacement was female, and two of the three persons hired since plaintiff's termination were female, a court would normally hold that plaintiff had failed to make out a prima facie case. However, a female can make out a case of discriminatory discharge, even if she has been replaced by a woman, where she can show that she was discharged because she did not conform to her employer's stereotypical expectation of women in her position (e.g., if the supervisor complained about plaintiff's choice of clothes). Moreover, a plaintiff can prove a prima facie case where it can be shown that she and male colleagues committed the same acts and only she is terminated because of them (in this case, however, the court found that the acts committed by her were not the same as those committed by male colleagues). Chauvancy v. Dresdner Bank AG, 5 Misc.3d 1006(A), 2004 WL 2375413 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 100. The Whistleblowing Statute (Labor Law § 740), provides that institution of an action under that law shall be deemed a waiver of the rights and remedies available under any other contract, collective bargaining agreement, law, rule or regulation under the common law. Plaintiff claimed that she was discharged partly because she reported unlawful financial activities of the employer to governmental authorities and partly because of age discrimination. The court held that the waiver provision under the Whistleblower Law covered only the whistleblowing claims and did not preclude plaintiff from bringing an action for age discrimination. Reddington v. Staten Island University Hospital, 2005 WL 1458450 (U.S. Dist. Ct. E.D.N.Y.).

¶ 101. A hostile work environment may be shown in one of two ways. A plaintiff must demonstrate either that a single incident was extraordinarily severe, or that a series of incidents were sufficiently continuous and converted to have altered the conditions of the working environment. Incidents that are relatively minor and infrequent will not meet the standard for a discriminatorily hostile environment. Isolated remarks are not sufficient to sustain a hostile environment claim. Moreover, a plaintiff alleging that he or she was subject to a hostile work environment must also prove that the conduct at issue was not merely tinged with offensive connotations, but actually constituted discrimination because of sex or other protected category. Olle v. Columbia Univ., 332 F.Supp.2d 599 (S.D.N.Y. 2004), 136 Fed. Appx. 383 (2d Cir. 2005).

¶ 103. An employer is liable for the discriminatorily abusive working environment created by a supervisor if the supervisor uses his actual or apparent authority to further the harassment, or if he was otherwise aided in accomplishing the harassment by the existence of the agency relationship. An employer who has notice that the employee is being harassed (notice is presumed where a supervisor is responsible for the harassment) has a duty to take reasonable steps to eliminate the harassment. The employer may avoid liability, however, by establishing that it took reasonable steps to remedy the problem, and that the harassed employee unreasonably failed to avail himself of the corrective measures provided by the employer. Conversely, where a low-level supervisor does not rely on the supervisory authority to carry out the harassment, or the harassment is perpetrated by plaintiff's co-workers, the employer will not be liable unless the employer either provided no reasonable avenue for complaint or knew of the harassment and did nothing about it. Note: the above description referred to the federal Title VII claim, but the court stated that similar standards applied to the New York City Human Rights Law claim. Millin v. McClier Corp., 2005 WL 351100 (U.S. Dist. Ct., S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 104. A few minor or mild incidents of biased remarks, even if they are not in themselves enough to constitute a hostile environment, may permit a fact-finder to infer racial, ethnic, and/or religiously based motivation for a more serious discriminatory difference in treatment. For example, a complaint alleging that plaintiff, who was Jamaican and a Rastafarian, was placed in a trailer which had stench, vermin and extreme heat, and that the conditions persisted for several months, stated a cause of action for hostile environment. Plaintiff used a series of mild but arguably race-based or religious-based remarks to establish a racial or religious motive for the employer's placement of him in the trailer. Millin v. McClier Corp., 2005 WL 351100 (U.S. Dist. Ct., S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 106. In order to establish a claim of discrimination by reason of pregnancy, plaintiff must show (1) that she was a member of the protected class (i.e., that she was pregnant at the time in question); (2) that she satisfactorily performed the duties required by the position; (3) that she was discharged;and (4) that the position remained open and was ultimately filled by a non-pregnant employee. In terms of the second element, plaintiff need not show perfect performance or even average performance, but need only make the minimal showing that she possessed the basic skills necessary for the job. Plaintiff can establish a prima facie case, in part, by showing that negative comments about her work performance began only after the employer learned that she was pregnant. Hill v. Dale Electronics, N.Y.L.J., Dec. 28, 2004, at 22, col. 3, 2004 WL 2937832 (U.S. Dist. Ct. S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 107. In one case, the court held that a landlord could not be compelled to waive the no-pet clause of a lease to accommodate the psychological needs of the tenant's daughter, who allegedly suffered from anxiety and depression. Although there was testimony that the daughter had some episodes of inability to sleep, difficulty in paying attention at school, or hiding food instead of eating it, these were insufficient to show that the daughter was limited in a major life activity for purposes of the discrimination laws protecting persons with disabilities. Moreover, the daughter's therapist admitted that the dog was not essential to the daughter's use of the apartment, and that if he had known of the no-pet clause of the lease, he would not have suggested to the patient that she get a dog. Contello Towers II Corp. v. NYC Dept. of HPD, N.Y.L.J., Nov. 19, 2004, at 17, col. 1 (Sup.Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 108. Where a discrimination claim arises out of plaintiff's discharge and his replacement with a younger worker, plaintiff must show that the employer knew that the replacement was significantly younger. Woodman v. WWOR-TV, Inc., 411 F.3d 69 (2d Cir. 2005).

the City Clerk. The employee challenged the medical benefits provision as being unlawful discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. The court held that the contract was not discriminatory on its face against gay persons, since it denied medical benefits to any domestic partners, whether they were gay or heterosexual. Plaintiff further claimed that even if the statute did not create unlawful disparate treatment between gay and heterosexual persons, it had a disparate impact upon gay persons. In response to the disparate impact claim, the SIRTA set forth a valid business reason for the practice, i.e., the enormous cost of providing medical benefits for non-employees. Once the defendant asserted this business objective, it became incumbent upon plaintiff to show that there was an available alternative policy or practice that would enable the defendant to achieve its business objective. Since plaintiff was unable to demonstrate a viable alternative, the disparate impact claim was dismissed. Rios v. Metropolitan Transit Authority, 6 Misc.3d 1006(A), 2004 WL 3093154 (Sup.Ct. Richmond Co.) (similar result with respect to the MTA).

¶ 110. Where a claim of discrimination by reason of disability arises out of the employer's denial of an extension of a medical leave, the employee must show that he or she would have been able to return to work if the requested extension had been granted. McKenzie v. Meridian Capital Corp., N.Y.L.J., May 9, 2005, at 20, col. 1, 8 Misc.3d 1005(A), 2005 WL 1490141 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.). See also Raisley v. First Manhattan Co., N.Y.L.J., Sept. 13, 2004, at 18, col. 1, 4 Misc.3d 1022(A), 2004 WL 2059539 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 111. In an age discrimination case arising out of a discharge from employment, plaintiff must show that he was qualified for the position. Where plaintiff was employed as a driver for several years, and had received satisfactory performance evaluations, the mere fact that plaintiff was involved in an accident resulting in a fatality (his vehicle hit a bicycle) did not render him per se unqualified. Belardo v. Con-Way Transportation Services, 2005 WL 885016 (U.S.Dist.Ct. E.D.N.Y.).

¶ 113. The mere fact that plaintiff, a 70-year-old professor, was discharged and replaced by a professor in her early forties does not establish a case for age discrimination. Plaintiff failed to allege any ageist remarks or other behavior evidencing age discrimination. Chapkines v. New York University, N.Y.L.J., Feb. 3, 2005, at 22, col. 1, 2005 WL 167603 (U.S.Dist.Ct. S.D.N.Y.).

The meeting was rescheduled and subsequently held. This time, the veterinarian was also in attendance. Plaintiff secretly taped this meeting and again accused the office manager of siding with the assistant. The doctor spoke with the operations director of the veterinary center, and it was decided that plaintiff be terminated. Plaintiff claimed age discrimination, stating that the veterinary assistant and the office manager were much younger than she.

The court granted summary judgment in favor of the defendant, dismissing the complaint. The court said that even assuming that plaintiff's proof was legally sufficient to raise a presumption that she was discharged under circumstances giving rise to an inference of discrimination, VCA established a prima facie right to dismissal by offering a legitimate reason for discharge based upon plaintiff's conduct leading up to the meetings, both of which were aborted by plaintiff's disruptive behavior and an apparent reluctance to work with her supervisors in attempting a good faith resolution of her difficulties with a fellow employee. Since plaintiff failed to show that the proffered reason for the discharge was false or that they were a pretext for age discrimination, plaintiff's case lacked merit.

¶ 115. Petitioner established employment discrimination based on disability. Damages awarded included $33,333 for lost income and $10,000 for mental anguish. Comm'n on Human Rights ex rel. Manning v. HealthFirst, LLC, OATH Index No. 462/05 (Mar. 15, 2006), adopted, Comm'n Dec. (May 10, 2006).

¶ 116. Court affirms Commission's order that landlord widen doors and install a ramp and a lift in the lobby to accommodate a disabled tenant, adopting the Commission's ruling that depreciation is a "tax fiction" which is irrelevant when determining whether the proposed accommodation would impose an undue hardship on the owner. Court upholds Commission's finding that the owner did not meet its burden of proving undue hardship where owner made a profit on the building for the past three years when depreciation is factored out. T.K. Management v. Gatling, Index No. 14255/05, 2005 N.Y. Misc. LEXIS 3593 (Sup. Ct. Queens Co. Nov. 2, 2005).

¶ 117. Police Department violated this section by refusing to allow traffic enforcement agent, who is a member of the Sikh faith, to wear a turban while working. The Department failed to prove that accommodating respondent would impose an undue hardship, where proof showed other agents wore head gear other than the official uniform hat without sanction. Reinstatement ordered. Jaggi v. Police Dep't, OATH Index No. 1498/03 (Apr. 28, 2004), aff'd, Comm'n Dec. (June 29, 2004).

¶ 118. Pelton v. 77 Park Ave. Condominiums, 38 A.D.3d 1, 825 N.Y.S.2d 29 (1st Dept. 2006). Managing agents of condominium are normally not liable under the discrimination laws, absent some sort of independent tortious act, since they are considered to be agents for a disclosed principal. Moreover, the individual members of the board of directors are not liable for disability discrimination so long as they have exercised honest judgment under the business judgment rule with respect to the "handicapped accessible" accommodation requested by a disabled resident.

¶ 119. Public Authorities Law § 1266(8) exempts the New York City Transit Authority from liability under the New York City Human Rights Law. Tang v. NYC Transit Auth., 16 Misc.3d 703, 842 N.Y.S.2d 261 (Sup.Ct. Kings Co. 2007) (plaintiff had sought to bring a retaliation claim under § 8-107).

¶ 120. Generally, the question of whether a complainant is an employee (i.e. entitled to the protection of the anti-discrimination law) or an independent contractor (not entitled to coverage) is generally one of fact, and an allegation that the complainant is an employee is generally not rejected at the pleadings stage. The ultimate determination will rest on evidence as to whether the defendant exercised either control only over the results achieved or whether it also exercised control over means used to achieve the results. Banks v. Correctional Services Corp., 475 F.Supp.2d 189 (E.D.N.Y. 2007).

¶ 121. In one disability discrimination case, plaintiff suffered a shoulder injury during a robbery. She had been a direct care counselor with the Cerebral Palsy Association (CPA), which provides services to persons with severe developmental disabilities. Plaintiff's duties involved assisting patients with activities of daily life, including lifting/transferring, toileting, dressing, bathing, feeding, etc. After the injury, she was medically advised to refrain from lifting more than ten pounds. She wrote a letter to CPA describing the shoulder disability. She asked for a reasonable accommodation for her disability, since she allegedly could not lift patients without assistance. She pointed out that patients who needed lifting comprised less than ten per cent of her patient load. She asked either that she be assigned only patients who did not require lifting, or that she be provided with a Hoyer lift (which CPA had available) which would assist her in lifting patients. She provided a doctor's note indicating that she could lift patients safely so long as she could use an electronically controlled Hoyer lift. Defendant, however, claimed that they could not offer either of the requested accommodations, and that ability to lift at least 50 pounds was an essential function of the job.

The court began its analysis by pointing to the state and federal disability statutes. The Local Civil Rights Restoration Act (Local Law 85 of 2005) states that interpretation of state or federal statutes with similar wording to the New York City Human Rights Law (NYCHRL) may be used to interpret the NYCHRL, but that similarly worded statutes are to be construed as a floor below which the NYCHRL cannot fall, rather than a ceiling above which the local law cannot rise. Therefore, to the extent that similarly worded federal or New York State laws (Executive Law) contain definitions of disability more restrictive than that employed by the NYCHRL, the court will not apply the state or federal laws.

In order to state a prima facie case of employment discrimination due to a disability, under either the NYCHRL or the Executive Law, plaintiff must show that he or she suffers from a disability and that the disability caused the behavior for which he or she was terminated. Moreover, plaintiff has the burden of establishing that he or she proposed a reasonable accommodation and that the defendant refused to make such an accommodation. Moreover, the obligation of reasonable accommodation is limited to the employer's knowledge of the disability that needs to be accommodated. On the other hand, where the employee does notify the employer of a disability, the employer has the responsibility to investigate the employee's request for accommodations and determine their feasibility. There should be an interactive process here between employer and employee. D'Avilar v. Cerebral Palsy Association of New York, 2007 WL 3072452 (Sup.Ct. Kings Co.).

¶ 122. A complainant under the disability laws cannot successfully maintain that he was "otherwise qualified" for employment, when he stated in a Social Security Disability benefits application that he was unable to work, and that statement was submitted just after he received notice of termination of employment. Kendall v. Fisse, 149 Fed. Appx. 19 (2nd Cir. 2005).

¶ 123. Under the City Human Rights Law, an individual supervisor who sexually harassed plaintiff can be personally liable, even though the employer declared Chapter 11 bankruptcy and the plaintiff settled with the employer. The City law provides this remedy even though plaintiff could not have recovered against the supervisor under the State Human Rights Law. Sanabria v. M. Fabrikant & Sons 2008 NY Mis. Lexis 2400, 239 NYLJ 77 (Sup. Ct. NY 2008).

¶ 124. The New York City Human Rights Law is to be liberally and independently construed with the aim of making it even more protective, in some cases, than the federal or state counterparts. The state and federal laws serve as a floor, not a ceiling. Nonetheless, the three laws are similar, and employ many of the same standards of recovery, and standards of proof. Where a plaintiff alleges, for example, national origin discrimination, he establishes a prima facie case by showing that he is a member of a protected group, that he is qualified for the position, and was subject to adverse employment action under circumstances giving rise to an inference of discrimination. In order to win summary judgment, defendant would have to show either that he does not have a prima facie case, or would have to offer a non-discriminatory reason for the adverse action. The burden then shifts back to the employee to show there is a material issue of fact (1) as to whether the employer's asserted reason the action is false or unworthy of belief, and (2) that it is more likely than not that plaintiff's national origin was the real reason for the discrimination.

In this case, plaintiff, who was Egyptian, claimed that he was constructively discharged when his supervisor asked him to resign, and said that if he did not resign, he would be fired if he came in even one minute late. The court held that this statement, even if made, would not constitute constructive discharge. Plaintiff had been chronically late for work, which would have given the employer good cause for discharge.

The court held that the supervisor's threat to fire him was not discriminatory, in that non-Egyptian employees who were chronically late were also threatened with discharge. Moreover, where, as here, the same supervisor who hired him (knowing his national origin) is involved in the alleged adverse employment action, this gives rise to an inference that discrimination was not the motive for the action (see Carlton v. Mystic Transp., 202 F.3d 129 (2d Cir.), cert denied 530 U.S. 1261, 120 S.Ct. 2718, 147 L.Ed.2d 983 (2000), decided under Title VII).

Requiring an employee to work extra hours, for which he was paid additional salary, is not an adverse employment action.

An adverse employment action is no less than a materially adverse change in the terms and conditions of employment. Such change must be more disruptive than a mere inconvenience or an alteration of job responsibilities. A materially adverse change would be, for example, termination, a demotion evidenced by a decrease in salary, a less distinguished title, a material reduction in benefits, or significantly diminished job responsibilities. A refusal to promote could also be an adverse employment action.

An isolated incident where a supervisor makes fun of an employee's foreign accent is not in itself sufficient to constitute a hostile environment. To establish a hostile environment, the employee would have to allege the manner, frequency and context of the conduct. In other words, the incidents must be more than episodic, and must be sufficiently continuous and concerted in order to be deemed pervasive (e.g. in a case alleging a hostile racial environment, racist remarks taken together with a noose or Ku Klux Klan robe might be sufficient to constitute a hostile racial environment). Hanna v. NY Hotel Trades Council and Hotel Assoc. of NYC Health Center Inc. 18 Misc.3d 436, 851 NYS2d 818 (Sup. Ct. NY County).

¶ 125. A recruiter was allegedly unable to drive following an accident. She asked that the employer accommodate her disability by assigning Staten Island trips to other employees. The court however, held that where the Staten Island recruiting trips were an integral part of the job, the employer did not have to accommodate the employee by re-assigning Staten Island trips to others. Millicent Jones v. St. Joseph's College et al. 2007 NY Slip Op. 10470, 46 AD3d 467, 847 NYS2d 584, 2007 NY App. Div. Lexis 13283 (App. Div. 1st Dept.).

¶ 126. A Jet Blue Airlines flight attendant was fired after three other flight attendants brought a complaint against the plaintiff, stating that he was in the "jump seat" for the entire flight. He appeared to be watching TV and at one point, fell asleep, the complainants charged. When confronted by Jet Blue officials, plaintiff said that "he could have been praying." According to plaintiff, who was a devout Catholic, he was engaging in silent prayer with his eyes closed, and that Jet Blue discriminated against him by not accommodating his religious beliefs. However, the court dismissed the case. First, plaintiff failed to show that he ever demanded a particular religious accommodation. Second, Jet Blue did not have to waive its "no sleeping rule" to accommodate plaintiff. Crew members can neither sleep nor appear to be sleeping on duty, and must be watching the cabin at all times, in order to assist passengers or deal with suspicious situations. In short, plaintiff could have engaged in silent prayer without closing his eyes or putting on a headset or being out of the view of the cabin. Hogan v. Jet Blue 2007 NY Slip Op. 52324U, 17 Misc.3d 1137A, 856 NYS2d 24 (Queens Cty.).

¶ 127. In 14 Penn Plaza LLC v. Pyett, 129 S.Ct. 1456 (2009), the court held that a clearly worded collective bargaining agreement, under which employees' age discrimination claims would be sent to arbitration, was enforceable.

¶ 128. Negative evaluations, accompanied by negative consequences, such as demotion, diminution of wages or other tangible loss, may constitute an adverse employment action. However, the mere fact that plaintiff was provided with a used computer, that he was not invited to become a member of a particular committee, or that his administrative assistant had to contact another supervisory person regarding assignments given to the assistant by plaintiff, was not adverse employment actions. Whaley v. City of New York, 2008 U.S. Dist. Lexis 35156 (S.D.N.Y.), 2008 Wl 6141014.

¶ 130. Although sexual harassment cases under Admin. Code Sec. 8-107 apply the same principles as those applied in Title VII cases, the City law is more protective of employees than the federal law. For example, under the federal law and New York Executive Law, plaintiff must show that the harassment was sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter the conditions of employment and create an abusive working environment, while under the City law, liability is determined by the existence of unequal treatment and questions of severity and frequency are reserved for consideration of damages. Condonation of an act of sexual harassment may implicate an employer in the discriminatory acts of its employee. Condonation consists of a knowing, after-the-fact forgiveness or acceptance of an offense. Moreover, an employer's calculated inaction in response to discriminatory conduct may, as readily as affirmative conduct, indicate condonation. However, condonation may be disproved by a showing that the employer reasonably investigated a complaint and took corrective action. An employer who merely offers the employee transfer to another location (allegedly a less desirable one, according to the complainant in this case) will not avoid a charge of condonation; in other words, something should be done about the harassment itself.

In terms of discrimination cases based on retaliation, the City law is more liberal than the federal law. Under the federal law, retaliation must involve some kind of materially adverse change in the terms and conditions of employment, while under the City law, retaliation can involve any act which would be reasonably likely to deter a person from engaging in protected activity (e.g., changing the location of plaintiff's locker or warning her about allegedly excessive use of sick days might not qualify as retaliation under the federal law but might qualify under the City law). Selmanovic v. NYSE Group, 2007 U.S. Dist. Lexis 94963 (S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 131. An employee who brings a retaliatory discharge case under Labor Law Sec. 740 has elected his remedy and will not be able to maintain a claim under Admin. Code § 8-107. Moreover, the plaintiff failed to state a cause of action for failure to promote in violation of the Admin. Code of the City of NY § 8-107. The standards for establishing unlawful discrimination under the relevant law are the same as those governing title VII. Plaintiff failed to state a cause of action for failure to promote because he did not specify any specific instance where appellants refused to promote him to a position for which he applied, and for which he was qualified. Thus, the court granted summary judgment to defendant in a case alleging national origin discrimination. Deshpande v. TJH Medical Services, 52 AD3d 648, 861 N.Y.S.2d 697 (2d Dept. 2008), leave to appeal denied, 12 N.Y.3d 304, 879 N.Y.S.2d 50 (2008).

¶ 132. See Matter of Rizzuti v. Hazel Towers Co., LP 2008 NY Misc. Lexis 2176, 239 NYLJ 63 (Sup. Ct. NY County), discussed in § 8-101 and in § 8-107, note 15.

¶ 133. In 2005, the City Council enacted the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 2005, Admin. Code §8-130, which amended the New York City Human Rights Law to state the law shall be construed liberally for the accomplishment of its unique broad and remedial purposes, regardless of whether state and federal civil rights law has been so construed. Thus, in some cases, causes of action brought under the NYCHRL will be sustained even though causes of action brought under the similarly worded provisions of the state and federal civil rights laws have been dismissed. For example, conduct that is not severe enough to constitute a hostile work environment under federal law might suffice under the NYCHRL. Williams v. City of New York, reported under note 135, is the first appellate application of the law. Thus, although NYCHRL cases filed before the effective date of the statute (October 3, 2005) are still subject to the more stringent standards of the New York State Human Rights Law (Executive Law) and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

¶ 134. Admin. Code §8-107[5][a][1]-[2], also known as Local Law 10, amended the Code to provide that an owner could not refuse to lease a property because of a lawful source of income of the prospective lessee, and may not discriminate against any person by reason of such lawful source of income. The term "lawful source of income" includes Section 8 vouchers. See Admin. Code. §8-102(25). One landlord contended that the law applied only to prospective tenants or to tenants whose landlord had previously agreed to accept Section 8 benefits, but the court disagreed and held that a landlord could not discriminate against either an existing or prospective tenant who was using Section 8 benefits. Moreover, the J-51 tax abatement program (Admin. Code §11-243) provides that landlords who are accepting J-51 benefits cannot discriminate against tenants who are eligible for Section 8. The practical effect of Local Law 10 is that the landlord must accept Section 8 tenants, whether or not it is accepting J-51 benefits. The only class of tenants who are not protected by Local Law 10 are those in buildings with five or fewer units. Thus, with the limited exception described above, all New York City tenants eligible for Section 8 are protected from discrimination, even though the federal Section 8 law, 42 USC Sec. 1437[t][l][A], would no longer require landlords to accept all Section 8

¶ 135. The Second Department has held that landlords violated Sec. 11-243 by refusing to accept a Section 8 voucher. The court did not require the tenants to demonstrate that they could not otherwise afford to rent the apartment, even though they had already been residing there for many years. Since Local Law 10 contains substantially similar language to the J-51 law (11-243), the result is the same under either law. Any other result would be inconsistent with Local Law 10, whose purpose is to prevent discrimination based on any "lawful source of income." Kosoglyadov v. 3130 Brighton Seventh, LLC, 54 A.D.3d 822, 863 N.Y.S.2d 777 (2d Dept. 2008).

¶ 136. The Civil Rights Restoration Act of 2005, effective Oct. 3, 2005, makes a significant change in substantive rights governing New York City cases. The law provides that the New York City Human Rights Law (NYCHRL) should be liberally construed, even though state and federal civil rights statutes containing similar language have been more strictly construed. The new law was analyzed in Williams v. City of New York, 61 A.D.3d 62, 872 N.Y.S.2d 27 (1st Dept. 2009). Under the old law, the substantive standards were no more liberal than those under state law or Title VII. Under the new law, however, state and federal law constitute a floor, not a ceiling, in terms of rights. In other words, the NYCHRL standard cannot be less than that of the state and federal law but can be greater than that provided by state or federal law.

Williams, who commenced this action in 2001, alleged that she was sexually harassed in 1997. She was employed as a heating plant technician and was responsible for maintaining the heating system of an NYCHA housing project. Allegedly, plaintiff's supervisor told her, after she requested facilities to take a shower, "You can take a shower at my house." Plaintiff alleged a second incident occurring in 1998, where sex-based remarks were made in her presence, although not directed to her. Plaintiff interpreted some of those remarks as being complimentary to a co-worker but disparaging to the supervisor's own wife. Plaintiff further alleged that the NYCHA retaliated against her for making complaints about discrimination; it assigned her work outside of her regular duties. She was required to strip and wax the boiler room office floor, a task that took two workdays. She also alleged that she was required to perform work in the field and to respond to tenant complaints, work she claimed was customarily given to utility staff. Despite all the adverse events that she complained about, in 2004 she was promoted to Assistant Superintendent.

Under the amended version of §8-107, an act of retaliation need not result in a materially adverse change in employment, but must have been likely to deter a person from engaging in protective activity. The conduct complained of need not be "severe" or "pervasive," but the plaintiff must show that she was treated less well than other employees. The court held that Williams' claim of retaliation was not viable. The tasks in question (stripping floor, handling tenant complaints) were only briefly assigned to her, and were also sometimes assigned on an "out of title" basis to employees who had not complained about discrimination. A petty slight or trivial inconvenience will not give rise to a claim of retaliation, even under the new law.

¶ 137. Quite a few discrimination cases brought under federal law also include, by way of pendent jurisdiction, causes of action brought under the New York City Human Rights Law (NYCHRL). Federal courts sometimes previously glossed over claims brought under the NYCHRL, assuming that those claims were governed by substantially the same standards as those brought under federal law. However, the Williams case, decided by the New York courts (see note 135) has made it clear that causes of action under the NYCHRL have a more liberal standard than those under state and federal law. In Dixon v. City of New York, 2009 U.S. Dist. Lexis 35096. 2009 WL 1117478 (U.S. Dist. Ct., E.D.N.Y.), which was decided after Williams, the court had to consider a hostile work environment claim. It held that, although a hostile work environment must involve more than "petty slights or trivial inconveniences," the conduct in question need not reach the "severe" or "pervasive" level that would have to exist in a federal Title VII case.

¶ 138. Where an employer promptly addresses an employee's complaints of hostile environment sexual harassment, the employee does not have a viable complaint for sexual harassment. In this case, the employee's supervisor was charged with making offensive remarks and touching her thigh and buttocks. The employer properly responded, the court said, by suspending the supervisor for 20 days and barring the supervisor from having any supervisory contact with the employee for a period of one year. The court noted that the case was filed in 2004, before the effective date of the Restoration Act (§8-130) and thus was governed by the more stringent Title VII liability standard. Barnum v. New York City Transit Authority, 878 N.Y.S.2d 454 (2d Dept. 2009).

¶ 139. The NYCHRL is limited to reach discriminatory actions performed in the City of New York. However, in one age discrimination case, where an employee of a New York company was based in Atlanta, and where the employee was on a business trip in West Virginia when he received a call from a New York executive of the company, terminating his services, the New York courts had jurisdiction over the NYCHRL claim. Hoffman v. Parade Publications, ____ AD3d ____ , 878 N.Y.S.2d 320 (1st Dept. 2009).

Administrative Code of the City of New York

Title 8 Civil Rights

CHAPTER 1 COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS*20

§ 8-107.1 Victims of Domestic Violence, Sex offenses or Stalking.

1. Definitions. Whenever used in this chapter the following terms shall have the following meanings:

a. "Acts or threats of violence" shall include, but not be limited to, acts, which would constitute violations of the penal law.

b. "Victim of domestic violence" shall mean a person who has been subjected to acts or threats of violence, not including acts of self-defense, committed by a current or former spouse of the victim, by a person with whom the victim shares a child in common, by a person who is cohabiting with or has cohabited with the victim, by a person who is or has been in a continuing social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the victim, or a person who is or has continually or at regular intervals lived in the same household as the victim.

c. "Victim of sex offenses or stalking" shall mean a victim of acts which would constitute violations of article 130 of the penal law, or a victim of acts which would constitute violations of sections 120.45, 120.50, 120.55, or 120.60 of the penal law.

d. Practices "based on," "because of," "on account of," "as to," "on the basis of," or "motivated by" an individual's "status as a victim of domestic violence," or "status as a victim of sex offenses or stalking" include, but are not limited to, those based solely upon the actions of a person who has perpetrated acts or threats of violence against the individual.

2. Unlawful discriminatory practices. It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for an employer, or an agent thereof, to refuse to hire or employ or to bar or to discharge from employment, or to discriminate against an individual in compensation or other terms, conditions, or privileges of employment because of the actual or perceived status of said individual as a victim of domestic violence, or as a victim of sex offenses or stalking.

3. Applicability; actual or perceived victims of domestic violence, sex offenses or stalking.

(a) Requirement to make reasonable accommodation to the needs of victims of domestic violence, sex offenses or stalking. Except as provided in paragraph (c), any person prohibited by this section 8-107.1 from discriminating on the basis of actual or perceived status as a victim of domestic violence or a victim of sex offenses or stalking shall make reasonable accommodation to enable a person who is a victim of domestic violence, or a victim of sex offenses or stalking to satisfy the essential requisites of a job provided that the status as a victim of domestic violence or a victim of sex offenses or stalking is known or should have been known by the covered entity.

(b) Documentation of status. Any person required by paragraph (a) to make reasonable accommodation may require a person requesting reasonable accommodation pursuant to paragraph (a) to provide certification that the person is a victim of domestic violence, sex offenses or stalking. The person requesting reasonable accommodation pursuant to paragraph (a) shall provide a copy of such certification to the covered entity within a reasonable period after the request is made. A person may satisfy the certification requirement of this paragraph by providing documentation from an employee, agent, or volunteer of a victim services organization, an attorney, a member of the clergy, or a medical or other professional service provider, from whom the individual seeking a reasonable accommodation or that individual's family or household member has sought assistance in addressing domestic violence, sex offenses or stalking and the effects of the violence or stalking; a police or court record; or other corroborating evidence. All information provided to the covered entity pursuant to this paragraph, including a statement of the person requesting a reasonable accommodation or any other documentation, record, or corroborating evidence, and the fact that the individual has requested or obtained a reasonable accommodation pursuant to this section, shall be retained in the strictest confidence by the covered entity, except to the extent that disclosure is requested or consented to in writing by the person requesting the reasonable accommodation; or otherwise required by applicable federal, state or local law.

(c) Affirmative defense in domestic violence, sex offenses or stalking cases. In any case where the need for reasonable accommodation is placed in issue, it shall be an affirmative defense that the person aggrieved by the alleged discriminatory practice could not, with reasonable accommodation, satisfy the essential requisites of the job or enjoy the right or rights in question.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Section amended L.L. 75/2003 § 4, eff. Dec. 22, 2003.

Section added L.L. 1/2001 § 2, effective Jan. 5, 2001. [See Note]

Provisions of L.L. 1/2001 § 1:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The City Council finds and declares that domestic violence is a widely recognized problem in New York City. Indeed, New York City Police Department statistics indicate that although the overall crime rate has decreased in recent years incidents of domestic violence have increased. However, little attention has been paid to the impact of domestic violence on the work lives of victims and on the City economy as a whole. In recent years, a growing body of evidence has documented the devastating impact of domestic violence on the ability of victims-over 90% of whom are women-to participate fully in the economy. Yet a victim's capacity to escape an abusive relationship is dependent in large part on economic factors such as finding and keeping a job and gaining economic security and independence. One study found that over one half of women surveyed who were victims of domestic violence stayed with their abusers because they lacked alternative resources with which to support themselves and their children. Other studies have determined that between twenty-four and fifty-two percent of battered women surveyed had lost their jobs at least in part due to domestic violence, which included harassment by the batterers both on and off the job.

Employers are also affected by domestic violence. It has been estimated that absenteeism caused by domestic violence costs the nation's employers between three and five billion dollars annually. In a survey conducted by Roper Starch Worldwide for the Women's Work Program at Liz Claiborne Inc., forty percent of the senior executives at Fortune 1000 companies surveyed reported that domestic violence had a harmful effect on their company's productivity, and sixty-six percent believed that their company's financial performance would benefit by addressing the issue. In response several corporations have established policies and programs to assist employees struggling with domestic violence and the State of New York has enacted legislation that established an executive office to develop model domestic violence policies for counties, state agencies and private employers as well as an advisory council to develop strategies for domestic violence prevention (N.Y. Exec Law § 575). Further, the State of Maine has enacted legislation requiring employers to provide unpaid leaves of absence to victims of domestic violence, and similar legislation has been enacted in the City of Miami and is pending in the State of Pennsylvania.

Because they are embarrassed or because they fear losing their jobs, victims are often reticent about informing their employers about incidents of domestic violence or about requesting simple accommodations that might assist them in fulfilling their job duties. A growing body of anecdotal evidence suggests that the fear of negative employment actions such as demotion, suspension, loss of pay and/or benefits or termination against employees who have revealed that they are victims of domestic violence is not unwarranted. For example victims of domestic violence have been terminated or demoted after requesting simple protective measures such as time off or flexible hours to confer with an attorney or a domestic violence counselor, obtain an order of protection or obtain medical or other services for themselves or family members.

The City Council finds that it is in the best interests of the City of New York to protect the economic viability of victims of domestic violence and to support their efforts to gain independence from their abusers. Victims of domestic violence who are receiving medical treatment or therapy for the physical and/or psychological effects of domestic violence may be covered under the disability provisions of sections 8-102(16) and 8-107 of the Human Rights Law. However, not all victims of domestic violence need or obtain such treatment and would therefore not be considered disabled. Further, many victims of domestic violence do not consider themselves disabled.

Accordingly, the Council further finds that in order to enable victims of domestic violence to speak with their employers without fear of reprisal, about a domestic violence incident or about possible steps that will enhance their ability to perform their job without causing undue hardship to the employer, the Human Rights Law should be amended to provide employment discrimination protection for New Yorkers who are actual or perceived victims of domestic violence.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. An employee of the New York City Department of Corrections was on sick leave. The sick leave policy required that (with certain exceptions) she stay at the residence address on file with the Department. When the Department sought to ascertain her whereabouts, she was not at the address she had given to the Department. Instead, she was at a shelter for victims of domestic violence, where she had gone (along with her children) after her boyfriend abused her. The court held that, under the circumstances, the termination of the employee by reason of the alleged abuse of sick leave policy violated the statutory prohibition on discrimination against victims of domestic violence. CHAPTER 1 COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS*20

(a) Any person aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice or an act of discrimatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title may, by himself or herself or such person's attorney, make, sign and file with the commission a verified complaint in writing which shall: (i) state the name of the person alleged to have committed the unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence complained of, and the address of such person if known; (ii) set forth the particulars of the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence; and (iii) contain such other information as may be required by the commission. The commission shall acknowledge the filing of the complaint and advise the complainant of the time limits set forth in this chapter.

(b) Any employer whose employee or agent refuses or threatens to refuse to cooperate with the provisions of this chapter may file with the commission a verified complaint asking for assistance by conciliation or other remedial action.

(c) Commission-initiated complaints. The commission may itself make, sign and file a verified complaint alleging that a person has committed an unlawful discriminatory practice or an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title.

(d) The commission shall serve a copy of the complaint upon the respondent and all persons it deems to be necessary parties and shall advise the respondent of his or her procedural rights and obligations as set forth herein.

(e) The commission shall not have jurisdiction over any complaint that has been filed more than one year after the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title occurred.

(f) The commission shall not have jurisdiction to entertain a complaint if:

(i) the complainant has previously initiated a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction alleging an unlawful discriminatory practice as defined by this chapter or an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title with respect to the same grievance which is the subject of the complaint under this chapter, unless such civil action has been dismissed without prejudice or withdrawn without prejudice; or

(ii) the complainant has previously filed and has an action or proceeding before any administrative agency under any other law of the state alleging an unlawful discriminatory practice as defined by this chapter or an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title with respect to the same grievance which is the subject of the complaint under this chapter; or

(iii) the complainant has previously filed a complaint with the state division of human rights alleging an unlawful discriminatory practice as defined by this chapter or an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title with respect to the same grievance with is the subject of the complaint under this chapter and a final determination has been made thereon.

(g) In relation to complaints filed on or after September first, nineteen hundred ninety one, the commission shall commence proceedings with respect to the complaint, complete a thorough investigation of the allegations of the complaint and make a final disposition of the complaint promptly and within the time periods to be prescribed by rule of the commission. If the commission is unable to comply with the time periods specified for completing its investigation and for final disposition of the complaint, it shall notify the complainant, respondent, and any necessary party in writing of the reasons for not doing so.

(h) Any complaint filed pursuant to this section may be amended pursuant to procedures prescribed by rule of the commission by filing such amended complaint with the commission and serving a copy thereof upon all parties to the proceeding.

(i) Whenever a complaint is filed pursuant to paragraph (d) of subdivision five of section 8-107 of this chapter, no member of the commission nor any member of the commission staff shall make public in any manner whatsoever the name of any borrower or identify by a specific description the collateral for any loan to such borrower except when ordered to do so by a court of competent jurisdiction or where express permission has been first obtained in writing from the lender and the borrower to such publication; provided, however, that the name of any borrower and a specific description of the collateral for any loan to such borrower may, if otherwise relevant, be introduced in evidence in any hearing before the commission or any review by a court of competent jurisdiction of any order or decision by the commission.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. City Commission after a hearing on the merits was granted temporary injunction enjoining landlord from renting apartment until after final determination by Commission of a charge of discrimination.-Matter of City Comm. on Human Rights v. Wurman, 52 Misc. 2d 1095, 277 N.Y.S. 2d 310 [1967].

¶ 2. While Commission on Human Rights on an order to show cause supported by an affidavit may be granted a temporary injunction to restrain landlord from renting apartment until Commission determines whether landlord is discriminating against Negroes even though no action has been commenced, temporary injunction will not be issued where affidavit is based on hearsay.-Matter of City Comm. on Human Rights v. Regal Gardens, Inc., 53 Misc. 2d 318, 278 N.Y.S. 2d 739 [1967].

¶ 3. Section should not be interpreted so as to grant payment of compensatory damages to the person aggrieved for humiliation and mental anguish without also granting landlord compensatory damages for losses occasioned by delayed action of the Commission in event that order is entered in favor of landlord. Intent of Legislature was to permit an award of damages only to the extent of actual money loss occasioned by complainant and not for other subjective injuries.-Matter of Weynberg v. Commission on Human Rights, 56 Misc. 2d 1, 287 N.Y.S. 2d 1002 [1968].

¶ 4. Where petitioners engaged in unlawful discriminatory practices in that their agent revoked permission for tenants to sublease when tenants wanted to sublease to an interracial couple Commission had power to award couple $500 compensatory damages for humiliation, outrage and mental anguish and to release the tenants from the obligations of the lease.-Herman v. Booth, 158 (121) N.Y.L.J. (12-26-67) 13, Col. 5 F.

¶ 5. Where defendant engaged in discriminatory practice in refusing to sell a house to complainants he would be compelled to offer house at price of $38,490 which was price at which it was originally advertised in 1964. Although house may have appreciated in value defendant cannot be permitted to take advantage of his wrong in refusing to sell at that time. An allowance of $2,500, however, would be made for repairs in putting the house into as close to its original condition as possible.-City of New York v. Vitucci, 158 (69) N.Y.L.J. (10-6-67) 13, Col. 5 T.

¶ 6. Where complainant contracted with an estate to purchase an apartment subject to approval of the corporate owner and approval was refused and complainant alleged that such disapproval was because he was Jewish an injunction was granted restraining respondents from conveying the apartment to any one other than complainant pending the hearing with leave to have the injunction vacated if the Commission failed to render a decision by a certain date with potential liability of the estate fixed at $10,000 if discrimination charges were found to be without merit where there was an initial finding of Commission that a further hearing was justified.-City Comm. on Human Rights v. 6 East 72 St. Corp., 165 (124) N.Y.L.J. (6-29-71) Col. 3 F.

¶ 7. Commission can issue investigatory subpoenas in connection with the filing of a complaint charging petitioner with discrimination in recruiting, hiring and promoting minority group persons provided the Commission is reasonably satisfied that there is a basis for the charge asserted and that the complaint sets forth particulars sufficient to furnish the employer with adequate notice of the alleged discriminatory practices.-Liberty Mut. Insur. Co. v. City of New York Commission on Human Rights, 31 N.Y. 2d 1044, 294 N.E. 2d 855, 342 N.Y.S. 2d 70 [1973].

¶ 9. Where complainant employee, a black woman, had been discharged for a low production rate, subpoena which sought to have employer produce personnel file of another employee, a white woman, would be quashed where other employee's file was not shown to be relevant to complainant's allegations of discrimination.-Matter of McIntosh (Group Health, Inc.), 178 (74) N.Y.L.J. (10-17-77) 12 Col. 6 B.

¶ 10. Employee who was a registered representative of a member of the New York Stock Exchange and who filed a complaint with the New York City Commission on Human Rights claiming discrimination because of sex could not be compelled to arbitrate the dispute under the terms of Stock Exchange Form U4 which was executed by both parties when employee began her employment and which provides for arbitration of any controversy arising out of employment since enforcement of the policy objectives of Title B, ch. 1 are the province of the courts.-Wertheim v. Halpert, 65 App. Div. 2d 726 [1978].

¶ 2. A seven year delay in processing a discrimination complaint did not prejudice petitioner or mandate dismissal of complaint. The statute at the time, former Ad Cd §B1-8.0(2) now §8-109, provided that "after the filing of any complaint, the commission shall make prompt investigation in connection therewith." Such language is directory only and delay in the agency's compliance does not dismiss the case.-Harris & Assoc. v. DeLeon, 199 AD2d 78 aff'd 84 NY2d 698 [1994].

a. Within thirty days after a copy of the complaint is served upon the respondent by the commission, the respondent shall file a written, verified answer thereto with the commission, and the commission shall cause a copy of such answer to be served upon the complainant and any necessary party.

b. The respondent shall specifically admit, deny, or explain each of the facts alleged in the complaint, unless the respondent is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief, in which case the respondent shall so state, and such statement shall operate as a denial.

c. Any allegation in the complaint not specifically denied or explained shall be deemed admitted and shall be so found by the commission unless good cause to the contrary is shown.

d. All affirmative defenses shall be stated separately in the answer.

e. Upon request of the respondent and for good cause shown, the period within which an answer is required to be filed may be extended in accordance with the rules of the commission.

f. Any necessary party may file with the commission a written, verified answer to the complaint, and the commission shall cause a copy of such answer to be served upon the complainant, respondent and any other necessary party.

g. Any answer filed pursuant to this section may be amended pursuant to procedures prescribed by rule of the commission by filing such amended answer with the commission and serving a copy thereof upon the complainant and any necessary party to the proceeding.

a. A complaint filed pursuant to section 8-109 of this chapter may be withdrawn by the complainant in accordance with rules of the commission at any time prior to the service of a notice that the complaint has been referred to an administrative law judge. Such a withdrawal shall be in writing and signed by the complainant.

b. A complaint may be withdrawn after the service of such notice at the discretion of the commission.

c. Unless such complaint is withdrawn pursuant to a conciliation agreement, the withdrawal of a complaint shall be without prejudice:

(i) to the continued prosecution of the complaint by the commission in accordance with rules of the commission;

(ii) to the initiation of a complaint by the commission based in whole or in part upon the same facts; or

(iii) to the commencement of a civil action by the corporation counsel based upon the same facts pursuant to chapter four of this title.

§ 8-113 Dismissal of complaint.

a. The commission may, in its discretion, dismiss a complaint for administrative convenience at any time prior to the taking of testimony at a hearing. Administrative convenience shall include, but not be limited to, the following circumstances:

(1) commission personnel have been unable to locate the complainant after diligent efforts to do so;

(2) the complainant has repeatedly failed to appear at mutually agreed upon appointments with commission personnel or is unwilling to meet with commission personnel, provide requested documentation, or to attend a hearing;

(3) the complainant has repeatedly engaged in conduct which is disruptive to the orderly functioning of the commission;

(4) the complainant is unwilling to accept a reasonable proposed conciliation agreement;

(5) prosecution of the complaint will not serve the public interest; and

(6) the complainant requests such dismissal, one hundred eighty days have elapsed since the filing of the complaint with the commission finds (a) that the complaint has not been actively investigated, and (b) that the respondent will not be unduly prejudiced thereby.

b. The commission shall dismiss a complaint for administrative convenience at any time prior to the filing of an answer by the respondent, if the complainant requests such dismnissal, unless the commission has conducted an investigation of the complaint or has engaged the parties in conciliation after the filing of the complaint.

c. In accordance with the rules of the commission, the commission shall dismiss a complaint if the complaint is not within the jurisdiction of the commission.

d. If after investigation the commission determines that probable cause does not exist to believe that the respondent has engaged or is engaging in an unlawful discriminatory practice or an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title, the commission shall dismiss the complaint as to such respondent.

e. The commission shall promptly serve notice upon the complainant, respondent and any necessary party of any dismissal pursuant to this section.

f. The complainant or respondent may, within thirty days of such service, and in accordance with the rules of the commission, apply to the chairperson for review of any dismissal pursuant to this section. Upon such application, the chairperson shall review such action and issue an order affirming, reversing or modifying such determination or remanding the matter for further investigation and action. A copy of such order shall be served upon the complainant, respondent and any necessary party.

a. The commission may at any time issue subpoenas requiring attendance and giving of testimony by witnesses and the production of books, papers, documents and other evidence relating to any matter under investigation or any question before the commission. The issuance of such subpoenas shall be governed by the civil practice law and rules.

b. Where the commission has initiated its own investigation or has conducted an investigation in connection with the filing of a complaint pursuant to this chapter, the commission may demand that any person or persons who are the subject of such investigation (i) preserve those records in the possession of such person or persons which are relevant to the determination of whether such person or persons have committed unlawful discriminatory practices with respect to activities in the city, and (ii) continue to make and keep the type of records made and kept by such person or persons in the ordinary course of business within the year preceding such demand which are relevant to the determination of whether such person or persons have committed unlawful discriminatory practices with respect to activities in the city. A demand made pursuant to this subdivision shall be effective immediately upon its service on the subject of an investigation and shall remain in effect until the termination of all proceedings relating to any complaint filed pursuant to this chapter or civil action commenced pursuant to chapter four of this title or if no complaint or civil action is filed or commenced shall expire two years after the date of such service. The commission's demand shall require that such records be made available for inspection by the commission and/or be filed with the commission.

c. Any person upon whom a demand has been made pursuant to subdivision b of this section may, pursuant to procedures established by rule of the commission, assert an objection to such demand. Unless the commission orders otherwise, the assertion of an objection shall not stay compliance with the demand. The commission shall make a determination on an objection to a demand within thirty days after such an objection is filed with the commission, unless the party filing the objection consents to an extension of time.

d. Upon the expiration of the time set pursuant to such rules for making an objection to such demand, or upon a determination that an objection to the demand shall not be sustained, the commission shall order compliance with the demand.

e. Upon a determination that an objection to a demand shall be sustained, the commission shall order that the demand be vacated or modified.

f. A proceeding may be brought on behalf of the commission in any court of competent jurisdiction seeking an order to compel compliance with an order issued pursuant to subdivision d of this section.

a. If in the judgment of the commission circumstances so warrant, it may at any time after the filing of a complaint endeavor to resolve the complaint by any method of dispute resolution prescribed by rule of the commission including, but not limited to, mediation and conciliation.

b. The terms of any conciliation agreement may contain such provisions as may be agreed upon by the commission, the complaint and the respondent, including a provision for the entry in court of a consent decree embodying the terms of the conciliation agreement.

c. The members of the commission and its staff shall not publicly disclose what transpired in the course of mediation and conciliation efforts.

d. If a conciliation agreement is entered into, the commission shall embody such agreement in an order and serve a copy of such order upon all parties to the conciliation agreement. Violation of such an order may cause the imposition of civil penalties under section 8-124 of this chapter. Every conciliation agreement shall be made public unless the complainant and respondent agree otherwise and the commission determines that disclosure is not required to further the purposes of this chapter.

¶ 1. A man filed a discrimination claim with the New York City Human Rights Commission, alleging that an employer failed to hire him because he was gay and suspected of being infected with the HIV virus. When claimant entered into a conciliation agreement, the City revealed the details of the agreement to the public. He then sued the City, contending that the City's action violated his right to privacy (42 U.S.C. § 1983). The court held that plaintiff had a constitutional right to privacy regarding his condition as HIV positive, and that the filing of the claim did not give rise to a per se waiver of the right of privacy. The court remanded the case, for a determination, among other things, as to whether the City's interest in disseminating information outweighed the claimant's need for privacy.-Doe v. § 8-119 Hearing.

a. A hearing on the complaint shall be held before an administrative law judge designated by the commission. The place of any such hearing shall be the office of the commission or such other place as may be designated by the commission. Notice of the date, time and place of such hearing shall be served upon the complainant, respondent and any necessary party.

b. The case in support of the complaint shall be presented before the commission by the commission's prosecutorial bureau. The complainant may present additional testimony and cross-examine witnesses, in person or by counsel, if the complainant shall have intervened pursuant to rules established by the commission.

c. The administrative law judge may, in his or her discretion, permit any person who has a substantial interest in the complaint to intervene as a party and may require the joinder of necessary parties.

d. Evidence relating to endeavors at mediation or conciliation by, between or among the commission, the complainant and the respondent shall not be admissible.

e. If the respondent has failed to answer the complaint within the time period prescribed in section 8-111 of this chapter, the administrative law judge may enter a default and the hearing shall proceed to determine the evidence in support of the complaint. Upon application, the administrative law judge may, for good cause shown, open a default in answering, upon equitable terms and conditions, including the taking of an oral answer.

f. Except as otherwise provided in section 8-118 of this chapter, the commission by its prosecutorial bureau, a respondent who has filed an answer or whose default in answering has been set aside for good cause shown, a necessary party, and a complainant or other person who has intervened pursuant to the rules of the commission, may appear at such hearing in person or otherwise, with or without counsel, cross-examine witnesses, present testimony and offer evidence.

g. The commission shall not be bound by the strict rules of evidence prevailing in courts of the state of New York. The testimony taken at the hearing shall be under oath and shall be transcribed.

§ 8-120 Decision and order.

a. If, upon all the evidence at the hearing, and upon the findings of fact, conclusions of law and relief recommended by an administrative law judge, the commission shall find that a respondent has engaged in any unlawful discriminatory practice or any act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title, the commission shall state its findings of fact and conclusions of law and shall issue and cause to be served on such respondent an order requiring such respondent to cease and desist from such unlawful discriminatory practice or acts of discriminatory harassment or violence. Such order shall require the respondent to take such affirmative action as, in the judgment of the commission, will effectuate the purposes of this chapter including, but not limited to:

(1) hiring, reinstatement or upgrading of employees;

(2) the award of back pay and front pay;

(3) admission to membership in any respondent labor organization;

(4) admission to or participation in a program, apprentice training program, on-the-job training program or other occupational training or retraining program;

(5) the extension of full, equal and unsegregated accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges;

(6) evaluating applications for membership in a club that is not distinctly private without discrimination based on race, creed, color, age, national origin, disability, marital status, partnership status, gender, sexual orientation or alienage or citizenship status;

(7) selling, renting or leasing, or approving the sale, rental or lease of housing accommodations, land or commercial space or an interest therein, or the provision of credit with respect thereto, without unlawful discrimination;

(8) payment of compensatory damages to the person aggrieved by such practice or act; and

(9) submission of reports with respect to the manner of compliance.

(7) selling, renting or leasing, or approving the sale, rental or lease of housing accommodations, land or commercial space or an interest therein, or the provision of credit with respect thereto, without unlawful discrimination;

(8) payment of compensatory damages to the person aggrieved by such practice or act; and

(9) submission of reports with respect to the manner of com- pliance.

b. If, upon all the evidence at the hearing, and upon the findings of fact and conclusions of law recommended by the administrative law judge, the commission shall find that a respondent has not engaged in any such unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title, the commission shall state its findings of fact and conclusions of law and shall issue and cause to be served on the complainant, respondent, and any necessary party and on any complainant who has not intervened an order dismissing the complaint as to such respondent.

¶ 1. The New York City Human Rights Commission is given broad remedial powers to take actions against discrimination and may order the "hiring, reinstatement or upgrading of employees" and the "award of back pay", Administrative Code §8-120(a)(1), (2). The retroactive se- niority ordered here is unquestionably a proper remedy for past discrimination.-Matter of Beame v. DeLeon, 209 AD2d 252 modified, 87 NY2d 289 [1996].

¶ 2. City Human Rights Commission can award retroactive seniority as a remedy for discrimination.-Beame v. DeLeon, 87 N.Y.2d 289, 639 N.Y.S.2d 272 [1995].

§ 8-122 Injunction and temporary restraining order.

At any time after the filing of a complaint alleging an unlawful discriminatory practice under this chapter or an act of discriminatory harrassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title, if the commission has reason to believe that the respondent or other person acting in concert with respondent is doing or procuring to be done any act or acts, tending to render ineffectual relief that could be ordered by the commission after a hearing as provided by section 8-120 of this chapter, a special proceeding may be commenced in accordance with article sixty-three of the civil practice law and rules on behalf of the commission in the supreme court for an order to show cause why the respondent and such other persons who are believed to be acting in concert with respondent should not be enjoined from doing or procuring to be done such acts. The special proceeding may be commenced in any county within the city of New York where the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence was committed, or where the commission maintains its principal office for the transaction of business, or where any respondent resides or maintains an office for the transaction of business, or where any person aggrieved by the unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence resides, or, if the complaint alleges an unlawful discriminatory practice under paragraphs (a), (b) or (c) of subdivision five of section 8-107 of this chapter, where the housing accommodation, land or commercial space specified in the complaint is located. The order to show cause may contain a temporary restraining order and shall be served in the manner provided therein. On the return date of the order to show cause, and after affording the commission, the person aggrieved and the respondent and any person alleged to be acting in concert with the respondent an opportunity to be heard, the court may grant appropriate injunctive relief upon such terms and conditions as the court deems proper.

a. Any complainant, respondent or other person aggrieved by a final order of the commission issued pursuant to section 8-120 or section 8-126 of this chapter or an order of the chairperson issued pursuant to subdivision f of section 8-113 of this chapter affirming the dismissal of a complaint may obtain judicial review thereof in a proceeding as provided in this section.

b. Such proceeding shall be brought in the supreme court of the state within any county within the city of New York wherein the unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title which is the subject of the commission's order occurs or wherein any person required in the order to cease and desist from an unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence or to take other affirmative action resides or transacts business.

c. Such proceeding shall be initiated by the filing of a petition in such court, together with a written transcript of the record upon the hearing, before the commission, and the issuance and service of a notice of motion returnable before such court. Thereupon the court shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding and of the questions determined therein, and shall have power to grant such relief as it deems just and proper, and to make and enter upon the pleadings, testimony, and proceedings set forth in such transcript an order annulling, confirming or modifying the order of the commission in whole or in part. No objection that has not been urged before the commission shall be considered by the court, unless the failure or neglect to urge such objection shall be excused because of extraordinary circumstances.

d. Any part may move the court to remit the case to the commission in the interests of justice for the purpose of adducing additional specified and materials evidenced and seeking findings thereon, provided such party shows reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce such evidence before the commission.

e. The findings of the commission as to the facts shall be conclusive if supported by substantial evidence on the record considered as a whole.

f. All such proceedings shall be heard and determined by the court and by any appellate court as expeditiously as possible and with lawful precedence over other matters. The jurisdiction of the supreme court shall be exclusive and its judgment and order shall be final, subject to review by the appellate division of the supreme court and the court of appeals in the same manner and form and with the same effect as provided for appeals from a judgment in a special proceeding.

g. The commission's copy of the testimony shall be available at all reasonable times to all parties for examination without cost and for the purposes of judicial review of the order of the commission. The appeal shall be heard on the record without requirement of printing.

h. A proceeding under this section must be instituted within thirty days after the service of the order of the commission.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Determination of Commission on Human Rights that landlord had refused to rent her an apartment because she was a Negro was upheld as based upon sufficient evidence. Court found that the Commission had power to set aside a lease entered into by the landlord and another to obstruct and impede the Commission in the enforcement of its functions.-Feigenbaum v. Comm. on Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 360, 278 N.Y.S. 2d 652 [1967].

¶ 2. Where apartment was leased to an innocent party while proceeding charging discrimination was pending order of Commission directing landlord to lease apartment to claimant would not be enforced as "the order would be harsh and inequitable as to the present tenant." The court pointed out that the Commission has another remedy, namely, the power to impose compensatory damages to the person aggrieved remitted the matter to the Commission.-Commission on Human Rights v. City Builders, Inc., 53 Misc. 2d 1, 277 N.Y.S. 2d 434 [1967].

¶ 3. Finding of Commission that landlord had knowledge that applicant was a Negro and that landlord had illegally discriminated against him was not supported by sufficient evidence where finding was based on a telephone conversation in which the superintendent was told that applicant was employed by the River House.-Riverdale Associates v. Booth, 51 Misc. 2d 403, 273 N.Y.S. 2d 291 [1966].

¶ 4. Finding of discrimination was supported by sufficient evidence and claim of landlord that she was the victim of a "concerted scheme designed and carried out" by the members of a civil rights group was disposed of on ground that without resorting to such methods a charge of discrimination often could never be substantiated.-Matter of Wurman v. Commission on Human Rights, 53 Misc. 2d 979, 281 N.Y.S. 2d 198 [1967].

¶ 5. Charge by complainant that taxi driver with unblemished record of 38 years of employment by one employer had driven off when he observed a Negro woman standing with a white man did not warrant a finding of discrimination based on race where no words nor even a glance were exchanged between any of the parties other than the hailing of a cab by the white complainant and driver denied seeing either of complainants.-Lisa v. Booth, 157 (122) N.Y.L.J. (6-26-67) 15, Col. 4 M, aff'd 291 N.Y.S. 2d 1000 [1968].

¶ 6. Order directing landlord to notify complainant of first availability of apartment was too broad in that there was no limitation upon complainant's time to refuse offer and order was modified to give complainant five days after offer to exercise his right to rent.-Commission of Human Rights v. Hardenbrook Realty Corp., 57 Misc. 2d 430, 292 N.Y.S. 2d 775 [1968].

¶ 7. Order of New York Commission on Human Rights ordering landlord to offer complainant next available apartment comparable in size and rental to another stated apartment in building was too broad in that there was no limitation upon complainant's time to refuse the offer. Court ordered complainant to exercise his right of rental by certified mail within five days after an offer to rent had been sent by certified mail.-Hiltzik v. Booth, 159 (115) N.Y.L.J. (6-13-68) 18, Col. 1 F, modified on other grds., 31 App. Div. 2d 972, 299 N.Y.S. 2d 602 [1969].

¶ 8. Application for an injunction by City Commission on Human Rights restraining landlord pendente lite from renting apartment subject to controversy was denied where complainant was an unmarried unemployed minor who was not a recipient of public assistance and no adult offered to execute a lease on her behalf or guarantee payment of the rent as under these circumstances refusal to rent would appear to be a matter of business policy rather than of racial prejudice.-City Commission on Human Rights v. Sickles Corner Building Corp., 160 (123) N.Y.L.J. (12-26-68) 2, Col. 4 F.

¶ 9. Order of Commission on Human Rights requiring landlord to pay complaining tenant the sum of $420 as compensatory damages and to cease from discriminating because of race, color, creed or national origin in rental of housing accommodations was within statutory authority of Commission and not an abuse of discretion where Commission found after a hearing that the landlord refused to renew lease because tenants were Jewish.-In re Commission on Human Rights (Cartselos) 160 (12) N.Y.L.J. (7-17-68) 12, Col. 7 T.

¶ 10. This section which declares that in seeking judicial review of an order of the Commission on Human Rights a proceeding shall be brought in the supreme court provides an exclusive review procedure by a specified court and an Article 78 proceeding cannot be maintained.-Maloff v. City Commission on Human Rights, 45 AD2d 834, 357 N.Y.S. 2d 513 [1974].

¶ 11. City Commission on Human Rights had power to award damages against principal of school in his individual capacity in action for sex discrimination in employment.-Maloff v. City Commission on Human Rights, 46 N.Y. 2d 902 [1979].

¶ 12. On judicial review findings of the Commission as to facts are conclusive if supported by sufficient evidence on the record considered as a whole, sufficient evidence meaning substantial evidence.-Burlington Industries v. N.Y.C. Human Rights Commission, 82 App. Div. 2d 415, 441 N.Y.S. 2d 821 [1981].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A discrimination award to an HIV-positive tenant was upheld. The findings of the Commission are conclusive if supported by sufficient evidence as a whole. Sufficient evidence is such relevant proof as a reasonable mind may accept as adequate to support the conclusive. Essential attributes are relevance and a probative character. Such evidence is marked by its substance, its solid nature and ability to inspire confidence. Substantial evidence does not arise from bare surmise, conjecture, speculation or rumor.-Matter of 119-121 East 97th Street Corp. v. NYC Commission on Human Rights, 642 N.Y.S.2d 638 (App. Div. 1st Dept. 1996).

¶ 2. Where there is a CPLR Article 78 challenge to a determination made by the Commission, the standard of review is substantial evidence. It is less than a preponderance of evidence, and a practical test is found in measuring the evidence against the standard of sufficiency such as to require a court to submit it as a question of fact to a jury. The court should not seek contrary evidence, proceed to weigh the total evidence and then make its own factual findings.-Pace University v. Commission on Human Rights, 200 A.D.2d 173, 611 N.Y.S.2d 835 (1st Dept. 1994).

¶ 3. Although the Human Rights Commission may award damages for mental anguish suffered as the result of discrimination, the damages must be reasonably related to the wrongdoing of the employer. Thus, the court reduced a mental anguish award from $12,000 to $7,500, an amount which the court found to be comparable with awards for similar injuries.-School Board of Education of the Chapel of the Redeemer Lutheran Church v. New York City Human Rights Commission, 188 A.D.2d 653, 591 N.Y.S.2d 531 (2nd Dept. 1992).

¶ 4. This section creates a review procedure for challenges to decisions of the New York City Commission on Human Rights. Any application for judicial review of a final order of the Commission must be brought within 30 days after service of the order. United African Movement v. NYC Commission on Human Rights, N.Y.L.J., Mar. 9, 1999, page 27, col. 1 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 5. An Article 78 proceeding seeking review of a decision of the New York City Human Rights Commission will be heard by the Supreme Court, not by the Appellate Division. City Human Rights Commission v. Salinas Realty Corp., 183 Misc.2d 897, 705 N.Y.S.2d 885 (Sup.Ct. New York Co. 2000).

¶ 6. In one case, the Commission on Human Rights imposed a civil penalty of $10,000 on a restaurant which had compelled an African-American customer to pay for her food in advance while allowing Caucasian customers to receive food without paying for it in advance. The court reduced the penalty to $5,000, noting, among other things, that the restaurant had never before been cited for civil rights violations. Silver Dragon Restaurant v. City Commission on Human Rights, N.Y.L.J., Mar. 31, 2004, at 24, col. 3 (Sup.Ct. Kings Co).

¶ 7. Under the laws governing municipal home rule, Municipal Home Rule Law § 11(2), the City Council had the power to shorten to 30 days the period in which an aggrieved claimant can challenge a determination of "no cause" made by the City Human Rights Agency (the normal period for Article 78 proceedings is four months under CPLR 217). Okoumou v. Community Agency for Senior Citizens, 17 Misc.3d 827, 842 N.Y.S.2d 881 (Sup.Ct. Richmond Co. 2007).

a. Any action or proceeding that may be appropriate or necessary for the enforcement of any order issued by the commission pursuant to this chapter, including actions to secure permanent injunctions enjoining any acts or practices which constitute a violation of any such order, mandating compliance with the provisions of any such order, imposing penalties pursuant to section 8-124 of this chapter, or for such other relief as may be appropriate, may be initiated in any court of competent jurisdiction on behalf of the commission. In any such action or proceeding, application may be made for a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction, enforcing and restraining all persons from violating any provisions of any such order, or for such other relief as may be just and proper, until hearing and determination of such action or proceeding and the entry of final judgment or order thereon. The court to which such application is made may make any or all of the orders specified, as may be required in such application, with or without notice, and may make such other or further orders or directions as may be necessary to render the same effectual.

b. In any action or proceeding brought pursuant to subdivision a of this section, no person shall be entitled to contest the terms of the order sought to be enforced unless that person has timely commenced a proceeding for review of the order pursuant to section 8-123 of this chapter.

a. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision thirteen of section 8-107 of this chapter, in addition to any of the remedies and penalties set forth in subdivision a of section 8-120 of this chapter, where the commission finds that a person has engaged in an unlawful discriminatory practice, the commission may, to vindicate the public interest, impose a civil penalty of not more than one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. Where the commission finds that an unlawful discriminatory practice was the result of the respondent's willful, wanton or malicious act or where the commission finds that an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title has occurred, the commission may, to vindicate the public interest, impose a civil penalty of not more than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

b. A respondent that is found liable for an unlawful discriminatory practice or an act of discriminatory harassment or violence, as set forth in chapter six of this title, may, in relation to the determination of the appropriate amount of civil penalties to be imposed pursuant to subdivision a of this section, plead and prove any relevant mitigating factor.

c. In addition to any other penalties or sanctions which may be imposed pursuant to any other law, any person who knowingly makes a material false statement in any proceeding conducted, or document or record filed with the commission, or record required to be preserved or made and kept and subject to inspection by the commission pursuant to this chapter shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars.

CHAPTER 2 CERTAIN UNLAWFUL REAL ESTATE PRACTICES*21

§ 8-202 Definitions.

As used in this chapter:

1. "Chairperson" means the chairperson of the New York city commission on human rights.

2. "Commission" means the New York city commission on human rights.

3. "Dwelling or real property" means one, two, three or four family residences, and any vacant land which is offered for sale or lease for the construction or location thereon of any such residence.

4. "Legal notice" means publication daily for one week in a newspaper of general circulation within the city of New York and written notice to all real estate brokers in the area.

5. "Real estate broker" means a real estate broker as defined in article twelve-A of the real property law of the state of New York.

6. "Real estate dealer" means any firm, partnership, association, corporation or person which or who has within the preceding twelve months, sold, traded or exchanged two or more dwellings other than, in the case of a person, such person's own residence.

7. "Real estate office" means an office or other place of business which is primarily engaged in the business of selling, buying, leasing, or renting real property; listing real property for sale, purchase, lease or rental; or providing brokerage services in connection with such selling, buying, leasing, renting, or listing.

8. "Solicitation" means requesting, inviting, or inducing by any means, including, but not limited to:

(a) going in or upon the property of the person to be solicited, except when invited by such person;

(b) communicating with the person to be solicited by mail, telephone, telegraph or messenger service, except when requested by such person;

(c) canvassing in streets or other public places;

(d) distributing handbills, circulars, cards or other advertising matter;

(e) using loudspeakers, soundtrucks, or other voice-amplifying equipment;

(f) displaying signs, posters, billboards, or other advertising devices other than signs placed upon a real estate office for the purpose of identifying the occupants and services provided therein, provided, however, that the term "solicitation" shall not include advertising in newspapers of general circulation, magazines, radio, television, or telephone directories.

9. "Block, neighborhood or area" means any forty square blocks within the city of New York.

§ 8-203 Unlawful real estate practices.

1. It shall be unlawful for any real estate broker or dealer or any agent or employee of a real estate broker or dealer, except in honest reply to an unprompted question by a prospective buyer or seller:

(a) to represent, for the purpose of inducing or discouraging the purchase, sale, or rental, or the listing for purchase, sale, or rental, of any real property, that a change has occurred or will or may occur in the racial or religious composition of any block, neighborhood, or area.

(b) to represent, implicitly or explicitly, for the purpose of inducing or discouraging the purchase, sale, or rental or the listing for purchase, sale, or rental of any real property, that the presence of persons of any particular race, religion or ethnic background in an area will or may result in:

(1) a lowering of property values in the area;

(2) change in the racial, religious or ethnic composition of the area;

(3) an increase in criminal or anti-social behavior in the area; or

(4) a change in the racial, religious or ethnic composition of schools or other public facilities or services in the area.

2. It shall be unlawful for any real estate broker or dealer or any agent or employee of a real estate broker or dealer:

(a) to make any misrepresentation in connection with the purchase, sale, or rental of any real property, that there will or may be physical deterioration of dwellings in any block, neighborhood or area.

(b) to refer to race, color, religion or ethnic background in any advertisement offering or seeking real property for purchase, sale or rental.

3. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, partnership, association, or corporation, to knowingly aid, abet, or coerce the commission of any act made unlawful by subdivisions one and two of this section.

§ 8-204 Non-solicitation areas.

1. The commission may designate an area as a non-solicitation area for a period of up to one year upon making written findings based on substantial evidence introduced at a public hearing that:

(a) practices made unlawful by section 8-203 of this chapter, the inducement or encouragement by brokers or dealers of the use of fraudulent mortgage applications for the purchase of dwellings, or the direction based on race, creed, color or national origin by brokers or dealers of prospective purchasers or applicants to dwellings, or an unusually great incidence of solicitation are consistently occurring within the area, and that

(b) such practices are causing, or are likely to cause, residents within the area to believe that:

(1) property values in the area are declining, or about to decline rapidly; or

(2) the area is experiencing, or is about to experience:

(i) a declining level of maintenance of its housing stock; or

(ii) an increase in criminal behavior; or

(iii) a change in the racial, religious or ethnic composition of the schools in the area; or

(3) the area is experiencing, or is about to experience, a material change in its racial, religious or ethnic composition; and

(c) therefore, the temporary prohibition in the area of the real estate activities described in section 8-205 of this chapter is necessary to prevent a material change in the area's racial, religious or ethnic composition.

2. The commission may extend one or more times the designation of a non-solicitation area made pursuant to subdivision one of this section for a period of up to one year upon making written findings, based on substantial evidence introduced at a public hearing, that such extension is necessary to achieve the designation's purpose, as described in paragraph (c) of subdivision one of this section, provided, however, that no extension may be granted which, together with the original designation and all previous extensions, will maintain a non-solicitation area for a continuous period greater than two years. The public hearing on any extension shall be held not more than thirty days before the day on which the designation or earlier extension is scheduled to expire.

3. (a) The commission shall promptly announce by legal notice each designation made pursuant to subdivision one of this section and each extension made pursuant to subdivision two of this section, describing the area to which it applies by references to named streets and landmarks. Any designation shall take effect upon the completion of the publication required for legal notice. Any extension shall take effect at the time at which the designation or earlier extension would otherwise expire.

(b) The commission shall maintain, and make available to all interested persons, a current listing of designated non-solicitation areas.

4. The commission may, at any time, terminate the designation of a non-solicitation area made pursuant to subdivision one of this section or the extension of a designation made pursuant to subdivision two of this section upon making findings, based on substantial evidence introduced at a public hearing, that the continuation of the designation or its extension is no longer necessary to achieve the designation's purpose, as described in this section.

1. (a) Any owner of real property who is induced to sell his or her property through or to a real estate broker or real estate dealer by acts committed by such broker or dealer in violation of section 8-203 or section 8-205 of this chapter may institute a civil action against such broker or dealer.

(b) If, in an action instituted pursuant to this subdivision, judgment is rendered in favor of plaintiff, such plaintiff shall be awarded as damages

(i) the amount of any gains, whether in the form of profits, commission, or otherwise, realized by defendant as the result of the first subsequent arm's length sale, exchange, or transfer of the property, or, if defendant acted as a broker, the amount of any commissions received by defendant through the sale, exchange, or transfer of plaintiff's property, such gains in all cases to be calculated without regard to any expenses incurred by the defendant, and may in addition be awarded reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs; or

(ii) if the defendant has not realized any gains as defined in this subdivision, an amount equal to the difference between the price for which plaintiff sold his or her property and the fair market value at the time of the sale, or the fair market value of the property at the time the action is commenced, whichever difference is greater, and may in addition be awarded reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs.

2. (a) Any buyer, through or from a real estate broker or real estate dealer, of real property the last owner of which, excluding such broker or dealer, was induced to sell, exchange or transfer his or her property by acts committed by such broker or dealer in violation of section 8-203 or section 8-205 of this chapter may institute a civil action against such broker or dealer.

(b) If, in an action instituted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision, judgment is rendered in favor of plaintiff, the plaintiff shall be awarded as damages the amount of any gains, whether in the form of profits, commission, or otherwise, realized by defendant as the result of such plaintiff's purchase of the property, such gains in all cases to be calculated without regard to any expenses incurred by the defendant, and may in addition be awarded reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs.

3. With respect to the sale, exchange or transfer of any property, the liability of a broker or dealer created by subdivision two of this section shall be independent of and additional to the liability of such broker or dealer created by subdivision one of this section.

§ 8-301 Legislative declaration.

It is hereby found that the letter and spirit of the constitution of the United States are being violated in some jurisdictions under color of law with the result that persons from this city and state, as well as from other states, are being subjected to discriminatory treatment in the exercise of their constitutional rights because of race or because they seek the removal of unconstitutional barriers to equal rights.

Such persons, sometimes referred to as freedom riders and sit-ins, intent upon peaceful resistance to discrimination, segregation and the achievement of the constitutional rights of all persons in all jurisdictions of the United States, have suffered the stigma of criminal proceedings. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the city to remove or to neutralize by affording to such residents appropriate relief to the fullest extent possible, the effect upon residents of this city of such criminal proceedings, resulting from the attempted use of public transportation facilities and other places of public accommodation.

CHAPTER 4 CIVIL ACTION TO ELIMINATE UNLAWFUL DISCRIMINATORY PRACTICES

The council finds that certain forms of unlawful discrimination are systemic in nature rooted in the operating conditions or policies of a business or industry. The council finds that the existence of systemic discrimination poses a substantial threat to, and inflicts significant injury upon, the city that is economic, social and moral in character, and is distinct from the injury sustained by individuals as an incident of such discrimination. The council finds that the potential for systemic discrimination exists in all areas of public life and that employment, housing and public accommodations are among the areas in which the economic effects of systemic discrimination are exemplified. The existence of systemic discrimination impedes the optimal efficiency of the labor market by, among other things, causing decisions to employ, promote or discharge persons to be based upon reasons other than qualifications and competence. Such discrimination impedes the optimal efficiency of the housing market and retards private investments in certain neighborhoods by causing decisions to lease or sell housing accommodations to be based upon discriminatory factors and not upon ability and willingness to lease or purchase property. The council finds that the reduction in the efficiency of the labor, housing and commercial markets has a detrimental effect on the city's economy, thereby reducing revenues and increasing costs to the city. The council finds that such economic injury to the city severely diminishes its capacity to meet the needs of those persons living and working in, and visiting, the city. The council finds further that the social and moral consequences of systemic discrimination are similarly injurious to the city in that systemic discrimination polarizes the city's communities, demoralizes its inhabitants and creates disrespect for the law, thereby frustrating the city's efforts to foster mutual respect and tolerance among its inhabitants and to promote a safe and secure environment. The council finds that the potential consequences to the city of this form of discrimination requires that the corporation counsel be expressly given the authority to institute a civil action to enforce the city's human rights law so as to supplement administrative means to prevent or remedy injury to the city.

a. Whenever there is reasonable cause to believe that a person or group of persons is engaged in pattern or practice that results in the denial to any person of the full enjoyment of any right secured by chapter one of this title, a civil action on behalf of the commission or the city may be commenced in a court of competent jurisdiction, by filing a complaint setting forth facts pertaining to such pattern or practice and requesting such relief as may be deemed necessary to insure the full enjoyment of the rights described in such chapter, including, but not limited to, injunctive relief, damages, including punitive damages, and such other types of relief as are specified in subdivision a of section 8-120 of this title. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit (i) an aggrieved person from filing a complaint pursuant to section 8-109 of chapter one of this title or from commencing a civil action pursuant to chapter five of this title based upon the same facts pertaining to such a pattern or practice as are alleged in the civil action, or (ii) the commission from filing a commission-initiated complaint pursuant to section 8-109 of chapter one of this title alleging a pattern or practice of discrimination, provided that a civil action prusuant to this section shall not have previously been commenced.

b. A civil action commenced under this section must be commenced within three years after the alleged discriminatory practice occurred.

c. Such action may be instituted only by the corporation counsel, such attorneys employed by the city commission on human rights as are designated by the corporation counsel or other persons designated by the corporation counsel.

CHAPTER 5 CIVIL ACTION BY PERSONS AGGRIEVED BY UNLAWFUL DISCRIMINATORY PRACTICES

a. Except as otherwise provided by law, any person claiming to be aggrieved by an unlawful discriminatory practice as defined in chapter one of this title or by an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title shall have a cause of action in any court of competent jurisdiction for damages, including punitive damages, and for injunctive relief and such other remedies as may be appropriate, unless such person has filed a complaint with the city commission on human rights or with the state division of human rights with respect to such alleged unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence. For purposes of this subdivision, the filing of a complaint with a federal agency pursuant to applicable federal law prohibiting discrimination which is subsequently referred to the city commission on human rights or to the state division of human rights pursuant to such law shall not be deemed to constitute the filing of a complaint under this subdivision.

b. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of subdivision a of this section, where a complaint filed with the city commission on human rights or the state division on human rights is dismissed by the city commission on human rights pursuant to subdivisions a, b or c of section 8-113 of chapter one of this title, or by the state division of human rights pursuant to subdivision nine of section two hundred ninety-seven of the executive law either for administrative convenience or on the grounds that such person's election of an administrative remedy is annulled, an aggrieved person shall maintain all rights to commence a civil action pursuant to this chapter as if no such complaint had been filed.

c. The city commission on human rights and the corporation counsel shall each designate a representative authorized to receive copies of complaints in actions commenced in whole or in part pursuant to subdivision a of this section. Within 10 days after having commenced a civil action pursuant to subdivision a of this section, the plaintiff shall serve a copy of the complaint upon such authorized representatives.

d. A civil action commenced under this section must be commenced within three years after the alleged unlawful discriminatory practice or act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title occurred. Upon the filing of a complaint with the city commission on human rights or the state division of human rights and during the pendency of such complaint and any court proceeding for review of the dismissal of such complaint, such three year limitations period shall be tolled.

e.*22 Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of this section, where a complaint filed with the city commission on human rights or state division of human rights is dismissed for administrative convenience and such dismissal is due to the complainant's malfeasance, misfeasance or recalcitrance, the three year limitation period on commencing a civil action pursuant to this section shall not be tolled. Unwillingness to accept a reasonable proposed conciliation agreement shall not be considered malfeasance, misfeasance or recalcitrance.

e.* The provisions of this section which provide a cause of action to persons claiming to be aggrieved by an act of discriminatory harassment or violence as set forth in chapter six of this title shall not apply to acts committed by members of the police department in the course of performing their official duties as police officers whether the police officer is on or off duty.

f. In any civil action commenced pursuant to this section, the court, in its discretion, may award the prevailing party costs and reasonable attorney's fees. For the purposes of this subdivision, the term "prevailing" includes a plaintiff whose commencement of litigation has acted as a catalyst to effect policy change on the part of the defendant, regardless of whether that change has been implemented voluntarily, as a result of a settlement or as a result of a judgment in such plaintiff's favor.

¶ 1. New York City has the authority to create a private cause of action for unlawful discrimination with punitive damages pursuant to Ad Cd § 8-502 which are not inconsistent with the State Human Rights Law. Such section allows for recovery of damages for age discrimination.-Hirschfield v. Institutional Investor, 208 AD2d 380 [1994].

¶ 2. The State Human Rights Law (Executive Law Art. 15) was not intended to preempt local antidiscrimination legislation. Ad Cd § 8-502 which allows recovery of compensatory and punitive damages for sex discrimination is not inconsistent with or preempted by the State Human Rights Law. The city has the authority to allow punitive damages.-Bracker v. Cohen, 204 AD2d 115 [1994].

¶ 3. The City has the authority to create a private right of action for unlawful discrimination (age discrimination in this case) with punitive damages as a remedy. The City law is not inconsistent with the State Human Rights Law.-Hirschfeld v. Institutional Investor, 208 A.D.2d 380, 617 N.Y.S.2d 11 (1st Dept. 1994); accord, Bracker v. Cohen, 204 A.D.2d 115, 612 N.Y.S.2d 113 (1st Dept. 1994).

¶ 4. The failure of a subtenant to give notice to the City Commission on Human Rights and the City Corporation Counsel of a claim based on discrimination did not bar a civil action against the landlord. The court noted that unlike some other condition precedent statutes, this statute did not contain words such as "no action shall be commenced unless . . . " or similar words.-Bernstein v. 1995 Associates, 630 N.Y.S.2d 68 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 1995).

¶ 5. The failure of the plaintiff to serve a copy of the complaint upon the City Corporation Counsel and the City Commission on Human Rights prior to commencement of the lawsuit does not require dismissal of the suit. To dismiss the employee's claims and have them refiled the following day (Corporation Counsel and the Commission were given copies of the papers soon after commencement of the lawsuit) would be to exalt form over substance and would be wasteful. McNulty v. New York City Finance Department, 941 F.Supp. 452 (S.D.N.Y. 1996). Accord, Kim v. Dial Services International, 1997 Westlaw 5902, S.D.N.Y.

¶ 6. The failure to serve a discrimination claim upon the City Corporation Counsel and the City Human Rights Commission does not mandate dismissal of a claim under the statute. The notice requirement is designed merely to apprise the appropriate agencies of the action, but is not a condition precedent to suit. Teller v. America West Airlines, 659 N.Y.S.2d 314, 240 A.D.2d 727 (App.Div. 2d Dept. 1997).

¶ 7. The claimant's failure to serve the City Commissioner of Human Rights is not fatal to a claim under the New York City Human Rights Law. Naftchi v. New York University, 14 F.Supp.2d 473 (S.D.N.Y. 1998); Westphal v. Catch Ball Products Corp., 953 F.Supp. 475 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

¶ 8. In determining attorneys' fees to be awarded in a discrimination case, a lodestar amount is calculated from the product of a reasonable hourly rate and the number of hours reasonably expended by each attorney. In calculating the number of hours, a court should not reimburse excessive or redundant work. Moreover, the court may refuse to reimburse travel expenses for out of town counsel where experienced local counsel would have sufficed. Greenbaum v. Svenska Handelsbanken, 998 F.Supp. 301 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).

¶ 9. Once a person has filed a complaint with the New York City Human Rights Commission, he or she is deemed to have elected a remedy, and will not be permitted to bring a court action, unless and until the agency proceeding has been dismissed as a matter of "administrative convenience." Where the agency dismisses the case at the request of the complainant, the complainant is now deemed dismissed as a matter of "administrative convenience" even if the statutory phrase is not expressly used, and the complainant is free to sue in court. Silver v. Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, N.Y.L.J., Oct. 13, 1998, page 28, col. 2 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 11. The private right of action created under the statute applies only to claims arising after the effective date of the law. Lopez v. New York City Health & Hosps. Corp., 270 A.D.2d 466, 705 N.Y.S.2d 279 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 2000).

¶ 12. The City Administrative Code and federal Title VII standards on punitive damages are substantially identical. Punitive damages are imposed only where there is malice or reckless indifference to the statutory rights of the aggrieved person. There must be an element of conscious wrongdoing, i.e., the defendant must have had some knowledge that the conduct in question could give rise to liability. Where a court finds that the employer was unaware of the law, the employee might obtain compensatory damages but not punitive damages. Robinson v. Instructional Systems, 80 F.Supp.2d 203 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

¶ 13. Punitive damages are available under the NYC Human Rights Law, and in determining whether such damages are warranted, the court uses the same standard as that used in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Under Title VII, punitive damages are limited to cases in which the employer has engaged in intentional discrimination and has done so with malice or with reckless indifference to the protected rights of the aggrieved individual. Malice and reckless indifference refer to the employer's knowledge that it may be acting in violation of the law, not its awareness that it is engaging in discrimination. A "positive element of conscious wrongdoing" is required for an award of punitive damages. Where it was standard company policy not to offer severance packages to any employee unless that employee released all claims, the company's refusal to offer severance benefits to plaintiff, who had a pending employment discrimination claim, did not constitute conduct so outrageous as to warrant an award of punitive damages. Farias v. Instructional Systems, Inc., 259 F.3d 91 (2d Cir. 2001).

¶ 14. If a complainant consults with Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) as to how and where to file sex harassment complaint, and EEOC suggests that she files with the New York State Division of Human Rights, the "election of remedies rule" will still apply. The exception applies only where the case is actually filed with the EEOC, which then files it by automatic referral with the New York State Division of Human Rights (NYSDHR). In other words, York, who filed her charge with the NYSDHR after seeking the EEOC's advice about where to file, did not suffer from the forced-election predicament that the exception is intended to remedy. Under 8-502, once the plaintiff brings the case before the NYSDHR, he or she can appeal only to the Supreme Court (Article 78) and cannot bring a plenary action. York v. Assn of the Bar of the City of New York, 286 F.3d 122 (2d Cir. 2002).

¶ 15. A litigant is barred from bringing an action under the 8-502 election of remedies provision only with respect to the charges that were brought before the administrative agency. Thus, where a person brought a racial or disability claim with the State Division of Human Rights, but an additional charge of discrimination on the basis of national origin was not brought before the agency, the national origin claim can be asserted in a plenary action. Benjamin v. New York City Dept. of Health, 2002 WL 485731 (U.S. Dist. Ct., S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 17. In awarding attorneys' fees under the New York City Human Rights Law, the court can use principles similar to those applied in case under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Under federal law, reasonable attorneys' fees are determined by using the "lodestar" method, which calculates attorneys' fees by multiplying the number of hours spent on the litigation by a reasonable hourly rate. Among the factors considered are: (1) the time and labor required; (2) the novelty and difficulty of the questions; (3) the skill requisite to perform the legal services properly; (4) the preclusion of other employment by the attorney due to the acceptance of the case; (5) the customary fee; (6) whether the fee is fixed or contingent; (7) time limitations imposed by the client or the circumstances; (8) the amount involved and the results obtained; (9) the experience, reputation and ability of the attorneys; (10) the "undesirability of the case; (11) the nature and length of the professional relationship with the client, and (12) awards in similar cases. The amount, if any, that the client agreed to pay as a fee is not decisive. In order to be entitled to attorneys' fees, the client must be the prevailing party in the litigation. Where a jury finds for the plaintiff on the central allegation in the case, i.e. that plaintiff was harassed and subsequently discharged by reason of his sexual orientation, plaintiff qualifies as a prevailing party. This was so even though the court significantly reduced the damages from the figure awarded by the jury. Bell v. Helmsley, N.Y.L.J., Apr. 2, 2003, page 20, col. 3, 2003 WL 21057630 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 18. In Bell v. Helmsley, N.Y.L.J., Mar. 10, 2003, page 21, col. 5, 2003 WL 1453108 (Sup. Ct. New York Co.), Justice Walter Tolub provided an extensive discussion of punitive damages in the context of a discrimination claim. Punitive damages, the court said, are not a game of lotto, and the defendant's status as a multi-billionaire does not make her a "pinata" to poke a stick at in the hopes of hitting a "jackpot." It is the duty of the court to keep punitive damages within reasonable bounds, considering the purpose to be achieved as well as the bad faith of the defendant. Although compensatory damages and punitive damages are typically awarded at the same time by the same decision-maker, they serve distinct purposes. The former are intended to redress the concrete loss that plaintiff has suffered by reason of the defendant's wrongful conduct, while the latter are designed to punish the defendant and deter future wrongdoing. A jury's assessment of compensatory damages is a factual determination, while punitive damages are an expression of moral condemnation. After considering the relevant factors, the court reduced a $10 million award to $500,000.

¶ 19. The three-year statute of limitations is tolled during the pendency of an administrative complaint. Forrest v. Jewish Guild for the Blind, 309 A.D.2d 546, 765 N.Y.S.2d 326 (1st Dept. 2003), aff'd, 3 N.Y.3d 295, 786 N.Y.S.2d 382 (2004).

¶ 20. In one disability discrimination case, plaintiff was permitted to maintain a claim for emotional distress, even though the Civil Service Commission had previously denied a claim for back pay. The Civil Service Commission would not, in any event, have had the power to adjudicate a claim for emotional distress. Varone v. City of New York, 2003 WL 21787475 (S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 21. Section 8-502 applies only where the alleged discriminatory acts took place within the City of New York. Thus, a plaintiff who worked for defendant in Rockland County New York, New Jersey and Florida is not covered by the statute. Santos v. Costco Wholesale, 271 F.Supp.2d 565 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

¶ 22. The Second Circuit Court of Appeals certified questions to the New York Court of Appeals, regarding a plaintiff's right to attorneys' fees where he or she is the prevailing party in a discrimination case but is awarded only nominal damages. In Farrar v. Hobby, 506 U.S. 103, 113 S.Ct. 566, 121 L.Ed.2d 494 (1992), the Supreme Court held that a plaintiff in a federal civil rights case who obtains only nominal damages is the "prevailing party," for purposes of an award of attorneys' fees, only if the litigation served a significant public purpose. The Second Circuit asked the New York Court of Appeals to determine whether the same rule applied to cases brought under the New York City Human Rights Law, and the Court of Appeals said that the same rule did apply. Plaintiffs, who identified themselves as pre-operative transsexuals, brought an action alleging that they were harassed by store employees while shopping at Toys "R" Us, brought suit in federal court, using both Title VII and the New York City Human Rights Law. Plaintiffs sought $100,000 each in damages. Ultimately, although the jury found that defendant had violated the civil rights law, it awarded only $1 in damages to each plaintiff. Plaintiffs applied to the District Court for a six-figure attorneys' fees award. The District Court, while noting that attorneys' fees were available under Farrar, to parties recovering nominal damages only in unusual cases, found that this was an unusual case, in that it was the first public accommodation discrimination case to proceed to trial under the New York City Human Rights Law and the first case in which the rights of transsexuals were asserted and vindicated. In addition, at the time this action was commenced, it was unclear whether the law covered transsexuals, since the law had not yet been amended to contain a specific reference to transsexuals. 3 N.Y.3d 421, 788 N.Y.S.2d 281, 821 N.E.2d 519 (2004). After the decision of the New York Court of Appeals, the case went back to the Second Circuit. The Second Circuit did not decide whether the litigation had met the public purpose rule, and remanded the case for further factual fndings. McGrath v. Toys "R" Us, Inc., 409 F.3d 513 (2d Cir. 2005).

¶ 23. In one case, a female employee sought recovery of the pay differential between her salary and the salary of male employees that she claimed to be similarly situated. The three-year statute of limitations applied. Each receipt of a paycheck is the basis of a separate cause of action for which suit must be brought during the limitations period. Thus, the employee could seek recovery of pay differentials covering salary periods within the three-year period prior to the commencement of the action, but not for periods more than three years before the commencement of the action. The employer argued that even the paychecks received within the three-year period could not give rise to a viable cause of action, because the employees that she used as comparators (in an effort to show gender discrimination) had left the company more than three years prior to the commencement of the action. The court, however, held that these employees could be used as comparators, even though the evidence related to a pre-limitations period. In other words, the three-year statute limits how much pay the employee can recover, but does not limit how far back in time the employee can go in providing evidence of discrimination. Kent v. Papert Companies, 309 A.D.2d 234, 764 N.Y.S.2d 675 (1st Dept. 2003).

¶ 24. For purposes of the statute of limitations, a claim for hostile work environment, which is subject to the continuing violations exception, involves a series of separate acts which collectively constitute an unlawful employment practice, and will not be time barred if all the acts constituting the claim are part of the same unlawful practice and at least one discriminatory act falls within the filing period. Hughes v. United Parcel Service, Inc., N.Y.L.J., July 26, 2004, at 18, col. 1, 2004 WL 2059768 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 25. The statute does not provide for liability in case of the alleged mishandling of a corpse. A corpse is not a "person" within the meaning of the statute. Kellogg v. Office of the Chief Medical Examiner of the City of New York, 6 Misc.3d 666, 791 N.Y.S.2d 278 (Sup.Ct. Bronx Co. 2004).

¶ 26. A person who files a discrimination complaint with the New York State Division of Human Rights is barred from relitigating that claim under the New York City Human Rights Law. Fleury v. New York City Transit Authority, 2004 WL 2810107 (U.S.Dist.Ct. E.D.N.Y.).

¶ 27. Where it is claimed that incidents constituting a hostile work environment are part of one unlawful employment practice, the action must be brought within the limitations period applicable to the last act alleged. Arthur v. Standard & Poor's Corp., N.Y.L.J., Feb. 25, 2005, at 18, col. 1, 6 Misc.3d 1033(A), 2005 WL 545882 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 28. This section does not provide authority to award attorney's fees to a complainant's private attorney where the complainant has filed a complaint with the Commission. Comm'n on Human Rights ex rel. Manning v. HealthFirst, LLC, OATH Index No. 462/05 (Mar. 15, 2006), adopted, Comm'n Dec. (May 10, 2006).

¶ 29. The State Human Rights Law applies only to sexual orientation discrimination claims arising on or after January 16, 2003 (Exec. Law Sec. 296(1)(a)). Thus, where a complainant allegedly suffered discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation during the year 2002, he does not get the benefit of the state human rights law. Moreover, where the cause of action arose in Nassau County, he cannot use the City Human Rights Law. Wilder v. Newman, 167 Fed. Appx. 828 (2nd Cir. 2006).

¶ 30. Attorneys' fees for successful highly experienced and effective counsel in discrimination cases can run as high as $550 per hour. It is arguable that attorneys' fees should be reduced where only some of their claims were successful. However, if the work done in connection with the successful claims is inextricably intertwined with the work performed on the unsuccessful claims, the court may award the entire fee. The court also held that the rate of interest on a back pay claim under the City Human Rights Law (in federal court on the basis of diversity jurisdiction) is nine percent, the normal New York rate. Insinga v. Cooperative Centrale Raiffeisen Boerenleenbank, 478 F.Supp.2d 508 (S.D.N.Y. 2007).

CHAPTER 6 DISCRIMINATORY HARASSMENT OR VIOLENCE*23

a. Whenever a person interferes by threats, intimidation or coercion or attempts to interfere by threats, intimidation or coercion with the exercise or enjoyment by any person of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the United States, the constitution or laws of this state, or local law of the city and such interference or attempted interference is motivated in whole or in part by the victim's actual or perceived race, creed, color, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, age, whether children are, may or would be residing with such victim, marital status, partnership status, disability, or alienage or citizenship status as defined in chapter one of this title, the corporation counsel, at the request of the city commission on human rights or on his or her own initiative, may bring a civil action on behalf of the city for injunctive and other appropriate equitable relief in order to protect the peaceable exercise or enjoyment of the rights secured.

b. An action pursuant to subdivision a may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction.

c. Violation of an order issued pursuant to subdivision a of this section may be punished by a proceeding for contempt brought pursuant to article nineteen of the judiciary law and, in addition to any relief thereunder, a civil penalty may be imposed not exceeding ten thousand dollars for each day that the violation continues.

CHAPTER 7 DISCRIMINATORY BOYCOTTS

§ 8-701 Legislative declaration.

Boycotts or blacklists that are based on a person's race, color, creed, age, national origin, alienage or citizenship status, marital status, partnership status, gender, sexual orientation, or disability pose a menace to the city's foundation and institutions. In contrast to protests that are in reaction to an unlawful discriminatory practice, connected with a labor dispute or associated with other speech or activities that are protected by the first amendment discriminatory boycotts cause havoc, divide the citizenry and do not serve a legitimate purpose. The council declares that discriminatory boycotts are a dangerously insidious form of prejudice and hereby establishes a procedure for expeditiously investigating allegations of this type of prejudice, assuring that the council and mayor are duly alerted to the existence of such activity and combating discriminatory boycotts or blacklists.

§ 8-703 Investigative reporting requirements.

The following requirements shall apply to all complaints alleging that a discriminatory boycott or blacklist is occurring:

(1) The commission shall begin an investigation within twenty-four hours of the filing of a complaint which alleges that a discriminatory boycott or blacklist is occurring.

(2) Within three days after initiating such an investigation, the commission shall file a written report with the mayor. The report shall state:

(a) the allegations contained in the complaint;

(b) whether the commission has reason to believe a discriminatory boycott or blacklist is taking place; and

(c) steps the commission has taken to resolve the dispute.

(3) If it is stated within the report described in subdivision two of this section that the commission has reason to believe that a discriminatory boycott or blacklist has taken place, within thirty days after filing such report, the commission shall file a second report with the mayor and the council. This second report shall contain:

(a) a brief description of the allegations contained in the complaint;

(b) a determination of whether probable cause exists to believe a discriminatory boycott or blacklist is taking place;

(c) a recitation of the facts that form the basis of the commission's determination of probable cause; and

(d) if the boycott or blacklist is continuing at the date of the report, a description of all actions the commission or other city agency has taken or will undertake to resolve the dispute.

(4) If a finding of probable cause is not contained in the report required by subdivision three of this section and the boycott or blacklist continues for more than twenty days subsequent to the report's release, then, upon demand of the mayor or council the commission shall update such report. Report updates shall detail:

(a) whether or not the commission presently has probable cause to believe a discriminatory boycott or blacklist is taking place; and

(b) all new activity the commission or other city agency has taken or will undertake to resolve the dispute.

(5) If the commission determines that the disclosure of any information in a report required by this section may interfere with or compromise a pending investigation or efforts to resolve the dispute by mediation or conciliation, it shall file the report without such information and state in the report the reasons for omitting such information.

CHAPTER 9*28 ACTIONS BY VICTIMS OF GENDER-MOTIVATED VIOLENCE

§ 8-902 Declaration of Legislative Findings and Intent.

Gender-motivated violence inflicts serious physical, psychological, emotional and economic harm on its victims. Congressional findings have documented that gender-motivated violence is widespread throughout the United States, representing the leading cause of injuries to women ages 15 to 44. Further statistics have shown that three out of four women will be the victim of a violent crime sometime during their lives, and as many as four million women a year are victims of domestic violence. Senate hearings, various task forces and the United States Department of Justice have concluded that victims of gender-motivated violence frequently face a climate of condescension indifference and hostility in the court system and have documented the legal system's hostility towards sexual assault and domestic violence claims.

Recognizing this widespread problem, Congress in 1994 provided victims of gender-motivated violence with a cause of action in federal court through the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) (42 USC §13981). In a May 15, 2000 decision, the United States Supreme Court held that the Constitution provided no basis for a federal cause of action by victims of gender-motivated violence against their perpetrators either under the Commerce Clause or the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. In so ruling the Court held that it could "think of no better example of the police power, which the Founders denied the National Government and reposed in the States, than the suppression of violent crime and vindication of its victims."

In light of the void left by the Supreme Court's decision, this Council finds that victims of gender-motivated violence should have a private right of action against their perpetrators under the Administrative Code. This private right of action aims to resolve the difficulty that victims face in seeking court remedies by providing an officially sanctioned and legitimate cause of action for seeking redress for injuries resulting from gender-motivated violence.

For purposes of this chapter:

a. "Crime of violence" means an act or series of acts that would constitute a misdemeanor or felony against the person as defined in state or federal law or that would constitute a misdemeanor or felony against property as defined in state or federal law if the conduct presents a serious risk of physical injury to another, whether or not those acts have actually resulted in criminal charges, prosecution, or conviction.

b. "Crime of violence motivated by gender" means a crime of violence committed because of gender or on the basis of gender, and due, at least in part, to an animus based on the victim's gender.

§ 8-904 Civil Cause of Action.

Except as otherwise provided by law, any person claiming to be injured by an individual who commits a crime of violence motivated by gender as defined in section 8-903 of this chapter, shall have a cause of action against such individual in any court of competent jurisdiction for any or all of the following relief:

1. compensatory and punitive damages;
2. injunctive and declaratory relief;
3. attorneys' fees and costs;
4. such other relief as a court may deem appropriate.

a. A civil action under this chapter must be commenced within seven years after the alleged crime of violence motivated by gender as defined in section 8-903 of this chapter occurred. If, however, due to injury or disability resulting from an act or acts giving rise to a cause of action under this chapter, or due to infancy as defined in the civil procedure law and rules, a person entitled to commence an action under this chapter is unable to do so at the time such cause of action accrues, then the time within which the action must be commenced shall be extended to seven years after the inability to commence the action ceases.

b. Except as otherwise permitted by law, nothing in this chapter entitles a person to a cause of action for random acts of violence unrelated to gender or for acts that cannot be domonstrated, by preponderance of the evidence, to be motivated by gender as defined in Section 8-903.

c. Nothing in this section requires a prior criminal complaint, prosecution or conviction to establish the elements of a cause of action under this chapter.

CHAPTER 10 EQUAL ACCESS TO HUMAN SERVICES*29

§8-1002 Definitions.

For purposes of this chapter, the following terms have the following meanings:

a. "Agency" means the human resources administration/department of social services, including any part, subdivision, field office or satellite facility thereof.

b. "Agency office" means a job center, food stamp office, medical assistance program office, or other part, subdivision, field office or satellite facility of the agency or agency contractor office that performs a covered function.

c. "Agency contractor" means any contractor that enters into a covered contract with the agency.

d. "Agency personnel" means bilingual personnel or interpreter personnel who are employees of the agency.

e. "Bilingual personnel" means agency, agency contractor, or other contractor employees, not including work experience program participants, who provide language assistance services in addition to other duties.

f. "Contract" means any written agreement, purchase order or instrument whereby the city is committed to expend or does expend funds in return for work, labor or services.

g. "Contractor" means any individual, sole proprietorship, partnership, joint venture or corporation or other form of doing business that enters into a contract.

h. "Covered contract" means a contract between the agency and a contractor to perform a covered function.

i. "Covered function" means any of the following functions:

1. Benefits or services offered or provided at agency offices;

2. Benefits or services provided by agency contractors to provide employment services in connection with participation of individuals engaged in activities required by sections 335 through 336-c of the social services law;

3. Home care services; and

4. Determinations regarding eligibility for subsidized child care.

j. "Covered language" means Arabic, Chinese, Haitian Creole, Korean, Russian or Spanish.

k. "Document" means the following forms and notices developed by the agency:

i. Application forms and corresponding instructional materials;

ii. Notices that require a response from the participant;

iii. Notices that concern the denial, termination, reduction, increase or issuance of a benefit or service;

iv. Notices regarding the rights of participants to a conference and fair hearing; and

v. Notices describing regulation changes that affect benefits.

l. "Interpretation services" means oral, contemporaneous interpretation of oral communications.

m. "Interpreter personnel" means agency, agency contractor, or other contractor employees, not including work experience program participants, whose sole responsibility is to provide language assistance services.

n. "Language assistance services" means interpretation services and/or translation services provided by bilingual personnel or interpreter personnel to a limited English proficient individual in his/her primary language to ensure their ability to communicate effectively with agency or agency contractor personnel.

o. "Limited English proficient individual" means an individual who identifies as being, or is evidently, unable to communicate meaningfully with agency or agency contractor personnel because English is not his/her primary language.

p. "Other covered agency" means the administration for children's services; the department of homeless services; the department of health and mental hygiene; and all functions served by the agency that are not covered functions, including any part, subdivision, field office or satellite facility thereof.

q. "Primary language" means the language in which a limited English proficient individual chooses to communicate with others.

r. "Translation services" means oral explanation or written translation of documents.

§ 8-1003 Language assistance services.

a. The agency and all agency contractors shall provide free language assistance services as required by this chapter to limited English proficient individuals.

b. When a limited English proficient individual seeks or receives benefits or services from an agency office or agency contractor, the agency office or agency contractor shall provide prompt language assistance services in all interactions with that individual, whether the interaction is by telephone or in person. The agency office or agency contractor shall meet its obligation to provide prompt language assistance services for purposes of this subdivision by ensuring that limited English proficient individuals do not have to wait unreasonably longer to receive assistance than individuals who do not require language assistance services.

c. Where an application or form requires completion in English by a limited English proficient individual for submission to a state or federal authority, the agency or agency contractor shall provide oral translation of such application or form as well as certification by the limited English proficient individual that the form was translated and completed by an interpreter.

d. The agency shall make all reasonable efforts to provide language assistance services in person by bilingual personnel.

a. Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by the agency or an agency contractor, the agency or agency contractor shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the agency or agency contractor shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of the right to free language assistance services.

b. The agency shall provide in all application and recertification packages an $8^{1}/_{2}$ inch × 11 inch or larger notice advising participants that free language assistance services are available at its offices and where to go if they would like an interpreter. This notice shall appear in all covered languages.

c. The agency and each agency contractor shall post conspicuous signs in every covered language at all agency offices and agency contractor offices informing limited English proficient individuals of the availability of free language assistance services.

d. Other covered agencies. Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by an other covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

a. No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, the agency and each agency contractor shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives benefits or services from the agency or agency contractor. At a minimum, the agency and each agency contractor shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by agency, agency contractor or contractor, agency office, type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the agency, disaggregated by language translated or interpreted by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

b. Other covered agencies. No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

a. The agency shall phase in language assistance services for covered functions as follows:

1. As of the first day of the twenty-fourth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, no less than 20% of covered functions provided by agency offices.

2. As of the first day of the forty-eighth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, no less than 40% of covered functions provided by agency offices.

3. As of the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, 100% of covered functions provided by agency offices.

b. Contractors.

1. In all covered contracts entered into or renewed after January 1, 2005, the contractor shall certify that it shall make available language assistance services and maintain and provide access to records as required by this chapter.

2. Every covered contract must contain a provision in which the contractor acknowledges that the following responsibilities constitute material terms of the contract:

(a) to provide language assistance services as required by this chapter; (b) to comply with the recordkeeping requirements set forth in this chapter;

(c) to provide the city access to its records for the purpose of audits or investigations to ascertain compliance with the provisions of this section, to the extent permitted by law; and

(d) to provide evidence to the city that the contractor is in compliance with the provisions of this section, upon request.

3. If an agency contractor enters into a subcontract agreement to provide any benefits or services under a covered contract, that subcontract will be considered a covered contract for purposes of this section and the provisions of this section will bind the subcontractor. Each contractor is required to include the contract provision set forth in paragraph 2 of this subdivision in any such subcontract agreement.

c. Implementation plans. Within eight months of the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, the agency and each other covered agency shall develop an implementation plan that describes how and when the agency or other covered agency will meet the requirements imposed by this chapter. The agency and each other covered agency shall publish a copy of its implementation plan.

d. Implementation updates and annual reports. No later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year after the publication of the implementation plan and before implementation is complete, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an implementation update. The implementation update shall describe steps taken over the prior year to implement the requirements of this chapter and shall describe any changes in the agency or other covered agency's plan for implementing the remaining requirements of the local law that added this chapter before the date set forth in subdivision a of this section. The implementation update for every year after 2004 shall include a report on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office or other covered agency office. Not later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year beginning with 2008, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an annual report on language assistance services. At a minimum, this annual report of the agency, each agency contractor and each other covered agency shall set forth the information required to be maintained by this chapter.

The following four City Departments published plans to implement Local Law 73/2003.

City Record Oct. 7, 2004

ADMINISTRATION FOR CHILDREN'S SERVICES

Local Law 73 Implementation Plan

Introduction

This implementation plan presents the steps that the New York City Administration for Children's Services (ACS) will take in order to ensure compliance with Local Law 73 of 2003.

This plan also shows ACS's commitment to provide meaningful access to all individuals seeking benefits and services, including individuals with limited English proficiency. Individuals should not face obstacles to receiving social services for which they may be eligible because they do not speak English. The purpose of this plan is to ensure that persons eligible for social services receive them and to avoid the possibility that a person who attempts to access services will face discrimination based on the language he or she speaks.

It is the policy of the City of New York to promote access to its services to all City residents who are in need of and entitled to them. ACS, therefore, provides child welfare and child care services to the children and families of New York City without regard to immigration status or proficiency in English.

The mission of ACS is to ensure the safety of all the children of New York, which includes those with limited proficiency in English. ACS believes that the safety, permanency and well-being of children is best achieved through a Neighborhood Based Services approach that seeks to provide every child and family with culturally, linguistically and need-driven services within their communities. ACS is committed to providing high-quality child welfare and child care services and enhancing family engagement in these services. Promoting access to services through language assistance is critical for workers to interact effectively with families and improve outcomes for the children and families.

ACS is making progress in its efforts to provide limited English-proficient clients with timely access to our services through various methods, including using a contracted interpretation and translation service, and providing forms and important information documents in various languages.

Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg signed Local Law 73 into law on December 22, 2003 to ensure access of City services to all New Yorkers. Local Law 73 of 2003 or, the "Equal Access to Human Services Act of 2003", seeks to increase access to critical City services for New Yorkers whose primary language is not English. Many elements of Local Law 73 pertain exclusively to the Human Resources Administration (HRA), which is listed as "[t]he Agency" for purposes of this law. ACS, the Department of Homeless Services (DHS) and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) are listed as "other covered agencies" in Local Law 73; as such, ACS, DHS, and DOHMH have specific obligations pursuant to Local Law 73 that are different from those enumerated for HRA.

1. Indentification of Primary Language

Relevent Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by an other covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

"Primary language" means the language in which a limited English-proficient individual chooses to communicate with others.

Implementation Plan:

A. ACS created the ACS Language Identification Card in 2004. The ACS Language Identification Card, which is laminated for extended use, contains translation in twenty-eight languages in order to facilitate language identification. The languages selected for inclusion on the card represent the most commonly encountered languages by ACS child welfare staff.

B. The ACS Language Identification Card was distributed in May 2004 to all staff members at ACS who have direct contact with individuals seeking ACS benefits and/or services, along with the recently published Administration for Children's Services Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff ("Guidelines"). Both tools were created to assist child welfare staff in meeting the unique challenges posed by the diverse needs of New York City's immigrant and limited English proficient communities and to increase access to ACS services for all New York City children and families. The last two pages of the Guidelines contain a reproduction of the ACS Language Identification Card.

C. The Guidelines include specific instructions for complying with Local Law 73. These instructions state that upon initial contact with a family, ACS child welfare staff are to determine the primary language of the family members through utilization of the ACS Language Identification Card, and further they are to notify the individuals of the available language assistance services and to offer them an interpreter. ACS will issue to all affected program areas a directive reiterating these requirements and specifying the data collection requirements related to Local Law 73 by the end of calendar year 2004.

D. ACS is exploring the possibility of and necessary resources for expanding its current interpretation and translation contract to offer language assistance services to help staff identify a client's language when the ACS Language Identification Card is ineffective because a client's primary language falls outside of those represented on the ACS Language Identification Card and/or the client is illiterate.

2. Notice Regarding Free Language Assistance

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by an other covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

Implementation Plan:

A. When an individual is determined to have a primary language other than English, staff will inform the individual of available language assistance services in the individual's primary language by using the Language Identification Card, directly using the individual's parimary language, or using the interpreter service.

B. As needed, ACS will post multilingual signage in those offices and other appropriate service sites where clients are served advising clients of the availability of language assistance.

3. Language Assistance Services

Implementation Plan:

A. Once the primary language of a child or family served by ACS is determined, interpretation and translation services can be arranged through ACS's existing contracts which are available to ACS's Division of Child Protection (DCP), and have been used by other ACS divisions based on identified need. An internal memorandum was issued November 3, 2003 outlining the procedures for obtaining interpretation and translation services in over 140 languages. These services are available twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week for Child Protective Services staff within DCP.

B. ACS is in the process of determining the feasibility of and necessary resources for expanding the current language assistance contract to serve the remainder of the agency. In accordance with an expanded contract, ACS will develop and implement a training program for the remainder of the ACS direct service staff regarding language access services and ACS will update and reissue the internal memorandum for agency-wide distribution on availability of language assistance services.

4. Quality Assurance Measures

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Implementation Plan:

ACS's Office of Quality Improvement, in conjunction with other relevant program areas, will devise a plan by end of calendar year 2005 to establish a methodology and process for assuring that primary language determinations are recorded property and that documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

5. Training

Implementation Plan:

A. To ensure that the ACS Language Identification Card is used and that interpretation/translation services are offered to children and families, ACS has incorporated Local Law 73 directives into the Common Core training, which is provided through the Satterwhite Academy, ACS's training center for its child welfare staff.

The following steps have been taken to introduce the Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff and facilitate its implementation into casework practice within the following curricula of ACS's trainings:

o Common Core, Supervisory Common Core, and the CPS Specialty:

1. The Culture modules, or appropriate sections of the curriculum, were enhanced with an introduction and review of the Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff booklet

2. Tools in the booklet, such as the language Identification Care, are referenced and discussed

3. Memorandum-the official Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff memorandum on Special Immigrant Juvenile Status is distributed and discussed

4. The form, Referral for Foster care Immigration Law Services, is provided as a handout and discussed

5. The ACS Immigration and Language Issues Reference List is provided separately as a handout, referenced and discussed

6. The Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff booklet is distributed and displayed on the resource table

7. Immigration and Language Guidelines are referenced in the Legal part of the curricula, presented by training

o Immigrant Issues curriculum:

1. Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff is the focal point of the training

2. Official ACS policy on immigration and language presented and practiced.

3. Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff booklet is distributed and discussed

o Core phase II, Legal Issues training:

1. Legal aspects of the Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff are presented, including Special Immigrant Juvenile Status

2. Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff booklet is distributed

o "Resource Table in Classrooms"

1. Immigration and Language Guidelines for Child Welfare Staff booklet is available in sufficient amount in every classroom during Core phase II trainings

A. As a next step, the Satterwhite Academy will conduct a debriefing of all training and curriculum staff on the Immigration and Language Guidelines and related child welfare policies. The Academy will review all remaining curricula and determine where revisions related to LL 73 are appropriate.

B. ACS will develop a plan to ensure the training of all staff that have direct contact with individuals seeking ACS benefits and/or services. This training plan will be developed by the end of calendar year 2005.

6. Recordkeeping and Monitoring

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Implementation Plan:

A. ACS Management Information Systems (MIS) proposes to implement an automated recording and reporting system to support Local Law 73. When appropriate analyst and programming resources become available, MIS would launch a project to implement a long-term solution for Local Law 73 record-keeping and reporting requirements.

B. The project will follow standard systems development life cycle, which includes six phases: initiation, analysis, design, construction, implementation, and maintenance.

C. In conjunction with analysis and implementation of the long-term system, ACS will advance a phased approach to comply with Local Law 73 requirements. A description of short-term, interim and long-term plans follows:

1. Short-Term Plan

During Local Law 73 implementation meetings, program area representatives identified at which points of contact with individuals seeking ACS services and/or benefits would require Local Law 73 notification and record-keeping.

The short-term plan for record-keeping, scheduled to start on January 1, 2005, includes the following steps, completed and in-progress.

o DCP staff will be required to complete the language field in Connections, the statewide child welfare information system. This would collect data on a significant portion of the population that ACS serves.

The New York State Office of Children and Family Services ("OCFS") has been notified that ACS required their assistance in complying with Local law 73. MIS is doing an impact assessment in conjunction with the OCFS regarding this. Specifically, ACS is asking that the additional languages contained in the ACS Language Identification Card be captured in Connections. Current languages covered are: Native American language, Chinese, Creole, English, French, German, Hindi, Hebrew, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, American Sign Language, Spanish, and Vietnamese.

o MIS and other relevant ACS program areas will identify and develop mechanisms to comply with Local Law 73 recordkeeping requirements by the required time frames. Staff will be trained in accordance with these processes.

o MIS will require analysts and programmers for this project.

2. Interim Plan

Reporting of data collected from January 1, 2005 through December 31, 2005 will begin on April 1, 2006. MIS will work with the program areas to devise a method for collecting data that will begin to be collected on January 1, 2005. Updates will appear in the Implementation Update, scheduled to be distributed on or about April 1, 2005.

3. Long Term Plan

Resources permitting, MIS can launch a project for development of the Local Law 73 record-keeping and reporting project. The project will have six phases: Initiation, analysis, design, construction, implementation, and maintenance.

MIS has started analysis by compiling the points of contact for ACS program staff. During the next phase MIS analysts would work with program areas to further define how contact occurs, which current data processing systems are used, and which data processing systems are in development mode.

In the second phase, analysis, the user determines what he or she needs or wants the system to do. At this stage, the MIS analyst will work with program areas as they define the optimal method for capturing Local Law 73 required data at points of contact.

The third phase, design, determines how the user will achieve his or her objectives. The program area team members and MIS will participate in defining workflow, refining the need for data elements, system requirements and reports.

There is an on-going agency-wide project to build an Integrated Case Management System at ACS, in conjunction with the releases of Connections and phasing out of legacy ACS systems. The Local Law 73 requirements will be incorporated in this planning.

During MIS's preliminary investigation of system needs to capture Local Law 73 data elements, MIS has referred to extensive work done previously for the Child Protective Services (CPS) Intake and Assignment Processes. A review of this analysis reveals the systems currently in use as Connections, WMS/NYS, WMS/NYC, ACCIS, ACRS +, and CCRS. ACS MIS will work with OCFS to coordinate requirements with new releases of Connections and phasing out of WMS/NYS, WMS/NYC and CCRS. Request for this has been made to OCFS in Albany. These systems do not collect child care data. The local system for child care, ACCIS, is being analyzed to determine what modifications are required.

Building on analysis that preceded this project, the long-term project will consult with and revise the documents that identify how data are collected and processed at several key points in the Intake and Assignment process. These documents include information about forms used and screens used in the CPS Intake Process.

Once the data collection system is in place, training on the system will ensue for ACS employees who have direct contact with individuals seeking ACS services or benefits.

D. For tracking of bilingual personnel, ACS will record and track bilingual personnel hired and develop a registry of bilingual personnel that can potentially be used as translators at their locations. The Office of Personnel will work with the relevant program areas regarding placement of bilingual personnel in critical areas of contacts. ACS will modify the existing telephone directory to include fields needed to track personnel and develop procedures. A field will be added to record language spoken. ACS will develop a procedure to identify bilingual personnel in order to record this data. ACS anticipates that the recording and sorting of this data will be operational by 2006.

7. Coordination

ACS has created an inter-divisional workgroup to coordinate the implementation of Local Law 73. ACS is also exploring resources to enable the creation of a staff position for immigration and language issues which will include responsibility for ensuring compliance with Local Law 73. This staff member will also coordinate data collection and be responsible for drafting and finalizing implementation updates and the reports that are to be published.

8. Implementation Updates and Annual Reports

Relevant Portion of Law:

Implementation updates and annual reports. No later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year after the publication of the implementation plan and before implementation is complete, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an implementation update. The implementation update shall describe steps taken over the prior year to implement the requirements of this chapter and shall describe any changes in the agency or other covered agency's plan for implementing the remaining requirements of the local law that added this chapter before the date set forth in subdivision a of this section. The implementation update for every year after 2004 shall include a report on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office or other covered agency office. Not later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year beginning with 2008, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an annual report on language assistance services. At a minimum, this annual report of the agency, each agency contractor and each other covered agency shall set forth the information required to be maintained by this chapter.

Implementation Plan:

ACS's Local Law 73 Implementation Workgroup will continue to meet regularly to refine and further the subsequent implementation plans and address future issues that would include implementation updates and publishing of annual reports.

HOMELESS SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Local Law 73 of 2003 Preliminary

Implementation Plan

Introduction

This implementation plan presents the steps that the New York City Department of Homeless Services (DHS) will take in order to ensure compliance with Local Law 73 of 2003.

This plan also shows DHS' commitment to provide meaningful access to all individuals seeking benefits and services, including individuals with limited English proficiency. Individuals should not face obstacles to receiving social services for which they may be eligible because they do not speak English. The purpose of this plan is to ensure that persons eligible for social services receive them and to avoid the possibility that a person who attempts to access services will face discrimination based on the language he or she speaks.

DHS serves a diverse population encompassing people with many different primary languages. Some of these individuals are unable to communicate in English. It is the responsibility of DHS staff to communicate to applicants and clients their rights and responsibilities as well as DHS policies.

Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg signed Local Law 73 into law on December 22, 2003 to ensure access of City services to all New Yorkers. Local Law 73 of 2003 or, the "Equal Access to Human Services Act of 2003", seeks to increase access to critical City services for New Yorkers whose primary language is not English. Many elements of Local Law 73 pertain exclusively to the Human Resources Administration ("HRA"), which is listed as "[t]he Agency" for purposes of this law. ACS, the Department of Homeless Services ("DHS") and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene ("DOHMH") are listed as "other covered agencies" in Local Law 73; as such, ACS, DHS, and DOHMH have specific obligations pursuant to Local Law 73 that are different from those enumerated for HRA.

DHS' language access policy is not limited to the measures set forth in this plan. Work is currently underway on a broader policy that will formalize DHS' commitment to access for the culturally and linguistically diverse communities of New York City. The upcoming policy will also highlight our commitment to protecting the privacy of our clients and the confidentiality of any data we may collect.

1. Identification of Primary Language

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by another covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

"Primary language" means the language in which a limited English proficient individual chooses to communicate with others.

Implementation Plan:

A. DHS workers shall screen all applicants for shelter to determine the primary language of the applicant.

B. When an individual is determined to have a primary language other than English, personnel shall inform the individual of available language assistance services in the individual's primary language by using the Language Identification Card, directly using the individual's primary language, or using an interpreter service.

C. If a worker has difficulty determining a client's primary language, the worker should use the Language Identification Card.

D. Once the applicant/client indicates he/she needs an interpreter, the DHS worker should immediately document the applicant's native language on the screening sheet.

2. Notice Regarding Free Language Assistance

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by an other covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

Implementation Plan:

A. DHS facilities shall post and maintain signage regarding the legal right to free language assistance by December 2007.

B. DHS will develop procedures to identify commonly encountered languages at individual sites by December 2007.

C. Signage will be translated into these commonly encountered languages and placed at all central points of contact, within the following intake centers: the Bronx Emergency Assistance Unit (EAU), the Adult Family Intake Center (AFIC), the Bellevue Adult facility for Men, and the adult women intake centers-Brooklyn Women's Assessment, Franklin Assessment Shelter, and Jamaica Armory Assessment.

D. Signage shall also be placed in all DHS shelter placement facilities. Signage should be posted at facility entrances and admitting and waiting areas.

3. Language Assistance Services

Implementation Requirements:

A. DHS will track language assistance requests to assess language assistance needs for particular facilities.

B. DHS will provide access to a private telephone interpretation service at all DHS facilities. A telephone in each facility will be designated for the use of this interpretation service. Designated telephones should have either speaker capability or equipped for the use of headsets.

C. Once the applicant/client indicates he/she needs an interpreter, DHS staff will immediately document the applicant's native language in the applicant/client's case record. Where possible DHS will assign the applicant to a bilingual caseworker who is fluent in the applicant/client's language.

D. Where a bilingual worker is not available, DHS staff may request assistance from a designated DHS Language Liaison.

E. If an appropriate interpreter still cannot be located the Language Liaison shall authorize the use of a private telephone interpretation service.

F. Personnel should never require an individual to use family members or friends as interpreters.

4. Quality Assurance Measures

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Plan Requirements:

A. DHS will devise quality assurance methods for testing the accuracy of primary language recording by October 2006.

B. DHS will provide quality assurance for translations through the selection of qualified vendors and the development of reference materials, to improve accuracy and consistency of translated documents by October 2006.

C. DHS will develop protocols to ensure proper dissemination of accurately translated materials to individuals in need of language assistance by December 2007.

5. Training

Plan Requirements:

A. DHS will train all appropriate personnel, including management, supervisors, and personnel who have direct contact with limited English proficient individuals, on protocol for delivery of language services by December 2007.

B. DHS will orient new staff and trainees on the availability of interpreter services by December 2007.

C. DHS will provide or contract to provide, training in how to elicit and record applicants'/clients' primary languages to all appropriate personnel, including management, supervisors and personnel who have direct contact with limited English proficient individuals. This training will be provided by October 2006.

D. Protocols will be developed for providing notification of the availability of interpretation services. The protocols will be disseminated throughout DHS and adapted for the needs of each program. This training will be provided by October 2006.

6. Recordkeeping and Monitoring

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the parimary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Plan Requirements:

A. DHS will maintain records of the primary language, race, and ethnicity of every individual served and the type of language assistance provided to clients.

B. DHS will maintain records of bilingual personnel disaggregated by language translated or interpreted by such personnel, as well as by office location.

C. DHS will perform periodic reviews to ensure that language assistance needs and requests are properly documented.

7. Coordination

A. DHS will designate a Language Assistance Coordinator to ensure compliance with Local Law 73 and this implementation plan.

8. Implementation Updates and Annual Reports

Relevant Portion of Law:

Implementation updates and annual reports. No later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year after the publication of the implementation plan and before implementation is complete, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an implementation update. The implementation update shall describe steps taken over the prior year to implement the requirements of this chapter and shall describe any changes in the agency or other covered agency's plan for implementing the remaining requirements of the local law that added this chapter before the date set forth in subdivision a of this section. The implementation update for every year after 2004 shall include a report on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office or other covered agency office. Not later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year beginning with 2008, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an annual report on language assistance services. At a minimum, this annual report of the agency, each agency contractor and each other covered agency shall set forth the information required to be maintained by this chapter.

Plan Requirements:

A. DHS will collect the above information from the covered programs, and produce an annual report, beginning 60 months from the effective date of the law.

B. Prior to the effective date for producing annual reports (60 months), DHS will produce implementation updates every year. These reports will provide updates about our implementation of the plan, and detail any changes in the plan.

C. The implementation update for 2005 (which will be released in 2006), and all reports thereafter, will include information on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office.

HEALTH AND MENTAL HYGIENE DEPARTMENT

New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene

Local Law 73 Implementation Plan

Introduction

This implementation plan presents the steps that the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) will take in order to ensure compliance with Local Law 73 of 2003.

This plan also shows DOHMH's commitment to provide meaningful access to all individuals seeking benefits and services, including individuals with limited English proficiency. Individuals should not face obstacles to receiving social services for which they may be eligible because they do not speak English. The purpose of this plan is to ensure that persons eligible for social services receive them and to avoid the possibility that a person who attempts to access services will face discrimination based on the language he or she speaks.

The mission of DOHMH is to protect and promote the health and mental health of all New Yorkers, which includes those with limited proficiency in English. DOHMH currently strives to ensure that limited English proficient (LEP) clients receive meaningful and timely access to our services through various methods, including employing appropriate bilingual staff, providing intake forms and important health information documents in various languages, and using a contracted telephone interpretation service.

1. Identification of Primary Language

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by an other covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's parimary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

"Primary language" means the language in which a limited English proficient individual chooses to communicate with others.

Implementation Plan:

A. Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by DOHMH, the employee shall determine the primary language of such individual and whether the person prefers an interpreter or translation assistance.

B. Employees should use Language Identification Cards to determine a client's primary language. Employees can ask the client to point to his or her primary language on the Language Identification Card. DOHMH will provide clinics and other appropriate service sites with Language Identification Cards. It is planned that all appropriate sites will have a supply of language identification cards by the end of calendar year 2005.

C. If an employee has difficulty determining a client's primary language, the employee shall first use the Language Identification Card and then, if necessary, shall contact the Language Assistance Coordinator of the telephonic interpretation service for assistance.

2. Notice Regarding Free Language Assistance

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by an other covered agency, the other covered agency shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the other covered agency shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of available language assistance services.

Implementation Plan:

A. Once the primary language of a client has been determined, using language identification cards or other appropriate means, the client shall be informed of his/her right to free language assistance services in his/her primary language by DOHMH staff or interpreters, or using the language identification card.

B. DOHMH will post multilingual signage in clinics and other appropriate service sites advising clients of the availability of language assistance. These posters will be made available by DOHMH Office of Cross Cultural Communications. The posters are available from our contracted telephone interpretation service. Signage is planned to be posted up in clinics by the end of calendar year 2005.

C. Protocols will be developed for answering telephone calls and providing notification of the availability of interpretation services. The protocols will be disseminated throughout DOHMH and adapted for the needs of each programs. This training will be provided by the end of calendar year 2007.

3. Language Assistance Services

Implementation Plan:

A. DOHMH will develop protocols for delivery of language services for LEP clients.

B. DOHMH Office of Cross-Cultural Communications will assembly and distribute a "Language Access Toolkit," including guidelines for staff providing service to LEP clientele and resources to facilitate communications during the encounter. Options will include direct service by bilingual staff, interpretation by staff, the DOHMH Volunteer Language Bank, and telephone interpretation. All sites will have access to telephone interpretation through the existing agency contract. Resources in the toolkit will include language identification tools, contact information for community organizations, and other references. Guidelines will also specify standard operating procedures for determining language preferences. Information contained in the toolkits will also be made available on the DOHMH intranet.

C. As staffing and available language skills will vary at each clinic site, each program will adapt the communications protocol to prioritize responses depending upon program or site-specific capacity. Guidelines will discuss benefits and caveats of various options. Community demographics, including information on languages spoken and immigrant populations represented in the catchment area, will be included.

D. DOHMH will distribute the Language Access Toolkit by July 2005.

E. DOHMH translates materials into multiple languages. As requested by individual programs and sometimes by other agencies, the Cross-Cultural Communications unit (CCC) solicits translations and review by qualified translators. In FY04, CCC translated over 300 documents, up from 230 in FY03. CCC works with its vendors and clients to improve accuracy and appropriateness of Translations. In recent years, the agency has translated health materials into over 20 languages. Fact sheets on West Nile virus have been available in 17 languages. Other materials from Oral Health, School Health, and HealthStat have been produced in more than five languages. Individual bureaus attempt to develop materials that reflect the linguistic profile of its clientele. The TB Control Bureau provides materials in several languages including Spanish, Chinese, Haitian Creole, Russian, and French, and has added patient brochures in several new languages, including Hindi, Urdu, and Bengali. The agency recently licensed machine translation technology from the Pan American Health Organization to assist with the translation of health information into Spanish. All Health Bulletins and most press releases are now translated into Spanish and Chinese, and in some cases, other languages as deemed appropriate. The agency will improve multilingual access to its public website over the coming year.

4. Quality Assurance Measures

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Implementation Plan:

A. DOHMH will devise quality assurance methods for testing the accuracy of primary language recording.

B. DOHMH currently provides quality assurance for translations, through the selection of qualified vendors; reviews by independent translators; and the development of reference materials, such as glossaries, to improve accuracy and consistency of translated documents. DOHMH will also establish periodic reviews by language review panels for the most requested languages. Periodic review panels will be established by the end of calendar year 2005.

5. Training

Implementation Plan:

A. DOHMH will provide, or contract to provide, to all appropriate personnel in covered programs, training in how to elicit (using language identification cards) and record clients' primary languages. This training will be provided by the end of calendar year 2006.

B. Protocols will be developed for answering telephone calls and providing notification of the availability of interpretation services. The protocols will be disseminated throughout DOHMH and adapted for the needs of each programs. This training will be provided by the end of calendar year 2007.

C. DOHMH will train all appropriate personnel on protocol for delivery of language services.

6. Record Keeping and Monitoring

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, every other covered agency shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives ongoing benefits or services. At a minimum, the other covered agency shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by type of language assistance required and primary language:

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the other covered agency, disaggregated by language translated by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Implementation Plan:

A. "Ongoing benefits and services." The Department's programs encompass areas of disease control, environmental health, epidemiology, health care access and improvement, health promotion and disease prevention, and mental hygiene services, serving the more than 8 million people who live in New York City. Certain programs see clients on an ongoing basis. Those programs will be covered by thius portion of the plan."[1]:

B. DOHMH programs that serve individuals seeking "ongoing benefits and services" shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual. Certain programs already track clients' primary languages. Other programs will change client intake procedures to track this information. Programs will also track the type of language assistance provided to clients.

C. Record Keeping of Bilingual/Interpreter Personnel. COHMH programs that serve individuals seeking "ongoing benefits and services" will keep records of the number of bilingual personnel disaggregated by language translated or interpreted by such personnel, as well as by office location.

[1] Many of DOHMH's services are contracted. Contracted services are not covered by the law.

7. Coordination

DOHMH will designate a Language Assistance Coordinator to ensure compliance with Local Law 73 and this implementation plan.

8. Implementation Updates and Annual Reports

Relevant Portion of Law:

Implementation updates and annual reports. No later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year after the publication of the implementation plan and before implementation is complete, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an implementation update. The implementation update shall describe steps taken over the prior year to implement the requirements of this chapter and shall describe any changes in the agency or other covered agency's plan for implementing the remaining requirements of the local law that added this chapter before the date set forth in subdivision a of this section. The implementation update for every year after 2004 shall include a report on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office or other covered agency office. Not later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year beginning with 2008, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an annual report on language assistance services. At a minimum, this annual report of the agency, each agency contractor and each other covered agency shall set forth the information required to be maintained by this chapter.

Implementation Plan:

A. DOHMH will collect the above information from the covered programs, and produce an annual report, beginning 60 months from the effective date of the law.

B. Prior to the effective date for producing annual reports (60 months), DOHMH will produce implementation updates every year. These reports will provide updates about our implementation of the plan, and detail any changes in the plan.

9. Use of Friends & Family Members as Interpreters

It is DOHMH's policy that personnel should never require an individual to use family members or friends as interpreters.

City Record Oct. 25, 2004

HUMAN RESOURCES ADMINISTRATION DEPARTMENT

Local Law 73 Implementation Plan

Introduction

This implementation plan presents the steps that the New York City Human Resources Administration/Department of Social Services (HRA/DSS) has taken and will take in order to be in compliance with Local Law 73 of 2003. This plan is a continuation of HRA/DSS's commitment to provide meaningful access to all individuals seeking benefits and services, including individuals with limited English proficiency.

HRA/DSS has a long history of providing the public with language services assistance. In continuing this tradition of serving limited English proficient individuals within the City, HRA/DSS created a dedicated unit in 2000, the Office of Refugee and Immigrant Affairs (ORIA), to monitor the Agency's client contact points, centralize contract management of translation and interpretation contracts, assist program areas in drafting and implementing policies regarding service to limited English speaking ability (LESA) customers, contract for testing of prospective bilingual workers, and provide training to Agency staff on LESA related matters.

1. Identification of Primary Language

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by the agency or an agency contractor, the agency or agency contractor shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the agency or agency contractor shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of the right to free language assistance services.

"Primary language" means the language in which a limited English proficient individual chooses to communicate with others.

Implementation Plan:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by HRA/DSS, the employee shall determine the primary language of such individual and whether the person requires language assistance services.

Of those making the initial contact by telephone, the majority call 311 or HRA's InfoLine where bilingual staff are available and have access to telephone interpreter services for languages not spoken by staff.

For individuals presenting in person, and for whom the language is not immediately recognized, employees will utilize the Language Card to make the determination. The HRA Language Card Form W-194 (6/27/03) instructs employees, "If you do not know the language of the person who wants your help, use this card. The person can point to the language needed and you can arrange for an interpreter."

The Language Card then proceeds to ask in 17 languages (Albanian, Arabic, Bosnian, Simplified Chinese, Traditional Chinese, Creole, French, Hebrew, Hindi, Italian, Khmer, Korean, Russian, Spanish, Urdu, Vietnamese, and Yiddish), including the covered languages, "do you speak . . . please be seated. I will call an interpreter for you."

The Family Independence Administration (FIA), with assistance from ORIA, developed LESA procedures for staff at all Job Centers, Non Public Assistance Food Stamp Centers, and the Special Needs Region to determine the primary language and the need for language assistance by LESA applicants and clients. These procedures also can serve as a template for each Agency program area to adapt to its particular program specifications.

2. Notice Regarding Free Language Assistance

Relevant Portion of Law:

Upon initial contact, whether by telephone or in person, with an individual seeking benefits and/or services offered by the agency or an agency contractor, the agency or agency contractor shall determine the primary language of such individual. If it is determined that such individual's primary language is not English, the agency or agency contractor shall inform the individual in his/her primary language of the right to free language assistance services.

The agency shall provide in all application and recertification packages an $8^1/_2$ inch × 11 inch or larger notice advising participants that free language assistance services are available at its offices and where to go if they would like an interpreter. This notice shall appear in all covered languages.

The agency and each agency contractor shall post conspicuous signs in every covered language at all agency offices and agency contractor offices informing limited English proficient individuals of the availability of free language assistance services.

Implementation Plan:

A. The majority of HRA/DSS public offices currently have 11×17 posters stating inassistance. Signs are printed the following languages: English, Albanian, Arabic, Bosnian/Serbo-Croatian, Chinese, Haitian Creole, French, Hebrew, Hindi, Italian, Khmer, Korean, Russian, Spanish, Vietnamese, and Yiddish. "If you do not speak English, interpreting services are available. If you would like an interpreter and one has not been provided for you, please contact . . ." Plans are being developed for the dissemination of posters to the balance of the HRA/DSS offices as well as to HRA/DSS contractors. Of those making the initial contact by telephone, the majority call 311 or HRA's InfoLine where bilingual staff are available and have access to telephone interpreter services for languages not spoken by staff.

B. All public assistance HRA/DSS centers have LESA Liaisons whose names are listed on the posters and are designated to procure interpreter services for an applicant/participant. LESA Liaisons are authorized to have a bilingual worker assigned to assist the client, call for a contracted telephone interpreter, or order a contracted on-site interpreter to report to the location.

C. All public assistance and food stamps application kits currently contain an insert advising of the availability of free language services.

3. Language Assistance Services

Relevant Portion of Law:

When a limited English proficient individual seeks or receives benefits or services from an agency office or agency contractor, the agency office or agency contractor shall provide prompt language assistance services in all interactions with that individual, whether the interaction is by telephone or in person. The agency office or agency contractor shall meet its obligation to provide prompt language assistance services for purposes of this subdivision by ensuring that limited English proficient individuals do not have to wait unreasonably longer to receive assistance than individuals who do not require language assistance services.

Where an application or form requires completion in English by a limited English proficient individual for submission to a state or federal authority, the agency or agency contractor shall provide oral translation of such application or form as well as certification by the limited English proficient individual that the form was translated and completed by an interpreter, as wet out in internal policies and procedures.

The agency shall make all reasonable efforts to provide language assistance services in person by bilingual personnel.

The agency shall translate all documents into every covered language as of the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter.

"Covered language" means Arabic, Chinese, Haitian Creole, Korean, Russian or Spanish.

The agency shall phase in language assistance services for covered functions as follows:

1. As of the first day of the twenty-fourth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, no less than 20% of covered functions provided by agency offices.

2. As of the first day of the forty-eight month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, no less than 40% of covered functions provided by agency offices.

3. As of the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, 100% of covered functions provided by agency offices.

Contractors:

1. In all covered contracts entered into or renewed after January 1, 2005, the contractor shall certify that it shall make available language assistance services and maintain and provide access to records as required by this chapter.

2. Every covered contract must contain a provision in which the contractor acknowledges that the following responsibilities constitute materials terms of the contract:

a. to provide language assistance services as required by this chapter;

b. to comply with the record keeping requirements set forth in this chapter;

c. to provide the city access to its records for the purposes of audits or investigations to ascertain compliance with the provisions of this section, to the extent permitted; and

d. to provide evidence to the city that the contractor is in compliance with the provisions of this section, upon request.

3. If an agency contractor enters into a subcontract agreement to provide any benefits or services under a covered contract, that subcontract will be considered a covered contract for purposes of this section and the provisions of this section will bind the subcontractor. Each contractor is required to include the contract provision set forth in paragraph 2 of this subdivision in any such subcontract agreement.

"Covered contract" means a contract between the agency and a contractor to perform a covered function.

"Covered function" means any of the following functions:

1. Benefits or services offered or provided at agency offices;

2. Benefits or services provided by agency contractors to provide employment services in connection with participation of individuals engaged in activities required by sections 335 through 336-c of the social services law;

3. Home care services; and

4. Determinations regarding eligibility for subsidized childcare.

Implementation Plan:

A. Before the enactment of Local Law 73, HRA/DSS was in the process of translating its food stamp-related, city-generated, client-contact forms into nine languages. The languages are Spanish, Arabic, Chinese, French, Haitian Creole, Korean, Russian, Vietnamese and Yiddish. These languages were identified as the most common foreign languages of HRA/DSS food stamp customers in a survey conducted by HRA/DSS in the fall of 2001. Almost all client contact forms and informational brochures are available in Spanish.

B. The Agency has invested in technology solutions to provide customers with computer-generated notices in English, Spanish, Arabic, Chinese, French, Haitian Creole, Korean, Russian, Vietnamese, and Yiddish.

C. HRA/DSS's Office of Constituent and Community Affairs manages the Infoline Call Center, a crucial telephone "help line" available to the general public seeking information on all HRA/DSS programs. Infoline posters, Form W-184 (revised 01/04) are 11×17 posters in English, Spanish, Arabic, Chinese, Korean, Haitian Creole, and Russian, which state, "For assistance with any HRA Program-Call This Toll-Free Number." These posters are conspicuously posted in all waiting rooms throughout the Agency where people present themselves in person for assistance.

D. Homebound applicants may call the Infoline number to request an application or a home visit. Automated information is available 24 hours a day through a multilingual toll-free service. During business hours, Infoline is staffed by bilingual representatives who are available to answer questions in English, Spanish, Russian, Chinese, and Vietnamese. Language access for all other languages is provided with the help of the Agency's telephone interpreter contracts.

E. Certain Agency human services contracts already require language access for participants, and as of January 2005, any new or renewed contracts will contain said language. All HRA/DSS contracts conform to current Procurement Policy Board Rules.

F. ORIA contacted program areas throughout HRA/DSS from February 2004-September 2004 to notify them of the passage of Local Law 73. ORIA asked each program area to fill out a survey to identify "documents," as defined by this law, which includes city-generated:

o Application forms and corresponding instructional materials

o Notices that require a response from the participant

- Notices that concern the denial, termination, reduction, increase or issuance of a benefit or service
- Notices regarding the rights of participants to a conference and or fair hearing
- Notices describing regulation changes that affect benefits.

ORIA is presently in the second phase of HRA/DSS's implementation process, to rank documents by frequency of use. This information will be used to set the order in which as-yet-untranslated documents will be translated. This task will be conducted from September 2004-February 2005. In its third and final phase, based on identification of documents in Phase 2, HRA will have met or exceeded the translation schedule outlined in the matrix below:

4. Quality Assurance Measures

Relevent Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, the agency and each agency contractor shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives benefits or services from the agency or agency contractor. At a minimum, the agency and each agency contractor shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by agency, agency contractor or contractor, agency office, type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the agency, disaggregated by language translated or interpreted by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

The agency and each agency contractor shall screen bilingual personnel and interpreter personnel for their ability to provide language assistance services. The agency and each agency contractor shall provide annual training for bilingual personnel and interpreter personnel and ensure that they are providing appropriate language assistance services.

Implementation Plan:

A. ORIA monitors HRA/DSS's contact points to assess whether primary language determinations are recorded properly and whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

B. ORIA contracts for testing of the oral, written and reading language skills of prospective bilingual employees.

C. ORIA currently reviews Agency aggregate coding of LESA cases to identify potential errors by searching for anomalies. Possible miscodes are referred to centers for investigation and, if appropriate, corrective action. This process is continuing under Local Law 73.

D. ORIA currently performs case file reviews using professional standards for sampling and data analysis. In the future case file reviews meeting professional standards will be designed and implemented to fulfill the requirements imposed by Local Law 73.

E. ORIA reviews the assignment of LESA cases semi-monthly to identify trends and ensure that LESA cases are being matched to available bilingual staff. This process is continuing under Local Law 73.

F. HRA/DSS will conductany recruitment of bilingual staff based on the data shared by ORIA which tracks the number of bilingual staff assigned to cases. All prospective bilingual hires will be tested as outlines above.

G. HRA contracts with a quality assurance firm to review the accuracy of vendor provided translations.

5. Training

Relevant Portion of Law:

The agency and each agency contractor shall provide annual training for bilingual personnel and interpreter personnel and ensure that they are providing appropriate language assistance services.

Implementation Plan:

ORIA provides training to HRA/DSS staff on matters related to limited English speaking ability customers, including the utilization of contracted interpretation services (telephone and on-site).

6. Record Keeping and Monitoring

Relevant Portion of Law:

No later than the first day of the sixtieth month after the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, the agency and each agency contractor shall maintain records of the primary language of every individual who seeks or receives benefits or services from the agency or agency contractor. At a minimum, the agency and each agency contractor shall maintain specific records of the following:

1. The number of limited English proficient individuals served, disaggregated by agency, agency contractor or contractor, agency office, type of language assistance required and primary language;

2. The number of bilingual personnel and the number of interpreter personnel employed by the agency, disaggregated by language translated or interpreted by such personnel;

3. Whether primary language determinations are recorded properly; and

4. Whether documents are translated accurately and disseminated properly.

Implementation Plan:

A. ORIA tracks the percentage and number of limited English speaking ability customer cases within the Family Independence Administration.

B. ORIA receives data semi-monthly for analysis of the number of LESA coded cases. Current data reflects that 15.6% of cases at Agency Job Centers are coded for Spanish and 3.5% for other languages; 13.59% of Food Stamp only cases are coded for Spanish and 5.35% are coded for other languages.

C. Based on the tracking of bilingual workers and the number of LESA cases, ORIA issues a bimonthly report on the Agency's performance.

7. Coordination

ORIA serves as the coordinating body within HRA/DSS to ensure compliance with Local Law 73 and this implementation plan.

8. Implementation Updates and Annual Reports

Relevant Portion of Law:

Implementation updates and annual reports. No later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year after the publication of the implementation plan and before implementation is complete, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an implementation update. The implementation update shall describe steps taken over the prior year to implement the requirements of this chapter and shall describe any changes in the agency or other covered agency's plan for implementing the remaining requirements of the local law that added this chapter beofre the date set forth in subdivision f of this section. The implementation update for every year after 2004 shall include a report on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office or other covered agency office. Not later than 90 days after the end of each calendar year beginning with 2008, the agency and each other covered agency shall publish an annual report on language assistance services. At a minimum, this annual report of the agency, each agency contractor and each other covered agency shall set forth the information required to be maintained by this chapter.

Implementation Plan:

A. Before the effective date for producing annual reports (60 months), HRA/DSS will produce implementation updates every year. These reports will provide updates about our implementation of the plan, and detail any changes in the plan.

B. The implementation update for 2005 (which will be released in 2006), and all reports thereafter, will include information on the number of limited English proficient people served, disaggregated by language and by agency office.

¶ 1. Under the provisions of this section and § 623 of the Charter, the Commissioner of Correction is empowered to transfer prisoners from any prison under her control to another prison or correctional institution under the jurisdiction of the Department of Correction. Hence, the Commissioner had full authority to transfer adolescent from one house of detention to another house and the exercise of that authority did not violate any constitutional rights of the adolescent or his attorney and mere inconvenience relating to visitation which may be caused to adolescent or his attorney was not sufficient to condemn the transfer, which was based on enlightened policy with respect to youthful offenders.-Bach v. CHAPTER 1 DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION*26

The charter empowers the council as the legislative body of the city of New York to pass laws "for the order, protection and government of persons and property; for the preservation of the public health, comfort, peace and prosperity of the city and its inhabitants."

One of the major problems facing New York today, and one which involves almost every one of the above enumerated powers is the narcotics problem.

There has been no abatement in the seriously burgeoning scourge of narcotic addiction in New York city despite the nineteen hundred sixty-two White House conference on narcotics and drug abuses and the nineteen hundred sixty-five Gracie Mansion conference on narcotics addiction, the enactment and administration of article nine of the mental hygiene law, and the various legislative expressions of interest and concern on federal, state and city levels.

It has also been adequately demonstrated that the incarceration of an addict after an arrest and trial without a specific modality of medical and/or social therapy, even with the involvement of multi-million dollar expense and capital funding, offers no solution to the problem and even the establishment of many so-called "half-way houses" dealing with after-care and the social needs of the drug addict have failed.

Sufficient studies have been made to determine that a program of treatment which blocks out the craving, narcotic hunger and euphoria associated with heroin is successful and by giving maintenance dosages of methadone hydrochloride as a complete substitute for heroin, we can start to drive down the rate of narcotics addiction in our city.

Between December nineteen hundred sixty-seven and April nineteen hundred sixty-eight, the city prison at Rikers Island, was used for a demonstration project for the use of methadone hydrochloride to combat heroin addiction. This voluntary program involved twelve hard core, intractable, recidivist addicts, with multiple arrest and long conviction records and it achieved remarkable results.

One of the conclusions of the final report of this demonstration project reveals that a large number of the four thousand to five thousand addict prisoners would be willing to accept methadone maintenance treatment if it were available. The applicants for interviews in the prison were so numerous that all could not be interviewed. Letters from prisoners still continue to arrive requesting treatment.

Despite the demonstrated success of the program, it is being abandoned. The final report reflects the reason for not continuing and expanding the program to realistic dimensions; that reason is the unavailability of funds. This conclusion is difficult to comprehend in view of the multi-million dollar funding of other programs, which have neither revealed any new solutions nor have they demonstrated any degree of achievement.

It is not anticipated that this legislation will solve the problem. Hopefully, it will reverse the ever mounting spiral of heroin addiction.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. This section, which authorizes the suspension without pay of members of the uniformed service (other than

New York City police officers) charged with a crime for so long as it takes to dispose of criminal charges, violates Civil Service Law § 75, which prohibits the suspension without pay of a civil service employee for more than 30 days. Thus, the court granted a petition to rescind a longer term suspension. Meringolo v. Jacobson, N.Y.L.J., July 7, 1997, page 26, col. 4 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.), aff'd 256 A.D.2d 20, 680 N.Y.S.2d 521 (1st Dept. 1998), motion for leave to appeal dismissed, 93 N.Y.2d 948, 694 N.Y.S.2d 342 (1999).

¶ 2. Admin. Code §9-112 conflicts with the earlier enacted Civil Service Law §75(3), which provides that a civil servant may not be suspended without pay for more than 30 days pending the hearing and determination of charges of incompetency or misconduct. However, Civil Service Law §§76(4) and 201(2), when read together, permit a public employer and an employee organization to supplement, modify or replace §75(3). Where there is such an agreement, an employee can be suspended without pay for more than 30 days, pending a hearing. Seabrook v. Kerik, 5 A.D.3d 223, 772 N.Y.S.2d 822 (1st Dept. 2004), leave to appeal denied, 3 N.Y.3d 603, 782 N.Y.S.2d 697, 816 N.E.2d 570 (2004).

CHAPTER 1 DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION*26

a. Unless expressly otherwise provided, whenever used in this section, the following terms shall mean and include:

1. Custodial officer shall mean and include any and all correction officers (male), any and all captains, any and all correction officers (female), and any and all supervising correction officers (female). For the purposes of this section each of the titles enumerated herein shall constitute a single employee classification.

2. Working cycle shall mean and include that period of time within which each custodial officer in an employee classification at an institution shall be assigned to the same number of each of the normal tours of duty. Working cycles may vary as between institutions, and may vary as to the different employee classifications in the same or different institutions, but in no case may a working cycle exceed one calendar year in duration.

b. The commissioner of correction or other officer or officers having the management, control or direction of the department of correction shall divide all the custodial officers in each employee classification into three platoons at each institution. No one of such platoons nor any member thereof shall be assigned to more than one tour of duty, to consist of not more than ten consecutive hours in each consecutive twenty-four hours, excepting only that in the event of riots, prison breaks or other similar emergencies, so many of said platoons or of the members thereof as may be necessary, may be continued on duty for such hours as may be necessary. For the purpose of changing tours of duty and for the necessary time consumed therein, said platoons or members thereof shall be continued on duty until relieved.

c. Tours of duty shall commence at midnight, eight o'clock ante meridian and four o'clock post meridian of each consecutive twenty-four hours. Such tours of duty shall hereinafter be designated as normal tours of duty. At the discretion of the warden or other officer or officers in charge of an institution, other tours of duty may be created. Such tours of duty shall hereinafter be designated as miscellaneous tours of duty.

Within each complete working cycle at each institution, every custodial officer in the same employee classification shall be assigned to the same number of each of the normal tours of duty. For the purpose of such assignment of normal tours of duty as hereinbefore prescribed, miscellaneous tours of duty which commence at or after seven o'clock ante meridian and at or before eleven o'clock ante meridian shall be considered to be a part of that normal tour of duty which commences at eight o'clock ante meridian; miscellaneous tours of duty which commence after eleven o'clock ante meridian and before eight o'clock post meridian shall be considered to be a part of that normal tour of duty which commences at four o'clock post meridian; miscellaneous tours of duty which commence at or after eight o'clock post meridian and before seven o'clock ante meridian shall be considered to be a part of that normal tour of duty which commences at midnight.

All normal tours of duty which commence at midnight or at four o'clock post meridian, and all miscellaneous tours of duty which shall be considered a part of these normal tours of duty as hereinbefore prescribed, shall be changed at least once in every calendar month.

Every member of each platoon shall be entitled to at least one calendar day of rest upon the completion of every six tours of duty. This day of rest shall not be deferred longer than one calendar week after such member has become entitled thereto.

None of the foregoing provisions of this section shall apply to or govern the rotation of tours of duty of custodial officers who may be detailed or assigned to an institution wherein no inmates are detained overnight.

Where in any single institution the total number of custodial officers in any single employee classification is less than four in number, none of the foregoing provisions of this section shall apply to or govern the rotation of tours of duty of members of such employee classification in said institution.

None of the foregoing provisions of this section shall apply to or govern the rotation of tours of duty of custodial officers who may be detailed or assigned to what shall hereinafter be known and designated as the special duty squad at each institution, provided, however, that the number of custodial officers detailed or assigned to a special duty squad at any single institution may not exceed twenty-five per centum of the total number of custodial officers employed at the said institution; provided, however, that custodial officers detailed or assigned to special duty squads may be assigned only to that normal tour of duty commencing at eight o'clock ante meridian, or to miscellaneous tours of duty constituting a part of such normal tour of duty; and provided further, however, that throughout the department of correction the total number of custodial officers detailed or assigned to steady tours of duty, whether as members of special duty squads or otherwise, shall not exceed fifteen per centum of the total number of custodial officers employed in the department of correction. None of the foregoing provisions of this subdivision shall apply to or govern the rotation of tours of duty of custodial officers who may be detailed or assigned to steady tours of duty for reasons of management efficiency, which reasons shall presumptively include the subdivision of a facility and/or unit into smaller units of management.

d. All custodial officers shall be allowed a vacation period as may be authorized in leave regulations promulgated by the mayor. During an emergency, as defined herein, the vacation period may be withheld for such length of time as may be necessary. Upon cessation of such emergency each of such custodial officers from whom a vacation or a portion of a vacation shall have been withheld during such emergency, shall receive within six months from such cessation a leave of absence with pay commensurate with the number of days of such vacation withheld.

f. All general or specific laws inconsistent with this section or with any part thereof are hereby repealed; provided, however, that this section shall in no manner affect any provisions of said law concerning furlough or leave of absence or exempting members of the department of correction from obligation to wear uniform when not on actual duty.

§ 9-117 Composition of uniformed force of department of correction; uniforms.

a. The uniformed force of the department of correction shall consist of the following ranks:

1. Correction officers.

2. Captains.

3. Assistant deputy wardens.

4. Deputy wardens.

5. Wardens.

b. 1. The composition of the uniformed force as established by this section shall be altered only by the creation therein of new positions or ranks the appointments to which shall be made only from a list promulgated as the result of a promotion examination. In such examination only members of the uniformed force shall be eligible to compete.

2. The duty of maintaining the custody and supervision of persons detained or confined by the department of correction shall be performed solely by members of the uniformed force and shall not be delegated, transferred or assigned in whole or in part to private persons or entities.

3. Nothing in this subdivision shall limit in any way persons who are or will be employed by or under contract with the department of correction from maintaining incidental supervision and custody of an inmate, where the primary duties and responsibilities of such persons and contractors consist of administering or providing programs and services to persons detained or confined in any of its facilities; nor shall anything in this subdivision be construed to limit or affect the existing authority of the mayor and commissioner to appoint non-uniformed persons, whose duties include overall security of the department of correction, to positions of authority.

c. The uniforms to be worn by the members of the force shall be prescribed by the commissioner of correction.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Petitioner, captain in the Department of Correction, qualified in a civil service examination for deputy warden. Thereafter a new position of assistant deputy warden was created, and candidates were certified from the list for deputy warden. Since no list had been promulgated for this new position, certifications were properly made from the deputy warden list.-Matter of Kaffaro v. Schechter, 7 Misc. 2d 518, 162 N.Y.S. 2d 642 [1957].

¶ 2. A series of offenses committed by petitioner while in the Navy plus a conviction for disorderly conduct could be considered collectively so as to justify termination of employment of petitioner at end of six months' probation period as correction officer.-Matter of Kearney (Kross), 142 (70) N.Y.L.J. (10-7-59) 12, Col. 6 F.

¶ 3. A department head has discretion to make specific assignments within a grade level and the language of this section is broad enough to authorize the elimination by the director of personnel of four prior titles and the creation of a new title encompassing the eliminated titles.-Lenihan v. CHAPTER 1 DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTION*26

a. The commissioner of correction may establish a commissary in any institution under the commissioner's jurisdiction for the use and benefit of the inmates and employees thereof. All moneys received from the sales of such commissaries shall be paid over semi-monthly to the commissioner of finance without deduction. Except as otherwise provided in this subdivision, the provisions of section 12-114 of the code shall apply to every officer or employee who receives such moneys in the performance of his or her duties in any such commissary. The accounts of the commissaries shall be subject to supervision, examination and audit by the comptroller and all other powers of the comptroller in accordance with the provisions of the charter and code.

b. All moneys received from the sales from such commissaries shall be kept in a separate and distinct fund to be known as the commissary fund. Such fund shall be used for:

1. The purchase of all merchandise for resale in such commissaries;

2. The purchase of supplies, materials, and equipment for such commissaries;

3. The furnishing of work or labor to be done for such commissaries; and

4. All other costs and expenses of operating such commissaries other than the salaries of officers and employees employed in such commissaries.

c. Any surplus remaining in the commissary fund after deducting all items described in subdivision b hereof shall be used for the general welfare of the inmates of the institutions under the jurisdiction of the department of correction. In the event such fund at any time exceeds one hundred thousand dollars, the excess shall be transferred to the general fund.

d. All expenditures for items described in paragraph one of subdivision b of this section shall be made upon vouchers issued by the commissioner of correction and subject to audit by the comptroller. All other expenditures described in subdivision b and subdivision c of this section shall be made by the commissioner in accordance with schedules approved by the mayor or of the director of the budget acting in accordance with a delegation of power from the mayor. All supplies, materials, equipment and merchandise to be furnished and all work or labor to be done, the cost of which is payable from the commissary fund, shall be furnished or provided in accordance with the provisions of chapter one of title six of the charter and of the code.

e. The salaries of the employees of such commissaries shall be fixed by the mayor.

f. Any officer or employee, whose duties in connection with the commissary fund involve possession of or control over funds, shall execute a bond to the city for the faithful performance of his or her duties in such sum as may be fixed and with sureties to be approved by the comptroller.

§ 9-127 Housing,30 employment and sobriety needs.

a. The department of correction and the department of homeless services shall develop a process for identifying individuals who repeatedly are admitted to city correctional institutions and who, in addition, either immediately before their admission to or after their release from such institutions, are housed in shelter provided by the department of homeless services.

b. The department of correction shall collect, from any sentenced inmate who will serve, after sentencing, ten days or more in any city correctional institution, information relating to such inmate's housing, employment and sobriety needs. The department of correction shall, with the consent of such inmate, provide such information to any social service organization that is providing discharge planning services to such inmate under contract with the department of correction. For the purposes of this section and sections 9-128 and 9-129 of this title, "discharge planning" shall mean the creation of a plan for post-release services and assistance with access to community-based resources and government benefits designed to promote an inmate's successful reintegration into the community.

Section added L.L. 54/2004 § 2, eff. July 1, 2005 with special provisions including expiration and repeal. [See Note 1]

1. Provisions of L.L. 54/2004:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The Department of Correction handles approximately 108,000 admissions each year, and manages an average daily inmate population of more than 14,000 individuals. Of the 108,000 admissions, approximately 80,000 are discharged into the community; the remaining inmates are sent to state prison.

Those entering and being discharged from city jails suffer from many social problems: 32% read below a fifth grade level, 20% required detoxification services upon admission to jail, 30% end up in the city shelter system, 29% of inmates receiving mental health services are diagnosed with severe mental illness, and 63% of inmates will be rearrested within three years of release. It is in the best interests of the people of the City of New York, these inmates, their families, and the communities these inmates will return to that attempts be made to address the employment, sobriety and housing problems that keep the same people coming back to jail. Effective discharge planning is crucial to achieving this goal.

In order for discharge planning to be effective, inmates must be in the custody of the Department of Correction for sufficient time to receive meaningful assistance and must have a known discharge date for which the Department can plan. Approximately 80% of people admitted to the Department of Correction, however, are detainees whose dates of discharge are unknown, which results in release with no advance notice. Moreover, a great number of sentenced inmates are sentenced to time already served, or to such short lengths of stay that effective interventions are impractical. In 2003, approximately 44% of inmates were released in seven days or less. As a result, discharge planning should be focused on inmates who will serve at least 30 days in the city's jails, with efforts directed at other inmates as resources permit.

New York City has established the Discharge Planning Project, a multi-agency and multi-provider initiative to address re-entry issues. Government participants include the Department of Correction, the Department of Probation, the Department of Homeless Services, the Human Resources Administration, the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and the Office of the Criminal Justice Coordinator. These agencies are working cooperatively with many not-for-profit service providers and advocacy organizations in a combined effort to produce better post-incarceration outcomes. The efforts of the project have led to numerous important initiatives, including transitional employment programs, a screening assessment to determine the employment, substance abuse, and housing needs of new inmates, streamlined procedures for obtaining birth certificates and social security cards, case management in the community and a refocusing of efforts towards sentenced inmates.

The Council finds that assisting inmates in accessing social services and government benefits will improve their ability to re-integrate into the community. The Council further finds that codifying into law recent initiatives of city agencies will ensure the long-term continuation and expansion of such efforts. Accordingly, the Council declares that it is reasonable and necessary to mandate the provision of certain discharge planning services.

§ 3. This local law shall take effect on July 1, 2005, except that the commissioner of correction and the commissioner of homeless services shall take all actions necessary to implement this local law on or before the date upon which it shall take effect. This local law shall expire and be deemed repealed on June 30, 2015, provided that the commissioner of correction provides written notice to the council in the first six months of the year 2014 that this local law will expire without further action by the council. If the commissioner does not provide such notice by June 30, 2014, this local law shall expire and be deemed repealed one year following the date on which the council receives such notice.

The annual fee shall be twenty-five dollars for each automobile so equipped. A permit may be renewed upon the payment of a like sum and under like conditions.

b. The police commissioner is authorized, in his or her discretion, to issue permits for radio receiving sets capable of receiving signals on the frequencies allocated to police use to employees of federal, state and municipal bureaus and departments without requiring the payment of the annual fee herein provided.

c. Violations. Any person who shall violate any provision of this section, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty-five dollars, or imprisonment for thirty days, or both.

¶ 1. Police Commissioner's denial to petitioner of permit to equip his automobile with a short wave radio receiving set so that he might receive police signals, held not arbitrary, where policy of Commissioner was to grant permits only to photographers regularly employed on the photographers' staff of metropolitan newspapers, whereas petitioner had recently organized a private venture and was not employed by any newspaper. Commissioner claimed that to approve the application would open the door to numerous free lance photographers, resulting in interference with the police at the scene of crime and emergency.-Stafford v. ¶ 1. Where petitioner had written letters containing threats of violence and destruction of property against a neighbor who petitioner claimed regularly created noise disturbances despite many complaints, the Police Department had a rational basis for denying petitioner's application for a rifle or shotgun permit. Petitioner argued that he wrote those letters without intention to carry it out, and merely wanted to call attention to his noise complaints, but the Police Department properly rejected that argument, finding that the mere making of the threats demonstrated that petitioner lacked the temperament or character necessary to possess a rifle or shotgun. ¶ 1. Plaintiff, who found a valuable bracelet and a few days thereafter learned, through a newspaper advertisement in which a "liberal reward" was offered, that it belonged to defendant, held not to have set forth a cause of action for recovery of a reward, on theory of services rendered in returning the bracelet to the true owner, since this was an act which the plaintiff was required to perform by law, and therefore there was no consideration for the offer of the reward.-Rheinhauer v. DeKreiges, 188 Misc. 747, 67 N.Y.S. 2d 211 [1946].

¶ 2. On submission of controversy as to whether the safe deposit company or the lessee of safe deposit box was entitled to possession of package of U.S. currency found by the lessee in examining booth of the safe deposit company, the City of New York should have an opportunity to be heard with respect to applicability to the situation of Admin. ¶ 3. Money which was found by lessee of one of plaintiff's safe deposit boxes while attending at plaintiff's vault wherein his particular box was situated, was directed to be deposited with the Property Clerk of the City of New York, pursuant to Admin. Code § 435-4.1. Determination of action brought by plaintiff safe deposit company against representative of the deceased finder would be held in abeyance pending running of the statutory period during which the money would be held by the Property Clerk.-Mfrs. ¶ 4. Where a safe deposit company maintained a branch bank and safe deposit at 125th Street with the main office and major portion of the premises being the bank's, but with two rooms entering through the bank's office being operated by the safe deposit company, and in the first of these rooms, which was the one nearest the door, the safe deposit company's representative, on the day in question and on several days prior thereto, had been soliciting new accounts and selling U.S. Bonds, such use of the room was deemed a public one and the room was deemed to constitute public premises within the meaning of this section. Hence, money found by customer on the floor of the first room was required to be turned over to the Property Clerk of the City of New York to be held in accordance with obligations under the law, and if no true owner appeared, it was to be given to the finder.-Manufacturers Safe Deposit Company v. CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

a. Legislative declaration. It is hereby declared that the use or operation of any radio device or apparatus or any device or apparatus for the amplification of sounds from any radio, phonograph or other sound-making or sound-producing device, or any device or apparatus for the reproduction or amplification of the human voice or other sounds, in front of or outside of any building, place or premises, or in or through any window, doorway or opening of such building, place or premises, abutting or adjacent to a public street, park or place, or in or upon any vehicle operated, standing or being in or upon any public street, park or place, where the sounds therefrom may be heard upon any public street, park or place, or from any stand, platform or other structure, or from any airplane or other device used for flying, flying over the city, or on a boat or on the waters within the jurisdiction of the city, or anywhere on or in the public streets, parks or places, is detrimental to the health, welfare and safety of the inhabitants of the city, in that such use or operation diverts the attention of pedestrians and vehicle operators in the public streets, parks and places, thus increasing traffic hazards and causing injury to life and limb. It is hereby further declared that such use or operation disturbs the public peace and comfort and the peaceful enjoyment by the people of their rights to use the public streets, parks and places for street, park and other public purposes and disturbs the peace, quiet and comfort of the neighboring inhabitants. Therefore, it is hereby declared as a matter of legislative determination that the prohibition of such use or operation for commercial or business advertising purposes and the proper regulation of such use and operation for all other purposes is essential to protect the health, welfare and safety of the inhabitants of the city, to secure the health, safety, comfort, convenience, and peaceful enjoyment by the people of their rights to use the public streets, parks and places for street, park and other public purposes and to secure the peace, quiet and comfort of the city's inhabitants. It is hereby further declared as a matter of legislative determination that the expense of supervising and regulating the use and operation of such sound devices and apparatus for purposes other than commercial and business advertising purposes should be borne by the persons using or operating such devices and apparatus and that the requirement of a nominal fee for the issuance of a permit for such use and operation as hereinafter prescribed is intended to defray the expenses of regulating such use or operation for the health, welfare and safety of all the people.

b. Definitions. As used in this section: 1. The term "public holidays" shall mean those days expressly set forth in section twenty-four of the general construction law.

2. The term "sound device or apparatus" shall mean any radio device or apparatus, or any device or apparatus for the amplification of any sounds from any radio, phonograph, or other sound-making or sound-producing device, or any device or apparatus for the reproduction or amplification of the human voice or other sounds;

3. The phrase "to use or operate any sound device or apparatus in, on, near or adjacent to any public street, park or place," shall mean to use or operate or cause to be used or operated any sound device or apparatus in front or outside of any building, place or premises, or in or through any window, doorway or opening of such building, place or premises, abutting on or adjacent to a public street, park or place, or in or upon any vehicle operated, standing or being in or on any public street, park or place, where the sounds therefrom may be heard upon any public street, park or place, or from any stand, platform or other structure, or from any other airplane or other device used for flying, flying over the city, or on a boat or on the waters within the jurisdiction of the city, or anywhere on the public streets, parks or places.

c. Use and operation of the sound devices and apparatus for commercial and business advertising purposes. It shall be unlawful for any person to use or operate any sound device or apparatus in, on, near or adjacent to any public street, park or place, for commercial and business advertising purpose.

d. Use and operation of sound devices and apparatus for other than commercial and business advertising purposes; permit required. It shall be unlawful for any person to use or operate any sound device or apparatus, in, on, near or adjacent to any public street, park or place, unless such person shall have first obtained a permit to be issued by the police commissioner in the manner hereinafter prescribed and unless the police commissioner shall comply with the provisions of this section and the terms and conditions prescribed in such permit.

e. Applications. Each applicant for a permit to use or operate a sound device or apparatus in, on, near or adjacent to any public street, park or place shall file a written application with the police commissioner, at the police precinct covering the area in which such sound device or apparatus is to be used or operated, at least five days prior to the date upon which such sound device or apparatus is to be used or operated. Such application shall describe the specific location in which such sound device or apparatus is proposed to be used or operated, the day and the hour or hours during which it is proposed to be used or operated, the volume of sound which is proposed to be used measured by decibels or by any other efficient method of measuring sound, and such other pertinent information as the police commissioner may deem necessary to enable the police commissioner to carry out the provisions of this section.

f. Issuance of permit; terms. The police commissioner shall not deny a permit for any specific time, location or use, to any applicant who complies with the provisions of this section, except for one or more of the reasons specified in subdivision g hereof or for non-payment of the fee prescribed in subdivision h hereof, or to prevent overlapping in the granting of permits, provided, however, that a permit issued for multiple days shall be issued only for multiple days within a period of five consecutive calendar days and only at the same location. Each permit issued pursuant to this section shall describe the specific location in which such sound device or apparatus may be used or operated thereunder, the exact period of time for which such apparatus or device may be operated in such location, the maximum volume of sound which may be employed in such use or operation and such other terms and conditions as may be necessary, for the purpose of securing the health, safety, comfort, convenience and peaceful enjoyment by the people of their right to use the public streets, parks or places for street, park or other public purposes, protecting the health, welfare and safety of the inhabitants of the city, and securing the peace, quiet and comfort of the neighboring inhabitants.

g. Special restrictions. The police commissioner shall not issue any permit for the use of a sound device or apparatus:

1. In any location within five hundred feet of a school, courthouse or church, during the hours of school, court or worship, respectively, or within five hundred feet of any hospital or similar institution;

2. In any location where the commissioner, upon investigation, shall determine that the conditions of vehicular or pedestrian traffic or both are such that the use of such a device or apparatus will constitute a threat to the safety of pedestrians or vehicular operators;

3. In any location where the commissioner, upon investigation, shall determine that conditions of overcrowding or of street repair or other physical conditions are such that the use of a sound device or apparatus will deprive the public of the right to the safe, comfortable, convenient and peaceful enjoyment of any public street, park or place for street, park or other public purposes, or will constitute a threat to the safety of pedestrians or vehicle operators;

4. In or on any vehicle or other device while it is in transit;

5. Between the hours of ten p.m. and nine a.m.; or

6. Between the hours of eight p.m. or sunset, whichever is later, and nine a.m. on weekdays and between the hours of eight p.m. or sunset, whichever is later, and ten a.m. on weekends and public holidays, in any location within fifty feet of any building that is lawfully occupied for residential use. The distance of fifty feet shall be measured in a straight line from the point on the exterior wall of such building nearest to any point in the location for which the permit is sought.

h. Fees. Each applicant for a single-day permit issued under the provisions of this section shall pay a fee of forty-five dollars for the use of each such sound device or apparatus and each applicant for a multiple-day permit issued under the provisions of this section shall pay a fee of forty-five dollars for the use of each such sound device or apparatus for the first day and a fee of five dollars for the use of each such sound device or apparatus for each additional day up to a maximum of four additional days, provided, however, that permits for the use of such sound devices or apparatus shall be issued to any bureau, commission, board or department of the United States government, the state of New York, and the city of New York, without fee.

i. Exceptions. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the use or operation of any sound device or apparatus by any church or synagogue on or within its own premises, in connection with the religious rites or ceremonies of such church or synagogue.

j. Violations. 1. Any person who shall violate any provision of this section, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or imprisonment for thirty days, or both.

2. Any person who shall violate any provision of this section, any rule promulgated pursuant thereto or the terms of a permit issued pursuant to subdivision f of this section, shall be liable for a civil penalty recoverable in a civil action brought in the name of the police commissioner or the commissioner of environmental protection or in a proceeding before the environmental control board in an amount of two hundred fifty dollars for the first violation, five hundred dollars for the second violation and seven hundred fifty dollars for the third and each subsequent violation. However, any person who commits a fourth and any subsequent violation within a period of six months shall be classified as a persistent violator and shall be liable for a civil penalty of one thousand dollars for each such violation.

k. Rules. The police commissioner shall have the power to make such rules as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

l. The police department and the department of environmental protection shall have the authority to enforce the provisions of this section.

Provisions of L.L. 13/1996 § 1:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. It is hereby declared that the use and operation of sound amplification devices and apparatus in proximity to residential buildings disturb the peace, quiet and comfort of the inhabitants of those buildings. Further regulation of sound amplification devices and apparatus used and operated in proximity to residential buildings is necessary to ensure that residents may enjoy the normal activities associated with the morning and evening hours affected by this legislation, such as the quiet enjoyment of one's home. It is the intention of the Council to protect the health, well-being, privacy and comfort of the inhabitants of residential buildings by limiting the unwelcome noise caused by the use and operation of sound amplification devices and apparatus when their use and operation occurs within fifty feet of such buildings. Nevertheless, the police commissioner would be authorized to issue permits for the use and operation of sound amplification devices and apparatus within fifty feet of residential buildings for at least eleven hours per day on weekdays and at least ten hours per day on weekends and public holidays.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Complaint, in action for declaratory judgment of unconstitutionality of Admin. Code § 435-6.0, which proposes to regulate the use of mechanically amplified sound upon and adjacent to public streets, parks and places, held insufficient with respect to plaintiffs who were merely alleged to manufacture and sell sound equipment, as the law did not restrict the manufacture and sale of such equipment but merely the use and operation thereof. Such plaintiffs failed to allege facts indicating that their rights were curtailed or directly affected by the statute, even though they did allege that the market for their equipment had been drastically curtailed. However, as to plaintiffs who actually operated devices and apparatus apparently interdicted by the statute, the complaint was sufficient as a matter of pleading.-Gold Sound, Inc. v. City of N.Y., 195 Misc. 291, 89 N.Y.S. 2d 860 [1949].

¶ 2. On motion to dismiss complaint in action for a declaratory judgment as to unconstitutionality of Admin. Code § 435-6.0, regulating use of mechanically amplified sound upon and adjacent to public streets, parks and places, Court would not be justified in taking judicial notice of concrete situations likely to arise under the statute. A pronouncement of the merits of the legislation would have to await the joinder of issue.-Id.

¶ 3. Motion of defendant to dismiss complaint for violation of this section in that he was operating a sound amplification device without a permit on the ground that this section constitutes an illegal infringement of the right to free speech because it requires that an application for a permit be made five days prior to its use was denied when police department rules and procedures provide for waiver of the five day provision under certain circumstances and hence the question of constitutionality requires a trial as to factual matters.-People v. Hinman, 86 Misc. 2d 685 [1976].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Plaintiff, a street musician, played a musical instrument that required a sound amplification device. He challenged the permit fees on constitutional grounds, complaining, among other things, of the fact that musicians performing under certain City-sponsored programs were exempted from paying the fee. The court held that the exemption of City-sponsored musicians from paying the fee did not constitute a violation of the First Amendment, so long as the City did not choose the sponsored musicians on the basis of their speech. Turley v. City of New York, 167 F.3d 757 (2d Cir. 1999). Turley subsequently brought a suit relating to the city's restrictions on the decibel level of street musicians' music. The court held that under the City's sound regulations, the City could lawfully impose an 85 decibel level at 10 feet, and was not required to increase the decibel level to 95 decibels, which had been the amount sought by Turley. The court held that it was lawful for the City to regulate amplified music to prevent excessive noise, limit congestion and insure public safety. However, the court said, the regulations had to be justified without reference to the content of speech, had to be narrowly tailored to achieve a legitimate governmental interest and had to leave open some adequate alternative channels for communication of information. Turley complained that corporate sponsored events were being allowed higher decibel levels than were permitted during his performances. The court held that this was not unlawful-there was a rational basis for the distinction, in that corporate events involved more players and larger audiences and frequently involved the closing off of streets. However, the court did uphold one aspect of Turley's challenge. It agreed that in measuring the decibel level of his performances, the city improperly excluded extraneous noises which were not caused by him (in other words, the City should have been measuring only how much noise was added by his performance). The court agreed that this practice gave City officials unfettered discretion, and potentially could lead to content-based discrimination. Thus, the court issued an injunction against the city's practice. Turley v. Giuliani, 86 F.Supp.2d 291 (S.D.N.Y. 2000).

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

a. Permits. A procession, parade, or race shall be permitted upon any street or in any public place only after a written permit therefor has been obtained from the police commissioner. Application for such permit shall be made in writing, upon a suitable form prescribed and furnished by the department, not less than thirty-six hours previous to the forming or marching of such procession, parade or race. The commissioner shall, after due investigation of such application, grant such permit subject to the following restrictions:

1. It shall be unlawful for the police commissioner to grant a permit where the commissioner has good reason to believe that the proposed procession, parade or race will be disorderly in character or tend to disturb the public peace;

2. It shall be unlawful for the police commissioner to grant a permit for the use of any street or any public place, or material portion thereof, which is ordinarily subject to great congestion or traffic and is chiefly of a business or mercantile character, except, upon loyalty day, or upon those holidays or Sundays when places of business along the route proposed are closed, or on other days between the hours of six thirty post meridian and nine ante meridian;

3. Each such permit shall designate specifically the route through which the procession, parade or race shall move, and it may also specify the width of the roadway to be used, and may include such rules and regulations as the police commissioner may deem necessary;

4. Special permits for occasions of extraordinary public interest, not annual or customary, or not so intended to be, may be granted by the commissioner for any street or public place, and for any day or hour, with the written approval of the mayor;

5. The chief officer of any procession, parade or race, for which a permit may be granted by the police commissioner, shall be responsible for the strict observance of all rules and regulations included in said permit.

b. Exemptions. This section shall not apply:

1. To the ordinary and necessary movements of the United States army, United States navy, national guard, police department and fire department; or

2. To such portion of any street as may have already been, or may hereafter be duly, set aside as a speedway; or

3. To processions or parades which have marched annually upon the streets for more than ten years, previous to July seventh, nineteen hundred fourteen.

c. Violations. Every person participating in any procession, parade or race, for which a permit has not been issued when required by this section, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than twenty-five dollars, or by imprisonment for not exceeding ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

¶ 2. The granting of a permit to the Federation of Hispanic Societies for a parade to be held on a Sunday was not arbitrary. Evidence showed that the Commissioner had made a thorough investigation prior to the granting of the permit and there was no reason to believe that the parade would be disorderly or unlawful.-Matter of Colon, 139 (75) N.Y.L.J. (4-17-58) 6, Col. 5 M.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A challenge to the constitutionality of the permit law is now pending. The plaintiffs represent an organization known as the Million Marijuana March, which is dedicated to the legalization of marijuana for medicinal purposes. Plaintiffs allege that the law gives the Police Commissioner an overly broad discretion as to whether or not to grant a permit, and that the mechanism for judicial review is inadequate. The Second Circuit remanded the case to the District Court, and declined to determine the issues as a matter of law. However, the court made certain important threshold determinations. One was that the statute provided for prior restraint on speech, and thus was subject to stringent constitutional standards. Moreover, the court held that the plaintiff had standing to challenge that portion of law that allowed for waiver of restrictions for occasions of "extraordinary public interest (Adm Code. 10-110(a)(4)), under which (allegedly) politically popular organizations had obtained permits. McDonald v. Safir, 206 F.3d 183 (2d Cir. 2000).

¶ 2. No permit is necessary for a group to gather and demonstrate on a city sidewalk, so long as no sound amplification is issued and the demonstration does not involve a parade or procession. Metropolitan Council on Housing v. Safir, N.Y.L.J., June 14, 2000, page 40, col. 5 (U.S. Dist.Ct. S.D.N.Y.).

¶ 3. An accusatory instrument which charges a violation of this statute must set forth the following elements: (1) that the person was part of a parade, procession or race; (2) that such parade, procession or race took place upon a public street or roadway; and (3) that the person did not have a permit issued by the Police Commissioner to participate in such parade, procession or race. The accusatory instrument was sufficient, where it alleged that the officer observed the defendant walking with over 100 other persons on a public street and that defendant did not have a permit. People v. James, 7 Misc.3d 363, 793 N.Y.S.2d 871 (Crim.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 4. In one case, an accusatory instrument stated that the officer observed the defendant on a bicycle in the street among numerous other people also on bicycles, but does not state that defendant did not have a parade permit at the time she engaged in the conduct in question. The court held that the accusatory instrument failed to establish a key element of the statute and therefore failed to establish a prima facie case. Thus, the court dismissed the charges. See also, People v. Cohen, 6 Misc.3d 1019(A), 2005 WL 293510, N.Y.L.J., Feb. 17, 2005, at 19, col. 1 (Crim.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 5. The ordinance was found to be content neutral, and thus did not constitute a violation of the free speech clauses of the state or federal Constitution. People v. James, 7 Misc.3d 363, 793 N.Y.S.2d 871 (Crim.Ct. New York Co.). See also, People v. Cohen, 6 Misc.3d 1019(A), 2005 WL 293510, N.Y.L.J., Feb. 17, 2005, at 19, col. 1 (Crim.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 6. An accusatory instrument under the statute must specify the particular illegal actions taken by the defendant. It is not sufficient to state merely that defendant happened to be present in the area when a group of persons were arrested for violating the law. People v. Munoz, N.Y.L.J., May 4, 2004, at 27, col. 1 (Crim.Ct. New York Co.).

¶ 7. A large group of people marching on the sidewalk could be deemed a "procession" for purposes of the restrictions contained in this section. Allen v. City of New York, 2007 WL 24796 (U.S. Dist. Ct. E.D.N.Y.).

§ 10-111 Locks on motor vehicles.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person driving or in charge of a motor vehicle to permit it to stand unattended for more than three minutes on the streets or thoroughfares of the city, without first stopping the engine, locking the ignition and removing the key.

b. Violations. Any person who violates the provisions of this section, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five dollars or imprisonment not to exceed two days, or both. Whenever a police officer shall find a motor vehicle standing in violation of this provision, the officer may remove the ignition key therefrom and, in the event that the owner or operator thereof is not present, shall deliver it to the nearest patrol precinct station house within one hour after removing same to be held for and returned to such owner or operator. In the event the key is so delivered to a station house, the officer shall attach to the vehicle a tag stating where the key may be reclaimed.

c. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any person driving or in charge of an omnibus operated under a franchise of the city of New York, which has clearly marked on its exterior the name of its owner.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Admin. Code § 435-10.1, making it unlawful for any person to stand on the sidewalk or street in front of or in the entrance of any store or building for purpose of calling attention of passersby to merchandise on sale in the store or building, or to solicit patronage for any business or service, or by word of mouth, gesture, handbills or use of sound-making devices to entice passersby into any store or building, held to constitute a valid exercise of the police power of the municipality, aimed at elimination of the practices of "pullers in", and was not unconstitutional on alleged grounds that it was arbitrary, discriminatory, vague and indefinite.-People (Crennan) v. Patrick, 171 Misc. 705, 14 N.Y.S. 2d 249 [1939].

¶ 2. Admin. Code § 435-10.1, prohibiting solicitation in front of stores, held constitutional as a reasonable regulation of the use of public streets. Furthermore, the law was not discriminatory as it applied equally to all of a class.-In re Dinino (Valentine), 54 N.Y.S. 2d 800 [1939].

¶ 3. Defendant who, in vestibule of certain premises, set up a portable counter covered with gloves which he sold to pedestrians, who necessarily stood on the sidewalk while making purchases, held guilty of violation of Admin. Code § 435-10.1.-People (Crennan) v. Patrick, 171 Misc. 705, 14 N.Y.S. 2d 249 [1939].

¶ 4. Where the retail fur shop of defendant's employer had a wide, deep, entrance vestibule flanked on either side by display windows, and complainant was standing in this entrance arcade inspecting fur coats on display in the window when she was approached by the defendant-salesman who asked her if she were interested in a fur coat and then motioned her into the store to show her a few coats, there was no violation of Admin. Code § 435-10.1, prohibiting the solicitation of pedestrians by pullers-in. The complainant was not a "passer-by" or "pedestrian" as she stood in the vestibule, and defendant in persuading her to enter the store, was not a "puller-in".-People v. Realmato, 294 N.Y. 45, 60 N.E. 2d 201 [1945].

¶ 5. Admin. Code § 435-10.0 was intended for the protection of those persons only who were on the public street or sidewalk, and not those who had already entered into a quasi-customer relationship by turning from the street into some part of the business premises.-People v. Realmato, 294 N.Y. 45, 60 N.E. 2d 201 [1945].

¶ 6. The vestibule was not, because of use by pedestrians, to be deemed subject to regulations just like a street.-Id.

¶ 7. Section 435-10.1 was not intended to interdict peaceful, orderly solicitation by a merchant of persons who had entered such a vestibule on the merchant's private property.-Id.

¶ 8. Section 435-10.1, if read so as to make criminal the solicitation of complainant while she stood in the vestibule of defendant's store, would be of very doubtful constitutionality.-People v. Realmato, 294 N.Y. 45, 60 N.E. 2d 201 [1945].

¶ 9. To sustain a conviction for violating Admin. Code § 435-10.1, prohibiting the solicitation of pedestrians by "pullers-in", the person solicited must be a pedestrian or passer-by on the public street at the time of solicitation and not on the private premises of the solicitor, and the defendant must personally accost and personally urge the prospective customer with direct and personal solicitation.-People v. Lewis, 185 Misc. 364, 57 N.Y.S. 2d 35 [1945].

¶ 10. Defendants who stood in front of the entrances of their respective premises on the principal avenue of Coney Island, and while over the building line but on their private property called out to passersby on the public street to come in and have their photographs taken, and in addition to making outcries by mouth, with accompanying gestures, used mechanical sound devices, held not to have violated Admin. Code § 435-10.1, as defendants were merely crying their own wares in their own establishments, the outcries were made while standing on private property, and they did not personally accost and personally approach the pedestrians with direct and personal importunities. Their acts were simply those of barkers and hawkers.-Id.

¶ 1. § 10-115 prohibiting the use of "pullers-in" to advance sales in stores is unconstitutional infringement on First Amendment rights as overly extensive. More properly it might regulate the practice during certain hours. This does not involve the issue of street vending.-State v. Hall, 142 Misc. 2d 532 [1989].

¶ 2. Plaintiff challenged the constitutionality of Admin. Code §10-115, which prohibits public solicitation of passerby for commercial purposes. The court held that the complete ban on commercial speech was so broad as to be unconstitutional on its face. The City did not claim that the statute as written was constitutional on its face, but sought to graft onto the statute certain New York City Police Department guidelines which limited enforcement of the law to cases where the solicitation was being done in an "aggressive manner." The court held that it was not required to graft Police Department guidelines onto the statute when assessing its constitutionality. Accordingly, the court granted a preliminary injunction against the enforcement of the statute. HX Magazine v. City of New York, N.Y.L.J., Sept. 26, 2002, page 28, col. 5, 2002 WL 31059318 (U.S. Dist.Ct. S.D.N.Y.)

Title 10 Public Safety

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-117 Defacement of property, possession, sale and display of aerosol spray paint cans and broad tipped markers prohibited in certain instances.

a. No person shall write, paint or draw any inscription, figure or mark or affix, attach or place by whatever means a sticker or decal of any type on any public or private building or other structure or any other real or personal property owned, operated or maintained by a public benefit corporation, the city of New York or any agency or instrumentality thereof or by any person, firm, or corporation, or any personal property maintained on a city street or other city-owned property pursuant to a franchise, concession or revocable consent granted by the city, unless the express permission of the owner or operator of the property has been obtained.

a-1. For purposes of this section, "property of another" shall mean all property, including real property, that is not owned, rented, or leased by a person; provided that such term shall not include a location that serves as such person's residence.

a-2. For purposes of this section, "educational facility" shall mean any building affiliated with an institution that maintains a list of enrolled students and is used for educational purposes for more than twelve (12) hours per week for more than six (6) students.

b. No person shall possess an aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid with the intent to violate the provisions of subdivision a of this section.

c. No person shall sell or offer to sell an aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid to any person under twenty-one years of age.

c-1. No person under twenty-one years of age shall possess an aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid in or on the property of another. This subdivision shall not be deemed to prohibit the possession of an aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid where such item is contained in a manufacturer-sealed package or completely enclosed in a locked container, which shall include bags, backpacks, briefcases and other containers that can be closed and secured with a key or combination lock.

c-2. This section shall not apply to any person possessing an aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid while in or on the property of another in violation of subdivision c-1 of this section, where:

(1) the owner, operator or other person having control of the property, building or facility consented in writing to the use or possession of the aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid; or

(2) such person uses or possesses the aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid under the supervision of the owner or person in control of such property; or

(3) such person is at his or her place of employment and the aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid was, will be or is being used during the course of such employment and used only with written permission from, or under the supervision of his or her employer or such employer's agent; or

(4) such person is at an educational facility and uses or will use the aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid at the educational facility, where he or she is enrolled, and is participating in a class at the educational facility that requires the use or possession of such items; or

(5) such person is on the property of another and uses or will use the aerosol spray paint can, broad tipped indelible marker or etching acid in or on the property of another if such use or possession is necessary to participate in a government-sponsored function or in other circumstances where a government agency gives its consent to such use or possession.

d. All persons who sell or offer for sale aerosol spray paint cans, broad tipped indelible markers or etching acid shall not place such cans, markers or etching acid on display and may display only facsimiles of such cans, markers or etching acid containing no paint, ink or etching acid.

e. For the purpose of this section, the term "broad tipped indelible marker" shall mean any felt tip marker or similar implement containing a fluid that is not water soluble and which has a flat or angled writing surface one-half inch or greater. For the purpose of this section, the term "etching acid" shall mean any liquid, cream, paste or similar chemical substance that can be used to etch, draw, carve, sketch, engrave, or otherwise alter, change or impair the physical integrity of glass or metal.

f. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph a of this section shall be guilty of a class A misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment of not more than one year, or both. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph b of this section shall be guilty of a class B misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or a term of imprisonment of not more than three months, or both. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraphs c or d of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment of not more than three months, or both. Any person who has been previously convicted of violating the provisions of paragraphs c or d of this section shall be guilty of a class A misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment of not more than one year, or both. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph c-1 of this section shall be guilty of a violation punishable by a fine of not more than two hundred fifty dollars or imprisonment of not more than fifteen days, or both. When a person is convicted of an offense defined in subdivision a or b of this section, or of an attempt to commit such offense, and the sentence imposed by the court for such conviction includes a sentence of probation or conditional discharge, the court shall, where appropriate, include as a condition of such sentence the defendant's successful participation in a graffiti removal program pursuant to paragraph (h) of subdivision two of section 65.10 of the penal law.

g. In addition to the criminal penalties imposed pursuant to subdivision f of this section, a person who violates the provisions of subdivision a, b, c or d of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than five hundred dollars for each violation which may be recovered in a proceeding before the environmental control board. Any person who has been previously convicted of violating the provisions of subdivision a, b, c or d of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than one thousand dollars for each violation which may be recovered in a proceeding before the environmental control board. Such proceeding shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation returnable before such board. Anyone found to have violated the provisions of subdivision a of this section, by affixing, attaching or placing by whatever means a sticker or decal, in addition to any penalty imposed, shall be responsible for the cost of the removal of the unauthorized stickers or decals.

h. In addition to police officers, officers and employees of the department of consumer affairs, sanitation, environmental protection and transportation shall have the power to enforce the provisions of this section and may issue notices of violation, appearance tickets or summonses for violations thereof.

i. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that the person whose name, telephone number, or other identifying information appears on any sticker or decal affixed, attached or placed by whatever means in violation of subdivision a of this section violated this section by either (i) affixing, attaching or placing by whatever means such sticker or decal or (ii) directing, suffering or permitting a servant, agent, employee or other individual under such persons control to engage in such activity.

j. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that if a telephone number that appears on any sticker or decal affixed, attached or placed by whatever means in violation of subdivision a of this section belongs to a telephone answering service and no other telephone number or address is readily obtainable to locate the person or business advertised therein, such telephone answering service shall be held liable for a violation of subdivision a in accordance with the provisions of this section.

k. The commissioner of the department of sanitation shall be authorized to issue subpoenas to obtain official telephone records for the purpose of determining the identity and location of any person or entity reasonably believed by the commissioner to have violated subdivision a of this section by affixing, attaching or placing by whatever means a sticker or decal.

l. For the purposes of imposing a criminal fine or civil penalty pursuant to this section, every sticker or decal affixed, attached or placed by whatever means in violation of subdivision a of this section, shall be deemed to be the subject of a separate violation for which a separate criminal fine or civil penalty shall be imposed.

1. Provisions of L.L. 39/2007:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The Council hereby declares that graffiti is a public nuisance that degrades the quality of life in neighborhoods and communities across the City. Graffiti creates an atmosphere of neglect, inviting criminal activity and contributing to a feeling of disorderliness and fear.

The Council finds that 18-, 19-, and 20-year olds are disproportionately responsible for graffiti crime. Accordingly, prohibiting the sale to, and restricting the possession of, graffiti tools to persons under the age of 21 will greatly assist the City's anti-graffiti efforts. Requiring that graffiti materials be contained in a manufacturer-sealed package or completely enclosed in a locked container, which shall include bags, backpacks, briefcases and other containers that can be closed and secured with a key or a combination lock, allows persons between the ages of 18-20 to transport such materials to or from places where they may legally be used such as their school or at work, while making it difficult for these items to be used on the property of another.

a. There is hereby established an anti-graffiti task force consisting of at least seven members. The speaker of the council shall appoint three members, and the mayor shall appoint the balance of the members, one of whom shall serve as chairperson. The members of the task force shall be appointed within thirty days of the effective date of this section and shall serve without compensation. The task force shall have a duration of twelve months.

b. The task force shall:

1. Assess the scope and nature of the city's graffiti problem, including geographical concentration, perpetrator profile and future trends.

2. Examine the effectiveness of existing provisions of law aimed at curbing graffiti vandalism, and propose amendments to strengthen such legislation.

3. Review current law enforcement activity, clarify enforcement responsibility and suggest ways to augment enforcement capability.

4. Identify all existing public and private anti-graffiti programs citywide and in each borough.

5. Survey efforts to combat graffiti in other jurisdictions, consider the replication of such programs in New York city and recommend further programmatic initiatives.

6. Propose a coordinated, comprehensive anti-graffiti program encompassing prevention, education, removal and enforcement.

7. Maintain regular and systematic contact with civic associations, community boards and other concerned groups and individuals.

8. Assist in the establishment of borough and community anti-graffiti task forces.

c. The task force shall meet at least quarterly and shall issue a final report to the mayor and the council detailing its activities and recommendations.

Title 10 Public Safety

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-117.3 Remedies for failure to remove graffiti from certain premises.

a. Definitions. For purposes of this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Graffiti" means any letter, word, name, number, symbol, slogan, message, drawing, picture, writing or other mark of any kind visible to the public from a public place that is drawn, painted, chiseled, scratched, or etched on a commercial building or residential building, or any portion thereof, including fencing, that is not consented to by the owner of the commercial building or residential building. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that such letter, word, name, number, symbol, slogan, message, drawing, picture, writing or other mark of any kind is not consented to by the owner. Such presumption may be rebutted in any proceeding pursuant to this section.

2. "Commercial building" means any building that is used, or any building a portion of which is used, for buying, selling or otherwise providing goods or services, or for other lawful business, commercial, professional services or manufacturing activities.

3. "Residential building" means any building containing one or more dwelling units.

4. "Public place" means a place to which the public or a substantial group of persons has access including, but not limited to, any highway, street, road, sidewalk, parking area, plaza, shopping area, place of amusement, playground, park, beach or transportation facility.

b. Duty to keep property free of graffiti. The owner of every commercial building and residential building shall keep and cause to be kept such building free of all graffiti.

c. Availability of city funds; graffiti removal through written consent. Subject to the availability of annual appropriations, the mayor, through the community assistance unit, shall provide graffiti removal services to abate graffiti on commercial buildings and residential buildings without charge to the property owner if the property owner first executes a written consent and a waiver of liability in the form prescribed by the mayor.

d. Failure to remove graffiti from property. Notice to remove graffiti from a commercial or residential building shall be served by an agency designated by the mayor in the manner prescribed in paragraph two of subdivision d of section 1049-a of the charter. Such written notice shall, at a minimum: (1) describe the city's graffiti abatement program and the resources available to the property owner to abate graffiti; (2) indicate that if the owner of a commercial or residential building fails to remove such graffiti within sixty days of receipt of such notice, then the city may cause such graffiti to be removed; and (3) for a written notice involving residential buildings containing six or more dwelling units or commercial buildings, further indicate that the failure to remove the graffiti within sixty days of receipt of the notice shall result in the imposition of a fine as set forth in subdivision e of this section.

e. Penalty for failure to remove graffiti from residential buildings containing six or more dwelling units or commercial buildings. The owner of a residential building of six or more units or a commercial building who has been given written notice to remove graffiti from such building, and who fails to remove such graffiti within sixty days of receipt of such notice, shall be liable for a civil penalty of not less than one hundred fifty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars. Such civil penalty may be recovered in a proceeding before the environmental control board. The owner of a residential building containing six or more dwelling units or a commercial building shall not be liable for a civil penalty if, within sixty days of receipt of such notice, such owner can demonstrate that the owner has contacted the mayor's community assistance unit, through a call to 311, with regard to providing graffiti removal services with respect to the graffiti that was the subject of the notice, and has executed a written consent and a waiver of liability in the form prescribed by the mayor with respect to such graffiti. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a property shall not be fined more than once in any six-month period, and summonses shall not be issued between November 1 and March 31.

f. Removal of graffiti from property through nuisance abatement proceedings.

1. Whenever the owner of a commercial building or a residential building fails to accept the city's graffiti removal services after the city has attempted in good faith to obtain written consent and a waiver of liability from the owner for such services, and the property owner fails to remove such graffiti within sixty days of receiving a notice to remove the graffiti, the city may serve the owner of the commercial building or residential building a notice of nuisance abatement. The notice shall be served on the owner by an agency designated by the mayor in the manner prescribed in paragraph two of subdivision d of section 1049-a of the charter. The notice, at a minimum, shall indicate the following:

(a) That the city of New York has determined that the property has become a nuisance because of graffiti on the property.

(b) The address of the property and the location on the property that has become a nuisance.

(c) That unless the property owner removes the graffiti, files a written consent and waiver of liability consenting to receive, without charge, graffiti removal services from the city, or submits to the city a written request for a hearing to contest the city's determination within thirty days of the date of the service of notice of nuisance abatement, the property owner will be deemed to have given permission to the city to enter or access the property and use the means it determines appropriate to remove or conceal the graffiti at the specified location.

(d) That if a property owner requests a hearing, the property owner may contest the determination that the property has become a nuisance.

(e) That this notice shall be deemed to provide the city with authority to work on as much of the property as necessary to remove or conceal the graffiti, and that the city is not responsible for removing or concealing the graffiti to the property owner's satisfaction.

2. Upon the property owner's failure to remove the graffiti, to file a written consent and a waiver of liability consenting to receive, without charge, graffiti removal services from the city, or to submit to the city a written request for a hearing to dispute the determination that the property identified in the notice has become a nuisance because of graffiti within thirty days of the date of the service of the notice of nuisance abatement, the city may enter or access the property specified in the notice and abate the nuisance by removing or concealing the graffiti.

3. Upon receipt of a timely request for a hearing, a hearing shall be held before the environmental control board within thirty days of receiving the request.

4. Upon a finding of a hearing officer of the environmental control board that the property has become a nuisance because of graffiti the city may enter or access the property specified in the notice and abate the nuisance by removing or concealing the graffiti.

5. In no case shall the city be required to clean, paint, or repair any area more extensive than where the graffiti is located.

1. Provisions of L.L. 111/2005:

Section 1. Legislative Findings and Intent.

The City Council finds that graffiti is a public nuisance, one that degrades the quality of life in neighborhoods and communities across the city. Graffiti creates an atmosphere of neglect, inviting criminal activity and contributing to a feeling of disorderliness and fear.

In light of these considerations, it is important that graffiti in public view be cleaned as quickly as possible, while respecting property rights and First Amendment free speech rights.

The goal of this legislation is to accommodate these important interests and to craft a solution to the City's graffiti problem that both adequately addresses the need to rid our communities of graffiti as well as protect our important freedoms. By imposing fines against the owners of certain property who fail to remove graffiti from their premises, coupled with granting to the City the ability to clean graffiti in public view from commercial and residential buildings, after an adequate notification process to property owners of such buildings, this legislation will improve the quality of life for our residents.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person to paste, post, paint, print, nail or attach or affix by any means whatsoever any handbill, poster, notice, sign, advertisement, sticker or other printed material upon any curb, gutter, flagstone, tree, lamppost, awning post, telegraph pole, telephone pole, public utility pole, public garbage bin, bus shelter, bridge, elevated train structure, highway fence, barrel, box, parking meter, mailbox, traffic control device, traffic stanchion, traffic sign (including pole), tree box, tree pit protection device, bench, traffic barrier, hydrant, public pay telephone, any personal property maintained on a city street or other city-owned property pursuant to a franchise, concession or revocable consent granted by the city or other such item or structure in any street, or to direct, suffer or permit any servant, agent, employee or other person under his or her control to engage in such activity; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to any handbill, poster, notice, sign, advertisement, sticker or other printed material so posted by or under the direction of the council, or by or under the direction of any city agency, or pursuant to a franchise, concession or revocable consent granted pursuant to chapter fourteen of the charter.

b. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that the person whose name, telephone number, or other identifying information appears on any handbill, poster, notice, sign, advertisement, sticker or other printed material on any item or structure described in subdivision a of this section in any street violated this section by either (i) pasting, posting, painting, printing, nailing or attaching or affixing by any means whatsoever such handbill, poster, notice, sign, advertisement, sticker or other printed material, or (ii) directing, suffering or permitting a servant, agent, employee or other individual under such person's control to engage in such activity.

c. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that if a telephone number that appears on any handbill, poster, notice, sign or advertisement placed in violation of subdivision a of this section belongs to a telephone answering service and no other telephone number or address is readily obtainable to locate the person or business advertised therein, such telephone answering service shall be held liable for a violation of subdivision a in accordance with the provisions of section 10-121.

d. The commissioner of the department of sanitation shall be authorized to issue subpoenas to obtain official telephone records for the purpose of determining the identity and location of any person or entity reasonably believed by the commissioner to have violated subdivision a of this section.

a. Any person convicted of a violation of any of the provisions of section 10-119 or 10-120 of the code shall be punished by a fine of not less than seventy-five dollars nor more than one hundred fifty dollars, for the first offense and not less than one hundred fifty dollars nor more than two hundred fifty dollars for the second and each subsequent offense within a twelve month period, plus the cost of the removal of the unauthorized signs, imprisonment for not more than ten days, or both; provided, however, that subdivision b of section 10-119 of the code shall not apply with respect to criminal prosecutions brought pursuant to this subdivision.

b. In the instance where the notice of violation, appearance ticket or summons is issued for breach of the provisions of section 10-119 or 10-120 of the code and sets forth thereon civil penalties only, such process shall be returnable to the environmental control board, which shall have the power to impose the civil penalties of not less than seventy five dollars nor more than one hundred fifty dollars for the first offense and not less than one hundred fifty dollars nor more than two hundred fifty dollars for the second and each subsequent offense within a twelve month period. Anyone found to have violated the provisions of Section 10-119 or 10-120, in addition to any penalty imposed, shall be responsible for the cost of the removal of the unauthorized signs. Anyone found to have violated section 10-119 of this chapter by affixing any handbill, poster, notice, sign or advertisement to a tree by means of nailing or piercing the tree by any method shall have an additional penalty imposed equal to the amount of the original penalty.

c. In the event that a violator fails to answer such notice of violation, appearance ticket or summons within the time provided therefor by the rules and regulations of the environmental control board, he or she shall become liable for additional penalties. The additional penalties shall not exceed fifty dollars for each violation.

d. Any person found in violation of any of the provisions of section 10-119 or 10-120 of the code shall be liable for a civil penalty as provided for in subdivision b of this section.

e. Liability and responsibility for any civil penalty imposed pursuant to this section for any violation of section 10-119 or 10-120 of the code shall be joint and severable on the part of any corporation found to be liable and responsible and its officers, principals, and stockholders owning more than ten percent of its outstanding voting stock.

g. For the purposes of imposing a criminal fine or civil penalty pursuant to this section, every handbill, poster, notice, sign or advertisement pasted, posted, painted, printed or nailed in violation of section 10-119 of the code or torn down, defaced or destroyed in violation of section 10-120 of the code, shall be deemed to be the subject of a separate violation for which a separate criminal fine or civil penalty shall be imposed.

§ 10-125 Consumption of alcohol on streets prohibited.

a. Definitions. Whenever used in this section, the following terms are defined as follows:

1. Alcoholic beverage. Any liquid intended for human consumption containing more than one-half of one percent (.005) of alcohol by volume.

2. Public place. A place to which the public or a substantial group of persons has access including, but not limited to, any highway, street, road, sidewalk, parking area, shopping area, place of amusement, playground, park or beach located within the city except that the definition of a public place shall not include those premises duly licensed for the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages on the premises or within their own private property. Such public place shall also include the interior of any stationary motor vehicle which is on any highway, street, road, parking area, shopping area, playground, park or beach located within the city.

b. No person shall drink or consume an alcoholic beverage, or possess, with intent to drink or consume, an open container containing an alcoholic beverage in any public place except at a block party, feast or similar function for which a permit has been obtained.

c. Possession of an open container containing an alcoholic beverage by any person shall create a rebuttable presumption that such person did intend to consume the contents thereof in violation of this section.

d. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prohibit the consumption of an alcoholic beverage in any duly licensed establishment whose certificate of occupancy extends upon a street.

e. Any person who shall be found to have violated any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than twenty-five dollars ($25) or imprisonment of up to five (5) days, or both, or pursuant to the provisions of the family court act of the state of New York where applicable.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Petitioner moved, in effect, for a mandamus order, directing the police department to comply with the statute, which requires it to submit for laboratory analysis the contents of any container seized under the Open Container Law. The court refused to grant the relief sought. Where, as here, petitioner was found in a public place having a container with the label or insignia of a brewery company, the police had reasonable cause to issue a ticket for violation of the law. However, although petitioner was not entitled to a blanket injunction, he could challenge a particular summons on the ground that the liquid in the container was not tested. The court noted that if the police department failed to adhere to proper testing procedures, it was also potentially liable to petitioner in damages. Bankhead v. Wolf, N.Y.L.J., Nov. 21, 2000.

¶ 2. An accusatory instrument under this section must allege that defendant intentionally consumed an open container containing alcoholic beverages. People v. Torres, 1 Misc.3d 126(A), 781 N.Y.S.2d 627 (App.Term 1st Dept.), leave to appeal denied, 2 N.Y.2d 747, 778 N.Y.S.2d 472 (2004).

¶ 3. As a result of the police officers' "plain view" observation of contraband (violation of the Open Container Law), followed by the suspect's flight, the officers were entitled to pursue the suspect. People v. Neely, 18 A.D.3d 394, 796 N.Y.S.2d 61 (1st Dept. 2005), leave to appeal denied, 5 N.Y.3d 808, 803 N.Y.S.2d 37 (2005).

¶ 4. Where a defendant was consuming alcohol in the lobby of an apartment building, to which substantial numbers of people have access, the lobby was a public place for purposes of § 10-125(b). People of the State of NY v. Medina, 16 Misc.3d 382, 842 N.Y.S.2d 227 (Sup.Ct. Bronx Co. 2007).

¶ 5. A bodega is a public place for purposes of the statutory prohibition on consumption of alcohol. United States v. Brown, 2007 WL 2121883 (U.S. Dist. Ct., E.D.N.Y.).

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-126 Avigation in and over the city.

a. Definitions. When used in this section the following words or terms shall mean or include:

1. "Aircraft." Any contrivance, now or hereafter invented for avigation or flight in the air, including a captive balloon, except a parachute or other contrivance designed for use, and carried primarily as safety equipment.

2. "Place of landing." Any authorized airport, aircraft landing site, sky port or seaplane base in the port of New York or in the limits of the city.

3. "Limits of the city." The water, waterways and land under the jurisdiction of the city and the air space above same.

4. "Avigate." To pilot, steer, direct, fly or manage an aircraft in or through the air, whether controlled from the ground or otherwise.

5. "Congested area." Any land terrain within the limits of the city.

6. "Person." A natural person, co-partnership, firm, company, association, joint stock association, corporation or other like organization.

b. Parachuting. It shall be unlawful for any person to jump or leap from an aircraft in a parachute or any other device within the limits of the city except in the event of imminent danger or while under official orders of any branch of the military service.

c. Take offs and landings. It shall be unlawful for any person avigating an aircraft to take off or land, except in an emergency, at any place within the limits of the city other than places of landing designated by the department of transportation or the port of New York authority.

d. Advertising. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to use, suffer or permit to be used advertising in the form of towing banners from or upon an aircraft over the limits of the city, or to drop advertising matter in the form of pamphlets, circulars, or other objects from an aircraft over the limits of the city, or to use a loud speaker or other sound device for advertising from an aircraft over the limits of the city. Any person who employs another to avigate an aircraft for advertising in violation of this subdivision shall be guilty of a violation hereof.

2. Any person who employs, procures or induces another to operate, avigate, lend, lease or donate any aircraft as defined in this section for the purpose of advertising in violation of this subdivision shall be guilty of a violation hereof.

3. The use of the name of any person or of any proprietor, vendor or exhibitor in connection with such advertising shall be presumptive evidence that such advertising was conducted with his or her knowledge and consent.

e. Dangerous or reckless operation or avigation. It shall be unlawful for any person to operate or avigate an aircraft either on the ground, on the water or in the air within the limits of the city while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, narcotics or other habit-forming drugs, or to operate or avigate an aircraft in a careless or reckless manner so as to endanger life or property of another. In any proceeding or action charging careless or reckless operation or avigation of aircraft in violation of this section, the court, in determining whether the operation or avigation was careless or reckless, shall consider the standards for safe operation or avigation of aircraft prescribed by federal statutes or regulations governing aeronautics.

f. Air traffic rules. It shall be unlawful for any person to navigate an aircraft within the limits of the city in any manner prohibited by any provision of, or contrary to the rules and regulations of, the federal aviation administration.

g. Reports. It shall be unlawful for the operator or owner of an aircraft to fail to report to the police department within ten hours a forced landing of aircraft within the limits of the city or an accident to an aircraft where personal injury, property damage or serious damage to the aircraft is involved.

h. Rules and regulations. The police commissioner is authorized to make such rules and regulations as the commissioner may deem necessary to enforce the provisions of this section.

i. Violations. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Admin. Code § 435-16.0(f), providing that it shall be unlawful to avigate an aircraft within the City limits contrary to the rules and regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Administration or Board, held constitutional. Adoption of the Federal standards for air traffic was wholly within the local police power. The local law was in essence an enforcement measure in aid of Federal legislation and was directed to the objective of securing the public safety and general health of the people. Contention that the exercise of police power in a field which the Federal Government has occupied renders the act unconstitutional, was without merit, as the local law merely supplemented enforcement of the Federal regulations.-People v. Newhauser, 197 Misc. 54, 92 N.Y.S. 2d 291 [1949].

¶ 2. Defendant who took off in airplane from Keyport in New Jersey and proceeded over the Atlantic Ocean to a point one-half mile off the shore of Queens County, near Riis Park, towing an advertising banner, held not guilty of violation of Admin. Code § 435-16.0, subd. d, making it unlawful to tow a banner from an aircraft over the limits of the city, since under Admin. Code § 2-1.0, subd. 4, the territory of the City of New York is limited, by reference to the boundary of the State line, to that portion of the Atlantic Ocean which is at the low-water mark.-People v. Coffrin, 126 N.Y.S. 2d 329 [1953].

¶ 3. Admin. Code § 435-16.0, subd. d making it unlawful for any person to tow advertising banners from an aircraft over the city limits, held unconstitutional, since it completely prohibited that which the State and Federal authorities permit where permission is obtained from the administrator of civil aeronautics, subject to obtaining permission of local authorities.-Id.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Federal regulations (Federal Aviation Admin.) which refer to parasails but do not refer to takeoffs and landings, do not pre-empt the City from enforcing its own regulations as to where parasail planes can take off and land. People v. Santoriello, 180 Misc.2d 533, 689 N.Y.S.2d 388 (Crim.Ct. New York Co. 1999).

¶ 2. Santoriello was later charged with a violation of 10-126(d)(1), which prohibits advertising in the form of towing banners from or upon an aircraft within City limits. However, the court declared this statute to be unconstitutional as pre-empted by federal laws which (under certain conditions) permitted this type of towing banner. The court said that if the City statute had merely provided safeguards to prevent hazards in congested areas, it might have survived, but a statute that completely prohibited the towing banners conflicted directly with federal law and could not stand. People v. Santoriello, 183 Misc.2d 54, 702 N.Y.S.2d 539 (Crim.Ct. New York Co. 1999).

a. Pistols or revolvers, keeping or carrying. 1. The police commissioner shall grant and issue licenses hereunder pursuant to the provisions of article four hundred of the penal law. Unless they indicate otherwise, such licenses and permits shall expire on the first day of the second January after the date of issuance.

2. Every license to carry or possess a pistol or revolver in the city may be issued for a term of no less than one or more than three years. Every applicant for a license to carry or possess a pistol or revolver in the city shall pay therefor, a fee of three hundred forty dollars for each original or renewal application for a three year license period or part thereof, a fee of ten dollars for each replacement application of a lost license.

3. Every applicant to whom a license has been issued by any person other than the police commissioner, except as provided in paragraph five of this subdivision, for a special permit from the commissioner granting it validity within the city of New York, shall pay for such permit a fee of three hundred forty dollars, for each renewal a fee of three hundred forty dollars, for each replacement of a lost permit a fee of ten dollars.

4. Fees paid as provided herein shall not be refunded in the event that an original or renewal application, or a special validation permit application, is denied by the police commissioner.

5. A fee shall not be charged or collected for a license to have and carry concealed a pistol or revolver which shall be issued upon the application of the commissioner of correction or the warden or superintendent of any prison, penitentiary, workhouse or other institution for the detention of persons convicted or accused of crime or offense, or held as witnesses in criminal cases in the city.

6. The fees prescribed by this subdivision shall be collected by the police commissioner, and shall be paid into the general fund of the city established pursuant to section one hundred nine of the charter, and a return in detail shall be made to the comptroller by such commissioner of the fees so collected and paid over by the commissioner.

7. A fee shall not be charged or collected for the issuance of a license, or the renewal thereof, to have and carry concealed a pistol or revolver which is issued upon the application of a qualified retired police officer as defined in subdivision thirty-four of section 1.20 of the criminal procedure law, or a qualified retired bridge and tunnel officer, sergeant or lieutenant of the triborough bridge and tunnel authority as defined under subdivision twenty of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law, or a qualified retired uniformed court officer in the unified court system, or a qualified retired court clerk in the unified court system in the first and second judicial departments, as defined in paragraphs a and b of subdivision twenty-one of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law or a retired correction officer as defined in subdivision twenty-five of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law or a qualified retired sheriff, undersheriff or deputy sheriff of the city of New York as defined under subdivision two of section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law.

b. Air pistols and air rifles; selling or possessing. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, offer to sell or have in such person's possession any air pistol or air rifle or similar instrument in which the propelling force is a spring or air, except that the sale of such instruments if accompanied by delivery to a point without the city, and possession for such purpose, shall not be unlawful if such person shall have secured an annual license from the police commissioner of the city authorizing such sale and possession. The sale and delivery of such instruments within the city from one licensee to another licensee, and the use of such instruments in connection with an amusement licensed by the department of consumer affairs or at rifle or pistol ranges duly authorized by law shall not be considered a violation of this subdivision.

2. All persons dealing in such instruments referred to in this subdivision, shall keep a record showing the name and address of each person purchasing such instrument or instruments, together with place of delivery and said record shall be open to inspection during regular business hours by the officers of the police department of the city.

3. Every person to whom a license shall be granted to sell, possess and deliver the instruments described in this subdivision shall pay therefor an annual fee of ten dollars.

c. Discharge of small-arms. It shall be unlawful for any person to fire or discharge any gun, pistol, rifle, fowling-piece or other firearms in the city; provided that the provisions hereof shall not apply to premises designated by the police commissioner, a list of which shall be filed with the city clerk and published in the City Record.

d. Sale of toy-pistols. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or dispose of to a minor any toy-pistol or pistol that can be loaded with powder and ball or blank cartridge to be exploded by means of metal caps; but nothing herein contained shall apply to the sale or disposal of what are known as firecracker pistols, torpedo pistols or such pistols as are used for the explosion of paper caps.

e. Tear gas; sale or possession of; fees for permits. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to manufacture, sell or offer for sale, possess or use, or attempt to use, any lachrymating, asphyxiating, incapacitating or deleterious gas or gases, or liquid or liquids, or chemical or chemicals, without a permit issued by the police commissioner under such regulations as the commissioner or the council may prescribe; nor shall any person manufacture, sell or offer for sale, possess or use any weapon, candle, device, or any instrument of any kind designed to discharge, emit, release or use any lachrymating, asphyxiating, incapacitating or other deleterious gas or gases, or liquid or liquids, or chemical or chemicals, without a similar permit, similarly issued, except that the members of the police department in the line of duty may possess or use any such gas, liquid or chemical.

2. Applicants for permits under the provisions of this subdivision shall pay annual fees as follows:

(a) To carry or possess such gas or liquid $10.00

(a) Renewals $5.00

(b) To install such gas or liquid on any premises $25.00

(a) Renewals $5.00

(c) To manufacture such gas or liquid $100.00

(d) To sell such gas or liquid at wholesale $100.00

(e) To sell such gas or liquid at retail $50.00

(f) To sell instruments or devices designed to discharge or emit (a) such gas or liquid $50.00

(g) To possess or carry any instrument or device to discharge (a) or emit such gas or liquid $5.00

f. Violations. Except as is otherwise specifically provided in this section, any person who shall wilfully violate any provisions of this section shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

g. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or offer for sell, possess or use or attempt to use or give away, any toy or imitation firearm which substantially duplicates or can reasonably be perceived to be an actual firearm unless:

(a) the entire exterior surface of such toy or imitation firearm is colored white, bright red, bright orange, bright yellow, bright green, bright blue, bright pink or bright purple, either singly or as the predominant color in combination with other colors in any pattern; or

(b) such toy or imitation firearm is constructed entirely of transparent or translucent materials which permits unmistakable observation of the imitation or toy firearm's complete contents; and

(c) the barrel of such toy or imitation firearm, other than the barrel of any such toy or imitation firearm that is a water gun, is closed with the same material of which the toy or imitation firearm is made for a distance of not less than one-half inch from the front end of said barrel, and;

(d) such toy or imitation firearm has legibly stamped thereon, the name of the manufacturer or some trade name, mark or brand by which the manufacturer can be readily identified; and

(e) such toy or imitation or firearm does not have attached thereto a laser pointer, as defined in paragraph one of subdivision a of section 10-134.2 of this code.

2. Paragraph one of this subdivision shall not apply to:

(a) the possession or display of toy or imitation firearms by a manufacturer or dealer solely for purposes of sales that are accompanied by delivery to a point without the city;

(b) any toy or imitation firearm that will be used only for or in the production of television programs or theatrical or motion picture presentations, provided, however, that such use of any toy or imitation firearm complies with all applicable laws, rules or regulations concerning request and receipt of waivers authorizing such use;

(c) non-firing collector replica antique firearms, which look authentic and may be a scale model but are not intended as toys modeled on real firearms designed, manufactured and produced prior to 1898;

(d) decorative, ornamental, and miniature objects having the appearance, shape and/or configuration of a firearm, including those intended to be displayed on a desk or worn on items such as bracelets, necklaces and key chains, provided that the objects measure no more than thirty-eight (38) millimeters in height by seventy (70) millimeters in length, the length measurement excluding any gun stock length measurement.

3. Authorized agents and employees of the department of consumer affairs, and of any other agency designated by the mayor, shall have the authority to enforce the provisions of this subdivision. A proceeding to recover any civil penalty pursuant to this subdivision shall be commenced by service of a notice of hearing that shall be returnable to the administrative tribunal of the department of consumer affairs. The administrative tribunal of such department shall have the power to impose civil penalties for a violation of this subdivision of not more than one thousand dollars ($1000).

4. Any person who shall violate this subdivision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1000) or imprisonment not exceeding one (1) year or both.

h. Rifles and shotguns; carrying or possessing. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to carry or possess a loaded rifle or shotgun in public within the city limits. Any person who shall violate this paragraph shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

2. It shall be unlawful for any person to carry or possess an unloaded rifle or shotgun in public within the city limits unless such rifle or shotgun is completely enclosed, or contained, in a non-transparent carrying case. Any person who shall violate this paragraph shall be guilty of an offense punishable by a fine of not more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

3. The above provisions shall not apply to persons in the military service of the state of New York when duly authorized by regulations issued by the chief of staff to the governor to possess same, police officers and peace officers as defined in the criminal procedure law, or to participants in special events when authorized by the police commissioner.

i. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, except as otherwise authorized pursuant to law, to dispose of any ammunition or any ammunition feeding device, as defined in section 10-301, designed for use in a firearm, rifle or shotgun, unless he or she is a dealer in firearms or a dealer in rifles and shotguns and such disposition is in accordance with law, provided that a person in lawful possession of such ammunition or ammunition feeding device may dispose of such ammunition or ammunition feeding device to a dealer in firearms who is authorized, or a dealer in rifles and shotguns who is authorized, to possess such ammunition or ammunition feeding device.

2. It shall be unlawful for any dealer in firearms or dealer in rifles and shotguns to dispose of any pistol or revolver ammunition of a particular caliber to any person not authorized to possess a pistol or revolver of such caliber within the city of New York.

3. It shall be unlawful for any person not authorized to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York to possess pistol or revolver ammunition, provided that a dealer in rifles and shotguns may possess such ammunition.

4. It shall be unlawful for any person authorized to possess a pistol or revolver of a particular caliber within the city of New York to possess pistol or revolver ammunition of a different caliber.

5. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs two, three and four of this subdivision, any person authorized to possess a rifle within the city of New York may possess ammunition suitable for use in such rifle and a dealer in firearms or dealer in rifles and shotguns may dispose of such ammunition to such person pursuant to section 10-306.

6. It shall be unlawful for any person to possess any ammunition feeding device designed for use in a firearm except as provided in subparagraphs (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of this paragraph.

(a) Any pistol or revolver licensee or permittee may possess an ammunition feeding device designed for use in the pistol or revolver such licensee or permittee is authorized to possess, provided that such ammunition feeding device is not capable of holding more than seventeen rounds of ammunition and provided further that such ammunition feeding device does not extend below the grip of the pistol or revolver.

(b) Any person who is exempt pursuant to section 265.20 of the penal law from provisions of the penal law relating to possession of a firearm and who is authorized pursuant to any provision of law to possess a firearm without a license or permit therefor, may possess an ammunition feeding device suitable for use in such firearm, subject to the same conditions as apply with respect to such person's possession of such firearm.

(c) Any dealer in firearms may possess such ammunition feeding devices for the purpose of disposition authorized pursuant to paragraph seven of this subdivision.

(d) Any person who leases a firearm that has been certified by the commissioner as deactivated, from a dealer in firearms or a special theatrical dealer, for use during the course of any television, movie, stage or other similar theatrical production, or any professional photographer who leases a firearm that has been certified by the commissioner as deactivated, from a dealer in firearms or a special theatrical dealer, for use in the pursuance of his or her profession, may possess an ammunition feeding device suitable for use in such firearm, subject to the same conditions as apply with respect to such person's possession of such firearm.

(e) Any special theatrical dealer may possess such ammunition feeding devices exclusively for the purpose of leasing such ammunition feeding devices to such persons as are described in subparagraph (d) of this paragraph.

7. It shall be unlawful for any person to dispose of to another person any ammunition feeding device designed for use in a firearm, provided that a dealer in firearms may dispose of, to such persons as are described in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of paragraph six of this subdivision, such ammunition feeding devices as may be possessed by such persons and provided further that a person in lawful possession of such ammunition feeding devices may dispose of such ammunition feeding devices to a dealer in firearms. In addition, a dealer in firearms or a special theatrical dealer may lease, to such persons as are described in subparagraph (d) of paragraph six of this subdivision, such ammunition feeding devices as may be possessed by such persons.

8. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs six and seven of this subdivision any person may, within ninety days of the effective date of this local law, dispose of an ammunition feeding device designed for use in a firearm to a dealer in firearms.

9. The regular and ordinary transport of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices as merchandise shall not be limited by this subdivision, provided that the person transporting such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices, where he or she knows or has reasonable means of ascertaining what he or she is transporting, notifies, in writing, the police commissioner of the name and address of the consignee and the place of delivery, and withholds delivery to the consignee for such reasonable period of time designated in writing by the police commissioner as the police commissioner may deem necessary for investigation as to whether the consignee may lawfully receive and possess such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices.

10. The regular and ordinary transport of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices by a manufacturer of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices, or by an agent or employee of such manufacturer who is duly authorized in writing by such manufacturer to transport ammunition or ammunition feeding devices on the date or dates specified, directly between places where the manufacturer regularly conducts business, provided such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices are transported in a locked opaque container, shall not be limited by this subdivision, provided that transportation of such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices into, out of or within the city of New York may be done only with the consent of the police commissioner of the city of New York. To obtain such consent, the manufacturer must notify the police commissioner in writing of the name and address of the transporting manufacturer, or agent or employee of the manufacturer who is authorized in writing by such manufacturer to transport ammunition or ammunition feeding devices, the quantity, caliber and type of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices to be transported and the place where the manufacturer regularly conducts business within the city of New York and such other information as the commissioner may deem necessary. The manufacturer shall not transport such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices between the designated places of business for such reasonable period of time designated in writing by the police commissioner as such official may deem necessary for investigation and to give consent. The police commissioner may not unreasonably withhold his or her consent. For the purposes of this paragraph, places where the manufacturer regularly conducts business include, but are not limited to, places where the manufacturer regularly or customarily conducts development or design of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices, or regularly or customarily conducts tests on ammunition or ammunition feeding devices.

11. A person shall be deemed authorized to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York if such person is authorized to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York pursuant to this section, section 10-302 or section 400.00 of the penal law, or is exempt pursuant to section 265.20 of the penal law from provisions of the penal law relating to possession of a firearm and is authorized pursuant to any provision of law to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York without a license or permit therefor. A person shall be deemed authorized to possess a rifle within the city of New York if such person is authorized to possess a rifle within the city of New York pursuant to section 10-303, or is a person permitted pursuant to section 10-305 to possess a rifle without a permit therefor.

12. No pistol or revolver ammunition or ammunition feeding device shall be disposed of to any person pursuant to this subdivision unless such person exhibits the license or permit authorizing him or her to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York or exhibits proof that he or she is exempt pursuant to section 265.20 of the penal law from provisions of the penal law relating to possession of a firearm and proof that he or she is authorized pursuant to any provision of law to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York without a license or permit therefor.

13. A record shall be kept by the dealer of each disposition of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices under this subdivision which shall show the quantity, caliber and type of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices disposed of, the name and address of the person receiving same, the date and time of the transaction, and the number of the license or permit exhibited or description of the proof of status as a person not required to have a license or permit as required by paragraph twelve of this subdivision.

14. Any person who shall violate this subdivision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

15. Any person who shall violate this subdivision shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than one thousand dollars, to be recovered in a civil action brought by the corporation counsel in the name of the city in any court of competent jurisdiction.

16. The provisions of paragraphs three, four and six of this subdivision shall not apply to a person voluntarily surrendering ammunition or ammunition feeding devices, provided that such surrender shall be made to the police commissioner or the commissioner's designee; and provided, further, that the same shall be surrendered by such person only after he or she gives notice in writing to the police commissioner or the commissioner's designee, stating his or her name, address, the nature of the property to be surrendered, and the approximate time of day and the place where such surrender shall take place. Such notice shall be acknowledged immediately upon receipt thereof by such authority. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as granting immunity from prosecution for any crime or offense except that of unlawful possession of such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices surrendered as herein provided. A person who possesses any such ammunition or ammunition feeding devices as an executor or administrator or any other lawful possessor of such property of a decedent may continue to possess such property for a period not over fifteen days. If such property is not lawfully disposed of within such period, the possessor shall deliver it to the police commissioner or the commissioner's designee or such property may be delivered to the superintendent of state police. When such property is delivered to the police commissioner or the commissioner's designee, such officer shall hold it and shall thereafter deliver it on the written request of such executor, administrator or other lawful possessor of such property to a named person, provided such named person is licensed to or is otherwise lawfully permitted to possess the same. If no request to deliver the property is received within two years of the delivery of such property to such official, he or she shall dispose of it in accordance with the provisions of section 400.05 of the penal law.

j. Deceptively colored firearms, rifles, shotguns, and assault weapons.

(1) Definitions.

(i) When used in this subdivision, the term "deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon" shall include any firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon any substantial portion of whose exterior surface is colored any color other than black, dark grey, dark green, silver, steel, or nickel, except as provided in subparagraph (iii) of this paragraph. For purposes of this subparagraph, the exterior surface of either the receiver or the slide of a firearm shall be deemed to constitute a substantial portion of the exterior surface of the firearm.

(ii) Any firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon any substantial portion of whose exterior surface is colored white, bright red, bright orange, bright yellow, bright green, bright blue, bright pink or bright purple, either singly or as the predominant color in combination with other colors in any pattern shall be deemed to be a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon, except as provided in subparagraph (iii) of this paragraph.

(iii) Notwithstanding subparagraph (i) and (ii) of this paragraph, a firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon shall not be deemed to be a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon merely because its handle is composed of ivory, colored so as to appear to be composed of ivory, composed of wood, or colored so as to be composed of wood.

(iv) The term "deceptive coloring product" shall mean and include any equipment, product, or material that is designed for use in modifying any firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon so as to make it a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon. Any equipment, product, or material that is held out, offered for sale, or otherwise disposed of based on its utility, alone or in combination with other equipment, products, or materials, in modifying any firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon so as to make it a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon shall be deemed a deceptive coloring product. Any combination of equipment, products, or materials that are jointly held out, offered for sale, or otherwise disposed of based on their utility, jointly or in combination with other equipment, products, or materials, in modifying any firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon so as to make it a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon shall be deemed a deceptive coloring product.

(v) The definitions set forth in section 10-301 of this title shall apply to this subdivision.

(2) It shall be unlawful for any person to dispose of a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon or a deceptive coloring product except as authorized by paragraph six of this subdivision. It shall be unlawful for any person to modify, attempt to modify, or offer to modify any firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon so as to make it a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon except as authorized by paragraph six of this subdivision.

(3) It shall be unlawful for any person to possess a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon or a deceptive coloring product except as authorized by paragraph five or six of this subdivision or for any person to attempt to possess a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon or a deceptive coloring product except as authorized by paragraph six of this subdivision.

(4) Violation of this subdivision or of regulations issued pursuant to it shall be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or imprisonment of not more than one year or both.

(5) This subdivision shall not apply to the possession of any deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon by any person who possesses it on the effective date of the local law enacting this subdivision, or by any person who acquires it by operation of law after the effective date of the local law enacting this subdivision, or because of the death of another person for whom such person is an executor or administrator of an estate or a trustee of a trust created in a will, provided that, within fifteen days, such person either (i) surrenders such deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon to the commissioner for disposal in accordance with the provisions of section 400.05 of the penal law; or (ii) modifies such firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon so that it is no longer a deceptively colored firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon and cannot be readily converted into one. This subdivision shall not apply to the possession of any deceptive coloring product by any person who possesses it on the effective date of the local law enacting this subdivision, or by any person who acquires it by operation of law after the effective date of the local law enacting this subdivision, or because of the death of another person for whom such person is an executor or administrator of an estate or a trustee of a trust created in a will, provided that within fifteen days such person surrenders such deceptive coloring product to the commissioner for disposal.

(6) This subdivision shall not apply to the disposal, possession, modification, or use of any firearm, rifle, shotgun, assault weapon, or deceptive coloring product that is purchased for the use of, sold or shipped to, or issued for the use of, the United States or any department or agency thereof, or any state or any department, agency, or political subdivision thereof.

(7) The police commissioner may make and promulgate such rules and regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this subdivision. Such rules and regulations may provide that for purposes of paragraph six of this subdivision, a firearm, rifle, shotgun, assault weapon, equipment, product, or material that is purchased by, received by, possessed by, or used by a peace officer or police officer shall be deemed to have been issued for the use of the agency employing such officer.

1. Provisions of L.L. 32/2006:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The Council finds that guns that are colored so as to resemble toy guns endanger law enforcement officers and the public without serving any legitimate purpose. Multiple firms now offer to cover guns with ceramic coatings in an array of colors, including "hidden white" and "electric cherry." One even sells on the internet kits designed to allow people to recolor their guns in such colors. Guns in such colors could be easily mistaken for toys, which poses many dangers. If such colored guns deceive police officers, or even cause officers to hesitate for a moment, armed criminals are given a potentially fatal advantage. Furthermore, a young child who comes upon a gun in an attractive color could easily mistake it for a toy with predictably tragic results.

Deceptively colored firearms pose a particular threat to New Yorkers because they undercut legislation that the Council passed seven years ago. Under Local Law 58 of 1999, toy guns (unless they are transparent or translucent) must be colored certain bright hues. The Council imposed this requirement to ensure that toy guns are never mistaken for real ones. Ceramic coating on real guns in the colors designated by Local Law 58 subverts the basic purpose of that law, changing it from one that protects the public to one that places police at greater risk.

There is no legitimate reason for anyone to disguise a gun to look like a toy, and such deceptive guns should be banned from New York City. By the same token, no person or company should disguise or offer to disguise a gun by changing its color, essentially seeking profit at the expense of City law and public safety. The Council therefore intends for this law to apply to the full extent of its jurisdiction under the state and federal constitutions to the practices addressed herein.

§ 3. Severability. If any provision of this local law is for any reason found to be invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such finding shall not affect the validity of all remaining portions of this local law, which shall continue in full force and effect.

§ 4. This local law shall take effect 120 days after its enactment into law [Nov. 24, 2006], provided that, prior to such effective date, the police commissioner shall promulgate such rules and take such other actions as are necessary to its timely implementation.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. The State, by the enactment of the Penal Law § 1894-a has preempted the entire field with respect to the possession and use of toy or imitation pistols and a local ordinance attempting to impose additional regulations is unconstitutional. Thus, the provisions of this section prohibiting the possession of any toy or imitation pistols which substantially duplicate actual pistols was unconstitutional when applied to "cap pistols" which are permitted by the Penal Law without restrictions as to size, color or appearance.-People v. Delgardo, 1 Misc. 2d 821, 146 N.Y.S. 2d 350 [1955].

¶ 2. The provisions of this section which prohibit the possession of certain imitation pistols is a constitutional exercise of the police power. Where a black wooden imitation gun was found in automobile stolen by the defendant he could properly be found guilty of violating this section.-People v. Klufus, 1 Misc. 2d 828, 149 N.Y.S. 2d 821 [1956].

¶ 3. Defendant's conviction of unlawful sale of toy pistols affirmed despite dissent which argued that pistols in question did not "substantially duplicate" actual pistols.-People v. Weinstein, 5 AD2d 698, 169 N.Y.S. 2d 469 [1958], aff'd 4 N.Y. 2d 986, 177 N.Y.S. 2d 506, 152 N.E. 2d 529 [1958].

¶ 4. Speargun, powered by a cartridge of carbon dioxide and used for underwater fishing, does not fall under the interdiction of air rifles powered by springs or by air.-People v. Pestronk, 3 Misc. 2d 845, 157 N.Y.S. 2d 492 [1956].

¶ 5. Petitioner, a private detective, had a pistol license for several years. His partner, who developed an animosity toward him, had him arrested for allegedly pulling the gun and pointing it at him in front of a busy and brightly lighted theatre. The complaint, which was made eight days after the alleged incident, was dismissed. Thereafter the Police Commissioner disapproved petitioner's application for renewal of his license. In view of the meager investigation made, it seems that the petition has merit. The matter is remanded to the Police Commissioner for further action.-In re Melita, 135 (1) N.Y.L.J. (1-3-56) 6, Col. 6 F.

¶ 6. Special patrolmen of Welfare Department were not entitled to carry firearms in view of prior directive by Police Commissioner prohibiting same.-Matter of Johnston (McCarthy), 142 (70) N.Y.L.J. (10-7-59) 12, Col. 5 F.

¶ 7. The Commissioner properly denied petitioner's application for renewal of his pistol license upon the sole ground that petitioner's 16-year-old son had had two arrests and two pistols had been stolen from petitioner's home while he was away. The Commissioner believed that petitioner's possession of a pistol might tempt such a son.-Matter of Grauling, 17 Misc. 2d 1021, 183 N.Y.S. 2d 654 [1959].

¶ 8. Petitioner had a record of arrests during 1931-1935, but all charges in connection therewith were dismissed. He became licensed as a private detective in 1940 and was granted a pistol permit in 1947, at which times his record of arrests was fully known. Therefore, the Commissioner's subsequent refusal to renew the pistol permit on the ground of the prior arrests was arbitrary.-In re Palocsik (Kennedy), 141 (46) N.Y.L.J. (3-10-59) 12, Col. 4 M.

¶ 9. Petitioner's pistol permit issued because it was necessary for him to carry large amounts of money in connection with his business, held properly revoked where petitioner had been arrested for attempted felonious assault with motor vehicle, driving while intoxicated, signal light violation and failure to advise of change of address. Acquittal of the first three charges were unimpressive where he admitted to drinking excessively and he was carrying pistol at a time when he was not engaged in the purpose for which the permit was issued.-Matter of Goldfarb (Kennedy), 144 (79) N.Y.L.J. (10-24-60) 14, Col. 3 F.

¶ 10. Petitioner had a pistol license since 1950 and in 1959 he reported it stolen and the gun was subsequently recovered from a person, who while intoxicated was waving it on a bus. In 1960 a complaint was made by a former employee who had been discharged that petitioner had threatened him with the gun. Held, revocation of the license was not arbitrary although petitioner's personal character had not been questioned.-Epstein v. Kennedy, 145 (55) N.Y.L.J. (3-22-61) 15, Col. 7 F.

¶ 11. There was no violation of this section where the credible evidence showed that the discharging of a rifle into a ceiling occurred when two men tried to break down the door of the rifle owner's apartment and refused to leave the apartment after the owner ordered them to do so.-Hutchinson v. Rosetti, 24 Misc. 2d 949, 205 N.Y.S. 2d 526 [1960].

¶ 12. Where charges for discharging a rifle within city limits were dropped against the plaintiff, the property clerk of the New York City Police Department could not refuse to return plaintiff's confiscated rifle.-Hutchinson v. Rosetti, 24 Misc. 2d 949, 205 N.Y.S. 2d 526 [1960].

¶ 13. There is a clear legislative intent that within the City of New York the Police Commissioner as the licensing officer shall decide in a specific case whether a pistol license shall be issued and he must be given a certain amount of discretion in the powers conferred on him and court will not substitute its judgment for that of a qualified official.-Matter of Bogac (Neco) 161 (99) N.Y.L.J. (5-21-69) 2, Col. 2 F.

¶ 14. Petitioners, inspectors of the Housing and Development Administration who were sworn in as special patrolmen but who were not peace officers did not demonstrate a clear right to judgment directing respondents to allow them to carry properly registered firearms.-Glinsman v. Walsh, 166 (51) N.Y.L.J. (9-13-71) 19, Col. 1 F.

¶ 15. Denial of petitioner's application for a gun permit was not arbitrary where although petitioner testified to her fears in traveling, especially at night, the short distance from her place of business to her home or bank the record showed no special danger to her or any other circumstance that would distinguish her from other proprietors of retail establishments.-Slatsky v. Murphy, 166 (73) N.Y.L.J. (10-14-71) 72, Col. 3 M.

¶ 16. Revocation of petitioner's permit to carry a pistol had a rational basis where it was shown that petitioner had failed to safeguard his pistol and had left it in a desk drawer in his office where it was found by one of his employees who used it to commit suicide.-In re Dubbs (Murphy) 166 (78) N.Y.L.J. (10-21-71) 2, Col. 2 M.

¶ 17. The Police Commissioner being the licensing authority for pistol permits in New York City is a necessary and proper party to a proceeding for an order directing respondent to grant petitioner's application for a pistol permit.-Rottman v. Gardner, 167 (49) N.Y.L.J. (3-13-72) 17, Col. 6 T.

¶ 18. Revocation of petitioner's pistol permit on the ground that he was not a proper person to carry a pistol was not arbitrary where petitioner reported loss of his weapon on September 23, 1967 and on September 3, 1969 again reported theft of his weapon from the front seat of his car.-In re Levinson (Police Dept.), 166 (101) N.Y.L.J. (11-26-71), Col. 7 M.

¶ 19. Subdivision (e) is not unconstitutionally vague.-People v. DeLeon, 32 N.Y. 2d 944, 300 N.E. 2d 734, 347 N.Y.S. 2d 203 [1973].

¶ 20. Denial of pistol license to petitioner sought in connection with his interest in marksmanship on ground of "Unstable Employment" because petitioner had a number of jobs in the last several years was not a proper basis for such denial.-Klapper v. Codd, 78 Misc. 2d 377, 356 N.Y.S. 2d 431 [1974].

¶ 21. Determination disapproving petitioner's application for an on-premises pistol license on ground of "insufficient needs" was annulled since no showing of need is required for the issuance of such a license.-Shapiro v. Cawley, 46 AD2d 633, 360 N.Y.S. 2d 7 [1974].

¶ 22. Subdivision g of this section which makes it unlawful to sell or possess an imitation pistol which duplicates an actual pistol unless the imitation is in certain colors is a proper exercise of police powers and is not an invalid attempt to regulate a field preempted by a state statute.-People v. Webb, 78 Misc. 2d 253, 356 N.Y.S. 2d 494 [1974].

¶ 23. An inoperative revolver loaded with live ammunition and one spent shell which was black with a clear barrel did not come within the provisions of this section forbidding the sale and possession of certain toy or imitation revolvers.-People v. Rivers, 76 Misc. 2d 972, 351 N.Y.S. 2d 622 [1974].

¶ 24. Fourteen year old respondent had no standing to object to seizure of photographs of him holding firearms when seized from the pocket of another juvenile since fourth amendment protects not property rights but the right to privacy and respondent was not the victim of an invasion of privacy.-Matter of Kwok T., 81 Misc. 2d 911, 367 N.Y.S. 2d 427 [1975].

¶ 25. City Marshals are not required to obtain pistol permit as a condition to their continued possession of firearms and the omission of City Marshal from the definition of peace officer in the CCP does not indicate a legislative intent to eliminate any of their common law privileges.-Matter of Aponte (Dept. of Investigation), 173 (88) N.Y.L.J. (5-7-75) 2, Col. 3 F.

¶ 26. An inoperable pistol comes within the meaning of an imitation pistol since it substantially duplicates an actual pistol. The court expressly disagreed with the finding in People v. Rivers, supra ¶ 23.-People v. Davis, 82 Misc. 2d 947, 371 N.Y.S. 2d 982 [1975].

¶ 27. Subdivision g of this section which makes it unlawful to possess a toy pistol resembling a real gun is constitutional.-People v. Judiz, 38 N.Y. 2d 529, 344 N.E. 2d 399, 381 N.Y.S. 2d 467 [1976].

¶ 28. A revolver which lacked a firing pin and was thus inoperable was not a firearm since it was incapable of being fired and defendant could be held for trial on charge of possessing a toy or imitation revolver in violation of this section.-People v. Pearson, 85 Misc. 2d 1029 [1976].

¶ 29. Determination of respondents revoking petitioner's license to carry a firearm on the ground that his actions or attitudes "engender doubt as to his fitness to possess a firearm" was arbitrary and capricious where although the hotel of which he was the manager had been the site of drug trafficking the petitioner was not involved in those activities and had sought police assistance on many occasions to keep "such undesirable elements" away from the hotel.-In re Long (Codd), 179 (9) N.Y.L.J. (1-13-78) 7, Col. 2 M.

¶ 30. Determination which denied petitioner's application for a pistol permit was upheld where although petitioner claimed that he had to carry a substantial amount of cash in connection with his business which was in a high crime rate area, he was never robbed and failed to document his cash flow.-Matter of Bartek (McGuire), 180 (69) N.Y.L.J. (10-10-78) 29, Col. 6 B.

¶ 31. Where defendant was charged under subdivision g with possession of a realistic looking toy gun (actually a genuine gun with a part missing which made it inoperable) and search for gun could have been made as an incident to an arrest on a marihuana charge, but no arrest for a controlled substance was made, gun would be suppressed.-In the Matter of Robert M, 99 Misc. 2d 462 [1979].

¶ 32. A starter pistol which had been altered to accept live cartridges but which was inoperable since the firing pin could not hit the primers with sufficient force to ignite the powder was an imitation pistol pursuant to the provisions of subdivision g of this section.-People v. Williams, 113 Misc. 2d 595 [1982].

¶ 33. A starter's pistol is an imitation pistol within the meaning of § 436-5.0(g) and its possession is prohibited. A real but inoperable handgun is not such a toy or imitation pistol or revolver.-Matter of Michael R. (People), 91 App. Div. 2d 1211; aff'd 61 N.Y. 2d 316 [1984].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Imitation pistols designed to be mistaken for real guns and used for nefarious purposes are illegal. Prosecution for violations of § 436-5.0(g) [10-131(6)(g)] must prove that the item possessed was never designed to be a useable firearm but was an imitation pistol or a model so closely copied as not readily discernible as a toy.-People v. Wilfong, 141 Misc. 2d 574 [1988].

¶ 2. Police Departments administrative policy limiting to two the number of pistols or firearms retired officers may list on carry licenses is not abuse of discretion or capricious but is a genuine effort to reduce gun thefts. Retired officers are subject to the same regulations as other citizens.-Caruso v. Ward, 143 Misc. 2d 5 [1989].

¶ 3. Two 16 year old defendants arrested as they sat in a fast food restaurant with a loaded shotgun may only be charged with possessing an unregistered shotgun within NYC as a violation, not an unclassified misdemeanor because the offense had been reclassified to a violation as long as the weapon had not been used in the commission of a crime or the possessor had not previously been denied a permit for such possession (Ad Code of the City of NY § 10-310), however defendants could have been charged with a misdemeanor had they been charged with possession of a loaded shotgun within the city limits (Ad Code § 10-131(h)).-People v. Abrey, 144 Misc. 2d 274.

¶ 4. Defendants may be charged with acting in concert in concealing on their persons a shotgun shell and the readily assembled parts of a "functionally operable" shotgun in public within the meaning of Ad Code §§ 10-301, 10-131(h)(1) because it is up to the trier of fact to determine whether defendants could have made the unassembled weapon operational with reasonable preparation.-People v. Walston, 147 Misc. 2d 679.

¶ 5. The Police Commissioner of the City of New York is vested with the authority to grant, revoke or cancel gun licenses pursuant to §10-131(a)(1). The only reference to any hearing is found in the rules of the Police Department 38 RCNY 5-30(h).-Shapiro v. NYC Police Dept. 157 Misc. 2d 28 [1993].

¶ 6. Ad Cd §10-131(g) prohibits toy guns from being certain colors and is not preempted by federal law which requires that toy guns have an orange plug. The manufacturers could comply with both requirements.-City of New York v. Job-Lot Pushcart, 213 AD2d 210 [1995].

¶ 7. City law outlawing sales of certain toy guns that resemble actual firearms is not pre-empted by the 1988 Federal Toy Gun Law (15 U.S.C. § 5001 and its implementing regulations, 15 CFR § 1150 et seq.).-City of New York v. Job Lot Pushcart, 88 N.Y.2d 163, 643 N.Y.S.2d 944 (1996).

¶ 8. A gun license is deemed a privilege rather than a right. The law does not require a quasi-judicial or formal adversarial hearing before a pistol license is revoked. Thus, there is no question of substantial evidence in a proceeding to review the revocation of a pistol license and it is not appropriate to transfer the case to the Appellate Division.-Shapiro v. New York City Police Department (License Division), 157 Misc. 2d 28, 595 N.Y.S. 2d 864 (Sup. Ct. New York Co. 1993).

¶ 9. The possession of a handgun license is a privilege rather than a right. The Police Commissioner has broad discretion to grant licenses. In an Article 78 proceeding arising out of the revocation of a pistol license, the only issue is whether the Commissioner's action was arbitrary and capricious or an abuse of discretion. A rational basis exists where the evidence adduced is adequate to support the Commissioner's action. The court must defer to the fact finder's assessment of the evidence and the credibility of witnesses. In this case, the court held that hearsay evidence obtained from confidential informants regarding petitioner's jury tampering in a federal racketeering trial, together with statements taken from a juror in the case regarding a bribe attempt and the fact that the federal judge had declared a mistrial upon indications of jury tampering, were enough to form a basis for revocation of a pistol permit.-Sewell v. City of New York, 182 A.D. 2d 469, 583 N.Y.S. 2d 255 (1st Dept. 1992).

¶ 10. A gun powered by carbon dioxide is not an "air gun" within the meaning of Section 10-131. People v. Delisser, 177 A.D.2d 702, 577 N.Y.S.2d 84 (2nd Dept. 1991).

¶ 11. A BB gun, powered by a carbon dioxide cartridge, qualifies as an "air gun" within the prohibitions of Administrative Code § 10-131(b)(1). Matter of Cesar P., 656 N.Y.S.2d 684 (App.Div. 2d Dept. 1997).

¶ 12. A complaint charging possession of an unlicensed air pistol or air rifle must allege that the weapon was operable. Thus, the complaint, or a supporting deposition or a ballistics report, must demonstrate facts showing that at the time of seizure, the weapon was operable. People v. Blackwell, 176 Misc.2d 896, 675 N.Y.S.2d 486 (Sup.Ct. New York Co. 1998).

¶ 13. The possession of a loaded rifle in the locked trunk of a car is deemed to be "in public" for purposes of this statute. People v. Harris, 193 Misc.2d 487, 750 N.Y.S.2d 424 (App.Term 2d Dept. 2002).

¶ 14. A paintball gun which uses a carbon dioxide cartridge is an "air gun" as defined in the statute. The court held that possession and use of the gun by a thirteen-year-old boy, with the knowledge and consent of his parents, makes the parents liable for injuries caused by the use of the gun (plaintiff shot the paintball gun at a girl who was standing in the driveway of his home, hitting her in the eye). The parents had not only allowed him to keep the gun, but even assisted him in the illegal activity by bringing him to the store to purchase more ammunition. Danielle A. v. Christopher P., 3 Misc.2d 357, 776 N.Y.S.2d 446 (Sup.Ct. Richmond Co. 2003).

¶ 15. The mere facts that a school safety agent saw the defendant standing near a locker that was "kind of cracked open," and that the agent found the air pistol in the locker when he opened it, were insufficient to establish that the defendant possessed an air pistol. The agent did not see the defendant place anything into the locker, and there was no evidence that the locker was assigned to defendant. In other words, mere proximity to the air pistol is not enough to show possession. In Re David H., 30 A.D.3d 285, 817 N.Y.S.2d 269 (1st Dept. 2006).

¶ 16. In one case, a juvenile delinquency finding was affirmed, where an imitation firearm possessed by the juvenile substantially duplicated or could reasonably have been perceived to be an actual firearm, especially from the point of view of an observer with no opportunity to examine it closely. In Re Timothy L., 29 A.D.3d 492, 815 N.Y.S.2d 550 (1st Dept. 2006).

§ 10-133 Possession of knives or instruments.

a. Legislative findings. It is hereby declared and found that the possession in public places, streets and parks of the city, of large knives is a menace to the public health, peace, safety and welfare of the people of the city; that the possession in public places, streets and parks of such knives has resulted in the commission of many homicides, robberies, maimings and assaults of and upon the people of the city; that this condition encourages and fosters the commission of crimes, and contributes to juvenile delinquency, youth crime and gangsterism; that unless the possession or carrying in public places, streets and parks of the city of such knives without a lawful purpose is prohibited, there is danger of an increase in crimes of violence and other conditions detrimental to public peace, safety and welfare. It is further declared and found that the wearing or carrying of knives in open view in public places while such knives are not being used for a lawful purpose is unnecessary and threatening to the public and should be prohibited.

b. It shall be unlawful for any person to carry on his or her person or have in such person's possession, in any public place, street, or park any knife which has a blade length of four inches or more.

c. It shall be unlawful for any person in a public place, street or park, to wear outside of his or her clothing or carry in open view any knife with an exposed or unexposed blade unless such person is actually using such knife for a lawful purpose as set forth in subdivision d of this section.

d. The provisions of subdivisions b and c of this section shall not apply to (1) persons in the military service of the state of New York when duly authorized to carry or display knives pursuant to regulations issued by the chief of staff to the governor; (2) police officers and peace officers as defined in the criminal procedure law; (3) participants in special events when authorized by the police commissioner; (4) persons in the military or other service of the United States, in pursuit of official duty authorized by federal law; (5) emergency medical technicians or voluntary or paid ambulance drivers while engaged in the performance of their duties; or (6) any person displaying or in possession of a knife otherwise in violation of this section when such knife (a) is being used for or transported immediately to or from a place where it is used for hunting, fishing, camping, hiking, picnicking or any employment, trade or occupation customarily requiring the use of such knife; or (b) is displayed or carried by a member of a theatrical group, drill team, military or para-military unit or veterans organization, to, from, or during a meeting, parade or other performance or practice for such event, which customarily requires the carrying of such knife; or (c) is being transported directly to or from a place of purchase, sharpening or repair, packaged in such a manner as not to allow easy access to such knife while it is transported; or (d) is displayed or carried by a duly enrolled member of the Boy or Girl Scouts of America or a similar organization or society and such display or possession is necessary to participate in the activities of such organization or society.

e. Violation of this section shall be an offense punishable by a fine of not more than three hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding fifteen days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. The provisions of this section making it unlawful for any person under 21 years to carry on his person or have in his possession in any public place any knife or pointed instrument capable of cutting or puncturing are unconstitutional. Such legislation is vague and indefinite and it fails to require proof that possession was for a criminal intent.-People v. Munoz, 9 N.Y. 2d 51, 211 N.Y.S. 2d 146, 172 N.E. 2d 535 [1961].

¶ 2. This section promotes a legitimate governmental objective and is not unconstitutionally vague or an improper exercise of the city's police power.-People v. Ortiz, 125 Misc. 2d 318 [1984].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A Sikh priest was given a summons for violating the law prohibiting possession of an exposed knife. The priest contended that the display of the knife was part of his religion, and that the statute violated the constiutional guarantee of freedom of religion. The court held that the statute did not violate the constitution, although it dismissed the charges in the interest of justice. The need for public safety created a compelling governmental interest, to which the priest's freedom to carry a knife had to give way. The court noted that if Sikhs were given an exemption from the law, it would create an impermissible burden for the police to have to ascertain whether anyone carrying an exposed knife (and thus ostensibly violating the law) was a genuine Sikh. CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

a. Legislative findings. It is hereby declared and found that the possession in public places, streets and parks of the city, of folding knives which lock upon opening, is a menace to the public health, peace, safety and welfare of the people of the city; that the possession in public places, streets and parks of such knives has resulted in the commission of many homicides, robberies, maimings and assaults of and upon the people of the city, that this condition encourages and fosters the commission of crimes, and contributes to juvenile delinquency, youth crime and gangsterism; that if this situation is not addressed, then there is a danger of an increase in crimes of violence, and other conditions detrimental to public peace, safety and welfare. It has been found that folding knives with a blade of four (4) inches or more that locks in an open position are designed and used almost exclusively for the purpose of stabbing or the threat thereof. Therefore for the safety of the city, such weapons should be prohibited from sale within the jurisdiction of the city of New York.

b. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, or offer for sale within the jurisdiction of the city of New York, any folding knife with a blade length of four or more inches which is so constructed that when it is opened it is locked in an open position and cannot be closed without depressing or moving a release mechanism.

c. Exempt from this section are importers and exporters or merchants who ship or receive locking folding knives, with a blade length of four or more inches, in bulk, which knives are scheduled to travel or have travelled in the course of international, interstate, or intrastate commerce to a point outside the city. Such bulk shipments shall remain in their original shipping package, unopened, except for inspection and possible subdivision for further movement in interstate or intrastate commerce to a point outside the city.

d. Violation of this section shall be an offense punishable by a fine of not more than seven hundred fifty dollars ($750) or by imprisonment not exceeding fifteen days (15) or both such fine and imprisonment. Any person violating this section shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed one thousand dollars for each violation.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The possession of weapons in school facilities is a matter of grave public concern. In one case, where a student was found to have possessed a multi-bladed knife, the court placed the student on probation. During the probationary period, the student moved to reopen the dispositional hearing and for entry of an order adjourning the proceeding in contemplation of dismissal. The court held that the student needed continued supervision and counseling and denied the motion. However, the court stated that a new motion could be brought at a later time, by providing a report from the school as to the student's academic performance and behavior during the current semester, along with a report from his treating therapist. Title 10 Public Safety

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-134.1 Prohibition on sale of box cutters to persons under twenty-one years of age, open displays of box cutters by sellers, and possession of box cutters in a public place, or on school premises by persons under twenty-two years of age.

a. Legislative findings. The council hereby finds that the number of school safety incidents which take place in the city's schools are disturbingly high and are rising, and that these incidents place students and staff at unacceptable risk of injury and disrupt the learning environment. Board of education statistics reveal that for the first half of the 1994-95 school year, 8,333 school safety incidents occurred, representing a 27.6 percent increase as compared with the same period in the prior year. Board of education statistics also reveal that for the entire 1994-95 school year, 19,814 school safety incidents were reported, representing an increase of 16 percent as compared to the prior school year.

The council further finds that the board of education's school safety statistics reveal that over 2,000 box cutters and other similar implements were seized during the 1994-95 school year, indicating that these instruments have become the "weapon of choice" in the city's schools. These implements are used as weapons by students as they are relatively inexpensive, readily available, and easily deployable. Used as weapons, box cutters and similar instruments can cause great injury.

It is the council's belief that banning the sale of box cutters to minors under eighteen year of age, requiring that those who sell box cutters ensure that they are not displayed in a manner that increases opportunities for minors to steal them, and banning the possession of box cutters by persons under twenty-two years of age on school premises, will significantly help in reducing the number of violent school safety incidents and in ensuring that schools are the safe havens of knowledge and education that children need and deserve.

b. Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) "Box cutter" means any knife consisting of a razor blade, retractable, nonretractable, or detachable in segments, attached to or contained within a plastic or metal housing, including utility knives, snap-off knives, and box cart cutters.

(2) "Person" means any natural person, corporation, partnership, firm, organization or other legal entity.

(3) "Public place" means a place to which the public or a substantial group of persons has access, and includes, but is not limited to, any street, highway, parking lot, plaza, transportation facility, school, place of amusement, park, playground, and any hallway, lobby and other portion of an apartment house or hotel not constituting a room or apartment designed for actual residence.

(4) "School premises" means the buildings, grounds, or facilities, or any portion thereof, owned, occupied by, or under the custody or control of public and private institutions for the primary purpose of providing educational instruction to students, and any vehicles owned, operated or leased by such institutions which are used to transport such students or the personnel of such institutions.

c. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or offer to sell or cause any person to sell or offer to sell a box cutter to any individual under twenty-one years of age.

d. No person who sells or offers for sale box cutters shall place such box cutters on open display so that such implements are accessible to the public without the assistance of such seller, or his or her employee or other agent, offering such implement for sale; provided, however, that the restrictions of this subdivision shall not apply to those box cutters on open display (1) which are clearly and fully visible from a place of payment for goods or services or customer information at which such seller or an employee or other agent of such seller is usually present during hours when the public is invited or (2) which are in a package, box or other container provided by the manufacturer, importer or packager that is larger than 41 square inches.

e. It shall be unlawful for any person under twenty-two years of age to possess a box cutter on school premises, and unlawful for any person under twenty-one years of age to possess a box cutter while in a public place; provided, however, that nothing in this subdivision shall preclude:

(1) the temporary transfer on school premises of such an instrument to a person under twenty-two years of age for a valid instructional, or school-related purpose where such device is used only under the supervision of a school staff person or other authorized instructor; or

(2) the possession or use of such an instrument in a public place by any person under twenty-one years of age or on school premises by any person under twenty-two years of age so long as it occurs under circumstances in which such person is performing work on such premises during the course of his or her employment, and such instrument is used only under the supervision of his or her employer or such employer's agent or a school staff person.

f. When a person is found to possess a box cutter while in a public place in violation of subdivision e of this section, it is an affirmative defense that:

(1) such person is traveling to or from school premises, where it was or will be used for a valid instructional or school related purpose and used only under the supervision of a school staff member or other authorized instructor, and such person has not displayed the box cutter in a menacing or threatening manner, or in a manner that a reasonable person would believe manifests an intent to use such box cutter for a criminal purpose; or

(2) such person is traveling to or from his or her place of employment, where it was or will be used during the course of such employment and used only under the supervision of his or her employer or such employer's agent, and such person has not displayed the box cutter in a menacing or threatening manner, or in a manner that a reasonable person would believe manifests an intent to use such box cutter for a criminal purpose.

g. Any person who violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-134.2 Regulation of laser pointers.

a. Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) "Laser pointer" means any device that emits light amplified by the stimulated emission of radiation that is visible to the human eye.

(2) "Person" means any natural person, corporation, partnership, firm, organization or other legal entity.

(3) "Public place" means a place to which the public or a substantial group of persons has access, and includes, but is not limited to, any street, highway, parking lot, plaza, transportation facility, place of amusement, park, playground, and any hallway, lobby and other portion of an apartment house or hotel not constituting a room or apartment designed for actual residence.

(4) "School premises" means the buildings, grounds or facilities, or any portion thereof, owned, occupied by, or under the custody or control of public or private institutions for the primary purpose of providing educational or recreational instruction to students, and any vehicles owned, operated or leased by or on behalf of such institutions that are used to transport such students or the personnel of such institutions.

b. It shall be unlawful for any person to give, sell or offer to sell or cause any person to give, sell or offer to sell a laser pointer to any individual eighteen years of age or younger.

c. No person who sells or offers for sale laser pointers shall place such laser pointers on open display so that such laser pointers are accessible to the public without the assistance of such seller, or his or her employee or other agent, offering such laser pointers for sale, unless: (1) such laser pointers on open display are clearly and fully visible from a place of payment for goods or services or customer information at which such seller or an employee or other agent of such seller is usually present during hours when the public is invited or (2) such laser pointers are in a package, box or other container provided by the manufacturer, importer or packager that is larger than forty-one square inches. Further, it shall be unlawful to display laser pointers in any manner or to post a sign advertising the availability of laser pointers unless a notice has been posted, in a form and manner prescribed by rule of the department of consumer affairs, indicating that the sale or giving of laser pointers to persons eighteen years of age or younger is a misdemeanor.

d. It shall be unlawful for any person twenty years of age or younger to possess a laser pointer on school premises, unlawful for any person eighteen years of age or younger to possess a laser pointer while in a public place and unlawful for any person to direct light emitted from a laser pointer into or through a public place; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall preclude:

(1) the temporary transfer on school premises of a laser pointer to, or possession on school premises of a laser pointer by, a person twenty years of age or younger for a valid instructional, school-related or employment purpose, where such laser pointer is used under the supervision of a school staff person, other authorized instructor, employer or employer's agent; or

(2) the temporary transfer in a public place of a laser pointer to, or possession in a public place of a laser pointer by, a person eighteen years of age or younger, during such person's hours of employment, for a valid employment purpose, where such laser pointer is used under the supervision of the employer or employer's agent; or

(3) the direction of light from a laser pointer into or through a public place by a person nineteen years of age or older, during such person's hours of employment, for a valid employment purpose.

e. It shall be unlawful for any person to direct light from a laser pointer at a uniformed police officer, uniformed security guard, uniformed school safety officer, uniformed traffic enforcement agent, uniformed member of a paid or volunteer fire department, uniformed emergency medical service worker or uniformed ambulance worker, or other uniformed city, state or federal peace officer, investigator or emergency service worker, or the marked service vehicle of any such individual.

f. When a person is found to possess a laser pointer while in a public place or on school premises in violation of subdivision d of this section, it is an affirmative defense that:

(1) such person was traveling to or from school premises, where the laser pointer would have been or was used for a valid instructional, school-related or employment purpose under the supervision of a school staff person, other authorized instructor, employer or employer's agent, and such person had not turned on the laser pointer or displayed it in a menacing or threatening manner; or

(2) such person was traveling to or from his or her place of employment, where the laser pointer would have been or was used during such person's hours of employment, for a valid employment purpose, under the supervision of the employer of*32 employer's agent, and such person had not turned on the laser pointer or displayed it in a menacing or threatening manner.

g. Authorized agents and employees of the department of consumer affairs, and of any other agency designated by the mayor, shall have the authority to enforce the provisions of subdivisions b and c of this section. A proceeding to recover any civil penalty pursuant to this section shall be commenced by the service of a notice of hearing that shall be returnable to the administrative tribunal of the department of consumer affairs. The administrative tribunal of the department shall have the power to impose civil penalties for a violation of subdivision b or c of this section as follows: not more than three hundred dollars for the first violation; not more than five hundred dollars for the section33 violation by the same person within a two-year period; and not more than one thousand dollars for the third and all subsequent violations by the same person within a two-year period. For purposes of determining whether a violation of subdivision b or subdivision c of this section should be adjudicated as a second, third or subsequent violation, violations of subdivision b and violations of subdivision c of this section by the same person within a two-year period shall be aggregated.

h. Any person who violates subdivision b, c or e of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person who violates subdivision d of this section shall be guilty of a violation for a first offense and a misdemeanor for all subsequent offenses.

Section added L.L. 58/1998 § 1, eff. Feb. 6, 1999.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Unless a person has previously been found to have violated 10-134.2(d) (possession of a laser pointer by a person under twenty years of age, on school premises), a first offense constitutes a violation rather than a crime. Since a juvenile delinquency petition may not be predicated on the commission of a violation by a person less than sixteen years of age, the Family Court will not have jurisdiction over a child under sixteen who violates this statute. There is nothing that the Family Court can do in such a situation, unless and until the statute is changed. Matter of Miguel N., N.Y.L.J., Sept. 19, 2003, at 23, col. 2 (Fam.Ct. Queens Co.).

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-136 Prohibition against certain forms of aggressive solicitation.

a. Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) "Aggressive manner" shall mean:

(a) Approaching or speaking to a person, or following a person before, during or after soliciting, asking or begging, if that conduct is intended or is likely to cause a reasonable person to (i) fear bodily harm to oneself or to another, damage to or loss of property, or the commission of any offense as defined in section ten of the penal law upon oneself or another, or (ii) otherwise be intimidated into giving money or other thing of value, or (iii) suffer unreasonable inconvenience, annoyance or alarm;

(b) Intentionally touching or causing physical contact with another person or an occupied vehicle without that person's consent in the course of soliciting, asking or begging;

(c) Intentionally blocking or interfering with the safe or free passage of a pedestrian or vehicle by any means, including unreasonably causing a pedestrian or vehicle operator to take evasive action to avoid physical contact; or

(d) Using violent or threatening gestures toward a person solicited.

(2) "Solicit, ask or beg" shall include using the spoken, written, or printed word, or bodily gestures, signs or other means with the purpose of obtaining an immediate donation of money or other thing of value or soliciting the sale of goods or services.

(3) "Public place" shall mean a place to which the public or a substantial group of persons has access, and includes, but is not limited to, any street, highway, parking lot, plaza, transportation facility, school, place of amusement, park, playground, and any hallway, lobby and other portion of an apartment house or hotel not constituting a room or apartment designed for actual residence.

(4) "Bank" shall mean any banking corporation as defined in section 11-164 of the code.

(5) "Check cashing business" shall mean any person duly licensed by the superintendent of banks to engage in the business of cashing checks, drafts or money orders for consideration pursuant to the provisions of article 9-A of the banking law.

(6) "Automated teller machine" shall mean a device, linked to a financial institution's account records, which is able to carry out transactions, including, but not limited to: account transfers, deposits, cash withdrawals, balance inquiries, and mortgage and loan payments.

(7) "Automated teller machine facility" shall mean the area comprised of one or more automated teller machines, and any adjacent space which is made available to banking customers after regular banking hours.

b. Prohibited acts. (1) No person shall solicit, ask or beg in an aggressive manner in any public place.

(2) No person shall solicit, ask or beg within ten feet of any entrance or exit of any bank or check cashing business during its business hours or within ten feet of any automated teller machine during the time it is available for customers' use. Provided, however, that when an automated teller machine is located within an automated teller machine facility, such distance shall be measured from the entrance or exit of the automated teller machine facility. Provided further that no person shall solicit, ask or beg within an automated teller machine facility where a reasonable person would or should know that he or she does not have the permission to do so from the owner or other person lawfully in possession of such facility. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prohibit the lawful vending of goods and services within such areas.

(3) No person shall approach an operator or other occupant of a motor vehicle while such vehicle is located on any street, for the purpose of either performing or offering to perform a service in connection with such vehicle or otherwise soliciting the sale of goods or services, if such approaching, performing, offering or soliciting is done in an aggressive manner as defined in paragraph one of subdivision a of this section. Provided, however, that this paragraph shall not apply to services rendered in connection with the lawful towing of such vehicle or in connection with emergency repairs requested by the operator or other occupant of such vehicle.

c. Exemptions. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any unenclosed automated teller machine located within any building, structure or space whose primary purpose or function is unrelated to banking activities, including but not limited to supermarkets, airports and school buildings, provided that such automated teller machine shall be available for use only during the regular hours of operation of the building, structure or space in which such machine is located.

d. Penalties. Any violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment for not more than sixteen days or by a fine not to exceed one hundred dollars, or by both.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Section added L.L. 80/1996 § 2, eff. Oct. 26, 1996. [See Note]

Provisions of L.L. 80/1996 § 1:

Section 1. Legislative findings. The council recognizes a constitutional right to beg or solicit in a peaceful and non-threatening manner. The council finds, however, that an increase in aggressive solicitation throughout the city has become extremely disturbing and disruptive to residents and businesses, and has contributed not only to the loss of access to and enjoyment of public places, but also to an enhanced sense of fear, intimidation and disorder.

Aggressive panhandling usually includes approaching or following pedestrians, the use of abusive language, unwanted physical contact, or the intentional blocking of pedestrian and vehicular traffic. The council further finds that the presence of individuals who solicit money from persons at or near banks or automated teller machines is especially troublesome. Motorists also find themselves confronted by persons who without permission wash their automobile windows at traffic intersections, despite explicit indications by drivers not to do so. Such activity often carries with it an implicit threat to both persons and property. People driving or parking on city streets frequently find themselves faced with panhandlers seeking money by offering to perform "services" such as opening car doors or locating parking spaces.

This law is timely and appropriate because current laws and city regulations are insufficient to address the aforementioned problems. The restrictions contained herein are neither overbroad nor vague and are narrowly tailored to serve a substantial governmental interest. Furthermore, in enacting this legislation, the council recognizes the availability of community service and other sentencing alternatives, which may be appropriate remedies for violations of this law.

The law is not intended to limit any persons from exercising their constitutional right to solicit funds, picket, protest or engage in other constitutionally protected activity. Its goal is instead to protect citizens from the fear and intimidation accompanying certain kinds of solicitation that have become an unwelcome and overwhelming presence in the city.

§ 10-137 Prevention of35 harassment on school premises.

a. Definitions. For the purposes of this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Department" shall mean the New York city department of education.

2. "Gender" shall mean actual or perceived sex and shall also include a person's gender identity, self-image, appearance, behavior or expression, whether or not that gender identity, self-image, appearance, behavior or expression is different from that traditionally associated with the legal sex assigned to that person at birth.

3. "Harassment" shall mean the creation of a hostile environment by, in whole or in part, conduct or verbal threats, taunting, intimidation or abuse, including conduct, verbal threats, intimidation or abuse for any reason, including, but not limited to, a person's actual or perceived race, color, national origin, ethnic group, religion, religious practice, disability, sexual orientation, gender, sex, family composition or circumstance, economic circumstance, physical characteristic, medical condition, school performance or any other characteristic or reason that has or would reasonably have the effect of substantially interfering with a student's educational performance, opportunities or benefits, or a student's mental, emotional or physical well-being, or that reasonably causes or would reasonably be expected to cause a student or other person to fear for his or her physical safety.

4. "Retaliatory action" shall mean, but not be limited to, dismissal, demotion, suspension, disciplinary action, negative performance evaluation, any action resulting in loss of staff, compensation or other benefit, failure to hire, failure to appoint, failure to promote, or transfer or assignment or failure to transfer or assign against the wishes of the affected person.

5. "School" shall mean each school within the New York city public school system that provides educational instruction to students at or below the twelfth grade level.

6. "School function" shall mean a school-sponsored extra-curricular event or activity or any event that takes place on school premises.

7. "School premises" shall mean the buildings, grounds or facilities, or any portion thereof, owned, occupied by, or under the custody or control of the department or of a school, used for the primary purpose of providing educational instruction to students at or below the twelfth grade level, and any vehicles owned, operated or leased by or on behalf of such institutions that are used to transport such students or the personnel of such institutions. School premises shall also include public transportation, such as subways, buses and ferries, when students use such public transportation to attend school or a school function.

b. Prohibition of harassment. No person shall subject another person to harassment on school premises or at a school function.

c. Policies and guidelines. 1. The chancellor of the city public school system shall create policies and guidelines, in accordance with the procedures set forth in subdivision three of section 2801 of the New York state education law, designed to create an environment for each school that is free from harassment. Such policies and guidelines shall include, but not be limited to, penalties or disciplinary measures for those found to have violated such policies and guidelines, and shall indicate when incidents of harassment must be reported to law enforcement authorities. Such policies and guidelines shall also specify that harassment is a basis for granting to a student who has been harassed a transfer to another school, commonly called a "safety transfer," and that harassment is a basis for disciplining any student who engages or has engaged in the harassment of others.

2. Such policies and guidelines required by paragraph 1 of this subdivision shall also: (i) include guidelines to be used in employee training programs, which training shall be given on a regular basis to all pedagogical staff and school safety officers to discourage the development of harassment by (a) raising the awareness and sensitivity of school employees to potential harassment, and (b) enabling employees to prevent and respond to harassment;

(ii) include guidelines to be used in presentations given to students about conduct and harassment issues; such guidelines shall be designed to discourage the development of harassment by (a) raising the awareness and sensitivity of pupils regarding potential harassment, and (b) fostering empathy and empathetic conduct among students;

(iii) be included in the code of conduct which the chancellor is required to disseminate pursuant to subdivision four of section 2801 of the New York state education law;

(iv) be included in mail to parents or guardians of students at each school at the beginning of each school year, be posted in prominent places within each school and be translated and made available in the ten most common languages spoken in New York city and in any other language spoken by more than ten percent of the parents or guardians of children attending any individual school; and

(v) be distributed to all staff, school safety officers and members of school safety committees.

3. The chancellor of the city public school system shall appoint the principal of each school as the person responsible for ensuring the dissemination of the anti-harassment policies and guidelines to all staff of each school, all school safety officers, all members of the school safety committee, and to all students and their parents or guardians, and for providing training to pedagogical staff and school safety officers. Such principal shall also ensure that the name and contact information of a school employee who can provide copies of such policies and guidelines is made available to all students, parents, guardians, staff and to the school safety committee. Such principal may designate a subordinate to assume the responsibilities required by this paragraph.

d. Reporting. 1. The chancellor of the city public school system shall appoint the principal of each school as the enforcement officer responsible for ensuring the enforcement of the anti-harassment policies and guidelines established pursuant to subdivision c of this section and to whom reports of incidents of harassment on school premises or at a school function may be made. Each such principal may designate a subordinate to assume these responsibilities. The chancellor shall also appoint the superintendent of each region and/or district within his or her jurisdiction or the designee of such superintendent, as the person to whom reports of incidents of harassment on school premises or at a school function may be made when such report concerns the principal or other person appointed or designated as the enforcement officer of a school.

2. The chancellor shall create procedures under which incidents of harassment on school premises or at school functions are tracked centrally for record keeping purposes, and procedures under which such incidents of harassment are reported promptly to the principal or his or her designee, or the superintendent of each region and/or district or his or her designee, who must complete, for each such incident, an incident report indicating information about the incident, including, but not limited to, the parties, the location where such incident took place, the date and time such incident occurred and type of harassment involved.

3. By no later than July 30 of each year, the department shall publish a statistical summary of all incidents of harassment that occurred on school premises or at a school function during the preceding school year. Such summary report shall indicate, at a minimum, the number and nature of incidents of harassment broken down by school, school district, region, borough and grade level, and shall be published on the department's website and by such other means as, in the chancellor's discretion, are reasonably determined to best disseminate such information to the public.

4. The department shall also include, on each school's annual report card or any similar document that the department creates, summary information about incidents of harassment at such school, which information shall include (i) a comparison of all incidents of harassment at such school with all incidents of harassment in all similar schools, as determined by the department and (ii) the number of safety transfers that were granted from such school to another school during the preceding school year.

e. Protection of people who report incidents of harassment. Any person subjected to harassment or having reasonable cause to suspect that another person has been subjected to harassment on school premises or at a school function, who reasonably and in good faith either reports such information to appropriate school officials or to law enforcement authorities, or who initiates, testifies, participates or assists in any formal or informal proceedings pursuant to this section, shall not be liable for civil damages that may arise from the making of such report or from initiating, testifying, participating or assisting in such formal or informal proceedings, and no school official or employee shall take, request or cause a retaliatory action against any such person who either makes such a report or initiates, testifies, participates or assists in such formal or informal proceeding.

1. Provisions of L.L. 42/2004:

Section 1. Legislative findings: The Council finds that many students, teachers, administrators and others in the New York city school communities are plagued by harassing behavior that interferes with students' educational performance, opportunities and emotional or physical well-being and the well-being of the entire school community. Accordingly, the Council finds that it is necessary to establish strong policies in our City's schools prohibiting harassment for any reason including reasons based, in whole or in part, upon, but not limited to, a person's actual or perceived race, color, national origin, ethnic group, religion, religious practice, disability, sexual orientation, gender, sex, family composition or circumstance, economic circumstance, physical characteristic, medical condition or school

§ 3. If any subsection, sentence, clause, phrase or other portion of this local law is, for any reason, declared unconstitutional or invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed severable and such unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of the local law that added this section, which remaining portions shall remain in full force and effect.

Title 10 Public Safety

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-137 Prohibition on36 the sale or installation of audible burglar alarms for motor vehicles.

a. Definitions. For the purposes of this section:

(1) "audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle" shall mean any sound signal device designed and intended to produce an audible response upon unauthorized entry into a motor vehicle.

(2) "dealer" shall mean a person selling or leasing and distributing motor vehicles primarily to purchasers that in good faith purchase the vehicles other than for resale.

(3) "manufacturer" shall mean any person manufacturing or assembling motor vehicles.

(4) "motor vehicle" shall mean any device that is propelled by an engine in or upon which a person or material may be transported on the ground and which is intended to be operated upon a public highway.

(5) "person" shall mean an individual, partnership, company, corporation, association, firm, organization or any principal, director, officer, partner, member or employee thereof.

b. (1) It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or offer or display for sale or cause any other person to sell or offer or display for sale an audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle that:

i. is not capable of automatically terminating its audible response within three minutes of its being activated;

ii. is capable of being activated by means other than direct physical contact with such motor vehicle or through the use of an individual remote activation device that is designed to be used with the audible burglar alarm system of a particular vehicle which alarm shall be capable of and shall terminate its audible response within three minutes of its being activated; or

iii. is set to automatically terminate its audible response more than three minutes after its being activated.

(2) It shall be unlawful for any person, other than a manufacturer, to install or cause any person to install an audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle that:

i. is not capable of automatically terminating its audible response within three minutes of its being activated;

ii. is capable of being activated by means other than direct physical contact with such motor vehicle or through the use of an individual remote activation device that is designed to be used with the audible burglar alarm system of a particular vehicle which alarm shall be capable of and shall terminate its audible response within three minutes of its being activated; or

iii. after completion of installation, is not set to automatically terminate its audible response within three minutes of its being activated.

(3) It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, offer or display for sale, or install or cause any other person to sell, offer or display for sale, or install any component that when added to an audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle would cause such alarm to not meet the requirements of subdivision d of section 24-221*38 of this code.

c. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b of this section, any dealer or any person who prior to the effective date of this section installed an audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle that does not comply with subdivision b of this section and who, at the time the audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle was installed, provided a warranty for the replacement or repair of such alarm that commenced upon the installation of such alarm, shall be authorized to replace or repair such alarm in accordance with the terms of such warranty.

(2) Any dealer or any person to which the provisions of paragraph one of this subdivision apply shall maintain a record of all repairs and replacements of such audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle performed in accordance with the terms of a warranty. Such records shall include the effective date and expiration date of the warranty, the date on which such repair or replacement was performed and such other information as the police commissioner may require by rule. These records shall be retained for a period of seven years, or such longer period as the police commissioner may establish by rule.

d. (1) Any person who violates subdivision b of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars for the first violation, not less than one thousand dollars nor more than two thousand five hundred dollars for the second violation and not less than two thousand five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars for the third and each subsequent violation.

(2) Each sale, offer or display for sale, or installation of an audible burglar alarm for a motor vehicle made or caused to be made in violation of subdivision b of this section shall be deemed a separate violation and a separate civil penalty shall be imposed for each such violation.

e. The provisions of this section shall be enforced by the police department and the department of consumer affairs.

f. A proceeding to recover any civil penalty pursuant to this section shall be commenced by the service of a notice of hearing that shall be returnable to the administrative tribunal of the department of consumer affairs.

Administrative Code of the City of New York

Title 10 Public Safety

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-138 Distribution of a Model Code of Conduct to participants in youth sports programs.

a. Legislative findings and intent. Participation in youth sports programs should be a rewarding experience. Through sports programs, our youth learn the importance of teamwork, cooperation, effort, discipline and commitment. Furthermore, regular physical activity is the cornerstone of an active and healthy lifestyle. Unfortunately, good sportsmanship is sometimes lacking on the part of coaches, parents, players, spectators and other persons involved in youth sports programs, resulting in the creation of a hostile environment for participants. The City Council finds that in order to realize the full potential and value of youth sports programs, participants in such programs should follow a Code of Conduct that reflects principles of good sportsmanship at all youth sports events. Furthermore, the City Council finds that organizations that administer youth sports programs should have the option of banning coaches, parents, players, spectators and other participants in youth sports programs from attending youth sports events if they engage in certain egregious behavior at such events. Additionally, such organizations should have the option of requiring individuals to complete some form of anger management counseling before being allowed to resume attendance at youth sports events.

b. Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) The term "youth" shall mean any person under the age of eighteen.

(2) The term "organization" shall mean any individual, firm, partnership, trust, association, corporation or other entity.

(3) The term "youth sports event" shall mean a competition, practice or instructional event involving one or more youth sports teams, where such youth sports teams utilize city facilities and/or receive city funding.

c. Any organization that administers a youth sports program that utilizes city facilities and/or receives city funding shall distribute the following Model Code of Conduct or a similar Code of Conduct containing guidelines for conduct of behavior to be observed at youth sports events to all coaches, parents and players participating in such sports program:

Model Code of Conduct

1. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall respect one another.

2. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall respect officials' decisions.

3. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall engage in fair play and abide by all game rules.

4. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall refrain from engaging in taunting of officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators or other participants by means of baiting or ridiculing.

5. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall refrain from verbal and/or profane abuse of officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators or other participants.

6. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall refrain from threatening physical violence or engaging in any form of physical violence.

7. All officials, coaches, parents, players, spectators and participants shall win and lose with good sportsmanship and shall strive to make youth sports programs rewarding for all participants.

d. Any organization that administers a youth sports program that utilizes city facilities or receives city funding shall post or affix the Model Code of Conduct or a similar Code of Conduct containing guidelines for conduct of behavior to be observed at youth sports events at the primary facility where such youth sports events occur, as practicable.

e. Any organization that administers a youth sports program that utilizes city facilities and/or receives city funding may ban the presence at youth sports events of any official, coach, parent, player, spectator or other participant who (1) engages in verbal or physical threats or abuse aimed at any official, coach, parent, player, spectator or other participant, (2) initiates a fight or scuffle with any official, coach, parent, player, spectator or other participant or (3) engages in repeated and egregious violations of the Model Code of Conduct or similar Code of Conduct containing guidelines for conduct of behavior to be observed at youth sports events, if the conduct occurs at or in connection with such youth sports event.

f. In the event that any official, coach, parent, player, spectator or other participant is banned from attending youth sports events pursuant to subdivision (e) of this section, such person may petition the organization that imposed such ban for permission to resume attendance. Prior to being permitted to resume attendance, such organization may require such person to present proof of completion of anger management counseling or its equivalent.

Section added chap 907/1985 § 1

Section repealed LL 28/1987 § 3

Section added chap 907/1985 § 1, amended L.L. 75/1985 § 2

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Defendant, who had been driving his tow truck upon the Henry Hudson Parkway in response to a call for towing service was not guilty of a violation of a regulation of the Department of Parks forbidding commercial vehicles from using the Parkway in view of exception in the regulations providing in case of breakdown a disabled vehicle might be towed to the nearest exit. This exception should not be construed to apply only to towing service rendered by the company to which the Department of Parks had granted a towing service contract.-People v. Mann, 290 N.Y. 89, 48 N.E. 2d 274 [1943].

¶ 2. Regulation of Department of Parks granting an exclusive contract for towing service on the Henry Hudson Parkway and excluding therefrom all other tow trucks, did not conflict with Admin. Code § 436-7.0, which regulates licensed tow cars and makes it unlawful for any owner or driver of a tow truck to refuse to render towing service to the owner or driver of a disabled motor vehicle.-People v. LaFrantz, 188 Misc. 989, 69 N.Y.S. 2d 614 [1947].

¶ 3. Action of Police Commissioner in suspending petitioner's license to operate a tow car for thirty days for failure to comply with the duties and conditions imposed upon tow car operators by the Admin. Code, held not to have been arbitrary.-Gersh v. Police Dept., 125 (48) N.Y.L.J. (3-12-51) 884, Col. 5 T.

¶ 4. Police Commissioner's revocation of petitioner's tow car license was annulled where petitioner was presently with the armed forces in Germany but prior to his entry in the service had executed a power of attorney to his father, who operated a gasoline station, and the revocation was based on acts of his father in connection with towing a disabled car with a tow car which was not petitioner's but belonged to another who had left it at the father's service station for repairs. The Commissioner's action was based on the false information that petitioner's licensed tow car was used in violating the regulation.-In re Rothman (Monaghan), 126 (47) N.Y.L.J. (9-6-51) 392, Col. 4 M.

¶ 5. Although petitioner was not entitled to a hearing as a matter of right under the statute and therefore the proceeding was in the nature of a mandamus to review an administrative act and the "substantial evidence" rule had no application, the discretion of the Commissioner might nevertheless be reviewed if it appeared that his action was arbitrary or capricious or was based upon false information.-Id.

¶ 6. Petitioner was deprived of due process where his application for a municipal license as a tow truck driver was denied without a hearing and solely because of a felony conviction 15 years prior to the application.-Brown v. Murphy, 34 Misc. 2d 151, 224 N.Y.S. 2d 423 [1962].

¶ 7. The Police Commissioner did not act arbitrarily in refusing to issue a tow car license to petitioner who less than nine months prior to the instant application had had his license revoked following an accident wherein petitioner hauled the other car away without permission.-In re Morizia (Murphy), 147 (38) N.Y.L.J. (2-26-62) 16, Col. 1 T.

¶ 8. The Police Commissioner had no authority to revoke petitioner's tow car license. Petitioner refused to sign a waiver of immunity for the grand jury investigating the tow truck activity.-Muro v. Murphy, 146 (22) N.Y.L.J. (8-2-61) 3, Col. 8 F.

¶ 9. The determination of the Police Commissioner revoking petitioner's license and denying renewal applications was annulled and the matter remitted for further proceedings where the notice of hearing was clearly insufficient.-In re Muro, 146 (93) N.Y.L.J. (11-14-61) 16, Col. 5 F.

¶ 10. Regulations of the Police Department prohibiting the owner of a towing truck from maintaining a radio capable of bringing in police calls were consistent with the general purposes of this section although not specifically pertinent to towing car rates.-In re Lade, 148 (85) N.Y.L.J. (10-31-62) 19, Col. 2 M.

¶ 11. Revocation of probationary tow car license because of prior use of unlicensed tow truck, without charging a fee, was not arbitrary.-Nicodemus v. Murphy, 151 (34) N.Y.L.J. (2-19-64) 16, Col. 4 M.

¶ 12. Petitioner issued a restrictive automobile towing license and who contended that the requirement that he produce certain permits from the Fire Department and certificates from the Building Department was unfair was not entitled to a hearing on his application for renewal of license as these objections are based upon the nature of the regulations promulgated by the Commissioner and not on any quasi-judicial determination by him and do not involve any questions of adjudicative fact. The Court also held these regulations reasonable and that the City Council could delegate to the Commissioner of Police power to enforce regulations over tow cars.-Bay Towing Inc. v. Broderick, 49 Misc. 2d 657, 268 N.Y.S. 2d 108 [1966].

¶ 13. Where petitioners had used their private cars to go to scenes of accidents and to solicit business there in which they would use their tow truck they violated spirit, intent and purpose of section regardless of whether their actions constituted a direct violation thereof and where petitioners had towing license revoked on a previous occasion denial of their application for a restricted tow car license was warranted.-Matter of Fiorenti v. Leary, 28 AD2d 702, 281 N.Y.S. 2d 221 [1967], aff'd 21 N.Y. 2d 668, 234 N.E. 2d 256, 287 N.Y.S. 2d 94 [1968].

¶ 14. Denial of application for a tow car driver's license to petitioner was not arbitrary where he had been addicted to drugs for several years and had recently been voluntarily committed for treatment at a drug rehabilitation center for 8 months and then released and was at present an out-patient participant in a drug rehabilitation program.-In re Ippolito (Police Dept. of City of N.Y.), 166 (3) N.Y.L.J. (7-6-71) 12, Col. 4 T.

¶ 15. Where the price was omitted on an "Authorization to Repair" form there was no enforceable contract, and regulations enacted pursuant to this section require that the owner be given the cost of repairs before he executes an authorization to repair.-Campbell v. WABC Towing Corp., 78 Misc. 2d 671, 356 N.Y.S. 2d 455 [1974].

¶ 16. Licensing and regulatory scheme of car towing industry as formulated in this section was upheld as being reasonably related to protecting the public in their dealing with that industry but no basis exists for restricting transfer of existing licenses for car towing held by individuals and partnerships where the transferee meets the existing standards for such license.-Matter of Love Towing v. Beame, 93 Misc. 2d 1064 [1978].

¶ 17. This section requiring tow car operators to obtain a license from N.Y.C. Police Department and to set forth rate schedule is not applicable to operator that towed parked cars on streets of a private residential community through public streets to garage because it is applicable only to the moving of a vehicle that requires towing because of accident, or because it is unable to proceed under its own motive power.-Forest Hills Gardens Corp. v. Kowler, 80 AD2d 630 [1981], aff'd 55 N.Y. 2d 768 [1981].

¶ 18. To justify a tow truck stop without a warrant under the power of the city to regulate and supervise the tow truck industry the stop and inspection must be conducted expeditiously, posing only a minimal intrusion upon the expectation of privacy, the stop must continue to be a crucial part of the regulatory scheme designed to protect the public in dealing with the tow truck industry and the stop must be limited to operations which take place away from an operational base or fixed place of business.-People v. Velez, 109 Misc. 2d 853 [1981].

¶ 1. This section is intended to regulate and license the operation of tow trucks whether the fee is directly or indirectly charged for towing. Defendant is the employee of a motor club whose membership agreement states that members are covered for towing expense to a maximum of $25.00. Thus defendant is engaged in the operation of towing vehicles for a fee, even though indirectly collected, and therefore comes within the ambit of this section.-People v. Osorio, 135 Misc 2d 262, [1987].

Any individual, firm, corporation, agent, employee or person under the control of such individual, firm or corporation violating the provisions of section 10-148 of this code concerning a tree shall be liable to arrest and upon conviction thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifteen thousand dollars or by imprisonment of not more than one year or by both such fine and imprisonment for each such violation. Such individual, firm, corporation, agent, employee or person under the control of such individual, firm or corporation shall also be liable for a civil penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars for each such violation which may be recovered in a proceeding before the environmental control board. A proceeding to recover any civil penalty authorized by this section shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation returnable to the environmental control board. The environmental control board shall have the power to impose the civil penalties prescribed herein.

b. Any individual, firm, corporation, agent, employee or person under the control of such individual, firm or corporation violating the provisions of section 10-148 of this code concerning any other form of vegetation shall be liable to arrest and upon conviction thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment of not more than ninety days or by both such fine and imprisonment for each such violation.

c. Any individual, firm, corporation, agent, employee or person under the control of such individual, firm or corporation found to be guilty of violating the provisions of section 10-148 of this code or subdivision a of section 18-129 of this code by a court of competent jurisdiction or by the environmental control board shall be denied the opportunity to obtain written consent from the commissioner of parks and recreation or from an agency having control of public property to cut, remove or in any way destroy or cause to be destroyed, any tree or other form of vegetation on such property for a maximum of two years from the date of conviction, or from the date the civil penalty was imposed.

§ 10-150 Declaration and findings; election for non-public office.

The council hereby finds that it is in the public interest to hold certain elections on days other than those which the vast majority of the people of the city respect as a day of worship and a day of rest. The holding of elections on such days of worship is unfair to those citizens who observe such days of worship in that they are unable to participate fully in the election process on an equal basis unless they violate their religious precepts. This poses a threat to the free exercise of religion and equality of access to the electoral process. The council further finds and declares that bigotry, prejudice and intolerance will be discouraged if such elections are forbidden on those days of worship, and that holding elections on other days will permit the participation of a greater number of people.

§ 10-155 Public nuisance defined.

For the purpose of this section and section 10-156 of this chapter, the following are declared to be public nuisances:

a. Any building, erection or place where violations of any of the provisions of article two hundred thirty of the penal law are occurring and where two or more violations of such provisions which have resulted in one or more criminal convictions and one or more arrests have occurred within the twelve month period of time prior to the commencement of a proceeding pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter. It shall be prima facie evidence that violations are occurring where an arrest for a violation of any of the provisions of such article has been made within thirty days prior to the issuance of notice pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter.

b. Any building, erection or place where violations of any of the provisions of article two hundred twenty, two hundred twenty-one or two hundred twenty-five of the penal law are occurring and where two or more violations of such provisions which have resulted in one or more criminal convictions and one or more arrests have occurred within the twelve month period of time prior to the commencement of a proceeding pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter. It shall be prima facie evidence that violations are occurring where an arrest for a violation of any of the provisions of such articles has been made within thirty days prior to the issuance of notice pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter.

c. Any building, erection or place where violations of any of the unlawful activities set forth in section one hundred twenty-three of the alcoholic beverage control law are occurring and where two or more violations of such provisions which have resulted in one or more criminal convictions and one or more arrests have occurred within the twelve month period of time prior to the commencement of a proceeding pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter. It shall be prima facie evidence that violations are occurring where an arrest for a violation of any of the unlawful activities set forth in such section has been made within thirty days prior to the issuance of notice pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter.

d. Any building, erection or place where violations of any of the provisions of section 165.40, 165.45, 165.50, 170.65, 170.70, or 175.10 of the penal law or section four hundred fifteen-a of the vehicle and traffic law are occurring and where two or more violations of such provisions which have resulted in one or more criminal convictions and one or more arrests have occurred within the twelve month period of time prior to the commencement of a proceeding pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter. It shall be prima facie evidence that violations are occurring where an arrest for a violation of any of the provisions of such sections has been made within thirty days prior to the issuance of notice pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter.

e. Any building, erection or place where violations of any of the provisions of section 240.45 of the penal law are occurring and where two or more violations of such provisions which have resulted in one or more criminal convictions and one or more arrests have occurred within the twelve month period of time prior to the commencement of a proceeding pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter. It shall be prima facie evidence that violations are occurring where an arrest for a violation of any of the provisions of such section has been made within thirty days prior to the issuance of notice pursuant to section 10-156 of this chapter.

f. For the purposes of this section, "conviction" shall be defined and applied in accordance with the provisions of section 1.20 of the criminal procedure law.

1. Provision of LL 5/1989 § 1

Section one. Legislative Intent. The Council finds that Local Law 42 of 1984 was enacted to authorize the police commissioner to sanction and penalize public nuisances: establishments and property operated or used in violation of penal laws relating to prostitution, gambling, controlled substances, dangerous drugs, stolen property, and laws relating to the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages. The Council hereby reaffirms its previous finding that such public nuisances continue to exist in the city of New York and have a detrimental effect on the public health, safety and welfare and further have a negative effect on the quality of life and total community environment. The Council further finds that the usefulness of Local Law 42 of 1984 in removing public nuisances have been curtailed by the requirement that violations of the penal and other specified laws result in two or more criminal convictions within a twelve-month period. It has often proved difficult to obtain two convictions within this time frame because of delays in the criminal proceedings. It is the intention of the Council to remove this impediment to the use of Local Law 42 in prohibiting the continued existence of public nuisances in the city of New York by requiring one conviction and one arrest as a precondition to the use of this provision.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Evidence of four arrests for gambling violations at petitioner's premises, one of which resulted in a criminal conviction, was sufficient for a finding that the premises constituted a public nuisance. Upon such a determination, the Police Department could close the premises to the extent necessary to abate the nuisance. Johnson v. Police Dept. of the City of New York, 178 A.D.2d 643, 578 N.Y.S.2d 218 (2nd Dept. 1991).

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-156 Powers of the police commissioner with respect to public nuisances.

a. In addition to the enforcement procedures set forth in chapter seven of title seven of this code and any other law, the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee after notice and opportunity for a hearing shall be authorized:

1. to order the discontinuance of such activity at the building, erection or place where such public nuisance exists, and/or

2. to order the closing of the building, erection or place to the extent necessary to abate the nuisance.

b. 1. Prior to the issuance of orders by the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee pursuant to subdivision a of this section, the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee shall give notice and opportunity for a hearing to the owner, lessor, lessee and mortgagee of a building, erection or place whereinthe public nuisance is being conducted, maintained or permitted. Notice shall be given as follows:

(a) service of a notice of hearing may be made to owners and lessors by delivering such notice to the owner or lessor or to an agent of the owner or lessor or to a person of suitable age and discretion at the residence or place of business of the owner or lessor or, if upon reasonable application such delivery cannot be completed, by affixing such notice in a conspicuous place at the owner's or lessor's place of business or residence or by placing it under the entrance door at either of such locations or by delivering such notice to a person employed by the owner or lessor on the premises at which the nuisance is located and, in all instances except personal delivery upon such owner or lessor, by mailing the notice of hearing as follow:

(i) to the person registered with the department of housing preservation and development as the owner or agent of the premises, at the address filed with such department in compliance with article two of subchapter four of chapter two of title twenty-seven of the administrative code; or

(ii) to the person designated as owner of the building or designated to receive real property tax or water bills for the building at the address for such person contained in one of the files compiled by the department of finance for the purpose of the assessment or collection of real property taxes and water charges or in the file compiled by the department of finance from real property transfer forms filed with the city register upon the sale or transfer of real property; or

(iii) to the person in whose name the real estate affected by the order of the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee is recorded in the office of the city register or the county clerk as the case may be.

(b) service of a notice of hearing may be made to an owner or lessor which is a corporation pursuant to section three hundred six of the business corporation law;

(c) service of a notice of hearing may be made to lessers (i) by delivering such notice to the lessee or to a person employed by the lessee on the premises at which the nuisance is located; or (ii) by affixing such notice in a conspicuous place to the premises at which the nuisance is located or placing a copy under the entrance door of such premises and mailing a copy of such notice to the lessee at such premises;

(d) service of a notice of hearing may be made to mortgagees by mailing such notice to the mortgagee at the last known residence or place of business or employment of the mortgagee;

(e) proof of service pursuant to subparagraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) of this paragraph shall be filed with the commissioner or the commissioner's designee;

2. The lack of knowledge of, acquiescence or participation in or responsibility for, a public nuisance on the part of the owners, lessors, lessees, mortgagees and all those persons in possession of or having charge of as agent or otherwise, or having any interest in the property, real or personal, used in conducting or maintaining the public nuisance, shall not be a defense by such owners, lessors and lessees, mortgagees and such other persons.

c. Orders of the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee issued pursuant to this section shall be posted at the building, erection or place where a public nuisance exists or is occurring in violation of law and shall be mailed to the owner of record thereof within one business day of the posting.

d. On the fifth business day after the posting of an order issued pursuant to paragraphs one or two of subdivision a of this section and upon the written directive of the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee, officers of the police department are authorized to act upon and enforce such orders.

e. Where the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee closes a building, erection or place pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision a of this section, such closing shall be for such period as the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee may direct but in no event shall the closing be for a period of more than one year from the posting of the order pursuant to subdivision c of this section. If the owner, lessor or lessee shall (i) file a bond in an amount determined by the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee but which may not exceed the value of the property ordered to be closed and (ii) submit proof satisfactory to the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee that the nuisance has been abated and will not be created, maintained or permitted for such period of time as the building, erection or place has been directed to be closed by the order of the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee, then the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee may vacate the provisions of the order that direct the closing of the building, erection or place.

f. A closing directed by the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision a of this section shall not constitute an act of possession, ownership or control by the city of the closed premises.

g. It shall be a misdemeanor for any person to use or occupy or to permit any other person to use or occupy any building, erection or place, or portion thereof, ordered closed by the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee. Mutilation or removal of a posted order of the police commissioner shall be punishable by a fine of not more than two hundred fifty dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding fifteen days, or both, provided such order contains therein a notice of such penalty.

h. Intentional disobedience or resistance to any provision of the orders issued by the police commissioner or such commissioner's designee pursuant to this section, in addition to any other punishment prescribed by law, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both.

i. The police commissioner may promulgate rules and regulations to carry out and give full effect to the provisions of section 10-155 and this section. Such rules and regulations shall be promulgated in accordance with section eleven hundred five of the charter.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The evidence of four arrests for gambling violations, one of which resulted in a criminal conviction supports the determination that the place of business was a public nuisance, § 10-155(b). Police are authorized to close petitioner's place of business to the extent necessary to abate a nuisance, § 10-156. Despite efforts to separate the part of the premises which serves as a "legitimate" video rental store, petitioner still had legal as well as physical access to the area where the gambling violations occurred. Video store should not remain open as a separate entity.-Johnson v. Police Dept, 178 AD2d 643 [1991].

¶ 2. The New York City Police Department, following an administrative hearing, declared a store to be a public nuisance because of illegal gambling and directed that the premises be closed for one year. The Police Department had regulations under which anyone adversely affected by a closure order could attempt to vacate the order by filing a motion with the Police Department, which is then assigned for processing by a hearing officer. Petitioner, who allegedly purchased the building after the closure occurred, brought an Article 78 proceeding arising out of the closure. The court held that since the petitioner had failed to pursue the hearing remedy, the proceeding had to be dismissed by reason of failure to exhaust administrative remedies.-Abreu v. New York City Police Department, 182 A.D.2d 414, 582 N.Y.S.2d 148 (1st Dept. 1992).

a. Every person, firm, partnership, joint venture, association or corporation which engages in the course of its business, either on behalf of itself or others, in delivering packages, parcels, papers or articles of any type by bicycle shall provide identification of the business by requiring every bicycle or bicycle operator to be identified by:

(1) affixing to the rear of each bicycle, bicycle seat or both sides of the delivery basket, a metal plastic or other sign of a type approved by the police commissioner, with the name of the business and a three digit identification number which identifies the bicycle operator in lettering and numerals so as to be plainly readable at a distance of not less than ten feet and maintaining same in good condition thereon; and

(2) by requiring each bicycle operator to wear a jacket, vest, or other wearing apparel on the upper part of the cyclist's body while making deliveries, or otherwise riding a bicycle on behalf of the business, the back of which shall indicate the business name and the bicycle operator's individual identification number in lettering and numerals so as to be plainly readable at a distance of not less than ten feet.

b. Every person, firm, partnership, joint venture, association or corporation engaged in providing a service as authorized herein must issue to every bicycle operator a numbered identification card which contains the name, residence address and photo of the bicycle operator and the name, address and telephone number of the company for whom the bicycle operator is employed. Such identification card must be carried by the bicycle operator while the cyclist is making deliveries, or otherwise riding a bicycle on behalf of the business, and must be produced upon the demand of a police officer or any other law enforcement officer.

c. Every person, firm, partnership, joint venture, association or corporation engaged in providing a service as authorized herein shall maintain in a log book to be kept for such purpose, the name and place of residence address of every employee operating a bicycle, the date of employment and discharge of each person in said service, and every messenger or delivery person's identification number. The owner of any business engaged in providing a service as authorized in this section shall be responsible for maintaining in the log book a daily trip record in which all entries shall be made legibly in ink and each entry shall be dated and include the bicycle identification number, the operator's name and the name and place of origin and destination for each trip. No entry shall be rewritten either in whole or in part except in such manner as may be provided by regulation of the commissioner; any such unauthorized rewriting shall give rise to a rebuttable presumption of an act of fraud, deceit or misrepresentation. Such log book shall be made available for inspection during regular and usual business hours upon request of an agent of the police commissioner or any police officer or any other person authorized by law.

d. The owner of any business engaged in providing a service as authorized in this section shall file an annual report in such form as shall be designated by the police commissioner by rule or regulations. Said report shall include, inter alia, the number of bicycles it owns and the number and identity of any employees it may retain. Any business engaged in providing a service as authorized in this section shall be responsible for the compliance with the provisions of this section of any employees it shall retain. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed as applying to persons under the age of sixteen who use a bicycle to deliver daily newspapers or circulars.

e. (1) The owner of any business engaged in providing a service as authorized in this section shall provide, at its own expense, protective headgear suitable for each bicycle operator. Such headgear shall:

(i) meet the standards set forth by the consumer product safety commission in title 16, part 1203 of the code of federal regulations;

(ii) be readily available at each employment site for use by each bicycle operator; and

(iii) be replaced if such headgear is no longer in good condition. Headgear is no longer in good condition if it is missing any of its component parts or is otherwise damaged so as to impair its functionality.

(2) Each bicycle operator shall wear protective headgear that meets the requirements of paragraph 1 of this subdivision while making deliveries or otherwise operating a bicycle on behalf of such business. The term "wear such protective headgear" means having the headgear fastened securely upon the head with the headgear straps.

f. The owner of any business engaged in providing a service as authorized in this section, notwithstanding that a bicycle may be provided by an employee thereof, shall provide at its own expense and ensure that each bicycle is equipped with a lamp; a bell or other device capable of giving an audible signal; brakes; reflective tires or, alternately, a reflex reflector mounted on the spokes of each wheel; as well as other reflective devices or material, in accordance with section 1236 of the vehicle and traffic law.

g. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision h of this section, the violation of any of the provisions of this section, or of any of the rules or regulations that may be promulgated pursuant hereto, shall be a violation triable by a judge of the criminal court of the city of New York and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars or imprisonment for not more than fifteen days or both such fine and imprisonment.

h. Any person who makes deliveries or otherwise operates a bicycle on behalf of a business without carrying the identification required by subdivision b of this section or who fails to produce such identification upon demand as required by such subdivision, or who fails to wear protective headgear required by subdivision e of this section, shall be guilty of a traffic infraction and upon conviction thereof shall be liable for a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars. It shall be an affirmative defense to such traffic infraction that the business did not provide the protective headgear required by subdivision e of this section. Such traffic infraction may be adjudicated by such an administrative tribunal as is authorized under article two-A of the vehicle and traffic law.

1. Provisions of L.L. 9/2007:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The City of New York is replete with businesses that utilize bicycles due to their cost efficiency and high maneuverability. Bicycle riders are frequently seen on the City streets acting as couriers for a wide variety of consumer items.

However, due to the quantity of pedestrian and vehicular traffic within the City, potentially dangerous collisions are inevitable. Approximately 540,000 bicyclists visit emergency rooms each year throughout the United States. Of those, roughly 67,000 have suffered head injuries.

According to the New York City Department of Transportation, head injuries are the most common cause of death among cyclists and wearing a helmet can significantly reduce the risk of head injury. Studies indicate that the use of helmets diminishes the danger of bicycle-related head trauma by 74%-85%. To ensure a minimum level of protection, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has adopted a helmet standard that became mandatory for all helmets manufactured for sale in the U.S. after March, 1999.

The low cost of safety helmets relative to the potentially severe dangers resulting from bicycle accidents clearly demonstrates the benefits of such protective equipment. Additionally, reducing serious head injuries may result in a financial benefit for businesses due to reduced medical and insurance costs. Finally, a reduction in such injuries may help spare the City's health care resources.

a. Every person, firm, partnership, joint venture, association or corporation subject to the provisions of subdivision a of section 10-157 of this chapter shall post one or more signs at each employment site summarizing:

(1) the responsibilities of bicycle operators and businesses pursuant to section 10-157 of this chapter; and

(2) the provisions of the vehicle and traffic law, administrative code of the city of New York and department of transportation traffic rules and regulations that the commissioner of transportation in his or her discretion determines are most important for the safe operation of bicycles.

b. Every sign required pursuant to subdivision a of this section shall be:

(1) in English and Spanish and any other language spoken predominantly by any bicycle operator utilized by the business; and

(2) posted in a manner conspicuous to bicycle operators utilized by the business and to patrons of the business present at the employment site.

c. The commissioner of transportation shall promulgate such rules and regulations as may be required to effectuate the purposes of this section, including rules and regulations governing the content, size and manner of display of signs required pursuant to this section and shall make a model sign available on the department of transportation's website.

d. The violation of any provision of subdivision a or b of this section shall be a violation triable by a judge of the criminal court of the city of New York and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars or imprisonment for not more than fifteen days or both such fine and imprisonment. In addition, any person who violates any provision of subdivision a or b of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of three hundred dollars.

§ 10-158 Vessel regulation zone.

a. Description. That portion of the body of water contained within the county of the Bronx, known as the lagoon within pelham bay park, whose limits are: on the northeast, latitude 40° 52' 40", longitude 73° 47'; on the northwest, latitude 40° 52' 57", longitude 73° 47' 38"; on the southeast, latitude 40° 51' 54", longitude 73° 49' 12"; and on the southwest, latitude 40° 52' 4", longitude 73° 48' 25", and which does not exceed one thousand feet from the shore line at low water mark, shall be designated a vessel regulation zone, as set forth under section 46 of the navigation law of the state of New York.

b. Regulation. The maximum vessel speed limit within this vessel regulation zone shall be four miles per hour. The commissioners of the police department and the department of parks and recreation shall be required to enforce said speed limit. "Vessel", as defined for purposes of this section, shall not include a crew racing shell. "Crew racing shell" shall mean any shell, gig, barge or other boat designed primarily for practice or racing, propelled by oars or sweeps, in the sport of crew or scull racing conducted by a private or public educational institution, school, academy, college, university or association of any of the preceding or by any amateur sports club or association or by the United States or International Olympics Committee and shall not include canoes, rowboats or lifeboats.

c. Posting of speed signs. There shall be posted by the commissioner of the department of parks and recreation on the shore near the boundaries of this vessel regulation zone, signboards facing the water and bearing thereon in large letters, "Vessel Regulation Zone, Speed Limit 4 miles per hour". Such signboards shall be conspicuously placed and of sufficient size to be easily readable by a person using such waters.

d. Penalties. Any person violating any of the regulations including the speed limit as set forth in this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable upon conviction by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than ninety days or by both.

e. Exemptions. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any vessel while actually competing in a duly authorized regatta, provided notice of such regatta has been filed with the Bronx county clerk and the department of parks and recreation at least ten days prior to the occurrence of such event and provided that no single sponsor of such regatta be allowed to conduct more than six within any calendar year.

Section one. Legislative findings. The council hereby finds that the lagoon in the Pelham Bay Park is a source for such recreational activities as fishing and rowing for many people and serves as the site to launch canoes, kayaks and other motorless boats. However, the lagoon also is used by persons in speedboats, some of which are trailed by water-skiers, that leave large wakes which present hazards for other recreational activities, not to mention the possible erosion of shore front property. Under the State Navigation Law, the city has the authority to designate speed limits within certain clearly identified bodies of water. Therefore, to ensure a safer environment in the lagoon in Pelham Bay Park, the council hereby finds that this body of water should be designated a vessel regulation zone and that a maximum speed limit of four miles per hour be imposed to better ensure the public's safety.

§ 4. This local law shall take effect thirty days after its enactment into law and after approval by the New York State commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation [Approval received November 20, 1990 and filed with the City Council, see Message 243 for 1990].

Administrative Code of the City of New York

Title 10 Public Safety

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-158.1 Harlem River no wake area.

a. For the purposes of this section the following terms shall be defined as follows: 1. "Idle speed" shall mean the lowest speed at which a vessel can operate, maintain safe steerage, and minimize the production of a wake that could unreasonably interfere with or endanger other persons, property, or water-borne vessels.

2. "No wake area" shall mean an area in which a vessel must travel at idle speed.

3. "Vessel" shall mean any motorized floating craft with the exception of any motorized floating craft that (i) is used primarily as a residence, (ii) is a vessel operated by an authorized member or employee of any law enforcement or emergency services agency or organization when used in the performance of official law enforcement or emergency services duties, (iii) is provided as an accommodation, advantage, facility or privilege at any place of public accommodation, resort or amusement or (iv) is a vessel in commercial service, as defined in Section 2101 of Title 46 of the United States Code. A vessel operated by an individual who is compensated to operate such vessel shall not provide sufficient cause to deem such vessel to be in "commercial service."

4. "Wake" shall mean all changes in the vertical height of the water's surface caused by the passage of a vessel including, but not limited to, such craft's bow wave, stern wake and propeller wash.

b. Swindler Cove and that portion of the Harlem River running from the University Heights Bridge southerly to the High Bridge; and that portion of the Harlem River between the Spuyten Duyvil trestle and the Broadway Bridge are hereby designated "No Wake Areas."

c. 1. All vessels operating within the no wake area shall be operated at idle speed.

2. The police commissioner, the commissioner of parks and recreation and the heads of such other agencies as the mayor shall designate shall have the authority to enforce paragraph one of this subdivision.

d. The commissioner of parks and recreation shall post one or more signboards at or about seven hundred fifty feet from the northerly-most and southerly-most boundaries, respectively, or as closely thereto as practicable, of each such "no wake area" and at or about three hundred fifty feet from the northerly-most and southerly-most boundaries, respectively, or as closely thereto as practicable, of each such "no wake area." Such signboards shall face the water in both directions and bear thereon, respectively, a notice indicating the distance from the "no wake area" and a direction to proceed at idle speed. The exact distances of such signboards shall be subject to the availability of property upon which to post such signboards. The commissioner of parks and recreation shall also post additional signboards to indicate to vessel operators the presence of a boathouse in the "no wake area" or the shoreline. Such signboards shall be conspicuously placed and be of sufficient size to be read easily by a person using such waters.

e. Any person violating paragraph one of subdivision c of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable upon conviction by a fine not exceeding one hundred fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than ninety days or by both. Any such penalty shall be in addition to any penalty provided for in the New York State navigation law.

f. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the following: 1. any vessel while actually competing in a duly authorized regatta, provided notice of such regatta has been filed with and accepted by the clerk of Bronx and New York counties, and with the United States coast guard and the department of parks and recreation, at least ten days prior to the occurrence of such event and

2. any vessel while actually engaged in safety or coaching activities

1. Provisions of L.L. 117/2005:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The operation of water-borne vessels within the city of New York or its territorial waters results in the production of wakes, some of which travel at speeds and heights that pose a danger to the safety of boaters in vessels that are not mechanically propelled, and may damage piers and other shoreline structures, waterfront recreational facilities and parks, the shoreline itself and wetland restoration sites along the waterfront.

The New York Restoration Project, a non-profit organization founded over ten years ago, creates open space for public access and manages several gardens and parks. In 1996, the organization began work to clean up a five-acre parcel of land on the Harlem River located at the corner of Harlem River Drive and Dyckman Street that was being used as a dumping ground for boats, refrigerators, construction equipment and other debris.

The New York Restoration Project converted this area to parkland and opened the Peter Jay Sharp Boathouse in 2004, which is a floating structure managed by the New York Rowing Association, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to sharing the benefits of rowing for athletes in New York City of all ages and athletic abilities. In addition, the organization initiated a wetland restoration project along the shoreline that was completed in 2003 by the New York State Department of Transportation.

The Peter Jay Sharp Boathouse has required several costly repairs during its short period of operation. For example, over 300 linear feet of sewer, sprinkler and water utility piping running from the boathouse to the shore was destroyed, a floating dock was damaged and the boathouse's fendering system deteriorated. According to the New York Restoration Project, harmful wakes have contributed to these damages.

The Harlem River is a popular waterway for rowing and crew racing. Nicknamed "Scullers Row" in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, the Harlem River is considered by many to be the birthplace of American rowing. In addition to the Peter Jay Sharp boathouse, the Columbia University Boathouse is located at the northern tip of Manhattan near Spuyten Duyvil. Columbia University rowers have long practiced and raced on the Harlem River as far south as Yankee Stadium. Other rowing clubs use the Harlem River for daily practice, including Fordham University, Manhattan College and the Empire State Rowing Association.

Use of the Harlem River for rowing is rapidly increasing. In 2005, there were two regattas on the Harlem River, including the first annual Peter Jay Sharp "Head of the Harlem" Regatta in September, which drew high school, collegiate and master rowers from up and down the eastern seaboard. The New York Rowing Association's Urban Rowing Initiative teaches swimming and rowing to urban teenagers, especially from Washington Heights and the South Bronx, as a way of opening up both the river to its surrounding community and the kids to possible athletic scholarships. The New York State Office of Parks and Historic Preservation is studying the feasibility of building a multi-use boathouse at the southern end of Roberto Clemente State Park as part of a park-wide renovation to be completed by 2010.

Despite the Harlem River's unique role as a crew racing destination in New York City, rowers must compete with mechanically-propelled boat users and their wakes. A recent incident underscores the need for operators of all water-borne vessels to exercise extreme caution in their activities and to make allowances for the possibility of the presence of other boaters in the water. In this incident, a collision occurred between a racing shell carrying four members of the Peter Jay Sharp Rowing Club and another vessel. The four men were thrown into the water, and while three were rescued by the operators of the vessel, the fourth man, Jim H. Runsdorf, could not be rescued. This bill is therefore named in tribute to Jim H. Runsdorf.

This tragedy raises questions about how to improve the coordination of water transportation in areas known for crew racing using non-mechanical boats and regattas. This legislation addresses this problem by defining two areas in the Harlem River as a "no wake area" to enhance the safety of non-mechanically propelled vessel operators and protect piers and other shoreline structures, waterfront recreational facilities and parks, the shoreline itself and wetlands along the waterfront. This legislation also addresses the need for increased awareness and care among operators of water-borne mechanically-propelled vessels traveling in the territorial waters of New York City by publicizing educational material and creating a temporary citywide task force on boater safety and wake reduction.

§ 5. This local law shall be known as the Jim H. Runsdorf Law.

§ 6. This local law shall take effect immediately, except that sections two and three shall take effect ninety days after it shall have become a law, and except that the police commissioner and the commissioner of parks and recreation shall take such actions as are necessary for the implementation of sections two and three of this local law prior to such effective date.

§ 10-159 Safe streets, safe city advisory board.

(a) There is hereby established a safe streets, safe city advisory board. The safe streets, safe city advisory board shall consist of the deputy mayor for public safety, the police commissioner, one person appointed by the speaker of the city council, one additional person appointed by the mayor, one person appointed by the governor, one person appointed by the temporary president of the state senate, one person appointed by the minority leader of the senate, one person appointed by the speaker of the state assembly and one person appointed by the minority leader of the assembly.

(b) The safe streets, safe city advisory board shall meet at least four times a year, including on the first Thursday in August, November, February and May. The advisory board may establish its own rules and procedures with respect to the conduct of its meetings and other affairs not inconsistent with law.

(c) Membership on the safe streets, safe city advisory board shall not constitute the holding of a public office, and members of the advisory board shall not be required to take and file oaths of office before serving on the advisory board.

(d) No member of the safe streets, safe city advisory board shall be disqualified from holding any public office or employment, nor shall a member forfeit any office or employment by reason of appointment as a member hereunder.

(e) The director of the office of management and budget, in consultation with the police commissioner and heads of appropriate agencies of the city, shall make an annual report to the mayor within thirty days of the release of the preliminary budget in nineteen hundred ninety-two, nineteen hundred ninety-three, nineteen hundred ninety-four, nineteen hundred ninety-five, nineteen hundred ninety-six and nineteen hundred ninety-seven regarding implementation of the safe streets, safe city program. The mayor shall promptly forward a copy of such report to the safe streets, safe city advisory board, the governor, the temporary president of the state senate, the minority leader of the state senate, the speaker of the state assembly, the minority leader of the state assembly and the speaker of the city council. The director of the office of management and budget shall notify the safe streets, safe city advisory board of any proposed budget modification to the safe streets, safe city program at the same time such proposed budget modification is submitted to the city council for approval in the form of an updated supporting schedule to such proposed budget. Such notification shall contain a detailed description of the proposed modification and the impact thereof upon the safe streets, safe city program.

(f) The safe streets, safe city advisory board shall report on August first, nineteen hundred ninety-one, and on October first of every year thereafter, through nineteen hundred ninety-six, on the implementation of the safe streets, safe city program within the city, with particular emphasis on the city's current efforts with respect to the city's criminal justice system, as well as the other agencies which are to receive enhanced funding under the safe streets, safe city program. Any additional written comments submitted by individual members of the advisory board regarding the city's implementation of the program shall be attached to and incorporated within the advisory board report as an addendum thereto. All comments and observations included in the report by the safe streets, safe city advisory board shall be responded to by the mayor.

(g) The advisory board may request and shall receive from any department, division, board, bureau, commission, borough president, agency or public authority of the city of New York, such assistance, information, and data as will enable the advisory board properly to carry out its functions.

Provision of chap 6/1991

Section 1. The legislature hereby finds and declares that an omnibus criminal justice plan is essential to deal effectively and comprehensively with crime in New York city. The "safe streets, safe city" program, based upon the New York city police commissioner's comprehensive study of the New York city police department, is such a plan. At the heart of the plan is the premise of community policing and the deployment of officers to neighborhood patrol. The mayor and the city council have agreed that the financing program provided for in this act, together with the component of funds to be provided through real estate taxes, will provide the funds necessary to implement this expansion and enhancement of the city's criminal justice system. The state must authorize the new revenue sources requested by the city of New York to enable the city to effectively meet the goals of the "safe streets, safe city" program.

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-160 Security measures at automated teller machine facilities.

a. Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) "Access code" means a series of numbers or letters, unique to each banking customer, which when entered into an automated teller machine, grant the customer entry to the customer's account records.

(2) "Automated teller machine" means a device, linked to a financial institution's account records, which is able to carry out transactions, including, but not limited to: account transfers, deposits, cash withdrawals, balance inquiries, and mortgage and loan payments.

(3) "Automated teller machine card" means an instrument authorized by a bank which permits a customer to gain access to an automated teller machine facility.

(4) "Automated teller machine facility" means the area comprised of one or more automated teller machines, and any adjacent space which is made available to banking customers after regular banking hours.

(5) "Bank" means any banking corporation, as defined in section 11-640 of the code, which operates, owns, or controls an automated teller machine facility in the city of New York.

(6) "Adequate lighting" with respect to an open and operating automated teller machine facility located on an exterior wall of a building open to the outdoor air, and any defined parking area, means lighting during nighttime hours according to the following standards:

(i) a minimum of ten candlefoot power at the face of the automated teller machine and extending in an unobstructed direction outward five feet;

(ii) a minimum of two candlefoot power within fifty feet from all unobstructed directions from the face of the automated teller machine. If such machine is located within ten feet of the corner of the building and the automated teller machine facility is generally accessible from the adjacent side, there shall be a minimum of two candlefoot power along the first forty unobstructed feet of the adjacent side of the building.

With respect to defined parking areas, "adequate lighting" means a minimum of two candlefoot power in that portion of the parking area within sixty feet of the automated teller machine facility.

With respect to an automated teller machine facility located within the interior of a building, "adequate lighting" means lighting, on a twenty-four hour basis, which permits a person entering the facility to readily and easily see all persons occupying such facility, and which permits a person inside the facility to readily and easily see all persons at the entry door of such facility.

(7) "Defined parking area" means that portion of any parking area open for bank customer parking which is (i) contiguous to any paved walkway or sidewalk within fifty feet of an automated teller machine facility, (ii) regularly, principally and lawfully used for parking by users of the automated teller machine facility while conducting transactions at such automated teller machine facility during nighttime hours; and (iii) owned or leased by the operator of the automated teller machine facility, or owned or otherwise controlled by the party leasing the automated teller machine facility site to the operator. The term does not include any parking area which is not open or regularly used for parking by the users of the automated teller machine who are conducting automated teller machine transactions during nighttime hours. A parking area is not open if it is physically closed to access or if conspicuous signs indicate that it is closed.

(8) "Nighttime hours" means the period of time beginning at sunset and ending at sunrise.

(9) "Candlefoot power" means the light intensity of candles on a horizontal plane at thirty-six inches above ground level and five feet in front of the area to be measured.

(10) "Regular banking hours" means the period of time during each weekday, Monday through Friday, commencing at nine o'clock a.m. and ending at three o'clock p.m.

b. Security measures. A bank shall maintain the following security measures with respect to each of its automated teller machine facilities:

(1) a surveillance camera or cameras, which shall view and record all persons entering, exiting, and moving within or about an automated teller machine facility located within the interior of a building, or which shall view and record all activity occurring within a minimum of three feet in front of an automated teller machine located on an exterior wall of a building open to the outdoor air. Such camera or cameras need not view and record banking transactions made at the automated teller machine. The recordings made by such cameras shall be preserved by the bank for at least thirty days;

(2) within six months after the submission of the report of the temporary task force required by subdivision c of this section, entry doors equipped with locking devices which permit entry to such facility only to persons using an automated teller machine card or access code issued by a bank for that purpose. Provided, however, that any automated teller machine facility located within the interior of a building that is not equipped with such entry door locking devices within six months after the submission of such report shall thereafter have at least one security guard stationed therein during the period of time after regular banking hours when such automated teller machine facility is available to banking customers;

(3) entry doors equipped with fire exit bolts pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision k of section 27-371 of the code:

(4) adequate lighting;

(5) at least one exterior wall made substantially of untinted glass or other untinted, transparent material, which provides an unobstructed view of the automated teller machine or machines within the automated teller machine facility;

(6) reflective mirrors or surfaces at each automated teller machine which provide the user a rear view;

(7) a reflective mirror or mirrors placed in a manner which permits a person present in the automated teller machine facility to view areas within such facility which are otherwise concealed from plain view; and

(8) a clearly visible sign, which at a minimum, states:

(i) the activity within the automated teller machine facility is being recorded by surveillance camera;

(ii) customers should close the entry door completely upon entering if the automated teller machine facility is located within the interior of a building;

(iii) customers should not permit entrance to any unknown person at any time after regular banking hours when an automated teller machine facility located within the interior of a building is available to banking customers;

(iv) customers should place withdrawn cash securely upon their person before exiting the automated teller machine facility; and

(v) complaints concerning security in the automated teller machine facility should be directed to the bank's security department or to the department of consumer affairs, together with telephone numbers for such complaints. Where emergency assistance is needed due to criminal activity or medical emergency, call 911 at the nearest available public telephone.

Paragraphs two, three, five and seven of this subdivision shall not apply to any automated teller machine facility located on an exterior wall of a building open to the outdoor air.

Paragraph five of this subdivision shall not apply to any automated teller machine facility located in (i) a landmark building or within an historic district, if compliance with paragraph five would require the approval of the landmarks preservation commission, and such approval has been sought and denied; or (ii) any building, if compliance with paragraph five would require the removal of a load-bearing wall as defined in section 27-232 of the code.

c. Temporary task force. There is hereby established a temporary task force to advise the mayor and the council as to the technological feasibility of the limited access entry door requirements of paragraph two of subdivision b of this section. Such task force shall be comprised of fifteen members, two of whom shall be representatives of federally-chartered banks, two of whom shall be representatives of state-chartered banks, and two of whom shall be representatives of savings and loan associations. The mayor and the speaker of the city council shall each appoint seven members; the chair of the temporary task force shall be jointly appointed by the mayor and the speaker. Not later than twelve months after the appointment of the last member of the temporary task force, the task force shall submit a report containing its conclusions to the mayor and the city council.

d. List of facilities. Any bank which operates an automated teller machine facility shall file a list of such facilities with the police department, the department of consumer affairs, and the department of buildings, including the street addresses, intersecting streets, hours of operation, method of security, and method of surveillance at each facility, and the telephone number of the bank's security department. The police department shall distribute to each police precinct a list of all automated teller machine facilities in the precinct which are available to banking customers.

e. Violations and penalties. (1) A bank found to be in violation of any provision of subdivision b of this section shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than two hundred fifty dollars. Each violation of any provision of subdivision b of this section with respect to a particular automated teller machine facility shall be considered a separate violation thereof.

(2) Any bank found to be in violation of any provision of subdivision b of this section shall correct the violation within three days after such finding. Failure to correct the violation within three days after such finding shall subject the bank to a civil penalty of not less than five hundred dollars or more than one thousand dollars and an additional civil penalty of two hundred fifty dollars per day for each day such violation continues.

(3) Any bank found to be in violation of subdivision h of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than one thousand dollars for each automated teller machine facility for which a report has not been filed. Any bank which makes a material false statement or material omission in any report filed pursuant to subdivision h of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than five thousand dollars for each report.

(4) A proceeding to recover any civil penalty authorized to be imposed pursuant to this section shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation which shall be returnable to the commissioner of consumer affairs. Such commissioner, after due notice and an opportunity for a hearing, shall be authorized to impose the civil penalties prescribed by this section.

f. Consumer safety information. Upon the original issuance or reissuance of an automated teller machine facility access card or code, or any other means or device permitting access to an automated teller machine facility, the issuing bank shall provide its customer with written information concerning safety precautions to be employed while using an automated teller machine facility. Such written information shall include at a minimum the information described in subparagraphs (i) through (v) of paragraph eight of subdivision b of this section. In addition, upon the effective date of the local law which added this section and for one year thereafter, such written information shall also include a statement indicating that notwithstanding efforts to restrict access to an automated teller machine facility located within the interior of a building to persons authorized to use an automated teller machine card or access code, entrance is sometimes obtained by persons who are not authorized to use the automated teller machine facility.

g. Enforcement; statistics. (1) The police department, the department of consumer affairs, and the department of buildings shall be authorized to enforce this section.

(2) Statistics of crimes associated with the use of automated teller machines compiled and maintained by the police department shall be made available upon the request of any bank.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section six hundred sixty-six of the charter, a notice of violation issued by the department of buildings pursuant to this section shall not be subject to review by the board of standards and appeals.

h. Certification of compliance. Within thirty days after the effective date of the local law which added this section, and each year thereafter, every bank which has an automated teller machine facility which is in operation on such date or on such date every year thereafter, shall submit a written report to the commissioner of buildings, on a form prescribed by such commissioner, certifying that such automated teller machine facility is in compliance with the provisions of this section, or if such facility is not in compliance with the provisions of this section, such report shall state the manner in which such facility fails to meet the requirements of this section and the reasons for such non-compliance. Each such report shall be accompanied by a fee of one hundred dollars for each automated teller machine facility operated by the bank.

i. Compliance with building code and all other applicable provisions of law. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to exempt or relieve any bank from complying with all relevant provisions of the building code and all other applicable provisions of law.

j. Exemptions. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any unenclosed automated teller machine located in any building, structure or space whose primary purpose or function is unrelated to banking acitvities, including but not limited to supermarkets, airports and school buildings, provided that such automated teller machine shall be available for use only during the regular hours of operation of the building, structure or space in which such machine is located.

1. Provisions of L.L. 70/1992 § 1

Section 1. Legislative intent. The Council hereby finds that the use of automated teller machines (ATMs) to conduct banking transactions has become a fact of daily life for millions of New York City's residents, commuters and visitors. According to a March 1992 report to the City Council prepared by representatives of the city's banking industry, New Yorkers use ATM machines nearly one million times each day. In 1991, there were 8.1 million active ATM bank cards in New York City-more than the city's total 1990 population of 7.3 million people-which were used to conduct over 326 million transactions. Further, more than 18 million cardholders in the NYCE-banking network have access to an ATM in New York City. According to the banking industry, there are approximately 2418 ATMs in 1038 locations located throughut the city; 780 of those locations, or 75%, are open 24-hours a day. The banking industry asserts that the popularity of ATM banking continues to grow.

From January 1990 to December 1991, the New York Police Department reported 743 robberies and attempted robberies associated with ATMs; the actual number of such crimes is believed to be much higher. Many of these were crimes of extreme violence, such as the shooting of a Manhattan Assistant District Attorney at an ATM in Brooklyn and the murder of Police Sergeant Keith Levine, who was trying to intervene in what appeared to be a robbery at a midtown Manhattan ATM.

The Council also finds that security measures currently used at the majority of ATM locations are inadequate to protect the public safety. At present, there is no uniform set of standards for security at ATM facilities. The banks report that only 33% of all ATM locations are equipped with surveillance cameras; only 10% have guards. Moreover, a Council survey of 231 ATM locations throughout the city revealed that access to an ATM facility is not limited to persons having ATM bank cards; virtually any card having a magnetic stripe will allow entry into an ATM location. Of the interior ATMs surveyed by Council staff, 26% had broken or faulty door locks; 6% provided "elevator mirrors" allowing users to see blind spots and 37% posted signs with consumer safety information. The safety of ATM facilities thus frequently differs widely from location to location and the users of such facilities are often vulnerable to robberies and muggings.

The Council therefore concludes that it is necessary and appropriate for the protection and safety of the public to require banks and other institutions providing ATM services to install certain minimum security measures at each ATM facility. It is the Council's belief that these requirements, including adequate lighting, surveillance cameras, transparent windows, reflective mirrors and surfaces, and consumer safety warnings, will significantly enhance the safety and well-being of New York City's residents, workforce and visitors.

The Council recognizes the need for further technological developments to create a system by which access to ATM machines is limited, to the greatest extent possible, to holders of valid access cards issued by banks and other financial institutions. In order to facilitate the development of such technology, the bill calls for the formation of a task force of bank representatives and other appointees of the Mayor and Speaker of the Council to join in a cooperative effort to examine the technological feasibility of the limited access door requirement, and report to the Mayor and the Council no later than one year after its formation. If within six months after the submission of this report, an ATM facility is unable to comply with the limited access door requirement, the bill requires that at least one security guard be stationed within the ATM facility during those times, after regular banking hours, when the ATM facility is available to customers.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Plaintiff sued a bank after being shot in an attempt robbery at an ATM machine. In dismissing the case on the ground that the incident was unforseeable, plaintiff's claim that the lighting over the ATM was dim, with some bulbs on and some off, in violation of Admin. Code § 10-160(a)(6), was insufficient to defeat defendant's summary judgment motion. There was no evidence that the lighting conditions, even if dimmer than required, were a proximate cause of the attempted robbery and assault. Coronel v. Chase Manhattan Bank, 2005 WL 1529714 (App.Div. 1st Dept.).

CHAPTER 1 PUBLIC SAFETY

§ 10-161 Three-card Monte Prohibited.

a. Definitions. For the purposes of this section, "three-card monte" shall mean a game or scheme in which the player is to receive money if he or she correctly selects one of any number of objects, which object was designated by the dealer, operator or any individual working with said dealer or operator of the game or scheme, as the winning object prior to shuffling or rearranging the position of such objects. "Objects" shall be defined as any item capable of being shuffled or rearranged on a surface, including, but not limited to, cards, shells or caps.

b. It shall be unlawful for any person to deal or operate, or be in any manner accessory to the dealing or operating, of three-card monte on any public street, sidewalk or plaza.

c. Any person who violates subdivision b of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Section added L.L. 39/1999 § 1, eff. Aug. 4, 1999.

¶ 1. Since a number of prior decisions held that three-card monte was not a game of chance, the City Council enacted Section 10-161 to outlaw three-card monte regardless of whether it was a game of chance or a game of skill. A defendant, who was accused of conducting an illegal three-card monte game, sought dismissal of the information because it failed to allege that the player received money. The court, however, refused to dismiss the information. The statute does not require that the player-or for that matter, the dealer, actually receive or exchange money. There need only be the expectation that the player will receive money if he or she correctly selects the object designated by the dealer. This requirement was met, the court, said, by an allegation set forth in the complaint, that the defendant was observed encouraging pedestrians to place their bets. People v. Title 10 Public Safety

a. Definitions. For the purposes of this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. Major venue sporting event. An athletic competition or practice involving a professional team or an athletic competition or practice being conducted in a venue with a permanent seating capacity of more than five thousand. The duration of such competition or practice is to include the period from the opening of the venue's gates to the public, to the closing of the gates after the event.

2. Playing area. Any area designated for use by players, coaches, officials or other team or league personnel that is on, or adjacent to, the area of play during the period from the opening of the venue's gates to the public, to the closing of the gates after the event.

3. Sports participant. An umpire, referee, player, coach, manager, security employee, groundskeeper, stadium operations employee, or any other sanctioned participant in which the major venue sporting event is taking place.

4. Dangerous instrument. Any instrument, article or substance which, under the circumstances in which it is used, attempted to be used or threatened to be used, is readily capable of causing death or other serious physical injury.

5. Substance. The term includes, but is not limited, to any liquid or saliva.

b. Conduct prohibited. 1. It shall be illegal for any person other than a sports participant to knowingly enter or remain unlawfully upon the playing area of a major venue sporting event.

2. It shall be illegal for any person other than a sports participant to subject a sports participant to contact by means of any substance, object or dangerous instrument during a major venue sporting event, or attempt to do so, with the intent to cause physical injury to a sports participant during a major venue sporting event or with the intent to disrupt a major venue sporting event.

3. It shall be illegal for any person other than a sports participant to place, drop, toss or hurl any substance, object or dangerous instrument onto the playing area of a major venue sporting event, or attempt to do so, with the intent to cause physical injury to a sports participant during a major venue sporting event or with the intent to disrupt a major venue sporting event.

4. It shall be illegal for any person other than a sports participant to strike, slap, kick or otherwise subject to physical contact a sports participant during a major venue sporting event, or to attempt to do so, with the intent to cause physical injury to a sports participant during a major venue sporting event or with the intent to disrupt a major venue sporting event.

c. Criminal penalties. 1. Any person who knowingly enters or remains unlawfully upon the playing area of a major venue sporting event shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than one year, a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or both.

2. Any person who uses a dangerous instrument when violating the provisions of paragraph two of subdivision b of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than one year or a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or both. Any person who violates the provisions of such paragraph by using any substance or object other than a dangerous instrument shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than ninety days or a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or both.

3. Any person who uses a dangerous instrument when violating the provisions of paragraph three of subdivision b of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than one year or a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or both. Any person who violates the provisions of such paragraph by using any substance or object other than a dangerous instrument shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than ninety days or a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or both.

4. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph four of subdivision b of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than one year or a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or both.

d. Civil penalties.

1. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph one or paragraph three of subdivision b of this section shall be liable, to any person or entity injured or aggrieved by such action, for a civil penalty of not less than one thousand dollars and not more than five thousand dollars.

2. Any person who violates the provisions of paragraph two or paragraph four of subdivision b of this section shall be liable, to any person or entity injured or aggrieved by such action, for a civil penalty of not less than ten thousand dollars and not more than twenty-five thousand dollars.

3. The civil penalties set forth in paragraphs one and two of this subdivision shall be in addition to any criminal penalties and/or sanctions that may be imposed, and such civil penalties shall not limit or preclude any cause of action available to any person or entity injured or aggrieved by such action.

1. Provisions of L.L. 61/2003:

Section One. Legislative findings and intent. Recently, there has been an increase in the number of unruly fans at professional sporting events. These fans have become more violent by trespassing onto the playing area of a professional sporting event and attacking players, coaches and sports officials.

Two episodes of violence and fan disruption, during the play of professional baseball, merely seven months apart, illustrate this problem. The first incident at the home of the Chicago White Sox involved a father-son duo that jumped over the box-seat railing and injured the opposing team's first base coach, who has hearing damage from that incident. The second incident occurred when a 24-year old man ran onto the field, raced over to the first base umpire and wrapped his arms around him. This occurred after three separate instances in earlier innings of fans running onto the field. Barry Mano, President of the National Association of Sports Officials, states: "We're out in harm's way and things are worse today than ever before."

The City Council, in an effort to protect sport participants at professional sporting events in New York City, and to dissuade lawless fans from committing injury and mayhem, creates a new section of the administrative code that makes it a Class A misdemeanor to trespass onto the playing area of a professional sporting event and implements a structure of civil penalties for such unruly fans. This legislation does not include athletic competition or practice that is played by a college or university team, nor shall it include any interscholastic or intramural athletic activity or youth athletic activity sponsored by a primary, middle, junior high, high school, community or municipal recreation department.

Section 1. Legislative intent and findings. Unruly behavior at professional sporting events, and at sporting events at major venues, has increased in recent years. In 2003, local law 61 was adopted to make it illegal to enter the playing area of a professional sporting event or to enter such area and assault or attempt to assault a professional sports participant. This local law, however, only penalizes the entering of the playing area or the assault or attempted assault of a professional sports participant after entering the playing area of the professional sporting event, but does not address the tossing or hurling of objects, substances or dangerous instruments onto the playing area of a sporting event, the tossing or hurling of an object, substance or dangerous instrument at a sports participant during a sporting event, or the assault or attempted assault of a professional sports participant from the viewing area of a sporting event.

The Council finds that tossing or hurling objects, substances or dangerous instruments onto the playing area of a professional sporting event, and at sporting events at major venues, may cause serious injury and may result in violence, particularly in a crowded venue during a sporting event. It is not the intent of this local law to penalize traditional fan participation in sports events, including but not limited to throwing a ball back onto the field after a home run, or the tossing of hats onto the rink after a hat trick in a hockey game. Rather, this local law is intended to address that behavior which is not part of a sports tradition but is intended to cause physical injury or disrupt an event.

a. Except as provided in the vehicle and traffic law, no person shall engage in or participate in any race, exhibition or contest of speed, or aid or abet in such race, exhibition or contest of speed, on any highway, street, alley, sidewalk, or any public or private parking lot or area. Under this subdivision, "engage in" and "participate" shall mean actions or circumstances that reasonably indicate that a race, exhibition or contest of speed has occurred or is imminent, including, but not limited to, the presence of a canister appearing to hold nitrous oxide attached to a vehicle; an explicit invitation to race; a starting or ending point marked in some way; the wagering on the race's outcome; the operation of a motor vehicle in a manner where the operator, in competition, accelerates at a high rate of speed; the raising of a vehicle vertically; the spinning of the vehicle rapidly in a circle.

b. No person shall participate as a spectator in any event or gathering held for the purpose of a race, exhibition or contest of speed not authorized pursuant to the vehicle and traffic law. Under this subdivision, "participate" shall mean acts at the scene of a race, exhibition or contest of speed that reasonably appear to support such race, such as wagering on the outcome of the race or actively encouraging the participants to the race, exhibition or contest of speed.

c. A violation of subdivision a shall constitute a misdemeanor and be punishable by imprisonment of not more than six months or a fine of not more than six hundred dollars, or both such fine and imprisonment. A second violation of subdivision a of this section committed within ten years of a violation of subdivision a of this section shall be punishable upon conviction by imprisonment of not more than one year or a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or both such fine and imprisonment. A violation of subdivision b shall constitute a violation punishable by imprisonment of up to fifteen days or a fine of not more than two hundred fifty dollars, or both such fine and imprisonment.

1. Provisions of L.L. 46/2004:

Section One. Legislative findings and intent.

Under the vehicle and traffic law and penal law, those who engage in drag racing may be charged with, among other things, prohibited speed contests and races. However, a person charged with engaging in a prohibited speed contest or race under the vehicle and traffic law only faces up to thirty days in jail and up to a five hundred twenty-five dollar fine for a first offense, and only a jail term of up to six months and a fine of up to seven hundred fifty dollars for the second offense within twelve months of the first offense. This penalty is inadequate, and the City Council finds that engaging in drag racing or actively participating in a drag race, particularly within the congested environs of New York city, warrants an increased penalty.

1. Provisions of L.L. 98/2005:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. Traffic congestion in New York presents an ongoing problem to emergency services. Emergency vehicles en route to an emergency are often forced to contend with stubbornly apathetic drivers who refuse to yield the right of way.

State law currently sets the fine schedule for consecutive traffic infractions. The density of the population in New York City, however, increases not only automobile congestion, but also the number of emergency situations that arise and the scale of the response required to address many emergencies, thus posing a risk to public safety and health. Drivers who are unwilling to yield the roadway for emergency vehicles obstruct not only emergency vehicles, but also other drivers who attempt to yield the roadway. Many of the city's roadways are narrow enough that one such unwilling driver has the ability to obstruct completely the progress of an emergency vehicle.

The City Council, in an effort to protect those in emergency situations by opening up the city's streets to emergency vehicles, creates a new section of the administrative code that increases the fines for failing to yield the right of way for an emergency vehicle.

a. Definition. For purposes of this section, "Publicly accessible collection bin" shall mean any outdoor container, other than any container placed by any government or governmental agency, or its contractors or licensees, that allows for any member of the public to deposit items into the container for the purpose of collection by the provider of such container.

b. Requirements. All publicly accessible collection bins shall comply with the following provisions:

1. Each individual publicly accessible collection bin shall prominently display on the front and on at least one other side of the bin, the name, address and telephone number of the provider of the bin. This information shall be printed in characters that are plainly visible. In no event shall a post office box be considered an acceptable address for purposes of this paragraph.

2. No publicly accessible collection bin may be placed on any city property or property maintained by the city, or on any public sidewalk or roadway.

3. No publicly accessible collection bin shall be placed on any private property without the written permission of the property owner or the property owner's designated agent.

4. In addition to penalties provided for in any other provisions of law, in the event that a publicly accessible collection bin is placed on city property, or property maintained by the city, or on any public sidewalk or roadway, the owner of the publicly accessible collection bin, if the address of such owner is ascertainable, shall be notified by the department of sanitation by certified mail, return receipt requested, that such publicly accessible collection bin must be removed within thirty days from the mailing of such notice. A copy of such notice, regardless of whether the address of such owner is ascertainable, shall also be affixed to the publicly accessible collection bin. This notice shall state that if the address of the owner is not ascertainable and notice is not mailed by the department of sanitation, such publicly accessible collection bin must be removed within thirty days from the affixation of such notice. This notice shall also state that the failure to remove the publicly accessible collection bin within the designated time period will result in the removal and disposal of the publicly accessible collection bin by the department of sanitation. This notice shall also state that if the owner objects to removal on the grounds that the bin is not on city property, or property maintained by the city, or on any public sidewalk or roadway, such owner may send written objection to the department of sanitation at the address indicated on the notice within twenty days from the mailing of such notice or, if the address of such owner is not ascertainable and notice is not mailed by the department of sanitation, within twenty days from the affixation of such notice, with proof that the bin is on private property. Proof that the bin is on private property shall include, but not be limited to, a survey of the property prepared by a licensed surveyor that is certified to the record owner of such property.

a. Definitions. For the purposes of this section:

(1) "Cellular telephone" shall mean any mobile analog, wireless, digital or other similar telephone or communications device, which can be used to access two-way real time voice telecommunications service that is interconnected to a public switched telephone network and is provided by a commercial mobile radio service, as such term is defined by 47 CFR § 20.3.

(2) "School" shall mean any buildings, grounds, facilities, property, or portion thereof under the jurisdiction of the New York city department of education or any non-public school that provides educational instruction to students at or below the twelfth grade level.

(3) "Student" shall mean any person under the age of eighteen enrolled in a school.

b. Any parent or guardian of any student may provide such student with a cellular telephone for any lawful use en route to and from school. No person shall interfere with the provision of such telephone to, or the use of such telephone by, such student.

c. Any person who is aggrieved by interference prohibited by subdivision b of this section shall be entitled to seek equitable relief in any court of competent jurisdiction.

d. Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect or limit the right of any school or law enforcement official

1. Provisions of L.L. 46/2007:

Section 1. Legislative intent. Cellular phones have proven to be invaluable tools in facilitating communication between schoolchildren and their parents or guardians as such children travel to and from school. The use of such phones allows parents or guardians to ensure their children's safe arrival at school in the morning and back at home at the end of the school day, and enables any children traveling to or from school who become injured or lost, or who find themselves in a remote location or in other dangerous circumstances, to contact their parents or guardians or the police. In addition, such use provides parents and their children with significant peace of mind. It is therefore the Council's intent to allow schoolchildren to carry cellular phones with them to and from school for the purpose of being used outside of school to promote safety and the general welfare.

1. Provisions of L.L. 42/2008:

Section 1. Legislative Findings. New York City is unique for the number of tall buildings and internationally recognized landmarks concentrated within city limits. This fact draws visitors from around the world, many of whom come to tour and admire these structures. However, an increase in the popularity of BASE (building, antenna, span, earth) jumping in the past several years has also lured BASE jumping enthusiasts to the City seeking publicity or fame from climbing the exterior of, or jumping or suspending themselves from, recognized landmarks. Currently, the City is unable to effectively prevent and/or penalize these individuals. The Council finds that reasonable prohibitions must be instituted against such climbing, jumping and suspending of oneself to protect the safety of such persons, as well as bystanders, to deter this dangerous behavior and to preserve the integrity of New York's landmark structures.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Provisions of LL 10/1989 § 1

Section one. Declaration of legislative intent and findings. The Council finds that narcotics trafficking and other drug-related crimes have deeply infected every aspect of life in the city of New York. The number of street crimes, robberies, burglaries and indiscriminate acts of violence against strangers and family members, including many disturbing incidents of child abuse or fatalities attributable to drug-induced violence, has increased dramatically over the last few years. No one is immune to the plague of drugs. Easy access to controlled substances threatens both to destroy our youth and to cut down adults in their prime, ruining families, careers, and institutions. Narcotics-related crimes have overwhelmed the criminal justice and corrections systems and impaired the city's ability to ensure the safety, security and well-being of residents and visitors. The continued and growing need for additional police, prosecutors, judges, corrections officers, parole and probation officers, and adequate jail and correction facilities caused by the scourge of drugs, is rapidly draining the city treasury and depleting resources the city needs in order to deliver basic services to its citizens.

Accordingly, the Council concludes that those who traffic in narcotics should be held accountable for the severe consequences of their illegal conduct by paying significant civil penalties to the city. In this manner, the responsibility for this extraordinary drain on the city's limited resources can be placed on the individuals and entities immediately responsible for the mounting health, welfare, and social services costs in our neighborhoods and communities. The shift of this financial burden to illicit drug dealers will increase the costs and risks associated with drug trafficking and help to fund the City's efforts to combat it.

This legislation is intended to be a tool in the continuing fight against narcotics trafficking and an additional deterrent by giving the city an opportunity to collect a civil penalty and the cost of both the civil and criminal prosecutions in appropriate cases. The Council recognizes that in those cases where the defendant will have no collectible assets, the pursuit of a civil judgment would be an inefficient use of the city's limited resources. Accordingly, the Council, in adopting this legislation, intends that the corporation counsel commence a civil action in cases where he or she has been notified by an appropriate law enforcement agency that there is reason to believe that a defendant will have substantial assets that are capable of collection. One factor to be considered in determining whether a defendant has collectible assets for the purposes of legislation is whether he or she was represented by a Legal Aid attorney or an attorney appointed pursuant to the provisions of article 18-B of the County Law in the underlying criminal prosecution, it being recognized by the Council that legal representation by a court-appointed attorney is a strong indication that such person does not have sufficient assets to warrant a civil prosecution under this section. The Council is mindful that the prosecution of civil actions pursuant to this legislation could strain the resources of the corporation counsel and accordingly envisions that he or she may enter into contract with a private firm to pursue the penalties provided herein.

CHAPTER 3 FIREARMS

§ 10-301 Control and regulation of the disposition, purchase and possession of firearms, rifles, shotguns and assault weapons.

Definitions. Whenever used in this chapter the following terms shall mean and include:

1. "Firearm." (a) Any pistol or revolver; (b) a shotgun having one or more barrels less than eighteen inches in length; or (c) a rifle having one or more barrels less than sixteen inches in length; or (d) any weapon made from a shotgun or rifle whether by alteration, modification, or otherwise if such weapon as altered, modified, or otherwise has an overall length of less than twenty-six inches. For the purpose of this subdivision the length of the barrel on a shotgun or rifle shall be determined by measuring the distance between the muzzle and the face of the bolt, breech, or breechlock when closed and when the shotgun or rifle is cocked; the overall length of a weapon made from a shotgun or rifle is the distance between the extreme ends of the weapon measured along a line parallel to the center line of the bore. Firearm does not include an antique firearm. The provisions of this chapter relating to firearms shall not apply to assault weapons except as specifically provided.

2. "Rifle." A weapon designed or redesigned, made or remade, and intended to be fired from the shoulder, and, even if not designed or redesigned, made or remade, and intended to be fired from the shoulder, is not a firearm as defined in subdivision one of this section, and designed or redesigned and made or remade to use the energy of the explosive in a fixed metallic cartridge to fire only a single projectile through a rifled bore for each pull of the trigger. The provisions of this chapter relting to rifles shall not apply to assault weapons except as specifically provided.

3. "Shotgun." A weapon designed or redesigned, made or remade, and intended to be fired from the shoulder, and, even if not designed or redesigned, made or remade, and intended to be fired from the shoulder, is not a firearm as defined in subdivision one of this section, and designed or redesigned and made or remade to use the energy of the explosive in a fixed shotgun shell, to fire through a smooth bore either a number of ball shot or a single projectile for each single pull of the trigger. The provisions of this chapter relating to shotguns shall not apply to assault weapons except as specifically provided.

4. "Gunsmith." Any person, firm, partnership, corporation, or company who engages in the business of repairing, altering, assembling, manufacturing, cleaning, polishing, engraving, or trueing, or who in the course of such business performs any mechanical operation on any rifle, shotgun, firearm, assault weapon or machine gun.

5. "Dealer in firearms." Any person, firm, partnership, corporation or company who engages in the business of purchasing, selling, keeping for sale, loaning, leasing, or in any manner disposing of any pistol or revolver or other firearms which may be concealed upon the person. Dealer in firearms shall not include a wholesale dealer.

6. "Dealer in rifles and shotguns." Any person, firm, partnership, corporation or company who engages in the business of purchasing, selling, keeping for sale, loaning, leasing, or in any manner disposing of any rifle, or shotgun. Dealer in rifles and shotguns shall not include a wholesale dealer.

7. "Ammunition." Explosives suitable to be fired from a firearm, machine gun, pistol, revolver, rifle, shotgun, assault weapon or other dangerous weapon.

8. "Dispose of." To dispose of, give away, give, lease, loan, keep for sale, offer, offer for sale, sell, transfer and otherwise dispose of.

9. "Deface." To remove, deface, cover, alter, or destroy the manufacturer's serial number or any other distinguishing number or identification mark.

10. "Commissioner." The police commissioner of the city of New York or the commissioner's designee.

11. "Permit." The permit for purchase and possession of rifles and shotguns issued by the commissioner.

12. "Certificate." The certificate of registration for possession of rifles and shotguns.

13. "Serious offense." A serious offense as defined in subdivision seventeen of section 265.00 of the penal law.

14. "Business enterprise." Any proprietorship, company, partnership, corporation, association, cooperative, nonprofit organization or other entity engaged or seeking to engage in the activities regulated pursuant to section 10-302 of this chapter.

15. "Semiautomatic." Any firearm, rifle or shotgun that uses part of the energy of a fired cartridge to expel the case of the fired cartridge and load another cartridge into the firing chamber, and which requires a separate pull of the trigger to fire each cartridge.

16. "Assault weapon."

(a) Any semiautomatic centerfire or rimfire rifle or semiautomatic shotgun which has one or more of the following features:

1. folding or telescoping stock or no stock;

2. pistol grip that protrudes conspicuously beneath the action of the weapon;

3. bayonet mount;

4. flash suppressor or threaded barrel designed to accommodate a flash suppressor;

5. barrel shroud;

6. grenade launcher; or

7. modifications of such features, or other features, determined by rule of the commissioner to be particularly suitable for military and not sporting purposes. In addition, the commissioner shall, by rule, designate specific semiautomatic centerfire or rimfire rifles or semiautomatic shotguns, identified by make, model and/or manufacturer's name, as within the definition of assault weapon, if the commissioner determines that such weapons are particularly suitable for military and not sporting purposes. The commissioner shall inspect such specific designated semiautomatic centerfire or rimfire rifles or semiautomatic shotguns at least three times per year, and shall revise or update such designations as he or she deems appropriate.

(b) Any shotgun with a revolving-cylinder magazine.

(c) Any part, or combination of parts, designed or redesigned or intended to readily convert a rifle or shotgun into an assault weapon.

(d) "Assault weapon" shall not include any rifle or shotgun modified to render it permanently inoperative.

17. "Ammunition feeding device." Magazines, belts, feedstrips, drums or clips capable of being attached to or utilized with firearms, rifles, shotguns or assault weapons.

18. "Antique firearm." Any unloaded muzzle loading pistol or revolver with a matchlock, flintlock, percussion cap, or similar type of ignition system, or a pistol or revolver which uses fixed cartridges which are no longer available in the ordinary channels of commercial trade.

19. "Special theatrical dealer." Any person, firm, partnership, corporation or company who possesses assault weapons exclusively for the purpose of leasing such assault weapons to special theatrical permittees within the city and for theatrical purposes outside the city.

20. "Acquire." To gain possession of or title to a weapon through purchase, gift, lease, loan, or otherwise.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Gun control law was upheld as constitutional as against claim that it constitutes a deprivation of liberty and property without due process; that it violates the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution; that the City Council lacked power to legislate in the area involved because the state had preempted the field of firearms control and that the statute is vague and indefinite, unreasonable and arbitrary. Nor was the local law beyond the power of the city council to enact as it was a proper exercise of the City's police power.-N.Y. Sporting Arms Asso. Inc. v. City of N.Y., 159 (70) N.Y.L.J. CHAPTER 3 FIREARMS

§ 10-302 Licensing of gunsmiths, of wholesale manufacturers of firearms, or assemblers of firearms, dealers in firearms, dealers in rifles and shotguns, and special theatrical dealers.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person or business enterprise to engage in the business of gunsmith, wholesale manufacturer of firearms, assembler of firearms, dealer in firearms, dealer in rifles and shotguns, or special theatrical dealer, unless such person, or business enterprise, has obtained a license to engage in such business in the manner prescribed in this section. No person shall engage in the business of dealer in rifles and shotguns or special theatrical dealer unless he or she has been issued a permit for the possession of shotguns and rifles pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. No person or business enterprise shall be eligible to apply for or to hold a license as a special theatrical dealer unless such person or business enterprise (1) possesses both a license as a dealer in firearms and a license as a dealer in rifles and shotguns and (2) has possessed such licenses and engaged in such businesses for at least one year.

b. No license shall be issued or renewed pursuant to this section except by the police commissioner, and then only after investigation and finding that all statements in a proper application for a license or renewal are true. No license shall be issued or renewed except for any applicant:

(1) of good moral character;

(2) who has not been convicted anywhere of a felony or of any serious offense;

(3) who has stated whether he or she has ever suffered any mental illness or been confined to any hospital or institution, public or private, for mental illness and who is free from any mental disorder, defects or diseases that would impair the ability safely to possess or use a firearm, rifle or shotgun;

(4) who has not been convicted of violating section 10-303.1 of this chapter; and

(5) concerning whom no good cause exists for the denial of a license.

c. (1) An applicant to engage in such business shall also be a citizen of the United States, more than twenty-one years of age and maintain a place of business in the city.

(2) Each applicant to engage in such business shall comply with all the requirements set forth in this section. If the applicant is a partnership, each partner thereof shall comply with all the requirements set forth in this section and if the applicant is a corporation, each officer thereof shall so comply.

(3) No applicant for a special theatrical dealer's license or renewal thereof shall be issued such license or renewal unless the applicant submits proof, in such form as the commissioner may require, that at least ten percent of the gross income earned by the applicant as a dealer in firearms, dealer in rifles and shotguns and, in the case of an application for renewal, special theatrical dealer, in the year preceding the application for such license or renewal, was earned from the lease for theatrical purposes of such ammunition feeding devices, firearms, rifles, shotguns or assault weapons as the applicant was authorized to lease. No applicant for a special theatrical dealer's license or renewal thereof shall be issued such license or renewal unless the gross income earned by the applicant as a dealer in firearms, dealer in rifles and shotguns and, in the case of an application for renewal, special theatrical dealer, in the year preceding the application for such license or renewal, exceeded fifty thousand dollars.

d. An application for a license or renewal thereof shall be made to the police commissioner. An application shall include the full name, date of birth, residence, present occupation of each person or individual signing the same, whether he or she is a citizen of the United States, whether he or she complies with each requirement for eligibility specified in subdivision b of this section and such other facts as may be required to show the good character, competency and integrity of each person or individual signing the application. An application shall be signed and affirmed by the applicant. Each individual signing an application shall submit one photograph of himself or herself and a duplicate for each required copy of the application. Such photographs shall have been taken within thirty days prior to filing the application. The photographs submitted shall be two inches square, and the application shall also state the previous occupation of each individual signing the same and the location of the place of such business, or of the bureau, agency, subagency, office or branch office for which the license is sought, indicating the street and number and otherwise giving such apt description as to point out reasonably the location thereof. In such case, if the applicant is a business eenterprise, its name, date and place of formation, and principal place of business shall be stated. For a partnership, the application shall be signed and affirmed by each partner, and for a corporation, by each officer thereof.

With respect to an application for a license as a dealer in rifles and shotguns or as a special theatrical dealer, a written statement shall be submitted by the individual applicant, or in the case of a business enterprise a responsible officer or agent thereof, stating (a) the identification number of the shotgun and rifle permit issued to the individual applicant or the responsible officer or agent in the case of a business enterprise, (b) the address of a regular place of business maintained by the applicant, (c) that since the issuance of the rifle and shotgun permit the individual applicant or responsible officer or agent has not become disqualified for issuance of such a permit, (d) that he or she undertakes to supervise the acts of his or her, or in the case of a business enterprise, its employees, (e) that the applicant has not previously been refused a license as a dealer in shotguns and rifles or as a special theatrical dealer and that no such license issued to the applicant has ever been revoked.

e. Before a license is issued or renewed, there shall be an investigation of all statements required in the application by the police department. For that purpose, the records of the department of mental hygiene concerning previous or present mental illness of the applicant shall be available for inspection by the investigating officer of the police department. In order to ascertain any previous criminal record, the investigating officer shall take the fingerprints and physical descriptive data in quadruplicate of each individual by whom the application is signed. Two copies of such fingerprints shall be taken on standard fingerprint cards eight inches square, and one copy may be taken on a card supplied for that purpose by the federal bureau of investigation. When completed, one standard card shall be promptly submitted to the division of criminal justice services where it shall be appropriately processed. A second standard card, or the one supplied by the federal bureau of investigation, as the case may be, shall be forwarded to that bureau at Washington with a request that the files of the bureau be searched and notification of the results of the search be made to the police department. The failure or refusal of the federal bureau of investigation to make the fingerprint check provided for in this section shall not constitute the sole basis for refusal to issue a license pursuant to the provisions of this section. Of the remaining two fingerprint cards, one shall be filed with the executive department, division of state police, Albany, within ten days after issuance of the license, and the other remain on file with the police department. No such fingerprints may be inspected by any person other than a peace officer, when acting pursuant to his or her special duties, or a police officer except on order of a judge or justice of a court of record either upon notice to the licensee or without notice, as the judge or justice may deem appropriate. Upon completion of the investigation, the police department shall report the results to the commissioner without unnecessary delay.

f. Applications shall indicate and licenses shall be issued for a gunsmith, a wholesale manufacturer of firearms, an assembler of firearms, a dealer in firearms, a dealer in rifles and shotguns or a special theatrical dealer.

g. The application for any license, if granted, shall be a public record. Such application shall be kept on file in the office of the police commissioner and, within ten days after the issuance of a license, a duplicate copy shall be filed in the executive department, division of state police, Albany.

h. No license shall be transferable to any other person or premises. The license shall mention and describe the premises for which it is issued and shall be valid only for such premises.

i. A license issued pursuant to this section shall be prominently displayed on the licensed premises. Failure of any person or business enterprise to so exhibit or display such license shall be presumptive evidence that the person or business enterprise is not duly licensed.

j. Any license or renewal issued pursuant to this section shall expire on the first day of the second January following the date of issuance. Any application to renew a license that has not previously expired, been revoked or cancelled shall thereby extend the term of the license until disposition is made of the application by the police commissioner.

k. The conviction of a licensee anywhere of a felony or a serious offense shall operate as a revocation of the license. Written notice of such revocation shall be forwarded to the executive division of state police in Albany.

l. The police commissioner, upon evidence of any disqualification set forth in subdivision b of this section, may at any time suspend or revoke and cancel a license issued pursuant to this section. Written notice of such suspension or revocation shall be forwarded to the executive department, division of state police, Albany.

m. No license shall be issued pursuant to this section unless the applicant therefor possesses and exhibits all licenses required under any federal or state law.

n. Records. (1) Any person licensed under this section shall keep an accurate book record of every transaction involving a firearm, machine gun, rifle, shotgun or assault weapon. Such record shall be kept in the manner prescribed and contain the information required by the police commissioner.

(2) The records required by this section shall be subject to inspection at all times by members of the police department. Such records shall be maintained on the premises mentioned and described in the license, and preserved for record. In the event of suspension, cancellation or revocation of a license, or discontinuance of business by a licensee, such record shall be immediately surrendered to the police commissioner.

(3) Any person licensed under this section as a dealer in firearms or special theatrical dealer shall cause a physical inventory to be taken within the first five business days of April and October of each year, which shall include a listing of each firearm by make, caliber and serial number. The original copy of such inventory shall be securely maintained on the premises for which the license was issued. One or more additional copies shall be forwarded to such addresses as the commissioner may direct, by such means as the commissioner may direct.

(4) With each copy of the inventory required under paragraph three of this subdivision shall be included an affidavit signed by the licensee (or, if the licensee is not a natural person, by an officer, general manager, or other principal of the licensee) stating under penalties of perjury that within the first five business days of that April or October, as the case may be, the signer has personally observed the firearms reported. The affidavit shall also describe the date and contents of any report required to be made pursuant to section 400.10 of the penal law.

(5) In addition to the penalties specified in section 10-310, any act or omission that constitutes a violation of this subdivision or of rules and regulations issued by the commissioner pursuant thereto shall be grounds for the revocation of a license issued by the commissioner pursuant to this section.

o. Rules and regulations. (1) The police commissioner may make and promulgate such rules and regulations regarding the issuance and renewal of such licenses and the reporting of inventory of firearms, loss of firearms, and theft of firearms and may prescribe such forms as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

(2) Such rules and regulations shall prescribe reasonable standards and conditions under which firearms, component parts of firearms, rifles, shotguns, assault weapons and ammunition shall be kept at the store or premises of gunsmiths, including store and plant security, employment, record keeping and product quality control for the protection of the public safety, health and welfare. The foregoing enumeration shall not be construed as a limitation of the police commissioner's authority to promulgate rules and regulations hereunder.

(3) The violation of such rules and regulations shall be triable by a judge of the criminal court of the city of New York and punishable by not more than thirty days imprisonment or by a fine of not more than fifty dollars, or both.

p. The annual license fee for a license issued pursuant to this section shall be twenty-five dollars for gunsmiths, wholesale manufacturers and assemblers of firearms, fifty dollars for dealers in firearms, and one hundred fifty dollars for dealers in rifles and shotguns and special theatrical dealers.

q. Failure to obtain a license, by any person, firm, partnership, corporation or company, as required by the provisions of this section shall be punishable as a class A misdemeanor.

r. No dealer in rifles and shotguns may dispose of a rifle or shotgun to any person unless such person produces a valid rifle and shotgun permit, or proof of lawful authority as a police or peace officer, or is an exempt person as provided in this chapter.

s. Any suspension, denial or revocation of a license may be appealed by the applicant or licensee pursuant to procedures established by the police commissioner for administrative review.

1. Provisions of L.L. 30/2006:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The Council finds that action is necessary to detect, and therefore prevent, the theft of firearms from licensed dealers. Firearms illicitly removed from licensed dealers provide one avenue of supply for the illegal handgun market and for gun crime. Given the lethality of modern handguns and the existence of a market for the illegal resale of handguns to people who should not legally possess them, every missing gun should be the focus of police attention as soon as practicable. This can be accomplished through effective and mandatory inventory controls by licensed firearms dealers.

§ 4. Severability. If any provision of this local law is for any reason found to be invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such finding shall not affect the validity of all remaining portions of this local law, which shall continue in full force and effect.

§ 5. This local law shall take effect 120 days after its enactment into law [Nov. 24, 2006], provided that, prior to such effective date, the police commissioner shall promulgate such rules and take such other actions as are necessary to its timely implementation.

Title 10 Public Safety

§ 10-302.1 Preventing the diversion of firearms, rifles and shotguns to criminals.

a. No dealer in firearms and no dealer in rifles and shotguns shall: (i) sell or otherwise dispose of more than one firearm or more than one rifle or shotgun to any individual as part of the same sales transaction; or (ii) sell or otherwise dispose of a rifle or shotgun to any individual if the dealer knows or should know that such individual has purchased a rifle or shotgun within the prior ninety days, or (iii) sell or otherwise dispose of a firearm to any individual if the dealer knows or should know that such individual has purchased a firearm within the prior ninety days.

b. No person shall acquire a firearm if such person has acquired a firearm within the previous ninety days. No person shall acquire a rifle or shotgun if such person has acquired a rifle or shotgun within the previous ninety days. For purposes of this subdivision when a firearm, rifle or shotgun is acquired by a corporation, partnership, or other entity, it shall be considered to have been acquired by each natural person who is an officer, director or other principal of such entity, unless the firearm, rifle or shotgun is acquired on behalf of such entity by a person who is licensed by the commissioner as gun custodian or special gun custodian, or acquired on behalf of an organization possessing an organization registration certificate, as those terms are used in title thirty-eight of the rules of the city of New York.

c. Before disposing of any firearm, rifle or shotgun to a person licensed by the commissioner to possess firearms, rifles or shotguns, any dealer in firearms, dealer in rifles and shotguns or other person shall contact the police department to ensure compliance with the requirements of this section.

d. Any dealer in firearms, dealer in rifles and shotguns or other person who disposes of any firearm, rifle or shotgun to a person licensed by an authority other than the commissioner to possess firearms, rifles or shotguns shall make reasonable efforts to contact such licensing authority and to ascertain the most recent date of acquisition by such licensee of a firearm, in the case of disposition of a firearm, or of a rifle or shotgun, in the case of disposition of a rifle or shotgun.

e. Any dealer in firearms or dealer in rifles or shotguns who disposes of any firearm, rifle or shotgun shall, before or at the time of disposing of such firearm, rifle or shotgun, record, in the record book required to be kept by subdivision n of section 10-302, the efforts made by such dealer to ensure compliance with the requirements of this section, any exception or exemption set forth in this section that such dealer reasonably believes would authorize the disposal of such firearm, rifle or shotgun, and the grounds for such dealer's belief that such exception or exemption applies.

f. Exceptions. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the sale of firearms, rifles or shotguns to (i) a police officer, as such term is defined in section 1.20 of the criminal procedure law, (ii) a federal law enforcement officer, as such term is defined in section 2.15 of the criminal procedure law, (iii) a public agency in furtherance of official business, (iv) persons in the military service of the state of New York, when duly authorized by regulations issued by the adjutant general to possess such weapons, (v) persons in the military or other service of the United States, in pursuit of official duty or when duly authorized by federal law, regulation or order to possess such weapons, (vi) persons employed in fulfilling defense contracts with the government of the United States or agencies thereof when possession of such weapons is necessary for manufacture, transport, installation and testing under the requirements of such contract, (vii) peace officers as defined in section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law, provided that such peace officers are authorized pursuant to law or regulation of the state or city of New York to possess a firearm, rifle or shotgun within the city of New York without a license or permit therefor, and are authorized by their employer to possess such firearm, rifle or shotgun, (viii) persons licensed as dealers, manufacturers or importers of firearms pursuant to chapter 44 of title 18 of the United States Code, (ix) any motion picture, television or video production company or entertainment or theatrical company whose production involves the use of firearms, rifles or shotguns, provided that such weapons shall be properly registered and a special theatrical permit shall have been issued for such weapons pursuant to rules established by the commissioner, (x) with respect to the sale of firearms only, persons licensed by the commissioner as gun custodians or special gun custodians, as those terms are used in title thirty-eight of the rules of the city of New York, and (xi) with respect to the sale of rifles and shotguns only, organizations possessing an organization registration certificate, as that term is used in title thirty-eight of the rules of the city of New York.

g. Exempt transactions. The requirements of this section shall not apply to: (i) any transaction in which a person acquires a firearm, rifle or shotgun by operation of law, or because of the death of another person for whom such person is an executor or administrator of an estate or a trustee of a trust created in a will, provided that within fifteen days such person surrenders such firearm, rifle or shotgun to the commissioner until it can be reacquired without violation of this section or other applicable law. If a firearm, rifle or shotgun is surrendered pursuant to this subdivision but no written request to reacquire it is received by the commissioner within two years of such surrender, the commissioner shall dispose of such firearm in accordance with the provisions of section 400.05 of the penal law;

(ii) the exchange of a firearm, rifle or shotgun by a dealer in firearms or a dealer in rifles and shotguns for another firearm, rifle or shotgun previously purchased from such dealer by the person requesting such exchange, provided that such exchange takes place within thirty days of such request;

(iii) the acquisition or disposal of an antique firearm, rifle or shotgun which is incapable of being fired or discharged or which does not fire fixed ammunition, or a firearm, rifle or shotgun manufactured prior to eighteen hundred ninety-four or whose design was patented and whose commercial manufacture commenced prior to eighteen hundred ninety-four and whose manufacture continued after such year without any substantial alteration in design or function, and for which cartridge ammunition is not commercially available and is possessed as a curiosity or ornament or for its historical significance and value;

(iv) the acquisition or disposal of a firearm at an indoor or outdoor pistol range when such acquisition or disposal begins a period of possession or use of the firearm that is authorized by paragraphs 7-a, 7-b, or 7-e of subdivision a of section 265.20 of the penal law;

(v) the sale of a firearm by a dealer in firearms to a person whose firearm is stolen or irretrievably lost, provided that: (1) such person has complied with any legal requirement to report the loss or theft, including but not limited to the applicable provisions of title thirty-eight of the rules of the city of New York and section 400.10 of the penal law;

(2) such person provides to such dealer a copy of a police report of the loss or theft or of any report made pursuant to the applicable provisions of title thirty-eight of the rules of the city of New York and section 400.10 of the penal law, which copy the dealer shall attach to the record book required to be kept by subdivision n of section 10-302;

(3) the copy provided pursuant to subparagraph two of this paragraph contains the name and address of the regulated firearm owner, a description of the regulated firearm, the location of the loss or theft, if known, the date of the loss or theft, if known, and the date when the loss or theft was reported to the law enforcement agency; and

(4) such person's attempt to replace the regulated firearm occurs within thirty days of the loss or theft of such firearm, if known, or, if such date is not known, within thirty days of the date when the loss or theft was reported to the law enforcement agency, as reflected by the information recorded on the police report; and

(vi) any other transaction authorized in advance in writing by the commissioner.

h. Penalties. (i) In addition to the penalties specified in section 10-310, any act or omission that constitutes or would constitute a violation of this section or of rules and regulations issued by the commissioner pursuant thereto shall be grounds for the revocation of a license to deal in firearms, deal in rifles and shotguns, possess firearms, or possess a rifle or shotgun.

(ii) Any firearm disposed of or acquired in violation of this section shall be a nuisance subject to surrender and forfeiture in accordance with the procedures specified in section 400.05 of the penal law.

i. The commissioner may make and promulgate such rules and regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. Such rules and regulations may address, but need not be limited to:

(i) procedures for implementation of this section by the commissioner;

(ii) establishment of a database of firearm, rifle and shotgun purchases for the purpose of enforcing the requirements of this chapter; and

(iii) the specification of reasonable efforts required to comply with subdivision d of this section.

1. Provisions of L.L. 9/2005:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. Although many illegal guns are obtained outside of New York state, existing city laws governing gun sellers should be strengthened to prevent the diversion of guns to the illegal marketplace. The Council finds that it is imperative that additional protections be implemented to ensure that New York city continues to lead the way in preventing gun violence.

§3. This local law shall take effect 180 days after its enactment; provided that the police commissioner is immediately authorized to adopt, amend and promulgate such rules as may be necessary to effectuate the purpose of this local law.

2. Provisions of L.L. 31/2006:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. In local law number 9 for the year 2005, the Council addressed the problem of the diversion of rifles and shotguns to the illegal gun marketplace. The Council finds that the provisions of this local law must be strengthened and extended to address the problem of the proliferation of illegal handguns.

The illegal possession of handguns-by felons, juveniles, drug addicts, people subject to restraining orders for domestic violence, and others not legally entitled to possess handguns-is a deadly and ongoing threat to the people of New York City. The city, state, and federal government maintain extensive statutes and licensing schemes to prevent such people from acquiring handguns. Nonetheless, networks of illegal gun traffickers supply handguns at a large profit to people who should not have them.

Approximately twenty percent of the city's robberies and the majority of its murders involve guns. The federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) traced 8,437 guns used in crime in New York City from August 1997 to July 1998. Of those guns, 278 were used in homicides and 618 were used by juveniles.

Although traffickers can obtain guns in many ways, they are often able to simply buy them from federally licensed retailers. Rather than buy guns in their own names, illegal traffickers usually rely on "straw purchases," i.e., having someone else purchase guns on their behalf. One ATF study concluded that more than half of the guns identified in urban trafficking investigations that involved juveniles had been trafficked by straw purchasers or straw purchasing rings.

ATF has found that purchases of multiple handguns at the same time are a strong indicator of straw purchases and, therefore, of illegal handgun trafficking. A loophole in existing federal and New York state law allows a purchaser, once approved, to buy as many guns at a time as he or she likes. Having a straw purchaser buy more than one handgun at a time allows traffickers to work quickly, efficiently, and without involving more criminal confederates than necessary.

Due to the importance in illegal gun sales of multiple purchases by straw purchasers, limiting or prohibiting multiple sales by licensed dealers inhibits gun crime and illegal gun trafficking. After South Carolina and Virginia enacted one-handgun-per-month laws, their significance as suppliers of crime guns to Northeastern states diminished sharply. In the year after Maryland passed a similar law, it experienced a fourteen percent drop in homicides. Moreover, the number of crime guns seized in the adjacent District of Columbia that had first been bought at retail in Maryland dropped from twenty to zero.

In order to fight illegal handgun trafficking and therefore the supply of handguns to people who, under existing law, should not have handguns, the city must limit multiple and closely consecutive purchases of handguns. Doing so will not only save lives, but will also reinforce the city's position as a national leader against gun crime.

§ 6. Severability. If any provision of this local law is for any reason found to be invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such finding shall not affect the validity of all remaining provisions of this local law, which shall continue in full force and effect.

§ 7. This local law shall take effect 120 days following its enactment into law [Nov. 24, 2006], provided that, prior to such effective date, the police commissioner shall promulgate such rules and take such other actions as are necessary to its timely implementation.

§ 10-303 Permits for possession and purchase of rifles and shotguns.

It shall be unlawful to dispose of any rifle or shotgun to any person unless said person is the holder of a permit for possession and purchase of rifles and shotguns; it shall be unlawful for any person to have in his or her possession any rifle or shotgun unless said person is the holder of a permit for the possession and purchase of rifles and shotguns.

The disposition of a rifle or shotgun, by any licensed dealer in rifles and shotguns, to any person presenting a valid rifle and shotgun permit issued to such person, shall be conclusive proof of the legality of such disposition by the dealer.

a. Requirements. No person shall be denied a permit to purchase and possess a rifle or shotgun unless the applicant:

(1) is under the age of twenty-one; or

(2) is not of good moral character; or

(3) has been convicted anywhere of a felony; of a serious offense as defined in §265.00 (17) of the New York State Penal Law; of a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence as defined in §921 (a) of title 18, United States Code; of a misdemeanor crime of assault as defined in the penal law where the applicant was convicted of such assault within the ten years preceding the submission of the application; or of any three misdemeanors as defined in local, state or federal law, however nothing in this paragraph shall preclude the denial of a permit to an applicant with fewer than three misdemeanor convictions; or

(4) has not stated whether he or she has ever suffered any mental illness or been confined to any hospital or institution, public or private, for mental illness; or

(5) is not now free from any mental disorders, defects or diseases that would impair the ability safely to possess or use a rifle or shotgun; or

(6) has been the subject of a suspension or ineligibility order issue pursuant to §530.14 of the New York State Criminal Procedure Law or §842-a of the New York State Family Court Act; or

(7) who is subject to a court order that

(a) was issued after a hearing of which such person received actual notice, and at which such person had the opportunity to participate;

(b) restrains such person from harassing, stalking, or threatening an intimate partner of such person or child of such intimate partner or person, or engaging in other conduct that would place an intimate partner in reasonable fear of bodily injury to the partner or child; and

(c)(i) includes a finding that such person represents a credible threat to the physical safety of such intimate partner or child; or

(ii) by its terms explicitly prohibits the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against such intimate partner or child that would reasonably be expected to cause bodily injury;

(d) For purposes of this section only, "intimate partner" means, with respect to a person, the spouse of the person, a former spouse of the person, an individual who is a parent of a child of the person, and an individual who cohabitates or has cohabited with the person; or

(8) has been convicted of violating section 10-303.1 of this chapter; or

(9) unless good cause exists for the denial of the permit.

b. Application. Application for a rifle and shotgun permit shall be made to the police commissioner, shall be signed and affirmed by the applicant and shall state his or heer full name, date of birth, residence, physical condition, occupation and whether he or she complies with each requirement specified in subdivision a of this section, and any other information required by the police commissioner to process the application. Each applicant shall submit with his or her application a photograph of himself or herself in duplicate, which shall have been taken within thirty days prior to the filing of the application. Any willful or material omission or false statement shall be a violation of this section and grounds for denial of the application.

c. Before a permit is issued or renewed, the police department shall investigate all statements required in the application. For that purpose, the records of the department of mental hygiene concerning previous or present mental illness of the applicant shall be available for inspection by the investigating officer of the police department. In order to ascertain any previous criminal record, the investigating officer shall take the fingerprints and physical descriptive data in quadruplicate of each individual by whom the application is signed. Two copies of such fingerprints shall be taken on standard fingerprint cards eight inches square, and one copy may be taken on a card supplied for that purpose by the federal bureau of investigation. When completed, one standard card shall be promptly submitted to the division of criminal justice services where it shall be appropriately processed. A second standard card, or the one supplied by the federal bureau of investigation, as the case may be, shall be forwarded to that bureau at Washington with a request that the files of the bureau be searched and notification of the results of the search be made to the police department. The failure or refusal of the federal bureau of investigation to make the fingerprint check provided for in this section shall not constitute the sole basis for refusal to issue a permit pursuant to the provisions of this section. Of the remaining two fingerprint cards, one shall be filed with the executive department, division of state police, Albany, within ten days after issuance of the permit, and the other remain on file with the police department. No such fingerprints may be inspected by any person other than a peace officer, when acting pursuant to his or her special duties, or a police officer, except on order of a justice of a court of record either upon notice to the permittee or without notice, as the judge or justice may deem appropriate. Upon completion of the investigation, the police department shall report the results to the police commissioner without unnecessary delay.

d. Fees. The fee for an application for a rifle and shotgun permit or renewal thereof shall be one hundred forty dollars.

e. Issuance. (1) Upon completion of the investigation, and in no event later than thirty days from the submission of the application, unless the police commissioner determines more time is needed for an investigation and then it shall not exceed sixty days, the commissioner shall issue the permit or shall notify the applicant of the denial of the application and the reason or reasons therefor. The applicant shall have the right to appeal said denial pursuant to procedures established by the police commissioner for administrative review.

(2) Any person holding a valid license to carry a concealed weapon in accordance with the provisions of the penal law, shall be issued such permit upon filing an application and upon paying the established fee therefor, without the necessity of any further investigation, affidavits or fingerprinting, unless the police commissioner has reason to believe that the status of the applicant has changed since the issuance of the prior license.

f. Validity. Any person to whom a rifle and shotgun permit has been validly issued pursuant to this chapter may possess a rifle or shotgun. No permit shall be transferred to any other person. Every person carrying a rifle or shotgun shall have on his or her person a permit which shall be exhibited for inspection to any peace officer or police officer upon demand. Failure of any such person to so exhibit his or her permit shall be presumptive evidence that he or she is not duly authorized to possess a rifle or shotgun and the same may be considered by the police commissioner as cause for revocation or suspension of such permit. A permit shall be valid for three (3) years and shall be subject to automatic renewal, upon sworn application, and without investigation, unless the police commissioner has reason to believe that the status of the applicant has changed since the previous application.

g. Revocation or suspension. A permit shall be revoked upon the conviction in this state, or elsewhere, of a person holding a rifle or shotgun permit, of a felony or a serious offense. A permit may be revoked or suspended at any time upon evidence of any other disqualification set forth in subdivision a of this section. Upon revocation or suspension of a permit for any reason, the police commissioner shall immediately notify the New York state division of criminal justice services. The police commissioner shall from time to time send a notice and supplemental report hereof, containing the names, addresses and permit numbers of each person whose rifle and shotgun permit has been revoked or suspended to all licensed dealers in rifles and shotguns throughout the city for the purpose of notifying such dealers that no rifles or shotguns may be issued or sold or in any way disposed of to any such persons. The police commissioner or any police officer acting at the police commissioner's direction shall forthwith seize any rifle and shotgun permit which has been revoked or suspended hereunder and shall seize any rifle or shotgun possessed by such person, provided that the person whose rifle or shotgun permit has been revoked or suspended, or such person's appointee or legal representative, shall have the right at any time up to one year after such seizure to dispose of such rifle or shotgun to any licensed dealer or any other person legally permitted to purchase or take possession of such rifle or shotgun. The permittee shall have the right to appeal any suspension or revocation pursuant to procedures established by the commissioner for administrative review.

h. Non-residents. Non-residents of the city of New York may apply for a rifle or shotgun permit subject to the same conditions, regulations and requirements as residents of the city of New York.

Title 10 Public Safety

§ 10-303.1 Prohibition of the possession or disposition of assault weapons.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person to possess or dispose of any assault weapon within the city of New York, except as provided in subdivision d, e or f of this section or section 10-305. A person who peaceably surrenders an assault weapon to the commissioner pursuant to subdivision d, e or f of this section or subdivision f of section 10-305 shall not be subject to the criminal or civil penalties set forth in this section.

b. Criminal penalty. Any person who shall violate subdivision a of this section shall be guilty of an unclassified misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars or by imprisonment of up to one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each assault weapon disposed of or possessed, provided that the first violation of subdivision a of this section involving possession of an assault weapon as defined in paragraph c of subdivision 16 of section 10-301 shall be an offense punishable by a fine of not more than three hundred dollars of imprisonment of not more than fifteen days, or both, on condition that (1) such first violation is not in conjunction with the commission of a crime and (2) the possessor has not been previously convicted of a felony or a serious offense.

c. Civil penalty. In addition to the penalties prescribed in subdivision b of this section, any person who shall violate subdivision a of this section shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than twenty-five thousand dollars for each assault weapon disposed of or possessed, to be recovered in a civil action brought by the corporation counsel in the name of the city in any court of competent jurisdiction, provided that the first violation by any person of subdivision a of this section involving possession of an assault weapon as defined in paragraph c of subdivision sixteen of section 10-301 shall subject such person to a civil penalty of not more than five thousand dollars on condition that (1) such first violation is not in conjunction with the commission of a crime and (2) the possessor has not been previously convicted of a felony or a serious offense.

d. Disposition of assault weapons by permittees, licensees and previously exempt persons. Any person who, on or after the effective date of this local law, shall possess an assault weapon and a valid permit for possession and purchase of rifles and shotguns and a certificate of registration for such assault weapon, and any licensed dealer in firearms or licensed dealer in rifles and shotguns who is not licensed as a special theatrical dealer and who, on or after the effective date of this local law, shall possess an assault weapon, and any police officer or peace officer who, before the effective date of this local law was exempt from the sections of the administrative code requiring rifle and shotgun permits and certificates, and who, upon the effective date of this local law, is not exempt from the sections of the administrative code prohibiting the possession or disposition of assault weapons, and who, on or after the effective date of this local law, shall possess an assault weapon, shall, within ninety days of the effective date of rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to subparagraph 7 of paragraph a of subdivision 16 of section 10-301, either:

(1) peaceably surrender his or her assault weapon pursuant to subdivision f of section 10-305 for the purpose of destruction of such weapon by the commissioner, provided that the commissioner may authorize the use of such weapon by the department; or (2) lawfully remove such assault weapon from the city of New York. All assault weapons possessed by such permittees, licensees and previously exempt persons shall be subject to the provisions of this subdivision, whether defined as assault weapons in subdivision 16 of section 10-301 or in rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to subparagraph 7 of paragraph a of subdivision 16 of section 10-301.

e. Disposition of assault weapons by non-permittees. Any person who, on or after the effective date of this local law, shall possess an assault weapon and who is not the holder of a valid permit for possession and purchase of rifles and shotguns and a certificate of registration for such assault weapon, shall peaceably surrender his or her assault weapon pursuant to subdivision f of section 10-305 for the purpose of destruction of such weapon by the commissioner, provided that the commissioner may authorize the use of such weapon by the department, and provided further that heirs and legatees may dispose of assault weapons pursuant to subdivision f of this section.

f. Disposition of assault weapons by heirs and legatees. Any person who acquires an assault weapon on or after the effective date of this local law by the laws of intestacy or by testamentary bequest shall, within ninety days of such acquisition, either: (1) peaceably surrender such assault weapon pursuant to subdivision f of section 10-305 for the purpose of destruction of such weapon by the commissioner, provided that the commissioner may authorize the use of such weapon by the department; or (2) lawfully remove such assault weapon from the city of New York.

g. Within thirty days of the effective date of rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to subparagraph 7 of paragraph a of subdivision 16 of section 10-301, the commissioner shall send by regular mail to every person who has been issued a permit to possess a rifle or shotgun and whose rifle or shotgun the commissioner reasonably believes to be an assault weapon as defined in subdivision 16 of section 10-301 or as defined in such rules, a written notice setting forth the requirements and procedures relating to the disposition of such weapons, and the criminal and civil penalties that may be imposed upon the permittee for unlawful possession or disposition of such weapons. Failure by the commissioner to send, or the permittee to receive, such notice, shall not excuse such permittee for unlawful possession or disposition of such weapons.

h. Surrender of firearms. At the discretion of the police commissioner, any person convicted of violating this section may be subject to immediate surrender of all firearms in his or her possession.

Provisions of L.L. 78/1991 § 1.

Section 1. Legislative intent. It is hereby declared and found by the council that certain guns, commonly referred to as semiautomatic "assault weapons," are generally recognized as particularly suitable for military and not sporting purposes. The council further finds and declares that ammunition feeding devices which are capable of holding more than five rounds of ammunition and which are capable of being used in assault weapons are particularly suitable for military and not sporting purposes. The council further finds and declares that because assault weapons and such ammunition feeding devices pose a grave threat to law enforcement officers and to the public, it is necessary to impose restrictions on the possession, sale and use of such weapons and ammunition feeding devices. It is not, however, the council's intent to place additional restrictions on the possession, sale or use of rifles and shotguns which are primarily designed and intended for hunting, target practice or other legitimate sports or recreational activities.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The court held that the statute was not unconstitutionally vague, and that it did not violate substantive due process rights under the United States Constitution. Moreover, the law was not pre-empted by federal statutes governing the Civilian Marksmanship Program. Richmond Boro Gun Club, Inc. v. City of New York, 97 F.3d 681 (2nd Cir. 1996).

a. Definitions. For purposes of this section, the terms "firearm," "handgun," "dealer," "collector," and "manufacturer" shall have the meanings set forth in 18 U.S.C. §921, as such section may be amended from time to time, or any successor provision thereto. The term "transfer" shall be deemed to include any sale, assignment, pledge, lease, loan, gift or other disposition. References to "statutes, laws or regulations" shall be deemed to include federal, state and local statutes, laws, local laws, ordinances, rules and regulations.

b. Manufacturer and Dealer Liability. A manufacturer or dealer shall be liable for any injury or death caused by a firearm that it has transferred, if (i) such injury or death results from the use of such firearm by an individual not authorized by law to possess such firearm in the city of New York, and (ii) such manufacturer or dealer, or any other individual or entity acting subsequent to such manufacturer or dealer, unlawfully transferred such firearm at any time prior to such injury or death. Such liability also includes the possible imposition of punitive damages. Liability under this section does not extend to any manufacturer or dealer that has complied with the following standards during a period of one year immediately preceding and including the transfer of such firearm:

(1) The manufacturer or dealer executes no transfers or agreements to transfer at gun shows except for gun shows that maintain a practice of performing instant criminal background checks consistent with 18 U.S.C. §922 (t), as such subsection may be amended from time to time and any successor provision thereto, on all transfers, whether by licensed or unlicensed sellers.

(2) Any place of business operated by the manufacturer or dealer is located at a fixed address where:

(a) a record is maintained, as may be required by any statute, law or regulation, of the make, model, caliber or gauge, and serial number of all firearms held in inventory or offered for sale; and

(b) a record is maintained, as may be required by any statute, law or regulation, of the make, model, caliber or gauge, and serial number of all firearms sold, and of any identifying information required by any such statute, law or regulation to be obtained from purchasers;

(3) The manufacturer or dealer provides access to the aforementioned records to officers, employees and agents of public agencies conducting inspections, to the full extent required by applicable statutes, laws and regulations;

(4) The manufacturer or dealer limits transfers to any individual or entity to one handgun in any given thirty-day period, provided that this paragraph shall not apply to lawful transfers to (a) public agencies in furtherance of official business; (b) law enforcement officers employed by public agencies; (c) private security firms, holding any permits or licenses required by applicable statutes, laws and regulations, for the use of their agents and employees; (d) private operators of state and local correctional facilities, for the use of their agents and employees; or (e) licensed manufacturers, licensed dealers or licensed collectors, as those terms are defined by 18 U.S.C. §921, as such section may be amended from time to time, or any successor provision thereto;

(5) The manufacturer or dealer has complied with all applicable statutes, laws and regulations governing the transfer of firearms; and

(6) The manufacturer or dealer has not transferred a firearm to any other manufacturer or dealer in circumstances in which the manufacturer or dealer transferring such firearm knew or should have known that such manufacturer or dealer had not complied with the standards set forth in this subdivision.

c. Exceptions. (1) No action may be commenced pursuant to this section by any person injured or killed by the discharge of a firearm that is lawfully possessed by a law enforcement official employed by a public agency.

(2) This section shall not limit in scope any cause of action, other than that provided by this section, available to a person injured by or killed by a firearm.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prevent a manufacturer or dealer from seeking whole or partial indemnity or contribution for any liability incurred under this section from any third party wholly or partially responsible for the injury or death.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b, there shall be no basis for liability under this section if the manufacturer or dealer proves by a preponderance of the evidence that: (i) the person injured or killed by the discharge of a firearm was committing or attempting to commit a crime (whether or not such crime is actually charged); (ii) the unlawful transfer or possession of the firearm is solely a result of the failure of the owner of the firearm to renew a license, permit or registration within six months of the date such renewal is required; or (iii) prior to the injury or death caused by the firearm, a lawful possessor of the firearm has reported its theft to a federal, state or local law enforcement agency, or reported its loss to an appropriate public agency.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b, there shall be no basis for liability under this section if the manufacturer or dealer proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the manufacturer or dealer lawfully transferred the firearm to: (i) a public agency in furtherance of official business; (ii) a law enforcement officer employed by a public agency; (iii) a private security firm, holding any permits or licenses required by applicable statutes, laws and regulations, for the use of its agents and employees; or (iv) a private operator of a state or local correctional facility for the use of its agents and employees.

(6) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b, there shall be no basis for liability under this section if the manufacturer or dealer proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the injury or death is not directly or indirectly related to any act or omission by such manufacturer or dealer, including but not limited to any failure by the manufacturer or dealer to comply with the standards set forth in subdivision b of this section.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Section added L.L. 7/2005 § 2, eff. Mar. 19, 2005 with special provisions.

1. Provisions of L.L. 7/2005:

Section 1. Legislative Findings and Intent. In its most recent annual summary, the Office of Vital Statistics of the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene reported a total of 493 firearm deaths in New York City in 2003. The report further shows that 397 of these deaths were the results of homicide. In addition to these deaths, a number of victims each year suffer serious injuries resulting from the discharge of firearms. Though by far the most serious concern, homicide is only one of the many classifications of crimes involving firearms. Other armed crimes, including robbery, burglary, rape and kidnapping, account for additional incidents each year.

In order to reduce gun-related crime, New York City has in the past two decades adopted a thorough background check and licensing scheme aimed at ensuring the responsible handling of firearms and the registration of all firearm owners in the City. Unfortunately, despite such efforts, the problem of gun crime persists at the alarming rate of approximately one firearm death per day. The fact is largely a result of the proliferation of illegal means of firearm procurement, such as unlicensed importation from other States with less restrictive gun laws, unregistered sales at trade shows, and so-called "straw purchases," in which authorized purchasers buy guns and provide them to unauthorized users, including minors and convicted felons.

To combat this threat against the safety of New York City effectively, measures must be taken to stem the flow of illegal firearms at its source. The Council finds that if manufacturers and dealers followed the commonsense practices specified in this section, the flow of illegally transferred firearms and resulting injuries and deaths from the use of such firearms would be reduced significantly. Manufacturers and dealers who fail to abide by practices that will stem the flow of illegally transferred firearms must be held to a standard of liability, as should manufacturers and dealers who sell their products to other manufacturers and dealers knowing that such manufacturers and dealers have not complied with these practices. The Council therefore finds that the imposition of civil liability for distribution of firearms by dealers and manufacturers in the circumstances specified in this local law is essential to the maintenance of public safety and health.

§3. This local law shall take effect 60 days after its enactment into law, and shall apply to causes of action in relation to transfers of firearms by dealers and manufacturers that occur after such effective date, provided that, notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of this local law, any one-year period or thirty-day period referred to in this local law shall be reduced as may be necessary so that the commencement of such period in no event predates such effective date.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person to have in his or her possession any rifle or shotgun unless said person is the holder of a certificate of registration for such rifle or shotgun.

b. It shall be unlawful for any person who is not a licensed dealer to dispose of any rifle or shotgun for which such person does not have a certificate of registration unless such person files with the police commissioner a declaration in duplicate, signed and affirmed by the declarant which shall list by caliber, make, model, manufacturer's name and serial number, or if none, any other distinguishing number or identification mark, of each rifle and shotgun possessed by the declarant. Upon receipt of acknowledgement of said declaration by the police commissioner, the declarant may lawfully sell, transfer, or otherwise dispose of such rifles or shotguns to a licensed dealer or any other person legally permitted to purchase or take possession of such rifles or shotguns.

Any willful or material omission or false statement shall be a violation of this section.

c. Exhibition of certificate. Every person carrying a rifle or shotgun shall have on his or her person a certificate of registration valid for such weapon. Upon demand, the appropriate certificate shall be exhibited for inspection to any peace officer or police officer. Failure of any person to so exhibit his or her certificate shall be presumptive evidence that he or she is not duly authorized to possess such rifle or shotgun and may be considered by the police commissioner as cause for revocation or suspension of such person's permit.

d. Revocation. The revocation of a rifle or shotgun permit shall automatically be deemed to be a revocation of all certificates of registration for rifles and shotguns held by the person whose permit has been revoked.

e. Disposition of rifles and shotguns. No person lawfully in possession of a rifle or shotgun shall dispose of same except to a licensed dealer in firearms, licensed dealer in rifles and shotguns, the holder of a valid rifle and shotgun permit, an exempt person as enumerated in this chapter, or a non-resident of the city of New York not subject to the permit requirements of this chapter.

Any person so disposing of a rifle or shotgun shall report the disposition on forms provided by the commissioner setting forth the rifle and shotgun permit number of both seller and purchaser, the make, caliber, type, model and serial number, if any, and if the seller is a licensed dealer the certificate of registration number, of all such rifles and shotguns. Such form shall be signed by both seller and purchaser and the original shall be forwarded to the police commissioner within seventytwo hours of the disposition, one copy shall be retained by the seller, another by the purchaser.

1. If the seller is a licensed dealer, he or she shall at the time of the sale issue a certificate of registration to the purchaser provided to the dealer for that purpose by the police commissioner and shall forward to the police commissioner the duplicate thereof, together with the report of disposition.

2. If the seller is not a licensed dealer, the police commissioner shall, if the purchaser's rifle permit is valid, issue the certificate of registration within ten days of the receipt by the police commissioner of the report of disposition. Pending receipt of the certificate, but in no event for any longer than fourteen days from the date of purchase, the copy of the report of disposition shall serve in lieu of the purchaser's certificate of registration.

f. No fee shall be charged for a certificate of registration.

g. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section concerning the transfer, receipt, acquisition, or any other disposition of a rifle or shotgun, a rifle and shotgun permit shall not be required for the passing of a rifle or shotgun upon the death of an owner, to his or her heir or legatee, whether the same be by testamentary bequest or by the laws of intestacy, except that the person who shall so receive or acquire said rifle or shotgun shall be subject to all other provisions of this chapter, provided further that if the heir or legatee of the owner of such rifle or shotgun does not qualify to possess same under this chapter, the rifle or shotgun may be possessed by the heir or legatee for the purpose of sale as otherwise provided herein for a period not exceeding one hundred eighty days or for such further limited period beyond the one hundred eighty days as may be approved by the commissioner, said extensions in no event to exceed a total of ninety days.

§ 10-305 Exemptions.

The sections requiring rifle and shotgun permits and certificates and prohibiting the possession or disposition of assault weapons shall not apply as follows:

a. Minors. Any person under the age of twenty-one years may carry, fire, or use any rifle or shotgun in the actual presence or under the direct supervision of any person who is a holder of a rifle or shotgun permit, or for the purpose of military drill under the auspices of a legally recognized organization and under competent supervision or for the purpose of competition or target practice in and upon a firing range approved by the police commissioner or any other governmental agency authorized to provide such approval, or the national rifle association, which is under competent supervision at the time of such competition or target practice, provided that the rifle or shotgun is otherwise properly registered or exempt from registration by virtue of some other provision of this chapter. This exemption shall not apply to assault weapons.

b. Antiques and ornaments. The provisions of this chapter shall not apply to antique rifles and shotguns which are incapable of being fired or discharged or which do not fire fixed ammunition, or those weapons manufactured prior to eighteen hundred ninety-four and those weapons whose design was patented and whose commercial manufacture commenced prior to eighteen hundred ninety-four and whose manufacture continued after eighteen hundred ninety-four without any substantial alteration in design or function, and for which cartridge ammunition is not commercially available and are possessed as curiosities or ornaments or for their historical significance and value. This exemption shall not apply to assault weapons.

c. Persons in the military service in the state of New York, when duly authorized by regulations issued by the chief of staff to the governor to possess the same, and police officers, provided that such police officers shall not be exempt from the sections prohibiting the possession or disposition of assault weapons except during the performance of their duties as police officers, and other peace officers as defined in section 2.10 of the criminal procedure law, provided that such peace officers (1) are authorized pursuant to law or regulation of the state or city of New York to possess either (a) a firearm within the city of New York without a license or permit therefor, or (b) a rifle, shotgun or assault weapon within the city of New York without a permit therefor; and (2) are authorized by their employer to possess such rifle, shotgun or assault weapon; and (3) shall not possess such rifle, shotgun or assault weapon except during the performance of their duties as peace officers.

d. Persons in the military or other service of the United States, in pursuit of official duty or when duly authorized by federal law, regulation or order to possess the same.

e. Persons employed in fulfilling defense contracts with the government of the United States or agencies thereof when possession of the same is necessary for manufacture, transport, installation and testing under the requirements of such contract.

Any such person exempted by subdivisions c, d and e above, may purchase a rifle or shotgun only from a licensed dealer, and must submit to the dealer full and clear proof of identification, including shield number, serial number, military or governmental order or authorization, and military or other official identification. Any dealer who disposes of a rifle or shotgun to any exempt person without securing such identification shall be in violation of these sections.

f. A person may voluntarily surrender a rifle, shotgun or assault weapon to the police commissioner, provided, that the same shall be surrendered by such person only after he or she gives notice in writing to the police commissioner, stating such person's name, address, the type of gun to be surrendered, and the approximate time of day and the place where such surrender shall take place and such time of day and place have been approved in writing by the police commissioner. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed as granting immunity from prosecution for any crime or offense except that of unlawful possession of such rifle, shotgun or assault weapon.

g. The regular and ordinary transport of rifles, shotguns or assault weapons as merchandise provided that the person transporting such rifles, shotguns or assault weapons where he or she knows or has reasonable means of ascertaining what such person is transporting, notifies, in writing, the police commissioner of the name and address of the consignee and the place of delivery, and withholds delivery to the consignee for such reasonable period of time designated in writing by the police commissioner as the police commissioner may deem necessary for investigation as to whether the consignee may lawfully receive and possess such rifles, shotguns or assault weapons.

h. Possession by retail customers for the purpose of firing at duly licensed rifle target concessions at amusement parks, piers, and similar locations provided that the rifles to be so used by firmly chained or affixed to the counter and that the individual rifles are registered by the proprietor and that the proprietor is in possession of a rifle and shotgun permit. This exemption shall not apply to assault weapons.

i. (1) Non-residents in transit. Any other provision of this chapter to the contrary notwithstanding, a non-resident of the city of New York who, without a rifle and shotgun permit issued hereunder, enters the city of New York possessing a rifle or shotgun in the course of transit to a destination outside the city of New York, or a non-resident of the city of New York who enters the city of New York possessing an assault weapon in the course of transit to a destination outside the city of New York, shall have a period of twenty-four hours subsequent to such entering to be exempt from penalty under this chapter for the unlawful possession of a rifle, shotgun or assault weapon, provided that such rifle, shotgun or assault weapon shall at all times be unloaded and in a locked case, or locked automobile trunk, and that said non-resident is lawfully in possession of said rifle, shotgun or assault weapon according to the laws of his or her place of residence.

(2) Non-residents purchasing a rifle or shotgun from a licensed dealer. Any other provision of this chapter notwithstanding, a non-resident of the city of New York may purchase a rifle or shotgun from a licensed dealer provided that he or she presents the dealer with documentary evidence of his or her identity and place of residence, and the rifle or shotgun purchased is either personally delivered to the purchaser or transmitted by the dealer directly to the purchaser's residence. In the event the purchaser is traveling from the city by rail, ship or plane, the dealer is hereby authorized to deliver such rifle or shotgun at the appropriate terminal to a representative of the railroad, airline or shipping company, for placement aboard such train, plane or ship. If the rifle or shotgun is personally delivered to the non-resident purchaser within the city of New York, the purchaser shall have the rifle or shotgun removed from the city no later than twenty-four hours after the time of purchase. This exemption shall not apply to assault weapons.

j. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to be a prohibition of the conduct of business by manufacturers, wholesale dealers, interstate shippers, or any other individuals or firms properly licensed by the federal government, where such prohibition would be preempted by federal law.

k. Special theatrical permit. Nothing herein contained is intended to prevent the possession or utilization of any rifle, shotgun or assault weapon during the course of any television, movie, stage or other similar theatrical production, or by a professional photographer in the pursuance of his or her profession, provided however, that the rifle or shotgun so used shall be properly registered and a special theatrical permit shall have been issued for the rifle, shot- gun or assault weapon pursuant to rules established by the com- missioner.

l. Persons in possession of, using or transporting rifles which have been issued by the director of civilian marksmanship of the department of the army, pursuant to the provisions of ten U.S.C.A., sections 4307-4309, unto a civilian rifle club, or unto a rifle team representing an educational institution, provided that such persons are members in good standing of an accredited civilian rifle club, or are connected as students or coaches with such educational institution, shall not be required to obtain a certificate of registration for such rifle. This exemption shall not apply to assault weapons.

m. Any resident of the city of New York acquiring a rifle or shotgun outside the city of New York shall within seventy-two hours after bringing such weapon into the city make application for a rifle and shotgun permit, if such person does not already possess such permit, and for a certificate of registration.

Pending the issuance of such permit and/or certificate of registration such resident shall deposit such weapon with a designated officer, at the police precinct in which such person resides, who shall issue a receipt therefor and said weapon shall be retained at the precinct until the resident shall produce the proper permit and registration certificate. This exemption shall not apply to assault weapons.

n. The provisions of section 10-303 of this chapter shall not apply to persons who are members of units of war veterans organizations, which organizations are duly recognized by the veterans administration, pursuant to section three thousand four hundred two of title thirty-eight of the United States code, and who are specifically designated to carry rifles or shotguns by the commanders of said units, while actually participating in, going to or returning from, special events authorized by the commissioner. Said rifles or shotguns, to be carried, must be the property of the unit of the war veterans organization, must be registered with the police commissioner pursuant to section 10-304 of this chapter and must be kept at the unit's headquarters or some central place as registered.

o. Nothing herein shall exempt a member of a unit of a war veterans organization from possessing a permit issued pursuant to section 10-303, to carry rifles or shotguns which are not the property of a war veterans organization; nor shall that member be exempt from registering such rifles or shotguns, pursuant to section 10-304, which said member may personally own, possess or purchase.

p. Any gunsmith licensed pursuant to section 10-302 may engage in the business of gunsmith as authorized by such license.

q. Notwithstanding the provisions of this chapter prohibiting the possession or disposition of assault weapons, a special theatrical dealer may possess such weapons exclusively for the purpose of leasing such weapons to special theatrical permittees within the city and for theatrical purposes outside the city and may, in addition, with the written approval of the commissioner, permanently remove one or more assault weapons from the city.

§ 10-306 Disposition, purchase and possession of ammunition and ammunition feeding devices.

a. No person, except a dealer in rifles and shotguns, may dispose of to another person an ammunition feeding device which is designed for use in a rifle or shotgun and which is capable of holding more than five rounds of rifle or shotgun ammunition, except in the manner provided in this chapter for the disposition of assault weapons, provided that a person in lawful possession of such ammunition feeding devices may dispose of such ammunition feeding devices to a dealer in rifles and shotguns. No dealer in rifles and shotguns may dispose of such ammunition feeding devices except to a person who is exempt from subdivision a of section 10-303.1 pursuant to section 10-305.

b. No person may possess an ammunition feeding device which is designed for use in a rifle or shotgun and which is capable of holding more than five rounds of rifle or shotgun ammunition, unless such person is exempt from subdivision a of section 10-303.1 pursuant to section 10-305, provided that a dealer in rifles and shotguns may possess such ammunition feeding devices for the purpose of disposition authorized pursuant to subdivision a of this section.

c. No ammunition suitable for use in a rifle of any caliber or for any shotgun or ammunition feeding device which is designed for use in a rifle or shotgun and which is capable of holding no more than five rounds of rifle or shotgun ammunition shall be disposed of to any person who has not been issued a rifle and shotgun permit and a certificate of registration and who does not exhibit same to the dealer at the time of the purchase. In no event shall rifle or shotgun ammunition be disposed of to or possessed by any such person except for a shotgun, or for the specific caliber of rifle, for which the certificate of registration has been issued. No ammunition feeding device which is designed for use in a rifle or shotgun and which is capable of holding more than five rounds of rifle or shotgun ammunition shall be disposed of by a dealeer in rifles and shotguns to any person who does not exhibit proof that he or she is exempt from subdivision a of section 10-303.1 pursuant to section 10-305.

d. It shall be unlawful for any person who is required to have a permit in order to possess a rifle or shotgun and who has not been issued such permit to possess rifle or shotgun ammunition or an ammunition feeding device which is designed for use in a rifle or shotgun.

e. A record shall be kept by the dealer of each disposition of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices under this section which shall show the type, caliber and quantity of ammunition or ammunition feeding devices disposed of, the name and address of the person receiving same, the caliber, make, model, manufacturer's name and serial number of the rifle or shotgun for which the purchaser is purchasing ammunition, the date and time of the transaction, and the number of the permit and certificate exhibited or description of the proof of exemption exhibited as required by this section. Such information shall be made available to all law enforcement agencies.

f. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, ammunition and ammunition feeding devices which are designed for use in rifles or shotguns and which are capable of holding no more than five rounds of rifle or shotgun ammunition may be disposed of or possessed in the same manner and pursuant to the same requirements, rules and exemptions as apply to disposal or possession of rifles, shotguns or assault weapons under this chapter, provided that a special theatrical permittee may not possess live ammunition suitable for use in the rifle, shotgun or assault weapon such permittee is authorized to possess. Ammunition feeding devices which are designed for use in rifles or shotguns and which are capable of holding more than five rounds of rifle or shotgun ammunition may only be disposed of or possessed in the manner provided in this section.

g. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, any person authorized to possess a pistol or revolver within the city of New York may possess ammunition suitable for use in such pistol or revolver and a dealer in firearms or dealer in rifles and shotguns may dispose of such ammunition to such person pursuant to subdivision i of section 10-131.

h. Dealers in rifles and shotguns and special theatrical dealers may lease ammunition feeding devices which are designed for use in rifles or shotguns to special theatrical permittees. Special theatrical permittees may possess such ammunition feeding devices subject to the same conditions as apply with respect to such permittee's possession of rifles, shotguns and assault weapons.

§ 10-311 Sale of weapons without safety locking device prohibited.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person or business enterprise to dispose of any weapon which does not contain a safety locking device. For the purposes of this section and section 10-312: (1) weapon shall mean a firearm, rifle, shotgun, or assault weapon, as such terms are defined in section 10-301; or a machine gun, as defined in the penal law; and (2) a safety locking device shall mean a design adaptation or attachable accessory that will prevent the use of the weapon by an unauthorized user, and includes, but is not limited to, a trigger lock, which prevents the pulling of the trigger without the use of a key, or a combination handle, which prevents the use of the weapon without the alignment of the combination tumblers.

b. It shall be unlawful for any licensed manufacturer, licensed importer, or licensed dealer to dispose of any weapon in the city of New York unless it is accompanied by the following warning, which shall appear in conspicuous and legible type in capital letters, and which shall be printed on a label affixed to the weapon and on a separate sheet of paper included within the packaging enclosing the weapon: "THE USE OF A LOCKING DEVICE OR SAFETY LOCK IS ONLY ONE ASPECT OF RESPONSIBLE WEAPON STORAGE. ALL WEAPONS SHOULD BE STORED UNLOADED AND LOCKED IN A LOCATION THAT IS BOTH SEPARATE FROM THEIR AMMUNITION AND INACCESSIBLE TO CHILDREN AND ANY OTHER UNAUTHORIZED PERSONS. NEW YORK CITY LAW PROHIBITS, WITH CERTAIN EXCEPTIONS, ANY PERSON FROM ACQUIRING MORE THAN ONE FIREARM, OR MORE THAN ONE RIFLE OR SHOTGUN, WITHIN A 90-DAY PERIOD."

c. Any person who applies for and obtains authorization to purchase a weapon or otherwise lawfully obtains a weapon pursuant to chapters one or three of title ten of this code shall be required to purchase or obtain a safety locking device at the time he or she purchases or obtains the weapon.

d. (1) The police commissioner is authorized to promulgate rules setting forth the types of safety locking devices which will comply with this section in accordance with subdivision a of this section. The city of New York and its agencies, officers or employees shall not be liable to any party by reason of any incident involving, or the use or misuse of, a safety locking device that may have been purchased in compliance with such rules promulgated by the commissioner.

(2) The police commissioner shall provide written notice of the requirements of this section and section 10-312 to all persons who receive an official authorization to purchase a weapon and all persons applying for renewal of a license or permit issued pursuant to chapters one or three of title ten, including any rules promulgated under this subdivision. All persons applying for a license or permit or applying for the renewal of a license or permit pursuant to chapters one or three of title ten of this code, shall receive from the commissioner information concerning the importance of using a safety locking device while a weapon is not in use, and a warning that weapons should be stored unloaded and locked in a location that is both separate from their ammunition and inaccessible to [their] children and any other unauthorized persons.

e. Any violation of subdivisions a or b of this section or any rule promulgated thereunder shall be a misdemeanor and triable by a judge of the criminal court of the city of New York and punishable by imprisonment of not more than thirty days or by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or both.

§ 10-403 Civil cause of action.

Except as otherwise provided by law, any person claiming to be injured by an individual who commits a crime of violence as defined in section 10-402 of this chapter, shall have a cause of action against such individual in any court of competent jurisdiction for any or all of the following relief:

1. compensatory and punitive damages;
2. injunctive and declaratory relief;
3. attorneys' fees and costs;
4. such other relief as a court may deem appropriate.

CHAPTER 4 ACTIONS BY VICTIMS OF VIOLENT CRIME

a. A civil action under this chapter must be commenced within six years after the alleged crime of violence as defined in section 10-402 of this chapter occurred. If, however, due to injury or disability resulting from an act or acts giving rise to a cause of action under this chapter, or due to infancy as defined in the civil procedure law and rules, a person entitled to commence an action under this chapter is unable to do so at the time such cause of action accrues, then the time within which the action must be commenced shall be extended to six years after the inability to commence the action ceases.

b. Nothing in this section requires a prior criminal complaint, prosecution or conviction to establish the elements of a cause of action under this chapter.

CHAPTER 5 DISCLOSURE OF SECURITY BREACH*37

§ 10-501 Definitions.

For the purposes of this chapter,

a. The term "personal identifying information" shall mean any person's date of birth, social security number, driver's license number, non-driver photo identification card number, financial services account number or code, savings account number or code, checking account number or code, brokerage account number or code, credit card account number or code, debit card number or code, automated teller machine number or code, personal identification number, mother's maiden name, computer system password, electronic signature or unique biometric data that is a fingerprint, voice print, retinal image or iris image of another person. This term shall apply to all such data, notwithstanding the method by which such information is maintained.

b. The term "breach of security" shall mean the unauthorized disclosure or use by an employee or agent of an agency, or the unauthorized possession by someone other than an employee or agent of an agency, of personal identifying information that compromises the security, confidentiality or integrity of such information. Good faith or inadvertent possession of any personal identifying information by an employee or agent of an agency for the legitimate purposes of the agency, and good faith or legally mandated disclosure of any personal identifying information by an employee or agent of an agency for the legitimate purposes of the agency shall not constitute a breach of security.

Section One. Legislative declaration. The Council finds that acts of identity theft are plaguing New Yorkers. Federal Trade Commission statistics indicate that identity theft has become the single most common consumer fraud complaint in the nation. New York City residents are as likely to be victimized by identity theft as the citizens of many cities within the United States.

The Council finds that identity thieves often gain control of victims' sensitive personal information by hacking into computers or otherwise violating the security of data systems. When such unauthorized persons acquire individuals' personal information, they are able to access bank accounts, take control of credit cards, and defraud unsuspecting victims. The Council thus finds that one of the most effective ways to curtail identity thieves is to inform would-be victims that the security of their sensitive personal information has been violated; individuals can then take the steps necessary to regain control of their privacy and finances.

Accordingly, the Council finds it necessary to require City agencies to inform individuals whenever there has been a breach of security with respect to sensitive personal information. Agencies can best serve New Yorkers by making such disclosures expeditiously, while acting in accordance with the procedures of the New York City Police Department and other legitimate law enforcement agents.

§ 10-502 Agency disclosure of a security breach.

a. Any city agency that owns or leases data that includes personal identifying information and any city agency that maintains but does not own data that includes personal identifying information, shall immediately disclose to the police department any breach of security following discovery by a supervisor or manager, or following notification to a supervisor or manager, of such breach if such personal identifying information was, or is reasonably believed to have been, acquired by an unauthorized person.

b. Subsequent to compliance with the provisions set forth in subdivision a of this section, any city agency that owns or leases data that includes personal identifying information shall disclose, in accordance with the procedures set forth in subdivision d of this section, any breach of security following discovery by a supervisor or manager, or following notification to a supervisor or manager, of such breach to any person whose personal identifying information was, or is reasonably believed to have been, acquired by an unauthorized person.

c. Subsequent to compliance with the provisions set forth in subdivision a of this section, any city agency that maintains but does not own data that includes personal identifying information shall disclose, in accordance with the procedures set forth in subdivision d of this section, any breach of security following discovery by a supervisor or manager, or following notification to a supervisor or manager, of such breach to the owner, lessor or licensor of the data if the personal identifying information was, or is reasonably believed to have been, acquired by an unauthorized person.

d. The disclosures required by subdivisions b and c of this section shall be made as soon as practicable by a method reasonable under the circumstances. Provided said method is not inconsistent with the legitimate needs of law enforcement or any other investigative or protective measures necessary to restore the reasonable integrity of the data system, disclosure shall be made by at least one of the following means:

1. Written notice to the individual at his or her last known address; or

2. Verbal notification to the individual by telephonic communication; or

3. Electronic notification to the individual at his or her last known e-mail address.

e. Should disclosure pursuant to paragraph one, two or three of subdivision d be impracticable or inappropriate given the circumstances of the breach and the identity of the victim, such disclosure shall be made by a mechanism of the agency's election, provided such mechanism is reasonably targeted to the individual in a manner that does not further compromise the integrity of the personal information.

CHAPTER 6 GUN OFFENDER REGISTRATION ACT*39

§ 10-602 Definitions.

For purposes of this chapter: a. "Career education" shall have the meaning given in subdivision twenty-four of section two of the education law.

b. "Commissioner" shall mean the police commissioner of the city of New York or his or her designee.

c. "Department" shall mean the police department of the city of New York.

d. "Gun offender" shall mean any person who is convicted, after the effective date of this act, of a gun offense as defined in subdivision e of this section in a court in the city of New York. Convictions that result from or are connected with the same act, or result from offenses committed at the same time, shall be counted for the purpose of this chapter as one conviction. The entry of a plea of guilty, a plea of guilty where the gun offender does not accept responsibility, a plea of nolo contendere, or a verdict of guilty, shall constitute a conviction for purposes of this chapter; provided, however, that any conviction set aside pursuant to law, including any conviction for a gun offense that has been reversed upon appeal, is not a conviction for purposes of this chapter. The term "gun offender" shall not include any person who has been pardoned for all gun offenses by the governor.

e. "Gun offense" shall mean a conviction of criminal possession of a weapon in the third degree in violation of subdivision 4, 5, 6, 7, or 8 of section 265.02 of the penal law or criminal possession of a weapon in the second degree in violation of subdivision 3 of section 265.03 of the penal law.

f. "Higher education" shall have the meaning given in subdivision eight of section two of the education law.

g. "Local correctional facility" shall have the meaning given in paragraph (a) of subdivision sixteen of section two of the correction law.

h. "Secondary education" shall have the meaning given in subdivision seven of section two of the education law.

i. "State correctional facility" shall mean a correctional facility as defined in paragraph (a) of subdivision four of section two of the correction law.

CHAPTER 6 GUN OFFENDER REGISTRATION ACT*39

§ 10-603 Duty to register and to verify.

a. A gun offender shall register with the department at the time sentence is imposed on a form prescribed by the department.

b. Registration as required by this chapter shall consist of a statement in writing signed by the gun offender giving such information as may be required under subdivision c of this section.

c. A gun offender shall, to the extent required by the department, provide the following information to the department:

1. The gun offender's name, all aliases used, date of birth, sex, race, height, weight, eye color, number of any driver's license or non-driver photo ID card, home address and/or expected place of residence.

2. A photograph, updated during the period of registration as described in subdivision d of this section.

3. A description of the offense for which the gun offender was convicted, the date of conviction and the sentence imposed.

4. The name and address of any institution of career education, higher education or secondary education at which the gun offender is or expects to be enrolled or attending, and whether such offender resides in or will reside in a facility owned or operated by such institution.

5. The gun offender's expected place of employment, including name and phone number of supervisor and mailing address of employer.

6. Any other information deemed pertinent by the department.

d. First personal appearance. A gun offender who is required to register shall personally appear at such office as the commissioner may direct within forty-eight hours of (i) release, in the event the gun offender receives a sentence of imprisonment, or (ii) the time sentence is imposed, if such sentence does not include imprisonment, for the purpose of personally verifying such information as may be required under subdivision c of this section with the department. The department may at such time photograph the gun offender. The commissioner may require the gun offender to provide such documentation as the commissioner deems acceptable verifying such information.

e. For a gun offender who is required to register under this chapter and who is a resident of the City of New York, every six months after the gun offender's initial registration date during the period in which he or she is required to register under this chapter the following applies:

1. Except as specified in paragraph 2 of this subdivision, within twenty days of each six month anniversary of the gun offender's initial registration date, the gun offender shall personally appear at such office as the commissioner may direct for the purpose of verifying such information as may be required under subdivision c of this section with the department. The department may at such time photograph the gun offender. The commissioner may require the gun offender to provide such documentation as the commissioner deems acceptable verifying such information.

2. If a gun offender required to register under this chapter who is a resident of the City of New York is confined to any state or local correctional facility, hospital or institution throughout the twenty-day period described in paragraph 1 of this subdivision, such gun offender shall personally appear as required by paragraph 1 within forty-eight hours of release. The department may at such time photograph the gun offender.

f. The department is authorized to maintain in the registry database information other than that specified in subdivision c of this section.

g. Any gun offender shall, within ten calendar days after establishing residence in the city of New York or changing residences within the city of New York, personally appear at such office as the commissioner may direct and there provide verification information as required by this chapter. The commissioner may require the gun offender to provide such documentation as the commissioner deems acceptable verifying the change in residence.

§ 11-103 Bond of commissioner and deputy commissioners of finance.

The commissioner and any deputy commissioner of finance, within ten days after receiving notice of his or her appointment and before the commissioner enters upon his or her office, shall give a bond to the city and to the people of the state of New York in the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, with not less than four sufficient sureties to be approved by the comptroller, conditioned that he or she will faithfully discharge the duties of the commissioner's office and all trusts imposed on him or her by law in virtue of the commissioner's office, including all duties in connection with the tax on mortgages as prescribed by article eleven of the tax law. Such bond shall be deemed to extend to the faithful execution of the duties of the office until a new appointment shall be made and confirmed, and the person so appointed enters upon the performance of the commissioner's duties. In case of any official misconduct or default on the part of such commissioner or any deputy commissioner of finance, or their subordinates, an action upon such bond may be begun and prosecuted to judgment by the city, which, after first paying therefrom the expenses of the litigation, shall cause the proceeds of such judgment to be distributed as shall be lawful and equitable among the persons and objects injured or defrauded by such official misconduct or default of the commissioner or any deputy commissioner of finance or any of their subordinates.

CHAPTER 1 DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

§ 11-105 Agreements with financing agencies or card issuers; payment of fines, civil penalties, taxes, fees, rates, rent, charges or other amounts by credit card.

1. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

a. "Card issuer" shall mean an issuer of a credit card, charge card or other value transfer device.

b. "Credit card" means any credit card, credit plate, charge card, charge plate, courtesy card, debit card or other identification card or device issued by a person to another person which may be used to obtain a cash advance or a loan or credit, or to purchase or lease property or services on the credit of the person issuing the credit card or a person who has agreed with the issuer to pay obligations arising from the use of a credit card issued another person.

c. "Financing agency" means a person engaged, in whole or in part, in the business of purchasing retail installment contracts, obligations or credit agreements or indebtedness of buyers under credit agreements from one or more retail sellers or entering into credit agreements with retail buyers but shall not include a retail seller. The term includes but is not limited to a bank, trust company, private banker, industrial bank or investment company, if so engaged, but shall not include a retail seller.

d. "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation or any other legal or commercial entity.

2. The city may enter into agreements with one or more financing agencies or card issuers to provide for the acceptance by the city of credit cards as an alternate means of payment of fines, civil penalties, taxes, fees, rent, rates, charges or other amounts owed by a person to the city. Any such agreement shall govern the terms and conditions upon which a credit card proffered as a means of payment of a fine, civil penalty, tax, fee, rent, rate, charge or other amount shall be accepted or declined and the manner in and conditions upon which the financing agency or card issuer shall pay to the city the amount of fines, civil penalties, taxes, fees, rent, rates, charges or other amounts paid by means of credit cards pursuant to such agreement. Any such agreement may provide for the payment by the city to such financing agency or card issuer of fees for the services rendered by such financing agency or card issuer pursuant to such agreement, which fees may consist of a discount deducted from or payable in respect of the amount of each such fine, civil penalty, tax, fee, rent, rate, charge or other amount or otherwise as the agreement may provide.

3. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, any agency or department of the city which, pursuant to an agreement entered into under this section, accepts credit cards as a means of payment of fines, civil penalties, taxes, fees, rent, rates, charges or other amounts owed by a person to the city shall be authorized to charge and collect from any person offering a credit card as a means of payment of a fine a reasonable and uniform fee as a condition of accepting such credit card in payment of a fine, civil penalty, tax, fee, rent, rate, charge or other amount. Such fee shall not exceed the cost incurred by the agency or department in connection with such credit card transaction, which cost shall include any fee payable by the city to the financing agency.

§ 11-115 City collector; appointment; bond.

The commissioner of finance shall appoint the city collector. The city collector, before entering upon the duties of his or her office, shall enter into a bond to the city of New York to be approved by the commissioner of finance and comptroller in the penal sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, which bond shall be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of the office by the officer giving such bond. Such bond shall be a lien on all the real estate held by the collector executing the same, or any surety thereto, within any of the counties in the city at the time of the filing thereof, unless there be named and described in or on any such bond, real estate in one or more of such counties equal in value to the amount of such bond and owned by a surety, in which case the bond shall be a lien on such real estate so described and upon all the real estate of such city collector, and no other, and shall continue to be such lien until the condition, together with all costs and charges which may accrue by the prosecution thereof, shall be fully satisfied, or until such lien be released, not to exceed, however, the period of ten years after the time when the officer who has given such bond shall have ceased to hold his or her office, unless an action thereon has been commenced and shall then be pending.

§ 11-119 City collector; absence; suspension of.

a. In case of inability of the city collector to perform the duties of his or her office by reason of sickness or absence from the city, the commissioner of finance shall designate some suitable person to perform the duties of the city collector's office during such inability or absence, and shall, if the comptroller so requires, take from such person a bond, with sufficient sureties, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

b. If the city collector or any deputy collector shall on any day omit or neglect to furnish to the commissioner of finance or to the comptroller, respectively, the statements and vouchers required in section 11-121 of this chapter, or to make the prescribed daily payments, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance forthwith to suspend him or her from office. In case of such suspension, the commissioner of finance shall appoint a suitable person to perform the duties of the officer so suspended, who shall continue to act as such officer until the person suspended shall be restored or another person shall have been appointed. On making such temporary appointment, the commissioner of finance shall be required to take from the person so appointed a bond, with two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the comptroller and filed with the comptroller, in such penal sum as the comptroller may deem just, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of the office during the continuance of the person appointed therein; and all the provisions of law prescribing the duties of the city collector and deputy collectors shall apply to the person or persons so appointed.

a. The city collector or the deputy collector in each borough office of the city collector shall enter upon accounts, to be maintained in each such office for each parcel of property, the payment of taxes, assessments, sewer rents or water rents thereon, the amount therefor, and the date when paid. The city collector shall daily enter into suitable books to be kept for the purpose of such accounts, such payments and the respective parcels on account of which the same were paid.

b. At close of office hours each day, the city collector shall render to the commissioner of finance or the deputy commissioner of finance in such borough, a statement of the sums so received, and at the same time pay over to such commissioner of finance or deputy commissioner of finance, the amount received on such day. The city collector shall thereupon receive from such commissioner of finance or deputy commissioner of finance a voucher for the payment of such sums which he or she shall exhibit to the comptroller not later than the next succeeding business day.

c. At the close of office hours each day, the city collector shall also furnish a statement to the comptroller who shall file the same in his or her office. Such statement shall indicate in detail such sums so received and the respective parcels on account of which the same were paid. The comptroller shall, on each day, immediately after receiving such statement, compare it with a voucher furnished to him or her by the commissioner of finance indicating the sums which have been paid on such day to the commissioner of finance and if the aggregate amounts thereof shall correspond, shall credit the city collector in his or her books with such amount.

§ 11-124 Conciliation conferences.

a. The commissioner of finance may establish a procedure for providing conciliation conferences for purposes of settling contested determinations of taxes or charges or denials of refunds or credits with respect to taxes or charges imposed under chapter five, six, seven, eight, nine, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-four, twenty-five or twenty-seven of this title, or for the purpose of settling disputes arising from the notification of the refusal to grant, the suspension or the revocation of a license issued pursuant to chapter thirteen of this title. If such a procedure is established, a conciliation conference shall be provided at the option of any taxpayer or any other person subject to the provisions of any of such chapters. For purposes of this subdivision, if the commissioner of finance fails to act with respect to a refund application before the expiration of the time period after which the taxpayer may file a petition for refund with the tax appeals tribunal established by section one hundred sixty-eight of the charter pursuant to subdivision (c) of section 11-529 or subdivision three of section 11-680 of the code, such failure shall be deemed to be the denial of a refund.

b. A request for a conciliation conference shall be made in the manner set forth in rules promulgated by the commissioner of finance and, notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, shall suspend the running of the period of limitations for the filing of a petition with the tax appeals tribunal under chapter five, six, seven, eight, nine, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-four, twenty-five or twenty-seven of this title until such time as a conciliation decision is rendered by the commissioner of finance, or until the person who requested the conciliation conference makes a written request to discontinue or withdraw from the conciliation proceeding.

c. Nothing contained herein shall prevent any taxpayer or any other person who has received a notice of determination, notice of deficiency or notice of denial of a claim for refund from filing a petition with the tax appeals tribunal if the time for filing such a petition has not elapsed.

d. The commissioner of finance is authorized and empowered to make, adopt and amend rules appropriate to the carrying out of this section and the purposes thereof.

§ 11-125 Temporary amnesty program; commercial rent or occupancy tax, utility tax, real property transfer tax and hotel room occupancy tax.

a. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the commissioner of finance shall establish a three-month amnesty program, to be effective during the fiscal year of the city beginning July first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, for all taxpayers owing any commercial rent or occupancy tax imposed by chapter seven of this title, utility tax imposed by chapter eleven of this title, real property transfer tax imposed by chapter twenty-one of this title or hotel room occupancy tax imposed by chapter twenty-five of this title. Such amnesty program shall apply, (1) in the case of the commercial rent or occupancy tax, to tax liabilities for tax periods ending on or before May thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-three, (2) in the case of the utility tax, to tax liabilities for tax periods ending on or before March thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, (3) in the case of the real property transfer tax, to tax liabilities arising out of taxable events occurring before April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four and (4) in the case of the hotel room occupancy tax, to tax liabilities for tax periods ending on or before February twenty-eighth, nineteen hundred ninety-four. Amnesty tax return forms shall be in a form prescribed by the commissioner of finance and shall provide for specifications by the taxpayer of the tax and the taxable period or taxable event for which amnesty is being sought. The taxpayer must also provide such additional information as is required by the commissioner of finance. Amnesty shall be granted only for the tax and taxable periods or taxable events specified by the taxpayer on such forms (hereinafter referred to as "designated taxes").

b. Such amnesty program shall provide that upon written application by any taxpayer, and upon evidence of payment to the city of New York by such taxpayer of all designated taxes plus interest, the commissioner of finance shall waive any penalties which may be applicable, and no civil, administrative or criminal action or proceeding shall be brought against the taxpayer relating to the designated taxes plus interest. Failure to pay all designated taxes plus interest shall invalidate any amnesty granted pursuant to this section.

c. Amnesty shall not be granted to any taxpayer who is the subject of any criminal investigation being conducted by any agency of the city of New York or of the state of New York or any political subdivision thereof or to any taxpayer who is a party to any civil or criminal litigation which is pending on the date of the taxpayer's application in any court of this state or the United States for nonpayment, delinquency or fraud in relation to any of the designated taxes plus interest. A civil litigation shall not be deemed to be pending if the taxpayer withdraws from such litigation prior to the granting of amnesty.

d. No refund or credit shall be granted of any penalty paid prior to the time the taxpayer makes a request for amnesty pursuant to subdivision b of this section.

e. Unless the commissioner of finance on his or her own motion redetermines the amount of designated taxes plus interest, no refund or credit shall be granted of any designated taxes plus interest paid under this amnesty program.

f. The commissioner of finance shall formulate such rules as are necessary, issue forms and instructions, and take any and all other actions necessary to implement the provisions of this section. The commissioner of finance shall publicize the amnesty program provided for herein so as to maximize public awareness of and participation in such program.

g. For purposes of this section, the term "taxpayer" shall include any person liable for payment of any tax specified in subdivision a of this section.

h. For purposes of this section, the amnesty tax return forms and other documents filed by taxpayers for purposes of chapter seven, eleven, twenty-one or twenty-five of this title shall be deemed to be reports or returns referred to in section 11-716, 11-1116, 11-2115 or 11-2516, respectively, of this title.

CHAPTER 1 DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

§ 11-127 Temporary amnesty program; chapters five, six, seven, eight, nine, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, twenty-one, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven of this title.

a. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the commissioner of finance shall establish a three-month amnesty program, to be effective during the fiscal year of the city beginning July first, two thousand three for taxpayers owing taxes or charges imposed, or formerly imposed by the above enumerated chapters of this title. Such amnesty program shall apply to tax liabilities for taxable periods ending, or transactions occurring, on or before December thirty-first, two thousand one. Amnesty applications and tax return forms shall be in a form prescribed by the commissioner of finance and shall provide for specifications by the taxpayer of the tax and taxable period or taxable event for which amnesty is being sought. The taxpayer must also provide such additional information as is required by the commissioner of finance. Amnesty shall be granted only for liabilities for taxes and charges imposed or formerly imposed under the above chapters for the taxable periods or taxable events specified by the taxpayer on such forms (hereinafter referred to as "designated taxes").

b. Such amnesty program shall provide that upon written application by the taxpayer, and upon evidence of payment to the city of New York by such taxpayer of all designated taxes plus interest as provided in subdivision c of this section, the commissioner of finance shall waive any penalties that may be applicable. Such commissioner shall also waive any amount of interest that would be applicable in the absence of this amnesty program in excess of the amount required to be paid pursuant to subdivision c of this section. No civil, administrative or criminal action or proceeding shall be brought against the taxpayer relating to the designated taxes plus interest required by this amnesty program. Failure to pay all designated taxes plus interest required by this amnesty program shall invalidate any amnesty granted pursuant to this program.

c. The interest that is required to be paid under this amnesty program shall be, for each designated tax, the excess of:

(1) interest calculated as provided by this code to the date of payment over

(2) interest, if any, calculated as provided by this code to the date three years prior to the first day of the amnesty program established by the commissioner of finance under this section.

d. If a taxpayer received any benefit either under the amnesty program established by section 11-125 of this chapter, or the amnesty program established by section eighty-four of chapter seven hundred sixty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred eighty-five, with respect to a liability for any tax or charge, such taxpayer shall not be eligible for amnesty under the program established by this section for any liability for that same tax or charge for the same or any other tax period.

e. Amnesty shall not be granted to a taxpayer who is the subject of any criminal investigation being conducted by an agency of the city of New York or the state of New York or any political subdivision thereof; or to any taxpayer who is a party to any criminal litigation that is pending on the date of the taxpayer's amnesty application in any court of this state or the United States, for nonpayment, delinquency or fraud in relation to any of the designated taxes. Amnesty shall also not be granted to any taxpayer that has been convicted of a crime relating to a designated tax. Amnesty shall not be granted to any taxpayer with respect to liabilities for taxes or charges to the extent that the taxpayer's liability for such taxes or charges was the subject of an audit pending with the city of New York department of finance on March tenth, two thousand three. Amnesty shall not be available to a taxpayer for any liability for a designated tax, penalty or interest that is the subject of an existing installment payment agreement on the day this amnesty program begins. Amnesty shall be available to any taxpayer who is a party to an administrative proceeding or civil litigation commenced in the city of New York department of finance conciliation bureau, the tax appeals tribunal or any court of this state and pending on the date of the taxpayer's amnesty application with respect to a matter that is the subject of such proceeding or litigation, provided the taxpayer withdraws from such proceeding or litigation prior to the granting of amnesty and the proceeding or litigation does not involve a matter that was the subject of an audit pending with the city of New York department of finance on March tenth, two thousand three.

f. No refund or credit shall be granted under this program with respect to any penalty or interest paid prior to the time the taxpayer makes a request for amnesty pursuant to subdivision b of this section.

g. Unless the commissioner of finance on his or her own motion redetermines the amount of any designated taxes plus required interest, no refund or credit shall be granted of any designated taxes or required interest paid under this amnesty program.

h. Any return or report filed under this amnesty program is subject to audit verification and assessment as provided by statute. If the applicant files a false or fraudulent tax return or report, or attempts in any manner to defeat or evade a tax under the amnesty program, amnesty shall be denied or rescinded. The waiver of penalties and interest and the prohibition of civil and criminal proceedings provided for in subdivision b of this section, apply only with regard to those designated taxes, interest and penalties for which amnesty was granted. Nothing in this section shall prevent the commissioner of finance from determining a higher amount of tax due than that for which amnesty was granted, provided, however, that such determination shall not invalidate the amnesty that was granted for any designated taxes and interest, paid pursuant to this provision. Penalties may be imposed, interest will not be waived and proceedings will not be barred with respect to any amounts of tax later determined to be due in excess of the designated taxes for which amnesty was granted.

i. The commissioner of finance shall formulate such rules as are necessary, issue forms and instructions and take any and all other actions necessary to implement the provisions of this section. The commissioner of finance shall publicize the amnesty program provided in this section so as to maximize public awareness of and participation in such

j. For purposes of this section, the term "eligible taxpayer" shall include any person liable for payment or collection of any tax or charge specified in subdivision a of this section.

k. The amnesty forms and other documents filed by taxpayers pursuant to this section for purposes of the chapters of this title referred to in subdivision a of this section shall be deemed to be reports and returns subject to the secrecy provisions of such chapters in the same manner and to the same extent as if such forms and documents were reports or returns referred to therein.

1. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, the commissioner of finance may establish a three-month amnesty program to be effective during the fiscal year of the city beginning July first, two thousand three, which may coincide with the amnesty program established under subdivision a of this section, for all operators of hotels having fewer than ten rooms, including but not limited to bed and breakfast establishments and hotels operated in private residences. Such amnesty program shall apply with respect to liabilities for hotel room occupancy tax on hotel room occupancies occurring prior to the day the amnesty program established under this subdivision begins. Except as provided in this subdivision, all of the provisions of this section shall apply to the amnesty program established under this subdivision.

(2) In addition to the other requirements of this section, an operator seeking amnesty pursuant to this subdivision must register as a hotel operator if such person has not already done so. An amnesty program established under this subdivision shall provide that upon submission of such written application and upon evidence of payment to the city of hotel room occupancy taxes and interest as provided in paragraph three of this subdivision: (1) the commissioner of finance shall waive any applicable penalties, and no civil administrative or criminal action or proceeding shall be brought against such operator with respect to the taxes so paid, and (2) the commissioner of finance shall waive any liability of such operator for taxes required to be collected by such operator, and interest thereon, for hotel room occupancies in hotels having fewer than ten rooms, including but not limited to bed and breakfast establishments and hotels operated in a private residence, occurring prior to the first day of the twelfth month preceding the first day of the amnesty program established under this subdivision.

(3) To be eligible for amnesty under this subdivision, an operator shall be required to pay hotel room occupancy taxes, and interest thereon, that such operator was required to collect for all hotel room occupancies in hotels having fewer than ten rooms, including but not limited to bed and breakfast establishments and hotels operated in a private residence, occurring during the period commencing on the first day of the twelfth month preceding the first day of the amnesty program established under this subdivision.

(4) Failure to pay all taxes as provided in this subdivision shall invalidate any amnesty granted pursuant to this subdivision.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision of subdivision e of this section to the contrary, amnesty under this subdivision may be granted to any taxpayer who has an audit pending with the city of New York department of finance on the date of the taxpayer's amnesty application and to any taxpayer who is a party to an administrative proceeding or civil litigation commenced in the city of New York department of finance conciliation bureau, the tax appeals tribunal or any court of this state and pending on the date of the taxpayer's amnesty application, provided the taxpayer withdraws from such proceeding or litigation prior to the granting of amnesty.

CHAPTER 1 DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

a. Definition. "Electronic funds transfer" shall mean any transfer of funds, other than a transaction originated by check, draft or similar paper instrument, which is initiated through an electronic terminal, telephonic instrument or computer or magnetic tape so as to order, instruct or authorize a financial institution to debit or credit an account.

b. Authority. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the department of finance may accept and, as authorized by this section, require payment of real property taxes by electronic funds transfer, and may authorize a designee to accept such payments. The department of finance, or its designee, may take all actions necessary to complete and administer such transactions, including but not limited to requesting and collecting necessary information and the debiting of specified accounts as provided for by this section.

c. Participation. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the commissioner may require the payment of real property taxes by electronic funds transfer for properties with annual real property tax liability equal to or greater than three hundred thousand dollars. The owner of any such real property, or the person or entity authorized by such owner to pay real property taxes on such real property, shall be required to enroll in an electronic payment program to make such payments, including any arrears in real property taxes on such real property, by electronic funds transfer, either by payment initiated by the taxpayer as described in paragraph one of subdivision d of this section or by authorizing the department of finance to debit the relevant account as described in paragraph two of subdivision d of this section.

1. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where a taxpayer pays real property taxes for more than one property by a single payment, and the total annual real property tax liability for such properties is equal to or greater than three hundred thousand dollars, the total annual real property tax liability for such properties shall be used to determine whether the taxes for a property must be paid by electronic funds transfer.

2. (i) Where real property taxes are paid for more than one taxpayer by a single bill or paid by a single entity, including but not limited to a mortgage escrow agent as defined in subparagraph (ii) of this paragraph, if the total amount paid is equal to or greater than three hundred thousand dollars annually, such amount shall be used to determine whether the taxpayer or entity is required to participate in an electronic funds transfer program.

(ii) For purposes of this paragraph, the term "mortgage escrow agent" shall include every banking organization, federal savings bank, federal savings and loan association, federal credit union, bank, trust company, licensed mortgage banker, savings bank, savings and loan association, credit union, insurance corporation organized under the laws of any state other than New York, or any other person, entity or organization which, in the regular course of its business, requires, maintains or services escrow accounts in connection with mortgages on real property located in the city.

d. Electronic payment program. The owner of real property, or other person or entity authorized by such owner to pay real property taxes on real property for which payment must be made by electronic funds transfer under this section, may choose between participating in a taxpayer initiated payment program or an automatic debit program, as set forth in this subdivision and described in rules promulgated by the commissioner of finance.

1. Taxpayer initiated program. In such a program, taxpayers initiate payment by electric funds transfer, including payment by fedwire.

2. Automatic debit program. In such a program, taxpayers authorize the department of finance, or the department's designee as determined by the commissioner of finance, to debit the taxpayer's account for the amounts due.

e. Notification of participation requirements. For taxpayers or entities subject to this section, the department of finance shall mail notice of such requirement to the property owner or other party who has been designated to receive real property tax bills on an owner's registration card filed by such owner. Such notice shall include the date by which the owner or other party designated by such owner to pay real property taxes on the property must enroll in the electronic payment program.

f. Authorization. To administer the payment of real property taxes by electronic funds transfer by automatic debit as described in paragraph two of subdivision d of this section, the department of finance may require that the party responsible for the payment of real property taxes:

1. execute an electronic funds transfer agreement with the department of finance or its designee, on a form approved by the department of finance. Such form may be in a format designated by the commissioner, including an electronic format. The agreement shall require that the taxpayer authorize the department of finance or its designee to debit such account on the last date by which the real property taxes may be paid without the accrual of interest in accordance with applicable law; and

2. furnish the department of finance or its designee with information to enable the department of finance to complete the electronic funds transfer transaction. Such information shall include, but not be limited to, the name and address of the bank from which an electronic funds transfer shall be authorized, the account number from which the paymeent shall be authorized, the American Bankers Association (ABA) routing number of the bank where the taxpayer maintains an account and the borough, block and lot of the real property for which such payments are authorized.

g. Timely payment. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, where real property taxes are required to be made by electronic funds transfer pursuant to subdivision c of this section, payment of real property tax by electronic funds transfer shall be deemed timely and not subject to interest charges if:

1. for taxpayers enrolled in a taxpayer initiated program pursuant to paragraph one of subdivision d of this section, (i) the taxpayer properly initiates payment on the last date by which the real property taxes may be paid without the accrual of interest in accordance with applicable law; and (ii) on the last date by which the real property taxes may be paid without the accrual of interest in accordance with applicable law, such account contains sufficient funds to enable the successful completion of the electronic funds transfer; or

2. for taxpayers enrolled in an automatic debit program pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision d of this section, (i) the department of finance or its designee has been authorized to debit the taxpayer's account on the last date by which the real property taxes may be paid without the accrual of interest in accordance with applicable law; (ii) such account is properly identified; and (iii) on the date such payment is due, such account contains sufficient funds to enable the successful completion of the electronic funds transfer.

h. Charge on returned payments. Where the department of finance or its designee attempts to debit a taxpayer's account pursuant to a valid electronic funds transfer agreement and is unable to successfully complete the electronic funds transfer due to insufficient funds or other cause not attributable to the department of finance or its designee, in addition to any interest accruing from the late payment of taxes in accordance with applicable law, the same fee that is imposed for a dishonored check pursuant to section eighty-five of the general municipal law shall be imposed on the affected real property, and such fee may be collected in the manner provided in such section.

i. Hardship. If a taxpayer is unable to enroll in the electronic payment program required by subdivision c of this section or subsequent to enrollment becomes unable to make payments by electronic funds transfer as required by this section, the taxpayer may seek a waiver by written application to the department of finance that sets forth the reason for such inability. Such waiver may be granted in the discretion of the commissioner of finance, who may consider such criteria as:

1. the hardship, whether financial or practical, created by participation in the electronic funds transfer program for the taxpayer seeking the waiver;

2. the length of time for which the waiver is requested; and

3. any other factors that the commissioner may deem relevant.

The commissioner shall issue a determination, in writing, within ten days of the department of finance's receipt of a waiver request pursuant to this subdivision, but no waiver shall be granted with respect to the payment of any installment of real property taxes that is due within thirty days of the date of the request for a waiver.

j. Confidentiality. The department of finance shall assure the confidentiality of information supplied by taxpayers in effecting electronic funds trasfers in accordance with applicable provisions of law. The provisions of article six of the public officers law shall not apply to any such information furnished by taxpayers subject to the requirements of this section.

k. Failure to pay by electronic funds transfer. 1. With respect to any real property as to which real property taxes are required to be paid by electronic funds transfer under this section, but for which an installment of real property taxes is not paid by electronic funds transfer and is paid instead by any other method, including payment by check, (i) with respect to the first installment that is paid by any other method, including payment by check, the department of finance shall mail a warning notice to the taxpayer setting forth the requirement to make payment by electronic funds transfer and the penalties for failure to do so; and (ii) with respect to each and every subsequent installment that is paid by any other method, including payment by check, the department of finance shall impose a penalty charge in the amount of one percent of the amount of the tax installment that was required under this section to be paid by electronic funds transfer.

2. Any penalty charge imposed under this subdivision shall be a lien against the real property for which the taxpayer failed to make a payment in the manner required by this section, and shall accrue interest at the same rate as is imposed on a delinquent tax on real property, to be calculated to the date of payment from the date of entry. Such lien shall be a tax lien within the meaning of sections 11-319 and 11-401 and may be sold, enforced or foreclosed in the manner provided in chapters three and four of this title.

1. Rules. The commissioner may promulgate rules necessary to implement this section.

§ 11-129 Department of finance statement of account.

a. At intervals determined by the commissioner of finance, the department of finance shall send to owners of real property a statement of account for the property, which shall represent a bill for taxes, charges and assessments, and which shall include, in a manner determined by the commissioner, a description of taxes, charges and assessments that remain unpaid on the property, and payments received by the department for taxes, charges and assessments on the property, and which may include additional information as the commissioner deems appropriate.

b. The statement of account shall be sent to owners who notified the department of a mailing address for such statements, or, if no mailing address has been so provided, to the owner of record at the property address appearing on the assessment roll.

c. Notwithstanding subdivision b of this section, in lieu of mailing the statement of account, the department may send the statement of account by electronic means to any owner whose electronic mailing address is known to the department.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 1 ASSESSMENT ON REAL PROPERTY

§ 11-203 Maps and records; tax maps.

a. As used in the charter and in the code, the term "tax maps" shall mean and include the block map of taxes and assessments to the extent that the territory within the city of New York is or shall be embraced in such map, such ward or land maps as embrace the remainder of such city, and also such maps as may be prepared under and pursuant to subdivision d of this section.

b. Each separately assessed parcel shall be indicated on the tax maps by a parcel number or by an identification number. A separate identification number shall be entered upon the tax maps in such manner as clearly to indicate each separately assessed parcel of real property not indicated by parcel numbering. Real property indicated by a single identification number shall be deemed to be a separately assessed parcel.

In the case of a newly created parcel with any building thereon, no tax lot number or identification number shall be assigned to such parcel unless the commissioner of the department of buildings has certified that the newly created parcel complies with all applicable zoning laws.

c. Parcel numbers shall designate each parcel by the use of three or more numbers, of which one shall be a section or ward number, another a block, district or plat number, and another a lot number. The department of finance may from time to time change the form of the section and blocks, and also the numbers thereof, on the tax maps filed in its office whenever such change of form has been caused pursuant to section one hundred ninety-nine of the charter, and there shall thereafter be delineated and entered upon such maps such new additional sections and blocks and their numbers as necessity may require. Such administration may from time to time change the form of the lots or parcels comprised within any block, and also the numbers thereof, and cause to be shown on such maps the separate lots or parcels of land contained in any new block added thereto and also the lots numbers thereof, according to the general plan employed in the making of such maps.

d. Each separately assessed parcel indicated by an identification number shall be shown by a description, or by inscription of such number on the block map of taxes and assessments, or by other map and description. Such numbers may be altered in the same manner as provided in the preceding subdivision for the alteration of parcel numbers.

e. New tax maps shall be certified by the department of finance and filed in its main office, and substituted for use in its offices and in those of the department of environmental protection with respect to maps affecting the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, instead of the maps theretofore in use therein. All changes and alterations made in the tax maps shall be transmitted within thirty days after such change or alteration to such offices.

f. On or before July first, nineteen hundred sixty-four, the department of finance:

(i) Shall certify and file a map showing the boundaries of each and every tax block and its tax block number in the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens, with the city register, and with the clerks of the counties of New York, Bronx, Kings and Queens,

(ii) Shall certify and file a copy of the tax maps for the year nineteen hundred sixty-four-nineteen hundred sixty-five for the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens with the city register, and

(iii) Shall, not later than July first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, certify and file a copy of the tax maps for the year nineteen hundred sixty-seven-nineteen hundred sixty-eight for the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens respectively with the clerks of the counties of New York, Bronx, Kings and Queens. All changes and alterations made in the block boundary maps and in the tax maps shall be transmitted within thirty days after such change or alteration to such county clerks and city register.

a. On and after July first, nineteen hundred sixty-four, the use of the land maps in the offices of the city register and in the offices of the clerks of the counties of New York, Bronx, Kings and Queens, shall be discontinued, and on and after July first, nineteen hundred sixty-four, reference shall be had to the tax maps for the boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens and to block numbers designated thereon for the purpose of indexing, recording or filing of instruments affecting title or relating to real property in such counties and the tax maps for said boroughs shall be conclusive as to the location of block boundaries and block numbers. The tax map for each borough may be referred to as the land map for the particular county which it affects.

b. Whenever any block boundaries shall be changed or any new or additional blocks of land shall be formed in such counties by the opening or closing of any street, avenue, road, boulevard or parkway or otherwise, the department of finance shall cause such maps to be altered to show the changes in the boundaries of a block and the formation of such new or additional blocks, and to cause such blocks, the boundaries of which have been altered, and such new or additional blocks, to be numbered on such maps with such block numbers as such department may determine. The commissioner of finance, or an officer or employee of the department designated by the commissioner, shall certify and file annually with the register and county clerk in each of such counties a list of the numbers of the blocks, the boundaries of which have been altered, and a list of the numbers of new or additional blocks which have been formed.

c. For the purpose of notice under any of the provisions of law for the recording of instruments affecting or relating to land in such counties, each block shall be deemed to extend to the middle lines of the streets, avenue, roads and boulevards laid out on such land maps fronting and adjoining such block, and shall also be deemed to extend to the exterior bulkhead line or to the exterior line of grants of land under water where water forms one of the boundaries of a block.

d. The word "block", as used in this section designates a plot or parcel of land such as is commonly so designated in the city, wholly embraced within the continuous lines of streets, or streets and waterfront taken together where water forms one of the boundaries of a block, and such other parcels of land or land under water as may be indicated by the department of finance upon such tax maps by block numbers as constituting blocks.

SUBCHAPTER 1 ASSESSMENT ON REAL PROPERTY

§ 11-208.1 Income and expense statements.

a. Where real property is income-producing property, the owner shall be required to submit annually to the department not later than the first day of September a statement of all income derived from and all expenses attributable to the operation of such property as follows:

(1) Where the owner's books and records reflecting the operation of the property are maintained on a calendar year basis, the statement shall be for the calendar year preceding the date the statement shall be filed.

(2) Where the owner's books and records reflecting the operation of the property are maintained on a fiscal year basis for federal income tax purposes, the statement shall be for the last fiscal year concluded as of the first day of August preceding the date the statement shall be filed.

(3) Notwithstanding the provision of paragraphs one and two of this subdivision, where the owner of the property has not operated the property and is without knowledge of the income and expenses of the operation of the property for a consecutive twelve month period concluded as of the first day of August preceding the date of*3 the statement shall be filed, then the statement shall be for the period of ownership.

(4) The commissioner may for good cause shown extend the time for filing an income and expense statement by a period not to exceed thirty days.

b. Such statements shall contain the following declaration: "I certify that all information contained in this statement is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief. I understand that the willful making of any false statement of4 material fact herein will subject me to the provisions of law relevant to the making and filing of false instruments and will render this statement null and void."

c. The form on which such statement shall be submitted shall be prepared by the commissioner and copies of such form shall be made available at the offices of the department in the county in which the property is located. The commissioner may, by rule, require such statement to be submitted electronically in such form and such manner as the commissioner may determine. For good cause, the commissioner may waive any rule requiring electronic filing and may permit a statement to be filed in such other manner as the commissioner may designate.

d. (1) In the event that an owner of income-producing property fails to file an income and expense statement within the time prescribed in subdivision a of this section (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), such owner shall be subject to a penalty in an amount not to exceed three percent of the assessed value of such income-producing property determined for the current fiscal year in accordance with section fifteen hundred six of the charter provided, however, that if such statement is not filed by the thirty-first day of December, the penalty shall be in an amount not to exceed four percent of such assessed value. If, in the year immediately following the year in which an owner fails to file by the thirty-first of December, the owner again fails to file an income and expense statement within the time prescribed in subdivision a of this section (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), such owner shall be subject to a penalty in an amount not to exceed five percent of the assessed value of such property determined for the current fiscal year. Such owner shall also be subject to a penalty of up to five percent of such assessed value in any year immediately succeeding a year in which a penalty of up to five percent could have been imposed, if in such succeeding year the owner fails to file an income and expense statement within the time prescribed in subdivision a of this section (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing). The penalties prescribed in this paragraph shall be determined by the commissioner after notice and an opportunity to be heard.

(2) The tax commission shall deny a hearing on any objection to the assessment of property for which an income and expense statement is required and has not been timely filed.

(3) Where an income and expense statement required under the provisions of this section has not been timely filed, the commissioner may compel by subpoena the production of the books and records of the owner relevant to the income and expenses of the property, and may also make application to any court of competent jurisdiction for an order compelling the owner to furnish the required income and expense statement.

e. As used in this section, the term "income-producing property" means property owned for the purpose of securing an income from the property itself, but shall not include property with an assessed value of forty thousand dollars or less, or residential property containing ten or fewer dwelling units or property classified in class one or two as defined in article eighteen of the real property tax law containing six or fewer dwelling units and one retail store.

f. Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner, any officer or employee of the department, the president or a commissioner or employee of the tax commission, any person engaged or retained by the department or the tax commission on an independent contract basis, or any person, who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any income and expense statement or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any such statement is furnished, to divulge or make known in any manner except as provided in this subdivision, the amount of income and/or expense or any particulars set forth or disclosed in any such statement required under this section. The commissioner, the president of the tax commission, or any commissioner or officer or employee of the department or the tax commission charged with the custody of such statements shall not be required to produce any income and expense statement or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the department or the tax commission. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery to an owner or his or her duly authorized representative of a certified copy of any statement filed by such owner pursuant to this section or to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular statements and the items thereof, or making known aggregate income and expense information disclosed with respect to property classified as class four as defined in article eighteen of the real property tax law without identifying information about individual leases, or making known a range as determined by the commissioner within which the income and expenses of a property classified as class two falls, or the inspection by the legal representatives of the department or of the tax commission of the statement of any owner who shall bring an action to correct the assessment. Any violation of the provisions of this subdivision shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court, and if the offender be an officer or employee of the department or the tax commission, the offender shall be dismissed from office.

g. The commissioner shall be authorized to promulgate rules and regulations necessary to effecuate the purposes of this section.

h. Subdivision f of this section shall be deemed a state statute for purposes of paragraph (a) of subdivision two of section eighty-seven of the public officers law.

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings. The council finds that in determining the assessed value of an income-producing property, the actual income and expenses of the property are a most important factor. At the present time, assessors rarely have these figures for the current period made available to them. If such information were to be made available sufficiently in advance of the making of assessments, the work of the asseessor would be facilitated, assessments would be more accurate, the number of administrative and judicial review proceedings on objections would be lessened, the tax burden would be borne more fairly, and the amount of tax refunds would be substantially reduced.

The council further finds that the newly enacted system of taxation contained in chapter ten hundred fifty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred eighty-five places like income-producing property in one class and all members of such class must share the tax burden of that class equally. However, owners of properties which are underassessed because assessors lack adequate income and expense data profit at the expense of other owners within the class. Full disclosure would provide for a more equitable sharing of tax obligations among class members. The council further finds that inequality is a major cause of complaint regarding tax assessments. Any data which will permit greater precision to the process of assessment will benefit both the taxing authority and the taxpayer.

¶ 1. Local Law No. 24 of the year 1986 was ruled invalid because the notice provisions of § 3-208 were violated. Pursuant to § 3-208, this notice "shall be published in the City Record and in such daily newspaper . . . selected by the Mayor for that purpose". The notice published in the City Record incorrectly indicated the hearing to be held on July 9,

1986. The public hearing was held July 8, 1986 after which the Mayor signed the local law. The error in the City Record was known on July 3 but uncorrected until July 7 when telephone calls were made to certain special interest groups and other messages sent out. There was time to rectify the situation and the one-day notice is a "departure in substance from the formula prescribed by statute".-41 Kew Gardens Associates v. Tyburski, 124 AD2d 553 [1986].

¶ 2. § 11-208.1 requiring owners of income producing property to furnish income and expense statements is constitutional on its face and a valid average of the city's home rule power. No distinctly "personal" financial information is required of anyone. Nor is Local Law No. 63 inconsistent with the State Constitution on equal protection grounds as Kew maintains. Though the law distinguishes between taxpayers based on the size or value of the property, there is a rational basis for such distinction.-Kew Gardens Assn. v. Tyburski, 70 NY2d 325 [1988].

a. A building, other than a commercial building, in the course of construction, commenced since the preceding fifth day of January and not ready for occupancy on the fifth day of January following, shall not be assessed unless it shall be ready for occupancy or a part thereof shall be occupied prior to the fifteenth day of April.

b. (1) A commercial building in the course of construction, commenced since the fifth day of January one year preceding the taxable status date and not ready for occupancy or partially occupied on the taxable status date, shall not be assessed unless it shall be ready for occupancy or a part thereof shall be occupied prior to the fifteenth day of April following the taxable status date.

(2) A commercial building in the course of construction, commenced since the fifth day of January two years preceding the taxable status date and not ready for occupancy or partially occupied on the taxable status date, shall not be assessed unless it shall be ready for occupancy or a part thereof shall be occupied prior to the fifteenth day of April following the taxable status date.

(3) A commercial building in the course of construction, commenced since the fifth day of January three years preceding the taxable status date and not ready for occupancy or partially occupied on the taxable status date, shall not be assessed unless it shall be ready for occupancy or a part thereof shall be occupied prior to the fifteenth day of April following the taxable status date.

c. For purposes of this section, a "commercial building" shall mean a building that is intended to be used, and upon completion is used, exclusively for buying, selling or otherwise providing goods or services, or for other lawful business, commercial or manufacturing activities, excluding hotel services, except that a commercial building may contain a residential component other than a hotel, provided (i) that such residential component is receiving or has applied for and is eligible to receive a partial exemption from real property taxes pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law, or (ii) that such residential component in its entirety, both land and building, is receiving or has applied for and is eligible to receive a full exemption from real property taxes. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, a "commercial building" shall not include any building that is constructed on block 1049, lot 29 as shown on the tax map of the city of New York for the borough of Manhattan as such map was in effect for the assessment roll published in calendar year two thousand.

d. Subdivision b of this section shall not apply to a tax lot that constitutes a part of a building unless the building viewed as a whole is a commercial building as defined in subdivision c of this section.

e. Any building that receives the benefit conferred pursuant to subdivision b of this section that is subsequently determined not to have been a commercial building as defined in subdivision c of this section for any year in which it received such benefit shall have its assessment corrected for any such year. Taxes shall be imposed in the amount that would have applied had the corrected taxable assessed value appeared on the final assessment roll.

§ 11-210 Books of annual record of assessed valuation of real estate indicated by parcel numbers; form and contents.

a. There shall be kept in the several offices of the department of finance, books of the annual record of the assessed valuation of real estate to be called "the annual record of the assessed valuation of real estate indicated by parcel numbers in the borough of.....", in which shall be entered in detail the assessed valuation of each separately assessed parcel indicated by a parcel number within the limits of the several boroughs.

b. The assessed valuation of each such parcel shall be set down in such books in two columns. In the first column shall be stated, opposite each such parcel, the sum for which such parcel would sell under ordinary circumstances if wholly unimproved; and in the second column, the sum for which such parcel would sell under ordinary circumstances with the improvements, if any thereon.

c. Such books shall be prepared in such manner that the assessed valuations entered therein shall be under sections and block headings as may be most convenient for use in connection with the tax maps described in section 11-203 of this chapter.

§ 11-224 Interest on unpaid taxes.

a. If any tax on real estate which shall have become due and payable prior to January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, is unpaid in whole or in part, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such tax or such part thereof, to be calculated to the date of payment at the rate of seven per centum per annum from the date when such tax or such part thereof became due and payable to January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four, at the rate of ten per centum per annum from January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four to May first, nineteen hundred thirty-seven, or at the rate of seven per centum per annum for such period if the comptroller and the commissioner of finance, in their discretion, both determine that the payment of any tax arrears at such reduced rate of interest may operate to save the property upon which such taxes are in arrears from foreclosure or encourage its development or is otherwise in the public interest, at the rate of seven per centum per annum from May first, nineteen hundred thirty-seven to August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine, and from August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of one per centum per month if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land, and from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land.

b. If any tax on real estate which shall have become due and payable after January first, nineteen hundred thirty-four and prior to April first, nineteen hundred thirty-seven, is unpaid in whole or in part, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such tax or such part thereof, to be calculated to the date of payment at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the date on which such tax or such part thereof became due and payable to May first, nineteen hundred thirty-seven, or at the rate of seven per centum per annum for such period if the comptroller and the commissioner of finance, in their discretion, both determine that the payment of any tax arrears at such reduced rate of interest may operate to save the property upon which such taxes are in arrears from foreclosure or encourage its development or is otherwise in the public interest, at the rate of seven per centum per annum from May first, nineteen hundred thirty-seven to August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine, from August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of one per centum per month if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land, and from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land.

c. If any tax on real estate which shall have become due and payable on or after April first, nineteen hundred thirty-seven and prior to August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine is unpaid in whole or in part, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such tax or such part thereof, to be calculated to the date of payment at the rate of seven per centum per annum from the day on which such tax or such part thereof became due and payable to August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine, from August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of one per centum per month if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land, and from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land.

d. If any tax on real estate which shall have become due and payable on or after August first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine and prior to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, is unpaid in whole or in part, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such tax or such part thereof, to be calculated from the date on which such tax or such part thereof became due and payable to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of one per centum per month if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land, and from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land.

e. If any tax on real estate which shall become due and payable at any time on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, shall remain unpaid in whole or in part on the fifteenth day following the date on which the same shall become due and payable, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such tax or such part thereof remaining unpaid on that date, to be calculated from the day on which such tax or such part thereof became due and payable to the date of payment at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand dollars or less, and at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land.

f. If any tax on real estate which shall become due and payable at any time on or after July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, shall remain unpaid in whole or in part on the fifteenth day following the date on which the same shall become due and payable, or if any tax on real estate which became due and payable prior to July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine shall remain unpaid on that date, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such tax or such part thereof remaining unpaid, to be calculated, in the case of any tax which shall become due and payable on or after July first, nineteen hun- dred seventy-nine, from the day on which such tax or such part thereof became due and payable, and in the case of any tax which became due and payable prior to July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, from July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, to the date of payment at the rate of seven per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars or less, and at the rate of fifteen per centum per annum if the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars or, irrespective of the annual tax, if a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land. Any interest accrued prior to July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, pursuant to the preceding subdivisions of this section shall be unaffected by the provisions of this subdivision.

g. No later than the twenty-fifth day of May of each year, the banking commission shall transmit a written recommendation to the council of a proposed interest rate to be charged for nonpayment of taxes on real estate in those cases where the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars or where, irrespective of the annual tax, a parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land. In making such recommendations the commission shall consider the prevailing interest rates charged for commercial loans extended to prime borrowers by commercial banks operating in the city and shall propose a rate of at least six per centum per annum greater than such rates. The council may by resolution adopt an interest rate to be applicable to the aforementioned parcels and may specify in such resolution the date on which such interest rate is to take effect. This subdivision shall not apply to any fiscal year beginning on or after July first, two thousand five.

h. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the recommendation transmitted by the banking commission to the city council relative to the proposed rate of interest to be charged during the fiscal year of the city commencing July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine in the case of nonpayment of real estate taxes, or contained in the resolution adopted by the council in accordance with such recommendation, the council hereby sets the interest rate to be charged during the fiscal year of the city commencing July first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine for nonpayment of real estate taxes at eighteen per centum per annum where the annual tax on a parcel is more than two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars or where the parcel consists of vacant or unimproved land.

i. The interest mentioned in the foregoing subdivisions of this section shall be paid over and accounted for from time to time by such commissioner of finance as a part of the tax collected by him or her.

j. When an installment agreement has been entered into pursuant to any of the provisions of chapter four of this title, during the period beginning on the date this subdivision takes effect and ending April thirtieth, nineteen hundred eighty-two, the commissioner of finance shall, notwithstanding any higher rate of interest prescribed pursuant to applicable law, and unless a lower rate of interest is applicable to a parcel covered by such an agreement, charge, collect and receive interest on the arrears due and payable under such agreement, to be calculated at the rate of ten percent per annum from May first, nineteen hundred eighty-two to the date of payment of each installment. Any interest accrued or accruing prior to May first, nineteen hundred eighty-two shall not be affected by the provisions of this subdivision but shall be charged, collected and received in the manner and at the rates prescribed pursuant to applicable law. Such ten percent rate of interest shall be applicable only if, as of May first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, (i) there has been no default in such agreement, and (ii) all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges are paid as they become due or within the period of grace provided by law. Where an installment agreement has been entered into prior to May fifth, nineteen hundred eighty-two pursuant to the provisions of either paragraph three of subdivision a of section 11-413 prior to March fourteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-nine or of subdivision a of section 11-405 or subdivision h of section 11-409 of chapter four of this title and said agreement is current as to both installment payments and current taxes, assessments and other legal charges, the commissioner of finance, on application of the party who entered into such agreement, may cancel said agreement and enter into a new agreement containing the terms provided on May fifth, nineteen hundred eighty-two. If any such prior agreement is not cancelled as herein provided, any installments due and payable under such agreement on or after May first, nineteen hundred eighty-two shall be subject to interest at the rate and under the conditions set forth above. In the event of any subsequent default or failure to make timely payment of any installment payment or current tax, assessment or other legal charge, the ten percent rate of interest specified in this subdivision shall thereupon cease to be applicable and the commissioner of finance shall thereafter charge, collect and receive interest in the manner and at the rates prescribed pursuant to applicable law.

k. 1. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, but subject to the exception contained in paragraph two of this subdivision, in the case of an installment of tax on real property described in paragraph b of subdivision four of section fifteen hundred nineteen of the city charter, interest shall be charged, received and collected at the rate established pursuant to this section if such installment shall remain unpaid in whole or in part on the date on which it shall become due and payable. This paragraph shall not apply to any installment of tax that becomes due and payable on or after July first, two thousand five.

2. If the tax rate for any fiscal year of the city has not been set by the fifteenth day of June preceding the start of such fiscal year, interest shall not be charged, received and collected with respect to the first installment of tax which is due and payable on the first day of July in such fiscal year if such installment is paid on or before the extended payment date. For this purpose, the term "extended payment date" means the date which falls the same number of days after the first day of July in such fiscal year as the number of days the date such tax rate is set falls after such fifteenth day of June. This paragraph shall not apply to any installment of tax that becomes due and payable on or after July first, two thousand five.

l. No later than the fifth day following the date of enactment of this subdivision in the year nineteen hundred ninety and no later than May twenty-fifth of each succeeding year, the banking commission shall transmit a written recommendation to the council of proposed interest rates to be charged for nonpayment of taxes on real property in those cases in which the annual tax on a parcel, other than a parcel which consists of vacant or unimproved land, is not more than two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars. In making such recommendations, the banking commission shall consider the prevailing interest rates charged for commercial loans extended to prime borrowers by commercial banks operating in the city. In the case of any such parcel with respect to which the real property taxes are held in escrow and paid to the commissioner of finance by a "mortgage escrow agent," as that term is defined in section fifteen hundred nineteen of the city charter, the proposed rate shall be at least six percent per annum greater than such prevailing prime rate, and in the case of all other such parcels, the proposed rate shall be at least equal to such prevailing prime rate. The council may by resolution adopt interest rates to be applicable to the aforementioned parcels and may specify in such resolution the dates on which such interest rates are to take effect. In the event the council does not adopt interest rates as provided in this subdivision, the interest rates otherwise specified in this section shall be applicable. This subdivision shall not apply to any fiscal year beginning on or after July first, two thousand five.

Provisions of L.L. 11/1996 eff. Feb. 5, 1996 and retroactive to Jan. 1, 1996:

A LOCAL LAW

In relation to the grace period for payment without interest of the installment of real property tax with respect to certain real property that is due and payable on January 1, 1996.

Be it enacted by the Council as follows:

Section 1. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provisions of subdivision f of section 11-224 of the administrative code of the city of New York or of any other law, with respect to any real property other than that described in paragraph b of subdivision 4 of section 1519 of the New York city charter, if the installment of real property tax that is due and payable on January 1, 1996 is not paid on or before January 22, 1996, the commissioner of finance shall charge, receive and collect interest upon the amount of such installment not paid on or before such date, to be calculated from January 1, 1996 to the date of payment.

§ 2. This local law shall take effect immediately and shall be retroactive to and deemed to have been in full force and effect as of January 1, 1996.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. In 1981 the city began an in rem tax foreclosure action and petitioner, acting to avoid a final judgment of foreclosure on March 6, 1984, entered into a payment agreement based on unpaid charges as of that date. Ad Cd §11-224(j) provides for a 10% interest rate in installment agreements applying to in rem installment agreements entered into between its effective date and April 3, 1982. Ad Cd §11-224(g) applies to this case entered into in 1984. Matter of Atrect Corp. v. O'Cleiracain, 204 AD2d 627 [1994].

¶ 2. The Commissioner of Finance does not have the authority to reduce the interest rate on real estate taxes due. Maspeth 5718 Assocs. v. City of New York, 292 A.D.2d 453, 739 N.Y.S.2d 414 (2d Dept. 2002).

¶ 3. A court has no power to stop the City's statutory sale of tax liens, absent evidence that the taxes and interest have been paid in full. Moreover, the court does not have the power to reduce the interest rate due on unpaid taxes. Delafield 246 Corp. v. City of New York, 11 A.D.3d 268, 782 N.Y.S.2d 441 (1st Dept. 2004), leave to appeal denied, 4 N.Y.3d 703, 792 N.Y.S.2d 1, 825 N.E.2d 133 (2005).

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 1 ASSESSMENT ON REAL PROPERTY

§ 11-224.1 Interest on unpaid real property tax.

(a) For real property with an assessed value of two hundred fifty thousand dollars or less, if an installment of tax due and payable is not paid by July fifteenth, October fifteenth, January fifteenth or April fifteenth, interest shall be imposed on such unpaid amounts.

(b) For real property with an assessed value of over two hundred fifty thousand dollars, if an installment of tax due and payable is not paid by July first or January first, interest shall be imposed on such unpaid amounts.

(c) Interest rates on tax due and payable on or after July first, two thousand five.

If the council does not adopt interest rates, the rates shall be (a) for real property with an assessed value of two hundred fifty thousand dollars or less, seven percent per annum; and (b) for real property with an assessed value of over two hundred fifty thousand dollars, fifteen percent per annum.

(d) (i) Any tax or part of a tax that became due before July first, two thousand five and remains unpaid after June thirtieth, two thousand five, shall continue to accrue interest until paid at the rate applicable under this section.

(ii) This section shall not apply to interest accrued before July first, two thousand five.

(e) Council adopted rates. By May twenty-fifth of each year, the banking commission shall send a written recommendation to the council of a proposed interest rate to be charged for nonpayment of taxes on real property. The commission shall consider the prevailing interest rates charged for commercial loans extended to prime borrowers by commercial banks operating in the city and:

(i) for real property with an assessed value of two hundred fifty thousand dollars or less, shall propose a rate at least equal to such prevailing prime rate;

(ii) for real property with an assessed value of over two hundred fifty thousand dollars, shall propose a rate of at least six percent per annum greater than such prevailing prime rate.

The council may by resolution adopt interest rates to be applicable to the aforementioned properties and may specify in such resolution the date that such rates will take effect.

(f) If the tax rate for any fiscal year of the city is not set by the fifteenth of June preceding the start of such fiscal year, interest shall not be charged for the first installment of tax which is due on the first day of July in such fiscal year if such installment is paid on or before the extended payment date. For this purpose, the term "extended payment date" means the date which falls the same number of days after the first day of July in such fiscal year as the number of days the date such tax rate is set falls after such fifteenth day of June.

(g) For purposes of this section, property held in the cooperative form of ownership shall not be deemed to have an assessed value of over two hundred fifty thousand dollars if the property's assessed value divided by the number of residential dwelling units is two hundred fifty thousand dollars or less per unit.

§ 11-225 Power of tax commission to remit or reduce taxes.

The tax commission shall have power to remit or reduce a tax imposed upon real property where lawful cause therefor is shown or where such tax is found to be excessive or otherwise erroneous, but such remission or reduction shall be made only with respect to an assessment for which an application for correction has been made pursuant to section one hundred sixty-three of the charter, and no such remission or reduction shall be made when a claim to correct the assessment or recover the tax would be barred by passage of time or other adequate defense, or when, at the time that the determination is rendered, applications for correction or other proceedings are pending to review the assessment of such property for more than one subsequent fiscal year. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, the tax commission shall have no power to remit or reduce a tax pursuant to this section more than five years after the last day on which an application for correction could have been filed to appeal the unlawful or erroneous assessment upon which such tax was based. If such tax shall have been paid the commissioner of finance is authorized to refund or credit the amount of any such remission or reduction granted pursuant to this section. When the correction results from an application for correction made by the board of managers of a condominium, a refund may be paid to the board of managers for distribution to the individual unit owners with the consent of such board and on such conditions as the commissioner deems appropriate.

§ 11-231 Proceeding to review tax assessment; contents of petition.

a. Any person or corporation claiming to be aggrieved by the assessed valuation of real property may commence a proceeding to review or correct on the merits a final determination of the tax commission by serving on the president of the tax commission, or his or her duly authorized agent, a copy of a verified petition as prescribed by law. No such petition shall be accepted unless, prior to the service thereof, an index number has been obtained from the clerk of the county in which the property is located. Within ten days after a proceeding has been commenced as hereinbefore provided, the original verified petition with proof of service shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court in which the proceeding is to be heard.

b. Such review shall be allowed only on one or more of the following grounds, which must be specified in such petition:

1. That the assessment is illegal, and stating the particulars of the alleged illegality, or

2. That the assessment is erroneous by reason of over-valuation, or

3. That the assessment is erroneous by reason of inequality, in that it has been made at a higher proportionate valuation than the assessment of other real property on the assessment rolls of the city for the same year, and for assessments made after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred eighty-one, other real property within the same class as defined in section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, specifying the instances in which such inequality exists and the extent thereof, and stating that the petitioner is or will be injured thereby, or

4. That the real property is misclassified, and stating the class in which it is claimed the property should be classified.

c. The proceeding shall be maintained against the tax commission either by naming the president and the commissioners of the tax commission individually, or by naming the tax commission of the city of New York generally.

d. Such proceeding to review and all proceedings thereunder shall be brought at a special term of the supreme court in the judicial district where the real property so assessed is situated.

e. The justice or referee before whom such proceeding shall be heard may inspect the real property which is the subject of the proceeding.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Inasmuch as the applications for correction of tax assessments made to the Tax Commission failed entirely to specify instances of inequality as required by Tax Law § 290 and Admin. Code § 166-1.0, that ground might not properly be urged as a basis for relief in a subsequent proceeding.-Mathews v. Chambers, 120 (80) N.Y.L.J. (10-25-48) 908, Col. 6 F.

¶ 2. An application for review of the determination of the Tax Commissioner which denied petitioner an exemption from taxation of its real property could not properly be made under Art. 78 of the Civil Practice Act. The New York City Charter provides a complete remedy for review of an assessment claimed to be erroneous because the property is exempt and such jurisdiction is exclusive. Only where the Charter is entirely silent may recourse be had to the Tax Law and the Civil Practice Act.-Matter of National Arts Club, 105 (58) N.Y.L.J. (3-12-41) 1121, Col. 3 M. See also Alwalt Realty Co. v. Boyland, 5 Misc. 2d 1061, 160 N.Y.S. 2d 504 [1957].

¶ 3. Portion of Art. 78 proceeding seeking to judicially review tax assessment was dismissed on the ground of lack of jurisdiction of the court where neither the Tax Commission nor the president and the commissioners of the Tax Commission individually had been made parties.-Paragon Mutual Syndicate Number 5 v. Reichman, 163 (66) N.Y.L.J. (4-7-70) 18, Col. 5 M.

¶ 4. Local Law No. 128 of 1952 which purported to make the filing, with an application for review of a tax assessment, of a verified statement showing income and expenses paid in the operation of the property during the preceding year a prerequisite to review of the assessment is inconsistent with Code § 166-1.0 which sets forth the jurisdictional requirements of a petition to review an assessment and the local law is therefore invalid. The local law was an invalid attempt to restrict the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in reviewing tax proceedings and under Article XVI, § 2 of the State Constitution only the Legislature can control the review of tax assessments.-Matter of 749 Broadway Realty Corp., 3 N.Y. 2d 737, 163 N.Y.S. 972 [1957], aff'g 1 App. Div. 2d 819, 148 N.Y.S. 2d 741 [1956].

¶ 5. Local Law No. 128 of 1952, amending § 163 of the Charter wherein all petitioners seeking to review tax assessments were required to file an income and expense statement held inconsistent with § 166-1.0 of the Admin. Code where, by legislative enactment, the Supreme Court acquired jurisdiction to entertain all tax proceedings upon the presentation of a petition which clearly stated the grounds of objection. Local law held invalid under the Constitution and the City Home Rule Law.-Schayes v. MacDuff, 285 App. Div. 1220, 140 N.Y.S. 2d 764 [1955].

¶ 6. Section 25-a of the General Construction Law, providing that when a certain period of time ends on Sunday or holiday, act may be done on next succeeding business day held not applicable to § 166 of the Charter requiring that tax review proceeding must be commenced before October 25, since that section does not involve any computation of time.-R.R. Heywood Co. v. Boland, 140 N.Y.S. 2d 769 [1955].

¶ 7. The owner of property was a person interested in a proceeding to review the 1954-55 assessment against the property where he had leased the property for 21 years in 1949 but the premises had been surrendered on March 15, 1954 after a petition for review had been filed by the tenant.-373 Realty Corp. v. Tax Commissioners, 133 (115) N.Y.L.J. (6-14-55) 8, Col. 5 M.

¶ 8. While a tax review proceeding everywhere else in the State is commenced by serving a petition and notice, in New York City it is commenced by the service of the petition alone.-Cahen v. Boyland, 1 N.Y. 2d 8, 150 N.Y.S. 2d 5, 132 N.E. 2d 890 [1956].

¶ 9. The president of 53 civic organizations in the Borough of Queens filed a petition for review of real estate assessments in behalf of 32,000 protestees and 250,000 owners of one and two-family houses in Queens. Held: the petition deals largely in generalities and irrelevancies and does not satisfy §§ 163-166 of the Charter or § 166-1.0 of the Admin. Code which set forth specifically the matter in which a review of an assessment may be obtained. There is, therefore, no basis set forth in this petition for a review of any single assessment of the 53 parcels of the named petitioners, or the 32,000 protestees, or of the 250,000 home owners or of the many more thousands of commercial properties contained in this assessment roll.-Matter of Lome, 19 Misc. 2d 803, 192 N.Y.S. 2d 787 [1959], aff'd 11 A.D. 2d 773, 204 N.Y.S. 2d 910 [1960].

¶ 10. The remedy provided for in §§ 163-166 of the Charter and § 166-1.0 of the Code relates only to proceedings involving the correctness of an assessment and does not extend to proceedings for tax abatement under § J41-2.4 of the Code. The latter section does not involve in the slightest the question of the correctness of the assessed amount of property.-Matter of Grossman, 20 Misc. 2d 707, 192 N.Y.S. 2d 557 [1959].

¶ 11. The Supreme Court would not entertain an action by a taxpayer for a declaratory judgment that her assessment was illegal and void, based on the contention that the assessor had not made a personal inspection, since the plaintiff's sole remedy is by a proceeding as set forth in this section.-Cedzich v. The City of New York, 19 Misc. 2d 572, 190 N.Y.S. 2d 741 [1959].

¶ 12. Fact that application for correction of taxes did not conform to requirements of this section which provides for comparison of subject property with other property in the city but sought a comparison with other property situated only in the Borough of Bronx was not a jurisdictional defect, petitioner being allowed to allege as a ground of inequality any ground permitted under the Real Property Tax Law even though seemingly not permitted under this section.-Matter of Rokowsky v. Finance Administrator of City of N.Y., 80 Misc. 2d 80, 364 N.Y.S. 2d 730 [1975].

¶ 13. There is a rational basis for classification of one and two family homes at a different rate of taxation than cooperative apartments.-Clearview Gardens Fourth Corp. v. Michael, 110 Misc. 2d 1022 [1981].

¶ 14. This section is not a legislative authorization for a classified system of assessments in the City of New York and merely authorizes taxpayers who challenge their assessments of real property to present proof of inequality based on the theory that the assessment has been made at a higher proportionate valuation than the assessment of other real property of like character in the same ward or section or that the assessment has been made at a higher proportionate valuation than the assessment of other real property on the city assessment rolls for the same year.-Colt Industries v. Finance Administrator of City of N.Y., 54 N.Y. 2d 533 [1982].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Fractional lessee lacks standing to maintain tax certiorari proceeding pursuant to § 11-231 unless expressly conferred by lease. Assessment must have a direct adverse affect. Petitioner pays rent which includes a variable pro rata share of real property taxes is not an aggrieved party sufficient to challenge tax certiorari. Lease provisions did not provide increase in rent tied to a tax increase.-Waldbaum, Inc. v. Finance Adm., 141 AD2d 10 reversed 74 NY2 128 [1989].

a. Imposition of surcharge. A real property tax surcharge is hereby imposed on class one property, as defined in section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, excluding vacant land, that provides rental income and is not the primary residence of the owner or owners of such class one property, or the primary residence of the parent or child of such owner or owners, in an amount equal to zero percent of the net real property taxes for fiscal years beginning on or after July first, two thousand six. As used in this section, "net real property tax" means the real property tax assessed on class one property after deduction for any exemption or abatement received pursuant to the real property tax law or this title.

b. Rental income, primary residence and/or relationship to owner or owners. The property shall be deemed to be the primary residence of the owner or owners thereof, if such property would be eligible to receive the real property tax exemption pursuant to section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law, regardless of whether such owner or owners has filed an application for, or the property is currently receiving, such exemption. Proof of primary residence and the resident's or residents' relationship to the owner or owners and the absence of rental income shall be in the form of a certification as required by the rules of the com- missioner.

c. Rules. The department of finance shall have, in addition to any other functions, powers and duties which have been or may be conferred on it by law, the power to make and promulgate rules to carry out the purposes of this section, including, but not limited to, rules related to the timing, form and manner of any certification required to be submitted

d. Penalties. 1. Notwithstanding any provision of any general, special or local law to the contrary, an owner or owners shall be personally liable for any taxes owed pursuant to this section whenever such owner or owners fail to comply with this section or the rules promulgated hereunder, or makes a false or misleading statement or omission and the commissioner determines that such act was due to the owner or owners' willful neglect, or that under such circumstances such act constituted a fraud on the department. The remedy provided herein for an action in personam shall be in addition to any other remedy or procedure for the enforcement of collection of delinquent taxes provided by general, special or local law.

2. If the commissioner should determine, within three years from the filing of an application or certification pursuant to this section, that there was a material misstatement on such application or certification, he or she shall impose a penalty tax against the property of five hundred dollars, in accordance with the rules promulgated hereunder.

e. Cessation of use. In the event that a property granted an exemption from taxation pursuant to this section ceases to be used as the primary residence of such owner or owners or his, her or their parent or child, or produces rental income, such owner or owners shall so notify the commissioner.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 1 ASSESSMENT ON REAL PROPERTY

§ 11-239 Real property tax rebate for certain residential property.

1. For fiscal years beginning the first of July, two thousand three and ending the thirtieth of June, two thousand nine, a rebate in the amount of the lesser of four hundred dollars or the annual tax liability imposed on the property shall be paid to an owner or tenant-stockholder who, as of the date the application provided for in subdivision four of this section is due, owns a one, two or three family residence or a dwelling unit in residential property held in the condominium or cooperative form of ownership that is the owner or tenant-stockholder's primary residence and meets all other eligibility requirements of this section. If, with respect to the fiscal year beginning on the first of July, two thousand eight and ending on the thirtieth of June, two thousand nine, an increase in average real property tax rates would otherwise be necessary in the resolution of the city council fixing real property tax rates for such fiscal year pursuant to the charter, then the rebate to be paid for such fiscal year shall be reduced or eliminated as follows: where the sum to be raised by such increase is less than seven hundred fifty million dollars, then such rebate shall be reduced by fifty cents for each dollar of increase, and where the sum to be raised by such increase is seven hundred fifty million dollars or more, then such rebate shall be eliminated. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in sections four hundred twenty-one-a, four hundred twenty-one-b or four hundred twenty-one-g of the real property tax law, an owner or tenant-stockholder whose property is receiving benefits pursuant to such sections shall not be prohibited from receiving a rebate pursuant to this section if such owner or tenant-stockholder is otherwise eligible to receive such rebate. Tenant-stockholders of dwelling units in a cooperative apartment corporation incorporated as a mutual company pursuant to article two, four, five or eleven of the private housing finance law shall not be entitled to the rebate authorized by this section. Such rebate shall be paid by the commissioner of finance to eligible owners or tenant-stockholders in accordance with rules promulgated by the commissioner of finance.

2. Eligibility requirements. a. To qualify for the rebate pursuant to this section (1) the property must be a one, two or three family residence or residential property held in the condominium or cooperative form of ownership;

(2) the property must serve as the primary residence of one or more of the owners or tenant-stockholders thereof; and

(3) the owner must not be in arrears in the payment of real property taxes in an amount in excess of twenty-five dollars for the fiscal year for which the rebate is claimed and all prior fiscal years, and for residential property held in the cooperative form of ownership, there must be no arrears in the payment of real property taxes in an amount in excess of an average of twenty-five dollars per dwelling unit in such cooperative apartment corporation for the fiscal year for which the rebate is claimed and all prior fiscal years.

b. If legal title to the property is held by one or more trustees, the beneficial owner or owners shall be deemed to own the property for purposes of this subdivision.

3. Definitions. As used in this section:

a. "Applicant" means the owner or owners or tenant-stockholder or tenant-stockholders of the property.

b. "Property" means a one, two or three family residence or a dwelling unit in residential property held in the condominium or cooperative form of ownership.

4. Application procedure. Application procedure. a. Generally. An application for a rebate pursuant to this section for the fiscal year beginning the first of July, two thousand three, shall be made no later than the date published by the commissioner of finance in the city record and in other appropriate general notices pursuant to this subdivision, which date shall be no earlier than thirty days after enactment of a state law authorizing such rebate. An application for a rebate pursuant to this section for fiscal years beginning on or after the first of July, two thousand four and ending on the thirtieth of June, two thousand six, shall be made no later than the fifteenth of March of the fiscal year for which the rebate is claimed. An application for a rebate pursuant to this section for fiscal years beginning on or after the first of July, two thousand six, shall be made no later than the first of September following the fiscal year for which the rebate is claimed. All owners or tenant-stockholders of property who primarily reside thereon must jointly file an application for the rebate on or before the application deadline, unless such owners or tenant-stockholders currently receive a real property tax exemption pursuant to section four hundred twenty-five, four hundred fifty-eight, four hundred fifty-eight-a, four hundred fifty nine-c*25 or four hundred sixty-seven of the real property tax law, in which case no separate application for a rebate pursuant to this section shall be required. Such application may be filed by mail if it is enclosed in a postpaid envelope properly addressed to the commissioner of finance, deposited in a post office or official depository under the exclusive care of the United States postal service, and postmarked by the United States postal service on or before the application deadline. Each such application shall be made on a form prescribed by the commissioner of finance, which shall require the applicant to agree to notify the commissioner of finance if his, her or their primary residence changes after receiving the rebate pursuant to this section, or after filing an application for such rebate, if his, her or their primary residence changes after filing such application, but before receiving such rebate. The commissioner of finance may request that proof of primary residence be submitted with the application. No rebate pursuant to this section shall be granted unless the applicant, if required to do so by this subdivision, files an application within the time periods prescribed in this subdivision.

b. Approval or denial of application. If the commissioner of finance determines that the applicant is entitled to the rebate pursuant to this section, the commissioner of finance shall approve the application and such owner or tenant-stockholder shall thereafter be entitled to the rebate as provided in this section. If the commissioner of finance determines that the applicant is not entitled to the rebate pursuant to this section, the commissioner of finance shall mail to each applicant not entitled to the rebate a notice of denial of that application for the rebate for that year in accordance with rules for denial of applications to be promulgated by the commissioner of finance. The notice of denial shall specify the reason for such denial and shall be sent on a form prescribed by the commissioner of finance. Failure to mail any such notice of denial or the failure of any applicant to receive such notice shall not prevent the levy, collection and enforcement of taxes on such applicant's property.

c. Proof of residency. (1) Requests. From time to time, the commissioner of finance may request proof of residency from the owner or tenant-stockholder receiving a rebate pursuant to this section.

(2) Timing. A request for proof of residency shall be mailed at least sixty days prior to the ensuing application deadline. The owner or tenant-stockholder shall submit proof of his, her or their residency in an application to the commissioner of finance on or before the application deadline.

d. Review of submission. The burden shall be on the applicant to establish that the property is his, her or their primary residence and that any other requirements to obtain the rebate are satisfied. If the applicant submits proof of residency on or before the application deadline, and the submission demonstrates to the commissioner of finance's satisfaction that the property is the primary residence of the applicant, and if the requirements of this section are otherwise satisfied, the rebate shall be paid. Otherwise, the commissioner of finance shall discontinue the rebate and, where appropriate, shall proceed as further provided herein.

e. Oath. The commissioner of finance shall have the authority to require that statements made in connection with any application filed pursuant to this section be made under oath. Such application shall contain the following declaration: "I certify that all information contained in this application is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief. I understand that willful making of any false statement of material fact herein will subject me to the provisions of law relevant to the making and filing of false instruments and will render this application null and void." Such application shall also state that the applicant agrees to comply with and be subject to the rules promulgated from time to time by the commissioner of finance pursuant to this section.

5. Discontinuance of rebate. a. Generally. The commissioner of finance shall discontinue any rebate paid or granted pursuant to this section if it appears that: (1) the property may not be the primary residence of the owner or tenant-stockholder who received or applied for the rebate, (2) title to the property has been transferred to a new owner or tenant-stockholder, or (3) the property is otherwise no longer eligible for the rebate. For the purposes of this section, title to that portion of real property owned by a cooperative apartment corporation in which a tenant-stockholder of such corporation resides, and which is represented by his or her share or shares of stock in such corporation as determined by its or their proportional relationship to the total outstanding stock of the corporation, including that owned by the corporation, shall be deemed to be vested in such tenant-stockholder.

b. Rights of owners and tenant-stockholders. Upon determining that a rebate paid or granted pursuant to this section should be discontinued, the commissioner of finance shall mail a notice so stating to the affected owner or tenant-stockholder at the time and in the manner to be provided in rules promulgated by the commissioner of finance. Such owner or tenant-stockholder shall be entitled to seek administrative and judicial review of such action in the manner provided by law, provided, that the burden shall be on the owner or tenant-stockholder to establish eligibility for the rebate.

6. Recovery of prior rebate. If the commissioner of finance determines that the owner or tenant-stockholder was (a) not entitled to a rebate under this section, or (b) that a rebate was paid or calculated in error under this section, then the commissioner of finance shall recover or recalculate such rebate and the amount of the rebate or an amount equal to the difference between the rebate originally paid and the amount to which the owner or tenant-stockholder was entitled shall be deducted from any refund otherwise payable, and any balance of such amount remaining unpaid shall be paid to the commissioner of finance within thirty days from the date of mailing by the commissioner of finance of a notice of the amount payable. Such amount payable shall constitute a tax lien on the property as of the date of such notice and, if not paid within such thirty-day period, penalty and interest at the rate applicable to delinquent taxes on such property shall be charged and collected on such amount from the date of such notice to the day of payment, and such amount payable shall be enforceable as a tax lien in accordance with provisions of law relating to the enforcement of tax liens in any such city.

7. Penalty for material misstatements. a. Generally. If the commissioner of finance determines, within three years from the payment of a rebate pursuant to this section, that there was a material misstatement in an application filed pursuant to this section or in an application filed pursuant to section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law and that such misstatement provided the basis for the payment of a rebate under this section, the commissioner of finance shall proceed to impose a penalty tax against the property of one thousand dollars in addition to recovering the amount of any prior rebate under subdivision six of this section. An application shall be deemed to contain a material misstatement for this purpose when either:

(1) the applicant claimed the property was his, her or their primary residence, when it was not;

(2) the applicant claimed the property was eligible for a rebate pursuant to this section, when it was not; or

(3) the applicant claimed that the applicant owned the property, when the applicant did not.

b. Procedure. When the commissioner of finance determines that a penalty tax should be imposed, the penalty tax shall be entered on the next ensuing tentative or final assessment roll. Each owner or tenant-stockholder shall be given notice of the possible imposition of a penalty tax, and shall be entitled to seek administrative and judicial review of such action in the manner provided by law.

c. Additional consequences. A penalty tax may be imposed pursuant to this subdivision whether or not the improper rebate has been revoked in the manner provided for by this section.

8. Rulemaking. The commissioner of finance shall be authorized to promulgate rules necessary to effectuate the purposes of this section.

9. Non-disclosure. The information contained in applications or statements in connection therewith filed with the commissioner of finance pursuant to subdivision four of this section shall not be subject to disclosure under article six of the public officers law.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-242 Exemption and tax abatement in regard to improvements of substandard dwellings.

a. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings: 1. "Alteration" and "improvement": a physical change in an existing dwelling other than painting, ordinary repairs, normal replacements or maintenance items.

2. "Existing dwelling": a class A multiple dwelling in existence prior to the commencement of alterations for which tax exemption and abatement is claimed under the terms of this section and for which a valuation appears on the annual record of assessed valuation of the city for the fiscal year nineteen hundred fifty-five-nineteen hundred fifty-six.

3. "Start" on alteration or improvement: begin any physical operation undertaken for the purpose of making alterations or improvements to an existing dwelling.

4. "Complete" an alteration or improvement: conclude or terminate any physical operation such as is referred to in the preceding subparagraph, to an extent or degree which renders such building capable of use for the purpose for which the improvements or alterations were intended.

5. "Multiple dwelling": multiple dwellings as that term is defined in section four of the multiple dwelling law.

b. Any increase in assessed valuation resulting from alterations and improvements to existing dwellings to eliminate presently existing unhealthy or dangerous conditions in any existing dwelling or to replace inadequate and obsolete sanitary facilities in any such dwelling, any of which represent fire or health hazards, or to provide central or other appropriate and approved heating, except insofar as the gross cubic content of the building is increased thereby, shall be exempt from taxation for local purposes for a period of twelve years after the taxable status date immediately following the completion of the alterations and improvements, to the extent that such increase in assessed valuation result from the reasonable cost of such alterations and improvements, providing that construction is started after March first, nineteen hundred fifty-five and completed before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred fifty-nine. The asssessed valuation allocated to such dwelling after such alterations and improvements during such period of twelve years, exclusive of the increase in valuation which is exempted, shall not exceed the valuation of the previously existing dwelling appearing on the assessment rolls after the taxable status date immediately preceding the commencement of such alterations and improvements. The assessed valuation of the land occupied by such dwelling and any increase in valuation resulting from alterations and improvements other than those made pursuant to this section, shall not be affected by the provisions of this section.

c. The taxes upon any such property, including the land, shall be abated and reduced by an amount equal to eight and one-third per centum of the reasonable cost of such alterations and improvements each year for a period of nine years commencing with the first tax bill for the first tax year in which the exemption herein provided is effective, but such abatement of taxes in any consecutive twelve-month period shall in no event exceed the amount of taxes payable in such period.

d. The department of buildings shall determine and certify the reasonable cost of any such alterations and improvements and for that purpose may adopt rules and regulations, administer oaths to and take testimony of any person, including but not limited to the owner of such property, may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of such persons and the production of such books, papers or other documents as the department shall deem necessary, may make preliminary estimates of the maximum reasonable cost of such alterations and improvements, may establish maximum allowable costs for specified units, fixtures or work in such alterations or improvements, and may require the submission of plans and specifications of such alteration and improvements before the start thereof. Application forms for the benefits of this section shall be filed with the tax commission between February first and March fifteenth and the tax commission shall certify to the city collector the amount of taxes to be abated and reduced, pursuant to the certification of the commissioner of buildings as herein provided. No such application shall be accepted unless accompanied by copies of certificates of the city planning commission and the commissioner of buildings, as provided in this subdivision and in subdivision e of this section.

e. To the end that alterations and improvements in such property shall interfere as little as practicable with urgently needed public improvements, and the clearance and rebuilding of substandard and insanitary areas, and shall be confined to multiple dwellings which are structurally sound, comply with applicable provisions of law, and are provided with adequate central or other appropriate and approved heating exemption or abatement from taxation hereunder shall be restricted to dwellings which: (1) the city planning commission certify will not unduly interfere with projected public improvements or the clearance and rebuilding of substandard and insanitary areas which certification shall be evidenced by a certificate describing the property involved and shall be issued upon application to such city planning commission in such manner and in such form as may be prescribed by such city planning commission, and (2) which the department of buildings shall certify to be structurally sound, comply with applicable provisions of law and provide central or other appropriate and approved heating, which certification shall be evidenced by a certificate describing the property involved and shall be issued upon application to the department of buildings in such manner and in such form as may be prescribed by such department. Where the improvements and alterations include or benefit that part of a building which is occupied by stores or used for commercial purposes, the cost shall be apportioned so that the benefits of this section shall not be provided for the cost of the improvements or alterations made for store or commercial purposes.

f. Notwithstanding the provisions of the multiple dwelling law, or any local law, ordinance, provisions of this code, rule or regulation, any dwelling to which alterations and improvements are made pursuant to this section and which did not require a certificate of occupancy on April second, nineteen hundred forty-five, may be occupied lawfully after such date upon the completion of such alterations and improvements without such a certificate being obtained, provided, however, that such alterations and improvements shall have been made in conformity with law and the applicable provisions for fire protection required by articles six and seven of the multiple dwelling law.

g. No owner of a dwelling to which the benefits of this section shall be applied nor any agent, employee, manager or officer of such owner shall directly or indirectly deny to any person because of race, color, creed, or religion any of the dwelling accommodations in such property or any of the privileges or services incident to occupancy therein.

h. Each agency to which functions are assigned by this section may adopt rules and regulations for the effectuation of the purposes of this section, and a copy, for each member of the city council, of such rules and regulations shall be filed with the clerk of the city council prior to promulgation.

i. Any person who shall knowingly and wilfully make any false statement as to any material matter in any application for the benefits of this section shall be guilty of an offense punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both.

j. The benefits of this section shall not apply to any multiple dwelling which is not subject to the provisions of the emergency housing rent control law, provided that this subdivision shall not operate to rescind any benefits granted by the tax commission under this section prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight; and further provided that where the benefits herein provided were or are granted by the tax commission on or after July first, nineteen hundred fifty-eight to any multiple dwelling which is decontrolled subsequent to the granting of such benefits, the tax commission shall withdraw such benefits, effective upon the commencement of the first tax year following the tax year in which such multiple dwelling is decontrolled.

¶ 1. Since the fiscal year is January 25 to January 24, an improvement completed March 8, 1956 would first be the basis for an abatement for the fiscal year beginning January 25, 1957.-Holden v. Boyland, 5 Misc. 2d 703, 160 N.Y.S. 2d 383 [1957].

¶ 2. The owner of a multiple dwelling sought an abatement of taxes on the ground that he spent substantial sums for improvement. Upon the failure of the Tax Commission to react favorably, he commenced a proceeding under C.P.A., Art. 78. His petition is dismissed since his only remedy is under Tax Law, § 290 et seq., New York City Charter, §§ 163-166, and Admin. Code, § 166-1.0.-Matter of Alwat Realty Corp. v. Boyland, 5 Misc. 2d 1061, 160 N.Y.S. 2d 504 [1957].

¶ 3. This section as enacted by Local Law 118 of 1955 was amended by Local Law 41 of 1956, which amendment specifically provided that applications for the benefits of the statute shall be accompanied by copies of certificates of the City Planning Commission and the Commissioner of Buildings. Hence, where petitioner's application was not filed until eight months after the amendment had been in effect, without attached copies of the certificates, the Tax Commission properly refused to accept the application.-Kreulen v. Boyland, 8 Misc. 2d 895, 166 N.Y.S. 2d 179 [1957].

¶ 4. The period for filing applications for benefits under this section was set to accord with the administration of taxes generally in New York City. Those dates being between February 1 and March 15.-Kreulen v. Boyland, 8 Misc. 2d 895, 166 N.Y.S. 2d 179 [1957].

¶ 5. Where petitioner completed a substantial part of an alteration plan in July, 1954, then work was suspended for the convenience of tenants, and a modified plan was approved in August, 1956, he was entitled to no exemption with respect to work commenced after March 1, 1955.-In re Harby Realty Corp. (Gilroy), 17 Misc. 2d 76, 188 N.Y.S. 2d 1034 [1958].

¶ 5.1. A petitioner was not denied "due process" because no hearing was held on his application for reconsideration under this section, since the statute makes no provision for a hearing.-Matter of Harby Realty Corporation, 17 Misc. 2d 76, 188 N.Y.S. 2d 1034 [1958].

¶ 6. Before appealing to the Court from a denial of a tax abatement and exemption certificate, a property owner must exhaust his administrative remedies before the Board of Standards and Appeals. The issue was whether he had altered an existing structure or built a new one. Approval of his plans by the Department of Buildings was no assurance that he was entitled to a tax abatement.-In re 534 E. 88th St. Corp. (Crinnion), 122 N.Y.L.J. (12-26-58) 4, Col. 3 M.

¶ 7. The purpose of this section is to aid owners to remove fire and health hazards and to make less burdensome the replacement of inadequate and obsolete sanitary facilities by reducing the cost of these improvements by tax abatement. It was not the intent of the Legislature that, in addition to reduction of costs, the landlords would be entitled to receive rent increases based upon the total expenditures for these improvements. Accordingly, the State Rent Administrator properly modified certain rent increases, previously granted, by reducing the total thereof by an amount equal to two-thirds of the total annual tax remission received by the landlord.-Matter of Aronson, 17 Misc. 2d 71, 188 N.Y.S. 2d 1032 [1959].

¶ 7.1. A landlord was granted a rent increase for repairs prior to the enactment of this section. Thereafter, he was granted a tax abatement on the improvements made. The State Rent Administrator was entitled to reopen the previous rent proceeding and modify the increase granted.-Matter of Semel, 17 Misc. 2d 73, 188 N.Y.S. 2d 398 [1958].

¶ 8. Petitions of 26 taxpayers who charged that the 1959 amendment to this section was invalid, for the reason that the amending bill did not lay on council desks for seven days as provided by § 37 of the Charter, stated causes of action, where it was alleged that the bill enacted December 23, 1958 was not placed on desks of councilmen until December 17, 1958.-Matter of Grossman, 20 Misc. 2d 707, 192 N.Y.S. 2d 557 [1959].

¶ 8.1. The 1959 amendment of this section, which withdrew its benefits from uncontrolled or decontrolled dwellings, was not unconstitutional on the ground that the amendment impaired the obligations of contracts between petitioners and the City, since the City had not entered into any special contract with the petitioners.-Matter of Grossman, 20 Misc. 2d 707, 192 N.Y.S. 2d 557 [1959].

¶ 8.2. The remedy provided for in §§ 163-166 of the Charter and § 166-1.0 of the Code relates only to proceedings involving the correctness of an assessment and does not extend to proceedings for tax abatement under this section. The latter did not involve, in the slightest, the question of the correctness of the assessed amount of property.-Matter of Grossman, 20 Misc. 2d 707, 192 N.Y.S. 2d 557 [1959].

¶ 9. Subdivision k of this section was not validly enacted on December 23, 1958 because the bill had not laid on desks of the council for seven days prior to enactment. However, the allegedly defective enactment was cured by virtue of a curative statute enacted by the Council on September 22, 1959.-Matter of London, 22 Misc. 2d 360, 195 N.Y.S. 2d 550, aff'd 13 App. Div. 2d 479, 214 N.Y.S. 2d 647 [1961].

¶ 9.1. The petitioners contended that subdivision k violated the constitutional provision of equal protection, since owners who completed their alterations prior to July 1, 1958 received tax exemptions at the statutory rate, namely $8\frac{1}{3}$ percent of the cost of the alterations annually for 12 years. They claimed that this distinction was unfair and allowed discrimination against owners who made similar improvements solely on the basis of the time when the improvements were approved by the housing authorities. Held: The subdivision does not violate equal protection of the law. The City Council enacted the legislation to conform to an amendment of § 5-h of the Tax Law. The State law was prompted by recognition that an owner of decontrolled premises could and would get a return for improvements in increased rents. There was no public purpose to be served in giving him an additional inducement. So the statute was amended to prevent the future granting of tax abatement to decontrolled housing.-Matter of London, 22 Misc. 2d 360, 195 N.Y.S. 2d 550 [1959] aff'd 13 A.D. 2d 479, 214 N.Y.S. 2d 647 [1961].

¶ 10. Application for an order directing a tax abatement, pursuant to Admin. Code § J41-2.5 by reason of the structural improvement creating an increased number of family units. Held, denied on the ground that such section requires the property to be rent controlled, and it appears that petitioner is entitled to and in fact has an order of decontrol from the rent administrator.-Matter of Alco Realty Corp. (Davies) 145 (101) N.Y.L.J. (5-25-61) 16, Col. 3 M.

¶ 11. Owners of tenements were granted increase in rents because of the installation of a central heating plant. Subsequently they obtained both tax exemption and tax abatement for such installation pursuant to N.Y.C. Admin. Code § J41-2.4 effective for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1960 for a period of nine years and covering 75% of the cost of the improvement. The court valued the property for condemnation purposes by a capitalization of the net income derived from the properties arrived at by considering the gross increased rentals and taking the full amount of taxes without abatement or exemption as an item of expense, and with no added value being given by reason of a tax abatement or exemption.-In re City of N.Y. (Public School 49), 150 (116) N.Y.L.J. (12-16-63) 14, Col. 1 F.

NYC Administrative Code 11-243

Administrative Code of the City of New York

Title 11 Taxation and Finance

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-243 Reextension of exemption and tax abatement in regard to improvements of substandard dwellings.

a. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings: 1. "Alteration" and "improvement": a physical change in an existing dwelling other than painting, ordinary repairs, normal replacement of maintenance items, provided, however, that ordinary repairs and normal replacement of maintenance items, as defined by rules adopted by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section, shall be eligible for tax exemption and tax abatement under this section provided that repairs and maintenance items:

(1) were started and completed within a twelve-month period,

(2) were made to any common area of the dwelling premises concurrently with a major capital improvement thereto, as defined by rules adopted by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section, and

(3) require the issuance of a permit for at least one item thereof by any city agency, and

(4) the amount of money expended thereon shall not exceed two times the amount expended on the major capital improvement performed concurrently therewith.

"Alteration" and "improvement" shall also mean "an abatement" of lead-based paint hazards, as defined in part 745 of title forty of the code of federal regulations or any successor regulations in any existing dwelling including any common areas, and shall include an "inspection" and "risk assessment" for lead-based paint hazards, as defined in such part, in a dwelling unit whether such unit is vacant or occupied but shall not include any work performed to comply with a notice of violation issued for a violation of article fourteen of subchapter two of chapter two of title 27 of the administrative code. For purposes of this paragraph, the term, "targeted area" shall mean the geographical area of New York city that is determined by the department of health and mental hygiene to have high rates of children with environmental intervention blood lead levels. The department of housing preservation and development shall establish two schedules of certified reasonable costs for items that are included in an abatement of lead-based paint hazards, one covering such abatement that is performed in an eligible dwelling unit or common area located in the targeted area, and one covering such abatement that is performed in an eligible dwelling unit or common area that is not located in the targeted area. The first such schedules shall be promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development within 180 days of the effective date of this local law and shall be used for any such abatements that are commenced on or after August 2, 2004. Such schedules shall be reviewed by such department biennially following their effective dates and amended as necessary. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or rule, an owner who performs an abatement of lead-based paint hazards pursuant to this paragraph shall not be required to comply with subdivision (y) of this section which provides for filing of a notice of intent form prior to the commencement of work, and no additional fee or penalty shall be due and owing the department at the time of issuance of a certificate of eligibility and reasonable cost for failure to file such notice of intent.

2. "Existing dwelling": except as hereinafter provided in subdivision d of this section, a class A multiple dwelling or a building consisting of one or two dwelling units over space used for commercial occupancy in existence prior to the commencement of alterations for which tax exemption and abatement is claimed under the terms of this section and for which a valuation appears on the annual record of assessed valuation of the city for the fiscal year immediately preceding the commencement of such alterations and improvements.

3. "Start" an alteration or improvement: begin any physical operation undertaken for the purpose of making alterations or improvements to an existing dwelling.

4. "Complete" an alteration or improvement: conclude or terminate any physical operation such as is referred to in the preceding paragraph, to an extent or degree which renders such building capable of use for the purpose for which the improvements or alterations were intended.

5. "Multiple dwelling": multiple dwellings as that term is defined in section four of the multiple dwelling law.

6. "Moderate rehabilitation": shall mean a scope of work which

(a) includes a building-wide replacement of a major component of one of the following systems:

(1) Elevator

(2) Heating

(3) Plumbing

(4) Wiring

(5) Window; and

(b) has a certified reasonable cost of not less than twenty-five hundred dollars, exclusive of any certified reasonable cost for ordinary repairs, for each dwelling unit in existence at the commencement of the rehabilitation; except that the department of housing preservation and development may establish a minimum certified reasonable cost to be greater than twenty-five hundred dollars per dwelling unit pursuant to subdivision m of this section.

7. "Substantially occupied": shall mean an occupancy of not less than sixty percent of all dwelling units immediately prior and during rehabilitation, except that the department of housing preservation and development may establish higher percentages of occupancy pursuant to subdivision m of this section.

8. "Private dwelling" shall mean any building or structure designed and occupied for residential purposes by not more than two families. Private dwellings shall also be deemed to include a series of one-family or two-family dwelling units each of which faces or is accessible to a legal street or public thoroughfare, if each such dwelling unit is equipped as a separate dwelling unit with all essential services, and if each such unit is arranged so that it may be approved as a legal one-family or two-family dwelling.

b. Subject to the limitations provided in subdivision d of this section and the restrictions in this section on conversion of buildings used in whole or in part for single room occupancy, any increase in the assessed valuation of real property shall be exempt from taxation for local purposes to the extent such increase results from the reasonable cost of: (1) the conversion of a class B multiple dwelling to a class A multiple dwelling except insofar as the gross cubic content of such building is increased thereby; or (2) the conversion of any nonresidential building or structure situated in the county of New York to a class A multiple dwelling except insofar as the gross cubic content of such building is increased; or (3) the conversion of any nonresidential building or structure situated in the counties of Bronx, Kings, Queens or Richmond to a class A multiple dwelling except insofar as the gross cubic content of such building or structure is increased thereby; or (4) alterations or improvements to the exterior of an otherwise eligible building or structure visible from a public street pursuant to a permit issued by the landmarks commission with respect to a designated historic or landmark site or structure; or (5) alterations or improvements constituting a moderate rehabilitation of a substantially occupied class A multiple dwelling except insofar as the gross cubic content of such building or structure is increased thereby; or (6) alterations or improvements to an otherwise eligible building or structure commenced after January first, nineteen hundred eighty designed to conserve the use of fuel, electricity or other energy sources or to reduce demand for electricity, including the installation of meters for purposes of measuring the amount of electricity consumed for each dwelling unit, and conversions of direct metering to a system that includes a master meter and submeters in any cooperative, condominium, or housing development fund company organized under article eleven of the private housing finance law; or (7) alterations or improvements to existing dwellings to eliminate existing unhealthy or dangerous conditions in any such existing dwelling or replace inadequate and obsolete sanitary facilities in any such existing dwelling, any of which represents fire or health hazards, including as improvements asbestos abatement to the extent such asbestos abatement is required by federal, state or local law, except insofar as the gross cubic content of such existing dwelling is increased thereby; or (8) conversion of residential units qualified for the protection of article seven-C of the multiple dwelling law in buildings or portions thereof registered with the New York city loft board as interim multiple dwellings pursuant to such article to units which are in compliance with the standards of safety and fire protection set forth in article seven-B of the multiple dwelling law or to units which have a certificate of occupancy as class A multiple dwellings; or

(9) alterations or improvements commenced on or after September first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven constituting a substantial rehabilitation of a class A multiple dwelling, or a conversion of a building or structure into a class A multiple dwelling, as part of a program to provide housing for low and moderate income households as defined by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to subdivision m of this section, provided that such alterations or improvements or conversions shall be aided by a grant, loan or subsidy from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality, including, in the discretion of the department of housing preservation and development, a subsidy in the form of a below market sale from the city of New York; or

(10) alterations or improvements to any private dwelling or conversion of any private dwelling to a multiple dwelling or conversion of any multiple dwelling to a private dwelling, provided that such alterations, improvements or conversions are part of a project that has applied for or is receiving benefits pursuant to this section and shall be aided by a grant, loan or subsidy from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality. Such conversions, alterations or improvements shall be completed within thirty-six months after the date on which same shall be started except that such thirty-six month limitation shall not apply to conversions of residential units which are registered with the loft board in accordance with article seven-C of the multiple dwelling law pursuant to paragraph eight of this subdivision. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a sixty-month period for completion shall be available for alterations or improvements undertaken by a housing development fund company organized pursuant to article eleven of the private housing finance law, which are carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local governmental agency or instrumentality or which are carried out in a property transferred from the city of New York if alterations and improvements are completed within seven years after the date of transfer. In addition, the department of housing preservation and development may grant an extension of the period of completion for any project carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local governmental agency or instrumentality, if such alterations, improvements or conversions are completed within sixty months from commencement of construction. Provided, further, that such conversions, alterations or improvements shall in any event be completed prior to December thirty-first, two thousand eleven. Exemption for conversions, alterations or improvements pursuant to paragraph one, two, three, four, six, seven, eight or ten of this subdivision shall continue for a period not to exceed fourteen years and begin no sooner than the first tax period immediately following the completion of such conversions, alterations or improvements. Exemption for alterations or improvements pursuant to paragraph five or nine of this subdivision shall continue for a period not to exceed thirty-four years and shall begin no sooner than the first tax period immediately following the completion of such alterations or improvements. Such exemption shall be equal to the increase in the valuation, which is subject to exemption in full or proportionally under this subdivision for ten or thirty years, whichever is applicable. After such period of time, the amount of such exempted assessed valuation of such improvements shall be reduced by twenty percent in each succeeding year until the assessed value of the improvements is fully taxable. Provided, however, exemption for any conversions, alterations or improvements, which are aided by a loan or grant under article eight, eight-A, eleven, twelve, fifteen, or twenty-two of the private housing finance law, section six hundred ninety-six-a or section ninety-nine-h of the general municipal law, or section three hundred twelve of the housing act of nineteen hundred sixty-four (42 U.S.C.A. 1452b), or the Cranston-Gonzalez national affordable housing act, (42 U.S.C.A. 12701 et seq.), or started after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-three by a housing development fund company organized pursuant to article eleven of the private housing finance law which are carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local governmental agency or instrumentality or which are carried out in a property transferred from the city of New York and where alterations and improvements are completed within seven years after the date of transfer may commence at the beginning of any tax period subsequent to the start of such conversions, alterations or improvements and prior to the completion of such conversions, alterations or improvements. The assessed valuation of the land occupied by such dwelling and any increase in assessed valuation resulting from conversions, alterations, or improvements other than those made pursuant to this section shall not be affected by the provisions of this section.

b-1. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b of this section, alterations, improvements or conversions of any building or structure that are eligible for benefits pursuant to subdivision b of this section except insofar as the gross cubic content of such building or structure is increased thereby shall be eligible for such benefits insofar as the gross cubic content of such building or structure is increased thereby provided that:

(1) for all tax lots now existing or hereafter created, at least fifty percent of the floor area of the completed building or structure consists of the pre-existing building or structure that was converted, altered or improved in accordance with subdivision b of this section, and

(2) for tax lots now existing or hereafter created within the following area in the borough of Manhattan, such conversions, alterations or improvements are aided by a grant, loan or subsidy from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality: beginning at the intersection of the United States pierhead line in the Hudson river and the center line of Chambers street extended, thence easterly to the center line of Chambers street and continuing along the center line of Chambers street to the center line of Centre street, thence southerly along the center line of Centre street to the center line of the Brooklyn Bridge to the intersection of the Brooklyn Bridge and the United States pierhead line in the East river, thence northerly along the United States pierhead line in the East river to the intersection of the United States pierhead line in the East river and the center line of one hundred tenth street extended, thence westerly to the center line of one hundred tenth street and continuing along the center line of one hundred tenth street to its westerly terminus, thence westerly to the intersection of the center line of one hundred tenth street extended and the United States pierhead line in the Hudson river, thence southerly along the United States pierhead line in the Hudson river to the point of beginning.

(3) For purposes of this subdivision, "floor area" shall mean the horizontal areas of the several floors or any portion thereof of a dwelling or dwellings and accessory structures on a lot measured from the exterior faces of exterior walls or from the center line of party walls.

(4) Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to provide tax abatement benefits pursuant to subdivision c of this section for the costs attributable to the increased cubic content in any such building or structure.

c. (1) Except as provided in paragraphs two, three and four of this subdivision, the taxes upon any real property, including the land, may be abated each year for a period of not more than twenty years by an amount no greater than eight and one-third per centum of the reasonable cost of eligible conversions, alterations or improvements provided in paragraphs one through eight and paragraph ten of subdivision b of this section provided that the abatement in taxes in any consecutive twelve-month period shall in no event exceed the amount of taxes payable in such twelve-month period; and provided further that alterations or improvements pursuant to paragraph four of subdivision b of this section shall only receive the benefits of this section if construction commenced after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight and that in no event shall the aggregate abatement exceed ninety per centum of the reasonable cost of conversions, alterations or improvements provided in paragraphs one, three, four, six, seven, and ten of subdivision b of this section, or exceed fifty per centum of the reasonable cost of conversions pursuant to paragraph one of subdivision b of this section if construction commenced after January first, nineteen hundred eight-two*11 and if such conversions are situated on any tax lots bordering on, or south of, ninety-sixth street in the county of New York to the extent such abatement is not otherwise restricted herein, or exceed fifty per centum of the reasonable cost of conversions pursuant to paragraphs two and eight of subdivision b of this section, or exceed one hundred per centum of the reasonable cost of alterations or improvements pursuant to paragraph five of subdivision b of this section provided that where alterations or improvements pursuant to paragraphs four and six of subdivision b of this section are done in conjunction with a conversion pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision b of this section, the aggregate abatement shall not exceed fifty per centum of the reasonable cost. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the taxes upon real property, including the land may be abated for a period of not more than twenty years at eight and one-third per centum of the reasonable cost of conversion pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision b of this section where construction actually commenced in good faith prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty pursuant to an alteration permit issued by the department of buildings prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty provided that the aggregate abatement shall not exceed ninety per centum of the reasonable cost thereof and provided further that in no event shall the abatement in taxes in any twelve-month period exceed the amount of taxes payable in such twelve-month period. In no event, however, shall the aggregate abatement for conversions, alterations or improvements pursuant to subdivision b of this section exceed such dollar limit per existing class A dwelling unit or additional unit created by conversion to a class A multiple dwelling as may be established pursuant to rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section. Only those items of work set forth in the itemized cost breakdown schedule contained in rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section shall be eligible for tax abatement. Such abatement shall commence on the later of July first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight or the first day of the first tax quarter following the completion of such construction and the filing for benefits as provided in subdivision h of this section except that such period of abatement may commence on the later of the first day of the first tax quarter following commencement of any conversion, alteration or improvement or (i) July first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, if aided by a loan pursuant to article eight of the private housing finance law and completed after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-five; or (ii) July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, if aided by a loan pursuant to article fifteen of the private housing finance law; or (iii) July first, nineteen hundred eighty, if aided by a loan pursuant to article eight-A of the private housing finance law; or (iv) July first, nineteen hundred eighty, if aided by a loan pursuant to section three hundred twelve of the housing act of nineteen hundred sixty-four (42 U.S.C.A. §1452b); or (v) July first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, if started after such date and aided by a loan or grant under article eleven, twelve, or twenty-two of the private housing finance law, section six hundred ninety-six-a or section ninety-nine-h of the general municipal law, or the Cranston-Gonzalez national affordable housing act (42 U.S.C.A. 12701 et seq.); or (vi) July first, nineteen hundred eighty-eight, if started after such date by or on behalf of a company not qualified under any of the above provisions, which is a not-for-profit corporation qualified pursuant to section 501(c)(3) of the internal revenue code and which has entered into a regulatory agreement with the local housing agency requiring operation of the property as housing for low and moderate income persons and families.

(2) In the case of alterations or improvements pursuant to paragraph five of subdivision b of this section which are carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality or any not-for-profit philanthropic organization one of whose primary purposes is providing low or moderate income housing or financed with mortgage insurance by the New York city residential mortgage insurance corporation or the state of New York mortgage agency or pursuant to a program established by the federal housing administration for rehabiliation of existing multiple dwellings in a neighborhood strategy area as defined by the United States department of housing and urban development, the abatement of taxes on such property, including the land, shall not exceed the lesser of the actual cost of the alterations or improvements or one hundred fifty per centum of the certified reasonable cost of the alterations or improvements, as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, and the annual abatement of taxes shall not exceed twelve and one-half per centum of such certified reasonable cost, provided that such abatement shall not be effective for more than twenty years and the annual abatement of taxes in any consecutive twelve-month period shall in no event exceed the amount of taxes payable in such twelve-month period.

(3) In the case of alterations or improvements carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality or any not-for-profit philanthropic organization one of whose primary purposes is providing low or moderate income housing, or financed with mortgage insurance by the New York city residential mortgage insurance corporation or the state of New York mortgage agency or pursuant to a program established by the federal housing administration for rehabilitation of existing multiple dwellings in a neighborhood strategy area as defined by the United States department of housing and urban development where such alterations or improvements are done on property located in census tracts in which seventy-five percent or more of the population live in households which earn fifty percent or less of the median household income of the city, the abatement of taxes on such property, including the land, shall not exceed the lesser of the actual cost of the alterations or improvements or one hundred fifty per centum of the certified reasonable cost of the alterations or improvements, as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, and the annual abatement of taxes shall not exceed twelve and one-half per centum of such certified reasonable cost, provided that such abatement shall not be effective for more than twenty years and the annual abatement of taxes in any consecutive twelve-month period shall in no event exceed the amount of taxes payable in such twelve month period.

(4) In the case of alterations, improvements or conversions pursuant to paragraph nine of subdivision b of this section, the abatement of taxes on such property, including the land, shall not exceed the lesser of the actual cost of the alterations or improvements or one hundred fifty per centum of the certified reasonable cost of the alterations or improvements, as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, and the annual abatement of taxes shall not exceed twelve and one-half per centum of such certified reasonable cost, provided that such abatement shall not be effective for more than twenty years and the annual abatement of taxes in any consecutive twelve-month period shall in no event exceed the amount of taxes payable in such twelve-month period.

d. The benefits of this section shall apply:

(1) to any multiple dwelling which is altered, improved or increased in valuation with aid of a loan provided by the city of New York, the New York city housing development corporation or the United States department of housing and urban development for the elimination of conditions dangerous to human life or detrimental to health, including nuisances as defined in section three hundred nine of the multiple dwelling law, or other rehabilitation or improvement whether or not all of the units thereof were in existence prior to rehabilitation pursuant to the provisions of: (i) article two, eight or eight-A of the private housing finance law provided that such dwelling is made available solely to persons or families of low income as defined in said articles, (ii) article twelve of the private housing finance law, (iii) article fifteen of the private housing finance law or (iv) any federal law where the multiple dwelling is supervised or regulated by the United States department of housing and urban development.

(2) except as hereinafter provided, to any building or structure which is converted to a class A multiple dwelling or to any existing dwelling which is substantially rehabilitated, and further provided that the rents subsequent to conversion or substantial rehabilitation shall not exceed such amount as may be fixed: (i) by the United States department of housing and urban development, (ii) pursuant to the private housing finance law of the state of New York, or (iii) pursuant to chapter three or chapter four of title twenty-six of the code, provided that the initial legal regulated rent for the dwelling units shall be the rent charged and paid by the initial tenant and registered with the New York state division of housing and community renewal. Buildings or structures which are converted to class A multiple dwellings and existing dwellings which are substantially rehabilitated shall contain bedrooms in a number equal to at least fifty percent of the apartments created where an alteration permit has been issued by the department of buildings prior to April first, nineteen hundred eighty and seventy-five percent of the apartments created where an alteration permit has been issued by the department of buildings on or after April first, nineteen hundred eighty provided, however, that if a building or structure is converted from a non-residential use to a class A multiple dwelling and the units therein contain an average floor area of one thousand square feet, such requirement as to the number of bedrooms shall not be applicable and if an existing dwelling is substantially rehabilitated, the seventy-five percent bedroom requirement shall be reduced to the extent its application would necessitate a reduction in the number of units which are contained in the existing dwelling prior to commencement of substantial rehabilitation.

(3) to any multiple dwelling, building or structure otherwise eligible for any of the benefits of this section which:

(i) is operated exclusively for the benefit of persons or families who are or will be entitled to occupancy by reason of ownership of stock or membership in the corporate owner, or for the benefit of such persons or families and other persons or families entitled to occupancy under applicable provisions of law without ownership of stock or membership in the corporate owner, or (ii) is owned as a condominium and is occupied as the residence or home of three or more families living independently of each other; provided, however, that, in addition to all other conditions of eligibility for the benefits of this section, except for multiple dwellings in which units have been newly created by substantial rehabilitation of vacant buildings or conversions of non-residential buildings, the availability of benefits under this section for such multiple dwellings, buildings or structures shall be conditioned on the following: (a) alterations or improvements to at least one building-wide system are part of the application for benefits, and (b) (i) the assessed valuation of such multiple dwelling, building, or structure, including land, shall not exceed an average of thirty thousand dollars per dwelling unit at the time of the commencement of the alterations or improvements, and (ii) during the three years immediately preceding the commencement of the alterations or improvements the average per room sale price of the dwelling units or the stock allocated to such dwelling units shall have been no greater than thirty-five percent of the maximum mortgage amount for a single family home eligible for purchase by the Federal National Mortgage Association; provided that if less than ten percent of the dwelling units or an amount of stock less than the amount allocable to ten percent of such dwelling units was not transferred during such preceding three year period, eligibility for benefits shall be conditioned upon the multiple dwelling, building, or structure having an assessed valuation per dwelling unit of no more than twenty-five thousand dollars at the time of the commencement of the alterations or improvements. Provided, further, that such benefits shall be available only for alterations or improvements commenced on or after June first, nineteen hundred eighty-six.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the benefits of this section shall be available for any alterations or improvements commenced after August seventh, nineteen hundred ninety-two for such multiple dwellings, buildings or structures and shall be conditioned on the following: (1) the application for benefits may include any item of work designated in the rules adopted by the department of housing preservation and development as a major capital improvement or asbestos abatement to the extent such asbestos abatement is required by federal, state and local law; and (2) (i) the assessed valuation of such multiple dwelling, building or structure, including land, shall not exceed an average of forty thousand dollars per dwelling unit at the time of the commencement of the alterations or improvements; and (ii) the average per room sale price of the dwelling units or the stock allocated to such dwelling units shall have been no greater than thirty-five percent of the maximum mortgage amount for a single family home eligible for purchase by the Federal National Mortgage Association during the three years immediately preceding the commencement of the alterations or improvements; provided that if less than ten percent of the dwelling units or an amount of stock less than the amount allocable to ten percent of such dwelling units was not transferred during such preceding three year period, eligibility for benefits shall be conditioned upon the multiple dwelling, building, or structure having an assessed valuation per dwelling unit of no more than forty thousand dollars at the time of the commencement of the alteration or improvement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, benefits shall also be available under this section for work completed in any such multiple dwelling, building or structure within the first three years of its conversion to cooperative or condominium ownership, as evidenced by the date on which the first closing in a condominium to a bona fide purchaser occurs or in the case of a cooperative, the date on which the shares allocable to a unit are conveyed to a bona fide purchaser, provided, however, that the availability of such benefits for conversions, alterations or improvements commenced prior to June first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, except with respect to governmentally assisted projects as defined in regulations issued by the department of housing preservation and development, shall be conditioned upon the completion of such conversions, alterations or improvements within three years after acceptance for filing of the prospectus to establish such cooperative or condominium entity by the attorney general of the state of New York. The maximum amount of tax abatement which may be received in any tax period under this section by any such multiple dwelling, building or structure for any alterations and improvements commenced three or more years after its initial conversion to cooperative or condominium ownership shall be limited to an amount not in excess of two thousand five hundred dollars per dwelling unit of the certified reasonable cost of the alterations or improvements as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and devel- opment.

(3-a) Notwithstanding any contrary provision of paragraph three of this subdivision, the availability of any benefits under this section to any multiple dwelling, building or structure owned and operated by a limited-profit housing company established pursuant to article two of the private housing finance law shall not be conditioned upon the assessed valuation of such multiple dwelling, building or structure, including land, as calculated as an average dollar amount per dwelling unit, at the time of the commencement of the alterations or improvements; provided, however, that such limited-profit housing company (i) is organized and operating as a mutual company, (ii) continues to be organized and operating as a mutual company and to own and operate the multiple dwelling, building or structure receiving such benefits, and (iii) has entered into a binding and irrevocable agreement with the commissioner of housing of the state of New York, the supervising agency, the New York city housing development corporation, or the New York state housing finance agency prohibiting the dissolution or reconstitution of such limited-profit housing company pursuant to section thirty-five of the private housing finance law for not less than fifteen years from the commencement of such benefits. For the purposes of this paragraph, the terms "mutual company" and "supervising agency" shall have the same meanings as set forth in section two of the private housing finance law.

(3-b) Notwithstanding any contrary provision of paragraph three of this subdivision, the availability of any benefits under this section to any multiple dwelling, building or structure owned and operated by a redevelopment company established pursuant to article five of the public housing finance law shall not be conditioned upon the assessed valuation of such multiple dwelling, building or structure, including land, as calculated as an average dollar amount per dwelling unit, at the time of the commencement of the alterations or improvements; provided, however, that such redevelopment company (i) is organized and operating as a mutual redevelopment company, (ii) continues to be organized and operating as a mutual redevelopment company and to own and operate the multiple dwelling, building or structure receiving such benefits, and (iii) has entered into a binding and irrevocable agreement with the commissioner of housing and community renewal of the state of New York, the supervising agency, the New York city housing development corporation, or the New York state housing finance agency prohibiting the dissolution or reconstitution of such redevelopment company pursuant to section one hundred twenty-three of the private housing finance law until the earlier to occur of (i) fifteen years from the commencement of such benefits, or (ii) the expiration of any tax exemption granted to such redevelopment company pursuant to section one hundred twenty-five of the private housing finance law. For the purposes of this paragraph, the terms "mutual" and "supervising agency" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section one hundred two of the private housing finance law.

(4) provided that, in the case of any building or structure: (i) in which conversion, alteration or improvement commences on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, and (ii) which is located in the county of New York within an area designated herein as a minimum tax zone, the benefits of this section shall not be applied to abate or reduce the taxes upon the land portion of such real property, which shall continue to be taxed based upon the assessed valuation of the land and the applicable tax rate at the time such taxes are levied; provided, however, that the foregoing limitation with respect to abatement of taxes shall not apply:

(A) to any multiple dwelling which is eligible for benefits based upon moderate rehabilitation pursuant to paragraph five of subdivision b of this section, or (B) to any multiple dwelling which is governmentally assisted as such term is defined in regulations to be promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section.

(5) provided that in the case of any building or structure: (i) in which conversion, alteration or improvement commences on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, and (ii) which is located in the county of New York within an area designated herein as a tax abatement exclusion zone, the benefits of this section shall not be applied to abate or reduce the taxes upon such real property, which shall continue to be taxed based upon the assessed valuation of the land and the improvements and the applicable tax rate at the time such taxes are levied; provided, however, that the foregoing limitation shall not deprive such real property of any benefits of exemption from taxation of an increase in assessed valuation to which it is entitled pursuant to this section; provided, however, that the foregoing limitation with respect to abatement of taxes shall not apply:

(A) to any alteration or improvement designated as a major capital improvement, by the regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section, provided that the maximum amount of tax abatement which may be received in any tax period under this section by any such multiple dwelling, building or structure for any alterations and improvements shall be limited to an amount not in excess of twenty-five hundred dollars per dwelling unit of the certified reasonable cost of the alterations and improvements as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, or (B) to any multiple dwelling which is governmentally assisted as such term is defined by said regulations.

(6) For purposes of this subdivision, the minimum tax zone in the county of New York shall be as follows: all tax lots now existing or hereafter created within the following designated area or adjacent to either side of any street forming the boundary of such designated area, which area is bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at Central Park West and 86th Street; thence easterly along 86th Street to the East River; thence southerly along the easterly boundary of New York county to 23rd Street; thence westerly along 23rd Street to Third Avenue; thence southerly along Third Avenue to 14th Street; thence westerly along 14th Street to Broadway; thence southerly along Broadway to Houston Street; thence westerly along Houston Street to West Street; thence northerly along West Street to 14th Street; thence easterly along 14th Street to 9th Avenue; thence northerly along Ninth Avenue to 57th Street; thence westerly along 57th Street to the Hudson River; thence northerly along the westerly boundary of New York county to 72nd Street; thence easterly along 72nd Street to Central Park West; thence northerly along Central Park West to 86th Street and Central Park West, which is the place of beginning.

(7) For purposes of this subdivision, the tax abatement exclusion zone in the county of New York shall be as follows: all tax lots within the following designated area or adjacent to either side of any street forming the boundary of such designated area or adjacent to either side of any street designated as included in such area, which area is bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at the intersection of 96th Street and Central Park West; thence easterly to Park Avenue; thence southerly along Park Avenue to the intersection of Park Avenue and 72nd Street; thence easterly along 72nd Street to York Avenue; thence northerly along York Avenue to the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Drive; thence north-westerly along the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Drive to as far as 96th Street; thence easterly to the easterly border of New York county; thence southerly along such border to 34th Street; thence westerly along 34th Street to 8th Avenue; thence northerly, along 8th Avenue and Central Park West as far as 96th Street, which is the place of beginning. Additionally, the following North/South and East/West thoroughfares shall be included in the tax abatement exclusion zone: 96th Street between Central Park West and the East River; 86th Street between Central Park West and the East River; 79th Street between West End Avenue and the East River; 72nd Street between West End Avenue and the East River; West End Avenue from 72nd Street to 86th Street; and Riverside Drive from 72nd Street to 96th Street.

(8) Limitation on benefits. (a) The provisions of this paragraph shall apply to all conversions, alterations and improvements except the following:

(i) alterations or improvements under paragraphs four, six and seven of subdivision b of this section, where carried out:

(A) with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality, or any not-for-profit philanthropic organization one of whose primary purposes is providing low or moderate incoming housing; or

(B) with mortgage insurance by the New York city residential mortgage insurance corporation or the state of New York mortgage agency; or

(D) pursuant to a program established by the federal housing administration, federal national mortgage association, federal home loan mortgage corporation or government national mortgage association for the rehabilitation of existing multiple dwellings for persons of low or moderate income, or a program of mortgage insurance for the rehabilitation of existing multiple dwellings pursuant to section two hundred twenty-three-f of the national housing act as amended, or a program of mortgage insurance established by the federal housing administration for the rehabilitation of existing multiple dwellings for persons of low or moderate income; provided that properties receiving benefits under such programs are located in a neighborhood strategy area, as defined, by the United States department of housing and urban development, or in one of the areas listed in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph.

(ii) alterations or improvements under paragraph five of subdivision b of this section; and

(iii) conversion of residential units qualified for the protection of article seven-C of the multiple dwelling law under paragraph eight of subdivision b of this section.

(b) Abatement limitations. (1) The amount of abatement under subdivision c of this section shall not exceed the certified reasonable cost of the conversion, alteration or improvement, as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, provided that the amount of certified reasonable cost eligible for abatement under this section shall not exceed fifteen thousand dollars for a dwelling unit of three and one-half rooms, as determined under the applicable zoning resolution, and a comparable amount for dwelling units of other sizes, determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, and further provided that the amount of certified reasonable cost eligible for abatement under this section may exceed fifteen thousand dollars or such comparable amount per dwelling unit, but not more than twenty-five percent above such amount, upon application of the property owner and a determination by the department of housing preservation and development that:

(A) in the case of a conversion under paragraph one, two or three of subdivision b of this section, the increased cost is necessary to comply with applicable law; or

(B) in the case of an alteration or improvement under paragraph seven of subdivision b of this section, the increased cost is necessary to eliminate the unhealthy or dangerous conditions or replace the inadequate and obsolete facilities in a satisfactory manner, or

(C) in the case of an alteration or improvement under paragraph six of subdivision b of this section, the increased cost is necessary to conserve energy in a satisfactory manner; or

(D) in the case of an alteration or improvement under paragraph four of subdivision b of this section, the increased cost, to the extent such cost is not offset by any and all tax credits received as a result of the alteration or improvement, is necessary to comply with any provision of law regulating historic or landmark buildings or structures.

(ii) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this subparagraph, and in addition to all other conditions of eligibility for the benefits of this section, the availability of abatements pursuant to subdivision c of this section for any multiple dwellings, buildings or structures not owned as a condominium or cooperative, except for multiple dwellings in which units have been newly created by substantial rehabilitation of vacant buildings or conversions of non-residential buildings, shall be conditioned on the assessed valuation of such multiple dwelling, building or structure, including land, not exceeding an average of thirty thousand dollars per dwelling unit at the time of commencement of the alterations or improvements, provided, however, that such average shall not exceed $40,000 per dwelling unit at the time of commencement of the alteration or improvement for alterations or improvements commenced after the effective date of this local law, which added this amendment.

(c) Exemption limitations. (i) The increase in assessed valuation of the real property resulting from the conversion, alteration or improvement under subdivision b of this section, shall be exempt from taxation as provided in this section, only to the extent provided in this subparagraph, provided that this subparagraph shall not apply to any conversions, alterations or improvements commenced on or after June first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, unless such conversions, alterations or improvements are carried out in buildings or structures located in the borough of Manhattan south of or adjacent to the south side of one hundred tenth street. The amount of the increased assessed valuation that is exempt from taxation shall depend on the amount of the total assessed value per dwelling unit calculated by dividing the amount of the total assessed valuation of the property, as determined under the real property tax law, by the number of dwelling units in the building after completion of the conversion, alteration or improvement. The amount of increased assessed valuation that will be exempt from taxation for buildings with total assessed valuation per dwelling unit of less than thirty-eight thousand dollars shall be calculated pursuant to the following formula: (A) any portion of total assessed valuation of the property attributable to the first eighteen thousand dollars of total assessed valuation per dwelling unit, to the extent it represents increased assessed valuation, shall be one hundred percent exempt; (B) any portion of total assessed valuation attributable to the next four thousand dollars of total assessed valuation per dwelling unit, to the extent it represents increased assessed valuation, shall be seventy-five percent exempt; (C) any portion of total assessed valuation attributable to the next four thousand dollars of total assessed valuation per dwelling unit, to the extent it represents increased assessed valuation, shall be fifty percent exempt; (D) any portion of total assessed valuation attributable to the next four thousand dollars of total assessed valuation per dwelling unit, to the extent it represents increased assessed valuation, shall be twenty-five percent exempt; (E) any portion of total assessed valuation attributable to the next eight thousand dollars of total assessed valuation per dwelling unit, to the extent it represents increased assessed valuation per dwelling unit, shall be fully taxable. Property with a total assessed valuation per dwelling unit of thirty-eight thousand dollars or more shall not be eligible for a tax exemption under this section.

(ii) In calculating the amount of increased assessed valuation that will be exempt from taxation pursuant to the formula in clause (i) of this subparagraph, the full amount of total assessed valuation that does not represent increased assessed valuation shall be applied in such formula prior to the inclusion of any amount of increased assessed valuation.

(iii) Where the real property is occupied in part for residential purposes and in part for non-residential purposes, the assessed valuation of the property shall be appropriately allocated between the residential and non-residential portions. In computing the total assessed valuation per dwelling unit under this subparagraph, only the amount of valuation so allocated to the residential portion shall be considered.

(iv) Commencing with the assessment roll for the year nineteen hundred eighty-four, where there has been a change in the level of assessment from the assessment roll of the prior year of properties receiving exemptions under this section, the department of finance may petition the state board to certify the percentage of such change for the purposes of this section. In such petition, the department of finance shall submit such information as the state board shall require in order to certify the percentage of such change. The state board may also make such a certification on its own motion. Upon receipt of such certification from the state board, the department of housing preservation and development may modify the dollar values of total assessed valuation per dwelling unit in clause (i) of this subparagraph to reflect the percentage change in the level of assessment as shown in such certification. As used in this subparagraph, the term "change in the level of assessment" means the net increase or decrease in the assessed valuation of properties in the assessing unit that received exemptions under this section in the current year as compared to those that received exemptions under this section in the prior year as a result of assessing such properties at a higher or lower ratio of full value.

(v) (A) Notwithstanding the provisions of clause (i) of this subparagraph, the department of housing preservation and development may reduce or remove the limitations on the exemption from taxation provided in such clause with respect to a particular property undergoing alteration or improvement, upon application of the property owner and a determination by such department that the increased benefit will increase the number of dwelling units that will be affordable to persons of low and moderate income, and the increased benefit is necessary to make economically viable units or improvement in the quality of dwelling units that will be affordable to persons of low or moderate income.

(B) As used in this subparagraph, the term "persons of low or moderate income" shall mean persons who would qualify for housing subsidies pursuant to section two hundred thirty-five of the national housing act, as amended, at one hundred thirty-five percent of the income limitations provided therein.

(C) Upon receiving an application under this subparagraph in proper form, the department of housing preservation and development shall immediately submit it to the community board for the area in which the project is located, which may, within forty-five days of receiving it and after a public hearing, make recommendations to the department as to the application. The department shall act on the application within sixty days of receiving it from the property owner in proper form, but not before expiration of the time for the community board to make its recommendations, unless the board has acted sooner.

(d) The department of housing preservation and development may set forth preliminarily the terms of a determination under subparagraph (b) or (c) of this paragraph prior to the commencement of the conversion, alteration or improvement. Any such determination shall take effect after completion of the work in accordance with the terms of the application made by the property owner.

(e) Any determination of the department of housing preservation and development to increase an abatement under subparagraph (b) of this paragraph, or to reduce or remove the exemption limitations under subparagraph (c) of this paragraph shall state the basis for the determination and the data on which the determination was based. Such determination shall be published in the City Record for five consecutive days after the determination is rendered.

d-1. (1) A group of multiple dwellings which was developed as a planned community and which is owned as two separate condominiums containing a total of ten thousand or more dwelling units shall be eligible for tax exemption and abatement as provided in this subdivision.

(2) any increase in assessed valuation resulting from alterations or improvements financed with substantial governmental assistance to one or more multiple dwellings in a planned community described in paragraph one of this subdivision shall be exempt from taxation for local purposes. Such exemption shall be equal to the increase in the valuation which is subject to exemption under this paragraph for thirty years. After such period of time, the amount of such exempted assessed value shall be reduced by twenty percent in each succeeding year until the assessed value of the alterations or improvements is fully taxable. Such exemption may commence at the beginning of any tax quarter subsequent to the start of such alterations or improvements. In no event shall such alterations or improvements directly or indirectly result in an equalization increase in the assessed valuation of any multiple dwelling forming part of the planned community where such alterations or improvements are performed.

(3) the taxes on a planned community described in paragraph one of this subdivision, including the land, may be abated by an amount not to exceed the greater of (i) one hundred fifty per centum of the certified reasonable cost of the alterations or improvements, as determined under the rules of the department of housing preservation and development, and (ii) the construction cost of the alterations or improvements identified in such rules. Such abatement shall not be effective for more than twenty years and the annual abatement of taxes in any consecutive twelve-month period shall not be greater than ten per centum of the total abatement granted and shall not exceed the amount of taxes payable in such consecutive twelve-month period. Such abatement shall begin no sooner than the first quarterly tax bill immediately following the completion of such alterations or improvements. The limitations set forth in the second paragraph of paragraph three of subdivision d of this section for multiple dwellings, buildings and structures owned as condominiums shall be inapplicable to benefits granted pursuant to this subdivision. Abatement benefits granted pursuant to this subdivision shall be apportioned among all of the condominium tax lots within the condominium in which the alterations or improvements are made, although such alterations or improvements may have been made to one or fewer than all of the multiple dwellings therein.

(4) in the event that multiple alterations or improvements are undertaken in a planned community described in paragraph one of this subdivision and separate applications for benefits therefor are made, all requirements concerning physical condition of and compliance with law by the multiple dwellings in such planned community shall apply only upon completion of all such alterations or improvements, provided that all such alterations or improvements are completed within six years.

(5) except as provided in this subdivision, all of the requirements imposed by this section on projects described in subdivision b of this section shall be applicable to alterations or improvements granted benefits pursuant to this subdivision.

(6) this subdivision shall be applicable only to alterations or improvements completed prior to December thirty-first, two thousand five.

(7) Alterations and improvements receiving tax benefits under this subdivision shall not be used as the basis of an application for a major capital improvement rent increase under state laws governing rent control and rent stabilization, provided, however, that such alterations and improvements may be eligible for a major capital improvement increase in an amount not to exceed the amount of the decrease in rents that occurs as a result of the installation of individual electrical metering for the residential units. Such major capital improvement increase shall be implemented on a per unit basis.

e. Notwithstanding any provision of this section or any other section of the code to the contrary, where such dwelling is in an area where a plan of redevelopment, program of neighborhood improvement, housing maintenance, demonstration rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement is being carried out, the rents subsequent to conversion, alteration or improvement may exceed the maximum amount allowable pursuant to chapter four of title twenty-six of the code where necessity for the adjustment of such rents is certified by the department of housing preservation and development.

f. Subject to the provisions of subdivision d of this section, the department of housing preservation and development shall determine and certify the reasonable cost of any such conversions, alterations or improvements and eligibility for the benefits of this section and for that purpose may adopt rules and regulations, administer oaths to and take the testimony of any person, including but not limited to the owner of such property, may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of such persons and the production of such bills, books, papers or other documents as it shall deem necessary, may make preliminary estimates of the maximum reasonable cost of such conversions, alterations or improvements, may establish maximum allowable costs of specified units, fixtures or work in such conversions, alterations or improvements, and may require the submission of plans and specifications of such conversions, alterations or improvements, and may require the submission of plans and specifications of such conversions, alterations or improvements before the start thereof. Applications for certification shall include all bills and other documents showing the cost of construction or such other evidence of such cost as shall be satisfactory to the department of housing preservation and development, including, without limitation, certification of cost by a certified public accountant in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Applications for certification for a building eligible for benefits pursuant to paragraph three of subdivision d of this section, for alterations or improvements completed more than three years after its conversion to cooperative or condominium ownership, shall include such documentation of the sale price of dwelling units or stock allocated to such dwelling units as may be required by the department of housing preservation and development, including but not limited to certification of sales price by a certified public accountant. In addition, such applications shall contain the consent of the applicant to allow the department of housing preservation and development access to records, including but not limited to other tax records, as the department may deem appropriate to enforce such conditions of eligibility. Applications for certification filed on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine pursuant to paragraphs one through seven and paragraph nine of subdivision b of this section shall be made after completion and within forty-eight months following the start of construction of the conversion, alteration or improvement, except that applications for certification for alterations or improvements undertaken by a housing development fund company organized pursuant to article eleven of the private housing finance law, which are carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local governmental agency or instrumentality or which are carried out in a property transferred from the city of New York shall be made after completion and within seventy-two months following the start of the construction of the alteration or improvement. Provided, however, the department of housing preservation and development is empowered to grant an extension of the period for application for any project carried out with the substantial assistance of loans, grants or subsidies from any federal, state or local governmental agency or instrumentality, if such application is made within seventy-two months from commencement of construction. Applications for certification pursuant to paragraph eight of subdivision b of this section shall be filed within twelve months of the date of completion as provided by such subdivision.

g. To the end that conversions, alterations or improvements in such property shall interfere as little as practicable with the clearance, rehabilitation or rebuilding of sub-standard and insanitary areas and shall be confined to buildings and structures which are structurally sound and comply with applicable provisions of law, eligibility for the benefits of this section shall be restricted to such buildings and structures which the department of housing preservation and development shall certify:

(1) to be structurally sound and to comply with applicable provisions of law, as determined by the department of buildings, which certification shall be evidenced by a certificate describing the property involved; and

(2) if in an area for which a final plan of clearance, replanning, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or redevelopment has been approved pursuant to article fifteen of the general municipal law, or if in an area for which an urban renewal plan or tests, studies or demonstrations have been approved pursuant to article fifteen of the general municipal law, to be improved in conformity with such replanning, reconstruction, rehabilitation, redevelopment, tests, studies, demonstrations or plan; and

(3) if in an area where a program of local neighborhood improvement or housing maintenance is being carried out, to be in conformity with such program.

h. Application forms for the benefits of this section shall be filed with the department of finance within the time periods to be established by rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section. The department of finance shall certify the amount of taxes to be abated, pursuant to the certification of the department of housing preservation and development as herein provided. No such application shall be accepted unless accompanied by a copy of the certificate of the department of housing preservation and development both as to reasonable cost and as to eligibility as provided in subdivision f of this section.

i. The benefits of this section shall not apply:

(1) except as provided in subdivision d of this section, to any existing dwelling which is not subject to the provisions of the emergency housing rent control law or to the city rent and rehabilitation law or to the city rent stabilization law or to the private housing finance law or to any federal law providing for supervision or regulation by the United States department of housing and urban development;

(2) to any private dwelling, notwithstanding any other provision of this section, unless it is in an area where a plan of redevelopment or program of neighborhood improvement, housing maintenance, demonstration rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement is being carried out and the department of housing preservation and development finds that the conversion, alteration or improvement is in conformity with such plan of redevelopment, or program of neighborhood improvement, housing maintenance, demonstration rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement; provided that, notwithstanding the foregoing, for the purposes of this section, a class A multiple dwelling may be deemed to include any garden-type maisonette dwelling project consisting of a series of dwelling units which together and in their aggregate were arranged or designed to provide three or more apartments and are provided as a group collectively with all essential services such as, but not limited to, water supply, house sewers and heat, and which are in existence and operated as a unit under single ownership on the date upon which an application for the benefits of this section is received by the department of housing preservation and development, even though certificates of occupancy were issued for portions thereof as private dwellings;

(3) to any property receiving tax exemption or abatement concurrently for rehabilitation or new construction under any other provision of New York state or New York city law with the exception of any alteration or improvement to property receiving such tax exemption or abatement under the provisions of the private housing finance law, provided, however, that the benefits of this section shall not apply to any alterations or improvements done in connection with the refinancing, pursuant to section 223f of the national housing act, as amended, of a housing project organized pursuant to article two and article four of the private housing finance law; (4) to any multiple dwelling for ordinary repairs and normal replacement of maintenance items, as provided in paragraph one of subdivision a, hereof in the event that the dwelling thereof is receiving the benefits of this section for other ordinary repairs and normal replacement of maintenance items as of the December thirty-first preceding the date of application;

(5) to the conversion of any building or structure, or portion thereof:

(i)(a) which is located within any district in the county of New York where a floor area ratio, as that term is defined in the zoning resolution of the city of New York, of fifteen or greater is permitted by said resolution, or (b) located in the city of New York where residential conversion as of right is not permitted by the zoning resolution, provided, however, that notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this subparagraph, the benefits of this section shall apply to any building or structure or portion thereof which was purchased from the city of New York on or after January first, nineteen hundred and eighty and prior to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and eighty-four and which was granted a variance for conversion to residential use by the board of standards and appeals prior to nineteen hundred and eighty-four which variance has expired, and which has been granted a variance for a conversion to residential use by the board of standards and appeals on or after January first, nineteen hundred and ninety-four and prior to June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and ninety-five, and

(ii) where such benefits are eliminated by regulations to be promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section, unless, in the case of a building or structure in the county of New York, construction actually commenced prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, pursuant to an alteration permit, or, in the case of a building or structure in the counties of Bronx, Kings, Queens and Richmond, construction actually commenced prior to October first, nineteen hundred eighty-three, pursuant to an alteration permit. A copy of any proposed regulation pursuant to this paragraph shall be transmitted to the city council not less than sixty days prior to its publication in the City Record, pursuant to section eleven hundred five of the charter, and

(iii) provided that the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to conversions pursuant to paragraph eight of subdivision b of this section.

(6) to any conversion of or alteration or improvement, commenced on or after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, to any class B multiple dwelling or class A multiple dwelling used in whole or in part for single room occupancy, regardless of the status or use of the building after the conversion, alteration or improvement unless such conversion, alteration or improvement is carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality.

(7) to any conversion of or alteration or improvement, commenced on or after the effective date of this paragraph, to any property classified under the zoning resolution as a non-profit institution with sleeping accommodations, regardless of the status or use of the building after the conversion, alteration or improvement unless such conversion, alteration or improvement is carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality.

j. Notwithstanding the provisions of the multiple dwelling law, or any local law, ordinance, provisions of this code, rule or regulation, any dwelling to which alterations and improvements are made pursuant to this section and which did not require a certificate of occupancy on April second, nineteen hundred forty-five, may be occupied lawfully after such date upon the completion of such alterations and improvements without such a certificate being obtained, provided, however, that such alterations and improvements shall have been made in conformity with law and the applicable provisions for fire protection required by articles six and seven of the multiple dwelling law.

k. No owner of a dwelling to which the benefits of this section shall be applied, nor any agent, employee, manager or officer of such owner shall directly or indirectly deny to any person because of race, color, creed, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, age, religion, alienage or citizenship status, or the use of, participation in, or being eligible for a governmentally funded housing assistance program, including, but not limited to, the section 8 housing voucher program and the section 8 housing certificate program, 42 U.S.C. 1437 et. seq., or the senior citizen rent increase exemption program, pursuant to either chapter seven of title twenty-six of this code or section 26-509 of such code, any of the dwelling accommodations in such property or any of the privileges or services incident to occupancy therein. The term "disability" as used in this subdivision shall have the meaning set forth in section 8-102 of the code. Nothing in this subdivision shall restrict such consideration in the development of housing accommodations for the purpose of providing for the special needs of a particular group.

l. Any person who shall knowingly and willfully make any false statement as to any material matter in any application for the benefits of this section shall be guilty of an offense punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both. The commissioner of the department of housing preservation and development may reduce or revoke past and future exemption or tax abatement authorized pursuant to this section if the application for tax exemption or tax abatement contains a false statement or false information as to a material matter or omits a material matter.

m. Each agency or department to which functions are assigned by this section may adopt and promulgate rules and regulations for the effectuation of the purpose of this section.

n. The department of housing preservation and development may require a filing fee in an amount as provided by the rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision m of this section.

o. Any tax abatement granted for a period of nine years to a multiple dwelling aided by a loan provided by the city of New York prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-one, shall upon application therefor be adjusted to extend for a period of up to twenty years, provided that the total abatement before and after such adjustment shall not exceed the total abatement to which such property was initially entitled under this section.

p. This section is enacted pursuant to the provisions of section four hundred eighty-nine of the real property tax law and subdivision two of section four hundred five of the private housing finance law.

q. No application for the benefits of this section shall be accepted by the department of finance if there are outstanding real estate taxes or water and sewer charges or payments in lieu of taxes which were due and owing as of the last day of the tax period preceding the date of such filing with the department of finance, provided that an applicant aided by article eight or article fifteen of the private housing finance law shall have such application accepted by the department of finance if there are no outstanding real estate taxes or water and sewer charges due and owing as of the last day of the tax period preceding commencement of construction.

r. In the event that any building or structure receiving the benefits of this section shall become operated exclusively for commercial, hotel or transient hotel use, the tax commission shall withdraw benefits granted herein prospectively.

s. The benefits of this section shall not apply to alterations or improvements to existing dwellings in existence on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-five where (i) such alterations or improvements were completed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, and (ii) no dwelling units thereof on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-five had rentals which were subject to control by the city rent agency pursuant to chapter four of title twenty-six of the code. This subdivision shall not apply to alterations or improvements to any building or structure which is benefitted by mortgage insurance pursuant to section two hundred thirteen of the national housing act for applications filed prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine.

t. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the owner of any building or structure eligible for any of the benefits of this section which is converted to a class A multiple dwelling, completed, or substantially rehabilitated on or after January one, nineteen hundred seventy-four, shall register the initial rent for each dwelling unit in such building or structure with the New York state division of housing and community renewal. After such registration, the rents of such dwelling units shall be fully subject to regulations under chapter four of title twenty-six of the code so long as the benefits of this section are in effect or for such longer period as may be provided by law.

u. Any tax exemption or tax abatement authorized pursuant to this section may be revoked retroactively by the commissioner of department of housing preservation and development or the department of finance of the city of New York at any time during the authorized term of such tax exemption or tax abatement if real estate taxes or water and sewer charges due to the city of New York remain unpaid for one year after the same are due and payable. In no event shall revocation be effective prior to the date such taxes or charges were first due and payable.

v. Where alterations, improvements, or conversions include or benefit that part of a building which is not occupied for dwelling purposes but is occupied by stores or otherwise used for commercial purposes or community facilities, the increase in assessed valuation and the cost of the alteration shall be apportioned so that the benefits of this title shall not be provided for alterations, improvements or conversions made for other than dwelling purposes.

w. If any provision of this section or its application to any person shall be held invalid, the remainder of this section and the applicability of its provisions to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

x. Notwithstanding any provision of this section, no benefit pursuant to paragraph five of subdivision b of this section shall be granted for work commenced after January first, nineteen hundred eighty, unless the applicant establishes that the department of housing preservation and development and tenants of such class A multiple dwelling were given notice of (i) the proposed work prior to commencement of such work, (ii) the identity of the owner's representative, and (iii) the tenants' rights under applicable law with respect to such work, provided that, in the case of a loan program supervised by such department, notice to the department shall be unnecessary, and further provided that the department may itself provide the required notice to the tenants.

y. Applicants for benefits under the provisions of this section shall file with the department of finance a form supplied by said department which (i) states an intention to file for benefits under the provisions of this section, (ii) describes the work for which tax benefits will be claimed and (iii) estimates the cost of such work which will be eligible for benefits. Such form shall be filed prior to the commencement of such work. If the scope of such work or the estimated cost thereof changes materially, applicant shall file a revised statement. Applicants who fail to comply with the re- quirements of this subdivision shall be subject to a penalty not to exceed one hundred percent of the filing fee otherwise payable pursuant to subdivision n of this section.

z. A former tenant or former subtenant of premises in a nonresidential building which is the subject of an application for an alteration permit for conversion to a class A multiple dwelling, prior to the application for any tax exemption or abatement benefits for such building pursuant to this section, and as a condition to the grant thereof, shall be entitled to a relocation award under the terms and conditions set forth below:

(1) As used in this subdivision, the term "eligible tenant" shall mean any former tenant or former subtenant who:

(i) leased and used the vacated premises to conduct a manufacturing, warehousing, or wholesaling business for not less than two consecutive years immediately prior to vacating;

(ii) vacated such premises on or after April first, nineteen hundred eighty-one for any reason other than eviction for non-payment of rent;

(iii) vacated such premises (a) no earlier than twenty-four months prior to the filing date of an application for such alteration permit and (b) no later than the completion of the conversion as evidenced by the issuance of a permanent certificate of occupancy for a class A multiple dwelling;

(iv) either purchased or leased for a term of not less than eighteen months other premises within the city of New York with a floor area not less than one-third of the floor area of the vacated premises;

(v) relocated their business to such other premises within one year of vacating the vacated premises; and

(vi) paid all commercial rent or occupancy tax for the vacated premises. A subtenant shall be eligible to receive a relocation award notwithstanding any lack of eligibility of its prime tenant;

(2) the relocation award shall not exceed the greater of (i) the aggregate base rent which accrued and was paid by the eligible tenant during the final twenty-four months of its occupancy of the vacated premises or (ii) four dollars for each square foot that the eligible tenant occupied in the vacated premises during the final twenty-four months of its occupancy of the vacated premises. As used in this subdivision, base rent shall be calculated in the same manner as base rent is calculated for purposes of commercial rent or occupancy tax in the city of New York. However, the aggregate award payable to a prime tenant and/or any subtenants of such prime tenant shall not exceed the amount which would have been payable to the prime tenant had the prime tenant been eligible for an award based on the entire floor area it leased from the owner; and if such limitation applies, the awards shall be prorated based upon the total floor area used and occupied by each eligible tenant; (3) the relocation award shall become due and payable to an eligible tenant at the time the eligible tenant (i) either purchases or leases other premises in accordance with paragraph one of this subdivision, and (ii) certifies eligibility to, and demands payment of, the award from the owner of the vacated building. If the relocation award is not paid within thirty days of such certification and demand, interest shall accrue on the relocation award from the date of the certification and demand at the rate of twenty-four percent per annum;

(4) at any time after such certification and demand and prior to the date of the filing of an application for tax exemption or abatement for the vacated building pursuant to this section, an eligible tenant who has not received a relocation award shall have a right to file a notice of claim. Such notice of claim shall be filed with the county clerk of the county in which the vacated building is located and shall verify the claimant's name, its compliance with eligibility requirements, the address of the vacated premises, the floor area it occupied, the name of the prime tenant if the claimant is a subtenant, and all the base rent that accrued and was paid by the claimant during the final twenty-four months of its occupancy; (5) a notice of claim, filed in accordance with paragraph four of this subdivision, may be discharged by the filing of an undertaking with the clerk of the county in which the premises are located in an amount equal to the amount claimed and in accordance with the procedures set forth in subdivision four of section nineteen of the lien law, or by the payment into court of such amount in accordance with the procedures set forth in section fifty-five of such law;

(6) no tax exemption or abatement shall be granted pursuant to this section unless the department of housing preservation and development receives an affidavit from the applicant for benefits of this section which verifies that:

(i) the applicant has caused to be published a notice in a newspaper of general circulation within the city of New York, no later than sixty days prior to filing of an application for tax exemption or abatement pursuant to this section, which advises former tenants and subtenants of their rights pursuant to this subdivision; and

(ii) no notice of claim has been filed or all claims have been released by the claimants, or secured in accordance with the provisions of paragraph five of this subdivision, or discharged as an improper claim by court order;

(7) the affidavit required pursuant to the provisions of paragraph six of this subdivision shall be considered part of the application for benefits pursuant to this section;

(8) if an eligible tenant has duly filed a notice of claim pursuant to paragraph four of this subdivision and did not receive a relocation award as provided herein, it may commence an action against any applicant who filed a false affidavit pursuant to paragraph six of this subdivision or any security posted by such applicant pursuant to paragraph five of this subdivision, within three years of such filing. In any action to enforce a claim pursuant to this subdivision, if the court finds that the claimant has wilfully exaggerated the amount of the claim, the claimant may be held liable in damages for an amount not to exceed the proper relocation award. An eligible tenant in whose favor a judgment is entered shall be entitled to costs and reasonable legal fees and disbursements provided that such judgment is in excess of the amount which the applicant or owner offered to pay the eligible tenant;

(9) any lease or other rental agreement provision exempting, waiving, releasing or discharging the obligation to pay a relocation award pursuant to this subdivision shall be void as against public policy and wholly unenforceable;

(10) the provisions of this subdivision shall not apply south of fifty-ninth street in the county of New York if the zoning resolution of the city of New York expressly provides for relocation loans and/or grants in lieu of the benefits of this subdivision.

aa. Harassment. (1) The provisions of this subdivision apply to and are additional requirements for claiming or receiving:

(a) any tax exemption under this section; or

(b) any tax abatement under this section where the certified reasonable cost per dwelling unit of the conversion, alteration or improvement (including the cost of any conversion, alteration or improvement for which an abatement was approved within four years prior to commencement of the conversion, alteration or improvement) exceeds seven thousand five hundred dollars.

(2) The owner of the property shall file with the department of housing preservation and development, not less than thirty days before the commencement of the conversion, alteration or improvement (hereinafter referred to as the "cut-off date"), an affidavit, or, where any information referred to in paragraph one of this subdivision changes prior to applying for or claiming any benefit under this section, an amending affidavit, setting forth the following information:

(a) every owner of record and owner of a substantial interest in the property or entity owning the property or sponsoring the conversion, alteration or improvement;

(b) a statement that none of such persons had, within the five years prior to the cut-off date, been found to have harassed or unlawfully evicted tenants by judgment or determination of a court or agency (including a non-governmental agency having appropriate legal jurisdiction) under the penal law, any state or local law regulating rents or any state or local law relating to harassment of tenants or unlawful eviction; and

(c) any change in the information required to be set forth.

(3) No conversion, alteration or improvement subject to this subdivision shall be eligible for tax exemption or tax abatement under this section where:

(a) any affidavit required under this subdivision has not been filed; or

(b) any such affidavit contains a willful misrepresentation or omission of any material fact; or

(c) any person referred to in subparagraph (a) of paragraph two of this subdivision has been found to have harassed or unlawfully evicted tenants as described in that paragraph, until and unless the finding is reversed on appeal, provided that any such finding after the cut-off date shall not apply to or affect any tax abatement or exemption for the conversion, alteration or improvement covered by the affidavit.

(4) The department of housing preservation and development and the department of finance shall maintain a list of affidavits as described in paragraph two of this subdivision. Each agency shall review that list with respect to each application or claim for benefits subject to this subdivision.

(5) "Substantial interest" as used in subparagraph (a) of paragraph two of this subdivision shall mean ownership of an interest of ten per centum or more in the property or entity owning the property or sponsoring the conversion, alteration or improvement.

(6) Where the conversion, alteration or improvement is commenced before August first, nineteen hundred eighty-three, the cut-off date shall be as set forth in this subdivision, but no affidavit shall be required to be filed until thirty days after the effective date of this subdivision.

bb. Notwithstanding any contrary provision of the private housing finance law, the benefits of this section shall apply to any limited profit housing company as provided in this section. Such multiple dwelling, building or structure shall be eligible for benefits where at least one building-wide improvement or alteration is part of the application for benefits. Furthermore, to the extent that such alterations or improvements are financed with grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state, or local agency or instrumentality, such multiple dwelling, building or structure shall be eligible for benefits only if the limited profit housing company has entered into a binding and irrevocable agreement with the commissioner of housing of the state of New York, the supervising agency, as such term is defined in section two of the private housing finance law, the New York city housing development corporation, or the New York state housing finance agency prohibiting the dissolution or reconstitution of such limited profit housing company pursuant to section thirty-five of the private housing finance law for not less than fifteen years from the commencement of benefits. The abatement of taxes on such property, including the land, shall not be an amount greater than ninety per centum of the certified reasonable cost of such alterations or improvements, as determined under regulations of the department of housing preservation and development, nor greater than eight and one-third percent of such certified reasonable cost in any twelve month period, nor be effective for more than twenty years. The annual abatement of taxes in any twelve month period shall in no event exceed fifty percent of the amount of taxes payable in such twelve month period pursuant to the applicable exemption granted pursuant to article two of the private housing finance law or other applicable laws or fifty percent of payments required to be made in lieu of taxes in such twelve month period. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the annual abatement of taxes for alterations or improvements commenced prior to June first, nineteen hundred eighty-six may not be applied to reduce the amount of taxes payable or the amount of payments required to be made in lieu of taxes in any twelve month period to an amount less than the minimum amount of taxes required to be paid pursuant to section thirty-three of the private housing finance law.

cc. The commissioner of the department of housing preservation and development and the commissioner of the department of finance shall prepare an annual report which shall be submitted to the Mayor and the council on or before the first day of July next succeeding the year to which the report pertains, regarding the exemptions and abatements granted pursuant to this section and shall include, but not be limited to the following information: (i) the amount of real property tax that would have been paid in the aggregate by the owners of real property granted an exemption or abatement if the property were fully taxable and the amount of tax actually paid in the aggregate by such owners, (ii) the geographic distribution of exemptions and abatements granted pursuant to this section, and (iii) a distribution by type of eligible categories as delineated in paragraphs one through nine of subdivision b of this section.

dd. Partial waiver of rent adjustments attributable to major capital improvements. (1) The provisions of this subdivision apply to and are additional requirements for claiming or receiving any tax abatement under this section, except as provided in paragraphs three and four of this subdivision.

(2) The owner of the property shall file with the department of housing preservation and development, on the date any application for benefits is made, a declaration stating that in consideration of any tax abatement benefits which may be received pursuant to such application for alterations or improvements constituting a major capital improvement, such owner agrees to waive the collection of a portion of the total annual amount of any rent adjustment attributable to such major capital improvement which may be granted by the New York state division of housing and community renewal pursuant to the rent stabilization code equal to one-half of the total annual amount of the tax abatement benefits which the property receives pursuant to such application with respect to such alterations or improvements. Such waiver shall commence on the date of the first collection of such rent adjustment, provided that, in the event that such tax abatement benefits were received prior to such first collection, the amount waived shall be increased to account for such tax abatement benefits so received. Following the expiration of a tax abatement for alterations or improvements constituting a major capital improvement for which a rent adjustment has been granted by such division, the owner may collect the full amount of annual rent permitted pursuant to such rent adjustment. A copy of such declaration shall be filed simultaneously with the New York state division of housing and community renewal. Such declaration shall be binding upon such owner, and his or her successors and assigns.

(3) The provisions of this subdivision shall not apply to substantial rehabilitation of buildings vacant when alterations or improvements are commenced or to buildings rehabilitated with the substantial assistance of city, state or federal subsidies.

(4) The provisions of this subdivision shall apply only to alterations and improvements commenced after its effective date.

Provisions of L.L. 44/2001 § 1:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The Council finds that the mechanisms available for conserving energy have changed in the last decade. In the past, conservation efforts consisted of trying to reduce the amount of energy used. Toward this end we provided tax benefits to master metered buildings, buildings where there was a single meter for the whole building, to install separate meters for each unit, called submetering, thus encouraging individuals to become conscience of their energy use and reduce their electrical consumption. Recently, discussions of energy conservation have changed from exclusively trying to reduce overall use, to also trying to shift use patterns from peak use to off-peak use. This reduction is a valuable energy conservation measure in that by reducing peak consumption the worst energy plants can eventually be retired and the most expensive and dirty energy can be avoided. An effective tool in the reduction in peak use is a pricing tool based on charging the most for electricity used during peak periods. Buildings that are master metered, where there is one meter for the entire building for which a utility company bills the building, pay for their electricity based on this model of billing, by time of use. In buildings where each apartment is separately metered and billed by the utility, called direct metering, the price is based exclusively on the overall amount of electricity used, not when it is used. The Council finds that changing from a system of direct metering, to a system where the electricity is charged based on time of use (demand) is a useful conversion for the purposes of conservation where strong tenant organizations are in place to monitor demand, educate and work with tenants to reduce demand during peak periods. Toward this end, the Council further finds that the City has a compelling interest in supporting buildings with strong tenant organizations to convert to submetered systems. For the purposes of this section the Council finds that cooperatives and condominiums have the greatest likelihood of having the type of tenant organizations that would allow them to utilize this new technology to reduce peak demand.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Petitioner was entitled to a tax abatement based upon the reasonable cost of improvements and alterations where, when he had purchased a four-story building in 1965 the street level floor was occupied as a store and the upper three stories were vacant and he remodeled the building so that it had modern apartments on the upper three floors. The fact that building was not being used residentially immediately prior to renovation did not deprive it of its basic character as part commercial and part residential property.-Martell's Restaurant Corp. v. Housing and Devel. Administration, 64 Misc. 2d 991, 316 N.Y.S. 2d 340 [1970], aff'd, 323 N.Y.S. 2d 389 [A.D. 1971].

¶ 2. In determining the reasonable costs of alterations and improvements for tax abatement purposes one of the factors that must be considered is the actual cost of the particular alterations and improvements.-Duell v. Housing and Development Administration, 40 A.D. 2d 803 (1972).

¶ 3. Denial by Housing and Development Administration of application for tax abatement certificate based upon failure of petitioners to establish that resale of the stock of their cooperatives at a profit was prohibited by their by-laws was not arbitrary where the Administrator had imposed such a requirement as a condition precedent for tax abatement.-In re M.P.P.M.P. Realty Inc. (Housing and Development Administration) 171 (118) N.Y.L.J. (6-19-74) 2, Col. 3 F.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Petitioner is not qualified for tax exemption for the renovation of single room occupancy (SRO) dwellings pursuant to NYC Ad CD § J51-2.5 (J-51 program) as enabled by Real Property Tax Law § 489. § 489 was amended by chap 401/1983 retroactive to June 1, 1982 to prevent the loss of SRO housing and discourage precipitous eviction of tenants. Petitioner was forewarned of retroactive expiration of State authorization and questionable validity of J-51 program past June 1, 1982.-Replan Dev. v. Dept. of Housing Preserv. & Dev., 70 NY2d 451 [1987].

¶ 2. In 1982, NYC changed policies amending administrative code § J51-2.5(i)(6) [11-243(i)(6)] to eliminate the J51 property tax abatements for the conversion of SRO dwellings to other uses. (Previously the city encouraged demolition and redevelopment because many SRO units were substandard.)-Replan Dev. v. Housing Preserv. Dep't, 70 NY2d 451 [1987] held this change of policy constitutional. Seawall Assoc. v. City of NY, 142 AD2d 72 [1988].

¶ 3. The NY City Department of Housing Preservation & Development's (HPD) determination that the reasonable cost of $422,540 certified in the January 29, 1985 Certificate of Eligibility issued to the petitioner be reduced to $196,200 based on the auditor's findings will not be disturbed where petitioner failed to supply the necessary documentation to HPD within a 16-month time period; pursuant to Ad Code § 11-243, the failure to prove the claimed costs in rehabilitating a building subjects the property to a reduction or revocation of part and future J-51 benefits.-10 Argyle Realty Assoc. v. NYC Dep't of Housing Pres. & Dev. 160 AD2d 1003.

¶ 4. Pursuant to § 11-243 and the J-51 regulations HPD correctly and rationally determined that certain items of renovation work that petitioner completed were ineligible for J-51 benefits and others had not been completed upon inspection by HPD. As a result the certified reasonable cost per dwelling unit did not amount to $2,500 disqualifying project from expanded tax benefits of a "moderate rehabilitation."-Acropolis Gardens Realty v. DHPD, 175 AD2d 242 [1991].

¶ 5. Petitioner received a "certificate of operation" for use of newly installed boiler/burner equipment from the Department of Environmental Protection within the three-year eligibility period, but did not receive a "sign-off" from the Department of Buildings until after the three-year period had elapsed. Failure to obtain a DOB "sign-off" within the three-year period was not a mere "minor technicality" in determining entitlement to J 51 benefits, §11-243(d)(3), under the Building Code §27-787 et seq and the air pollution control provisions, §24-102 et seq only the DOB can certify that a boiler/burner meets minimum standards of safety and is properly burning fuel, generating energy and providing heat. Information submitted by cooperative conversion corporation to the Department of Housing Preservation and Development failed to establish that roofing work was completed within the three-year time limitation since, out of five checks submitted two were postdated cancelled checks for 70% of work and included no late payment fees. Petitioners claim for J 51 benefits under §11-243(d)(3) denied.-31171 Owners Corp. v. DHPD, 190 AD2d 441 [1993].

¶ 6. In order to be entitled to a "J-51" tax abatement, the applicant needs to obtain a Certificate of Eligibility and Reasonable Cost from the New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development ("HPD"), and a certification from the Department of Buildings ("DOB") that the premises were free from violations and the work was satisfactorily performed. The HPD and DOB certifications are independent requirements. Thus, the owner can seek the certificate from HPD even before it has obtained the necessary certification from the DOB. Melohn v. New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development, 212 A.D.2d 380, 622 N.Y.S.2d 36 (1st Dept. 1995).

¶ 7. The principle of comity under the federal Tax Injunction Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1341 barred federal court jurisdiction over challenges to the administration of the "J-51" program. The taxpayer was found to have adequate state law remedies available. Kraebel v. New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development, 959 F.2d 395 (2d Cir. 1992).

¶ 8. The landlord is required to complete the project within a 36 month period. The regulations, which define the commencement of the 36 month period as being the date of issuance of a permit by a City agency, create only an evidentiary presumption, which can be rebutted by actual evidence of a different start date. In this case, the landlord argued that the 36 month period should begin at the date of issuance of the permit, even though the permit was issued eight months after the work actually began. The court, however, upheld an agency determination that the 36 month period began at the time of actual commencement of the work. Otherwise, the court said, an applicant would be able to take as long as it wanted to complete the project through the simple expedient of delaying its application for the necessary work permit, and thereby negate the statutory policy of encouraging the swift upgrading of multiple dwellings. 275 Wesbster Tenants, Inc. v. Wright, 238 AD2d 143; N.Y.L.J., Apr. 7, 1997, at 26, col. 4 (App.Div. 1st Dept.).

¶ 9. See Spaeda v. Bakirjy, N.Y.L.J., Apr. 19, 2000, page 27, col. 6 (Civ. Ct. New York Co.), under annotations to Admin. Code §§ 26, 504, regarding the rent stabilization status of buildings whose owners received tax benefits under §11-243.

¶ 10. The federal Section 8 program (42 U.S.C. § 1437 et seq.) does not pre-empt local rent laws. Thus, landlords who wish to continue in the tax abatement programs of Sec. 11-243 must continue to offer Section 8 status to rent stabilized tenants who reside at the premises. Landlords who accept the tax abatement program are required to offer renewal leases, and are not permitted to discriminate against tenants based on Section 8 status. Rosario v. Diagonal Realty LLC, 9 Misc.3d 681, 803 N.Y.S.2d 343 (Sup.Ct. N.Y. 2005), aff'd 32 A.D.3d 739, 821 N.Y.S.2d 71 (1st Dept. 2006), aff'd 8 N.Y.3d 755, 840 N.Y.S.2d 748 (2007).

¶ 11. See Timkovsky v. 56 Bennett, LLC, reported under case note 133 Admin. Code §8--107.

¶ 12. Where a landlord chooses to take advantage of the J-51 tax abatement program (Admin. Code §11-243, all rent stabilized apartments in the building are exempt from luxury decontrol. The landlord unsuccessfully argued that the exemption from luxury decontrol applied only to those apartments which became stabilized solely by reason of the landlord's participation in the J-51 plan. Roberts v. Tishman Speyer Properties, 62 A.D.3d 71, 874 N.Y.S.2d 97 (1st Dept. 2009).

¶ 13. See Kosoglyadov v. 3130 Brighton Seventh LLC, 54 A.D.3d 822, 863 N.Y.S.2d 777 (2d Dept. 2008), reported under note 134, Admin. Code §8-107.

Title 11 Taxation and Finance

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-244 Tax exemption and abatement for rehabilitated buildings.

a. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Eligible real property" shall mean:

(i) any class B multiple dwelling;

(ii) any class A multiple dwelling used for single room occupancy pursuant to section two hundred forty-eight of the multiple dwelling law which contains no more than twenty-five percent class A dwelling units which contain lawful sanitary and kitchen facilities within the dwelling unit, provided that in the case of a multiple dwelling containing ten dwelling units or less, up to forty percent of the dwelling units may be class A units;

(iii) not-for-profit institutions with sleeping accommodations.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, eligible real property shall not include college and school dormitories, club houses, or residences whose occupancy is restricted to an institutional use such as housing intended for use primarily or exclusively by the employees of a single company or institution. A building is an eligible real property only if it qualifies as such after completion of the eligible improvements, but need not have been an eligible real property prior to the eligible improvements.

2. "Eligible improvements" shall be limited to the following categories of work, provided further that such work shall be in conformity with all applicable laws:

(i) replacement of a boiler or burner or installation of an entire new heating system;

(ii) replacement or upgrading of electrical system;

(iii) replacement or upgrading of elevators;

(iv) installation or replacement or upgrading of the plumbing system, including water main and risers;

(v) replacement or installation of walls, ceilings, floors or trim where necessary;

(vi) replacement or upgrading of doors, installation of security devices and systems;

(vii) installation, replacement or upgrading of smoke detectors, fire alarms, fire escapes, or sprinkler systems;

(viii) replacement or repair of roof, leaders and gutters;

(ix) replacement or installation of bathroom facilities;

(x) installation of wall and pipe insulation;

(xi) replacement or upgrading of street connections for water or sewer services;

(xii) replacement or installation of windows, or installation of window gates or guards;

(xiii) installation or replacement of boiler smoke stack;

(xiv) pointing, waterproofing and cleaning of entire building exterior surface;

(xv) improvements designed to conserve the use of fuel, electricity or other energy sources;

(xvi) work necessary to effect compliance with all applicable laws including but not limited to the multiple dwelling law, the New York city housing maintenance code and the building code; and (xvii) improvements unique to congregate living facilities, as defined by rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development.

3. "Existing dwelling" shall mean any eligible real property in existence prior to the commencement of eligible improvements, for which tax exemption and abatement is claimed under the terms of this section and for which a valuation appears on the annual record of assessed valuation of the city for the fiscal year immediately preceding the commencement of construction of such eligible improvements.

4. "Commencement of eligible improvement" shall mean the beginning of any physical operation undertaken for the purpose of making eligible improvements to eligible real property.

5. "Completion of eligible improvement" shall mean the conclusion or termination of any physical operation referred to in the preceding paragraph, to an extent or degree which renders an eligible property capable of use for the purpose for which the improvements were intended.

6. "Permanent resident" shall mean a person who has resided in eligible real property for six months or more; has a lease or other rental agreement for a term of six or more months; or has requested a lease pursuant to the provisions of the rent stabilization code for housing accommodations located in hotels.

b. Any increase in the assessed valuation of eligible real property shall be exempt from taxation for local purposes for a period of thirty-two years to the extent such increase results from eligible improvements, provided that:

(i) the eligible improvements are commenced after July first, nineteen hundred eighty, and prior to December thirty-first, two thousand eleven, and are completed within thirty-six months from commencement;

(ii) the department of housing preservation and development determines and certifies the cost, qualification and eligibility of any improvement for benefits of this section;

(iii) the exemption may commence no sooner than the July first following the filing with the department of finance of a certification of eligibility issued by the department of housing preservation and development for benefits of this section; provided, however, that if the rehabilitation is carried out with substantial government assistance as part of a program for affordable housing the exemption may commence no sooner than the July first following the commencement of construction of eligible improvements;

(iv) immediately prior to, and during, the construction of eligible improvements, not less than fifty percent of the dwelling units in such eligible real property are occupied by permanent residents; provided that such occupancy requirement shall not apply to a vacant, governmentally owned multiple dwelling which had been vacant for not less than two years prior to the commencement of construction of eligible improvements, nor to a vacant multiple dwelling where the eligible improvements are carried out with the substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality or any not-for-profit philanthropic organization one of whose primary purposes is providing low or moderate income housing;

(v) no outstanding real estate taxes, water and sewer charges, payments in lieu of taxes or other municipal charges are due and owing as of the tax quarter immediately preceding the commencement of tax exemption pursuant to this section; provided that an applicant aided pursuant to the provisions of the private housing finance law shall have such application accepted by the tax commission if there are no outstanding real estate, water and sewer taxes due and owing as of the last day of the tax quarter preceding commencement of construction of eligible improvements;

(vi) Except in the case of eligible real property which is receiving or has received assistance pursuant to a governmental rent subsidy program or which is owned by a not-for-profit corporation or by a wholly owned subsidiary of a not-for-profit corporation and which is receiving or has received assistance pursuant to a governmental loan subsidy program, as defined by the rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development, for the construction of eligible improvements, the initial rent after completion of eligible improvements, for ninety percent of the total number of dwelling units occupied by permanent residents in a class A or class B multiple dwelling other than apartments shall not exceed the greater of either the amount of any governmental rental assistance received by an occupant or seventy-five percent of the rent which is permitted to be charged for zero-bedroom units on the moderate rehabilitation fair market rent schedule as determined by the United States department of housing and urban development for the housing assistance payments program under section eight of the national housing act;

(vii) no person residing in eligible real property prior to or during the construction of eligible improvements shall be required by the owner to vacate the eligible real property solely in order to perform the eligible improvements or any related work.

c. Eligible real property which qualifies for exemption from taxation for local purposes for eligible improvements shall also be eligible for an annual abatement of real property taxes in an amount not to exceed twelve and one half percent of the reasonable cost of eligible improvements certified by the department of housing preservation and development, which abatement may commence on the first day of the first tax quarter following the filing with the department of finance of a certification of eligibility issued by the department of housing preservation and development for benefits of this section; provided, however, that if the rehabilitation is carried out with substantial government assistance as part of a program for affordable housing the abatement may commence no sooner than the first day of the first tax quarter following the commencement of construction of eligible improvements, provided further that:

(i) the annual abatement shall not exceed the amount of taxes otherwise payable in the corresponding year;

(ii) the period during which such abatement is effective shall not exceed twenty consecutive years from the date such abatement first becomes effective; and

(iii) the total abatement shall not exceed the lesser of one hundred fifty percent of the certified reasonable costs of eligible improvements or the actual costs as determined by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to its rules and regulations.

d. During the period of tax exemption or abatement pursuant to this section, each of the following shall be a condition precedent to the continuation of the exemption and/or abatement:

(i) compliance with all applicable provisions of law, including but not limited to the multiple dwelling law, the building code and the housing maintenance code;

(ii) all dwelling units, except owner occupied units, shall be subject to the emergency housing rent control law or the local housing rent control act or the tenant protection act of nineteen hundred seventy-four,*12 or any local laws enacted pursuant thereto or the rent stabilization law of nineteen hundred sixty-nine; provided, however, that the department of housing preservation and development may exempt from this requirement dwelling units that are not occupied by permanent residents in those buildings owned by a not-for-profit corporation and which are improved with the aid of a rehabilitation loan from any government agency or instrumentality or operated pursuant to a contract with a governmental entity.

(iii) eligible real property receiving tax exemption or tax abatement benefits under this section shall not receive tax exemption or tax abatement for new construction or rehabilitation under any other provision of law;

(iv) the eligible improvements shall not be used as the basis for any application for rent increases and the owner shall file a statement to such effect with the department of housing preservation and development and with any appropriate rent regulatory agency, provided, however, that rents of units improved with the aid of a rehabilitation loan from any governmental agency or instrumentality may within the limitations established by this section be increased pursuant to the rules and regulations of the department of housing preservation and development.

(v) A minimum of seventy-five percent of the dwelling units shall be rental units occupied by permanent residents; provided, however that the department of housing preservation and development may exempt from this requirement those buildings improved with the aid of a rehabilitation loan from any governmental agency or instrumentality or operated pursuant to a contract with a governmental entity.

e. During the period of tax exemption or abatement pursuant to this section, the owner shall submit an annual certification to the department of housing preservation and development in the form prescribed by such department. Failure to submit such certification in any given year may result in the revocation of benefits. The certification shall include the following:

(i) the total number of dwelling units within the eligible real property and the total number of dwelling units occupied by permanent residents;

(ii) the number of dwelling units subject to the provisions of the emergency housing rent control act, the emergency tenant protection act of nineteen hundred seventy-four*13 or any local laws enacted pursuant thereto; the emergency housing rent control law or the rent stabilization law of nineteen hundred sixty-nine; and

(iii) all such other information required by the department of housing preservation and development.

f. Any tax exemption or tax abatement authorized pursuant to this section may be revoked or reduced by the department of housing preservation and development or by the department of finance of the city of New York at any time during the authorized term of such tax exemption or tax abatement upon a finding by either department that:

(i) the application for benefits pursuant to this section or the annual certification required hereunder contains a false statement or false information as to a material matter, or omits a material matter, in which case the revocation or reduction may be retroactive to the commencement of benefits pursuant to this section;

(ii) real estate taxes, water, sewer or other municipal charges, or payments in lieu of said taxes or charges are, and have remained, due and owing for more than one year, in which case the revocation or reduction may be retroactive to the commencement of benefits pursuant to this section, provided that in no event shall revocation be effective prior to the date such taxes or charges were first due and payable; or

(iii) the eligible real property fails to comply with one or more of the provisions or requirements of this section.

g. Application forms for the benefits of this section shall be filed with the tax commission within the time periods to be established by rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development, pursuant to subdivision i of this section. The tax commission shall certify to the department of finance the amount of taxes to be abated, pursuant to the certification of the department of housing preservation and development as herein provided. No such application shall be accepted unless accompanied by a copy of the certificate of the department of housing preservation and development both as to reasonable cost and as to eligibility as provided in subdivision b of this section.

h. No owner of a dwelling to which the benefits of this section apply, nor any agent, employee, manager or officer of such owner shall directly or indirectly deny to any person because of race, color, creed, national origin, sex, disability, marital status, age, religion or sexual orientation any of the dwelling accommodations in such property or any of the privileges or services incident to occupancy therein. The term "disability" as used in this subdivision shall mean a physical, mental or medical impairment resulting from anatomical, physiological, or neurological conditions which prevents the exercise of a normal bodily function or is demonstrable by medically accepted clinical or laboratory diagnostic techniques. Nothing in this subdivision shall restrict such consideration in the availability of housing accommodations for the purpose of providing for the special needs of a particular group.

i. The department of housing preservation and development shall determine and certify the reasonable cost of any such conversions, alterations or improvements and eligibility for the benefits of this section and for that purpose may adopt rules and regulations, administer oaths to and take the testimony of any person, including, but not limited to the owner of such property, may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of such persons and the production of such bills, books, papers or other documents as it shall deem necessary, may make preliminary estimates of the maximum reasonable cost of such conversions, alterations or improvements, may establish maximum allowable costs of specified units, fixtures or work in such conversions, alterations or improvements, and may require the submission of plans and specifications of such conversions, alterations or improvements before the start thereof. Applications for certification shall include all bills and other documents showing the cost of construction or such other evidence of such cost as shall be satisfactory to the department of housing preservation and development, including, without limitation, certification of cost by a certified public accountant in accordance with gennerally accepted accounting principles. Each additional agency to which functions are assigned by this section may adopt and promulgate rules and regulations for the effectuation of the purposes of this section.

j. The department of housing preservation and development may require a filing fee in an amount as provided by the rules and regulations promulgated by the department of housing preservation and development pursuant to subdivision i of this section.

k. Any person who shall knowingly and wilfully make any false statements as to any material matter in any application for the benefits of this section shall be guilty of an offense punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both.

l. If any provision of this section or its application to any person shall be held invalid, the remainder of this section and the applicability of its provisions to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

(a-1) Notwithstanding the provisions contained in subdivision (a) of this section concerning the date of commencement of construction, the amendments to such subdivision (a) made by local law number 22 for the year 2005 shall only apply to construction commenced on or after March seventh, two thousand six and prior to December thirty-first, two thousand seven.

(a-2)* Notwithstanding32 the provisions contained in subdivision (a) of this section concerning the date of commencement of construction, the amendments to such subdivision (a) made by the local law that added this subdivision shall only apply to construction commenced on or after the effective date of section three of the local law that added this subdivision and prior to December thirty-first, two thousand seven.

(a-2) Notwithstanding33 the provisions contained in subdivision (a) of this section concerning the date of commencement of construction, the amendments to such subdivision (a) made by local law number 8 for the year 2006 shall only apply to construction commenced on or after May eleventh, two thousand seven and prior to the effective date of the local law that added this phrase.

(b) The34 limitations contained in subdivision a of this section shall not be applicable to:

(1) construction carried out with substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality where such assistance is provided pursuant to a program for the development of affordable housing, or

(2) projects where the department of housing preservation and development has imposed a requirement or has certified that twenty percent of the units be affordable to households of low and moderate income, or

(3) construction carried out pursuant to an agreement with the department of housing preservation and development entered into prior to the effective date of the local law that added this phrase to create or substantially rehabilitate housing units offsite affordable to households of low and moderate income provided that:

(i) the number of any such low income units which may be made available to homeless households must be equal to a ratio of at least one low income unit for every six units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law; or

(ii) the number of any such low income units which may be made available must be equal to at least twenty percent of the number of units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law; or

(iii) the number of any such moderate income units which may be made available must be equal to at least twenty-five percent of the number of units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law; and

(iv) in any building containing more than one hundred thirty units of low and moderate income housing created or substantially rehabilitated pursuant to this paragraph, two of every three units in excess of one hundred thirty units shall at initial occupancy be affordable to moderate income households; and

(v) upon initial occupancy, all such housing units affordable to households of low and moderate income must be registered with the New York state division of housing and community renewal. Such units must remain rent stabilized for the entire period during which such units receive real estate tax benefits under any New York state or city tax abatement and/or exemption programs, or for twenty years, whichever is longer; future rent increases may not exceed the increases established by the rent guidelines board; upon vacancy, units must be re-rented at no more than the legal stabilized rent. All units must be rented to households earning no more than four times such annual rent at the time of initial occupancy; the lease for the tenants in occupancy of all units created pursuant to this paragraph at the expiration of the rent stabilization period pursuant to this sub-paragraph shall include the right to remain as rent stabilized tenants for the duration of their occupancy. Once units become vacant after termination of such rent stabilization period, the owner of such units shall have the option to de-stabilize such rents; and

(vi) the provisions of sub-paragraph (v) shall not apply to any unit owned as a cooperative or condominium and occupied by the shareholder or owner; and

(vii) nothing contained in this paragraph shall preclude a grant of benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law for any building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section if carried out pursuant to an agreement entered into prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-one, with the department of housing preservation and development to create or substantially rehabilitate housing units affordable to households of low and moderate income in a geographic area or areas outside the area described in subdivision (a) of this section, provided that the number of such low and moderate income units must be equal to at least twenty per cent of the number of units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

(b-1)* With35 respect to construction commenced on or after the effective date of the local law that added this subdivision, except as otherwise provided in section ten of the local law that added this subdivision, each restricted income unit required pursuant to subdivision b of this section shall be situated onsite. For the purposes of this subdivision, "onsite" shall mean that restricted income units shall be situated within the building or buildings for which benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law are being granted.

(b-2)* With respect to construction commenced on or after the effective date of the local law that added this subdivision, except as otherwise provided in section ten of the local law that added this subdivision, for the purposes of this section and of section 11-245.1-b of this chapter, any requirement that not less than twenty percent of onsite units be "restricted income" units shall mean that such units shall be affordable to and occupied or available for occupancy by individuals or families whose incomes at the time of initial occupancy do not exceed eighty percent of the area median income adjusted for family size; provided that, of such restricted income units, no more than a number equal to five percent of the number of units which commenced construction in buildings receiving tax benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty one-a of the real property tax law in the previous calendar year shall be affordable to and occupied or available for occupancy by individuals or families whose incomes at the time of initial occupancy are between sixty percent and eighty percent of the area median income adjusted for family size.

(b) The limitations contained in subdivision (a) of this section shall not be applicable to:

(1) construction carried out with substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality, or

(2) projects where the department of housing preservation and development has imposed a requirement or has certified that twenty percent of the units be affordable to households of low and moderate income, or

(3) construction carried out pursuant to an agreement with the department of housing preservation and development to create or substantially rehabilitate housing units offsite affordable to households of low and moderate income provided that:

(i) the number of any such low income units which may be made available to homeless households must be equal to a ratio of at least one low income unit for every six units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law; or

(ii) the number of any such low income units which may be made available must be equal to at least twenty per cent of the number of units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law; or

(iii) the number of any such moderate income units which may be made available must be equal to at least twenty-five per cent of the number of units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law; and

(iv) in any building containing more than one hundred thirty units of low and moderate income housing created or substantially rehabilitated pursuant to this paragraph, two of every three units in excess of one hundred thirty units shall at initial occupancy be affordable to moderate income households; and

(v) upon, initial occupancy, all such housing units affordable to households of low and moderate income must be registered with the New York state division of housing and community renewal. Such units must remain rent stabilized for the entire period during which such units receive real estate tax benefits under any New York state or city tax abatement and/or exemption programs, or for twenty years, whichever is longer; future rent increases may not exceed the increases established by the rent guidelines board; upon vacancy, units must be rerented at no more than the legal stabilized rent. All units must be rented to households earning no more than four times such annual rent at the time of initial occupancy; the lease for the tenants in occupancy of all units created pursuant to this paragraph at the expiration of the rent stabilization period pursuant to this sub-paragraph shall include the right to remain as rent stabilized tenants for the duration of their occupancy. Once units become vacant after termination of such rent stabilization period, the owner of such units shall have the option to de-stabilize such rents; and

occupied by the shareholder or owner; and

(vii) nothing contained in this paragraph shall preclude a grant of benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law for any building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section if carried out pursuant to an agreement entered into prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-one, with the department of housing preservation and development to create or substantially rehabilitate housing units affordable to households of low and moderate income in a geographic area or areas outside the area described in subdivision (a) of this section, provided that the number of such low and moderate income units must be equal to at least twenty per cent of the number of units in the building or buildings located in the area described in subdivision (a) of this section which receive benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

(c) No benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law shall be conferred for any construction commenced on or after November twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred eighty-five of any multiple dwelling, or portion thereof, which is located within any district in the county of New York where a maximum base floor area ratio, as that term is defined in the zoning resolution, of fifteen or greater was permitted as of right by provisions of such resolution in effect on April fourteenth, nineteen hundred eighty-two; provided, however, that this limitation on benefits shall not apply to any such construction commenced on or after October first, nineteen hundred ninety-three and before December thirty-first, two thousand seven.

(d)* For36 purposes of subdivisions (a) and (c) of this section and section 11-245.1-b of this part, construction shall be deemed to have commenced on the date immediately following the issuance by the department of buildings of a building or alteration permit for a multiple dwelling (based upon architectural, plumbing and structural plans approved by such department) on which the excavation and the construction of initial footings and foundations commences in good faith, as certified by an architect or professional engineer licensed in the state, provided that the construction of such multiple dwelling has been completed without undue delay, as certified by such architect or professional engineer. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if a project includes new residential construction and the concurrent conversion, alteration or improvement of a pre-existing building or structure, construction shall be deemed to have commenced on the date immediately following the issuance by the department of buildings of an alteration permit for the multiple dwelling (based upon architectural, plumbing and structural plans approved by such department) on which the actual construction of such concurrent conversion, alteration or improvement of the pre-existing building or structure commences in good faith, as certified by an architect or professional engineer licensed in the state, provided that the construction of such multiple dwelling has been completed without undue delay, as certified by such architect or professional engineer.

(d) For purposes of subdivisions (a) and (c) of this section, construction shall be deemed to have commenced on the date im- mediately following the iussuance by the department of buildings of a new building permit for an entire new building (based upon architectural, plumbing and structural plans approved by such department) on which the excavation and construction of initial footings and foundations commences in good faith, on vacant land and for the entire project site, as certified by an architect or professional engineer licensed in the state, provided that installation of footings and foundations is similarly certified by such architect or engineer to have been completed without undue delay.

(e)* The37 department of housing preservation and development may promulgate rules and regulations for the effectuation of the purposes of this section including, but not limited to, rules and regulations regarding the terms and conditions of employment of employees in buildings for which any benefits pursuant to this section are sought or received.

(e) The department of housing preservation and development may promulgate rules and regulations for the effectuation of the purposes of this section.

(f)* The limitations on eligibility for benefits contained in this section shall be in addition to those contained in any other law, rule or regulation.

(f) The limitations on eligibility for benefits contained in this section shall be in addition to those contained in any other law or regulation.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-245.1 Site eligibility limitations on benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

(a) Where eligibility for benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law is sought for any construction commenced on or after November twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred eighty-five and before May twelfth, two thousand on the basis that such construction shall take place on land which, on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of such construction, was improved with a nonresidential building or buildings and was under-utilized, the under-utilization of the land must have been such that each building or buildings:

(1) contained no more than the permissible floor area ratio for nonresidential buildings in the zoning district in question and a floor area ratio which was twenty percent or less of the maximum floor area ratio for residential buildings, or

(2) had an assessed valuation equal to or less than twenty percent of the assessed valuation of the land on which the building or buildings were situated, or maintenance practices or intentional conduct, could no longer be functionally or economically utilized in the capacity in which it was formerly utilized.

For purposes of this subdivision and subdivisions (a-1) through (a-4) of this section, construction shall be deemed to have commenced on the date immediately following the issuance by the department of buildings of a new building permit for an entire new building (based upon architectural, plumbing and structural plans approved by such department) on which the excavation and the construction of initial footings and foundations commences in good faith, on vacant land and for the entire project site, as certified by an architect or professional engineer licensed in the state, provided that installation of footings and foundations is similarly certified by such architect or engineer to have been completed without undue delay.

(a-1) Except as provided in subdivision (a-2) of this section, where eligibility for benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law is sought for any construction commenced on or after May twelfth, two thousand and before the effective date of the local law that added subdivisions (a-3) and (a-4) of this section on the basis that such construction shall take place on land which, on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of such construction, was improved with a nonresidential building or buildings and was under-utilized, the under-utilization of the land must have been such that each building or buildings:

(1) contained no more than the permissible floor area ratio for nonresidential buildings in the zoning district in question and a floor area ratio which was seventy-five percent or less of the maximum floor area ratio for residential buildings, or

(2) had an assessed valuation equal to or less than seventy-five percent of the assessed valuation of the land on which the building or buildings were situated, or

(3) by reason of the configuration of the building, or substantial structural defects not brought about by deferred maintenance practices or intentional conduct, could no longer be functionally or economically utilized in the capacity in which it was formerly utilized.

For purposes of this subdivision, construction shall be deemed to have commenced as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(a-2) Where eligibility for benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law is sought for any construction on any tax lot now existing or hereafter created which is located south of or adjacent to either side of one hundred tenth street in the borough of Manhattan which construction commenced on or after May twelfth, two thousand and before the effective date of the local law that added subdivisions (a-3) and (a-4) of this section on the basis that such construction shall take place on land which, on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of such construction, was improved with a nonresidential building or buildings and was under-utilized, the under-utilization of the land must have been such that each building or buildings:

(1) contained no more than the permissible floor area ratio for nonresidential buildings in the zoning district in question and a floor area ratio which was fifty percent or less of the maximum floor area ratio for residential buildings, or

(2) had an assessed valuation equal to or less than fifty percent of the assessed valuation of the land on which the building or buildings were situated, or

(3) by reason of the configuration of the building, or substantial structural defects not brought about by deferred maintenance practices or intentional conduct, could no longer be functionally or economically utilized in the capacity in which it was formerly utilized.

For purposes of this subdivision, construction shall be deemed to have commenced as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(a-3) Except as provided in subdivision (a-4) of this section, where eligibility for benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law is sought for any construction commenced on or after the effective date of the local law that added this subdivision on the basis that such construction shall take place on land which, on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of such construction, was improved with a nonresidential building or buildings and was under-utilized, the under-utilization of the land must have been such that each building or buildings:

(1) contained no more than the permissible floor area ratio for nonresidential buildings in the zoning district in question and either (i) had a floor area ratio which was seventy-five percent or less of the maximum floor area ratio for residential buildings in such zoning district, or (ii) if the land was not zoned to permit residential use on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of construction, had a floor area ratio which was seventy-five percent or less of the floor area ratio of the residential building which replaces such non-residential building, or

(2) had an assessed valuation equal to or less than seventy-five percent of the assessed valuation of the land on which the building or buildings were situated, or

(3) by reason of the configuration of the building, or substantial structural defects not brought about by deferred maintenance practices or intentional conduct, could no longer be functionally or economically utilized in the capacity in which it was formerly utilized.

For purposes of this subdivision, construction shall be deemed to have commenced as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(a-4) Where eligibility for benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law is sought for any construction on any tax lot now existing or hereafter created which is located south of or adjacent to either side of one hundred tenth street in the borough of Manhattan which construction commenced on or after the effective date of the local law that added this subdivision on the basis that such construction shall take place on land which, on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of such construction, was improved with a nonresidential building or buildings and was under-utilized, the under-utilization of the land must have been such that each building or buildings:

(1) contained no more than the permissible floor area ratio for nonresidential buildings in the zoning district in question and either (i) had a floor area ratio which was fifty percent or less of the maximum floor area ratio for residential buildings in such zoning district, or (ii) if the land was not zoned to permit residential use on the date thirty-six months prior to the commencement of construction, had a floor area ratio which was fifty percent or less of the floor area ratio of the residential building which replaces such non-residential building, or

(2) had an assessed valuation equal to or less than fifty percent of the assessed valuation of the land on which the building or buildings were situated, or

(3) by reason of the configuration of the building, or substantial structural defects not brought about by deferred maintenance practices or intentional conduct, could no longer be functionally or economically utilized in the capacity in which it was formerly utilized.

For purposes of this subdivision, construction shall be deemed to have commenced as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(b) The department of housing preservation and development may promulgate rules and regulations for the effectuation of the purposes of this section.

(c) The limitations on benefits contained in this section shall be in addition to those contained in any other law or regulation.

§ 11-245.1-a Boundary38 review commission.

(a) There shall be established a boundary review commission consisting of eleven members, including the commissioner of finance, the commissioner of housing preservation and development, the commissioner of buildings, the chairperson of the department of city planning, the director of the office of management and budget, the executive director of the board of standards and appeals and five members chosen by the speaker of the council. The appointees of the speaker of the council shall serve at the pleasure of the speaker. The commission shall elect a chairperson from among its members.

(b) The boundary review commission shall undertake a biennial review of the tax benefit program established pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law to determine whether the areas for which the tax benefits are restricted pursuant to those provisions of the administrative code which relate to such program should be revised in any manner.

(c) In conducting a review to determine whether geographic exclusion zones restricting benefits provided pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law should be revised, the commission shall review measures of housing activity and housing market conditions throughout the city including (i) the amount of new development; (ii) values in land sales, residential sales prices and rents; (iii) trends in land sales, residential sales prices and rents and other development trend data including land use trends, lot consolidation and board of standards and appeals actions; (iv) development potential; (v) relationship between volume of potential development and existing housing; and (vi) financial feasibility of development with and without the benefits provided pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

(d) On or before December first of each even numbered year following the enactment of the local law that added this section, such commission shall submit a report to the speaker of the council and the mayor on its deliberations and shall include recommendations for revisions to such boundaries that it deems appropriate or why no revisions were recommended, including the methodology by which it applied the criteria in subdivision c of this section to arrive at its recommendations, and all data used to make such recommendations. Any recommendations shall be consistent with the provisions of section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-245.1-b Limitations39 on benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

(a) As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Residential tax lot" shall mean a tax lot that contains dwelling units.

(2) "Non-residential tax lot" shall mean a tax lot that does not contain any dwelling units.

(3) "Annual limit" shall mean sixty-five thousand dollars, which amount shall be increased by three percent, compounded annually, on each taxable status date following the first anniversary of the effective date of the local law that added this section.

(4) "Certificate of occupancy" shall mean the first certificate of occupancy covering all residential areas of the building on or containing a tax lot.

(5) "Unit count" shall mean (i) in the case of a residential tax lot that does not contain any commercial, community facility or accessory use space, the number of dwelling units in such tax lot, and (ii) in the case of a residential tax lot that contains commercial, community facility or accessory use space, the number of dwelling units in such tax lot plus one.

(6) "Exemption cap" shall mean the unit count multiplied by the annual limit.

(b) The provisions of this section shall apply only to projects that commence construction on or after the effective date of the local law that added this section.

(c) No benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law shall be conferred for any multiple dwelling containing fewer than four dwelling units, as set forth in the certificate of occupancy, unless the construction of such multiple dwelling is carried out with substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality where such assistance is provided pursuant to a program for the development of affordable housing.

(d) The portion of the assessed valuation of any residential tax lot exempted from real property taxation in any year pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law shall not exceed the exemption cap on or after the first taxable status date after the building on or containing such tax lot receives its certificate of occupancy unless, in accordance with a regulatory agreement with or approved by the department of housing preservation and development that is applicable to such tax lot, (1) the construction of such building is carried out with substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality and such assistance is provided pursuant to a program for the development of affordable housing, or (2) the department of housing preservation and development has imposed a requirement or has certified that twenty per cent of the units be restricted income units. All such restricted income units must be situated onsite. For the purposes of this section, "onsite" shall mean that restricted income units shall be situated within the building or buildings for which benefits pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law are being granted. A dwelling unit that is located in two or more tax lots shall be ineligible to receive any benefits under section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law. The portion of the assessed valuation of all non-residential tax lots in the building on or containing such non-residential tax lots exempted from real property taxation in any year pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law shall not exceed a cumulative total equal to the annual limit on or after the first taxable status date after the building on or containing such non-residential tax lots receives its certificate of occupancy.

(e) A new multiple dwelling that is situated in (1) a neighborhood preservation program area as determined by the department of housing preservation and development as of June first, nineteen hundred eighty-five, (2) a neighborhood preservation area as determined by the New York city planning commission as of June first, nineteen hundred eighty-five, (3) an area that was eligible for mortgage insurance provided by the rehabilitation mortgage insurance corporation as of May first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, or (4) an area receiving funding for a neighborhood preservation project pursuant to the neighborhood reinvestment corporation act (42 U.S.C. § 8101 et seq.) as of June first, nineteen hundred eighty-five, shall only be eligible for the benefits available pursuant to subparagraph (iii) of paragraph (a) of subdivision two of section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law if:

a. the construction is carried out with substantial assistance of grants, loans or subsidies from any federal, state or local agency or instrumentality and such assistance is provided pursuant to a program for the development of affordable housing, or

b. the department of housing preservation and development has imposed a requirement or has certified that twenty percent of the units be restricted income units. All such restricted income units must be situated onsite.

(f) The department of housing preservation and development may promulgate rules and regulations to effectuate the purposes of this section.

(g) The limitations on eligibility for benefits contained in this section shall be in addition to those contained in any other law, rule or regulation.

(h) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the limitations on eligibility for benefits contained in this section shall not apply to a covered project as defined in subparagraph (i) of paragraph a of subdivision six of section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-245.3 Exemption for persons sixty-five years of age or over.

1. Real property owned by one or more persons, each of whom is sixty-five years of age or over, or real property owned by husband and wife or by siblings, one of whom is sixty-five years of age or over, or real property owned by one or more persons, some of whom qualify under this section and section 11-245.4 of this part shall be exempt from taxes on real estate to the extent of fifty per centum of the assessed valuation thereof. For the purposes of this section, siblings shall mean a brother or a sister, whether related through halfblood, whole blood or adoption.

2. Exemption from taxation for school purposes shall not be granted in the case of real property where a child resides if such child attends a public school of elementary or secondary education.

3. No exemption shall be granted:

(a) if the income of the owner or the combined income of the owners of the property exceeds the sum of twenty-six thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand six, twenty-seven thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand seven, twenty-eight thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand eight, and twenty-nine thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand nine for the income tax year immediately preceding the date of making application for exemption. Income tax year shall mean the twelve month period for which the owner or owners filed a federal personal income tax return, or if no such return is filed, the calendar year. Where title is vested in either the husband or the wife, their combined income may not exceed such sum, except where the husband or wife, or ex-husband or ex-wife is absent from the property as provided in subparagraph (ii) of paragraph (d) of this subdivision, then only the income of the spouse or ex-spouse residing on the property shall be considered and may not exceed such sum. Such income shall include social security and retirement benefits, interest, dividends, total gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset which may be offset by a loss from the sale or exchange of a capital asset in the same income tax year, net rental income, salary or earnings, and net income from self-employment, but shall not include gifts, inheritances, a return of capital, payments made to individuals because of their status as victims of Nazi persecution as defined in P.L. 103-286, monies earned through employment in the federal foster grandparent program, and veterans disability compensation as defined in title 38 of the United States Code, and any such income shall be offset by all medical and prescription drug expenses actually paid which were not reimbursed or paid for by insurance. In computing net rental income and net income from self-employment no depreciation deduction shall be allowed for the exhaustion, wear and tear of real or personal property held for the production of income.

(b) unless the title of the property shall have been vested in the owner or one of the owners of the property for at least twelve consecutive months prior to the date of making application for exemption, provided, however, that in the event of the death of either husband or wife in whose name title of the property shall have been vested at the time of death and then becomes vested solely in the survivor by virtue of devise by or descent from the deceased husband or wife, the time of ownership of the property by the deceased husband or wife shall be deemed also a time of ownership by the survivor and such ownership shall be deemed continuous for the purposes of computing such period of twelve consecutive months, and provided further, that in the event of a transfer by either husband or wife to the other spouse of all or part of the title to the property, the time of ownership of the property by the transferer spouse shall be deemed also a time of ownership by the transferee spouse and such ownership shall be deemed continuous for the purposes of computing such period of twelve consecutive months, and provided further, that where property of the owner or owners has been acquired to replace property formerly owned by such owner or owners and taken by eminent domain or other involuntary proceeding, except a tax sale, and where a residence is sold and replaced with another within one year and both are within the state, the period of ownership of the former property shall be combined with the period of ownership of the property for which application is made for exemption and such periods of ownership shall be deemed to be consecutive for purposes of this section. Where the owner of owners transfer title to property which as of the date of transfer was exempt from taxation under the provisions of this section, the reacquisition of title by such owner or owners within nine months of the date of transfer shall be deemed to satisfy the requirement of this paragraph that the title of the property shall have been vested in the owner or one of the owners for such period of twelve consecutive months. Where, upon or subsequent to the death of an owner or owners, title to property which as of the date of such death was exempt from taxation under such provisions, becomes vested, by virtue of devise or descent from the deceased owner or owners, or by transfer by any other means within nine months after such death, solely in a person or persons who, at the time of such death, maintained such property as a primary residence, the requirement of this paragraph that the title of the property shall have been vested in the owner or one of the owners for such period of twelve consecutive months shall be deemed satisfied; (c) unless the property is used exclusively for residential purposes, provided, however, that in the event any portion of such property is not so used exclusively for residential purposes but is used for other purposes, such portion shall be subject to taxation and the remaining portion only shall be entitled to the exemption provided by this section;

(d) unless the property is the legal residence of and is occupied in whole or in part by the owner or by all of the owners of the property; except where, (i) an owner is absent from the residence while receiving health-related care as an inpatient of a residential health care facility, as defined in section twenty-eight hundred one of the public health law, provided that any income accruing to that person shall be income only to the extent that it exceeds the amount paid by such owner, spouse, or co-owner for care in the facility, and provided further, that during such confinement such property is not occupied by other than the spouse or co-owner of such owner; or, (ii) the real property is owned by a husband and/or wife, or an ex-husband and/or an ex-wife, and either is absent from the residence due to divorce, legal separation or abandonment and all other provisions of this section are met provided that where an exemption was previously granted when both resided on the property, then the person remaining on the real property shall be sixty-two years of age or over.

4. Application for such exemption must be made by the owner, or all of the owners of the property, on forms prescribed by the state board to be furnished by the department of finance and shall furnish the information and must be executed in the manner required or prescribed in such form and shall be filed in the department of finance in the borough in which the real property is located between the fifteenth day of January and the fifteenth day of March. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any person otherwise qualifying under this section shall not be denied the exemption under this section if he or she becomes sixty-five years of age after the taxable status date and on or before December thirty-first of the same year.

5. At least sixty days prior to the fifteenth day of January the department of finance shall mail to each person who was granted exemption pursuant to this section on the latest completed assessment roll an application form and a notice that such application must be filed between the fifteenth day of January and the fifteenth day of March every two years from the year in which such exemption was granted and be approved in order for the exemption to be granted. The department of finance shall, within three days of the completion and filing of the tentative assessment roll, notify by mail any applicant who has included with his application at least one self-addressed, prepaid envelope, of the approval or denial of the application; provided, however, where an applicant has included two such envelopes, the department of finance shall, upon the filing of the application, send by mail, notice of receipt of that application. Where an applicant is entitled to notice of denial provided herein, such notice shall state the reasons for such denial and shall further state that such determination is reviewable in a manner provided by law. Failure to mail any such application form or notices or the failure of such person to receive any or all of the same shall not prevent the levy, collection and enforcement of the payment of the taxes on property owned by such person.

6. Any conviction of having made any willful false statement in the application for such exemption shall be punishable by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars and shall disqualify the applicant or applicants from further exemption for a period of five years.

7. Notwithstanding the maximum income exemption eligibility level provided in subdivision three of this section, an exemption, subject to all other provisions of this section, shall be granted as indicated in the following schedule:

Annual Income as of July 1, 2006	Percentage Assessed Valuation Exempt From Taxation
More than $26,000 but less than $27,000	45 per centum

8. Any exemption provided by this section shall be computed after all partial exemptions allowed by law have been subtracted from the total amount assessed.

9. Exemption from taxation as provided in this section on real property owned by husband and wife, one of whom is sixty-five years of age or older, once granted, shall not be rescinded solely because of the death of the older spouse so long as the surviving spouse is at least sixty-two years of age.

10. a. For the purposes of this section, title to that portion of real property owned by a cooperative apartment corporation in which a tenant-stockholder of such corporation resides and which is represented by his or her share or shares of stock in such corporation as determined by its or their proportional relationship to the total outstanding stock of the corporation, including that owned by the corporation, shall be deemed to be vested in such tenant-stockholder. That proportion of the assessment of real property owned by a cooperative apartment corporation, determined by the relationship of such real property vested in such tenant-stockholder to such entire parcel and the buildings thereon owned by such cooperative apartment corporation in which such tenant-stockholder resides, shall be subject to exemption from taxation pursuant to this section and any exemption so granted shall be credited by the department of finance against the assessed valuation of such real property; the reduction in real property taxes realized thereby shall be credited by the cooperative apartment corporation against the amount of such taxes otherwise payable by or chargeable to such tenant-stockholder. Each cooperative apartment corporation shall notify each tenant-stockholder in residence thereof of such provisions as are set forth in this section.

b. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a tenant-stockholder who resides in a dwelling which is subject to the provisions of either article II, IV, V or XI of the private housing finance law and who is eligible for a rent increase exemption pursuant to chapter seven of title twenty-six of this code shall not be eligible for an exemption pursuant to this subdivision. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a tenant-stockholder who resides in a dwelling which is subject to the provisions of either article II, IV, V or XI of the private housing finance law and who is not eligible for a rent increase exemption pursuant to chapter seven of title twenty-six of this code but who meets the requirements for eligibility for an exemption pursuant to this section shall be eligible for such exemption provided that such exemption shall be in an amount determined by multiplying the exemption otherwise allowable pursuant to this section by a fraction having a numerator equal to the amount of real property taxes or payments in lieu of taxes that were paid with respect to such dwelling and a denominator equal to the full amount of real property taxes that would have been owed with respect to such dwelling had it not been granted an exemption or abatement of real property taxes pursuant to any provision of law, provided, however, that any reduction in real property taxes received with respect to such dwelling pursuant to chapter seven of title twenty-six of this code or pursuant to this section shall not be considered in calculating such numerator. Any tenant-stockholder who resides in a dwelling which was or continues to be subject to a mortgage insured or initially insured by the federal government pursuant to section two hundred thirteen of the national housing act, as amended, and who is eligible for both a rent increase exemption pursuant to chapter seven of title twenty-six of this code and an exemption pursuant to this subdivision, may apply for and receive either a rent increase exemption pursuant to such chapter or an exemption pursuant to this subdivision, but not both.

11. Exemption Option. Notwithstanding any provision of this part to the contrary, real property owned by one or more persons where one of such owners qualifies for a real property tax exemption pursuant to this section or section 11-245.4 of this part, and another of such owners qualifies for a different tax exemption pursuant to such sections of this part as authorized by state law, such owners shall have the option of choosing the one exemption which is most beneficial to such owners. Such owners shall not be prohibited from taking one such exemption solely on the basis that such owners qualify for more than one exemption and therefore are not eligible for any exemptions.

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-245.4 Exemption for persons with disabilities.

1. (a) Real property owned by one or more persons with disabilities, or real property owned by a husband, wife, or both, or by siblings, at least one of whom has a disability, or real property owned by one or more persons, some of whom qualify under this section and section 11-245.3 of this part, and whose income, as hereafter defined, is limited by reason of such disability, shall be exempt from taxes on real estate to the extent of fifty per centum of the assessed valuation thereof as hereinafter provided. For purposes of this section, sibling shall mean a brother or a sister, whether related through half blood, whole blood or adoption.

(b) For purposes of this section, a person with a disability is one who has a physical or mental impairment, not due to current use of alcohol or illegal drug use, which substantially limits such person's ability to engage in one or more major life activities, such as caring for one's self, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning and working, and who (i) is certified to receive social security disability insurance (SSDI) or supplemental security income (SSI) benefits under the federal social security act, or (ii) is certified to receive railroad retirement disability benefits under the federal railroad retirement act, or (iii) has received a certificate from the state commission for the blind and visually handicapped stating that such person is legally blind, or (iv) is certified to receive a United States postal service disability pension. An award letter from the social security administration or the railroad retirement board or a certificate from the state commission for the blind and visually handicapped or an award letter from the United States postal service shall be submitted as proof of disability.

2. Exemption from taxation for school purposes shall not be granted in the case of real property where a child resides if such child attends a public school of elementary or secondary education.

3. No exemption shall be granted:

(a) if the income of the owner or the combined income of the owners of the property for the income tax year immediately preceding the date of making application for exemption exceeds the sum of twenty-six thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand six, twenty-seven thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand seven, twenty-eight thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand eight, and twenty-nine thousand dollars beginning July first, two thousand nine. Income tax year shall mean the twelve month period for which the owner or owners filed a federal personal income tax return, or if no such return is filed, the calendar year. Where title is vested in either the husband or the wife, their combined income may not exceed such sum, except where the husband or wife, or ex-husband or ex-wife is absent from the property due to divorce, legal separation or abandonment, then only the income of the spouse or ex-spouse residing on the property shall be considered and may not exceed such sum. Such income shall include social security and retirement benefits, interest, dividends, total gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset which may be offset by a loss from the sale or exchange of a capital asset in the same income tax year, net rental income, salary or earnings, and net income from self-employment, but shall not include a return of capital, gifts, inheritances or monies earned through employment in the federal foster grandparent program and any such income shall be offset by all medical and prescription drug expenses actually paid which were not reimbursed or paid for by insurance. In computing net rental income and net income from self-employment no depreciation deduction shall be allowed for the exhaustion, wear and tear of real or personal property held for the production of income;

(b) unless the property is used exclusively for residential purposes, provided, however, that in the event any portion of such property is not so used exclusively for residential purposes but is used for other purposes, such portion shall be subject to taxation and the remaining portion only shall be entitled to the exemption provided by this section;

(c) unless the real property is the legal residence of and is occupied in whole or in part by the disabled person; except where the disabled person is absent from the residence while receiving health-related care as an inpatient of a residential health care facility, as defined in section twenty-eight hundred one of the public health law, provided that any income accruing to that person shall be considered income for purposes of this section only to the extent that it exceeds the amount paid by such person or spouse or sibling of such person for care in the facility.

4. Application for such exemption must be made annually by the owner, or all of the owners of the property, on forms prescribed by the state board, and shall be filed with the department of finance on or before the fifteenth day of March of the appropriate year; provided, however, proof of a permanent disability need be submitted only in the year exemption pursuant to this section is first sought or the disability is first determined to be permanent.

5. At least sixty days prior to the fifteenth day of March of the appropriate year, the department of finance shall mail to each person who was granted exemption pursuant to this section on the latest completed assessment roll an application form and a notice that such application must be filed on or before the fifteenth day of March and be approved in order for the exemption to continue to be granted. Failure to mail such application form or the failure of such person to receive the same shall not prevent the levy, collection and enforcement of the payment of the taxes on property owned by such person.

6. Notwithstanding the maximum income exemption eligibility level provided in subdivision three of this section, an exemption, subject to all other provisions of this section, shall be granted as indicated in the following schedule:

7. Any exemption provided by this section shall be computed after all other partial exemptions allowed by law have been subtracted from the total amount assessed; provided, however, that no parcel may receive an exemption pursuant to both this section and section 11-245.3.

8. (a) For purposes of this section, title to that portion of real property owned by a cooperative apartment corporation in which a tenant-stockholder of such corporation resides, and which is represented by his or her share or shares of stock in such corporation as determined by its or their proportional relationship to the total outstanding stock of the corporation, including that owned by the corporation, shall be deemed to be vested in such tenant-stockholder. That proportion of the assessment of such real property owned by a cooperative apartment corporation determined by the relationship of such real property vested in such tenant-stockholder to such entire parcel and the buildings thereon owned by such cooperative apartment corporation in which such tenant-stockholder resides shall be subject to exemption from taxation pursuant to this section and any exemption so granted shall be credited by the department of finance against the assessed valuation of such real property; the reduction in real property taxes realized thereby shall be credited by the cooperative apartment corporation against the amount of such taxes otherwise payable by or chargeable to such tenant-stockholder.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a tenant-stockholder who resides in a dwelling which is subject to the provisions of either article II, IV, V or XI of the private housing finance law shall not be eligible for an exemption pursuant to this subdivision.

9. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the provisions of this section shall apply to real property held in trust solely for the benefit of a person or persons who would otherwise be eligible for a real property tax exemption, pursuant to subdivision one of this section, were such person or persons the owner or owners of such real property.

10. Exemption Option. Notwithstanding any provision of this part to the contrary, real property owned by one or more persons where one of such owners qualifies for a real property tax exemption pursuant to this section or section 11-245.3 of this part, and another of such owners qualifies for a different tax exemption pursuant to such sections of this part as authorized by state law, such owners shall have the option of choosing the one exemption which is most beneficial to such owners. Such owners shall not be prohibited from taking one such exemption solely on the basis that such owners qualify for more than one exemption and therefore are not eligible for any exemptions.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 1 EXEMPTIONS FOR CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

§ 11-245.6 Alternative exemption for veterans; maximum exemptions allowable.

Pursuant to subparagraph (ii) of paragraph (d) of subdivision two of section four hundred fifty-eight-a of the real property tax law, the city hereby increases the maximum exemptions allowable in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of subdivision two of section four hundred fifty-eight-a of the real property tax law. The maximum exemption allowable in such paragraph (a) shall be fifteen percent of the assessed value of the qualifying residential real property; provided, however, that such exemption shall not exceed fifty-four thousand dollars or the product of fifty-four thousand dollars multiplied by the latest class ratio, whichever is less. In addition to the exemption provided by such paragraph (a), as increased by this section, the maximum exemption allowable in such paragraph (b) shall be ten percent of the assessed value of the qualifying residential real property; provided, however, that such exemption shall not exceed thirty-six thousand dollars or the product of thirty-six thousand dollars multiplied by the latest class ratio, whichever is less. In addition to the exemptions provided by such paragraphs (a) and (b), as increased by this section, the maximum exemption allowable in such paragraph (c) shall be the product of the assessed value of the qualifying residential real property multiplied by fifty percent of the veteran's disability rating; provided, however, that such exemption shall not exceed one hundred eighty thousand dollars or the product of one hundred eighty thousand dollars multiplied by the latest class ratio, whichever is less. The maximum exemptions allowable in such paragraphs (a), (b) and (c), as increased by this section, shall not apply to any assessment roll completed and filed prior to the first day of January, two

§ 11-245.8 ENERGY28 STAR appliances.

a. For the purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply in conjunction with the definitions found in sections 27-232 and 27-2004 of this code:

(1) The term "ENERGY STAR" shall mean a designation from the United States environmental protection agency or department of energy indicating that a product meets the energy efficiency standards set forth by the agency for compliance with the ENERGY STAR program.

(2) The term "household appliance" shall mean any refrigerator, room air conditioner, dishwasher or clothes washer, within a dwelling unit in a multiple dwelling that is provided by the owner of such multiple dwelling. This definition shall also include any boiler or furnace that provides heat or hot water for any dwelling unit in a multiple dwelling.

b. For any building for which any benefit is conferred pursuant to four hundred eighty-nine of the real property tax law, whenever any household appliance in any dwelling unit, or any household appliance that provides heat or hot water for any dwelling unit in a multiple dwelling, is installed or replaced with a new household appliance, such new appliance shall be certified as Energy Star.

c. For any building for which any benefit is conferred pursuant to section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law, whenever any household appliance in any dwelling unit, or any household appliance that provides heat or hot water for any dwelling unit in a multiple dwelling, is installed or replaced with a new household appliance, such new appliance shall be certified as Energy Star.

d. The commissioner may enact rules requiring additional energy conservation measures for any building for which any benefit is conferred pursuant to section four hundred eighty-nine of the real property tax law or section four hundred twenty-one-a of the real property tax law.

e. The commissioner shall inform applicants for any benefits affected by this section of the requirements of this section.

f. The requirements of subdivisions b and c of this section shall not apply where:

1) an ENERGY STAR certified household appliance of appropriate size is not manufactured, such that movement of walls or fixtures would be necessary to create sufficient space for such appliance; or

2) an ENERGY STAR certified boiler or furnace of sufficient capacity is not manufactured.

shall take effect Dec. 19, 2006. [See Note 1]

1. Provisions of L.L. 107/2005:

Section 1. Statement of findings and purpose. Home electricity and gas expenses represent a substantial cost for many low-income New Yorkers in rental apartments. For example, nationally in 1997, households in multi-family buildings spent an average of $848 per year on energy.29 In addition, since much of New York City's electricity is produced within the City, energy consumption translates directly into greater local pollution, including emissions of sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides, particulate matter, carbon dioxide and mercury. These pollutants contribute to respiratory disease, heart disease, smog, acid rain and climate change. Moreover, as energy demand rises, so does our reliance on dirty, inefficient power plants and the City and nation's dependence on foreign oil and natural gas.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Energy certify a wide range of household appliances and building materials as energy efficient through the ENERGY STAR program, including refrigerators, room air conditioners, dishwashers, clothes washers and windows. For example, ENERGY STAR qualified dishwashers use 25% less energy than the federal minimum standard for energy consumption. ENERGY STAR certified products are widely available and generally have little or no cost premium compared with uncertified products. Even when Energy Star products are more expensive than conventional options, these products more than pay for the increased price over time through reduced energy costs.

When people buy appliances for their own homes, they have an incentive to ensure that the appliances use the least energy possible because homeowners pay for their energy costs. When landlords or developers, however, purchase appliances, they do not have the same incentive. Since it is tenants or future owners who generally pay for energy costs, the primary financial concern for landlords and developers is to limit the up-front costs of appliances, without regard for energy consumption.

The Council finds that the increased use of Energy Star certified appliances for apartments in New York City will substantially reduce household energy costs as well as the City's electricity consumption and air pollution. Accordingly, the Council declares that it is reasonable and necessary to require those who receive certain tax benefits from the City to purchase Energy Star certified appliances when they replace appliances in rental apartments.

§ 11-246 Taxation of property of nonprofit organizations, pharmaceutical societies and dental societies.

1. a. Pursuant to the requirements of sections four hundred twenty-a and four hundred forty-six of the real property tax law, real property owned by a corporation or association which is organized or conducted exclusively for religious, charitable, hospital, educational or cemetery purposes, or for the purposes of the moral or mental improvement of men, women or children or for two or more such purposes shall not be taxable.

b. Real property owned by a corporation or association which is organized or conducted exclusively for Bible, tract, benevolent, missionary, infirmary, public playground, scientific, literary, library, patriotic or historical purposes, for the development of good sportsmanship for persons under the age of eighteen years through the conduct of supervised athletic games, or for the enforcement of laws relating to children or animals, or for two or more such purposes, and used exclusively for carrying out thereupon one or more of such purposes either by the owning corporation or association, or by another such corporation or association as provided in section four hundred twenty-b of the real property tax law shall not be taxable. Any corporation or association which uses real property exempted from taxation pursuant to this paragraph shall make available to the city council, the commissioner of finance and the public a report, in such form as may be prescribed by the commissioner of finance, setting forth the efforts of such corporation or association undertaken in the previous calendar year to provide assistance to city programs and city residents, by filing such report with the city clerk not later than June first of each year.

c. Real property owned by a corporation or association which is organized or conducted exclusively for bar association or medical society purposes, or both such purposes, and used exclusively for carrying out thereupon one or both such purposes either by the owning corporation or association, or by another such corporation or association shall be taxable pursuant to the authority contained in section four hundred twenty-b of the real property tax law.

2. Real property from which no rent is derived and which is owned by an incorporated pharmaceutical society which is either wholly or partly within the city, which society has heretofore been or may hereafter be authorized and empowered by act of the legislature to establish and which has established or may hereafter establish a college of pharmacy in this city shall be taxable.

3. Real property from which no income is derived which is owned by a dental society of any judicial district which judicial district is wholly or partly within the city, which dental society was incorporated under the education law shall be taxable.

4. Real property previously exempt from taxation but made taxable pursuant to this section as of the first day of January, nineteen hundred seventy-two shall be taxed for the period from the first day of January to and including the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred seventy-two by applying one-half of the tax rate for the fiscal year nineteen hundred seventy-one, seventy-two to the assessments made and exemptions claimed with reference to the taxable status date falling on the twenty-fifth day of January, nineteen hundred seventy-two. The taxes thus computed for the period from the first day of January to and including the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred seventy-two shall be due and payable on the first day of June, nineteen hundred seventy-two.

5. Real property which is taxable under this section shall be subject to any special ad valorem levies and special assessments which are imposed to defray the cost of improvements or services furnished by the city.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Real property of Association of Bar of City of New York used for association purposes did not qualify for exemption from real property taxes because it was not organized and conducted primarily for charitable and educational purposes, and this section is not unconstitutional. Association of the Bar of City of N.Y. v. Lewisohn, 34 N.Y. 2d 143, 313 N.E. 2d 30, 356 N.Y.S. 2d 555 [1974].

¶ 2. Real property of organization conducted for scientific purposes was not entitled to tax exemption although it had adjunctive charitable and educational attributes. Matter of Explorers Club v. PART 3 TAX EXEMPTION FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

When used in this part:

a. "Applicant" means any person or corporation obligated to pay real property taxes on the property for which an exemption is sought, or in the case of exempt property, the record owner thereof, provided, however, that such property is not commercial property located in an area designated as excluded pursuant to section 11-249 of this part;

b. "Board" means the industrial and commercial incentive board;

c. "Commercial" means any non-residential property used primarily for the buying, selling or otherwise providing of goods or services, provided that the use of such property has not been designated as a restricted commercial use pursuant to section 11-249 of this part;

d. "Construction" means the building of new industrial or commercial structures on vacant or predominantly vacant land, or the modernization, rehabilitation or expansion or other improvements of an existing commercial structure where such modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or other improvement is not physically or functionally integrated with the existing structure or results in additional usable square footage fifty per centum greater than the square footage of the existing structure;

e. "Industrial" means property used primarily for the manufacturing or assembling of goods or the processing of raw materials;

f. "Predominantly vacant land" means land, including land under water, on which not more than fifteen percent of the lot area contains enclosed, permanent improvements; in addition, such land may include existing foundations. A fence, shed, garage, attendant's booth, paving, pier, bulkhead, lighting fixtures, and similar items, or any improvement having an assessed value of less than two thousand dollars shall not constitute an enclosed, permanent improvement;

g. "Reconstruction" means the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or other improvement of an existing commercial or industrial structure where the total proposed project cost is in an amount equal to at least twenty per centum of the assessed value of the property at the time an application for a certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part is made, and where such modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or other improvement is physically and functionally integrated with the existing structure and does not create additional usable square footage greater than fifty per centum of the usable square footage of the existing structure except in a case where the existing structure has been substantially destroyed by fire or other casualty;

h. "Residential property" shall mean property, other than property used for hotel purposes, on which will exist upon completion of construction a building or structure containing more than one independent dwelling unit or where more than one-third of the total square footage of said structure is to be used for residential purposes; it shall also mean, in the case of reconstruction, property on which exists or will exist upon completion of the reconstruction a building or structure where more than one-third of the total square footage is used or is to be used for dwelling purposes;

i. "Vacant land" means land, including land under water, which contains no enclosed, permanent improvement. A fence, shed, garage, attendant's booth, paving, pier, bulkhead, lighting fixtures, and similar items, or any improvement having an assessed value of less than two thousand dollars shall not constitute an enclosed, permanent improvement.

§ 11-248 Industrial and commercial incentive board.

There shall be an industrial and commercial incentive board to consist of the deputy mayor for economic policy and development who shall be chairperson of the board, the commissioner of finance, the chairperson of the city planning commission and the director of management and budget, each of whom shall have the power to designate an alternate to represent him or her at board meetings with all the rights and powers, including the right to vote, reserved to all board members, provided that such designation be in writing to the chairperson of the board, and three other members to be appointed by the mayor. In addition, the borough president of each borough or his or her designated representative, shall be a member of such board for the purpose of taking action with respect to property located in his or her borough. The members of the board who shall be agents, officers, or employees of the city shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties. The members of the board who are not agents, officers, or employees of the city shall receive as compensation for their services one hundred dollars per diem, provided, however, that the total compensation paid to any such member shall not exceed twelve hundred dollars for any calendar year. § 11-249 Functions, powers and duties of the board; annual designation of exemption areas and restricted commercial uses.

a. The members of the board shall have the following functions, powers and duties:

1. to receive and review applications for certificates of eligibility pursuant to the charter and pursuant to subdivision thirteen of section 11-604 and subdivision (e) of section 11-503 of this title;

2. to make findings and determinations on the qualifications of applicants for certificates of eligibility pursuant to this part and pursuant to subdivision thirteen of section 11-658 and subdivision (e) of section 11-503 of this title;

3. to issue certificates of eligibility and amendments thereto;

4. to make recommendations to the tax commission on the termination of a tax exemption pursuant to section 11-253 of this part; 5. to designate annually, pursuant to subdivision b of this section, areas in which exemptions for commercial construction or reconstruction shall be granted as of right, areas from which such exemptions shall be excluded and commercial uses for which the granting of exemptions shall be restricted; and

6. to make and promulgate rules and regulations to carry out the purposes of the board.

b. (1) Not later than October first of each year the board shall publish a notice at least once in the official paper or a newspaper of general circulation in the city setting forth: (i) the proposed boundaries of areas in which commercial construction or reconstruction shall be granted exemptions as of right, proposed boundaries of areas from which exemptions for commercial construction or reconstruction shall be excluded and proposed restricted commercial uses; and (ii) the date, not earlier than ten nor later than thirty days following the publication of such notice, on which the board will hold a public hearing to hear all persons interested in the designation of such boundaries and restricted commercial uses.

(2) Not earlier than ten nor later than thirty days following the conclusion of the public hearing provided for in paragraph one of this subdivision, the board shall designate the boundaries of areas in which exemptions for commercial construction or reconstruction shall be granted as of right and areas from which such exemptions shall be excluded and shall also designate restricted commercial uses. Such designations shall be made upon the following determinations:

(i) With respect to areas in which exemption for commercial construction or reconstruction shall be granted as of right, the board shall determine that market conditions in each area are such that exemptions are required to attract commercial construction or reconstruction to the area and that attracting such construction or reconstruction, and the granting of exemptions therefor, are in the public interest. In making such determination, the board may consider, among other factors, that the area is experiencing economic distress or is characterized by an unusually large number of vacant, underutilized, unsuitable or substandard structures, or by other substandard, unsanitary, deteriorated or deteriorating conditions, with or without tangible blight, or that commercial development in the area will be beneficial to the city's economy.

(ii) With respect to areas from which exemptions for commercial construction or reconstruction are to be excluded, the board shall determine that market conditions in each area are such that exemptions are not required to attract commercial construction or reconstruction to the area, or that it is not in the public interest to grant exemptions for commercial construction or reconstruction in the area. No applications for exemptions for commercial construction or reconstruction shall be accepted from such areas.

(iii) With respect to restricted commercial uses, the board shall determine that it is not in the public interest to grant exemptions for such uses unless the board further determines that in certain areas designated pursuant to this subdivision, such uses will have an especially positive impact on the area's economy. All applications for exemptions for restricted commercial uses shall be determined pursuant to paragraphs two and three of subdivision b of section 11-251 of this part.

(3) Designations made pursuant to this subdivision shall be effective on the first day of January of each year.

c. So far as practicable and subject to the approval of the mayor, the services of all other city departments and agencies shall be made available by their respective heads to the board for the carrying out of the functions stated in this part. The head of any department or agency shall furnish information in the possession of such department or agency when the board, after consultation with the mayor, so requests.

PART 3 TAX EXEMPTION FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

a. A real property tax exemption pursuant to this part shall be granted to an applicant who, within a period of thirty-six months, or following an extension pursuant to section 11-254 of this part within a period of forty-eight months, from the date of issuance of a certificate of eligibility has completed reconstruction or construction work in accordance with the plans approved by the board in the certificate of eligibility. The amount of the tax exemption shall be determined as follows:

(1) In the case of an applicant who has completed industrial construction or reconstruction work, or commercial reconstruction work designated as of right pursuant to section 11-249 of this part or as specially needed pursuant to section 11-251 of this part, the tax exemption shall continue for nineteen tax years in an amount decreasing by five per centum each year from an exemption of ninety-five per centum of the exemption base, as defined in paragraph four of this subdivision.

(2) In the case of an applicant who has completed other commercial reconstruction work, or new commercial construction work designated as of right pursuant to section 11-249 of this part or as specially needed pursuant to section 11-251 of this part, the tax exemption shall continue for ten tax years, in an amount decreasing by five per centum each year from an exemption of fifty per centum of the exemption base.

(3) In the case of an applicant who has completed other new commercial construction work, the exemption shall continue for five tax years in an amount decreasing by ten per centum each year from an exemption of fifty per centum of the exemption base.

(4) The term "exemption base" shall mean the difference between the final assessed value of the property as determined upon completion of the construction or reconstruction work and the lesser of (i) the assessed value of the property at the time an application for certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part is made, or (ii) the assessed value as may thereafter be reduced pursuant to application to the tax commission.

The tax exemption shall be computed according to the following tables:

[See tabular material in printed version]

b. The taxes payable during the period from the issuance of a certificate of eligibility to the approval of the tax exemption pursuant to section 11-252 of this part shall be paid on the lesser of:

(1) the assessed value of the property at the time an application for a certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part is made, or

(2) the assessed value as may thereafter be reduced pursuant to application to the tax commission, provided, however, that if reconstruction or construction is not completed in accordance with the plans approved in the certificate of eligibility including any amendments thereto, taxes shall be due and payable retroactively as otherwise required by law.

c. In all cases where the board shall have issued a certificate of eligibility prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, the exemption percentage shall apply to any subsequent increase in the assessed valuation of the property during the tenure of the exemption. Where the board has issued a certificate of eligibility on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, the exemption percentage shall apply to any subsequent increase in the assessed valuation of the property during the first two years after approval of the tax exemption pursuant to section 11-252 of this part. Commencing two years after approval of the tax exemption pursuant to section 11-252 of this part, the exemption percentage shall apply to any subsequent increase in assessed valuation of the property only to the extent such increase is attributable to the construction or reconstruction work approved in the certificate of eligibility.

d. The provisions of this part shall not apply to any increase in assessed value resulting from the construction or reconstruction of a residential structure on any property receiving an exemption under the provisions of this part. The provisions of this part shall apply exclusively to those structures and the lands underlying them which were identified explicitly in the certificate of eligibility.

e. The provisions of this part shall not apply if any new or rehabilitated construction displaces or replaces a building or buildings containing more than twenty-five occupied dwelling units in existence on the date an application for certificate of eligibility is submitted for preliminary approval pursuant to section 11-251 of this part, which are administered under the local emergency housing rent control act, the rent stabilization law of nineteen hundred sixty-nine or the emergency tenant protection act of nineteen seventy-four, unless a certificate of eviction has been issued for any of the displaced or replaced units pursuant to the powers granted by the city rent and rehabilitation law.

f. The provisions of this part shall not apply to an applicant who has commenced construction or reconstruction work prior to the granting of a certificate of eligibility except where applicant, having filed an application for a certificate of eligibility, receives written permission to commence from the board or its designated representative prior to the granting of a certificate of eligibility. Demolition of existing structures, site preparation limited to grading, filling or clearing, or the curing of a safety or sanitary hazard shall not be deemed to be commencement of construction or reconstruction work.

g. Any property enjoying the benefits of a tax exemption approved by the board shall be ineligible for any subsequent or additional tax exemption pursuant to the provisions of this part until the expiration of the original exemption period or earlier termination of the existing exemption by action of the tax commission.

PART 3 TAX EXEMPTION FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

a. Applications for a certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part shall be submitted for preliminary approval to the office for economic development commencing immediately after March first, nineteen hundred eighty-two and continuing until the thirty-first day of January, nineteen hundred eighty-six, on such form or forms as shall be prescribed by the board. In addition to any other information required by the board, the application shall include plans for reconstruction or construction that have been certified by a professional engineer or an architect of the applicant's choice and cost estimates or bids for the proposed reconstruction or construction. Upon a finding by such office that the application satisfies the requirements of reconstruction or construction as defined in this part, the application shall be presented to the board for evaluation and written notice thereof shall be given to the community board of the district in which the application site is located.

b. (1) In the case of an application for construction or reconstruction of an industrial structure or a commercial structure located in an area designated as of right, the board shall issue a certificate of eligibility upon determining that the application satisfies the requirements of construction or reconstruction as defined in this part, that the applicant has obtained plans for construction or reconstruction certified by a professional engineer or architect, and that the applicant has otherwise complied with the provisions of this part and other applicable provisions of law.

(2) In the case of an application for construction or reconstruction of a commercial structure not located in an as of right area, or involving a restricted commercial use, the board shall issue a certificate of eligibility upon making the determination specified in paragraph one of this subdivision and upon making the further determination that the granting of a tax exemption for the construction or reconstruction of such a structure in the proposed location is in the public interest. In making such determination, the board shall make findings that there is a need in the area for the services the enterprise will provide, that the enterprise will generate or retain employment in the area, and that a tax incentive is required to attract construction or reconstruction of such a structure to the area. In addition, the board shall consider the economic impact such commercial structure will have in the area.

(3) In the case of an application for construction or reconstruction of a commercial structure not located in an as of right area, or involving a restricted commercial use, the board may make a further determination that special circumstances warrant designating the proposed construction or reconstruction as "specially needed". In making such determination, the board shall make findings that the commercial services to be provided will have an especially positive impact on the area's or the city's economy and that the applicant has demonstrated that the project cannot go forward without the greater exemption granted by such designation.

c. Any meeting of the board at which an application for a certificate of eligibility is to be considered shall be open to the public, and notice of such meeting shall be given at least two weeks prior thereto by publication in a newspaper of general circulation within the city.

d. The burden of proof shall be on the applicant to show by clear and convincing evidence that the requirements for granting a tax exemption pursuant to this part have been satisfied, and the board shall have the authority to require that statements made in consideration of the application be taken under oath.

e. After the issuance of a certificate of eligibility the applicant shall apply to the city tax commission, during the period provided by law for filing applications for corrections of assessed valuations, for a tax exemption as provided for in section 11-250 of this part. The application shall be accompanied by a copy of the certificate of eligibility.

§ 11-256 Definitions.

When used in this part:

a. "Applicant" means any person obligated to pay real property taxes on the property for which an exemption from or abatement or deferral of real property tax payments is sought, or in the case of exempt property, the record owner or lessee thereof.

b. "Approved plans" means plans submitted to and approved by the department of buildings in connection with the applicant's building permit, including any amendments to such plans approved by such department before final inspection of the work for which such permit was issued.

c. "Benefit period" means the period of time when a recipient is eligible to receive benefits pursuant to this part including in the case of a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work in a deferral area, the period of time when tax payments are to be deferred, the interim period when no tax payments are to be deferred and no deferred tax payments are required to be made, and the period of time when the deferred tax payments are to be made.

d. "Commission" means the temporary commercial incentive area boundary commission.

e. "Commercial construction work" means the construction of a new building or structure, or portion thereof, or the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion, or other improvement of an existing building or structure, or portion thereof, for use as commercial property.

f. "Commercial property" means nonresidential property: (1) on which will exist after completion of commercial construction work, a building or structure used for the buying, selling or otherwise providing of goods or services including hotel services, or for other lawful business, commercial or manufacturing activities; and (2) (a) where, except as provided in subparagraph (b) of this paragraph and paragraph (3) of this subdivision, not more than fifteen per centum of the total net square footage of any building or structure on such property was used for manufacturing activities at any one or more times during the twenty-four months immediately preceding the date of application for a certificate of eligibility or (b) where not more than fifteen per centum of the total net square footage of any building or structure on such property was used for manufacturing activities at any one or more times during the sixty months immediately preceding the date of application for a certificate of eligibility if such property is located, in whole or in part, in the area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 96th Street; and (3) in the commercial revitalization area, and with respect to an application for a certificate of eligibility filed on or after July first, two thousand, "commercial property" means nonresidential property on which will exist after completion of commercial construction work, a building or structure used for the buying, selling or otherwise providing of goods or services including hotel services, or for other lawful business, commercial or manufacturing activities.

f-1. "Commercial revitalization area" means any district that is zoned C4, C5, C6, M1, M2, or M3 in accordance with the zoning resolution in any area of the city except the area lying south of the center line of 96th street in the borough of Manhattan.

g. "Deferral area" means an area in which deferral of payment of real property taxes in accordance with section 11-257 of this part shall be available to a recipient who has performed commercial construction work.

h. "Excluded area" means each area specified in paragraphs (1), (2) and (3) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part.

i. "Exemption base." (1) For purposes of computing the exemption pursuant to subdivision a, b, c or d of section 11-257 of this part, "exemption base" shall mean, with respect to property that is the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of June 30, 1992 or before: (a) for the first, second and third taxable years following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the assessed value of improvements made since the effective date of such certificate which are attributable exclusively to commercial or industrial construction work described in approved plans; and (b) for all other years, the assessed value of such improvements which have been made before the fourth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate.

(2) For purposes of computing the exemption pursuant to subdivision c, d or e of section 11-257 of this part, "exemption base" shall mean, with respect to property that is the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after: (a) for the first through fifth taxable years following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the assessed value of improvements made since the effective date of such certificate which are attributable exclusively to commercial or renovation construction work described in approved plans; and (b) for all other years, the assessed value of such improvements which have been made before the sixth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate.

(3) For purposes of computing the exemption pursuant to subdivision a or b of section 11-257 of this part, "exemption base" shall mean, with respect to property that is the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after: (a) for the first through fifth taxable years following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the assessed value of improvements made since the effective date of such certificate which are attributable exclusively to commercial or industrial construction work described in approved plans plus any equalization increases or minus any equalization decreases in the assessed value of the property so improved (excluding the land) occurring subsequent to the effective date of such certificate; and (b) for all other years, the assessed value of such improvements made before the sixth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate plus any equalization increases or minus any equalization decreases in the assessed value of the property so improved (excluding the land) occurring subsequent to the effective date of such certificate but before the fourteenth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate. For purposes of the preceding sentence: no adjustment shall be made to the assessed value of the improvements referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph for any portion of an equalization increase or decrease which is being phased in pursuant to section eighteen hundred five of the real property tax law subsequent to the effective date of the certificate of eligibility if such increase or decrease occurred prior to such effective date; with respect to any taxable year, an adjustment for an equalization increase or decrease shall reflect only the portion of such increase or decrease which is being phased in during such taxable year or which was phased in during a prior taxable year; no adjustment for an equalization decrease shall reduce the exemption base to an amount less than the assessed value of the improvements referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph, and, to the extent that any such decrease would reduce the exemption base below such amount, such decrease shall reduce the taxable portion of the assessed value; and no adjustment shall be made for an equalization increase or decrease if the improvements referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph do not result in a physical increase in the assessed value of the property.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subdivision, for purposes of computing the exemption pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-257 of this part, "exemption base" shall mean, with respect to industrial property that is located in the area in the borough of Manhattan lying north of the center line of 96th Street, or that is located in the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens or Staten Island; and that is the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date after December 31, 1989 and before July 1, 1992: (a) for the first, second and third taxable years following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the assessed value of improvements made since the effective date of such certificate which are attributable exclusively to industrial construction work described in approved plans; and (b) for all other years, the assessed value of such improvements made before the fourth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate plus any equalization increases or minus any equalization decreases in the assessed value of the property so improved (excluding the land) occurring subsequent to the fourth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate but before the fourteenth taxable status date following the effective date of such certificate. For purposes of the preceding sentence: no adjustment shall be made to the assessed value of the improvements referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph for any portion of an equalization increase or decrease which is being phased in pursuant to section eighteen hundred five of the real property tax law subsequent to the effective date of the certificate of eligibility if such increase or decrease occurred prior to such effective date; with respect to any taxable year, an adjustment for an equalization increase or decrease shall reflect only the portion of such increase or decrease which is being phased in during such taxable year or which was phased in during a prior taxable year; no adjustment for an equalization decrease shall reduce the exemption base to an amount less than the assessed value of the improvements referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph, and, to the extent that any such decrease would reduce the exemption base below such amount, such decrease shall reduce the taxable portion of the assessed value; and no adjustment shall be made for an equalization increase or decrease if the improvements referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph do not result in a physical increase in the assessed value of the property.

(5) For purposes of computing the exemption: (a) pursuant to subdivision e.1 of section 11-257 of this part, "exemption base" shall mean, with respect to property that is the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1995 or after and that is located in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part: for any taxable year following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the assessed value of improvements made since the effective date of such certificate which are attributable exclusively to the construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part as described in approved plans, provided such improvements are made within thirty-six months of the effective date of such certificate or by December 31, 1999, whichever is earlier; and (b) pursuant to subdivision e.1 of section 11-257 of this part, "exemption base" shall mean, with respect to property that is the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1995 or after and that is located in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (2) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part: for any taxable year following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the assessed value of improvements made since the effective date of such certificate which are attributable exclusively to the construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part as described in approved plans, provided such improvements are made within forty-two months of the effective date of such certificate.

(6) For purposes of this subdivision "equalization increase or decrease" means an increase or decrease in the assessed value of property which is not attributable to construction work, fire, demolition, destruction or other change in the physical characteristics of the property (excluding gradual physical deterioration or obsolescence), or to a change in the description or boundaries of the property.

j. "Industrial construction work" means the construction of a new building or structure or the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of an existing building or structure for use as industrial property.

k. "Industrial property" means nonresidential property on which will exist after completion of industrial construction work a building or structure wherein at least seventy-five per centum of the total net square footage is used or immediately available and held out for use for manufacturing activities involving the assembly of goods or the fabrication or processing of raw materials.

l. "Initial assessed value" means the lesser of: (1) the taxable assessed value of real property appearing on the books of the annual record of the assessed valuation of real property on the effective date of a recipient's certificate of eligibility; or (2) the assessed value to which such assessment is thereafter reduced pursuant to application to the tax commission or court order. Where the real property is used for both residential and nonresidential purposes on the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, the initial assessed value of such real property, determined as provided in the preceding sentence, shall be apportioned between the residential and nonresidential portions thereof in such manner as shall properly reflect the initial assessed value of each such portion. Such apportionment shall be in accordance with rules promulgated by the department of finance.

m. "Manufacturing activity" means an activity involving the assembly of goods or the fabrication or processing of raw materials.

n. "Minimum required expenditure" means expenditure for commercial, renovation or industrial construction work in an amount equal to twenty per centum of the initial assessed value; provided, however, that with respect to a recipient who filed an application on or after July 1, 1995 for a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work or for commercial construction work in a special exemption area or a regular exemption area, minimum required expenditure means expenditure for such work in an amount equal to ten per centum of the initial assessed value; provided, however, that with respect to a recipient who filed an application on or after July 1, 1995 for a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work and for the purpose of receiving an abatement of real property taxes in accordance with paragraph (3) of subdivision a of section 11-257 of this part, minimum required expenditure means expenditure for such work in an amount equal to twenty-five per centum of the initial assessed value; and provided further that if the department of finance, after consultation with the deputy mayor for finance and economic development, determines that a greater expenditure is required to encourage significant industrial and commercial development it may establish by rule a higher percentage of initial assessed value, not to exceed fifty per centum thereof, as the minimum required expenditure. Expenditure for residential construction work shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure; provided, however, that for mixed-use property, expenditures for construction work related to the common areas and systems of such property shall be allocated, in accordance with rules promulgated by the department of finance, between the residential and nonresidential portions of the property. If real property was used for both residential and nonresidential purposes on the effective date of the certificate of eligibility, the initial assessed value of such real property, for purposes of this subdivision, shall be the initial assessed value apportioned to the nonresidential portions thereof.

o. "Person" means an individual, corporation, partnership, association, agency, trust, estate, foreign or domestic government or subdivision thereof, or other entity.

p. "Recipient" means an applicant to whom a certificate of eligibility has been issued pursuant to this part, or the successor in interest of such applicant, provided that where a person who has entered into a lease or purchase agreement with the owner or lessee of exempt property has been a co-applicant, such person or the successor in interest of such person shall be the recipient.

q. "Regular exemption area" means an area in which a regular exemption from taxes in accordance with section 11-257 of this part shall be available to a recipient who performs commercial construction work.

r. "Residential construction work" means any construction, modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of dwelling units other than dwelling units in a hotel.

s. "Residential property" means property, other than property used for hotel purposes, on which exists, or will exist upon completion of construction work, a building or structure used for residential purposes.

t. "Restricted activity" means any entertainment activity which the department of finance has identified in regulations promulgated pursuant to this part as an activity which, in the public interest, should not be encouraged through the benefits of this part.

u. "Special exemption area" means an area in which the commission has determined that a special exemption from real property taxes in accordance with subdivision b of section 11-257 of this part shall be available to a recipient who performs commercial construction work and, in addition, means the area specified in paragraph (4) of subdivision c of section 11-258 of this part.

v. "Mixed-use property" means property on which exists, or will exist upon completion of construction work, a building or structure used for both residential and nonresidential purposes.

w. "Renovation construction work" means the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of an existing building or structure, or portion thereof, for use as commercial property in a renovation exemption area where such modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement is physically and functionally integrated with the existing building or structure, or portion thereof, does not increase the bulk of the existing building or structure by more than thirty per centum and does not increase the height of the existing building or structure by more than thirty per centum.

x. "Renovation exemption area" means the area specified in paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part in which a renovation exemption from taxes in accordance with subdivision e of section 11-257 of this part shall be available to a recipient who performs renovation construction work.

y. "New construction exemption areas" means the areas specified in subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part in which an exemption from real property taxes in accordance with subdivision e.1 of section 11-257 of this part shall be available to a recipient who constructs a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part.

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 4*14 TAX EXEMPTION AND DEFERRAL OF TAX PAYMENT FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

§ 11-257 Real property tax exemption; deferral of tax payments.

The city shall be divided into six classes of areas as provided in this part and pursuant to designation of areas to be made by the temporary commercial incentive area boundary commission. Within such areas, the following benefits shall be available to qualified recipients:

a. (1) A recipient who, following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, has performed industrial construction work in any area of the city shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: For the first thirteen tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following nine tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at ninety per centum thereof in the fourteenth tax year and decreasing by ten per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for industrial construction work:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:

1 through 13	Tax on 100% of exemption base
14	Tax on 90% of exemption base
15	Tax on 80% of exemption base
16	Tax on 70% of exemption base
17	Tax on 60% of exemption base
18	Tax on 50% of exemption base
19	Tax on 40% of exemption base
20	Tax on 30% of exemption base
21	Tax on 20% of exemption base
22	Tax on 10% of exemption base

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subdivision, a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work in any area of such city on or after July 1, 1995, and who, following the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, has performed such industrial construction work shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: for the first sixteen tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following nine tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at ninety per centum thereof in the seventeenth tax year and decreasing by ten per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for industrial construction work pursuant to this paragraph:_____

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 16	Tax on 100% of exemption base
17	Tax on 90% of exemption base
18	Tax on 80% of exemption base
19	Tax on 70% of exemption base
20	Tax on 60% of exemption base
21	Tax on 50% of exemption base
22	Tax on 40% of exemption base
23	Tax on 30% of exemption base
24	Tax on 20% of exemption base
25	Tax on 10% of exemption base

(3) (a) A recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work in any area of such city on or after July 1, 1995, and who, following the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, both commenced and completed such work, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes as follows: for the first tax year immediately following completion of such work, and for the second, third and fourth tax years following completion of such work, the abatement shall equal fifty per centum of the real property tax that was imposed on the property which is the subject of the certificate of eligibility for the tax year immediately preceding the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, provided, however, that if such property was fully or partially exempt from real property taxes during such tax year, then the abatement shall equal fifty per centum of the real property tax that would have been imposed on such property but for such full or partial exemption. For the fifth and sixth tax years, the abatement shall equal forty per centum of such amount; for the seventh and eighth tax years, the abatement shall equal thirty per centum of such amount; for the ninth and tenth tax years, the abatement shall equal twenty per centum of such amount; and for the eleventh and twelfth tax years, the abatement shall equal ten per centum of such amount. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of this paragraph, a recipient shall not be eligible for an abatement for the first tax year following completion of such work, unless the recipient submits proof satisfactory to the department of finance that such work was completed on or before the taxable status date for such first tax year no later than thirty days after such taxable status date. Where the recipient fails to submit such proof in accordance with the foregoing sentence, a recipient shall not be eligible for an abatement until the second tax year following completion of such work. In such case, a recipient shall submit proof satisfactory to the department of finance that such work was completed on or before the taxable status date for such first tax year no later than thirty days after the taxable status date for such second tax year. A recipient whose abatement begins in the second tax year following completion of such work shall not thereby have his or her twelve-year benefit period shortened.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the abatement for industrial construction work pursuant to this paragraph:

Tax year following completion of industrial construction work:	Amount of abatement:
1	50%

(b) If, due to a determination of the department of finance or tax commission of such city or a court, the real property tax imposed on such property for the tax year immediately preceding the effective date of such certificate of eligibility is changed, then any abatement that was granted in accordance with this paragraph prior to such reduction shall be recalculated and any abatement to be granted in accordance with this paragraph shall be based on the real property tax imposed on such property for the tax year immediately preceding the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, as changed by such determination. The amount equal to the difference between the abatement originally granted and the abatement as so recalculated shall be deducted from any refund otherwise payable or remission otherwise due as a result of a change due to such determination, and any balance of such amount remaining unpaid after making any such deduction shall be paid to the department of finance within thirty days from the date of mailing by the department of finance of a notice of the amount payable. Such amount payable shall constitute a tax lien on such property as of the date of such notice and, if not paid within such thirty-day period, penalty and interest at the rate applicable to delinquent taxes on such property shall be charged and collected on such amount from the date of such notice to the date of payment.

(c) No property which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part shall receive more than one abatement pursuant to this part and no abatement shall exceed one consecutive twelve-year period as specified in subparagraph (a) of this paragraph.

(d) In no event shall an abatement granted pursuant to this part exceed in any tax year the real property taxes imposed on the property which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part.

(e) For the purpose of calculating an abatement of real property taxes pursuant to this part, where a tax lot contains more than one building or structure and not all of the buildings or structures comprising such tax lot are the subject of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work pursuant to this part, the real property taxes imposed on such tax lot for the year immediately preceding the effective date of such certificate of eligibility shall be apportioned among the buildings, structures and land comprising such tax lot and only such real property taxes as are allocable to the property which is the subject of the certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part shall be abated in accordance with this paragraph. Such apportionment shall be in accordance with rules promulgated by the department of finance.

(f) A recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work in the commercial revitalization area on or after July first, two thousand, and who, following the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, both commenced and completed such work, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes in accordance with subparagraph (a) of this paragraph, provided, however, that where the total net square footage of the industrial property used or immediately available and held out for use for manufacturing activities involving the assembly of goods or the fabrication or processing of raw materials is less than seventy-five per centum of the total net square footage of the industrial property, the abatement of real property taxes shall be determined in accordance with rules promulgated by the department of finance. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, no such abatement shall be allowed where the total net square footage of the industrial property used or immediately available and held out for use for such manufacturing activities after completion of industrial construction work is less than the total net square footage used or immediate available and held out for use for such manufacturing activities before the commencement of such construction work. For purposes of this subparagraph only, the term "industrial construction work" shall mean the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of an existing building or structure for use as industrial property and the term "industrial property" shall mean nonresidential property on which will exist after completion of industrial construction work a building or structure wherein at least twenty-five per centum of the total net square footage is used or immediately available and held out for use for manufacturing activities involving the assembly of goods or the fabrication or processing of raw materials.

b. (1) A recipient who, following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, has performed commercial construction work in a special exemption area shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: For the first thirteen tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following nine tax years, the receipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at ninety per centum thereof in the fourteenth tax year and decreasing by ten per centum of said exemption base each year.

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 13	Tax on 100% of exemption base
14	Tax on 90% of exemption base
15	Tax on 80% of exemption base
16	Tax on 70% of exemption base
17	Tax on 60% of exemption base
18	Tax on 50% of exemption base

19	Tax on 40% of exemption base
20	Tax on 30% of exemption base
21	Tax on 20% of exemption base
22	Tax on 10% of exemption base

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subdivision, a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work in a special exemption area on or after July 1, 1995, and who, following the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, has performed such commercial construction work shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: For the first sixteen tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following nine tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at ninety per centum thereof in the seventeenth tax year and decreasing by ten per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for commercial construction work in a special exemption area pursuant to this paragraph:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 16	Tax on 100% of exemption base
17	Tax on 90% of exemption base
18	Tax on 80% of exemption base
19	Tax on 70% of exemption base
20	Tax on 60% of exemption base
21	Tax on 50% of exemption base
22	Tax on 40% of exemption base
23	Tax on 30% of exemption base
24	Tax on 20% of exemption base
25	Tax on 10% of exemption base

c. (1) A recipient who, following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, has performed commercial construction work in a regular exemption area shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: For the first eight tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following four tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at eighty per centum thereof in the ninth tax year and decreasing by twenty per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for commercial construction work in a regular exemption area:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 8	Tax on 100% of exemption base
9	Tax on 80% of exemption base
10	Tax on 60% of exemption base
11	Tax on 40% of exemption base
12	Tax on 20% of exemption base

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subdivision, a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work in a regular exemption area on or after July 1, 1995, and who, following the effective date of such certificate of eligibility, has performed such commercial construction work shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: For the first eleven tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following four tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at eighty per centum thereof in the twelfth tax year and decreasing by twenty per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for commercial construction work in a regular exemption area pursuant to this paragraph:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 11	Tax on 100% of exemption base
12	Tax on 80% of exemption base
13	Tax on 60% of exemption base
14	Tax on 40% of exemption base
15	Tax on 20% of exemption base

d. Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part, a recipient who, following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, has performed commercial construction work in a deferral area shall be eligible for a deferral of tax payments as follows: For the first three tax years following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, the tax payment on one hundred per centum of the exemption base shall be deferred. For the following four tax years, the tax payment on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at eighty per centum thereof in the fourth tax year and decreasing by twenty per centum each year shall be deferred. The total amount of tax payments deferred pursuant to this part shall be paid subsequently over the course of ten tax years as follows: Commencing in the eleventh tax year following the effective date of the certificate of eligibility, through and including the twentieth tax year following such effective date, an amount equal to ten per centum of the total amount of tax payments deferred pursuant to this section shall be added to the amount of tax otherwise assessed and payable in each such tax year on the property subject to such deferral.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of deferral and payment of taxes for commercial construction work in a deferral area:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of tax payments to be deferred or paid:
1 through 3	Deferral of tax payment on 100% of the exemption base
4	Deferral of tax payment on 80% of the exemption base
5	Deferral of tax payment on 60% of the exemption base
6	Deferral of tax payment on 40% of the exemption base
7	Deferral of tax payment on 20% of the exemption base
8 through 10	No tax payments are to be deferred and no deferred tax payments are required to be made
11 through 20	Payment each year of 10% of total dollar amount of tax payments deferred pursuant to this part

e. A recipient who, following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, has performed renovation construction work in a renovation exemption area shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: For the first eight tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following four tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at eighty per centum thereof in the ninth tax year and decreasing by twenty per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for renovation construction work in a renovation exemption area:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 8	Tax on 100% of exemption base
9	Tax on 80% of exemption base
10	Tax on 60% of exemption base
11	Tax on 40% of exemption base
12	Tax on 20% of exemption base

e.1. A recipient who, following the effective date of a certificate of eligibility, constructs a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (1), (2) or (3) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part shall be eligible for an exemption from real property taxes as follows: for the first four tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on one hundred per centum of the exemption base. For the following four tax years, the recipient shall be exempt from taxation on a percentage of the exemption base beginning at eighty per centum thereof in the fifth tax year and decreasing by twenty per centum of said exemption base each year.

The following table shall illustrate the computation of the exemption for the construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (1), (2) or (3) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part:

Tax year following effective date of certificate of eligibility:	Amount of exemption:
1 through 4	Tax on 100% of exemption base
5	Tax on 80% of exemption base
6	Tax on 60% of exemption base
7	Tax on 40% of exemption base
8	Tax on 20% of exemption base

f. There shall be no exemption from or deferral of payment of real property taxes available pursuant to this part to any person who performs commercial or renovation construction work in an excluded area, except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part.

g. The benefits of this part shall be granted exclusively for industrial, commercial or renovation construction work described in approved plans. No benefits shall be granted for residential construction work. Any parcel which is partly located in an excluded area shall be deemed to be entirely located in such area.

h. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for work which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility issued pursuant to part three of this subchapter.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 4*14 TAX EXEMPTION AND DEFERRAL OF TAX PAYMENT FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

a. There shall be a temporary commercial incentive area boundary commission to consist of the deputy mayor for economic development and planning, the commissioner of finance, the chair of the city planning commission, the director of management and budget, the borough presidents, the speaker of the city council and a public member appointed by the mayor to serve at the mayor's pleasure. Each member except the public member shall have the power to designate an alternate to represent him or her at commission meetings to exercise all the rights and powers of such member, including the right to vote, provided that such designation be made in writing to the chair of the commission. The deputy mayor for economic development and planning shall be the chair of the commission. Each borough president shall be entitled to vote only on the designation of areas within his or her borough. Commission members who shall be officers or employees of the city shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties. Any other commission member shall receive as exclusive compensation for his or her services one hundred dollars per diem, provided, however, that the total compensation paid to any such member shall not exceed twelve hundred dollars for any calendar year. A majority of members of such commission entitled to vote on a matter shall constitute a quorum for such issue. Decisions shall be made by majority vote of those present entitled to vote on a matter.

b. (1) The commission shall meet in nineteen hundred ninety-two, nineteen hundred ninety-five and nineteen hundred ninety-nine to determine the boundaries of the various areas which it is authorized to designate pursuant to this section. The areas designated by the commission in effect as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-one shall remain in effect until the first taxable status date after the city council approves a new designation pursuant to paragraph (4) of this subdivision.

(2) Not later than October first of each year when areas are to be designated, the commission shall publish notice of proposed boundaries of areas to be designated, and the date, not earlier than five nor later than fifteen days following the publication of such notice, on which the commission will hold a public hearing to hear all persons interested in the designation of areas. The notice required by this paragraph shall be published in the City Record and a newspaper of general circulation in the city, and copies thereof shall be forwarded to each council member and community board.

(3) The commission shall make such designation, and notify the city council of such designation, not later than November first of each year when areas are to be designated. The designation shall be effective as provided in paragraph (4) of this subdivision.

(4) Within thirty days after the first stated meeting of the city council following the receipt of notice of such designation, the city council may, by majority vote, disapprove such designation. If, within such thirty-day period, the city council fails to act or fails to act by the required vote, the city council shall be deemed to have approved such designation. Such designation shall be effective as of the first taxable status date after the city council approves such designation and shall remain in effect until the first taxable status date after the city council approves a new designation pursuant to this paragraph.

c. (1) The commission may designate any area other than the area lying south of the center line of 96th Street in the borough of Manhattan to be a special exemption area if it determines that market conditions in the area are such that the availability of a special exemption is required in order to encourage commercial construction work in such area. In making such determination, the commission shall consider, among other factors, the existence in such area of a special need for commercial and job development, high unemployment, economic distress or unusually large numbers of vacant, underutilized, unsuitable or substandard structures, or other substandard, unsanitary, deteriorated or deteriorating conditions, with or without tangible blight.

(2) Any area in the city, other than the area lying south of the center line of 96th Street, which the commission has not designated as a special exemption area shall be a regular exemption area.

(3) On or after January 1, 1992, the commission shall not designate any area to be either a deferral area or an excluded area, nor shall the commission make any new designation in any urban renewal area designated pursuant to Article 15 of the General Municipal Law so as to reduce the level of benefits available pursuant to this title in such area.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this part, any area in the city of New York designated as an empire zone in accordance with article eighteen-b of the general municipal law, which the commission has not designated as a special exemption area, shall be a special exemption area as of July 1, 1995 or as of the date of the designation of such area as an empire zone, whichever is later.

d. (1) The following area in the borough of Manhattan shall, except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (2), (3) and (4) of this subdivision and subdivision e of this section, be an excluded area: the area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 96th Street and north of the center line of 23rd Street.

(2) The following areas in the borough of Manhattan shall, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (4) of this subdivision and subdivision e of this section, be excluded areas as of July 1, 1992; provided, however, that if an application for a certificate of eligibility has been filed for commercial construction work in such areas on or before December 31, 1992 and the recipient presents evidence satisfactory to the department of finance: (a) (i) for a new building or structure, that construction has been completed on a foundation, as described in approved plans, on or before

June 30, 1993; or (ii) for an existing building or structure, that at least five per centum of the minimum required expenditure has been made for commercial construction work, as described in approved plans, on or before June 30, 1993; and (b) that all other requirements of this part have been met; then, a deferral of tax payments pursuant to subdivision d of section 11-257 of this part shall be granted for such commercial construction work, except that no deferral of tax payments shall be granted for commercial construction work on mixed-use property:

(3) The following area in the borough of Manhattan shall, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (4) of this subdivision and subdivision e of this section, be an excluded area as of January 1, 1993; provided, however, that if an application for a certificate of eligibility has been filed for commercial construction work in such area on or before December 31, 1992 and the recipient presents evidence satisfactory to the department of finance: (a)(i) for a new building or structure, that construction has been completed on a foundation, as described in approved plans, on or before December 31, 1993; or (ii) for an existing building or structure, that at least five per centum of the minimum required expenditure has been made for commercial construction work, as described in approved plans, on or before December 31, 1993; and (b) that all other requirements of this part have been met, then, a deferral of tax payments pursuant to subdivision d of section 11-257 of this part shall be granted for such commercial construction work, except that no deferral of tax payments shall be granted for commercial construction work on mixed-use property: the area delineated by a line beginning at the point where the center line of 59th Street would intersect with the Hudson River Pierhead line; thence southerly along said Pierhead line to the center line of Liberty Street; thence easterly along said center line to the center line of Church Street; thence northerly along said center line to the center line of Fulton Street; thence easterly along said center line to the East River Pierhead line; thence northerly along said Pierhead line to a point which is the midpoint between the center line of 34th Street and the center line of 33rd Street; thence westerly parallel to 33rd Street to a point one hundred fifty feet west of the center line of the Avenue of the Americas; thence northerly parallel to the Avenue of the Americas to a point which is the midpoint between the center line of 42nd Street and the center line of 41st Street; thence westerly parallel to 41st Street to a point one hundred fifty feet west of the center line of 8th Avenue; thence northerly parallel to 8th Avenue to the center line of 59th Street; thence westerly along said center line to the point of beginning.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this subdivision, the following areas in the borough of Manhattan shall be renovation exemption areas: (a) as of July 1, 1992 and until June 30, 2008: the area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 23rd Street; (b) as of July 1, 1992 and until January 31, 1995: the area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 96th Street and north of the center line of 23rd Street; and (c) as of July 1, 1995 and until June 30, 2008: the area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 59th Street and north of the center line of 23rd Street.

e. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision d of this section, the areas in the borough of Manhattan specified in paragraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this subdivision, except the "Project Area" described in a lease held by the Battery Park City Authority as tenant and originally dated as of November 24, 1969 and thereafter from time to time amended, shall be new construction exemption areas: (1) as of July 1, 1995 and until December 31, 1996: the area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 96th Street, excluding the area specified in paragraph (2) of this subdivision; and (2) as of July 1, 1995 and until June 30, 2003: the area in the borough of Manhattan bounded by Murray Street on the north starting at the intersection of West Street and Murray Street; running easterly along the center line of Murray Street; connecting through city hall park with the center line of Frankfort Street and running easterly along the center line of Frankfort and Dover Streets to the intersection of Dover Street and South Street; running southerly along the center line of South Street to Peter Minuit Plaza; connecting through Peter Minuit Plaza to the center line of State Street and running northwesterly along the center line of State Street to the intersection of State Street and Battery Place; running westerly along the center line of Battery Place to the intersection of Battery Place and West Street; and running northerly along the center line of West Street to the intersection of West Street and Murray Street; and (3) as of July 1, 2003 and until June 30, 2008: the area in the borough of Manhattan bounded by Murray Street on the north starting at the intersection of West Street and Murray Street; running easterly along the center line of Murray Street; connecting through City Hall Park with the center line of Frankfort Street and running easterly along the center line of Frankfort and Dover Streets to the intersection of Dover Street and South Street; running southerly along the center line of South Street to Peter Minuit Plaza; connecting through Peter Minuit Plaza to the center line of State Street and running northwesterly along the center line of State Street to the intersection of State Street and Battery Place; running westerly along the center line of Battery Place to the intersection of Battery Place and West Street; and running northerly along the center line of West Street to the intersection of West Street and Murray Street, except the area in the borough of Manhattan bounded by Church Street on the east starting at the intersection of Liberty Street and Church Street; running northerly along the center line of Church Street to the intersection of Church Street and Vesey Street; running westerly along the center line of Vesey Street to the intersection of Vesey Street and West Broadway; running northerly along the center line of West Broadway to the intersection of West Broadway and Barclay Street; running westerly along the center line of Barclay Street to the intersection of Barclay Street and Washington Street; running southerly along the center line of Washington Street to the intersection of Washington Street and Vesey Street; running westerly along the center line of Vesey Street to the intersection of Vesey Street and West Street; running southerly along the center line of West Street to the intersection of West Street and Liberty Street; and running easterly along the center line of Liberty Street to the intersection of Liberty Street and Church Street.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 4*14 TAX EXEMPTION AND DEFERRAL OF TAX PAYMENT FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

§ 11-259 Eligibility for benefits.

a. A recipient of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of June 30, 1992 or before must make one-half the minimum required expenditure within eighteen months of the effective date of such recipient's certificate of eligibility, and make the minimum required expenditure within thirty-six months of the effective date of such certificate to be eligible to receive the benefits of this part. A recipient of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after must make one-half the minimum required expenditure within thirty months of the effective date of such recipient's certificate of eligibility, and make the minimum required expenditure within sixty months of the effective date of such certificate to be eligible to receive the benefits of this part; provided, however, that a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part must make one-half the minimum required expenditure within eighteen months of the effective date of such recipient's certificate of eligibility, or by December 31, 1994, whichever is earlier, and make the minimum required expenditure within thirty-six months of the effective date of such certificate, or by December 31, 1995, whichever is earlier, to be eligible to receive the benefits of this part; provided, further, however, that a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part on or after July 1, 1994, but before February 1, 1995, must make one-half the minimum required expenditure within eighteen months of the effective date of such certificate, or by July 31, 1995, whichever is earlier, and make the minimum required expenditure within thirty-six months of the effective date of such certificate, or by July 31, 1996, whichever is earlier, to be eligible to receive the benefits of this part, provided, further, however, that a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (a) or (c) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part on or after July 1, 1995, must make one-half the minimum required expenditure within eighteen months of the effective date of such certificate, and make the minimum required expenditure within thirty-six months of the effective date of such certificate, to be eligible to receive the benefits of this part. Any recipient who shall fail to make such expenditures shall become ineligible and shall pay, with interest, any taxes for which an exemption or deferral was claimed pursuant to this section. This subdivision shall not apply to the recipient of a certificate of eligibility for construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part in a new construction exemption area.

b. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction work on any condominium unit unless such unit is in a building or structure which, if viewed as a whole and as if it were under single ownership, would qualify as commercial or industrial property. The minimum required expenditure applicable to any recipient of a certificate of eligibility for construction work on a condominium unit shall be equal to the minimum expenditure which would apply if a certificate of eligibility were issued for construction work on the entire property where such unit is located. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to prevent owners of condominium units in the same property from forming an association to be a recipient. This subdivision shall not apply to any applicant whose property would be, or recipient whose property is, the subject of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after.

c. (1) No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any construction work unless the applicant filed an application for such benefits on or before the date of issuance of a building permit for such work. The requirements of this subdivision may be satisfied where the applicant's architect, contractor or other representative authorized to file the appliction for such building permit files with the department of finance on behalf of the applicant a preliminary application containing such information as the department of finance shall prescribe by regulation.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subdivision, an applicant may file an application for benefits pursuant to this part for renovation construction work for property located in the areas specified in paragraph (3) of this subdivision, regardless of whether a building permit for such work was issued before such application was filed, provided that such permit was not issued before January 1, 1990 or after June 30, 1992, and provided further that a final application is filed with, and accepted by, the department of finance, on or before December 31, 1992. The department of finance shall issue a certificate of eligibility to such an applicant upon determining that the applicant satisfies all other requirements of this part. The effective date of such certificate shall be the date of acceptance by the department of finance of a final application containing such information as prescribed by rule of the department of finance. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction work performed before the effective date of the recipient's certificate of eligibility.

(3) Pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subdivision, an applicant may file an application for benefits pursuant to this part for renovation construction work for property located in the following areas in the borough of Manhattan lying south of 96th Street:

(a) the area delineated by a line beginning at the point where the center line of 96th Street would intersect the East River Pierhead line and running westerly along the center line of 96th Street to the center line of Fifth Avenue; thence southerly along said center line to the center line of 59th Street; thence westerly along said center line to a point one hundred fifty feet west of the center line of the Avenue of the Americas; thence southerly parallel to the Avenue of the Americas to the center line of 34th Street; thence easterly along said center line to the East River Pierhead line; thence northerly along said Pierhead line to the point of beginning; and

(b) the area delineated by a line beginning at the point where the center line of Fulton Street would intersect the East River Pierhead line and running westerly along the center line of Fulton Street to the center line of Church Street; thence southerly along said center line to the center line of Liberty Street; thence westerly along said center line to the Hudson River Pierhead line; thence southerly and along said Pierhead line to the point of beginning.

d. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted to any recipient for construction work on property any part of which is to be used for a restricted activity.

e. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any construction work unless the applicant shall file, together with the application, an affidavit setting forth the following information:

(1) a statement that within the seven years immediately preceding the date of application for a certificate of eligibility, neither the applicant, nor any person owning a substantial interest in the property as defined in paragraph four of this subdivision, nor any officer, director or general partner of the applicant or such person was finally adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction to have violated section two hundred thirty-five of the real property law or any section of article one hundred fifty of the penal law or any similar arson law of another state with respect to any building, or was an officer, director or general partner of a person at the time such person was finally adjudicated to have violated such law;

(2) a statement setting forth any pending charges alleging violation of section two hundred thirty-five of the real property law or any section of article one hundred fifty of the penal law or any similar arson law of another jurisdiction with respect to any building by the applicant or any person owning a substantial interest in the property as defined in paragraph four of this subdivision, or any officer, director or general partner of the applicant or such person; and

(3) a statement that the applicant has posted notice in a conspicuous place at the premises which are the subject of the application and published notice in a newspaper of general circulation in the city, in such form as shall be prescribed by the department of finance, stating that persons having information concerning any violation by the applicant or a person having a substantial interest in the property as defined in paragraph four of this subdivision has violated section two hundred thirty-five of the real property law or any section of article one hundred fifty of the penal law or any similar arson law of another jurisdiction may submit such information to the department of finance to be considered in determining the applicant's eligibility for benefits.

(4) "Substantial interest" as used in this subdivision shall mean ownership and control of an interest of ten per centum or more in a property or of any person owning a property.

f. If any person described in the statement required by paragraph two of subdivision e of this section is finally adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction to be guilty of any charge listed in such statement, the recipient shall cease to be eligible for benefits pursuant to this part and shall pay with interest any taxes for which an exemption, abatement or deferral was claimed pursuant to this part.

g. In addition to any other qualifications for exemption from or abatement or deferral of payment of taxes set forth in this part, an applicant must be:

(1) obligated to pay real property tax on the property for which an exemption, abatement or deferral is sought, whether such obligation arises because of record ownership of such property, or because the obligation to pay such tax has been assumed by contract; or

(2) the record owner or lessee of property which is exempt from real property taxation who has entered into an agreement to sell or lease such property to another person. Such person shall be a co-applicant with such owner or lessee.

h. A co-applicant with a public entity shall be an eligible recipient pursuant to this part, provided that for such period as the property which is the subject of the certificate of eligibility is exempt from real property taxation because it is owned or controlled by a public entity no benefits shall be available to such recipient pursuant to this part. Such recipient shall receive benefits pursuant to this part when such property ceases to be eligible for exemption pursuant to other provisions of law, as follows: the recipient shall, commencing with the date such tax exemption ceases, and continuing until the expiration of the benefit period pursuant to this part, receive the benefits to which such recipient is entitled in the corresponding tax year pursuant to this part.

i. (1)(a) No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction of a new building or structure in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part unless (i) construction of the foundation of such building or structure has been completed within twelve months of the effective date of the recipient's certificate of eligibility, or by December 31, 1997, whichever is earlier; and (ii) construction of such building or structure has been completed within thirty-six months of the effective date of the recipient's certificate of eligibility, or by December 31, 1999, whichever is earlier. (b) No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted or reconstruction of a new building or structure in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (2) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part unless: (i) construction of the foundation of such building or structure has been completed within twenty-four months of the effective date of the recipients' certificate of eligibility; and (ii) construction of such building or structure has been completed within forty-two months of the effective date of the recipient's certificate of eligibility. (c) No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction of a new building or structure in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (3) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part unless: (i) construction of the foundation of such building or structure has been completed within twenty-four months of the effective date of the recipient's certificate of eligibility; and (ii) construction of such building or structure has been completed within forty-two months of the effective date of the recipient's certificate of eligibility.

(2) No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction of a new building or structure in a new construction exemption area unless such building or structure meets the requirements set forth in subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph and, in addition, meets at least two of the five requirements set forth in subparagraphs (c) through (g) of this paragraph.

(a) The height of at least fifty per centum of the floors in such building or structure shall be not less than twelve feet, nine inches measured from the top of the slab comprising the floor to the bottom of the slab comprising the ceiling;

(b) Such building or structure shall be served by fiber optic telecommunications wiring and shall contain vertical penetrations for the distribution of fiber optic cabling to individual tenants on each floor;

(c) The total square footage of such building or structure is not less than five hundred thousand gross square feet;

(d) A minimum of two hundred thousand gross square feet or twenty-five per centum of such building or structure is comprised of floors of not less than forty thousand gross square feet;

(e) At least ten per centum of the gross square footage of such building or structure is comprised of floors that contain no more than eight structural columns, excluding any columns within the core or on the periphery of such building or structure;

(f) The electrical capacity of such building or structure is not less than six watts per net square foot;

(g) Emergency backup power sufficient to accommodate a need of six watts per net square foot is available in at least two hundred thousand gross square feet or twenty-five per centum of such building or structure.

j. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction work performed pursuant to a building permit issued after July thirty-first, two thousand eight, except that if a building permit is issued on or before July thirty-first, two thousand eight for construction work on a building or structure described in an application for a certificate of eligibility filed on or before June thirtieth, two thousand eight, construction work performed as described in such application pursuant to any additional building permit issued on or after August first, two thousand eight shall be eligible for benefits pursuant to this part in accordance with this subdivision.

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subdivision, all construction work performed pursuant to any such application shall be completed on or before December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen. No benefits shall be granted for construction work performed after such date, and any exemption granted pursuant to this part in relation to property on which such construction work was performed shall not exceed the amount of the exemption in effect for such property on the tax roll for which the taxable status date is January fifth, two thousand fourteen.

(2) All construction work performed pursuant to any such application for the construction of a new building or structure in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (3) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part shall be completed in accordance with subparagraph (c) of paragraph (1) of subdivision i of this section and, if not completed in accordance with such subparagraph, shall not be eligible for benefits pursuant to this part.

(3) For purposes of this subdivision, construction work as described in an application for a certificate of eligibility shall be deemed completed on the date on which the department of buildings issues a temporary or final certificate of occupancy or, if such construction work does not require the issuance of a certificate of occupancy, the date on which the applicant and the applicant's architect or professional engineer for such construction work submit to the department of finance an affidavit certifying that such construction work has been completed. For purposes of this subdivision, a demolition permit shall be deemed to be a building permit issued for construction work.

§ 11-260 Application for certificate of eligibility.

a. Application for a certificate of eligibility pursuant to this part may be made immediately and continuing until June 30, 2008; provided, however, that application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part may not be made after January 31, 1995; provided, further, however, that application for a certificate of eligibility for construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part may not be made after December 31, 1996; provided, further, however, that application for a certificate of eligibility for construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part in the new construction exemption area specified in paragraph (2) of subdivision e of section 11-258 of this part may not be made after June 30, 2003. Such application shall state whether it is for industrial, commercial or renovation construction work, and shall be filed with the department of finance. In addition to any other information required by such department, the application shall include cost estimates or bids for the proposed construction and an affidavit of a professional engineer or architect of the applicant's choice, certifying that detailed plans for the construction work have been submitted to the department of buildings. Such application shall also state that the applicant agrees to comply with and be subject to the rules issued from time to time by the department of finance to secure compliance with all applicable city, state and federal laws or which implement mayoral directives and executive orders designed to ensure equal employment opportunity. Such application shall also certify that all taxes currently due and owing on the property which is the subject of the application have been paid or are currently being paid in timely installments pursuant to written agreement with the department of finance.

b. The burden of proof shall be on the applicant to show by clear and convincing evidence that the requirements for granting an exemption from or abatement or deferral of payment of taxes pursuant to this part have been satisfied. The department of finance shall have the authority to require that statements in connection with the application be made under oath.

c. Upon receipt of an application, the department of finance shall send written notice thereof to the council member representing the district where the proposed construction work is to take place.

d. The department of finance shall issue a certificate of eligibility upon determining that the applicant satisfies the requirements for industrial, commercial or renovation construction work in an area where benefits are available for such work. Such certificate shall state whether such benefits are to be granted for industrial, commercial or renovation construction work, and in which class of area the property is located. The effective date of such certificate, except as provided in paragraph (2) or paragraph (4) of subdivision c of section 11-259 of this part, shall be the earlier of (1) the date on which a building permit for the construction work is issued by the department of buildings, or (2) the last day before the effective date of any designation of boundaries by the commission which changes the class of area in which the property is located so as to reduce the level of benefits for commercial construction work on such property. Where the effective date of the certificate of eligibility is July 1, 1992 or after, the benefits granted for industrial, commercial or renovation construction work pursuant to this part shall be in accordance with the provisions of this part as amended by local law number 73 for the year 1992, local law number 40 for the year 1994, local law number 58 for the year 1995, local law number 44 for the year 1999, local law number 48 for the year 2003 and the local law for the year 2007 that added this clause. Where the effective date of the certificate of eligibility is June 30, 1992 or before, the benefits granted for industrial or commercial construction work pursuant to this part shall be in accordance with the provisions of this part as it was in effect until June 30, 1992 immediately prior to its amendment by local law number 73 for the year 1992. No recipient whose property is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work in a deferral area shall be eligible to apply for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work on the same property, where the renovation construction work is the same as, or similar to, the commercial construction work for which the deferral area certificate was issued, until three years after the effective date of the deferral area certificate. No recipient shall receive a tax deferral and a tax exemption for the same expenditure on eligible construction work.

e. A copy of the certificate of eligibility shall be filed by the department of finance in the manner prescribed for recording a mortgage pursuant to section two hundred ninety-one-d of the real property law.

f. The department of finance may provide by rule for reasonable administrative charges or fees necessary to defray expenses in administering the benefit program provided by this part.

§ 11-261 Reporting requirement; termination of benefits.

a. Upon approval by the department of buildings of the plans submitted in connection with the building permit and any amendments to such plans, the recipient shall file with the department of finance a narrative description of such approved plans describing the industrial, commercial or renovation construction work for which such recipient seeks benefits pursuant to this part.

b. For the duration of the benefit period the recipient shall file annually with the department of finance, on or before the taxable status date, a certificate of continuing use stating the purposes for which the property described in the certificate of eligibility is being used and the net square footage allotted to each such purpose. Such certificate of continuing use shall be on a form prescribed by the department of finance and shall state the total number of workers employed on the property and the number of such workers who are city residents. The department of finance shall have authority to terminate benefits pursuant to this part upon failure of a recipient to file such certificate by the taxable status date. The burden of proof shall be on the recipient to establish continuing eligibility for benefits and the department of finance shall have the authority to require that statements made in such certificate shall be made under oath.

c. A recipient shall file an amendment to the latest certificate of continuing use prior to (1) converting square footage within property which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work from use for the manufacturing activities described in such certificate of continuing use where such conversion results in less than sixty-five per centum of total net square footage being used or held out for use for manufacturing activities; or (2) converting any portion of property which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility to use for any restricted activity or as residential property.

d. No later than eighteen months after the effective date of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of June 30, 1992 or before, the recipient shall present evidence to the department of finance demonstrating that the recipient has made one-half of the minimum required expenditure. Not later than thirty-six months after the effective date of such certificate, such recipient shall present evidence to such department demonstrating that the recipient has made the minimum required expenditure. Not later than thirty months after the effective date of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after, the recipient shall present evidence to the department of finance demonstrating that the recipient has made one-half of the minimum required expenditure; provided, however, that a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part shall present such evidence not later than eighteen months after the effective date of such certificate, or by December 31, 1994, whichever is earlier; provided, further, however, that a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part on or after July 1, 1994, but before February 1, 1995, shall present such evidence not later than eighteen months after the effective date of such certificate, or by July 31, 1995, whichever is earlier, provided, further, however, that a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (a) or (c) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part on or after July 1, 1995, shall present such evidence not later than eighteen months after the effective date of such certificate. Not later than sixty months after the effective date of a certificate of eligibility with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after, the recipient shall present evidence to such department demonstrating that the recipient has made the minimum required expenditure; provided, however, that a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part shall present such evidence not later than thirty-six months after the effective date of such certificate, or by December 31, 1995, whichever is earlier; provided, further, however, that a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (b) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part on or after July 1, 1994, but before February 1, 1995, shall present such evidence not later than thirty-six months after the effective date of such certificate, or by July 31, 1996, whichever is earlier, provided, further, however, that a recipient who filed an application for a certificate of eligibility for renovation construction work for property located in the renovation exemption area specified in subparagraph (a) or (c) of paragraph (4) of subdivision d of section 11-258 of this part on or after July 1, 1995, shall present such evidence not later than thirty-six months after the effective date of such certificate. Such evidence shall be presented in the form and manner prescribed by such department. The burden of proof shall be on the recipient to show by clear and convincing evidence that the required expenditures have been made. This subdivision shall not apply to the recipient of a certificate of eligibility for construction of a new building or structure that meets the requirements set forth in subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part in a new construction exemption area.

e. A recipient of a certificate of eligibility for construction of a new building or structure in a new construction exemption area shall present evidence to the department of finance demonstrating that the requirements of subdivision i of section 11-259 of this part have been met. Such evidence shall be presented in the form and manner and at the time prescribed by such department. The burden of proof shall be on the recipient to show by clear and convincing evidence that such requirements have been met.

PART 4*14 TAX EXEMPTION AND DEFERRAL OF TAX PAYMENT FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES

a. Any recipient whose property is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for commercial or renovation construction work, and who, prior to the expiration of the benefit period, used such property as industrial property, shall continue to receive benefits for commercial or renovation construction work as the case may be.

b. Any recipient whose property is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work, and who, prior to the expiration of the benefit period, uses such property as commercial property, shall cease to be eligible for further exemption or abatement for industrial construction work as of the last date to which such recipient proves by clear and convincing evidence that such property was used as industrial property, and shall pay with interest any taxes for which an exemption or abatement was claimed after such date, except that

(1) a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work in a special exemption area who would have been eligible to receive a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work at the time such recipient applied for benefits shall continue to receive an exemption for industrial construction; and

(2) a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work in a regular exemption area who would have been eligible to receive a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work at the time such recipient applied for benefits shall, commencing with the date of conversion to commercial property and continuing until the expiration of the benefit period for commercial construction work, receive any exemption which such recipient would have received in the corresponding tax year pursuant to a certificate of eligibility for commercial construction work; and

(3) a recipient of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work in any area of the city on whose property at least sixty-five per centum of the net square footage continues to be used or held out for use for manufacturing activities after conversion to commercial property, shall not be required to pay the pro rata share of tax for which an exemption was claimed during the tax year in which such conversion occurred.

c. Except as provided in subdivision d of this section, any recipient whose property is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for commercial, industrial or renovation construction work, and who uses such property as residential property or for any restricted activity prior to the expiration of the benefit period, shall cease to be eligible for further exemption, abatement or deferral as of the date such property was first used as residential property or for any restricted activity. In the case of property in an area that was designated as an exemption area at the time the certificate of eligibility was issued, such recipient shall pay with interest any taxes for which an exemption was claimed after such date, including the pro rata share of tax for which any exemption was claimed during the tax year in which such use occurred. In the case of industrial property, such recipient shall pay with interest any taxes for which an exemption or abatement was claimed after such date, including the pro rata share of tax for which any exemption or abatement was claimed during the tax year in which such use occurred. In the case of property in an area that was designated as a deferral area at the time the certificate of eligibility was issued, all deferred tax payments on the property shall become due and payable immediately.

d. Notwithstanding subdivision c of this section, any recipient whose property is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for commercial or renovation construction work with an effective date of July 1, 1992 or after, and who, prior to the expiration of the benefit period, uses a portion of such property as residential property, shall cease to be eligible for further exemption for commercial or renovation construction work for that portion of such property used as residential property as of the date such portion of the property was first used as residential property. Such recipient shall pay, with interest, any taxes for which an exemption was claimed after such date attributable to that portion of the property used as residential property, including the pro rata share of tax for which such exemption was claimed during the tax year in which such use occurred. Such recipient shall continue to receive an exemption for commercial or renovation construction work for that portion of the property which continues to be used as commercial property.

§ 11-263 Administration of the benefit program.

a. The department of finance shall have, in addition to any other functions, powers and duties which have been or may be conferred on it by law, the following functions, powers and duties:

(1) To publicize the availability of benefits pursuant to this part for industrial, commercial and renovation construction work.

(2) To receive and review applications for certificates of eligibility, issue such certificates where authorized pursuant to section 11-260 of this part, and record the issuance of such certificates as prescribed in such section.

(3) To receive evidence of expenditures made for construction, and where such expenditures do not equal the amount required to qualify for exemption from or abatement or deferral of tax payments to take appropriate action, including but not limited to denying, reducing, suspending, terminating or revoking benefits pursuant to this part.

(4) To enter and inspect property to determine whether it is industrial or commercial or mixed-use and to determine whether (a) any such property is being used for any restricted use, or (b) any property which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility for industrial construction work is being used as commercial property, or (c) any industrial or commercial property is being used as residential or mixed-use property, or (d) all or part of the nonresidential portion of mixed-use property is being used as residential property.

(5) To collect all real property taxes for which payment is deferred pursuant to this part.

(6) To collect all real property taxes, with interest, due and owing as a result of reduction, suspension, termination or revocation of any exemption from or abatement or deferral of taxes granted pursuant to this part.

(7) To make and promulgate regulations to carry out the purposes of this part including, but not limited to, regulations requiring applicants to publish notice of their applications, defining manufacturing and commercial activities and specifying the nature of work for which expenses may be included in the minimum required expenditure, provided, however, that any regulation increasing the minimum required expenditure shall not apply to any person who is a recipient on the effective date of such regulation. Such regulations shall include a requirement that with respect to the construction work recipients and their contractors shall be equal opportunity employers and shall also provide that persons employed in the construction work shall implement a training program for economically disadvantaged persons enrolled or eligible to be enrolled in training programs approved by the department of labor, with particular reference to city residents.

§ 11-265 Penalties for non-compliance, false statements and omissions.

a. The department of finance may deny, reduce, suspend, revoke or terminate any exemption from or abatement or deferral of tax payments pursuant to this part whenever:

(1) a recipient fails to comply with the requirements of this part or the rules and regulations promulgated by the department of finance pursuant thereto; or

(2) an application, certificate, report or other document delivered by an applicant or recipient hereunder contains a false or misleading statement as to a material fact or omits to state any material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein not false or misleading, and may declare any applicant or recipient who makes such false or misleading statement or omission to be ineligible for future exemption, abatement or deferral pursuant to this part for the same or other property.

b. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, a recipient shall be personally liable for any taxes owed pursuant to this part whenever such recipient fails to comply with such law and rules or makes such false or misleading statement or omission, and the department of finance determines that such act was due to the recipient's willful neglect, or that under the circumstances such act constituted a fraud on the department of finance or a buyer or prospective buyer of the property. The remedy provided herein for an action in personam shall be in addition to any other remedy or procedure for the enforcement of collection of delinquent taxes provided by any general, special or local law. Any lease provision which obligates a tenant to pay taxes which become due because of willful neglect or fraud by the recipient, or otherwise relieve or indemnify the recipient from any personal liability arising hereunder, shall be void as against public policy except where the imposition of such taxes or liability is occasioned by actions of the tenant in violation of the lease.

§ 11-266 Code violations; suspension of benefits.

a. If a court, or the environmental control board with respect to matters within its jurisdiction, finds that at the property which is the subject of a certificate of eligibility there has been a violation of any of the provisions of the building, fire and air pollution control codes set forth in subdivision b of this section, all benefits pursuant to such certificate shall be suspended unless within one hundred eighty days after the department of finance has sent notice of such finding to the recipient, and all other persons having a financial interest in the property who have filed a timely request for such notice in such form as may be prescribed by the department of finance, the recipient submits to the department of finance, certification from the department of buildings, the fire department or the department of environmental protection respectively that the underlying code violation has been cured. If the recipient fails to submit the required certification within the one hundred eighty day period, the period of suspension shall be effective retroactively to the time of the finding by the court or the environmental control board. The suspension of benefits shall continue until the recipient submits to the department of finance the required certification that the violation has been cured.

If the original finding of violation or the denial of certification is appealed and a court or appropriate governmental agency finally determines that the finding of violation or denial of certification was invalid, any benefits lost pursuant to this section to which the recipient was entitled shall be restored retroactively.

As applied to a recipient who is eligible for deferral of tax payments pursuant to subdivision d of section 11-257 of this part, suspension of benefits shall be deferred by operation of such section and interest at the rate charged by the department of finance for overdue taxes shall be charged on the amount of any tax payments already deferred by operation of such section. The interest charged shall accrue from the beginning of the period of suspension.

b. The provisions of subdivision a of this section shall apply to violations of the following provision of the code:

(1) section 27-4260;

(2) section 27-4265;

(3) section 27-4267;

(4) section 27-954;

(a) section 27-542;

(b) subparagraph d of paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section 27-547;

(c) paragraph three of subdivision (a) of section 27-549;

(d) subdivision (b) of section 27-549;

(12) section 27-127 when the violation concerns an unsafe condition on a facade of a building which exceeds six stories in height; (13) section five hundred one of reference standard 13-1;

(14) section one thousand three of reference standard 13-1;

(15) paragraph six of subdivision (b) of section 24-178; and

§ 11-268 Definitions.

When used in this part:

a. "Commercial construction work" means the construction of a new building or structure or the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of an existing building or structure for use as commercial property.

b. "Commercial exclusion area" means an area as defined in subdivision d of section 11-274 of this part.

c. "Commercial property" means nonresidential property on which will exist after completion of commercial construction work a building or structure, or portion thereof, used for the buying, selling or otherwise providing of goods or services including hotel services, or for other lawful business, commercial or manufacturing activities; provided that property or portions of property dedicated to utility property shall not be considered commercial property for purposes of this part.

d. "Commissioner" means the commissioner of finance of the city of New York.

e. "Completion of construction," or "completion," when relating to new construction, means the earlier of the date on which the department of buildings issues a final certificate of occupancy, or when the department has otherwise determined that construction is complete.

f. "Department" means the department of finance of the city of New York.

g. "Industrial construction work" means the construction of a new building or structure or the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of an existing building or structure for use as industrial property.

h. "Industrial property" means nonresidential property on which will exist after completion of industrial construction work a building or structure, or portion thereof, with at least seventy-five percent of the total net square footage of the property used or immediately available and held out for manufacturing activities involving assembling goods or the fabrication or processing of raw materials; provided that property or portions of property dedicated to utility property shall not be considered industrial property for purposes of this part.

i. "Manufacturing activity" means an activity involving the assembly of goods or the fabrication or processing of raw materials, but shall not include: (1) such activity when conducted for the purpose of retail sale on the premises; or (2) utility services.

j. "Minimum required expenditure" means the amount that an applicant must expend on construction work for a project in order to qualify for benefits as provided in this part.

k. "Mixed-use property" means property on which exists, or will exist upon completion of construction work, a building or structure used for both residential and nonresidential purposes.

l. "Renovation construction work" means the modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of an existing building or structure where such modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement is physically and functionally integrated with the existing building or structure, or portion thereof, does not increase the bulk of the existing building or structure by more than thirty percent, and does not increase the height of the existing building or structure by more than thirty percent.

m. "Residential construction work" means any construction, modernization, rehabilitation, expansion or improvement of dwelling units other than dwelling units in a hotel.

n. "Restricted activity" means any entertainment activity that the department has identified in rules promulgated by such department pursuant to this part as an activity which, in the public interest, should not be encouraged through the benefits of this part.

o. "Retail purposes" means any activity that consists predominately of (1) the final sale of tangible personal property or services by a vendor as defined in section eleven hundred one of the tax law, (2) the sale of services that generally involve the physical, mental, and/or spiritual care of individuals or the physical care of the personal property of individuals, (3) retail banking services, or (4) the final sale of food and/or beverage by a vendor as defined in section eleven hundred one of the tax law, including the assembly, processing or packaging of goods, provided that sales of such tangible personal property or services are predominately to purchasers who personally visit the facilities at which such sales are made or such property and services are provided. "Retail purposes" shall not include hotel uses as described in subdivision d of section 11-270 of this part.

p. "Temporary commercial incentive area boundary commission" means a commission as defined in section 11-274 of this part.

q. "Utility property" means property and equipment as described in paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (f) and (i) of subdivision twelve of section one hundred two of the real property tax law that is used in the ordinary course of business by its owner or any other entity or property as described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of subdivision twelve of section one hundred two of such law that is owned by any entity that uses in the ordinary course of business property and equipment as described in paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (f) and (i) of subdivision twelve of section one hundred two of such law, without regard to the classification of such property and equipment for real property tax purposes pursuant to section eighteen hundred two of such law, except that any such property and equipment used solely to serve the building to which they are attached shall not be deemed utility property.

CHAPTER 2 REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT, TAXATION AND CHARGES

SUBCHAPTER 2 EXEMPTIONS FROM REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

PART 5 ABATEMENT OF TAX PAYMENTS FOR CERTAIN INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTIES*40

§ 11-269 Industrial and commercial real property tax abatement.

a. Subject to the provisions of this part, tax abatement benefits shall be available to eligible recipients in accordance with the provisions of this section.

b. Amount of abatement base. (1) Calculation of abatement base. Except as provided in paragraph (5) of subdivision c of this section, the abatement base used to determine the amount of the abatement provided under this part shall be the amount by which the post-completion tax on a building or structure exceeds one hundred fifteen percent of the initial tax levied on a building or structure.

(2) Initial tax on building or structure. (a) Determination of initial tax. The initial tax shall be determined by multiplying the final taxable assessed value, without regard to any exemptions, shown on the assessment roll with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit by the initial tax rate. For purposes of this subdivision, the initial tax rate shall be the final tax rate applicable to the assessment roll with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit. If no permit was required, the initial tax and the initial tax rate shall be determined based on the assessment roll with a taxable status date immediately preceding the commencement of construction.

(b) Effect of tax lot apportionment or merger. For a property as to which an applicant has applied for benefits pursuant to this part, if such property is apportioned or merged and such apportionment or merger is not reflected in the assessment roll described in subparagraph (a) of this paragraph, the initial tax for the newly created tax lot or lots shall be based on the initial tax of the lot or lots from which they have been created, which shall be apportioned among the newly created tax lot or lots in the manner established by the department for purposes of assessed valuation of real property.

(3) Post-completion tax on building or structure. For purposes of calculating the abatement base only, the post-completion tax is determined by multiplying the initial tax rate by the final taxable assessed value, without regard to any exemptions, that would be shown on the assessment roll but for the abatement, on the assessment roll with a taxable status date immediately following the earlier of:

(a) completion of construction; or

(b) four years from the date of issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction.

(4) (a) If the taxable assessed value is later reduced by a court order or application to the tax commission, then the initial tax or the post-completion tax shall be the tax as reduced.

(b) The taxable assessed value used for the calculations in this subdivision shall be the lower of the actual and transitional value as provided in subdivision three of section eighteen hundred five of this chapter.

(5) Mixed-use property. For a mixed-use property, the initial tax and post-completion tax shall be apportioned between the residential and nonresidential portions. The department may promulgate rules to determine the method of apportionment.

(6) Initial taxes not to be reduced by abatement. Except as provided in paragraph (5) of subdivision c of this section, the abatement provided under this part shall not be applicable in any year of the benefit period to the initial tax or to the tax on the portion of the assessment attributable to land. Additionally, the abatement shall not result in any credit or refund of real property taxes.

c. Industrial and commercial abatements. (1) Abatement for commercial construction work. Upon approval by the department of a final application for benefits, an applicant who has performed commercial construction work outside of a special commercial abatement area, as designated pursuant to subdivision b of section 11-274 of this part, or a renovation area, as defined by subdivision c of section 11-274 of this part, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes, as follows:

(a) Amount of abatement. The first year of the abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was used, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. For years one through eleven, the abatement shall be the amount of the abatement base. For years twelve through fifteen, the abatement shall decrease by twenty percent each year. The following table illustrates the abatement computation:

Tax year during benefit period:	Amount of abatement:
Years 1 through 11	100% of abatement base
12	80% of abatement base
13	60% of abatement base

(b) Minimum required expenditure. For commercial construction work, the minimum required expenditure is thirty percent of the property's taxable assessed value in the tax year with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. Expenditures for residential construction work or construction work on portions of property to be used for restricted activities shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure.

(2) Abatement for industrial construction work or commercial construction work in special commercial abatement areas on buildings where not more than ten percent of the building or structure is used for retail purposes. Upon approval by the department of a final application for benefits, an applicant who has performed industrial construction work in any area, where not more than ten percent of the building or structure on which such work has been performed is used for retail purposes, or commercial construction work in a special commercial abatement area, as designated pursuant to subdivision b of section 11-274 of this part, where not more than ten percent of the building or structure on which such work has been performed is used for retail purposes, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes, as follows:

(a) Amount of abatement. The first year of the abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was issued, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. For years one through sixteen, the abatement shall be the amount of the abatement base. The abatement shall be adjusted for inflation protection as provided in subparagraph (b) of this paragraph. For years seventeen through twenty-five, the abatement shall decrease by ten percent each year. The following table illustrates the abatement computation:

Tax year during benefit period: Amount of abatement:

Years 1 through 16 100% of abatement base

19 70% of abatement base

21 50% of abatement base

22 40% of abatement base

23 30% of abatement base

(b) Inflation protection. (i) Industrial construction work. (A) Effect of assessed valuation increases. For years two through thirteen of the benefit period, except as provided in item (B) of this clause, if there is any increase in tax in that year that is based on an increase of taxable assessed valuation since the immediately prior tax year, such excess tax liability shall be added to the amount of the abatement base. Such addition to the amount of the abatement base shall be determined using the initial tax rate.

(B) Physical increases. Notwithstanding the provisions of item (A) of this clause, if in any of years two through thirteen of the benefit period, a physical change to the property results in an increase in the taxable assessed value of the property of more than five percent for that year, then any increase in taxes for that year shall not be added to the amount of the abatement base in any year.

(C) If the taxable assessed value upon which an adjustment to the abatement under this paragraph is based is later reduced by a court order or application to the tax commission, then the appropriate adjustment to the abatement base shall be made in accordance with the reduced taxable assessed value.

(i) Commercial construction work in special commercial abatement areas on buildings where not more than ten percent of the building or structure is used for retail purposes. (A) Effect of assessed valuation increases. For years two through thirteen of the benefit period, except as provided in item (B) of this clause, if there is any increase in tax in that year that is based on an increase of taxable assessed valuation since the immediately prior tax year that exceeds five percent, such excess tax liability shall be added to the amount of the abatement base. Such addition to the amount of the abatement base shall be determined using the initial tax rate.

(B) Physical increases. Notwithstanding the provisions of item (A) of this clause, if in any of the years two through thirteen of the benefit period, a physical change to the property results in an increase in the taxable assessed value of the property of more than five percent for that year, then any increase in taxes for that year shall not be added to the amount of the abatement base in any year.

(C) If the taxable assessed value upon which an adjustment to the abatement under this paragraph is based is later reduced by a court order or application to the tax commission, then the appropriate adjustment to the abatement base shall be made in accordance with the reduced taxable assessed value.

(ii) Mixed-use property. For a property as to which benefits are given for both industrial and commercial construction, the inflation protection provided under this subparagraph shall be based on the predominant use of the property as determined by the department.

(c) Minimum required expenditure. For industrial construction work or commercial construction work in a special commercial abatement area, the minimum required expenditure is thirty percent of the property's taxable assessed value in the tax year with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. Expenditures for residential construction work or construction work on portions of property to be used for restricted activities shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure.

(3) Abatement for industrial construction work or commercial construction work in special commercial abatement areas on buildings where more than ten percent of the building or structure is used for retail purposes. Upon approval by the department of a final application for benefits, an applicant who has performed industrial construction work in any area, where more than ten percent of the building or structure on which such work has been performed is used for retail purposes, or commercial construction work in a special commercial abatement area, as designated pursuant to subdivision b of section 11-274 of this part, where more than ten percent of the building or structure on which such work has been performed is used for retail purposes, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes on the non-retail portion of such building or structure and up to ten percent of such building or structure used for retail purposes, in accordance with paragraph (2) of this subdivision, and shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes on the remaining retail portion of such building or structure, as follows:

(a) Amount of abatement. The first year of abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was issued, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. For years one through eleven, the abatement shall be the amount of the abatement base. For years twelve through fifteen, the abatement shall decrease by twenty percent each year. The abatement shall be adjusted for inflation protection as provided in subparagraph (b) of this paragraph. The following table illustrates the abatement computation:

Tax year during benefit period:	Amount of abatement:
Years 1 through 11	100% of abatement base
12	80% of abatement base
13	60% of abatement base
14	40% of abatement base

(b) Inflation protection. (i) Industrial construction work. (A) Effect of assessed valuation increase. For years two through thirteen of the benefit period, except as provided in item (B) of this clause, if there is any increase in tax in that year that is based on an increase of taxable assessed valuation since the immediate prior tax year, such excess tax liability shall be added to the amount of the abatement base. Such addition to the amount of the abatement shall be determined using the initial tax rate.

(B) Physical increases. Notwithstanding the provisions of item (A) of this clause, if in any of the years through thirteen of the benefit period, a physical change to the property results in an increase in the taxable assessed value of the property of more than five percent for that year, then any increase in taxes for that year shall not be added to the amount of the abatement base in any year.

(C) If the taxable assessed value upon which an adjustment to the abatement under this paragraph is based is later reduced by a court order or application to the tax commission, then the appropriate adjustment to the abatement base shall be made in accordance with the reduced taxable assessed value.

(i) Commercial construction work in special commercial abatement areas on buildings where more than ten percent of the building or structure is used for retail purposes. (A) Effect of assessed valuation increases. For years two through thirteen of the benefit period, except as provided in item (B) of this clause, if there is any increase in tax in that year that is based on an increase of taxable assessed valuation since the immediately prior tax year that exceeds five percent, such excess tax liability shall be added to the amount of the abatement base. Such addition to the amount of the abatement base shall be determined using the initial tax rate.

(B) Physical increases. Notwithstanding the provisions of item (A) of this clause, if in any of years two through thirteen of the benefit period, a physical change to the property results in an increase in the taxable assessed value of the property of more than five percent for that year, then any increase in taxes for that year shall not be added to the amount of the abatement base in any year.

(C) If the taxable assessed value upon which an adjustment to the abatement under this paragraph is based is later reduced by a court order or application to the tax commission, then the appropriate adjustment to the abatement base shall be made in accordance with the reduced taxable assessed value.

(ii) Mixed-use property. For a property as to which benefits are given for both industrial and commercial construction, the inflation protection provided under this subparagraph shall be based on the predominant use of the property as determined by the department.

(c) Minimum required expenditure. For industrial construction work or commercial construction work in a special commercial abatement area, the minimum required expenditure is thirty percent of the property's taxable assessed value in the tax year with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. Expenditures for residential construction work or construction work on portions of property to be used for restricted activities shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure.

(4) Abatement for renovation construction work in renovation areas. Subject to the provisions of subparagraph (c) of this paragraph, upon approval by the department of a final application for benefits, an applicant who has performed renovation construction work in a renovation area, as defined by subdivision c of section 11-274 of this part, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes, as follows:

(a) Amount of abatement. For the renovation areas defined in paragraphs (1) and (2) of subdivision c of section 11-274 of this part, the first year of the abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was issued, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. For years one through eight, the abatement shall be the amount of the abatement base. For years nine through twelve, the abatement shall decrease by twenty percent each year. The following table illustrates the abatement computation:

Tax year during benefit period:	Amount of abatement:
Years 1 through 8	100% of abatement base
9	80% of abatement base
10	60% of abatement base
11	40% of abatement base
12	20% of abatement base

(b) Amount of abatement. For the renovation area defined in paragraph (3) of subdivision c of section 11-274 of this part, the first year of the abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was issued, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. For years one through five, the abatement shall be the amount of the abatement base. For years six through nine, the abatement shall decrease by twenty percent each year. In year ten, the abatement shall be twenty percent of the abatement base. The following table illustrates the abatement computation:

Tax year during benefit period:	Amount of abatement:
Years 1 through 5	100% of abatement base
6	80% of abatement base
7	60% of abatement base
8	40% of abatement base
9	20% of abatement base
10	20% of abatement base

(c) If more than five percent of any building or structure upon which renovation construction work is performed is used for retail purposes, no abatement shall be granted for the retail portions of such building or structure in excess of five percent, but five percent of such building or structure used for retail purposes shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes in accordance with subparagraph (a) or subparagraph (b) of this paragraph, as applicable; provided, however, that notwithstanding any other provision of this part, any building or structure located in the renovation area defined in paragraph (1) of subdivision c of section 11-274 of this part shall be eligible for an abatement in accordance with subparagraph (a) of this paragraph regardless of the amount of the building or structure used for retail purposes.

(d) Minimum required expenditure. For renovation construction work in renovation areas, the minimum required expenditure is thirty percent of the property's taxable assessed value in the tax year with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit, was required, the commencement of construction. Expenditures for construction work on portions of the property to be used for retail purposes that exceed five percent of the building or structure in renovation areas defined in paragraphs (2) and (3) of subdivision c of section 11-274 of this part, for residential construction work, or for construction work on portions of the property to be used for restricted activities, shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure.

(5) Additional industrial abatement. In addition to the abatement for industrial construction work provided in paragraph (2) of this subdivision, an applicant who performs industrial construction work that meets the eligibility requirements set forth in this part shall be eligible for an additional abatement, calculated as a percentage of the initial tax, as follows:

(a) Amount of abatement. The first year of the abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was issued, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. The amount of the additional industrial abatement shall be as follows:

Tax year during benefit period:	Amount of additional abatement:
Years 1 through 4	50% of the initial tax amount
5	40% of the initial tax amount
6	40% of the initial tax amount
7	30% of the initial tax amount
8	30% of the initial tax amount
9	20% of the initial tax amount
10	20% of the initial tax amount
11	10% of the initial tax amount
12	10% of the initial tax amount

(b) Minimum required expenditure. For the additional industrial abatement, the minimum required expenditure is forty percent of the property's taxable assessed value in the tax year with the taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. Expenditures for residential construction work or construction work on portions of property to be used for restricted activities shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure.

(6) Abatement for commercial construction work on new construction in certain areas of the borough of Manhattan. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, upon approval by the department of a final application for benefits, an applicant who has performed commercial construction work on a new building or structure, in the geographical area as specified in subparagraph (d) of this paragraph, shall be eligible for an abatement of real property taxes, as follows: (a) Amount of abatement. The first year of the abatement shall be the tax year with the first taxable status date that follows the sooner of (i) completion of construction; or (ii) four years from the date the first building permit was issued, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. For years one through four, the abatement shall be the amount of the abatement base. For years five through eight, the abatement shall decrease by twenty percent each year. The following table illustrates the abatement computation:

Tax year during benefit period:	Amount of abatement:
Years 1 through 4	100% of abatement base
5	80% of abatement base
6	60% of abatement base
7	40% of abatement base
8	20% of abatement base

(b) Minimum required expenditure. The minimum required expenditure is thirty percent of the property's taxable assessed value in the tax year with a taxable status date immediately preceding the issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. Expenditures for residential construction work or construction work on portions of property to be used for restricted activities shall not be included in the minimum required expenditure.

(c) Special eligibility requirements. Notwithstanding any other provision of this part, no benefits shall be granted pursuant to this paragraph unless the building or structure meets the requirements of clauses (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph, and further meets at least two of the requirements set forth in clauses (iii) through (vii) of this subparagraph:

(i) The height of at least forty percent of the floors in such building or structure shall be not less than twelve feet, nine inches measured from the top of the slab comprising the floor to the bottom of the slab comprising the ceiling;

(ii) Such building or structure shall be served by fiber-optic telecommunications wiring and shall contain vertical penetrations for the distribution of fiber optic cabling to individual tenants on each floor;

(iii) The total square footage of such building or structure is not less than five hundred thousand gross square feet;

(iv) A minimum of two hundred thousand gross square feet or twenty-five per centum of such building or structure is comprised of floors of not less than forty thousand gross square feet;

(v) At least ten per centum of the gross square footage of such building or structure is comprised of floors that contain no more than eight structural columns, excluding any columns within the core or on the periphery of such building or structure;

(vi) The electrical capacity of such building or structure is not less than six watts per net square foot;

(vii) Emergency backup power sufficient to accommodate a need of six watts per net square foot is available in at least two hundred thousand gross square feet or twenty-five per centum of such building or structure.

(d) Geographical area. Abatements will only be granted for new construction work pursuant to this paragraph in the following geographical area; the area in the borough of Manhattan bounded by Murray Street on the north starting at the intersection of West Street and Murray Street; running easterly along the center line of Murray Street; connecting through City Hall Park with the center line of Frankfort Street and running easterly along the center line of Frankfort and Dover Streets to the intersection of Dover Street and South Street; running southerly along the center line of South Street to Peter Minuit Plaza; connecting through Peter Minuit Plaza to the center line of State Street and running northwesterly along the center line of State Street to the intersection of State Street and Battery Place; running westerly along the center line of Battery Place to the intersection of Battery Place and West Street; and running northerly along the center line of West Street to the intersection of West Street and Murray Street, except the area in the borough of Manhattan bounded by Church Street on the east starting at the intersection of Liberty Street and Church Street; running northerly along the center line of Church Street to the intersection of Church Street and Vesey Street; running westerly along the center line of Vesey Street to the intersection of Vesey Street and West Broadway; running northerly along the center line of West Broadway to the intersection of West Broadway and Barclay Street; running westerly along the center line of Barclay Street to the intersection of Barclay Street and Washington Street; running southerly along the center line of Washington Street to the intersection of Washington Street and Vesey Street; running westerly along the center line of Vesey Street to the intersection of Vesey Street and West Street; running southerly along the center line of West Street to the intersection of West Street and Liberty Street; and running easterly along the center line of Liberty Street to the intersection of Liberty Street and Church Street.

d. Limitations on abatement. (1) Subsequent abatement. With respect to any property that has received or is receiving abatement benefits under this part, an applicant shall not file a preliminary application for new abatement benefits under this part for an additional construction project on the same portion of the property for which construction work is the subject of abatement benefits under this part until at least four years have elapsed since the first day of the first tax year of such abatement benefits under the prior abatement, and, in the event that such new benefits are granted, then notwithstanding any other provision of this part or any other law, the initial tax for any such new abatement will be determined without regard to the prior abatement and any other abatement or exemption granted to the property.

(2) Abatement benefits granted under this part shall not in any year exceed the real property taxes imposed on such property.

(3) Once an abatement is granted, no additional benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction work that is substantively a part of eligible construction work for which benefits have been approved or granted.

(4) No benefits shall be granted for residential construction work.

(5) Any parcel partly located in an excluded area shall be deemed to be entirely located in such area.

(6) Where a tax lot contains multiple structures or buildings with eligible and non-eligible uses, the initial tax shall be apportioned under rules promulgated by the commissioner and only the tax attributable to the eligible portion of the property shall be abated.

(7) (a) No benefits under this part may be received by a property that is concurrently receiving exemption or abatement of real property taxes under any other law, except for an exemption under (i) section four hundred twenty-a, four hundred twenty-b or four hundred fifty-nine-b of the real property tax law; or (ii) any section of the real property tax law as to which the city has enacted a local law to implement such exemption and as to which exemption is granted only if the property is the primary or legal residence of one or more of the owners of the property, including such sections in which exemption may be granted if an owner is absent from the residence while receiving medical benefits; or (iii) title two-D of article four of the real property tax law for a separate project involving separate parts of the building or structure that was completed prior to the application for benefits.

(b) For purposes of this paragraph, "property" means the real property contained by an individual tax lot.

(c) Notwithstanding subparagraph (b) of this paragraph, where a property is owned in condominium form, and an application for benefits under this part includes more than one tax lot in the same condominium, then for purposes of this paragraph, "property" shall include any or all such tax lots that are included in the application.

§ 11-270 Eligibility for benefits.

a. Time limit for meeting minimum required expenditure. Applicants must meet the appropriate minimum required expenditure as provided in subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part relating to the abatement for which such project qualifies as follows: (1) No later than four years from the date of issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of con- struction.

(2) Mixed use properties. Expenditures for construction work related to the common areas and systems of such property shall be allocated under rules promulgated by the department between the residential, nonresidential and retail, if any, portions of the property.

b. Time limit for completion of construction. Construction of buildings or structures for which benefits have been approved shall be completed no later than five years from the date of issuance of the first building permit, or if no permit was required, the commencement of construction. Failure to meet this requirement shall result in termination of any inflation protection provided under subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part for any tax year that begins following the date by which completion of construction is required under this paragraph.

c. Non-permissible uses. To be eligible for benefits, the property may not be used for a non-permissible purpose. Accordingly, no abatement benefits under this part shall be granted for work to be performed on property to be used for the following purposes:

(1) Residential. No abatement benefits under this part shall be granted for construction work for residential purposes, or for work on a structure or building where twenty percent or more of the total rentable square footage of such property is or will be dedicated to residential purposes, provided however that where less than five percent of a property's rentable square footage is or will be dedicated to residential purposes, that use shall be considered de minimus and shall not be considered in determining benefits under this part.

(a) For purposes of this paragraph, "property" means the real property contained by an individual tax lot.

(b) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a) of this paragraph, where a building or structure is owned in condominium form, and an application for benefits under this part includes more than one property in the same condominium, then for purposes of this paragraph, the five percent and twenty percent of the rentable square footage shall be determined based on the aggregate usage of all such properties.

(c) Hotel uses, as described in subdivision d of this section, shall not be considered residential.

(2) Utility property. No abatement benefits under this part shall be provided for utility property.

(3) Restricted activity. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for construction work on property any part of which is to be used for a restricted activity.

d. Hotel uses. Benefits shall be available for commercial construction work or renovation construction work on a building or structure for the property's square footage used to provide lodging and support services for transient guests.

e. Filing requirements. (1) Time to file. (a) Preliminary application. (i) Building permit. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any construction work unless the applicant filed a preliminary application for such benefits on or before the date of issuance of the first building permit for such work. This requirement may be satisfied where the applicant's architect, contractor or other representative authorized to file the application for such building permit files with the department on behalf of the applicant a preliminary application containing such information as the department shall prescribe by rule.

(ii) No building permit required. Where construction work does not require a building permit, a notarized letter from the project's architect or engineer notifying the department of this fact shall be filed within thirty calendar days of the commencement of construction. In such circumstance, such letter shall also satisfy the requirement of a preliminary application if the letter contains all of the information required for a preliminary application under rules prescribed by the department.

(b) Final application. Applicants shall file a final application for benefits no later than one year from the date of issuance of the first building permit for construction work, or, where construction work does not require a building permit, no later than one year from the date of commencement of construction.

(2) Who may file for benefits. An applicant shall be:

(a) obligated to any real property tax on the property, either by virtue of ownership or contract; or

(b) the record owner or lessee of property that is exempt from real property taxation who has entered into an agreement to sell or lease such property to another person. Such applicant shall be a co-applicant with such owner or lessee.

(3) Applicant affidavit. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any construction work unless the applicant provides, together with the final application, an affidavit setting forth the following information:

(a) a statement that within the seven years immediately preceding the date of the preliminary application for benefits, neither the applicant, nor any person owning a substantial interest in the property as defined in subparagraph (c) of this paragraph, nor any officer, director or general partner of the applicant or such person was finally adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction to have violated section two hundred thirty-five of the real property law or any section of article one hundred fifty of the penal law or any similar arson law of another state with respect to any building, or was an officer, director or general partner of a person at the time such person was finally adjudicated to have violated such law; and

(b) a statement setting forth any pending charges alleging violation of section two hundred thirty-five of the real property law or any section of article one hundred fifty of the penal law or any similar arson law of another jurisdiction with respect to any building by the applicant or any person owning a substantial interest in the property as defined in subparagraph (c) of this paragraph or any officer, director or general partner of the applicant or such person.

(c) "Substantial interest" as used in this subdivision shall mean ownership and control of an interest of ten percent or more in a property or any person owning a property.

(d) If any person described in the statement required by subparagraph (b) of this paragraph is finally adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction to be guilty of any charge listed in such statement, the recipient shall cease to be eligible for benefits pursuant to this part and shall pay with interest any taxes for which an abatement was claimed pursuant to this part.

(4) Minority-and women-owned business enterprises. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any construction work unless the applicant participates in the program established in section 11-278 of this part to ensure meaningful participation of minority-and women-owned business enterprises in construction work for which the applicant receives benefits.

f. Requirement to file income and expense statements. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any property unless income and expense statements are filed for the property with respect to the tax year as to which the assessment roll described in paragraph (2) of subdivision b of section 11-269 of this part applies, and all subsequent tax years up to and including the tax year on which the assessment roll described in paragraph (3) of subdivision b of section 11-269 of this part applies.

g. Co-application with public entity. A co-applicant with a public entity may be eligible for abatement benefits, provided that for any period for which the property is exempt from real property tax because it is owned or controlled by a public entity, no benefits shall be available to such recipient under this part. Such recipient may receive benefits under this part when the property is no longer eligible for an exemption as follows: (1) No benefits under this part shall be provided during the period of exemption; (2) during such period of exemption, the years of the benefit period applicable to the project provided in subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part shall not be tolled, but shall run in accordance with the applicable schedule provided therein; and (3) the recipient shall starting with the date the exemption ceases, and continuing until the abatement benefit period expires, receive the abatement benefits to which such recipient is entitled in the tax year that corresponds to the year of the benefit period provided in subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part.

§ 11-271 Applying for benefits.

a. Application. (1) Application for benefits pursuant to this part may be made immediately following the effective date of the local law that added this section and continuing until March first, two thousand eleven.

(2) Application content. The preliminary and final applications shall be in any format designated by the commissioner, including electronic format. The applications shall require, and applicants shall provide, information and documentation sufficient to determine eligibility for abatement benefits. The required information and documentation for both applications shall be prescribed by the department by rule. Such information and documentation may include, but need not be limited to, certified statements related to the project, project costs, filings with other governmental entities, and work performed or to be performed on such project. At the department's sole discretion, an applicant may be required to furnish certified statements made by the applicant's architect or engineer or both.

(3) Compliance. The application shall also state that the applicant agrees to comply with and be subject to the rules issued from time to time by the department to secure compliance with all applicable city, state and federal laws or which implement mayoral directives and executive orders designed to ensure equal employment opportunity. Such application shall also state that the applicant agrees to comply with the program established by section 11-278 to ensure meaningful participation of minority and women-owned business enterprises in construction work for which the applicant receives benefits.

(4) Affidavit of no violations. No benefits pursuant to this part shall be granted for any construction work unless the applicant shall file with the application, the affidavit required under paragraph (3) of subdivision e of section 11-270 of this part.

(5) Electronic filing of application. The commissioner may, by rule, require any application for benefits under this part to be submitted electronically in such form and manner as the commissioner may determine. For good cause, the commissioner may waive any rule requiring electronic filing and may permit an application to be filed in another manner.

b. Fees. The department may provide by rule for reasonable administrative charges or fees necessary to defray expenses in administering this benefit program.

§ 11-272 Reporting requirement.

a. Continuing use. For the duration of the benefit period, the recipient of benefits shall file biennially with the department, on or before the appropriate taxable status date, a statement of the continuing use of such property and any changes in use that have occurred. This statement shall be in a form determined by the department and may be in any format the department determines, in its discretion, is appropriate, including electronic format. The department shall have authority to terminate such benefits upon failure of a recipient to file such statement by the appropriate taxable status date. The burden of proof shall be on the recipient to establish continuing eligibility for benefits and the department shall have the authority to require that statements filed under this subdivision be certified.

b. Conversion of construction. A recipient shall file an amendment to the latest statement of continuing use prior to:

(1) converting square footage within property that is the subject of benefits for industrial construction work from use for the manufacturing activities described in such statement of continuing use where such conversion would result in less than sixty-five percent of total net square footage being used or held out for use for manufacturing activities; or

(2) converting any portion of property that is the subject of benefits for industrial construction work for use for any restricted activity or as residential property.

(3) For all other use conversions, applicants shall immediately notify the department of a change in use, in a manner that the department may determine.

c. Minimum required expenditure. No later than sixty days after the minimum required expenditure must be made under subdivision a of section 11-270 of this part, the applicant shall submit to the department a certified statement that the applicant has made the minimum required expenditure as required by this part.

§ 11-273 Conversion of property.

a. Conversion from commercial to industrial use. Where a property has been granted benefits for commercial or renovation construction work, but such property is used as industrial property before the benefits period expires, such property shall continue to receive benefits for commercial or renovation construction work.

b. Conversion from industrial use to commercial use. Where a property has been granted benefits for industrial construction work, and where, before the benefit period expires, less than seventy-five percent of the total net square footage is used or held out for use for manufacturing activities, no further benefits for industrial construction work shall be provided except as provided in this subdivision. Taxes, together with interest, shall become due and owing after such date of the use for purposes other than industrial, except as provided in this subdivision.

(1) Any applicant whose property has been granted a tax abatement under this part for industrial construction work in a special commercial abatement area who would have been eligible to receive benefits for commercial construction work at the time such applicant applied for benefits shall continue to receive an abatement for industrial construction work.

(2) Any applicant whose property has been granted benefits under this part for industrial construction work other than in a special commercial abatement area who would have been eligible to receive benefits for commercial construction work at the time such applicant applied for benefits shall, commencing with the date of conversion to commercial property and continuing until the expiration of the benefit period for commercial construction work, receive any abatement which such applicant would have received in the corresponding tax year pursuant to the benefits granted for commercial construction work.

(3) Any applicant whose property has been granted benefits under this part for industrial construction work in any area of the city on whose property at least sixty-five percent of the net square footage continues to be used or held out for use for manufacturing activities after conversion to commercial property, shall not be required to pay the pro rata share of tax for which an abatement was claimed during the tax year in which such conversion occurred.

(4) Where the property is receiving the additional industrial abatement pursuant to paragraph (5) of subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part, such additional industrial abatement shall cease from the date of conversion to commercial property.

c. Conversion to restricted use. Any applicant whose property has been granted benefits for commercial, industrial or renovation construction work, and who uses such property for any restricted activity prior to the expiration of the benefit period, shall cease to be eligible for further abatement as of the date such property was first used for any restricted activity. Such recipient of benefits that cease under this subdivision shall pay with interest any taxes for which an abatement was claimed after such date, including the pro rata share of tax for which any abatement was claimed during the tax year in which such use occurred.

d. Conversion to residential use. (1) Any applicant whose property has been granted benefits for commercial, industrial or renovation construction work and who, before the benefit period expires, uses the property or a portion of the property as residential property, shall cease to be eligible for further abatement for commercial, industrial or renovation construction work as of the date such property was first used as residential property, as follows:

(a) if twenty percent or more of the rentable square footage of the property is used as residential property, then the entire building shall cease to be eligible for further abatement;

(b) if less than twenty percent of the rentable square footage of the property is used as residential property, then that portion of such property used as residential property shall cease to be eligible for further abatement; (c) notwithstanding subparagraph (b) of this paragraph, where less than five percent of a property's rentable square footage is used as residential property, that use will be considered de minimums and will not be a basis for benefits to cease under this subdivision; and

(d) such recipient of benefits that cease under this subdivision shall pay, with interest, any taxes for which an abatement was claimed after the conversion of the property as described in this subdivision, including the pro rata share of tax for which such abatement was claimed during the tax year in which such use occurred. The abatement shall continue for the commercial, industrial or renovation construction work for the portion of the property that continues to be used for commercial purposes.

(2) For purposes of paragraph (1) of this subdivision, "property" means the real property contained by an individual tax lot.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraph (2) of this subdivision, where a building or structure is owned in condominium form, and an application for benefits under this part includes more than one property in the same condominium, then for purposes of this subdivision, the five percent and twenty percent of the rentable square footage shall be determined based on the aggregate usage of all such properties.

e. Conversion to retail use. (1) Where a property has been granted benefits for industrial or commercial construction work in special commercial abatement areas on buildings where not more than ten percent of the building or structure is used for retail purposes and where, before the benefit period expires, the property or a portion thereof is converted so that ten percent or more of the building or structure is used for retail purposes, the department shall recalculate the abatement upon conversion as provided in subdivision six of this section.

(2) Where a property has been granted benefits for renovation construction work in renovation areas and where, before the benefit period expires, the property or a portion of the property is converted so that more than five percent of the building or structure is used for retail purposes, the department shall recalculate the abatement upon conversion as provided in subdivision f of this section.

f. Recalculation of abatement upon conversion. If, during the benefit period, a recipient converts square footage within any building or structure, the department may recalculate the benefit granted pursuant to this part to reflect the benefit for which the current use is eligible under this part and rules that may be promulgated by the department.

g. The burden shall at all times be on the recipient to demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that property subject to benefits under this part is used as stated in the preliminary and applications for benefits filed by the recipient with the department.

§ 11-274 Temporary commercial incentive area boundary commission; designation of special commercial abatement areas; excluded and renovation areas.

a. Commission members. There shall be a temporary commercial incentive area boundary commission to consist of the deputy mayor for economic development and planning, the commissioner of finance, the chair of the city planning commission, the director of management and budget, the borough presidents, the speaker of the city council and a public member appointed by the mayor to serve at the mayor's pleasure. Each member except the public member shall have the power to designate an alternate to represent him or her at commission meetings to exercise all the rights and powers of such member, including the right to vote, provided that such designation be made in writing to the chair of the commission. The deputy mayor for economic development and planning shall serve as commission chair. Each borough president shall be entitled to vote only on the designation of areas within his or her borough. Commission members who shall be officers or employees of such city shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties. Any other commission member shall receive as exclusive compensation for his or her services one hundred dollars per diem, or another reasonable amount as determined by the deputy mayor for economic development and planning, provided, however, that the total compensation paid to any such member shall not exceed twelve hundred dollars for any calendar year, or another reasonable amount determined by the deputy mayor for economic development and planning. A majority of members of such commission entitled to vote on a matter shall constitute a quorum for such issue. Decisions shall be made by majority vote of those present entitled to vote on a matter. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, no officer or employee of the state or any of its subdivisions or any public benefit corporation shall be deemed to have forfeited his or her office or employment or any benefits provided under the retirement and social security law or under any public retirement system maintained by the state or any of its subdivisions by reason of accepting membership on such commission.

b. Designation of special commercial abatement areas. (1) The commission shall meet in two thousand nine and at least once every five years thereafter to determine the boundaries of special commercial abatement areas which it is authorized, but not required, to designate pursuant to this section. The areas designated by the commission established pursuant to title two-D of article four of the real property tax law in effect as of June thirtieth, two thousand eight shall remain in effect until the first taxable status date after the city council approves a new designation pursuant to paragraph (4) of this subdivision.

(2) In years when special commercial abatement areas are to be designated, no later than October first, the commission shall provide public notice of such designation by publishing a notice at least once in a newspaper of general circulation setting forth the proposed boundaries. Notice may also be provided electronically or in an electronic medium, such as a website, in a manner the commission determines to be appropriate. Notice must be provided not earlier than five nor later than fifteen days before the date of the commission's public hearing to hear all persons interested in the designation of the areas. The notice required by this paragraph shall be published in the City Record and a newspaper of general circulation in the city, and copies thereof shall be forwarded to each council member and community board.

(3) The commission shall make such designation, and notify the city council of such designation, not later than November first of each year when special commercial abatement areas are to be designated.

(4) Within thirty days after the first stated meeting of the city council following the receipt of notice of such designation, the city council may, by majority vote, disapprove such designation. If, within such thirty-day period, the city council fails to act or fails to act by the required vote, the city council shall be deemed to have approved such designation. Such designation shall take effect on the first taxable status date after the city council approves such designation and shall remain in effect until the first taxable status date after the city council approves such new designation.

(5) The commission may designate any area other than the area lying south of the center line of 96th Street in the borough of Manhattan, to be a special commercial abatement area if it determines that market conditions in the area are such that the availability of a special abatement is required in order to encourage commercial construction work in such area. In making such determination, the commission shall consider, among other factors, the existence in such area of a special need for commercial and job development, high unemployment, economic distress or unusually large numbers of vacant, underutilized, unsuitable or substandard structures, or other substandard, unsanitary, deteriorated or deteriorating conditions, with or without tangible blight.

(6) If the commission fails to meet for more than five years, all new applications for special commercial abatement area benefits postmarked after the fifth anniversary of the commission's last meeting shall be deemed applications for regular area benefits.

c. Renovation areas. The following areas in the borough of Manhattan shall be designated as renovation areas. Except as provided in paragraph (6) of subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part, new commercial construction in a renovation area shall not be eligible for abatement benefits. Renovation areas shall be limited to:

(1) the area in the borough of Manhattan bounded by Murray Street on the north starting at the intersection of West Street and Murray Street; running easterly along the center line of Murray Street; connecting through City Hall Park with the center line of Frankfort Street and running easterly along the center line of Frankfort and Dover Streets to the intersection of Dover Street and South Street; running southerly along the center line of South Street to Peter Minuit Plaza; connection through Peter Minuit Plaza to the center line of State Street and running northwesterly along the center line of State Street to the intersection of State Street and Battery Place; running westerly along the center line of Battery Place to the intersection of Battery Place and West Street; and running northerly along the center line of West Street to the intersection of West Street and Murray Street;

(2) the area in the borough of Manhattan defined as the special garment center district by chapter one of article XII of the zoning resolution of the city; and

(3) the area in the borough of Manhattan south of the center line of 59th street, other than the areas designated renovation areas by paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subdivision.

d. Commercial exclusion area. Except as provided in paragraph (6) of subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part, any area in the borough of Manhattan lying south of the center line of 96th Street, other than the area designated renovation areas by subdivision c of this section, shall be a commercial exclusion area. Commercial construction projects in the commercial exclusion area shall not be eligible to receive tax abatements pursuant to this part.

e. Eligible industrial construction projects may receive tax abatements pursuant to paragraphs (2) and (5) of subdivision c of section 11-269 of this part in any area of the city.

§ 11-275 Administration of the benefit program.

The department shall have the following additional functions, powers and duties:

a. To require that any documents submitted in support of or as part of an application be certified;

b. To audit documents submitted by an applicant, to require the production of books, records and documents with respect to information relating to any application made pursuant to, or whether the applicant has complied with, the requirements of this part;

c. To revoke or suspend benefits due to non-compliance with a request made under this section;

d. to enter and inspect property to determine a property's use and to determine whether (1) any such property is being used for any restricted use, or

(2) any property for which benefits have been granted for industrial construction work is being used as commercial property, or

(3) any industrial or commercial property is being used as residential or mixed-use property, or

(4) all or part of the nonresidential portion of mixed-use property is being used as residential property;

e. To make and promulgate a rule that increases up to fifty percent the amount of the minimum required expenditure required under this part, if, after consultation with the deputy mayor for economic development and planning, the commissioner determines that a greater minimum required expenditure is required to encourage significant industrial and commercial development; and

f. To make and promulgate any other rules to carry out the purposes of this part. Such rules shall provide that for construction work, recipients of benefits and their contractors shall be equal opportunity employers and may also provide that persons employed in the construction work shall implement a training program for economically disadvantaged persons enrolled or eligible to be enrolled in training programs approved by the department of labor.

§ 11-277 Code violations; suspension of benefits.

a. If a court, or the environmental control board with respect to matters within its jurisdiction, finds that there has been a violation of the city construction codes, the 1968 building code or other law or rule enforced by the department of buildings classified as immediately hazardous pursuant to chapter two of title twenty-eight of the administrative code or the rules of the department of buildings; a violation of subdivision a of section 1-102 of title fifteen of the rules of the city of New York; or a violation of the city fire code or title three of the rules of the city of New York, relating to the failure to provide a fire protection system or emergency power system, or maintain it in good working order, to prepare or, where required, submit for fire department approval, a fire safety and evacuation plan or emergency action plan, or to provide a fire safety and evacuation plan or emergency action plan staff, or relating to the obstruction of a means of egress at any property receiving benefits pursuant to this part, such benefits shall be suspended unless, within one hundred eighty days after the department of finance has sent notice of such finding to the recipient, the recipient submits to the department of finance documentation from the department of buildings, the department of environmental protection or the fire department, whichever is applicable, certifying that the underlying violation has been legally cured or corrected. Such notice may be in any form determined by the department of finance, including in electronic form, and shall be sent to the recipient on the next quarterly statement of account after the department of finance has learned of such finding. If the recipient fails to make the required submission within the one hundred eighty day period, the suspension of benefits shall continue until the recipient makes such submission to the department of finance. After the recipient makes such submission, benefits shall resume, but benefits lost during the period of suspension shall not be restored.

b. If the original finding of violation or denial of certification is appealed and a court or appropriate governmental agency finally determines that the finding of violation or denial of certification was invalid or erroneous, all benefits to which the recipient was otherwise entitled shall be restored retroactively.

§ 11-278 Participation by minority- and women-owned business enterprises.

a. Policy and program established. It is the policy of the city to encourage meaningful participation of minority- and women-owned business enterprises in construction work for which an applicant receives benefits under this part. A program is hereby established to further the stated policy that will be administered by the division of economic and financial opportunity within the department of small business services, or any successor thereto, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

b. Definitions. For purposes of this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Directory" shall have the same meaning as provided in paragraph thirteen of subdivision c of section 6-129 of this code.

2. "Division" shall mean the division of economic and financial opportunity within the department of small business services.

3. "Minority-owned business enterprise" shall mean a minority-owned business enterprise certified in accordance with section 1304 of the charter.

4. "Women-owned business enterprise" shall mean a women-owned business enterprise certified in accordance with section 1304 of the charter.

c. Information to be provided with the application for benefits. The department shall provide with the application for benefits information concerning how an applicant can access the directory from the division. Making such information available may include, but need not be limited to, providing information to applicants on how to access and search the directory in electronic format. The application shall also include information concerning an applicant's obligations under this part.

d. For construction projects between seven hundred fifty thousand dollars and one million five hundred thousand dollars in cost, the applicant shall certify that it accessed the directory. The applicant shall file such certification with the department in conjunction with the final application for benefits along with a report of whether or not efforts were made by the applicant to include minority- and women-owned business enterprises in the construction work on property for which benefits are sought in accordance with this part, and if so, what such efforts were.

e. For construction projects one million five hundred thousand dollars in cost and over, the applicant must comply with the following requirements in order to obtain benefits under this part:

1. Subsequent to filing a preliminary application for benefits, the applicant shall inform the division of contracting and subcontracting opportunities at construction sites where the applicant will be performing construction work subject to benefits pursuant to this part. The division shall make information on such contracting and subcontracting opportunities available to the general public by posting such opportunities on its website.

2. The applicant shall review the directory to identify minority- or women-owned business enterprises that may be qualified to perform contracting or subcontracting work on construction projects subject to benefits pursuant to this part.

3. For each subcontract on the project, the applicant shall solicit or arrange for the solicitation of bids from at least three of such minority- or women-owned enterprises to perform such subcontracting work.

4. The applicant shall maintain records demonstrating its compliance with the provisions of this subdivision.

5. When filing a final application for benefits with the department, the applicant shall certify that it has complied with and will continue to comply with the provisions of this subdivision. The certification shall also include: (i) the name and contact information of every minority- or women-owned business enterprise that the applicant solicited bids from pursuant to the provisions of paragraph three of this subdivision and (ii) whether any such minority- or women-owned firm was awarded a subcontract.

f. The division shall have authority to audit the records maintained by each applicant pursuant to paragraph four of subdivision e of this section to ensure compliance with the requirements of such subdivision.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Section added L.L. 67/2008 § 3, eff. Feb. 27, 2009 and shall apply only to applicants that file preliminary applications for benefits with the finance department after Feb. 27, 2009.

CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

§ 11-301 When taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water rents to be liens on land assessed.

All taxes and all assessments and all sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water rents, and the interest and charges thereon, which may be laid or may have heretofore been laid, upon any real estate now in the city, shall continue to be, until paid, a lien thereon, and shall be preferred in payment to all other charges. The words "water rents" whenever they are used in this chapter shall include uniform annual charges and extra and miscellaneous charges for the supply of water, charges in accordance with meter rates, minimum charges for the supply of water by meter, annual service charges and charges for meters and their connections and for their setting, repair and maintenance, penalties and fines and all lawful charges for the supply of water imposed pursuant to the New York city municipal water finance authority act, which is set forth in title two-A of article five of the public authorities law. Charges for expense of meters, their connections, setting, repair or maintenance shall not be due or become a charge or lien on the premises where a water meter shall be installed or against which a charge shall be made, until such charge shall have been definitely fixed by the commissioner of environmental protection, and an entry of the amount thereof shall have been made with the date of such entry in the book in which the charges for water supplied by meter against such premises are to be entered. A charge in accordance with meter rates or minimum charges for the supply of water measured by meter, and a service charge shall not be due or become a lien or charge upon the premises where such meter is installed until an entry shall have been made indicating that such premises are metered, with the date of such entry in the book in which the charges for water by meter measurement against such premises are to be entered. The words "sewer rents" when used in this chapter shall mean any rents or charges imposed pursuant to section 24-514 of the code or pursuant to the New York city municipal water finance authority act, which is set forth in title two-A of article five of the public authorities law. The words "sewer surcharges" when used in this chapter shall mean the charges imposed pursuant to section 24-523 of the code or pursuant to the New York city municipal water finance authority act, which is set forth in title two-A of article five of the public authorities law. Whenever an increase in the amount of uniform annual charges or extra or miscellaneous charges shall have been made or a charge shall have been made for water services for any building completed subsequent to the first day of January in each year, the amount of such increase of the charge or new charge for such new building shall not be due or become a lien or charge against the premises until the amounts thereof shall have been entered with the date of such entries, respectively, in the books in which the uniform annual charges and extra or miscellaneous charges against such premises are to be entered. The words "tax lien" when used in this chapter shall mean the lien arising pursuant to the provisions of this chapter or pursuant to the New York city municipal water finance authority act, which is set forth in title two-A of article five of the public authorities law, as a result of the nonpayment of taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, the costs of any advertisements and notices given pursuant to this chapter, any other charges that are due and payable, a surcharge pursuant to section 11-332 of this chapter if the tax lien is sold, interest and penalties thereon and the right of the city to receive such amounts. The words "tax lien certificate" when used in this chapter shall mean the instrument evidencing a tax lien and executed by the commissioner of finance or his or her designee at such time as such lien is transferred to a purchaser upon sale of such lien by the city.

¶ 1. Claim of City for water charges held superior to rights of mortgagee, notwithstanding the water charges were not entered against the mortgaged premises until subsequent to recording of the mortgage, since the City's books disclosed that no charge for water for the period had been made prior to the mortgage, and mortgagee was bound to take notice that water charges in due course would be made (Admin. Code §§ 415(1)-7.0, 415(1)-17.0).-Home Owners Loan Corp. v. Wood, 170 Misc. 74, 9 N.Y.S. 2d 834 [1938].

¶ 2. In condemnation proceeding the City of New York was entitled to collect interest on unpaid taxes, assessments and water rents on the damage parcel from date of vesting of title to date when they were paid, inasmuch as the tax statutes made no provision for cessation of interest upon the taking but on the contrary prohibited the reduction of interest thereon below the amount fixed by law, and provided that all taxes, assessments and water rents with interest thereon should constitute liens until paid [Admin. Code §§ 415(1)-7.0, 415(1)-8.0], and upon vesting of title the lien was shifted from the land to the award. Some relief from interest was available under Admin. Code § B15-29.0, which permits an application for advance payment of 50 percent of the damages, and of course interest could be stopped by paying the delinquent taxes.-In re Public Parks (Rockaway Beach), 288 N.Y. 51, 41 N.E. 2d 454 [1942], modf'g 261

App. Div. 936, 25 N.Y.S. 2d 511 [1941], which modified 172 Misc. 877, 17, N.Y.S. 2d 209 [1939].

¶ 3. Condemnation award would be applied first to payment of tax arrears on the property and then to payment of water charges, where the award was insufficient to pay both taxes and water charges. This allocation was just, inasmuch as taxes are a lien upon real property only, whereas a personal liability also exists with respect to water charges (Admin. Code §§ 415(1)-7.0, 415(1)-19.0).-City of N.Y. v. Idlewild Beach Co., 182 Misc. 205, 213, 43 N.Y.S. 2d 567 [1943], aff'd 182 Misc. 213, 50 N.Y.S. 2d 341 [1944].

¶ 4. Owner of property taken in condemnation was not entitled to an apportionment of the annual frontage charge for water which was a lien on the property when title vested in the condemnor.-Two Avenue D Corp. v. City of N.Y., 188 Misc. 873, 69 N.Y.S. 2d 699 [1947].

¶ 5. Fact that the arrears of taxes were converted into a transfer of tax lien did not have the effect of reducing the period of the lien to the period of the statute of limitations.-Hirsch v. N.Y. City Housing Authority, 125 (87) N.Y.L.J. (5-4-51) 1642, Col. 5 F.

¶ 6. The provisions of the Admin. Code making taxes a lien until paid take precedence over general statute of limitations in §§ 47-a and 48(2) of the Civil Practice Act. Therefore the holder of such a lien could foreclose it after the expiration of six years.-L.K. Land Corp. v. Gordon, 1 N.Y. 2d 465, 154 N.Y.S. 2d 32, 136 N.E. 2d 500 [1956]; rev'g 1 A.D. 2d 699, 147 N.Y.S. 2d 463 [1955].

¶ 7. Although readings from a water meter were entered on the books of the city for over ten years but not billed to plaintiff during this period, plaintiff was liable for the water meter charges that accrued more than six years before the bills were rendered because under this section the charges became liens upon the affected property and remained liens until paid.-Marver Realty v. City of N.Y., 117 Misc. 2d 763 [1983].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Normally, an attorney's charging lien under Judiciary Law § 475 would take priority over a City's tax lien against property. However, where, in a condemnation proceeding involving property that was subject to a tax lien, the counsel for the property owner participated directly in the client's acceptance of partial payments against the condemnation award, and the City waived payment of the tax lien until the final payment of the award, the counsel in effect gave up the right to claim priority of the charging lien over the tax lien. CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. In a condemnation proceeding, the City of New York was entitled to collect interest on unpaid taxes, assessments and water rents on the damaged parcel from the date of vesting of title to the date when the taxes were paid. The tax statutes make no provision for cessation of interest upon the taking in condemnation but on the contrary prohibit the reduction of interest below the amount fixed by law and provide that all taxes, assessments and water rents, with interest thereon, shall constitute liens until paid.-In re Public Park (Rockaway Beach), 288 N.Y. 51, 41 N.E. 2d 454

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The statute provides that the Commissioner of Finance shall not reduce the rate of interest upon any tax or assessment below the amount fixed by law. Thus, interest continues to accrue on all delinquent taxes through the date of payment. Although the tax statutes recognize that the City may take property by eminent domain, there is no provision for the cessation of interest upon the happening of that event. (b) The provisions of this section shall not apply to an installment of tax or an assessment for which payment, made electronically, by check, or by other means, was dishonored.

CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

§ 11-307 Payments in installments of assessments heretofore or hereafter confirmed.

Upon the application in writing of the owner of a parcel of real property affected by an unpaid assessment heretofore or hereafter confirmed the amount of which is one hundred dollars or more, the commissioner of finance shall divide the assessment upon such parcel into fifteen parts or, if the application so requests, into five parts, as nearly equal as may be, or if the amount of such assessment is fifty dollars or more but less than one hundred dollars the commissioner of finance shall divide the assessment upon such parcel into five parts as nearly equal as may be. One part thereof in any event shall be due and payable, and in each case as many more of such parts shall be due and payable as years may have elapsed since the entry of such original assessment for collection. Such parts thereof with interest at the rate of seven percent per annum on the amount of the assessment unpaid shall be paid at the time of application as a condition of the extension of time of payment of the remainder as provided in this section. Upon payment of such parts and interests, the balance of such assessments shall cease to be a lien upon such real property except as hereinafter provided; and the remaining parts shall be paid in annual installments as herein provided. Of such installments the first, with interest at the rate of four percent thereon, and on the installments thereafter to become due, from the date of payment of the parts of such assessment paid as hereinbefore provided, shall become due and payable and be a lien on the real property assessed, on the next ensuing anniversary of the date of entry of the assessment in the record of titles of assessments confirmed; and one, with interest at the rate of four percent per annum thereon and on the installments thereafter to become due shall become due and payable and be a lien upon the real property assessed, annually thereafter. After the time herein specified for annual installments and interest to become due, the amount of the lien thereon shall bear interest at the rate of seven percent per annum. Any installment assessment shall not be further divided into installments. The first installment of an assessment divided within the ninety-day period provided by section 11-306 of this chapter during which assessment may be paid without interest shall not be subject to interest, but the second installment with interest at the rate of four percent per annum from the original date of entry shall become due and payable and be a lien upon the real property on the anniversary date of entry of the assessment and the remaining installments with interest shall become due and payable and be a lien on the real property as hereinbefore provided. The installments not due with interest at the rate of four percent per annum to the date of payment may be paid at any time. The provisions of this chapter with reference to the sale of tax liens shall apply to the several unpaid installments and the interest thereon in the same manner as if each installment and the interest thereon had been imposed as an assessment payable in one payment, at the time such installment became a lien. In the event of the acquisition by condemnation by the city for public purposes any property upon which there are installments not due, such installments shall become due as of the date of the entry of the final order of the supreme court or the confirmation of the report of the commissioners in the condemnation proceedings, and shall be set off against an award that may be made for the property acquired.

When an award for damage shall accrue to the same person who is or was at the time the assessment was confirmed liable for the assessments for benefit on the abutting property in the same proceedings, only the portion of the assessment in excess of such award may be considered in levying in installments under the provisions of this section. Except as provided in this section, no such annual installment shall be a lien or deemed to be an encumbrance upon the title to the real property assessed until it becomes due as herein provided.

§ 11-309 Notifying taxpayers of assessments.

a. The owner of any lot, piece or parcel of land in the city of New York or any person interested in such lot, piece or parcel, may file with the department of finance, a statement containing a brief description of such land, together with the section, block and lot number thereof, or such other identifying information as at the time is established by the department of finance, and a statement of the applicant's interest therein, together with a written request that such lot, piece or parcel of land be registered in the name of the applicant. In such statement the applicant shall designate a post office address to which notifications addressed to such applicant shall be sent. A brief description of such lot, piece or parcel of land corresponding to the description thereof in the statement so filed, together with the name of the applicant and his or her post office address and the date of such application, shall thereupon be registered in the department of finance.

b. As soon as any assessment for a local improvement shall have been confirmed, including assessments confirmed by a court of record, and the list thereof shall have been entered and filed in the department of finance, such assessment list shall be examined and thereupon, within twenty days after such entry there shall be mailed a notice addressed to each person in whose name any lot, piece or parcel of land, affected by such assessment, is registered, at the post office address registered in the records of the department of finance, which notice shall contain the brief description of the lot, piece or parcel of land registered in the name of the person to whom such notice is addressed, together with the amount assessed thereon, date of entry, and title of the improvement for which such assessment is made, and a statement of the rate of interest or penalty imposed for the nonpayment of such assessment, and the date from which the interest or penalty will be computed. Failure to comply with the provisions herein, however, shall in no manner affect the validity or collectibility of any assessment heretofore or hereafter confirmed, nor shall any claim arise or exist against the comptroller, the commissioner of finance, or any officer of the city by reason of such failure.

c. The commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall for the purpose of this section provide appropriate records for each section of the city, included within the respective boroughs, as the same shall appear upon the tax maps of the city.

Commencing on June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-four, uniform annual water charges and extra and miscellaneous charges for water not metered and annual service charges shall be due and payable in advance on the thirtieth day of June in each year, if entered. If any of such rents and charges which become due and payable on or before June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-six shall not have been paid to the commissioner of finance or his or her designee on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from the date when such rents and charges became due and payable to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, and at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment. If not so entered and payable, but entered at any time subsequent thereto, they shall be due and payable when entered and notice thereof shall be mailed within five days of such entry to the premises against which they are imposed addressed to either the owner or the occupant and, if entered on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six but not paid on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from the date of entry to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, and at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment; if entered on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven but not paid on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from the date of entry to the date of payment.

b. All charges for meters and their connections and for their setting, repair and maintenance, and all charges in accordance with meter rates for supply of water measured by meter, including minimum charges for the supply of water measured by meter, shall be due and payable when entered, and notice thereof shall be mailed within five days of such entry stating the amount due and the nature of the rent or charge to the last known address of the person whose name appears on the record of such rents and charges as being the owner, occupant or agent or, where no name appears, to the premises addressed to either the owner or the occupant, and if entered on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six but not paid on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from the date of entry to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, and at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment; if entered on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven but not paid on or before the thirtieth day following the date of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from the date of entry to the date of payment.

c. No later than the twenty-fifth day of May in each year, the banking commission shall transmit a written recommendation to the council of a proposed interest rate to be charged for nonpayment of water rents. In making such recommendations the commission shall consider the prevailing interest rates charged for commercial loans extended to prime borrowers by commercial banks operating in the city and shall propose a rate of at least six per centum per annum greater than such rates. The council may by resolution adopt an interest rate to be charged for nonpayment of water rents pursuant to section 11-224 of the code and, for nonpayment of water rents that become due and payable on or after July first, two thousand five, pursuant to section 11-224.1 of the code, and may specify in such resolution the date on which such interest rate is to take effect.

§ 11-313 Sewer rents; when payable; penalty for nonpayment.

a. As used in this section:

1. The term "metered premises" shall mean premises, or any part thereof, (a) to which water is supplied by the municipal water supply system or by a private water company, and (b) at which the quantity of water supplied is measured by a water meter.

2. The term "unmetered premises" shall mean premises, or any part thereof, (a) to which water is supplied by the municipal water supply system or by a private water company, and (b) at which the quantity of water supplied is not measured by a water meter.

b. The sewer rents charged against metered premises in accor- dance with the provisions of paragraphs two and three of subdivision b of section 24-514 of the code and the rules duly promulgated pursuant to such section, including the minimum rents for the use of the sewer system, charged pursuant to such section and rules, and the sewer rents charged against any premises in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs four and five of subdivision b of section 24-514 of the code and rules duly promulgated pursuant to such section, including the minimum rents for the use of the sewer system, charged pursuant to such section and rules shall become due and shall become a charge or lien on the premises when the amount thereof shall have been fixed by the commissioner of environmental protection, and an entry thereof shall have been made against such premises with the date of such entry, in the book in which sewer rents are to be entered. The sewer surcharges charged against any premises pursuant to section 24-523 of the code shall become due and shall become a charge or lien on the premises when the amount thereof shall have been fixed by the commissioner of environmental protection and an entry thereof shall have been made against such premises in the book in which sewer surcharges are to be entered. A notice thereof, stating the amount due and the nature of the rent, surcharge or charge shall be mailed, within five days after such entry, to the last known address of the person whose name appears upon the records in the office of the department of finance as being the owner, occupant or agent or, where no name appears, to the premises addressed to either the owner or the occupant. If such rent, surcharge or charge shall have been entered on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six but not paid on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from the date of entry to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, and at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment; if entered on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven but not paid on or before the thirtieth day following the date of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from the date of entry to the date of payment. The rents or charges for the use of the sewer system charged during any specified period of time pursuant to the provisions of section 24-514 of the code and the rules promulgated thereunder shall be computed, in accordance with the provisions of such section and the rules duly promulgated thereunder, on the basis of water rents or charges computed for the same period.

c. Sewer rents charged against unmetered premises in accor- dance with the provisions of paragraphs two and three of subdivision b of section 24-514 of the code and the rules and regulations duly promulgated pursuant to such section, for the use of the sewer system during the one-year period commencing on the first day of July of each year, shall be due and payable and shall become a charge or lien on the premises on the first day of January following such first day of July, if entered, except that commencing on June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-four such sewer rents shall be due and payable in advance on the thirtieth day of June in each year, if entered, and shall become a charge or lien on the premises on such date. If any of such rents or charges which became due and payable on or before June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-six shall not have been paid to the commissioner of finance or his or her designee within thirty days after such first day of January, or, commencing on the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred seventy-four, on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from the date when such charges became due and payable to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, and at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment. If any of such rents or charges which shall become due and payable on or after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-seven are not paid to the commissioner of finance or his or her designee on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from the date when such rents or charges became due and payable to the date of payment. If not so entered and payable, but entered at any time subsequent thereto, they shall be due and payable and shall become a charge or lien on the premises when entered and notice thereof shall be mailed within five days after such entry, to the last known address of the person whose name appears upon the records in the department of finance as the owner or the occupant or if no name appears, to the premises addressed to either the owner or occupant. If any of such rents or charges which were entered on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six but not paid on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from the date of entry to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-six, and at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment; if entered on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven but not paid on or before the last day of the month following the month of entry, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee to charge, collect and receive interest thereon to be calculated at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from the date of entry to the date of payment. The sewer rents charged against unmetered premises for the use of the sewer system during the one-year period commencing on the first day of July of each year shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of section 24-514 of the code and the rules duly promulgated thereunder, upon the basis of water rents or charges computed for the same period.

d. Whenever an increase in the amount of the sewer rent charged against unmetered premises shall have been made or a charge shall have been made for sewer services for any building completed subsequent to the first day of July in each year, the amount of such increase of the charge or new charge for such new building shall not be due or become a lien or charge against the premises until the amounts thereof shall have been entered with the date of such entries, respectively, in the books in which sewer rents charged against such premises are to be entered.

e. No later than the twenty-fifth day of May in each year, the banking commission shall transmit a written recommendation to the council of a proposed interest rate to be charged for nonpayment of sewer rents. In making such recommendations the commission shall consider the prevailing interest rates charged for commercial loans extended to prime borrowers by commercial banks operating in the city and shall propose a rate of at least six per centum per annum greater than such rates. The council may by resolution adopt an interest rate to be charged for nonpayment of sewer rents pursuant to section 11-224 of the code and, for nonpayment of sewer rents that become due and payable on or after July first, two thousand five, pursuant to section 11-224.1 of the code, and may specify in such resolution the date on which such interest rate is to take effect.

§ 11-314 Notice of rules and regulations; penalty for nonpayment; water supply cut off.

The rates and charges for supply of water, the annual service charges and minimum charges, the sewer rents, the sewer surcharges, the rules and regulations concerning the use of water, all other rules and regulations affecting users of water or concerning charges for supply of water, restrictions of the use of water, installation of meters, and all rules and regulations affecting property connected with the sewer system, penalties and fines for violations of rules and regulations shall be printed on each bill and permit so far as in the judgment of the commissioner of environmental protection they are applicable. This section and such printing and the printing of this section on such bills and permits shall be sufficient notice to owners, tenants or occupants of premises to authorize the imposition and recovery of any charges, surcharges and fines imposed under such rules and regulations and of any penalties imposed in pursuance of this chapter in addition to cutting off the supply of water. Where water charges payable in advance or sewer rents or charges payable as provided in subdivision c of section 11-313 of this chapter, are not paid within the period covered by such charges or rents, and a notice of such nonpayment is mailed by the commissioner of finance to the premises addressed to "owner or occupant," the commissioner of environmental protection may shut off the supply of water to such premises. Where water charges not payable in advance or sewer rents, sewer surcharges or charges payable as provided in subdivisions b and d of section 11-313 of this chapter have been made by the department and remain unpaid for more than thirty days or where the commissioner of environmental protection has certified that there is a flagrant and continued violation of a provision or provisions of section 24-523 of the code or of any rule or regulation promulgated pursuant thereto or of any order of the commissioner of environmental protection issued pursuant thereto, after notice thereof mailed to the premises addressed to "owner or occupant," the commissioner of environmental protection may shut off the supply of water to the premises.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. A condemnation award was applied first to payment of tax arrears on the property and then to payment of water charges, where the award was insufficient to pay both taxes and water charges. This allocation was just, inasmuch as taxes are a lien upon the real property only, whereas a personal liability exists with respect to the water charges.-City of New York v. Idlewild Beach Co., 182 Misc. 205, 43 N.Y.S. 2d 567 [1943], aff'd 182 Misc. 213, 50 N.Y.S. 2d 341 [1944].

§ 11-316 Bills of arrears of taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, and interest and penalties thereon to be furnished when requested.

The commissioner of finance or his or her designee, upon the written request of the owner, the proposed vendee under a contract of sale, a mortgagee, any person having a vested or contingent interest in any lot or lots or their duly authorized agent, or any person who has made a filing pursuant to section 11-309 of this chapter shall furnish a bill of all arrears of taxes on any lot or lots due prior to the first of September, then last past, of sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water rents, assessments, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, and interest and penalties thereon, which are due and payable. Upon the payment of such bill which shall be called a bill of arrears the receipt of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee thereon shall be conclusive evidence of such payment. The commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall cause to be kept an account of amounts so collected, and the certificate of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee, that there are no tax liens on such lot or lots, shall forever free such lot or lots from all liens of taxes, sewer rents, sewer surcharges or water rents, assessments, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, and interest and penalties thereon that are due and payable prior to the date of such receipt or certificate, but not from the lien of any tax lien duly sold and not theretofore satisfied.

CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

a. A tax lien or tax liens on a property or any component of the amount thereof may be sold by the city as authorized by subdivision b of this section, when such tax lien or tax liens shall have remained unpaid in whole or in part for one year, provided, however, that a tax lien or tax liens on any class 1 property or on class 2 property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, as such classes of property are defined in subdivision 1 of section 1802 of the real property tax law, may be sold by the city only when the real property tax component of such tax lien or tax liens shall have remained unpaid in whole or in part for three years or, in the case of abandoned class 1 property or abandoned class 2 property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, for eighteen months, and after such sale, shall be transferred, in the manner provided by this chapter, and provided, further, however, that (i) the real property tax component of such tax lien may not be sold pursuant to this subdivision on any residential real property in class 1 that is receiving an exemption pursuant to section 11-245.3 or 11-245.4 of this title, or where the owner of such residential real property in class 1 has been allowed a credit pursuant to subsection (e) of section six hundred six of the tax law for the calendar year in which the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, occurs or for the calendar year immediately preceding such date and (ii) the sewer rents component, sewer surcharges component or water rents component of such tax lien may not be sold pursuant to this subdivision on any one family residential real property in class 1 or on any two or three family residential real property in class 1 that is receiving an exemption pursuant to section 11-245.3 or 11-245.4 of this title, or where the owner of any two or three family residential real property in class 1 has been allowed a credit pursuant to subsection (e) of section six hundred six of the tax law for the calendar year in which the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, occurs or for the calendar year immediately preceding such date. A tax lien or tax liens on any property classified as a class 2 property, except a class 2 property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, or class 3 property, as such classes of property are defined in subdivision 1 of section 1802 of the real property tax law, shall not be sold by the city unless such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale. Notwithstanding any provision of this subdivision to the contrary, any such tax lien or tax liens that remain unpaid in whole or in part after such date may be sold regardless of whether such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component. A tax lien or tax liens on a property classified as a class 4 property, as such class of property is defined in subdivision 1 of section 1802 of the real property tax law, shall not be sold by the city unless such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component or sewer rents component or sewer surcharges component or water rents component as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, provided, however, that any tax lien or tax liens that remain unpaid in whole or in part after such date may be sold regardless of whether such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component, sewer rents component, sewer surcharges component or water rents component. For purposes of this subdivision, the words "real property tax" shall not include an assessment or charge upon property imposed pursuant to section 25-411 of the administrative code. A sale of a tax lien or tax liens shall include, in addition to such lien or liens that have remained unpaid in whole or in part for one year, or, in the case of any class 1 property or class 2 property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, when the real property tax component of such lien or liens has remained unpaid in whole or in part for three years, any taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, the costs of any advertisements and notices given pursuant to this chapter, any other charges that are due and payable, a surcharge pursuant to section 11-332 of this chapter, and interest and penalties thereon or such component of the amount thereof as shall be determined by the commissioner of finance. The commissioner of finance may promulgate rules defining "abandoned" property, as such term is used in this subdivision.

a-1. A subsequent tax lien or tax liens on a property or any component of the amount thereof may be sold by the city pursuant to this chapter, provided, however, that notwithstanding any provision in this chapter to the contrary, such tax lien or tax liens may be sold regardless of whether such tax lien or tax liens have remained unpaid in whole or in part for one year and, notwithstanding any provision in this chapter to the contrary, in the case of any class 1 property or class 2 property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, such tax lien or tax liens may be sold if the real property tax component of such tax lien or tax liens has remained unpaid in whole or in part for one year, and provided, further, however, that (i) the real property tax component of such tax lien may not be sold pursuant to this subdivision on any residential real property in class 1 that is receiving an exemption pursuant to section 11-245.3 or 11-245.4 of this title, or where the owner of such residential real property in class 1 has been allowed a credit pursuant to subsection (e) of section six hundred six of the tax law for the calendar year in which the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, occurs or for the calendar year immediately preceding such date and (ii) the sewer rents component, sewer surcharges component or water rents component of such tax lien may not be sold pursuant to this subdivision on any one family residential real property in class 1 or on any two or three family residential real property in class 1 that is receiving an exemption pursuant to section 11-245.3 or 11-245.4 of this title, or where the owner of any two or three family residential real property in class 1 has been allowed a credit pursuant to subsection (e) of section six hundred six of the tax law for the calendar year in which the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, occurs or for the calendar year immediately preceding such date. For purposes of this subdivision, the term "subsequent tax lien or tax liens" shall mean any tax lien or tax liens on property that become such on or after the date of sale of any tax lien or tax liens on such property that have been sold pursuant to this chapter, provided that the prior tax lien or tax liens remain unpaid as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale of the subsequent tax lien or tax liens. A subsequent tax lien or tax liens on any property classified as a class 2 property, except a class 2 property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, or class 3 property, as such classes of property are defined in subdivision 1 of section 1802 of the real property tax law, shall not be sold by the city unless such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale. Notwithstanding any provision of this subdivision to the contrary, any such tax lien or tax liens that remain unpaid in whole or in part after such date may be sold regardless of whether such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component. A subsequent tax lien or tax liens on a property classified as a class 4 property, as such class of property is defined in subdivision 1 of section 1802 of the real property tax law, shall not be sold by the city unless such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component or sewer rents component or sewer surcharges component or water rents component as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, provided, however, that any tax lien or tax liens that remain unpaid in whole or in part after such date may be sold regardless of whether such tax lien or tax liens include a real property tax component, sewer rents component, sewer surcharges component or water rents component. For purposes of this subdivision, the words "real property tax" shall not include an assessment or charge upon property imposed pursuant to section 25-411 of the administrative code. Nothing in this subdivision shall be deemed to limit the rights conferred by section 11-332 of this chapter on the holder of a tax lien certificate with respect to a subsequent tax lien.

a-2. In addition to any sale authorized pursuant to subdivision a or subdivision a-1 of this section and notwithstanding any provision of this chapter to the contrary, beginning on December first, two thousand seven, the water rents, sewer rents and sewer surcharges components of any tax lien on any class of real property, as such real property is classified in subdivision one of section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, may be sold by the city pursuant to this chapter, where such water rents, sewer rents or sewer surcharges component of such tax lien, as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale: (i) shall have remained unpaid in whole or in part for one year, and (ii) equals or exceeds the sum of one thousand dollars; provided, however, that such water rents, sewer rents or sewer surcharges component of such tax lien may not be sold pursuant to this subdivision on any one family residential real property in class one or on any two or three family residential real property in class one that is receiving an exemption pursuant to section 11-245.3 or 11-245.4 of this title, or where the owner of any two or three family residential real property in class one has been allowed a credit pursuant to subsection (e) of section six hundred six of the tax law for the calendar year in which the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, occurs or for the calendar year immediately preceding such date. After such sale, any such water rents, sewer rents or sewer surcharges component of such tax lien may be transferred in the manner provided by this chapter.

a-3. In addition to any sale authorized pursuant to subdivision a or subdivision a-1 of this section and notwithstanding any provision of this chapter to the contrary, beginning on December first, two thousand seven, a subsequent tax lien on any class of real property, as such real property is classified in subdivision one of section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, may be sold by the city pursuant to this chapter, regardless of whether such subsequent tax lien, or any component of the amount thereof, shall have remained unpaid in whole or in part for one year, and regardless of whether such subsequent tax lien, or any component of the amount thereof, equals or exceeds the sum of one thousand dollars; provided, however, that such subsequent tax lien may not be sold pursuant to this subdivision on any one family residential real property in class one or on any two or three family residential real property in class one that is receiving an exemption pursuant to section 11-245.3 or 11-245.4 of this title, or where the owner of any two or three family residential real property in class one has been allowed a credit pursuant to subsection (e) of section six hundred six of the tax law for the calendar year in which the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale, occurs or for the calendar year immediately preceding such date. After such sale, any such subsequent tax lien, or any component of the amount thereof, may be transferred in the manner provided by this chapter. For purposes of this subdivision, the term "subsequent tax lien" shall mean the water rents, sewer rents or sewer surcharges component of any tax lien on property that becomes such on or after the date of sale of any water rents, sewer rents or sewer surcharges component of any tax lien on such property that has been sold pursuant to this chapter, provided that the prior tax lien remains unpaid as of the date of the first publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of sale of the subsequent tax lien. Nothing in this subdivision shall be deemed to limit the rights conferred by section 11-332 of this chapter on the holder of a tax lien certificate with respect to a subsequent tax lien.

b. The commissioner of finance, on behalf of the city, may sell tax liens, either individually, in combinations, or in the aggregate, pursuant to the procedures provided herein. The commissioner of finance shall establish the terms and conditions of a sale of a tax lien or tax liens. Enactment of the local law that added this sentence shall be deemed to constitute authorization by the council for the commissioner of finance to conduct a sale or sales of tax liens through and including December thirty-first, two thousand ten. Subsequent to December thirty-first, two thousand ten, the city shall not have the authority to sell tax liens.

1. (i) The commissioner of finance may, in his or her discretion, sell a tax lien or tax liens through a competitive sale. In addition to the advertisement and notice required to be provided pursuant to section 11-320 of this chapter, the commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall cause to be published a notice of intention to sell a tax lien or tax liens through a competitive sale, which notice shall include the terms and conditions for such sale, the criteria by which bids shall be evaluated, and a request for any other information or documents that the commissioner of finance may require. Such notice shall be published in one newspaper of general circulation in the city, not less than fifteen days prior to the date designated by the commissioner for the submission of bids.

(ii) The commissioner of finance may, in his or her discretion, establish criteria for the eligibility of bidders pursuant to section 11-321.1 of this chapter.

(iii) The commissioner of finance may reject any or all bids, or may accept any combination of bids in a competitive sale.

2. (i) The commissioner of finance may, in his or her discretion, sell a tax lien or tax liens through a negotiated sale. In addition to the advertisement and notice required to be provided pursuant to section 11-320 of this chapter, the commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall cause to be published a notice of intention to sell a tax lien or tax liens through a negotiated sale, which notice shall advise that a request for statements of interest is available at the office of the department of finance, and which may require the submission of any information or documents that the commissioner deems appropriate, provided, however, that if the negotiated sale is to a trust or other entity created by the city or in which the city has an ownership or residual interest, then the requirement that the notice advise that a request for statements of interest is available at the office of the department of finance shall not apply. Such notice shall be published in one newspaper of general circulation in the city, not less than fifteen days prior to the date designated by the commissioner for the receipt of statements of interest, or if the negotiated sale is to such trust or other entity, then such notice shall be published not less than fifteen days prior to the date of sale. For purposes of this subparagraph, the words "date of sale" shall have the same meaning provided in subdivision e of section 11-320 of this chapter.

(ii) The commissioner of finance may engage in a negotiated sale in accordance with criteria to be established pursuant to section 11-321.1 of this chapter.

(iii) The commissioner of finance may execute a purchase and sale agreement and other necessary agreements with a designated purchaser or purchasers to complete a negotiated sale.

3. The commissioner of finance may establish a minimum price for the sale of tax liens that may be at a discount from or premium to the lien amount. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, the commissioner of finance may not establish a minimum price for the sale of an individual tax lien that is at a discount from the lien amount. The commissioner of finance shall sell such tax liens at a purchase price that, in the determination of such commissioner, is in the best interests of the city. The commissioner of finance, in his or her discretion, may accept cash or cash equivalent in immediately available funds, or other consideration acceptable to the commissioner, or any combination thereof in payment for a tax lien or tax liens.

4. The amount of a tax lien that is sold pursuant to this chapter shall be the unpaid amount of the lien as of the date of sale, including any interest and penalties thereon, any taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, the costs of any advertisements and notices given pursuant to this chapter, any other charges that are due and payable, any surcharge pursuant to section

11-332 of this chapter, and interest and penalties thereon, or such component of the amount thereof as shall be determined by the commissioner of finance, notwithstanding the amount paid for purchase of the tax lien or component of the amount thereof. For purposes of this paragraph, the words, "date of sale" shall have the same meaning provided in section 11-320(e) of this chapter.

5. (i) The commissioner of finance may, subsequent to the offer for sale of any tax lien or tax liens and the failure to complete such sale, offer such tax lien or tax liens for sale again to any other person or persons who satisfied the terms and conditions of the sale without providing any additional advertisements or notices pursuant to this chapter.

(ii) Notwithstanding subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, any tax lien that was noticed for sale pursuant to this chapter, but was not sold on the original date of sale, may be sold without any additional advertisements or notices pursuant to this chapter if the subsequent date of sale is within six months of the second publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of the original date of sale. If the subsequent date of sale is more than six months after the second publication, pursuant to subdivision a of section 11-320 of this chapter, of the notice of the original date of sale, then the commissioner of finance, or his or her designee, shall provide notice of the subsequent date of sale pursuant to subdivision b of section 11-320 of this chapter. No other additional advertisements or notices shall be necessary prior to the date of sale.

6. The rate of interest on any tax lien certificate shall be the rate fixed pursuant to section 11-224(g) of the code on the effective date of the local law that added this sentence.

7. It is the intent of the city that a sale of a tax lien or tax liens pursuant to this chapter shall be a sale and not a borrowing.

8. Whenever any tax lien purchased at a tax lien sale is found to be invalid, void or defective in whole or in part, or not to conform to any representation or warranty with respect thereto, made by the commissioner of finance in connection with the sale thereof, by judgment or decree of a court of competent jurisdiction or by determination of the commissioner of finance, the commissioner of finance may, in his or her discretion, substitute for such tax lien or portion thereof another tax lien that has a value equivalent to the value of the tax lien or portion thereof found to be invalid, void, defective, or not to so conform, or may refund such value of the tax lien or portion thereof found to be invalid, void, defective, or not to so conform, or may use a combination of substitution and refund. No other remedy shall be available to a purchaser of a tax lien which is found to be invalid, void, defective, or not to conform to a representation or warranty with respect thereto made by the commissioner of finance in connection with the sale thereof, in whole or in part. Whenever a tax lien of such equivalent value is to be substituted for a tax lien that has been found invalid, void, defective, or not to so conform, in whole or in part, pursuant to this section, the commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall provide mailed notice of the intention to substitute such lien of such equivalent value to any person required to be notified pursuant to section 11-320(b) of this chapter.

9. The commissioner of finance may establish requirements for a purchaser of a tax lien to provide any information and documents that the commissioner of finance deems necessary, including information concerning the collection and enforcement of tax liens.

10. Any tax lien or tax liens on property owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the state private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development that are sold pursuant to this chapter shall be deemed defective. For the purposes of this paragraph, property owned by such company shall be limited to property owned for the purpose, as set forth in section five hundred seventy-one of the state private housing finance law, of providing housing for families and persons of low income.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. That the City of New York had advertised for sale a real property tax against the property of the hotel corporation did not establish that there was pending a proceeding by the City to enforce a lien against the corporation's property for overdue taxes within statute making pendency of such a proceeding ground for a corporate reorganization under the Bankruptcy Act, since under the Charter, and Admin. Code § 415(1)-10.0, and §§ 415(1)-23.0 to 415(1)-42.0, the sale of the tax lien involves no interference with the property itself but is merely a transfer of the obligation, and the City can take no action to enforce the collection until the tax is three years overdue.-Kroell v. N.Y. Ambassador, Inc., 108 Fed. 2d 294 [1939].

¶ 2. Contention that notice of sale was improper because the taxes were subsequently reduced as result of settlement of pending certiorari proceedings and therefore the amount of the unpaid taxes and assessments was not correctly set forth, was rejected. The reduction of the assessed valuation subsequent to the sale of the tax lien merely affected the amount of the unpaid taxes and not the validity of the lien.-City of N.Y. v. 952 Fifth Ave. Corp., 111 (50) N.Y.L.J. (3-2-44) 829, Col. 2 T.

¶ 3. Application for order requiring respondent to transfer to petitioner a certain transfer of tax lien was denied where, although the City advertised the lien for sale, it later withdrew the transfer of tax lien from the sale about a week prior thereto and notified petitioner thereof at the time (43 N.Y.S. 2d 567, aff'd 50 N.Y.S. 2d 341).-In re Holl-Wood Realty Corp. (Young), 115 (97) N.Y.L.J. (4-26-46) 1639, Col. 6 M.

¶ 4. The City, in 1949, purchased a transfer of tax lien on plaintiff's property which became due in 1952, at 12 percent interest per annum. In 1950, the City included plaintiff's property in a published list of properties to be foreclosed in rem although some of the delinquent taxes were covered by the transfer of tax lien. The plaintiff then agreed to pay the City in installments pursuant to Code § D17-5.0. The City not only charged interest at 1 percent a month from the date of the transfer of tax lien to the date of payment, but charged an additional 4 percent representing four months premium interest in purported compliance with Code § 415(1)-36.0. Held: delinquent real estate taxes could be collected either by the old method of sale and foreclosure of transfers of tax liens or by the new method of foreclosure proceedings in rem. However, the provisions applicable to one method of proceeding could not be read into the other method of proceeding and hence the additional charge was illegal and could be recovered by the plaintiff on the ground that it was paid under duress of the threatened in rem foreclosure.-Albert Boris Leasing Corp. v. City of New York, 285 App. Div. 126, 136 N.Y.S. 2d 46 [1955], aff'd 309 N.Y. 682, 128 N.E. 2d 324 [1955].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A tax lien certificate, by law, provides for interest at the rate of 18 percent until the balance is paid in full. However, where the City condemns the property, the rate of interest is 6 percent from the date of the taking. The rationale is that the condemnor takes full title to the land, free of all encumbrances and inconsistent proprietary rights. CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

§ 11-320 Notice of sale to be advertised and mailed.

a. The tax lien on property in the city shall not be sold pursuant to section 11-319 of this chapter unless notice of such sale as provided herein has been published twice, the first publication to be in a newspaper of general circulation in the city, not less than ninety days preceding the date of the sale, and the second publication to be in a publication designated by the commissioner of finance, not less than ten days preceding the date of the sale. Such publication shall include a description by block and lot or by such other identification as the commissioner of finance may deem appropriate, of the property upon which the tax lien exists that may be included in the sale, and a statement that a list of the tax liens that may be included in the sale is available for inspection in the office of the city register and the office of the county clerk of Richmond county. The commissioner of finance shall file such list in the office of the city register and the office of the county clerk of Richmond county not less than ninety days prior to the date of sale.

b. A tax lien shall not be sold unless the commissioner of finance, or his or her designee, notifies the owner of record at the address of record and any other person who has registered pursuant to section 11-309 of this chapter, or pursuant to section 11-416 or 11-417 of this code, by first class mail, of the intention to sell the tax lien. If no such registrations have been filed then such commissioner, or his or her designee, shall notify the person whose name and address, if any, appears in the latest annual record of assessed valuations, by first class mail, of the intention to sell the tax lien. Such mailed notice shall include a description of the property by block and lot and such other identifying information as the commissioner of finance may deem appropriate, the amount of the tax lien, including all taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, the costs of any advertisements and notices given pursuant to this chapter, any other charges that are due and payable on the date specified in such publication, a surcharge pursuant to section 11-332 of this chapter if the tax lien is sold, and interest and penalties thereon, and shall be mailed to such owner and such other persons not less than thirty days prior to the date of sale. Such notice shall state that if default continues to be made in payment of the amounts due on such property, the tax lien on such property shall be sold as provided in section 11-319 of this chapter. If, notwithstanding such notice, the owner shall continue to refuse or neglect to pay the amounts due on such property, the commissioner of finance may sell the tax lien on such property as provided in section 11-319 of this chapter.

c. Such notice shall advise the owner of such property of his or her continued obligation to pay the amounts due on such property. No other notice or demand shall be required to be made to the owner of such property to authorize the sale of a tax lien or tax liens on such property pursuant to section 11-319 of this chapter.

d. The commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall, within ninety days after the delivery of the tax lien certificate, notify any person who was required to be notified of such sale pursuant to section 11-320(b) of this chapter, by first class mail, that such sale has occurred. Such notice shall state the date of the sale of the tax lien, the name and address of the purchaser of the tax lien, the amount of such lien, a description of the property by block and lot and such other identifying information as the commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall deem appropriate, and the terms and conditions of the tax lien certificate, including the right to satisfy the lien within the time periods specified in this chapter. Failure to provide notice pursuant to this subdivision shall not affect the validity of any sale of a tax lien or tax liens pursuant to this chapter.

e. The words "date of sale" when used in this section shall mean: (1) for a negotiated sale, the date of signing of the tax lien purchase agreement, and (2) for a competitive sale, the date designated by the commissioner of finance for the submission of bids.

f. The commissioner of finance shall designate an employee of the department to respond to inquiries from owners of property for which a tax lien has been sold or noticed for sale pursuant to subdivision a of this section and shall designate an employee of the department to respond to inquiries from owners sixty-five years of age or older of property for which a tax lien has been sold or noticed for sale pursuant to subdivision a of this section. The commissioner of environmental protection shall designate at least one employee of the department of environmental protection to respond to inquiries from owners of property for which a tax lien containing a water rents, sewer rents or sewer surcharges component has been sold or noticed for sale pursuant to subdivision a of this section.

¶ 1. Contention that the notice of sale was improper on ground the amount of unpaid taxes and assessments was incorrectly set forth inasmuch as the taxes were subsequently reduced as result of a settlement of a pending certiorari proceeding, was rejected, as reduction of the assessed valuation subsequent to the sale of the tax lien merely affects the amount of the unpaid taxes and not the validity of the lien.-City of New York v. 952 Fifth Avenue Corporation, 181 Misc. 705, 47 N.Y.S. 2d 419 [1944].

¶ 2. City's cancellation, pursuant to Admin. Code § 415(1)-24.0, of transfers of tax liens made to itself prior to institution of condemnation proceedings, merely placed the parties in status quo. The sale by the City to itself of the tax liens did not constitute a collection of water charges and an irrevocable election to maintain no personal action for their recovery.-City of N.Y. v. Idlewild Beach Co., 182 Misc. 205, 213, 43 N.Y.S. 2d 567 [1943], aff'd 182 Misc. 213, 50 N.Y.S. 2d 341 [1944].

¶ 3. City's acquisition of the property in condemnation did not in any way discharge the lien of the tax arrears on the theory the transfers of tax liens theretofore acquired by the City were merged in the title acquired in condemnation. Admin. Code § 415(1)-34.0 was without application.-Id.

CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

§ 11-321.1 Rules governing sales; eligibility of persons to purchase a tax lien or tax liens in a negotiated or competitive sale.

a. The commissioner of finance may promulgate rules governing the eligibility of persons to purchase a tax lien or tax liens in a negotiated or competitive sale. Such rules may provide for precertification of such persons, including a requirement for disclosure of income, assets, and any other financial information that the commissioner of finance deems appropriate, and may prohibit any such person who is delinquent in the payment of any taxes to the city of New York, or who is in default in or on any other obligation to the city, or who has any outstanding violations of the administrative code of the city of New York, from purchasing a tax lien or tax liens.

b. Any person who intends to purchase a tax lien or tax liens in a negotiated or competitive sale shall submit to the commissioner of finance an affidavit establishing compliance with the applicable eligibility criteria and including any other information required by the commissioner of finance. No such person who fails to submit such affidavit shall be permitted to purchase a tax lien or tax liens. Any such person who willfully submits a false or misleading affidavit pursuant to this section shall forfeit any tax lien or tax liens purchased by him or her at a sale for which the affidavit was submitted, shall be liable for payment of the full purchase price of the tax lien or tax liens, shall forfeit any deposit paid, and shall be disqualified from bidding or participating in any tax lien sale in the city for a period of five years.

c. No sale of a tax lien or tax liens shall be made to any person identified pursuant to section 11-309 of this chapter as having an interest in the property which is the subject of the tax lien or tax liens, or to any owner of record as shown on the real property records of the office of the city register in any borough or in the office of the Richmond county clerk. Any such person or owner of record who purchases such tax lien or tax liens shall forfeit such tax lien or tax liens and shall be liable for payment of the full purchase price of the tax lien or tax liens and shall not be entitled to a refund of any amounts paid by such person or owner of record.

d. No person who purchases a tax lien or tax liens in a negotiated or competitive sale shall assign or transfer a tax lien certificate or tax lien certificates for such tax lien or tax liens to any person identified pursuant to section 11-309 of this chapter as having an interest in the property which is the subject of such tax lien certificate or tax lien certificates, or to any owner of record of property which is the subject of such tax lien certificate or tax lien certificates. Any such person who knowingly or negligently transfers or assigns such tax lien certificate or tax lien certificates to such person or owner of record shall be liable for payment of the full purchase price of the tax lien or tax liens and shall not be entitled to a refund of any amounts paid and such tax lien certificate or tax lien certificates shall be deemed void and the tax lien or tax liens sold under such certificate or such certificates shall revert to the city as if no sale of such tax lien or tax liens had occurred.

The balance shall be paid to the commissioner of finance in cash or cash equivalent in immediately available funds or such other consideration acceptable to the commissioner of finance or any combination thereof, in his or her discretion. For purposes of this chapter "cash equivalent" shall mean a cashier's check, bank check, certified check, money order, or such other paper instrument as the commissioner of finance shall prescribe. Such deposit and balance may also be paid by electronic funds transfer. For purposes of this chapter, "electronic funds transfer" shall mean any transfer of funds, other than a transaction originated by check, draft or similar paper instrument, which is initiated using a format prescribed by the commissioner of finance. A tax lien certificate shall be made and delivered to the purchaser upon payment of the sale price. In case any purchaser shall default in any obligation under the terms and conditions of the tax lien sale, then the amount deposited by the purchaser shall be forfeited to the city, and the tax lien or tax liens upon the property affected by such purchase may be sold again at the discretion of the commissioner of finance pursuant to section 11-319 of this chapter. CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Defendant's contention that transfer of tax lien acquired by it in 1910 was not subordinate to transfer of tax lien for later taxes acquired by City in 1932, held contrary to explicit language of statute which gives priority in inverse order of the tax assessment dates.-City of N.Y. v. Zengendal Realty Co., 121 (45) N.Y.L.J. (3-7-49) 826, Col. 2 M.

¶ 2. That notice of the assignment of transfer of tax lien by the City to plaintiff's assignor was not given to defendant did not render the assignment illegal, as the Admin. Code does not require that actual notice be given to anyone, but merely that it be advertised in the City Record for four successive weeks.-Jamestead Realty Corp. v. Cohen, 121 (24) N.Y.L.J. (2-3-49) 433, Col. 2 F.

¶ 3. Contract to transfer a tax lien is for the sale of an interest in property, which must be in writing, and such rule is equally as applicable to auction sales as to any other type of sale. In the instant case, in view of plaintiff's claim that each bid was noted in writing, it would seem incumbent upon defendant city to submit the actual auction sheets or explain why it could not, so that the Court might determine if there were any writings sufficient to satisfy the statute. The auctioneer's statements were deemed merely conclusions of law.-Gleason v. City of N.Y., 126 (4) N.Y.L.J. (7-6-51) 34, Col. 5 F.

¶ 4. The holder of a tax lien stands in the same position as the City with respect to his rights and remedies. If his remedy of foreclosure were subject to the statute of limitations, so too would be the City's as to the liens that it holds. The limitations found in §§ 47-a and 48(2) of the Civil Practice Act are inapplicable.-L.K. Land Corp. v. Gordon, 1 N.Y. 2d 465, 154 N.Y.S. 2d 32, 136 N.E. 2d 500 [1956].

¶ 5. The City Collector could not reinstate a tax lien which had erroneously been surrendered by petitioner for cancellation. Part of the lot involved had been sold prior to the proceeding and the purchaser was not a party to the instant proceeding.-In re Ditta, 221 N.Y.S. 2d 34 [1961].

§ 11-330 Record of tax lien certificates.

The commissioner of finance, or his or her designee, shall keep in his or her office a public record of sales of tax liens, and a copy of each tax lien certificate issued by such commissioner or his or her designee. Assignments of tax lien certificates duly acknowledged may be filed and recorded in the office of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee. A tax lien certificate and any assignment thereof, duly acknowledged, shall be deemed conveyances under article eight of the real property law, and may be recorded in the office of the recording officer of any county in which the real property which it affects is situated. Tax lien certificates and all assignments thereof shall be recorded by recording officers in the same manner as mortgages and assignments thereof, but without payment of tax under article eleven of the tax law. Neither the tax lien nor the rights transferred or created by a tax lien certificate shall be impaired by failure of a recording officer to record a tax lien certificate made by the city through the commissioner of finance or his or her designee.

CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

a. Any purchaser of a tax lien or tax liens shall stand in the same position as the city and shall have all the rights and remedies that the city would have had if the tax lien or tax liens had not been sold.

b. The aggregate amount of each tax lien transferred pursuant to this chapter shall be due and payable one year from the date of the sale. Until such aggregate amount is fully paid and discharged, the holder of the tax lien certificate shall be entitled to receive interest on such aggregate amount from the date of sale, and semi-annually at the rate of interest applicable in accordance with section 11-319 of this chapter. If such aggregate amount is partially paid, the holder of the tax lien certificate shall be entitled to receive interest only on the amount that remains unpaid. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, the holder of the tax lien certificate shall be entitled to receive and retain a surcharge equal to five percent of the lien arising pursuant to the provisions of this chapter as a result of the nonpayment of taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, the costs of any advertisements and notices given pursuant to this chapter, any other charges that are due and payable, and interest and penalties thereon. Any amounts due shall be paid directly to the holder of the tax lien certificate. At the option of the holder of any tax lien certificate the aggregate amount thereof shall become subject to foreclosure after default in the payment of interest for thirty days or after default for six months after the date of sale stated in the tax lien certificate in accordance with sections 11-320(d) and 11-328 of this chapter in the payment of any taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter, or the interest or penalties thereon which become a lien on or after the date of sale of the tax lien transferred by such tax lien certificate. At his or her option, the holder of the tax lien certificate may satisfy any such subsequent tax lien on the same property, and shall, by virtue of such satisfaction, be deemed to be in the same position as if he or she were a purchaser of a tax lien certificate for such subsequent tax lien, provided, however, that such holder shall not be entitled to receive a five percent surcharge on such subsequent tax lien pursuant to this section. The rate of interest on such subsequent lien shall be the rate of interest applicable to tax lien certificates pursuant to section 11-319 of this chapter. The commissioner of finance or his or her designee, at the request of the purchaser of such subsequent lien, shall issue a tax lien certificate for such lien pursuant to sections 11-327 and 11-328 of this chapter. Upon issuance of such certificate, the commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall provide such notice as is required pursuant to section 11-320(d) of this chapter. Failure to provide notice pursuant to this subdivision shall not affect the validity of any transfer of a subsequent tax lien or tax liens pursuant to this subdivision. Any person having a legal or beneficial interest in property affected by a tax lien certificate may satisfy the same at any time upon payment of the amounts due with interest at the rate applicable in accordance with section 11-319 of this chapter. Upon satisfaction of the tax lien, the holder thereof shall issue to the person who satisfied such tax lien a certificate of discharge, certifying that the tax lien has been paid or has been otherwise satisfied, in such recordable form as has been approved by the commissioner of finance. For purposes of this section, the words, "date of sale" shall have the same meaning provided in section 11-320(e) of this chapter.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Plaintiff was not entitled to the four months' penalty interest under Admin. Code § 415(1)-36.0, providing for voluntary payment before maturity, where the payment in question was being made in settlement of an action to foreclose the lien and was not a voluntary payment pursuant to the 30 days' notice provided by the statute.-Beaver Realty Corp. v. Mfrs. Trust Co., 109 (58) N.Y.L.J. (3-12-43) 995, Col. 1 T.

¶ 2. City was entitled to charge the 12 percent interest provided for in the transfers of tax liens after vesting date of the property which had been taken in condemnation and up to the date of payment.-In re Idlewild Estates, Inc., 108 (53) N.Y.L.J. (9-1-42) 475, Col. 6 F, at 7 M.

¶ 3. Where the taxed parcels were taken in condemnation, Admin. Code § 415(1)-36.0 did not authorize the City to charge the owner an additional four months advance interest for the privilege of satisfying the transfers of tax liens before maturity, since the statute would seem to cover a voluntary prepayment of a transfer of tax lien and not a forced payment resulting from the City's exercise of its power of eminent domain.-Id.

¶ 4. Plaintiff, having purchased the tax lien from the City after it had bought it at the prior tax sale, obtained all the rights the City had and could foreclose for grounds that the City could use (Admin. Code § 415(1)-36.0; dist'g 161 A.D. 543).-Thomopoulos v. Bliss, 114 (85) N.Y.L.J. (10-10-45) 846, Col. 3 M.

¶ 5. Under Admin. Code § 415(1)-36.0 the City has set forth specific due dates in each calendar year for the payment of interest following acquisition of the transfer of tax lien and has given to the holder of such transfer of tax lien the right to interest at semi-annual periods thereafter on the dates so specified. Accordingly, purchaser of transfer tax lien from City on October 1, 1950, might foreclose for failure of fee owner to pay interest prior to the lapse of the 30-day statutory grace period from January 1, 1951, as against defendant's contention that interest was not due and payable until a full six-month period had elapsed from either January 1 or July 1 following date on which the lien was acquired.-Goldner v. Savenue Realty Corp., 199 Misc. 561, 104 N.Y.S. 2d 298 [1951].

¶ 6. Owner of property who sought to redeem the premises from the purchaser of the tax lien, should have followed the procedure of Admin. Code § 415(1)-36.0, and might not invoke provisions of Real Property Law § 322, in a case where the transfer of tax lien had not been lost or destroyed or mutilated.-In re Orty, 119 (16) N.Y.L.J. (1-23-48) 303, Col. 5 F.

¶ 7. The law does not require the holder of a tax lien to make demand for payment, but provides that a person having a legal or beneficial interest affected by a transfer of tax lien must give notice of intention to pay.-Goldner v. Portnoy, 130 (69) N.Y.L.J. (10-6-53) 660, Col. 4 F.

¶ 8. This section does not provide for "premium interest" and the premium interest permitted by § D17-5.0 is not applicable to an installment agreement under this section. Premium which was paid by the defendant as a condition of entering into the installment agreement and thus releasing his property from in rem foreclosure could be recovered by the plaintiff.-Albert Boris Leasing Corp. v. City of New York, 309 N.Y. 682, 128 N.E. 2d 324 [1955], aff'g 285 App. Div. 126, 136 N.Y.S. 2d 46 [1955].

¶ 9. The City Collector would not reinstate a tax lien which petitioner had erroneously surrendered for cancellation in the belief that he owned the property. Petitioner failed to show that such restoration of rights would not interfere with or affect the rights of others which might have accrued subject to the discharge.-Application of Ditta, 221 N.Y.S. 2d 34 [1961].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. In Matter of Mill Creek Phase 1 Staten Island Bluebelt System NYCTL 1998-1 Trust v. Vigliarolo, 2008 NY Slip Op. 5304, 2008 NY Lexis 1480, the City acquired title to a parcel of real property by eminent domain. At the time that the City acquired title, NYCTL 1998-1 Trust possessed a tax lien certificate on the property, which provided that the rate of interest on the tax lien would be 18% until the lien was paid in full. (NYC Admin. Code §§ 11-224, 11-319(b)(6)). The court had to decide whether the 18 percent interest figure applied until the lien was paid off, or only until the date that the City acquired the property (after which interest would accrue at 6 percent). The Court of Appeals (reversing the Appellate Division) held that the exercise of eminent domain did not reduce the interest on a tax lien, so that the Trust was entitled to receive interest at the rate of 18 percent even after the property was acquired by the City.

§ 11-335 Foreclosure of tax liens.

If the amount of any tax lien which shall have been transferred by a tax lien certificate shall not be paid when under its terms and the provisions of section 11-332 of this chapter such amount shall be due, the holder of such tax lien certificate may maintain an action in the supreme court to foreclose such tax lien. The holder of such tax lien certificate shall notify the commissioner of finance or his or her designee in writing whenever he or she commences such action at the time of filing of such action, and shall notify the commissioner of finance in writing of the resolution of such action, including any settlement of such action, within thirty days of such resolution. In an action to foreclose a tax lien any person shall be a proper party of whom the plaintiff alleges that such person has or may have or that the plaintiff has reason to believe that such person has or may have an interest in or claim upon the property affected by the tax lien. A plaintiff in an action to foreclose a tax lien shall recover reasonable attorney's fees for maintaining such action. Except as otherwise provided in this chapter an action to foreclose a tax lien shall be regulated by the provisions of the civil practice law and rules and by all other provisions of law, and rules of practice applicable to actions to foreclose mortgages on real property. The people of the state of New York or the city of New York may be made party to an action to foreclose a tax lien in the same manner as a natural person. Where the people of the state of New York or the city of New York are made a party defendant the complaint shall set forth, in addition to the other matters required to be set forth by law, detailed facts showing the particular nature of the interest in or the lien on such property of the people of the state of New York or the city of New York, and detailed facts showing the particular nature of the interest in or the lien on such property which plaintiff has reason to believe that the people of the state of New York or the city of New York has or may have in such property, and the reason for making the people of the state of New York or the city of New York a party defendant. Upon failure to state such facts the complaint shall be dismissed as to the people of the state or the city of New York.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. The City's ownership of a portion of the ocean front tax lot offshore from the 1925 high water line at Edgemere, Queens, so that part of the tax lot was owned by one other than defendants, did not invalidate the City's levy of taxes and their charge upon the entire tax lot, and constituted no defense in City's action to foreclose a transfer of tax lien thereon, particularly where defendants had taken no action for 16 years, during which time they had failed to pay taxes.-City of N.Y. v. Cook, 112 (143) N.Y.L.J. (12-21-44) 1791, Col. 6 T.

¶ 2. In action by City to foreclose tax lien covering waterfront property, defendant's assertion that a certain defendant had no interest in the property but that another had, was no defense, since if one named as a party has no interest, no right can be affected, and if the City failed to name one with an interest the defendant had no cause to complain, as only the City would be prejudiced by the omission.-City of N.Y. v. Rabinowitz, 112 (146) N.Y.L.J. (12-21-44) 1791, Col. 5 T.

¶ 3. In action to foreclose transfer of tax lien for unpaid taxes which was acquired by the City and then sold to plaintiff, an affirmative answer alleging that there was an action in ejectment pending against certain defendants for possession of the premises, was insufficient, as regardless of whether defendants succeeded in establishing ownership in the ejectment action this would not free the property from the lien of the taxes or from rights acquired as a result thereof, as the taxes are levied against the land, and not the owner.-Schatz v. Stevens, 127 (62) N.Y.L.J. (3-31-52) 1275, Col. 5 M.

¶ 4. Two causes of action to foreclose two separate tax liens on two different but contiguous parcels of land owned by two separate owners, which tax liens, bearing consecutive numbers, had been sold by the City at a certain sale and subsequently assigned by the City to the plaintiff, held properly joined in one cause of action, pursuant to C.P.A. § 258, although the better practice would have been to bring separate actions, as the title to real property was involved (163 Misc. 880).-Pechenik v. Sunbright Homes, Inc., 114 (110) N.Y.L.J. (11-10-45) 1272, Col. 6 F.

¶ 5. The inclusion of items of taxes into a lien does not affect a merger. The City cannot sell a tax lien rendering subordinate thereto any prior existing liens. Furthermore, where the need for imposing a second lien arises, the court is not obliged to vacate the first lien and restore the tax items therein contained and render the same subject to payment of interest at 7%.-Stein v. City of N.Y., 125 (34) N.Y.L.J. (2-19-51) 613, Col. 2 F.

¶ 6. Where on November 6, 1950, the City Treasurer and the City commenced an action to foreclose tax liens affecting petitioner's property, the delinquent items consisting of real estate taxes for the years 1946-1947 to 1949-1950, and water rents for the years 1948 to 1950, City Treasurer did not act arbitrarily in refusing a tender, made by petitioner on January 25, 1951, of all sums due as arrears in taxes, penalties, costs and disbursements claimed by the City as due by reason of the action brought by the City in rem against the premises.-In re Scott (Young), 125 (34) N.Y.L.J. (2-19-51) 613, Col. 3 M.

¶ 7. Inasmuch as the City of New York, with respect to foreclosure of tax liens, has never availed itself of the elective provisions of Tax Law, Art. 7A, as provided by § 162, subd. 1, and has proceeded in tax lien foreclosures in accordance with Admin. Code §§ 415(1)-22.0 to 52.0, the fee of the referee to sell is not limited to $10 as provided in Tax Law § 164(1), but is governed by C.P.A. § 1546. Accordingly, referee would be allowed a sum not exceeding $100.-Subin v. Panfilowich, 121 (82) N.Y.L.J. (4-27-49) 1507, Col. 3 F.

¶ 8. Motion by defendants to open default and for leave to answer in proceeding by City to foreclose tax lien, was denied, in absence of any alleged irregularity or non-compliance with the statute.-In re City of N.Y. (Tax Lien, etc., Reed), 127 (66) N.Y.L.J. (4-4-52) 1353, Col. 4 T.

¶ 9. Where the City commenced in rem proceedings for non-payment of tax and while such proceeding was pending an application was made for exemption from taxes because of the religious nature of defendant, but such application was disposed of after entry of judgment and petitioner defaulted in appearance and answer and judgment was taken as provided in the statutes, Court held without power presently to disturb that judgment. However, Court urged the City to negotiate with petitioner to effectuate a retransfer of title as it was now apparent petitioner was anxious to continue its duties in providing a place of worship.-In re Section 8, Block 2206, Lot 55, 126 (99) N.Y.L.J. (11-23-51) 1353, Col. 2 T.

¶ 10. An action to foreclose a tax lien in the City of New York is regulated by provisions of the Civil Practice Act and Rules of Civil Practice and all other provisions of law applicable to actions to foreclose mortgages on real property.-Weiss v. Stone, 129 N.Y.S. 2d 525 [1954].

¶ 11. Where sale under the foreclosure judgment had not yet been had, the owner of the equity of redemption had the right to redeem on payment of the amount of the judgment, with interest, taxable costs, disbursements and allowances.-Weiss v. Stone, 129 N.Y.S. 2d 525 [1954].

¶ 12. The provisions of the Admin. Code making taxes a lien until paid take precedence over general statute of limitations in §§ 47a and 48(2) of the Civil Practice Act. Therefore the holder of such a lien could foreclose it after the expiration of six years.-L.K. Land Corp. v. Gordon, 1 N.Y. 2d 465, 154 N.Y.S. 2d 32, 136 N.E. 2d 500 [1956].

¶ 13. In a proceeding to foreclose a tax lien, a junior encumbrancer may make a senior encumbrancer a party and have the amount secured by the senior encumbrancer determined and paid and lien discharged, providing such claim is clearly set up in the complaint. The defense of the statute of limitations does not apply to a proceeding of this nature, since under the Charter and the Admin. Code, a lien of a real estate tax continues until paid.-Solomon v. Abato, 20 Misc. 2d 591, 191 N.Y.S. 2d 867 [1959].

¶ 14. The City Collector could not reinstate a tax lien which had erroneously been surrendered by petitioner for cancellation. Part of the lot involved had been sold prior to the proceeding and the purchaser was not a party to the instant proceeding.-In re Ditta, 221 N.Y.S. 2d 34 [1961].

CHAPTER 3 TAX LIENS AND TAX SALES

§ 11-336 Pleading tax lien certificate.

Whenever a cause of action, defense or counterclaim, is for the foreclosure of a tax lien, or is in any manner founded upon a tax lien or a tax lien certificate, the production in evidence of an instrument executed by the commissioner of finance or his or her designee in the form prescribed in section 11-328 of this chapter for a tax lien certificate subscribed by or in behalf of the commissioner of finance or his or her designee shall be presumptive evidence that the lien purported to be transferred by such an instrument was a valid and enforceable lien, and that it has been duly assigned to the purchaser, and it shall not be necessary to plead or prove any act, proceeding, notice or action, preceding the delivery of such tax lien certificate nor to establish the validity of the tax lien transferred by such tax lien certificate. If a party or person in interest in any such action or proceeding claims that a tax lien is irregular or invalid, or that there is any defect therein or that a tax lien certificate is irregular, invalid or defective, such invalidity, irregularity or defect must be specifically pleaded or set forth, and must be established affirmatively by the party or person pleading or setting forth the same.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. General denial of the allegations of the complaint in an action to foreclose a tax lien presented no issues, in view of provisions of Admin. Code § 415(1)-40.0, and the absence of affirmative proof to overcome the presumptions established by the record.-Hyman v. Fischer, 184 Misc. 90, 52 N.Y.S. 2d 553 [1944].

¶ 2. In action to foreclose transfer of tax lien, defendant owner and first mortgagee complied with requirements of Admin. Code § 415(1)-40.0 in alleging, as affirmative defenses, that the City did not advertise the sale of the transfer tax lien nor sell the same at public auction as required by law, and that the assignment thereof was not made after due advertisement and publication nor at public sale as required by § 415(1)-33.0.-Jackland Realty Co. v. Alesi, 118 (137) N.Y.L.J. (12-24-47) 1873, Col. 3 T.

¶ 3. In action to foreclose a transfer of tax lien, any claimed invalidity in the transfer of the tax lien must be pleaded and proved by defendant.-Jamestead Realty Corp. v. Cohen, 121 (24) N.Y.L.J. (2-3-49) 433, Col. 2 M.

¶ 4. In action to foreclose a transfer of tax lien from the City of New York, a defense that defendant never received notice of sale of the tax lien and that plaintiff never made a demand upon defendant to pay interest on the lien, held insufficient, since no notice was required except as provided by Admin. Code § 415(1)-40.0. Defendant not having pleaded that the publication as provided therein had not been made, it was presumed that the requirement of notice had been met. Moreover, the law does not require the holder of a tax lien to make demand for payment.-Goldner v. Portnoy, 130 (69) N.Y.L.J. (10-6-53) 660, Col. 4 F.

¶ 5. Summary judgment may properly be granted in an action to foreclose a transfer of tax lien. Since the answer filed by the defendant contained only a general denial of any knowledge of information concerning the allegations of the complaint and did not affirmatively show that the tax lien or transfer was illegal, it was insufficient to stave off summary judgment.-Welsh v. Wootton, 194 Misc. 921, 88 N.Y.S. 2d 75 [1949].

¶ 6. In a proceeding for foreclosure of a tax lien, a general denial by defendants presents no problem, since the presumption of regularity provided by this section applies. Also, a denial by the defendants of the assignment of the transfer of the tax liens to the plaintiff, could not be sustained, since defendants failed to establish affirmatively that the assignment to the plaintiff was in any way irregular.-Solomon v. Abato, 20 Misc. 2d 591, 191 N.Y.S. 2d 867 [1959].

§ 11-354 Additional method to enforce payment of tax liens held by the city.

(a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law and notwithstanding any omission to hold a tax lien sale, whenever any tax, assessment, sewer rent, sewer surcharge, water rent, any charge that is made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter or chapter four of this title, or interest and penalties thereon, has been due and unpaid for a period of at least one year from the date on which the tax, assessment or other legal charge represented thereby became a lien, or in the case of any class one property or any class two property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, as such classes of property are defined in subdivision one of section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, or in the case of a multiple dwelling owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development, for a period of at least three years from the date on which the tax, assessment or other legal charge became a lien, the city, as owner of a tax lien, may maintain an action in the supreme court to foreclose such lien. Such action shall be governed by the procedures set forth in section 11-335 of this chapter; provided, however, that such parcel shall only be sold to the highest responsible bidder. Such purchaser shall be deemed qualified as a responsible bidder pursuant to such criteria as are established in rules promulgated by the commissioner of finance after consultation with the commissioner of housing preservation and development.

(b) At a sale pursuant to a judgment in an action brought pursuant to subdivision (a) of this section to foreclose a tax lien, the city may purchase property subject to such lien in accordance with the provisions of section 11-339 of this chapter.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not affect any existing remedy or procedure for the enforcement or foreclosure of tax liens provided for in this code or any other law, but the remedy provided herein for foreclosure of tax liens shall be in addition to any other remedies or procedures provided by any general, special or local law. Notwithstanding any other provision of this code, the commissioner of finance shall be authorized to agree to forebear to commence an in rem action against property which has an outstanding and unredeemed tax lien certificate previously sold by the city and held by a third party pursuant to this chapter.

Whenever used in this chapter, the following terms shall mean:

1. "Tax lien." The lien arising as a result of the nonpayment of taxes, assessments, sewer rents, sewer surcharges, water rents, any other charges that are made a lien subject to the provisions of this chapter or chapter three of this title, interest and penalties thereon, and the right of the city to receive such amounts.

2. "Court." The supreme court.

3. "Class." Any class of real property defined in subdivision one of section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, and any subclassification of class two real property where such subclassification is established by rule of the commissioner of finance promulgated pursuant to this subdivision.

4. "Distressed property." Any parcel of class one or class two real property that is subject to a tax lien or liens with a lien or liens to value ratio, as determined by the commissioner of finance, equal to or greater than fifteen percent and that meets one of the following two criteria:

i. such parcel has an average of five or more hazardous or immediately hazardous violations of record of the housing maintenance code per dwelling unit; or

ii. such parcel is subject to a lien or liens for any expenses incurred by the department of housing preservation and development for the repair or the elimination of any dangerous or unlawful conditions therein, pursuant to section

¶ 1. Since statutory scheme relating to in rem tax foreclosures permits a person file an owner registration card with the New York City Commissioner of Finance, so that the owner would receive mail notice if an in rem tax foreclosure proceeding were ever commenced against the property. An owner who lost the property in an in rem tax foreclosure brought a constitutional challenge on the ground that the he had not received personal notice of the proceeding.. However, the court held that the requirements of constutional due process had been met. Even though the owner had not received actual notice of the proceeding, it could have received actual notice by following the simple registration steps outlined in the statute. § 11-401.1 Procedures for distressed property.

a. The commissioner of finance shall, not less than sixty days preceding the date of the sale of a tax lien or tax liens, submit to the commissioner of housing preservation and development a description by block and lot, or by such other identification as the commissioner of finance may deem appropriate, of any parcel of class one or class two real property on which there is a tax lien that may be foreclosed by the city. The commissioner of housing preservation and development shall determine, and direct the commissioner of finance, not less than ten days preceding the date of the sale of a tax lien or tax liens, whether any such parcel is a distressed property as defined in subdivision four of section 11-401 of this chapter. Any tax lien on a parcel so determined to be a distressed property shall not be included in such sale. In connection with a subsequent sale of a tax lien or tax liens, the commissioner of finance may, not less than sixty days preceding the date of the sale, resubmit to the commissioner of housing preservation and development a description by block and lot, or by such other identification as the commissioner of finance may deem appropriate, of any parcel of class one or class two real property that was previously determined to be a distressed property pursuant to this paragraph and on which there is a tax lien that may be included in such sale. The commissioner of housing preservation and development shall determine, and direct the commissioner of finance, not less than ten days preceding the date of the sale, whether such parcel remains a distressed property. If the commissioner of housing preservation and development determines that the parcel is not a distressed property, then the tax lien on the parcel may be included in the sale.

b. The commissioner of housing preservation and development may periodically review whether a parcel of class one or class two real property that is subject to subdivision c of this section or subdivision j of section 11-412.1 of this chapter remains a distressed property. If the commissioner determines that the parcel is not a distressed property as defined in subdivision four of section 11-401 of this chapter, then the parcel shall not be subject to such subdivisions.

c. Any parcel so determined to be a distressed property shall be subject to an in rem foreclosure action, or in the case where the commissioner of finance does not commence such action the commissioner of housing preservation and development shall evaluate such parcel and take such action as he or she deems appropriate under the programs, existing at the time of such evaluation, that are designed to encourage the rehabilitation and preservation of existing housing, and shall monitor or cause to be monitored the status of the property. The commissioner of housing preservation and development, in his or her discretion, shall cause an inspection to be conducted on any parcel so determined to be a distressed property. In addition, the commissioner of housing preservation and development shall submit to the council a list of all parcels so determined to be a distressed property within thirty days from the date such parcels are identified as a distressed property.

§ 11-402 Applicability of procedure of foreclosure in rem.

a. The provisions of this chapter shall be applicable only to tax liens owned by the city.

b. The provisions of this chapter shall not affect any existing remedy or procedure for the enforcement or foreclosure of tax liens provided for in this code or any other law, but the remedy provided herein for foreclosure by action in rem shall be in addition to any other remedies or procedures provided by any general, special or local law.

c. The provisions of this chapter shall not affect pending actions or proceedings, provided, however, that any pending action or proceeding for the enforcement or foreclosure of tax liens may be discontinued, and a new action may be instituted pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, in respect to any such tax lien.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. The State of New York, as defendant in action brought by City of New York under Title 17 of Chapter D of the Admin. Code to foreclose unpaid tax liens affecting certain lots, held entitled to judgment on the pleadings, where the State had appropriated the lots for grade crossing elimination purposes and title thereto had vested in the State. Public Lands Law § 19 expressly repealed, superseded and nullified the operation and effect of Admin. Code, Title D of Chapter 17. Moreover, Public Lands Law § 19 and Admin. Code, Title D of Chapter 17 were in pari materia, though passed at different times, and when read together were repugnant to and in conflict with each other, and hence Public Lands Law § 19, a later statute, prevailed.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens, Borough of Queens, 204 Misc. 76, 121 N.Y.S. 2d 283 [1953].

¶ 2. City could not charge premium interest, under transfer tax lien statute, on amount due under settlement agreement to pay back taxes in installments where the City included such property in the list of parcels against which it would proceed in rem, even though the property was already subject to a transfer tax lien.-Albert Boris Leasing Corp. v. a. Whenever it shall appear that a tax lien or tax liens has or have been due and unpaid for a period of at least one year from the date on which the tax, assessment or other legal charge represented thereby became a lien, such tax lien or tax liens, except as provided in subdivision b of this section or otherwise provided by this chapter, may be summarily foreclosed in the manner provided in this chapter, notwithstanding the provisions of any general, special or local law and notwithstanding any omission to hold a sale of a tax lien or tax liens prior to such foreclosure. A bill of arrears or any other instrument evidencing such tax lien or tax liens shall be evidence of the fact that the tax lien or tax liens represented thereby has not or have not been paid to the city or sold by it.

b. A tax lien on any class one property or any class two property that is a residential condominium or residential cooperative, as such classes of property are defined in subdivision one of section eighteen hundred two of the real property tax law, and on any multiple dwelling owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development, shall not be foreclosed in the manner provided in this chapter until such tax lien has been due and unpaid for a period of at least three years from the date on which the tax, assessment or other legal charge represented thereby became a lien.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-405 Preparation and filing of lists of delinquent taxes.

a. The commissioner of finance from time to time shall prepare a list, to be known as a "list of delinquent taxes", of all parcels, or all parcels within a particular class or classes, that are within a particular borough or section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map of the city and on which there are tax liens subject to foreclosure pursuant to this chapter, provided, however, that no such portion shall be smaller than a block, as defined in subdivision d of section 11-204 of subchapter one of chapter two of this title. Every such list shall bear a caption containing the in rem action number of the city's tax foreclosure proceeding, the borough or the section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map, and where the action covers less than all parcels in an entire borough or section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map, the particular class or classes, and shall contain a statement of the rate or rates at which interest and penalties will be computed for the various liens it includes.

b. Every such list shall set forth the parcels it includes separately and number them serially. For each parcel it shall contain (1) a brief description sufficient to identify the parcel, including section, block and lot numbers, and the street and street number, if any, or in the absence of such information the parcel or tract identification number shown on a tax map or on a map filed in the county clerk's or register's office and (2) a statement of the amounts and dates of all unpaid tax liens which are subject to foreclosure under this chapter and of those which have accrued thereafter.

c. (1) The commissioner of finance may exclude or thereafter remove from such list any parcels (i) as to which questions the commissioner deems meritorious have been raised regarding the validity of the liens, (ii) as to which all the taxes and other charges which rendered said parcels eligible for inclusion in said list have been paid, or (iii) which are owned by an entity other than a company organized pursuant to article XI of the private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development and which are not owner-occupied residential buildings of not more than five residential units and as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with such commissioner for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges, interest and penalties in installments. The first installment shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner and shall be in an amount of not less than fifteen percent of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges, interest and penalties. The remaining installments, which shall be twice the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof but which shall in no event exceed thirty-two in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first day of July, October, January and April. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments unpaid real estate taxes which are, on and after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, due and payable on an other than quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(2) The commissioner of finance may also exclude or thereafter remove from such list any parcels which are owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development, and (i) as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with said commissioner for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges incurred prior to the ownership of said parcel by said article XI company, and the interest and penalties thereon, in installments. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner and shall be in an amount of not less than ten percent of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalty thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be three times the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof but which shall in no event exceed forty-eight in number shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments unpaid real estate taxes which are, on and after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two due and payable on an other than quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis; and (ii) as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with said commissioner, for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges incurred after the ownership of said parcel by said article XI company on the same terms as are provided in paragraph one of this subdivision.

(3) The commissioner of finance may also exclude or thereafter remove from such list any parcels which are owner-occupied residential buildings of not more than five residential units as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with said commissioner for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments, or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon, in installments. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner and shall be in an amount not less than ten percent of such delinquent taxes, assessment or other legal charges and the interest and penalty thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be three times the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof but which shall in no event exceed forty-eight in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April. For purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments unpaid real estate taxes which are, on and after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, due and payable on an other than quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph one, two or three of this subdivision, with respect to installment agreements duly made, executed and filed on or after the date on which this paragraph takes effect, the commissioner of finance may also exclude or thereafter remove from such list any parcel that is (i)(A) a residential building containing not more than five residential units, (B) a residential condominium unit, (C) a residential building held in a cooperative form of ownership or (D) owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the state private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development, and (ii) as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with such commissioner for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, in installments. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner and shall be in an amount equal to not less than ten percent of the total amount of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be three times the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof, but which shall in no event exceed thirty-two in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments, unpaid real estate taxes that are due and payable on other than a quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(5) Notwithstanding paragraph one, two or three of this subdivision, with respect to installment agreements duly made, executed and filed on or after the date on which this paragraph takes effect, the commissioner of finance may also exclude or thereafter remove from such list any parcel of class one or class two real property, other than a parcel described in paragraph four of this subdivision, as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with such commissioner for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, in installments. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner and shall be in an amount equal to not less than fifteen percent of the total amount of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be twice the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof, but which shall in no event exceed thirty-two in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments, unpaid real estate taxes that are due and payable on other than a quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(6) Notwithstanding paragraph one, two or three of this subdivision, with respect to installment agreements duly made, executed and filed on or after the date on which this paragraph takes effect, the commissioner of finance may also exclude or thereafter remove from such list any parcel of class three or class four real property as to which an agreement has been duly made, executed and filed with such commissioner for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, in installments. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner and shall be in an amount equal to not less than fifteen percent of the total amount of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be twice the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof, but which shall in no event exceed twenty in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments, unpaid real estate taxes that are due and payable on other than a quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(7) A parcel for which any such installment agreement or agreements have been filed with the commissioner shall be excluded or removed from the list of delinquent taxes before the commencement of the in rem action based upon such list only if the amounts paid pursuant to such agreement exceed the amount required to pay all taxes and charges which render said parcel eligible for inclusion in the in rem action and there has been no default in such agreement prior to the commencement of said action as to either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges.

(8) As a condition to entering into any agreement under this section or section 11-409 of this chapter, the commissioner shall have received from the applicant, an affidavit stating that each tenant located on the parcel has been notified by certified mail that an application for an installment agreement will be made and that a copy of a standard agreement form has been included with such notification. Any false statement in such affidavit shall not be grounds to cancel the agreement or affect its validity in any way.

d. Two duplicate originals thereof, verified by the commissioner of finance or a subordinate designated by the commissioner, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which the parcels listed therein are situated. Such filing shall constitute and have the same force and effect as the filing and recording in such office of an individual and separate notice of pendency of action and as the filing in the supreme court in such county of an individual and separate complaint by the city as to each parcel described in said list, to enforce the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other lawful charges which have accumulated and become liens against such parcels.

e. Each county clerk with whom such a list of delinquent taxes is filed shall, on the date of said filing, place and thereafter maintain one duplicate original copy thereof, as separately and permanently bound by the commissioner of finance, adjacent to and together with the block index of notices of pendency of action and each county clerk shall, on the date of said filing or as soon thereafter as with due diligence is practicable, docket the parcels contained in the list of delinquent taxes in said block index of notices of pendency of action, which shall constitute due filing, recording and indexing of the separate notices constituting said list of delinquent taxes in lieu of any other requirement under rule sixty-five hundred eleven of the civil practice law and rules or otherwise.

f. The commissioner of finance shall file a copy of each list of delinquent taxes, certified as such copy by him or her or a subordinate designated by the commissioner, in the borough office of the city collector in the borough in which the parcels listed therein are situated and in the office of the corporation counsel.

g. The validity of any proceeding hereunder shall not be affected by any omission or error of the commissioner of finance in including or excluding parcels from any such list or in the designation of a street or street number or by any other similar omission or error.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Where by virtue of a $12.15 tax default the City had penalized petitioner to extent of vesting title in itself of property valued at more than $17,000, Court would scrutinize closely the procedural steps to be pursued by the City Treasurer to determine whether jurisdiction was acquired in the in rem tax foreclosure.-In re List of Delinquent Taxes, 130 (82) N.Y.L.J. (10-26-53) 881, Col. 3 M.

¶ 2. Despite fact that the City had changed the designation for the property on its tax maps from Ward 4, Block 4067, Lot 43, to Section 58, Block 14197, Lot 43, the listing of the property by the old designation in the list of delinquent taxes, together with the name "T. Lynch", should have brought realization to respondents that it was their property which was thus set forth. Fact that the City Treasurer did not mail notice of foreclosure to respondents was of no avail to them as the statute requires mailing of notice to the last known address of the owner as it appears on the City Treasurer's records, and neither the names nor the address of the respondents appeared on such records. Court was without power to open their default to answer or redeem.-In re List of Delinquent Taxes, Ward 4, Queens, 281 App. Div. 1038, 121 N.Y.S. 2d 392 [1953], aff'd 306 N.Y. 809, 118 N.E. 2d 821 [1954].

¶ 3. Contention of petitioner that intention of Admin. Code § D17-5.0 in prescribing the list is to afford a means of information to an owner that his property is involved, and that this purpose is frustrated or at least the means of acquiring the information is rendered more difficult by the commingling of property of an owner in a particular section with those of other sections when one composite list is compiled for parcels in five sections, possessed some merit.-In re List of Delinquent Taxes, 130 (82) N.Y.L.J. (10-26-53) 881, Col. 3 M; adhered to on reargument, 130 (116) N.Y.L.J. (12-16-53) 1472, Col. 3 F.

¶ 4. Objection that the list of delinquent taxes was not verified by the City Treasurer but by a deputy and acting Treasurer, held untenable, as Public Officers Law § 9 and Charter § 412 authorizes a deputy official to exercise the powers and duties of the principal during the latter's absence or inability to act.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Lien, 129 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-9-53) 1940, Col. 7 F.

¶ 5. So-called "work sheets" prepared by men from the City Treasurer's office by copying from the assessment rolls in the Tax Department preparatory to making the list of delinquent taxpayers, which memoranda were maintained in the Treasurer's office, became records of the City Treasurer, and since there appeared therein the name of petitioner and an address, the failure to send her notice of the proceeding rendered the judgment void insofar as it related to her. Fact that her husband resided with her and the notice was addressed to him at his place of business was ineffectual for jurisdictional purposes.-Id.

¶ 6. Failure of City Treasurer to prepare and publish separate tax list for each section or ward designated on the tax maps and to mail notice of foreclosure proceeding to petitioner at her address as it appeared on file in his office were substantial jurisdictional defects.-In re Foreclosure, etc., 133 N.Y.S. 2d 659 [1953].

¶ 7. Where card record on file in City Treasurer's office at the time of the institution of foreclosure proceeding showed the name and correct address of the last owner, but the notice of foreclosure was sent to another person, there was no substantial compliance with the statute and foreclosure judgment was vacated.-In re List of Delinquent Taxes, etc., 136 N.Y.S. 2d 6 [1954].

¶ 8. That the composition of the list of delinquent taxes upon which the in rem tax foreclosure action was based was allegedly faulty, in that credits against the arrears, which should have been made before the list was posted, were not in fact made until after the action was started, the credits having resulted from condemnation awards made by the City in a series of limited takings, held not to warrant vacating of the proceedings in the foreclosure action on theory there had been a jurisdictional defect in the proceedings, which had already resulted in a judgment of foreclosure.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens, 131 (98) N.Y.L.J. (5-21-54) 13, Col. 8 F.

¶ 9. Title D of Chapter 17 of the Admin. Code is constitutional. Defendant contended that inasmuch as it did not provide for a judicial sale, it deprived him of his property without due process of law. The rational of cases supporting the constitutionality of the State tax law is applicable to the similar provisions of the Admin. Code.-City of New York v. Feit, 200 Misc. 998, 110 N.Y.S. 2d 425 [1952].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The notice provisions of §11-405 requiring notice by publication and actual notice only on request to owners, mortgagees and other interested parties who have filed a card with the City Collector does not afford adequate notice to readily ascertainable interested parties. The city has a constitutional requirement to provide notice to owners whose names appear on deed records.-Campbell v. City of NY, 145 Misc 2d 248 [1989].

¶ 2. Although the statute gives the Department of Finance the discretion to enter into a forbearance agreement with delinquent taxpayers, these agreements do not settle or reduce the tax liability, but set up payment plans that postpone foreclosure so long as the required payments are made. Delafield 246 Corp. v. City of New York, 11 A.D.3d 268, 782 N.Y.S.2d 441 (1st Dept. 2004), leave to appeal denied, 4 N.Y.3d 703, 792 N.Y.S.2d 1, 825 N.E.2d 133 (2005).

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-406 Public notice of foreclosure.

a. Upon the filing of a list of delinquent taxes in the office of the county clerk, the commissioner of finance forthwith shall cause a notice of foreclosure to be published at least once a week for six successive weeks in the City Record and, subject to section ninety-one of the judiciary law, in two newspapers, one of which may be a law journal, to be designated by the commissioner of finance, which are published in and are circulated throughout the county in which the affected property is located. If there are no newspapers published in such county, the commissioner of finance may designate newspapers published in the city of New York which are circulated throughout the affected county.

b. Such notice shall clearly indicate that it is a notice of foreclosure of tax liens; the borough or the section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map in which the properties subject to foreclosure are located and where the area affected by the action includes less than all parcels in an entire borough or section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map, the particular class or classes contained therein, and by a general description which need not contain measurements and direction; where and when the list of delinquent taxes was filed; the general nature of the information contained in the list; that the filing of the list constitutes commencement of a foreclosure action by the city in the supreme court for the particular county and a notice of pendency of action against each parcel listed; that such action is against the property only and no personal judgment will be entered; that the list will be available for inspection at the city collector's central office and at the borough office of the city collector in the borough in which said property is located until a specified date at least ten weeks after the date of first publication; that until such date a parcel may be redeemed by paying all taxes and charges contained in said list of delinquent taxes together with interest and penalties thereon; that during said period of redemption and for an additional period of twenty days after said last date for redemption any person having any interest in or lien upon a parcel on the list may file with the appropriate county clerk and serve upon the corporation counsel a verified answer setting forth in detail the full name of said answering party, the nature and amount of his or her interest or lien and any legal defense against foreclosure; and that in the absence of redemption or answer a judgement of foreclosure may be taken by default.

c. On or before the date of the first publication of such notice, the commissioner of finance shall cause a copy of the notice to be mailed to all owners, mortgagees, lienors or encumbrancers, who may be entitled to receive such notice by virtue of any owner's registration or in rem card filed in the office of the city collector pursuant to section 11-416 or 11-417 of this chapter. If such owner's registration or in rem cards have not been filed in the office of the city collector then said notice shall be mailed to the name and address, if any, appearing in the latest annual record of assessed valuations. The commissioner of finance shall cause to be inserted with such notice a statement substantially in the following form:

"To the party to whom the enclosed notice is addressed: You are the presumptive owner or lienor of one or more of the parcels mentioned and described in the list referred to in the attached notice. Unless the taxes and assessments and all other legal charges are paid, or an answer is interposed; or an arrangement is made for payment of such taxes and assessments and all other legal charges in installments, as provided by statute, the ownership of said property will in due course pass to the city of New York as provided by the administrative code of the city of New York."

The failure of the commissioner of finance to mail such notice shall not affect the validity of any proceeding brought pursuant to this chapter as to any parcel other than the parcel with respect to which notice was not mailed.

d. The commissioner of finance shall cause a copy of such notice to be posted in the office of the commissioner of finance, in the county courthouse of the county in which the property subject to such tax lien is situated and at three other conspicuous places in the borough in which the affected properties are located.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Admin. Code § D17-6.0, is constitutional.-In re City of N.Y. (Foreclose Tax Liens), 129 (59) N.Y.L.J. (3-27-51) 1092, Col. 6 F.

¶ 2. Title D of Chapter 17 of the Admin. Code, held constitutional, as against contentions that it did not provide for a judicial sale and that it deprived owners of their property without due process of law.-City of N.Y. v. Feit, 200 Misc. 998, 110 N.Y.S. 2d 425 [1952].

¶ 3. Contention that Chapter D, Title 17 of the Admin. Code is unconstitutional as depriving movant of the equal protection of the laws, held without merit. The rationale of cases supporting the constitutionality of the state Tax Law is applicable to the similar provisions of the Admin. Code.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Lien, 129 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-9-53) 1940, Col. 7 F.

¶ 4. Constitutionality of provisions of the Code dealing with notice in rem foreclosure actions upheld.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Brooklyn), 131 (107) N.Y.L.J. (6-5-54) 11, Col. 8 F.

¶ 5. The City Treasurer's affidavit, which must be filed in the County Clerk's office, designating the parcels for which the records of his office do not show the owners' names or addresses, is not required by § D17-6.0 to be filed on or before the date of the first publication of the notice of foreclosure. In any event, if the requirement should be read that the affidavit is to be filed prior to that time, such requirement would be directory and not mandatory, and the omission to comply therewith is not a jurisdictional defect and the proceeding is not thereby rendered inval- id.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens, 278 App. Div. 1008, 105 N.Y.S. 2d 829 [1951].

¶ 6. Owner of the property held entitled to an order directing the City Collector to accept payment of tax arrears on his property and to discontinue the "in rem" foreclosure proceedings, where in 1951 upon the making of a part payment of taxes, a clerk in the office of the City Collector erroneously listed the owner's address, and the notice of in rem foreclosure proceedings never reached the owner and was returned with a notation "no such number". Contention of City Collector that the statute required him only to look up his own records for addresses and that he might rely thereon even though an erroneous address negligently was inserted therein by a City employee, was rejected. Equity would not aid a party whose actions are unconscionable or whose conduct is such that he is estopped from claiming his technical legal rights under a default by his adversary.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Sections 15-20, Kings), 128 (84) N.Y.L.J. (10-29-52) 990, Col. 7 T.

¶ 6.1. Notice of foreclosure on vacant lot mailed to owners who had no address with respect to the vacant parcel was valid since the Treasurer was not required to assume delivery by the Post Office.-In re Delinquent Taxes (Sec. 1-16; Richmond), 147 (14) N.Y.L.J. (1-19-62) 17, Col. 3 M.

¶ 7. Corporate owner of the property which, exactly twenty days from the last day for redemption, interposed an answer denying that it had ever received notice of the in rem foreclosure proceeding, held entitled to trial or other disposition of the issues raised by its answer, even though the statutory period of redemption is in the nature of a Statute of Limitations. The motion of the owner to compel the City Collector to accept payment of delinquent taxes and for discontinuance of the foreclosure proceeding, was denied.-In re City of N.Y. (Section 17, Bronx), 130 (42) N.Y.L.J. (8-27-53) 307, Col. 3 F.

¶ 8. This section requires service of notice of foreclosure by mailing to the last known address of each owner of property as the same appears upon the records of the City Treasurer. The Treasurer mailed notice to the property owner to the address which appeared on his records but prior to this mailing had been informed by the post office that there was no such address as his records indicated. Hence, there was no compliance with the statutory direction which is a prerequisite to jurisdiction and the property owner's time to redeem never started to run. The property owner was permitted to pay his tax arrears and have the foreclosure action discontinued even though the time of redemption specified in the notice of foreclosure had elapsed.-City of New York v. Stolpensky, 286 App. Div. 1027, 145 N.Y.S. 2d 40 [1955].

¶ 9. After the in rem foreclosure of the tax liens on a piece of real property and after the expiration of the redemption period, the property owner could not compel the City Collector to accept payment of tax arrears and discontinue the action even though the City Collector, through his own clerical error had erroneously recorded the address to which the property owner wanted notices of tax payments mailed, and as a result the taxpayer had not received notice of the foreclosure.-City of New York v. Stolpensky, 1 App. Div. 2d 95, 148 N.Y.S. 2d 173 [1955].

¶ 10. It is sufficient that the affidavit of mailing of the notice of foreclosure complies with Admin. Code § D17-6.0. Contention that it did not comply with R.C.P. 20 was unavailing to petitioner.-In re Foreclosure Tax Liens, etc., 133 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-8-55) 13, Col. 6 M.

¶ 11. The City Treasurer is obliged only to mail notice of an in rem tax lien foreclosure proceeding to the person whose name and address appears on the records. There is no duty resting on the City Treasurer to look beyond the records in his own office to the assessment roll on which another name appeared as owner of the taxed parcel.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens, etc., 133 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-8-55) 13, Col. 6 M.

¶ 12. The Court would not open the default of appellant to answer or redeem in tax foreclosure, since the fact that the Tax Department knew the name of owner of the property was not the equivalent to knowledge of that information by the City Treasurer.-Hawley v. City of New York, 283 App. Div. 882, 131 N.Y.S. 2d 591 [1954].

¶ 13. Court held without power to open default or permit redemption from foreclosure where corporation conveyed a portion of premises to A who made application for apportionment and whose lot was designated but corporation failed to indicate ownership of the remaining designated lot in the City collector's office. The fact that City failed to mail notice of foreclosure was of no avail.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Brooklyn), 131 (107) N.Y.L.J. (6-5-54) 11, Col. 8 F.

¶ 14. Statutory requirements were complied with by notice mailed to petitioner's husband, whose name appeared on the Treasurer's records, though in fact the property was owned by petitioner and her husband as tenants by the entirety. The filing of the delinquent tax lists omitting the street and number of the premises did not affect the jurisdiction of the Court.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Richmond), 134 (10) N.Y.L.J. (7-15-55) 5, Col. 7 M.

¶ 15. Where card record on file in City Treasurer's office at the time of the institution of foreclosure proceeding showed the name and correct address of the last owner, but the notice of foreclosure was sent to another person, there was no substantial compliance with the statute and foreclosure judgment was vacated.-In re List of Delinquent Taxes, etc., 136 N.Y.S. 2d 6 [1954].

¶ 16. Failure of City Treasurer to prepare and publish separate tax lists for each section or ward designated on the tax maps and to mail notice of foreclosure proceeding to petitioner at her address as it appeared on file in his office were substantial jurisdictional defects.-In re Foreclosure, etc., 133 N.Y.S. 2d 659 [1953].

¶ 17. The section of the Code dealing with the posting of notices refers to the County Court House at Joreleman and Fulton Streets in Brooklyn.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Brooklyn), 131 (107) N.Y.L.J. (6-5-54) 11, Col. 8 F.

¶ 18. Where Treasurer mailed notice to person whose name appeared on his records, the fact that he did look on the assessment roll on which another name appeared did not affect the validity of the judgment of foreclosure.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Queens), 133 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-8-55) 13, Col. 6 M.

¶ 19. Failure of defendants to have received notice of the in rem foreclosure due to their misplaced confidence in their trusted bookkeeper and agent, who allegedly concealed all notices received from the City to cover up his defalcations, would not permit the Court to extend their time to answer or redeem, in view of provisions of Admin. Code § D17-6.0.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Est. of William Nelson), 131 (85) N.Y.L.J. (5-4-54) 12, Col. 1 M.

¶ 20. Despite alleged hardship court was powerless to permit redemption or to open the default where there had been full compliance with the statutes in foreclosing the tax lien.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Lien, 129 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-9-53) 1940, Col. 7 F.

¶ 21. Payment might not be accepted by the City after the last date for redemption set in the public notice of foreclosure, although court stated it was not in sympathy with the strict interpretation given to the provision for in rem foreclosure of tax liens.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens, 129 (111) N.Y.L.J. (6-9-53) 1940, Col. 7 F.

¶ 22. A notice to redeem is not a condition precedent for bringing of an action to foreclose a tax lien under this section.-Fusella v. Kayser, 143 (26) N.Y.L.J. (2-8-60) 13, Col. 3 F.

¶ 23. In action by City in rem to foreclose unpaid tax liens pursuant to Chapter 17 of Title D of the Admin. Code, a counterclaim might not be interposed to recover for the reasonable use and occupancy of defendant's property by the City in storing thereon their vehicles and other equipment, as taxes are not subject to counterclaim or set off on part of the taxpayer.-In re City of N.Y. v. Feit, 200 Misc. 998, 110 N.Y.S. 2d 425 [1952].

¶ 24. Where an answer, duly filed and served in a proceeding to foreclose tax liens, showed that the defendant was the owner of the property and that the amount of the tax liens was but a small fraction of the value of the property an order awarding absolute possession and ownership to the City was not proper. Such an order is proper only if the property owner has defaulted in answering and inasmuch as the defendant did not so default the order should have directed a sale of the property so that surplus monies would be available to the defendant.-City of New York v. Chapman Docks Co., 1 App. Div. 2d 895, 149 N.Y.S. 2d 679 [1956].

¶ 25. Statement in affidavit of president of mortgagee that upon information and belief city failed to mail a proper notice of foreclosure to owner was not sufficient to raise a question of fact where mortgagee move to vacate default judgment of foreclosure where owner did not submit an affidavit as to notice.-In the Matter of Foreclosure of Tax Liens by the City of N.Y., Borough of Manhattan, 102 Misc. 2d 801 [1979].

¶ 26. The in rem foreclosure law which provides for notice by posting and publication upon all parties having an interest in real property except for service by mail upon parties whose names appear on the tax rolls or who register with the city collector for receipt of tax bills or in rem notices is constitutional and hence leasee of premises acquired by city who did not register as an interested party was not entitled to actual notice of foreclosure action.-W.S. 23 Realty Corp. v. City of N.Y., 106 Misc. 2d 271, 431 N.Y.S. 2d 272 [1980].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A mortgage foreclosure action was entered when an in rem tax foreclosure proceeding was pending. Notice by mail in in rem tax foreclosure is provided for in NYC Ad Cd §§ 11-406, 11-416 but a governmental body is not required to take extraordinary efforts to discover identity and whereabouts. Notice by publication is not sufficient under certain circumstances. Alliance Prop. Mgt. & Dev. v. Andrews Ave. Equities and NYC, 133 AD2d 30 [1987] 70 NY2d 831 [1987].

¶ 2. Notice provisions in Administrative Code § 11-406(c) as applied to owners of property, satisfy minimum requirements of due process. Hatorah v. NYC, 175 AD2d 795 [1991].

¶ 3. Petitioner cannot claim insufficient notice of foreclosure proceeding after petitioner entered into an in rem installment agreement with city after the institution of the foreclosure action and then defaulted in making tax arrears payments. Diamond L&M Ranch Enterprises v. NYC Fin. Dep't, 209 AD2d 193, 618 N.Y.S.2d 285 [1994].

¶ 4. The court sustained the constitutionality (due process) of the notice procedures of § 11-406(c). ISCA Enterprises v. City of New York, 77 N.Y.2d 688, 569 N.Y.S.2d 927 (1991).

¶ 5. Where the Department of Finance had in its files an owner's registration card and in rem card in the name of individuals other than plaintiffs, the department was obligated to mail notices of the tax foreclosure action only to those individuals and not to plaintiffs. Med Development Corp. v. City of New York, 231 A.D.2d 613, 648 N.Y.S.2d 613 (App. Div. 2nd Dept. 1996).

¶ 6. The City acquired title to the subject premises pursuant to a judgment entered in an in rem tax foreclosure action. The plaintiff, who owned an adjoining lot, brought this action asserting that he was the true owner of the subject premises, having acquired title by adverse possession. The plaintiff contended that he was denied due process because he did not receive personal notice of the foreclosure proceeding. The court, however, held that there was no constitutional requirement of personal notice to a party whose interest in the property was not readily ascertainable from the real property and tax records. Thus, plaintiff's motion for an injunction prohibiting defendants from disposing of the subject property was denied. Napolitano v. Biderman, 171 A.D.2d 654, 567 N.Y.S.2d 134 (2nd Dept. 1991).

¶ 7. An owner seeking to set aside a tax foreclosure on the grounds that the required notices were sent to the wrong address, is less likely to prevail where the owner failed to file either a registration statement or an in rem card, which would have assured delivery of the notice to the correct address. Sons of Israel of the Bronx v. City of New York, 292 A.D.2d 222, 739 N.Y.S.2d 54 (1st Dept. 2002).

¶ 8. The City complies with due process by mailing a notice of in rem foreclosure action to the address listed on the owner's registration card. The City was only required to take reasonable steps to notify interested parties of an in rem tax foreclosure proceeding. The City was not required to undertake a search of its internal records to locate alternate addresses used for various purposes over the years. In Re Tax Foreclosure Action No. 44, 9 A.D.3d 266, 778 N.Y.S.2d 882 (2004), leave to appeal dismissed, 3 N.Y.3d 767, 788 N.Y.S.2d 669, 821 N.E.2d 924 (2004).

¶ 9. In Krumszyn v. NYC Dept. of Housing Preservation and Development 2008 NY Misc. Lexis 2623, 239 NYLJ 83 (Sup. Ct. Bronx Cty. 2008), 21 Misc.3d 1110(A), 873 N.Y.S.2d, a property owner challenged an impending foreclosure sale, claiming that she never received any notice of the foreclosure until she got a Post-Judgment notice in the mail in October 2004. However, New York City Dept. of Finance employees and their bulk mailing service provider attested that they mailed notice of foreclosure, as required under NYC Admin. Code 11-406(c), as early as October 2002. The City was required only to take reasonable steps to notify plaintiff of the foreclosure. Once four months elapsed after the judgment was entered, and plaintiff had not sought to vacate it, defendant's compliance within the statutory notice requirements is conclusively presumed. NYC Admin. Code Sec. 406, 11-412.1(h).

Plaintiff admitted that she owed the defendant at least $207,000 in taxes and interest against the property. The property also had numerous violations placed against it by HPD; as a result, plaintiff was unable to obtain refinancing to pay the judgment within the as-of-right, four-month redemption period provided in Admin. Code 11-412.1. Although plaintiff claimed to have corrected the violations, HPD was legally within its rights in refusing to reinspect the property; under 28 RCNY Sec. 9-06, HPD can reject an application for reinspection of property to remove corrected violations from its records, where there is an uncollected judgment against the property or its owner arising from litigation by the City. In this case, the City had six uncollected judgments against the owner.

The court then said that, even if plaintiff were given a four month redemption period running from October 2004 (the time she admitted she knew of the foreclosure), she still failed to redeem by February 2005, the end of the four-month period. After the four-month period, any redemption defendant might afford is entirely an exercise of the defendant's discretion, which the outstanding violations cited and judgments against her or her property provided the city ample grounds to refuse (NYC Admin. Code Sec. 11-424(g)). Even though the discretionary redemption period extends only another 20 months, plaintiff did not redeem her property by the conclusion of 20 months, i.e. by October 2006. NYC Admin. Code 11-4249a)(l).

Accordingly, the court denied the motion to vacate the judgment of foreclosure.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-407 Redemption.

a. After the filing of a list of delinquent taxes and until a date at least ten weeks after the first publication of the public notice of foreclosure, as determined by the commissioner of finance and specified in the said notice, a person claiming to have an interest in any parcel in said list may redeem it by paying all taxes and charges contained in said list of delinquent taxes together with interest and penalties thereon.

b. Upon such redemption the commissioner of finance shall deliver to the corporation counsel a certificate of redemption. The corporation counsel shall file such certificate with the clerk of the county in which said list was filed. The filing of such certificate shall constitute and be deemed a discontinuance of the in rem action as to the affected parcel, and the county clerk shall thereupon note such redemption and discontinuance in the copy of the list of delinquent taxes maintained by him or her adjacent to the county clerk's block index of notices of pendency of action and shall cancel and discharge any notations of the filing of said list of delinquent taxes as to said parcel that may appear in any other books, records, indices and dockets maintained in said clerk's office. The commissioner of finance shall also deliver a duplicate original certificate of redemption to the person who has redeemed.

c. When the time to redeem in an in rem tax foreclosure action has expired, any person claiming to have an interest in a parcel included in said action shall have the right to make a late redemption payment to the commissioner of finance. Such late redemption payment shall consist of all taxes and charges owing on said parcel, the lawful interest thereon to the date of payment and a penalty of five percent of said payment of taxes, charges and interest, which penalty may not exceed one thousand dollars as to each parcel on which a late redemption payment is being made. Such late redemption payment shall be made in cash or by certified or bank check and shall be accepted by the commissioner of finance at any time after the last day to redeem up to the date on which the commissioner is advised by the corporation counsel that the preparation of the judgement of foreclosure in the in rem action has been commenced. Upon receipt of such late redemption payment, the commissioner of finance shall issue a certificate of withdrawal pursuant to the provisions of section 11-413 of this chapter.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-409 Severance and trial of issues where answer is interposed; installment agreements authorized after action commenced.

a. If a duly verified answer is served upon the corporation counsel not later than twenty days after the last date for redemption, the answering defendant shall have the right to a severance of the action, as to any parcel in which the defendant has pleaded an interest, upon written demand therefor filed with or made a part of his or her answer.

b. When such answer is interposed, the court shall summarily hear and determine the issues raised by the complaint and answer in the same manner as it hears and determines other actions, except as herein otherwise provided. Proof that the taxes which made said property subject to foreclosure hereunder together with interest and penalties thereon, were paid before filing of the list of delinquent taxes or that the property was not subject to tax shall constitute a complete defense.

c. No counterclaim may be asserted in an answer interposed in an action brought pursuant to this chapter. Where a counterclaim is asserted in an in rem answer the city may disregard that portion of the answer and shall suffer no legal penalty or impediment in the prosecution of its in rem action for its failure to reply or respond thereto. Where an answer contains only a counterclaim and no other defenses the city may proceed to judgment of foreclosure against the property affected without the need for moving against the answer.

d. When a verified answer alleges a substantial equity over the city's lien for taxes, the defendant may demand additional time in which to pay the taxes and interest or to have the property sold with all taxes and interest to be paid out of the proceeds of such sale. Upon such demand a defendant shall have the right to an extension of time for such purpose not in excess of six months from the last day to interpose an answer. Where a mortgagee or lienor who has interposed such answer commences a proceeding to foreclose his or her mortgage or lien and it appears that with due diligence such proceeding cannot be concluded in time to allow the payment of taxes within the aforesaid six month period, the court may, on application before the end of said six month period, authorize an additional period during which such proceeding may be concluded and the taxes, together with interest and penalties, paid.

e. Where an answer of the type described in subdivision d of this section is interposed and taxes are paid within the period set forth in such subdivision d, the commissioner of finance shall issue a certificate of withdrawal as to the property on which such payment has been made pursuant to the provisions of section 11-413 of this chapter. When taxes are not paid within the period set forth in such subdivision d, it shall be deemed that there was no equity over the city's tax liens and the answer shall be deemed to be without merit. The city in that event may proceed to judgment of foreclosure against such property without moving against the answer.

f. All answers interposed in an action hereunder and all affidavits and other papers pertaining to any litigation involving such answers or to any proceeding brought pursuant to this chapter involving less than an entire action shall bear a caption containing the in rem action number of the city's tax foreclosure proceeding, the borough or the section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map affected, and if the action covers less than all parcels in an entire borough or section of a tax map or portion of a section of a tax map, the particular class or classes, and the serial, section, block and lot numbers of the parcel or parcels in issue.

g. The corporation counsel, when submitting an in rem judgment roll pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, may request a severance as to any parcel on which an in rem answer or litigation is pending, or as to which, before the preparation of said in rem judgment roll is commenced, an agreement was duly made, executed and filed with the commissioner of finance for the payment of the delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and interest and penalties in installments as provided in subdivision c of section 11-405 of this chapter and there has been no default in such agreement as to either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges. Where such an agreement is entered into subsequent to the last date for redemption specified in subdivision a of section 11-407 of this chapter, there shall be paid to the commissioner of finance at the time the aforesaid agreement is executed an amount equal to the penalty which would have been payable under subdivision c of section 11-407 of this chapter had the person executing the agreement made a late redemption payment. Such amount shall be in addition to any installment payments required to be made under the agreement and shall not be credited against any such installment payments. Where a default occurs in such agreement as to either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges, all payments made under the agreement shall be forfeited and the city shall be entitled to acquire the parcel as to which the default occurred. Where such default occurs before the submission of the judgment roll, the parcels as to which such default occurs shall be included in said judgment roll among the parcels to be acquired by the city. Where such default has occurred as to a parcel severed pursuant to this subdivision, the corporation counsel shall cause to be entered a supplemental judgment of foreclosure as to such parcel immediately on notification by the commissioner of finance of such default. Where such installment agreement is paid in full the commissioner of finance shall discontinue the in rem action from which said parcel was severed by issuing a certificate of withdrawal as to said parcel pursuant to the provisions of section 11-413 of this chapter.

h. A party who has interposed an answer as to any parcel included in an in rem tax foreclosure action, or any other party interested in such parcel, shall have the right, at any time prior to the final disposition of a motion to strike said answer, to pay all taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest owing on said parcel. An answering party who makes such payment shall not be required to pay any penalty. Where such payment is made by other than an answering party after the expiration of the period of redemption, there shall be paid to the commissioner of finance an additional amount equal to the penalty payable under subdivision c of section 11-407 of this chapter. Where all delinquent taxes, assessments and other legal charges together with lawful interest thereon and penalties, where required, are paid, the commissioner of finance shall issue a certificate of withdrawal as to said parcel pursuant to the provisions of section 11-413 of this chapter. Said parties may also pay such taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest by an installment agreement. Where such agreement is requested before the preparation of the aforesaid in rem judgment roll is commenced, the terms of said agreement shall be consistent with the provisions of subdivision g or i of this section, whichever is applicable. Where such agreement is requested after judgment of foreclosure has been entered in the in rem action in which the aforesaid answer was interposed, said agreement shall require a first installment of fifty percent of all taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest owing on said parcel, a penalty of five percent of all such taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest, which penalty may not exceed one thousand dollars, and the payment of the balance of such taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest in four equal quarterly installments together with all current taxes, assessments and other legal charges that accrue during such period. The request of an answering party for an installment agreement shall constitute a withdrawal of such party's answer. An installment agreement requested by an interested party other than the answering party shall require the consent of said answering party which shall also constitute a withdrawal of such party's answer. The severance provided for in this section shall be continued during the term of all installment agreements entered into pursuant to the provisions of this subdivision. Where a default has occurred as to a parcel severed pursuant to this subdivision, the corporation counsel shall cause to be entered a supplemental judgment of foreclosure as to such parcel immediately on notification by the commissioner of finance of such default. Where such installment agreement is paid in full, the commissioner of finance shall discontinue the in rem action from which said parcel was severed by issuing a certificate of withdrawal as to said parcel pursuant to the provisions of section 11-413 of this chapter.

i. (1) Notwithstanding subdivision g of this section, this subdivision shall apply with respect to installment agreements made, executed and filed with the commissioner of finance on or after the date on which this subdivision takes effect. An installment agreement pursuant to this subdivision may be made, executed and filed with such commissioner during the period beginning on the date on which an action is commenced as provided in subdivision d of section 11-405 of this chapter with respect to the parcel that is the subject of such agreement and ending on the date on which such commissioner is advised by the corporation counsel that the preparation of the judgment of foreclosure in such in rem action has been commenced. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, and except to the extent provided in paragraph two of this subdivision, the provisions of paragraphs one through six of subdivision c of section 11-405 of this chapter shall not apply to any installment agreement requested on or after the date on which this subdivision takes effect and on or after the date on which an action is commenced as provided in subdivision d of such section 11-405 with respect to the parcel that is the subject of such requested agreement.

(2) An agreement entered into pursuant to this subdivision shall provide for the payment in installments of the delinquent taxes, assessments and other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, due and owing as of the date on which such agreement is requested. Unless an eligible owner or other interested person requests an agreement pursuant to the provisions of paragraph three of this subdivision, the terms of such agreement with respect to a parcel shall be the same as the terms that would be applicable to such parcel under paragraph four, five or six, as the case may be, of subdivision c of section 11-405 of this chapter, except that, for purposes of the agreement pursuant to this paragraph, the amount of the first installment shall be equal to: (i) fifteen percent of the total amount due in the case of a parcel described in such paragraph four; (ii) twenty percent of the total amount due in the case of a parcel described in such paragraph five; and (iii) twenty-five percent of the total amount due in the case of a parcel described in such paragraph six.

(3) Instead of an agreement pursuant to paragraph two of this subdivision, an eligible owner or other interested party may request an agreement pursuant to the following provisions:

(i) With respect to a parcel that is owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the state private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development, such agreement shall provide for the payment in installments of the delinquent taxes, assessments and other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, due and owing as of the date on which such agreement is requested. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner of finance and shall be in an amount at least equal to, at the applicant's election, either thirty-five percent or fifty percent of the total amount of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be three times the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof, but which shall in no event exceed thirty-two in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October,

January and April, together with interest at the rate or rates determined as provided in subparagraph (iv) of this paragraph. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments, unpaid real estate taxes that are due and payable on other than a quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(ii) With respect to a parcel, other than a parcel described in subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, that is a residential building containing not more than five residential units, a residential condominium unit or a residential building held in a cooperative form of ownership, such agreement shall provide for the payment in installments of the delinquent taxes, assessments and other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, due and owing as of the date on which such agreement is requested. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner of finance and shall be in an amount at least equal to, at the applicant's election, either twenty-five percent or fifty percent of the total amount of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be three times the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof, but which shall in no event exceed twenty in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April together with interest at the rate or rates determined as provided in subparagraph (iv) of this paragraph. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments, unpaid real estate taxes that are due and payable on other than a quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(iii) With respect to any parcel of class one or class two real property, other than a parcel described in subparagraph (i) or (ii) of this paragraph, such agreement shall provide for the payment in installments of the delinquent taxes, assessments and other legal charges, and the interest and penalties thereon, due and owing as of the date on which such agreement is requested. The first installment thereof shall be paid upon the filing of the installment agreement with the commissioner of finance and shall be in an amount at least equal to, at the applicant's election, either thirty-five percent or fifty percent of the total amount of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and the interest and penalties thereon. The remaining installments, which shall be twice the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof, but which shall in no event exceed twenty in number, shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April, together with interest at the rate or rates determined as provided in subparagraph (iv) of this paragraph. For the purposes of calculating the number of such remaining installments, unpaid real estate taxes that are due and payable on other than a quarterly basis shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis.

(iv) (A) Notwithstanding any higher rate of interest prescribed pursuant to applicable law, and unless a lower rate of interest is applicable to a delinquent amount owing on a parcel that is the subject of an agreement pursuant to this paragraph, the interest payable together with the remaining installments due under such agreement shall be:

(I) with respect to an agreement for which a twenty-five percent or thirty-five percent down payment was made, calculated at a rate equal to the sum of (a) the rate prescribed for the applicable period pursuant to paragraph (i) of subdivision e of section 11-224.1 of this title and (b) one-half of the difference between such rate and the rate prescribed for such period pursuant to paragraph (ii) of subdivision e of section 11-224.1 of this title; or

(II) with respect to an agreement for which a fifty percent down payment was made, calculated at a rate equal to the rate prescribed for the applicable period pursuant to paragraph (i) of subdivision e of section 11-224.1 of this title.

(B) If a default occurs in any agreement executed pursuant to this paragraph as to either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges, the rates of interest determined under this subparagraph shall thereupon cease to be applicable and the commissioner of finance shall thereafter charge, collect and receive interest in the manner and at the rates otherwise prescribed pursuant to law.

(4) The corporation counsel, when submitting an in rem judgment roll pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, may request a severance as to any parcel as to which, before the preparation of said in rem judgment roll is commenced, an agreement was duly made, executed and filed with the commissioner of finance for the payment of all delinquent taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest and penalties in installments as provided in this subdivision, and there has been no default in such agreement as to either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges. Where such an agreement is entered into subsequent to the last date for redemption specified in subdivision a of section 11-407 of this chapter, there shall be paid to the commissioner of finance at the time such agreements are executed an amount equal to the penalty that would have been payable under subdivision c of section 11-407 of this chapter had the person executing the agreement made a late redemption payment. Such amount shall be in addition to any installment payments required to be made under the agreement and shall not be credited against any such installment payments. Where a default occurs in such agreement as to either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges, all payments made under the agreement shall be forfeited and the city shall be entitled to obtain a judgment hereunder as to the parcel as to which the default occurred. Where such default occurred before the submission of the judgment roll, the parcels as to which such default occurs shall be included in said judgment roll amount the parcels to be acquired by the city or by a third party. Where such default has occurred as to a parcel severed pursuant to this subdivision, the corporation counsel shall cause to be entered a supplemental judgment of foreclosure as to such parcel immediately on notification by the commissioner of finance of such default. Where such installment agreement is paid in full, the commissioner of finance shall discontinue the in rem action from which such parcel was severed by issuing a certificate of withdrawal as to such parcel pursuant to the provisions of section 11-413 of this chapter.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A notice received by appellant allowing it until April 10, 1992 to file arrears may be constituted an enlargement of the "last date for redemption" governing its time to answer under Admin. Code §11-409, but there was no further enlargement of "last date for redemption" so as to encompass appellant's unilateral agreement to "pay the taxes due by or before July 3, 1992." A taxpayer who challenges an assessment must nonetheless pay the taxes.-Matter of Tax Foreclosure Action No. 39, 202 AD2d 328 [1994].

a. Any action brought pursuant to this chapter shall be given preference over all other causes and actions.

b. Actions brought pursuant to this chapter shall take precedence over any proceeding brought to foreclose a mortgage or other lien involving the same property. A parcel included in a list of delinquent taxes which is sold in a mortgage foreclosure sale held after said list is filed may not be sold subject to taxes even if judgment has not yet been entered in the tax foreclosure action. All unpaid taxes and interest and penalties thereon must be paid, in full or by installment agreement pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, out of the proceeds of such sale regardless of whether the mortgage foreclosure lis pendens was filed before or after the filing of the tax foreclosure action, regardless of whether any party to the mortgage foreclosure proceeding has interposed an answer in the tax foreclosure action and regardless of any terms to the contrary in the judgment in the mortgage foreclosure proceeding.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-411 Presumption of validity.

It shall not be necessary for the city to plead or prove the various steps, procedures and notices for the assessment and levy of the taxes, assessments or other lawful charges against the parcels set forth in the list of delinquent taxes and all such taxes, assessments or other lawful charges and the lien thereof shall be presumed to be valid. A defendant alleging any jurisdictional defect or invalidity in such taxes, assessments or other lawful charges or in the foreclosure thereof must particularly specify in his or her answer such jurisdictional defect or invalidity and must affirmatively establish such defense. A judgment of foreclosure granted in any proceeding brought pursuant to this chapter, which contains recitals that any acts were done or proceedings had which were necessary to give the court jurisdiction or power to grant such judgment of foreclosure, shall be presumptive evidence that such acts were duly performed or proceedings duly had, if such judgment of foreclosure shall have been duly entered or filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which the proceeding was pending and wherein such judgment was granted. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to and be valid and effective with respect to all defendants even though one or more of them be infants, incompetents, absentees or non-residents of the state of New York.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. In action by City in rem to foreclose unpaid tax liens pursuant to Chapter 17 of Title D of the Admin. Code, mere general denials were ineffective to raise a triable issue but defendant was required affirmatively to allege that the taxes had been paid or that the property was not subject to tax.-In re City of N.Y. v. Feit, 200 Misc. 998, 110 N.Y.S. 2d 425 [1952].

¶ 2. Presumption of regularity as to recitals in judgment of foreclosure that any acts were done or proceedings had which were necessary to give the court jurisdiction or power to grant such judgment of foreclosure can be overcome only by substantial evidence to the contrary and was not overcome by testimony of president of petitioner that petitioner never received notice of foreclosure.-RPL Realty v. Com'r. of Finance, 117 Misc. 2d 321 [1982].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Where a judgment in an in rem tax foreclosure is duly entered in the Office of the County Clerk, there is a presumption of regularity of the proceedings taken in the action. That presumption included compliance by the City of New York with all applicable notice, publication and filing requirements, including its mailing of a notice of foreclosure to the property owner, and the owner's mere denial of the receipt of that notice is insufficient to overcome to presumption. In Rem Tax Foreclosure Action No. 47, 29 A.D.3d 955, 817 N.Y.S.2d 69 (2nd Dept. 2006).

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

a. The court shall determine upon proof and shall make finding upon such proof whether there has been due compliance by the city with the provisions of this chapter.

b. The court shall make a final judgment awarding to the city the possession of any parcel described in the list of delinquent taxes not redeemed or withdrawn as provided in this chapter and as to which no answer is interposed as provided herein. In addition thereto, such judgment shall contain a direction to the commissioner of finance to prepare, execute and cause to be recorded a deed conveying to the city full and complete title to such lands. Upon the execution of such deed, the city shall be seized of an estate in fee simple absolute in such land and all persons, including the state of New York, infants, incompetents, absentees and non-residents who may have had any right, title, interest, claim, lien or equity of redemption in or upon such lands shall be barred and forever foreclosed of all such right, title, interest, claim, lien or equity of redemption, except as otherwise provided in section 11-424 of this chapter. The appointment and tenure of receivers, trustees or any other persons, including administrators under article seven-A of the real property actions and proceedings law, appointed by an order of a court to manage real property, shall terminate when title to such property vests in the city pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. After such termination, said receivers, trustees or administrators shall be accountable to the courts that appointed them for the faithful performance of their fiduciary obligations during the term of their appointment and to the city for any rents and income received by them for any period subsequent to the date of the vesting of title in the city.

If the city serves a tenant in possession of a dwelling unit with notice of termination of tenancy on grounds other than non-payment of rent, the acceptance of rent for the first forty-five days after termination of tenancy by anyone other than an employee of the department designated by the department to receive such rent shall not be deemed or construed as a waiver of the city's right to initiate and prosecute a proceeding to terminate the tenancy for good cause.

c. Every deed given pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be presumptive evidence that the action and all proceedings therein and all proceedings prior thereto from and including the assessment of the lands affected and all notices required by law were regular and in accordance with all provisions of law relating thereto. After two years from the date of the recording of such deed, the presumption shall be conclusive, unless at the time that this subdivision takes effect the two year period since the recording of the deed has expired or less than six months of such period of two years remains unexpired, in which case the presumption shall become conclusive six months after this subdivision takes effect. No action to set aside such deed may be maintained unless the action is commenced and a notice of pendency of the action is filed in the office of the proper county clerk prior to the time that the presumption becomes conclusive as aforesaid.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. In enacting Title D, chap 17, of the Admin. Code, it was clearly the intent of the Legislature to provide the City with a method of foreclosing tax liens which is simple in form and procedure, expeditious in operation, inexpensive in cost and summary in nature, and only in limited circumstances could "a proper case to direct a sale" be made out. Such a proper case was not made out by respondent's answer which raised no issue as to validity of the City's liens, but which merely sought to create a surplus sufficient to liquidate respondent's junior lien (273 A.D. 777; Admin. Code § D17-12.0 (a)).-In re City of N.Y., 202 Misc. 911, 108 N.Y.S. 2d 202 [1951].

¶ 2. Where an answer, duly filed and served in a proceeding to foreclose tax liens, showed that the defendant was the owner of the property and that the amount of the tax liens was but a small fraction of the value of the property an order awarding absolute possession and ownership to the City was not proper. Such an order is proper only if the property owner has defaulted in answering and inasmuch as the defendant did not so default the order should have directed a sale of the property so that surplus monies would be available to the defendant.-City of New York v. Chapman Docks Co., 1 App. Div. 2d 895, 149 N.Y.S. 2d 679 [1956].

¶ 3. After property had been foreclosed in an in rem proceeding without a judicial sale, the City Treasurer, as receiver of the property, paid his receivership balance to the City for delinquent taxes. Although no deficiency was reported in the action, the property owner's objection to the receiver's account was overruled.-Matter of City of New York (Fenton-Young), 281 App. Div. 763, 118 N.Y.S. 2d 280 [1953].

¶ 4. An action to set aside tax deeds on the ground that they are voidable is barred by the two year statute of limitations. However this would not be true if it could be shown that the deeds were absolutely void.-Carolan v. Fieber, 6 Misc. 2d 229, 163 N.Y.S. 2d 830 [1957], aff'd 6 A.D. 2d 1050, 180 N.Y.S. 2d 249 [1958], aff'd 7 N.Y. 2d 916, 197 N.Y.S. 2d 481, 165 N.E. 2d 428 [1959].

¶ 5. Where a tax deed was recorded July 16, 1954 and former owners made application in the tax lien foreclosure proceedings on December 11, 1956 for alleged defects in procedure, their claim was barred.-City of New York v. Carolan, 7 Misc. 2d 17, 163 N.Y.S. 2d 826 [1957], aff'd 6 A.D. 2d 1051, 179 N.Y.S. 2d 517 [1958], aff'd 7 N.Y. 2d 916, 197 N.Y.S. 2d 481, 165 N.E. 2d 428 [1959].

¶ 6. The defendants purchased a house located upon land upon which they paid ground rent to the owner of the land. Thereafter, the City of New York instituted foreclosure proceedings for arrears in taxes against the land and the building thereon erected. As to the City, the house was realty and the deed which the City Treasurer gave to the City of New York conveyed to it an estate in fee simple absolute both to the land and the house thereon erected. Consequently, when the defendants sold the building to the plaintiff, they did not have title thereto and were required to return the purchase price to the plaintiff.-Grossman v. Beck, 19 Misc. 2d 898, 191 N.Y.S. 2d 770 [1959].

¶ 7. The two year conclusive presumption of regularity of tax foreclosure proceedings prevented challenge of the legality of the city's tax title by plaintiff who became the assignee in November 1979 of a mortgage previously assigned to the FDIC in October 1974 where the city recorded a foreclosure deed for the subject premises in January, 1977 without serving notice of foreclosure upon FDIC as the result of an in rem tax foreclosure proceeding begun in October 1975, the mortgage lien of the FDIC having been conclusively foreclosed in January, 1979.-Tobias v. College Towne Homes, Inc., 110 Misc. 2d 287 [1981].

¶ 8. Presumption that all proceedings relevant to a city tax foreclosure deed were regular after two years have passed from the date of the recording of the deed cannot be defeated by the property owner absent a showing that the deed was void when made.-In Rem Tax Foreclosure Action No. 29 Borough of Manhattan, 115 Misc. 2d 663 [1982].

¶ 9. A suit to avoid a tax deed may be instituted by an order to show cause to vacate a default judgment and a plenary action is not the exclusive method available for setting aside a tax deed that has been delivered and recorded.-RPL Realty v. Com'r. of Finance, 117 Misc. 2d 321 [1982].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. In an action to recover damages for wrongful foreclosure of a tax lien defendant was shown to be vested with title where plaintiff failed to submit written opposition to the motion and the court relied on oral argument. There was no duty owed plaintiff by defendant.-Neiman v. City of New York, 133 AD2d 743 [1987].

¶ 2. City must properly notify owners of in rem foreclosure actions and lack of due process notice to readily ascertainable owners, the city cannot rely on the two-year "finality" provision of § 11-412(c) to bar plaintiffs from action to recover property.-Campbell v. City of NY, 145 Misc. 2d 248 [1989].

¶ 3. Any action to set aside a deed conveying title to the city must be commenced within two years of the date of recording the deed. § 11-412 creates presumption that tax foreclosure actions were regular and this presumption is conclusive after two years.-Lily Pond v. City of New York, 149 AD2d 412 [1989].

¶ 4. Presumption in § 11-412(c) that the prior proceedings in foreclosure action, including the notices issued, were in accordance with the law, becomes conclusive two years from the date the deed was recorded and therefore operates as a two-year statute of limitations, provided the party has actual notice of the action within this period.-Hatorah v. NYC, 175 AD2d 795 [1991].

¶ 5. Actions to set aside New York City's deed to an in rem foreclosed property must be taken within 2 years as per § 11-412(c). Appellants only "action" during that time was to apply to Board of Estimate for release of City's interest. This was not a true "action" and proves appellant knew of the foreclosure proceeding. Application to vacate foreclosure denied as untimely.-Matter of Foreclosure Action No. 39, 186 AD2d 624 [1992].

¶ 6. Affidavit of mailing and mailing list which appear in record, viewed in context of presumption of regularity with attaches, §11-412(c), amply demonstrate that he was properly and timely served-appellant's remaining contentions are barred by conclusive presumption of regularity, §11-412(c).-Matter of Tax Foreclosure Action No. 34 (Lagna-City of New York), 191 AD2d 679 [1993].

¶ 7. In an in rem tax foreclosure proceeding, all proceedings taken, including all notices required by law, are presumed to be regular and in accordance with the law. This presumption becomes conclusive two years after the recording of the deed by the City and thereby operates as a two year statute of limitations provided the party has actual notice of the foreclosure within the two year period. Where petitioner files an application for the discretionary release of the property before the expiration of the statute of limitations, this constitutes an acknowledgment that petitioner had actual notice of the in rem tax foreclosure action. Therefore, because he did not commence an action to set aside the tax deed within the two year period, he was barred from complaining about any constitutional defect in the tax foreclosure action. Robinson v. City of New York, 638 N.Y.S.2d 157 (App.Div. 2nd Dept. 1996).

¶ 8. A mortgagee who learned of a tax foreclosure deed while there was still time left on the two year statute of limitations pursued an application for with the Board of Estimate. By the time the application was denied, the two year period had expired. The court held that the mortgagee was now precluded from maintaining an action to set aside the foreclosure deed. Thus, an owner who intends to challenge the constitutionality of the City's in rem foreclosure notice procedures need not exhaust administrative remedies but must bring the challenge within the two year period. In effect, the mortgagee should have concurrently pursued the release application and the constitutional challenge within the two year period. ISCA Enterprises v. City of New York, 77 N.Y.2d 688, 569 N.Y.S.2d 927 (1991).

¶ 9. The court refused to apply the doctrine of estoppel against the City, where a city clerk mistakenly accepted a payment check from the owner (and later returned the check upon discovery of the error). Although the owner contended that the clerk's action led it to believe that the property would not be sold, the court found that had the owner acted with reasonable diligence, it would have discovered the true state of affairs. Lily Pond Enterprises, Inc. v. City of New York, 149 A.D.2d 412, 539 N.Y.S.2d 505 (2nd Dept. 1989).

¶ 10. A statement by an owner that "there is no evidence in this case that [owner] had actual notice in time to bring an action" is too equivocal to raise a genuine issue of fact as to notice. Sons of Israel of the Bronx v. City of New York, 292 A.D.2d 222, 739 N.Y.S.2d 54 (1st Dept. 2002).

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-412.1 Special procedures relating to final judgment and release of class one and class two real property.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary:

a. The court shall determine upon proof and shall make a finding upon such proof whether there has been due compliance by the city with the applicable provisions of this chapter.

b. (1) The court shall make a final judgment authorizing the award of possession of any parcel of class one or class two real property described in the list of delinquent taxes not redeemed or withdrawn as provided in this chapter and as to which no answer is interposed as provided herein, and authorizing the commissioner of finance to prepare, execute and cause to be recorded a deed conveying either to the city or to a third party deemed qualified and designated by the commissioner of housing preservation and development full and complete title to such lands. Any such conveyance to a third party shall be for an existing use.

(2) Such third party shall be deemed qualified and shall be designated pursuant to such criteria as are established in rules promulgated by the commissioner of housing preservation and development, provided, however, that such criteria shall include but not be limited to: residential management experience; financial ability; rehabilitation experience; ability to work with government and community organizations; neighborhood ties; and that the commissioner shall consider whether the third party is a responsible legal tenant, not-for-profit organization or neighborhood-based-for-profit individual or organization. The commissioner shall not deem qualified any third party who has been finally adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction, within seven years of the date on which such third party would otherwise be deemed qualified, to have violated any section of articles one hundred fifty, one hundred seventy-five, one hundred seventy-six, one hundred eighty, one hundred eighty-five or two hundred of the penal law or any similar laws of another jurisdiction, or who has been suspended or debarred from contracting with the city or any agency of the city pursuant to section 335 of the charter during the period of such suspension or debarment. The rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to this paragraph may establish other bases for disqualification of a third party.

c. Following the expiration of the four-month period prescribed in subdivision d of this section, but not more than eight months after the date on which, pursuant to subdivision b of this section, the final judgment authorizing the award of possession of a parcel of class one or class two real property was entered, the commissioner of finance may execute a deed, pursuant to subdivision b of this section, with respect to such parcel. The owner of said parcel shall continue to have all of the rights, liabilities, responsibilities, duties and obligations of an owner of such parcel, including, but not limited to, maintaining such parcel in compliance with the housing maintenance, building and fire codes, and all other applicable laws, unless and until the commissioner of finance has prepared and executed a deed conveying to the city or to a third party full and complete title to such parcel. Upon the execution of such deed, the city or the third party shall be seized of an estate in fee simple absolute in such land and all persons, including the state of New York, infants, incompetents, absentees and non-residents who may have had any right, title, interest, claim, lien or equity of redemption in or upon such lands shall be barred and forever foreclosed of all such right, title, interest, claim, lien or equity of redemption, except as otherwise provided in subdivisions e and f of this section. The appointment and tenure of receivers, trustees or any other persons, including administrators under article seven-A of the real property actions and proceedings law, appointed by an order of a court to manage real property, shall terminate when title to such property vests in the city or a third party pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. After such termination, said receivers, trustees or administrators shall be accountable to the courts that appointed them for the faithful performance of their fiduciary obligations during the term of their appointment and to the city or such third party for any rents and income received by them for any period subsequent to the date of the vesting of title in the city or such third party.

If the city serves a tenant in possession of a dwelling unit with notice of termination of tenancy on grounds other than nonpayment of rent, the acceptance of rent for the first forty-five days after termination of tenancy by anyone other than an employee of the department designated by the department to receive such rent shall not be deemed or construed as a waiver of the city's right to initiate and prosecute a proceeding to terminate the tenancy for good cause.

d. Within four months after the date on which, pursuant to subdivision b of this section, the final judgment authorizing the award of possession of a parcel of class one or class two real property was entered, any person claiming to have an interest in such parcel shall have the right to make a payment to the commissioner of finance consisting of all taxes, assessments and other legal charges owing on said parcel, the lawful interest thereon to the date of payment and a penalty of five percent of said payment of taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest, which penalty may not exceed one thousand dollars. Such payment shall be made in cash or by certified or bank check. Within such four-month period, such interested person may also request an installment agreement from the commissioner of finance. Such agreement shall require, in addition to full payment of the penalty specified in this subdivision at the time such agreement is entered into, the payment at such time of a first installment equal to fifty percent of all taxes, assessments and other legal charges, and the lawful interest thereon, then owing on such parcel, and the payment of the balance of such taxes, assessments and other legal charges and interest in four equal quarterly installments together with all current taxes, assessments and other legal charges that accrue during such period. Upon receipt of payment in full of the amount specified in the first sentence of this subdivision, the commissioner of finance shall direct the corporation counsel to prepare and cause to be entered an order discontinuing the in rem tax foreclosure action as to said property, canceling the notice of pendency of such action as to said property and vacating and setting aside the final judgment. Upon the execution of an installment agreement and payment of the amounts due at the time such agreement is executed as provided in this subdivision, the commissioner of finance shall direct the corporation counsel to prepare and cause to be entered an order vacating and setting aside the final judgment. The entry of either such order shall restore all parties, including owners, mortgagees and any and all lienors, receivers and administrators and encumbrancers, to the status they held immediately before such final judgment was entered. Where the commissioner of finance approves an application requesting an installment agreement pursuant to this subdivision, the order vacating and setting aside the final judgment shall provide that in the event of any default as to the payment of either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges during the term of such agreement, all payments under said agreement shall be forfeited and the corporation counsel, immediately upon notification by the commissioner of finance of such default, shall cause to be entered as to such property a supplemental judgment of foreclosure in the in rem action which authorizes the commissioner of finance to prepare, execute and cause to be recorded a deed conveying either to the city or to a third party full and complete title to such lands. Upon the entry of such supplemental judgment, the provisions of subdivisions c through i of this section shall apply in the same manner as such subdivisions would have applied had no payment been made nor installment agreement executed during the four-month period specified in this subdivision.

e. 1. If the commissioner of finance has prepared, executed and caused to be recorded a deed conveying to the city full and complete title to a parcel of class one or class two real property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure, the city's interest in such parcel may be released pursuant to this subdivision on the application of any party who has an interest in said parcel as either owner, mortgagee, lienor, or encumbrancer at the time of the city's acquisition thereof where such application is made at any time up to sixteen months from the date on which the deed by which the city acquired title to said parcel was recorded.

2. Any such application shall be made in writing to the commissioner of general services and shall be verified. It shall contain the information required pursuant to paragraph one of subdivision b of section 11-424 of this chapter, the documents required by subdivision c of such section, and shall be accompanied by the fees required by paragraphs three and six of subdivision b of such section. The fee required by paragraph three of subdivision b of section 11-424 of this chapter shall not be refundable.

3. The city's interest in any such parcel shall be released only after payment of the sums of money specified in subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter.

4. The provisions contained in subdivision g of section 11-424 of this chapter shall govern such an application, except as follows:

(a) where such provisions are inconsistent with the provisions contained in this subdivision, the provisions contained in this subdivision shall govern such application; and

(b) where the in rem foreclosure release board denies a written request for an installment agreement that was filed in connection with an application for release of the city's interest in a parcel of class one or class two real property and such application was filed within thirty days of the date of the city's acquisition of the property sought to be released, the board may, in its discretion, authorize a release of the city's interest, provided that the applicant thereafter pays all the amounts required to be paid pursuant to subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter within thirty days of the date on which a letter requesting such payment is mailed or delivered to such applicant.

5. Upon receipt of all the amounts required to be paid pursuant to this subdivision, the commissioner of finance shall direct the corporation counsel to prepare and cause to be entered an order discontinuing the in rem tax foreclosure action as to said property, canceling the notice of pendency of such action as to said property and vacating and setting aside the final judgment entered pursuant to subdivision b of this section and the deed executed and recorded pursuant to such final judgment as to said property. The entry of such order shall restore all parties, including owners, mortgagees and any and all lienors, receivers and administrators and encumbrancers, to the status they held immediately before the final judgment was entered, as if the in rem tax foreclosure had never taken place, and shall render said property liable for all taxes, deficiencies, management fees and liens which shall accrue subsequent to those paid in order to obtain the release provided for in this subdivision, or which were, for whatever reason, omitted from the payment made to obtain said release.

f. If the commissioner of finance has prepared, executed and caused to be recorded a deed conveying to the city full and complete title to a parcel of class one or class two real property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure and such parcel is entitled to an exemption under any of the provisions of article four of the real property tax law during all or part of the period covered by the tax items appearing on a list of delinquent taxes, the owner of such parcel may apply for a release of the city's interest in such exempt property under the provisions of subdivision e of this section during the period of time set forth in paragraph one of such subdivision and for an additional period up to ten years from the date on which the deed by which the city acquired title to said property was recorded. The application of such owner shall be accompanied by the nonrefundable fee required by paragraph four of subdivision b of section 11-424 of this chapter and shall contain, in addition to the statements, searches and proofs required by subdivision e of this section, a statement that an exemption under the real property tax law is being claimed. Such application shall also state either that it is accompanied by the written certificate of the comptroller setting forth the precise period during which said property, while owned by such application, and during the period after the city's acquisition up to the date of the certificate if said property was still being used for an exempt purpose after said acquisition, was entitled to an exemption and the exact nature and extent of such exemption or that an application for such written certificate has been filed with the comptroller. On issuing such written certificate, the comptroller shall cancel those tax items which have accrued during the period covered by the certificate to the extent the applicant is entitled to an exemption as set forth in the certificate. A release of the city's interest may be authorized only at the discretion of the in rem foreclosure release board and, except as otherwise provided in paragraph four of subdivision e of this section, subject to all the restrictions set forth in subdivision g of section 11-424 of this chapter. A release to an exempt applicant shall be effected only after said applicant has paid all of the amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter, except for those tax items which have been canceled, in whole or in part, pursuant to the comptroller's certificate, within thirty days of the date on which the letter requesting payment is mailed or delivered to the applicant.

g. If the commissioner of finance has prepared, executed and caused to be recorded a deed conveying to the city or to a third party full and complete title to a parcel of class one or class two real property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure, the provisions contained in subdivisions f and i of section 11-424 of this chapter for the release of property so acquired shall not be available. If the commissioner of finance has prepared, executed and caused to be recorded a deed conveying to a third party full and complete title to a parcel of class one or class two real property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure, the provisions contained in subdivisions e and f of this section for the release of property so acquired shall not be available.

h. Every deed given pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be presumptive evidence that the action and all proceedings therein and all proceedings prior thereto from and including the assessment of the lands affected and all notices required by law were regular and in accordance with all provisions of law relating thereto. After four months from the date of entry of the final judgment authorizing the award of possession of any parcel of class one or class two real property pursuant to the provisions of this section, the presumption shall be conclusive. No action to set aside such deed may be maintained unless the action is commenced and a notice of pendency of the action is filed in the office of the property county clerk prior to the time that the presumption becomes conclusive as aforesaid. Should any lawsuit or proceeding be commenced to set aside a deed conveying to a third party a parcel of class one or class two real property pursuant to the provisions of this section, such third party shall send to the corporation counsel within ten days of their receipt a copy of any papers served on such third party in such lawsuit or proceeding.

i. If the commissioner of finance does not execute a deed conveying to the city or to a third party a parcel of class one or class two real property within eight months after the entry of final judgment authorizing the award of possession of such parcel pursuant to subdivision b of this section, the commissioner of finance shall direct the corporation counsel to prepare and cause to be entered an order discontinuing the in rem foreclosure action as to said property, canceling the notice of pendency of such action as to said property and vacating and setting aside said final judgment. The entry of such order shall restore all parties, including owners, mortgagees and any and all lienors, receivers and administrators and encumbrancers, to the status they held immediately before such final judgment was entered.

j. If the commissioner of finance directs the corporation counsel, pursuant to subdivision i of this section, to prepare and cause to be entered an order discontinuing the in rem foreclosure action with respect to a parcel of class one or class two real property determined to be distressed pursuant to section 11-401.1 of this chapter, the commissioner of housing preservation and development shall evaluate the parcel determined to be distressed and take such action as he or she deems appropriate under the programs, existing at the time of such evaluation, that are designed to encourage the rehabilitation and preservation of existing housing, and shall monitor or cause to be monitored the status of the property. The commissioner of housing preservation and development shall maintain a register of properties determined to be distressed.

§ 11-412.2 Council review of conveyance to a third party.

The commissioner of finance shall, prior to the execution of a deed conveying full and complete title of any parcel of class one or class two real property to a third party pursuant to subdivision c of section 11-412.1 of this chapter, notify the council of the proposed conveyance. Within forty-five days of such notification, the council may act by local law disapproving the proposed conveyance. In the event the council does not act by local law within such forty-five day period, the council shall be deemed to have approved the proposed conveyance. During such forty-five day period or, if the city council acts by local law pursuant to this section, during the period of time from the notification of the council to the presentation to the mayor of such local law and during any additional period of time prescribed in section 37 of the charter, the eight-month period provided in subdivisions c and i of section 11-412.1 of this chapter shall be tolled.

a. The commissioner of finance may, prior to final judgment, withdraw a parcel from a proceeding under this chapter for any of the following reasons, (1) a question which the commissioner deems meritorious has been raised as to the validity of the tax liens affecting the parcel, (2) the city collector has accepted a payment of all taxes and interest which rendered the parcel subject to foreclosure hereunder because the records in the commissioner's office indicated that the principal amount of such taxes was exceeded by the principal amount of subsequent taxes which would not have rendered the parcel subject to foreclosure hereunder and which had been paid prior to the commencement of said proceeding or (3) in cases where the tax foreclosure action cannot be maintained such as, but not limited thereto, where the charges which rendered a parcel subject to foreclosure hereunder have been cancelled or were paid before the commencement of the foreclosure proceeding but such payment was not reported or did not clear for payment until after the commencement of said proceeding, or where a name and address appearing on an owner's registration card or an in rem card filed pursuant to section 11-416 or 11-417 of this chapter and contained in the files of the city collector did not appear in the mailing list used by the commissioner of finance for mailing notices of foreclosure in such proceeding.

b. To effectuate such withdrawal the commissioner of finance shall deliver a certificate of withdrawal to the corporation counsel who shall file it in the office of the county clerk in which the list of delinquent taxes was filed. The filing of such certificate with such county clerk shall effect a discontinuance of the tax foreclosure action as to the affected parcel, and the county clerk shall thereupon note such withdrawal and discontinuance in the copy of the list of delinquent taxes maintained by him or her adjacent to the county clerk's block index of notices of pendency of action and shall cancel and discharge any and all notations of the filing of said list of delinquent taxes as to said parcel that may appear in any other books, records, indices and dockets maintained in said clerk's office.

c. The commissioner of finance shall also deliver a duplicate original certificate of withdrawal to the person entitled to such withdrawal.

d. The commissioner of finance shall recite the parcels so withdrawn and the reasons for withdrawal in an affidavit of regularity to be submitted by the commissioner in each action brought pursuant to this chapter.

e. The commissioner of finance shall issue a certificate of withdrawal whenever taxes and interest are paid, cancelled, liquidated or otherwise lawfully disposed of as to any parcel which was previously severed pursuant to section 11-409 of this chapter because an answer or litigation was pending.

¶ 1. Court denied petitioner's application to vacate its default in failing to appear and answer to an in rem tax foreclosure proceeding instituted by the city where right to requested relief was not based on any impropriety in the proceeding or existence of a defense to the tax foreclosure but on fact that petitioner was ignorant of the proceeding and misunderstood certain statements made by the finance administrator and remedy sought by petitioner was not to enforce a right to an equity of redemption but to compel respondent to negotiate an agreement for the installment payment of delinquent taxes which relief is not within the province of the court since only the director of finance may withdraw a parcel from a proceeding at any time prior to final judgment.-In re Madison Street Associates, Inc., 167 (70) N.Y.L.J. § 11-416 Owner's registration cards; mailing tax bills and notices to registered owners or their designees.

a. The commissioner of finance shall maintain a file of owner's registration cards submitted by owners of real property. Each such owner's registration card shall be signed by the owner or a duly authorized representative and shall state the date on which it was filed, the owner's full name and post office address and a description of the premises by reference to the section, block, and lot numbers on the tax map.

b. The commissioner of finance shall mail bills for taxes, charges and assessments to all owners who have filed owner's registration cards as herein provided, but the failure of the commissioner of finance so to mail such bill shall not invalidate or otherwise affect the tax, charge or assessment represented thereby nor prevent the accruing of any interest or penalty imposed for the non-payment thereof, nor prevent or stay proceedings under this chapter, nor effect the title of the plaintiff or any purchaser under such pro- ceedings.

c. The commissioner of finance shall also mail notice of foreclosure and any other process required by this chapter to all owners who have filed owner's registration cards whenever the parcels as to which such cards were filed are included in a list of delinquent taxes filed pursuant to this chapter. The failure to receive such notice or process as herein provided shall not affect the validity of any action or proceeding brought pursuant to this chapter.

d. An owner who files an owner's registration card may also designate thereon the full name and post office address of a mortgagee, lienor or other person to receive bills and notices. Where such designation is made, the commissioner of finance shall not mail any bills and notices to the owner but shall mail all bills and notices to the owner's designee.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Notice provisions in the Administrative Code as applied to owners of property satisfy minimum requirements of due process. Part of the notice provisions are §§ 11-416 and 11-417 providing owner registration card or "in-rem" card filed with finance commissioner. In this case the owner did not file for this card and his challenge on due process grounds is without merit.-Hatorah v. NYC, 175 AD2d 795 [1991].

¶ 2. Where the Commissioner of Finance maintained the file of owner's registration cards, a party (who acquired her interest in a mortgage foreclosure sale) who never filed an owner registration card with the Department of Finance could not set aside a foreclosure on the ground of lack of notice. Moreover, the filing of the lists of property delinquent in taxes with the County Clerk Queens County served as a notice of pendency. Thus, where the list of delinquent properties was on file at the time of plaintiff's acquisition of the subject property, plaintiff had constructive notice of the tax foreclosure proceeding. CASE NOTES

¶ 1. In one case, the court had to decide whether a parcel of land held by the City was subject to claims of adverse possession. The City acquired the property in foreclosure in 1957. Although Admin. Code §11-420 created a presumption that the land was held for public use, that presumption expired in 1960 after a three-year period. Since the City continued to hold the property until 2000, without designating it for public use, municipal ownership did not bar a claimant from establishing its right to title based on proof that it adversely possessed the subject lot for at least ten years. Eller Media Co. v. Bruckner Outdoor Signs, Inc., 299 A.D.2d 166, 753 N.Y.S.2d 28 (1st Dept. 2002).

§ 11-421 Certificate of sale as evidence.

The transfer of tax lien or any other written instrument representing a tax lien shall be presumptive evidence in all courts in all proceedings under this chapter by and against the purchaser and his or her representatives, heirs and assigns, of the truth of the statements therein, of the title of the purchaser to the property therein described, and of the regularity and validity of all proceedings had in reference to the taxes, assessments or other legal charges for the nonpayment of which the tax lien was sold and the sale thereof. After two years from the issuance of such certificate or other written instrument, no evidence shall be admissible in any court in a proceeding under this chapter to rebut such presumption unless the holder thereof shall have procured such transfer of tax lien or such other written instrument by fraud or had previous knowledge that it was fraudulently made or procured.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-424 Application to the city for release of property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure.

a. (1) The city's interest in property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure may be released pursuant to this section on the application of any party who had an interest in said property as either owner, mortgagee, lienor or encumbrancer at the time of the city's acquisition thereof where such application is made at any time up to two years from the date on which the deed by which the city acquired title to said property was recorded.

(2) Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of paragraph one of this subdivision to the contrary, the city's interest in property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure may be released pursuant to this section upon application of any party who had an interest in said property as either owner, mortgagee, lienor or encumbrancer at the time of the city's acquisition thereof where such application is made more than two years after the date on which the deed by which the city acquired title to said property was recorded provided such application is authorized by the council as hereinafter provided. An application for such release and the documents required by subdivision c in support thereof shall be filed with the department of citywide administrative services in the manner provided in subdivision b of this section. The department of citywide administrative services shall give the council written notice of the receipt of each such filing. After review and approval of the application by the corporation counsel as to form and eligibility of the applicant, the department of citywide administrative services shall send a copy of such application to the in rem foreclosure release board and to the council. Upon receipt of such application, the in rem foreclosure release board shall take no further action on such application unless the council adopts a resolution within one hundred twenty days following the first stated meeting of the council after receipt of such application authorizing the board to consider such application. If the council fails to adopt a resolution within such one-hundred-twenty-day period, the council shall be deemed to have denied its authorization for the board to consider such application. A resolution of the council pursuant to this paragraph shall describe the property for which release is sought by borough, tax map, block and lot number and shall specify that release of the city's interest in such property is subject to the approval of the in rem foreclosure release board and to all the conditions and restrictions set forth in this section.

b. 1. Any such application shall be made in writing to the commissioner of citywide administrative services and shall be verified. It shall contain the name and address of the applicant and shall state the date on which and the in rem action by which the city acquired title to the property sought to be released. It shall also contain a statement specifying the nature of the applicant's interest in the property and a full description of the instrument from which the applicant's interest derives including the date of execution, the date and place of the recording or entry of said instrument and the parties thereto. In the event the applicant's interest arises by reason of the death of a prior owner, mortgagee, lienor or encumbrancer, then the application shall also state the applicant's relationship to said decedent and shall include whatever additional information may be necessary to prove the applicant's right to make such application.

2. A fee of two hundred seventy-five dollars shall be paid on the submission of any such application which is subject to the provisions of subdivision f of this section, except that the fee for any such application for the release of property improved by a one or two-family dwelling shall be one hundred dollars.

3. A fee of five hundred fifty dollars shall be paid on the submission of any such application which is subject to the provisions of subdivision g of this section, except that the fee for any such application for the release of property improved by a one or two-family dwelling shall be one hundred dollars.

4. A fee of two hundred seventy-five dollars shall be paid on the submission of any such application which is subject to the provisions of subdivision h of this section within four months from the date on which the deed by which the city acquired title to the subject property was recorded, and a fee of five hundred and fifty dollars shall be paid on the submission of any such application which is subject to the provisions of such subdivision not within four months from such date; except that the fee for any such application which is subject to the provisions of such subdivision for the release of property improved by a one or two-family dwelling shall be one hundred dollars.

5. The fees payable pursuant to paragraphs two, three and four of this subdivision shall not be refundable.

6. In addition to the fees specified in paragraphs two, three and four of this subdivision, there shall be paid on the submission of any application which is subject to this section an amount at least equal to the lesser of nine hundred dollars or the sum specified in paragraph one of subdivision d of this section, which amount shall not be refundable, but shall be applied in reduction of the sum specified in paragraph one of subdivision d of this section; provided, however, that if a release requires the authorization of the in rem foreclosure release board, and such authorization is not given, such additional amount shall be refunded to the applicant.

c. Each application shall be supported by the certified search of the city register or by an official letter, certificate or certified search of any title insurance or abstract company, organized and doing business under the laws of this state. Such supporting instruments shall recite the recording data both as to the deed by which the city acquired title to the parcel sought to be released and the instrument from which the applicant's interest derives. In the event the applicant's interest does not appear of record but is derived by the death of an owner, mortgagee, lienor or encumbrancer of record, then the application shall also be supported by the affidavit of the applicant or other person having information thereof, or by the duly written certificate or certification of the county clerk or the clerk of any surrogate's or other court of record, or by any other instrument or document required by the corporation counsel to substantiate the applicant's right to file such application in compliance with the provisions of this section.

d. The city's interest shall be released only after payment, as to each parcel to be released, of the following sums of money:

1. The principal amount due on all unpaid taxes, assessments, water charges and sewer rents appearing on the list of delinquent taxes and accruing thereafter together with interest at the rate or rates provided by law.

2. Five percent of the amount paid pursuant to the preceding paragraph but not exceeding one thousand dollars for each parcel.

3. Any deficiency which may result to the city after all payments made by it for the repair, maintenance, and operation of the lands, real estate or real property shall have been charged or debited in the appropriate accounts of the city and all rents, license fees and other moneys collected by the city as a result of its operation of the said lands, real estate or real property shall have been credited in such accounts. Any contract for repair, maintenance, management or operation made by the city on which it shall be liable, although payment thereon shall not have been made, shall be deemed a charge or debit to such accounts as though payment had been made. The amounts paid and collected by the city as shown in its accounts and the necessity for making the several payments and contracts to be charged as herein provided shall be conclusive upon the applicant. Where a deficiency under this subdivision shall be created or increased by the failure of the city to collect rents, license fees or other moneys to which the city may have been entitled, the right to collect or to bring action for the same shall be assigned, transferred and set over to the applicant by an instrument in writing.

4. Any and all costs and disbursements which shall have been awarded to the city or to which it may have become entitled by operation of law or which it may have paid or become liable for payment in connection with any litigation between it and the applicant or any person having an estate or interest in the lands, real estate or real property to be released resulting directly or indirectly from the foreclosure by action in rem of the delinquent taxes affecting said lands, real estate or real property.

5. A reasonable monthly fee to be determined by the city, through the department of citywide administrative services, for management services and operations of the lands, real estate or real property by the city prior to the release of said lands, real estate or property.

6. The city, through the department of citywide administrative services, shall also require as additional consideration for such release, the payment of all arrears on mortgages held by the city and all liens accruing to it by operation of law including but not limited to relocation and emergency repair liens.

e. The corporation counsel shall effect the release of the city's interest in property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure, as provided for in this section, by preparing and causing to be entered an order discontinuing the in rem tax forclosure action as to said property, cancelling the notice of pendency of such action as to said property and vacating and setting aside the in rem judgment of foreclosure and the deed executed and recorded pursuant to such judgment of foreclosure as to said property. The entry of such order shall restore all parties, including owners, mortgagees and any and all lienors, receivers and administrators and encumbrancers, to the status they held at the time the city acquired title to said property, as if the in rem tax foreclosure had never taken place, and shall render said property liable for all taxes, deficiencies, management fees and liens which shall accrue subsequent to those paid in order to obtain the release provided for in this section, or which were, for whatever reason, omitted from the payment made to obtain said release.

f. If an application pursuant to this section, and the documents required by subdivision c of this section in support thereof, are filed within four months after the date of the city's acquisition of the subject property, said application shall be granted providing the corporation counsel approves the application as to form, timeliness and eligibility of the applicant and providing the applicant has paid all amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of this section within thirty days of the date on which a letter requesting applicant to make such payment is mailed or delivered to the applicant. The city shall not sell or assign any property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure within four months of said acquisition but this provision shall not prevent the city from authorizing condemnation of such property or vesting title thereto in a condemnation proceeding during said four month period. In the event an application pursuant to this section is filed within four months of the city's acquisition by in rem tax foreclosure and title to the subject property vests in condemnation before the city's interest therein has been released by the vacate order provided for herein, the applicant shall be entitled to the condemnation award for such property without the entry of such vacate order, providing the corporation counsel has approved the application as aforesaid and providing that the amounts specified in subdivision d of this section, if not previously paid, are deducted from said condemnation award, with taxes apportioned to the date of the condemnation title vesting.

g. If an application for a release of the city's interest in property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure, and the documents required by subdivision c of this section in support thereof, have been filed within the time allowed in paragraph one of subdivision a of this section, but more than four months after the date of the city's acquisition or if an application for such release has been authorized by a resolution of the council pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision a of this section and such application and the documents required by subdivision c of this section in support thereof have been filed, the in rem foreclosure release board may, in its discretion, authorize the release of the city's interest in said property pursuant to this section, provided that the application has been approved by the corporation counsel as to form, timeliness and eligibility of the applicant and provided that the city has not sold or otherwise disposed of said property and provided, further, that said property has not been condemned or assigned to any agency of the city and is not the subject of contemplated use for any capital or urban renewal project of the city. The corporation counsel shall effect such discretionary release only where the applicant, after the board's authorization of the release, has paid all the amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of this section within thirty days of the date on which a letter requesting the applicant to make such payment is mailed or delivered to the applicant. The in rem foreclosure release board may also, in its discretion, authorize a release of the city's interest in such property, pursuant to the above provisions, whenever an application for such release, approved as to form, timeliness and eligibility by the corporation counsel, has been filed at any time during the period allowed in subdivision a of this section in which the applicant has requested an installment agreement of the commissioner of citywide administrative services for the payment of the amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of this section, provided that said commissioner has approved such request. The commissioner of citywide administrative services shall not approve any such request unless the applicant shall have given notice by certified mail to each tenant located on the parcel, of the request and shall have given such commissioner an affidavit stating that such notice has been provided, within thirty days after the request. Any false statement in such affidavit shall not in any way affect the validity of the agreement, be grounds for its cancellation or in any way affect the release of the city's interest in the parcel. Such agreement shall require, in addition to full payment of the amounts due under paragraphs two, three, four, five and six of subdivision d of this section, a first installment of fifty percent of the amount due under paragraph one of said subdivision d with the balance of said amount to be paid in four equal quarterly installments together with all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges that accrue during such period; provided, however, that: (i) whenever a request for an installment agreement is made of the commissioner of citywide administrative services by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development or for a parcel which is an owner-occupied residential building of not more than five residential units, the commissioner of citywide administrative services may, as to that portion of the amounts due under paragraph one of subdivision d of this section which became due prior to the acquisition by the article XI company of its interest in the property and as to the amount due under paragraph one of subdivision d of this section in the case of such an owner-occupied building, approve a reduction of such first installment to an amount not less than ten percent of the amount due under paragraph one of subdivision d of this section and an increase in the number of the following equal quarterly installments to a number which shall be equal to three times the number of unpaid quarters of real estate taxes or the equivalent thereof but which shall in no event exceed forty-eight, and (ii) notwithstanding the preceding clause, whenever an installment agreement is requested on or after the date on which this clause takes effect with respect to a parcel that, immediately prior to the city's acquisition thereof by in rem tax foreclosure, was owned by a company organized pursuant to article XI of the state private housing finance law with the consent and approval of the department of housing preservation and development, or with respect to a parcel that is a residential building containing not more than five residential units, a residential condominium unit or a residential building held in a cooperative form of ownership, the commissioner of general services may, as to the amount due under paragraph one of subdivision d of this section, approve an installment agreement containing the terms relating to the required percentage payment for the first installment and the required number of subsequent quarterly installments, that would be applicable to such parcel under paragraph two (but without regard to any reference therein to paragraph three) of subdivision i of section 11-409 of this chapter. For purposes of calculating the number of such following equal quarterly installments, unpaid real estate taxes or the equivalent which are, on and after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, due and payable on an other than quarterly basis, shall be deemed to be payable on a quarterly basis. Where the in rem foreclosure release board denies an application requesting an installment agreement, the board shall authorize a release of the city's interest, provided that the applicant thereafter pays all the amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of this section within thirty days of the date on which a letter requesting such payment is mailed or delivered to the applicant only when said application and the documents required by subdivision c of this section in support thereof were filed within thirty days of the date of the city's acquisition of the property sought to be released. Where the in rem foreclosure release board denies an application requesting an installment agreement which was filed more than thirty days after the date of the city's acquisition, the board may, in its discretion, authorize a release of the city's interest, provided that the applicant thereafter pays all the amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of this section within thirty days of the date on which a letter requesting such payment is mailed or delivered to the applicant. Where the in rem foreclosure release board approves an application requesting an installment agreement, the order releasing the city's interest shall provide that in the event of any default as to the payment of either quarterly installments or current taxes, assessments or other legal charges during the term of such agreement, as set forth in the board's resolution, all payments made under said agreement shall be forfeited and the city shall be entitled to reacquire the property so released. The corporation counsel shall effect such reacquisition by causing to be entered as to such property a supplemental judgment of foreclosure in the in rem action by which said property was originally acquired immediately on notification by the commissioner of finance of such default.

h. An owner of property entitled to an exemption under any of the provisions of article four of the real property tax law during all or part of the period covered by the tax items appearing on a list of delinquent taxes may apply for a release of the city's interest in such exempt property under the provisions of this section during the periods of time set forth herein and for an additional period up to ten years form the date of the city's acquisition of said property by in rem foreclosure. The application of such owner shall contain, in addition to the statements, searches and proofs required by this section, a statement that an exemption under the real property tax law is being claimed. Such application shall also state either that it is accompanied by the written certificate of the comptroller setting forth the precise period during which said property, while owned by such applicant, and during the period after the city's acquisition up to the date of the certificate if said property was still being used for an exempt purpose after said acquisition, was entitled to an exemption and the exact nature and extent of such exemption or that an application for such written certificate has been filed with the comptroller. On issuing such written certificate, the comptroller shall cancel those tax items which have accrued during the period covered by the certificate to the extent the applicant is entitled to an exemption as set forth in the certificate. Where an application by an exempt owner is filed more than four months after the date of the city's acquisition of the subject property, a release of the city's interest may be issued only at the discretion of the in rem foreclosure release board and subject to all the restrictions set forth in the preceding subdivision. A release to an exempt applicant shall be effected only after said applicant has paid all the amounts required to be paid by subdivision d of this section, except for those tax items which have been cancelled, in whole or in part, pursuant to the comptroller's certificate, within thirty days of the date on which a letter requesting payment is mailed or delivered to the applicant.

i. The corporation counsel shall also effect the release of the city's interest in property acquired by in rem foreclosure, as provided for in this action, whenever the commissioner of finance shall accept as to any parcel so acquired, the payment provided for in paragraph two of subdivision a of section 11-413 of this chapter. Said commissioner may accept such payment at any time within four months of the date of the city's acquisition and may further, subject to the approval of the in rem foreclosure release board, accept such payment at any time more than four months after the date of the city's acquisition but less than two years from the date on which the city's deed was recorded providing said property has not been sold or otherwise disposed of nor condemned or assigned to any agency of the city and is not the subject of contemplated use of any capital or urban renewal project of the city.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. City was directed to accept new application for reconveyance of property acquired by City as timely even though filed after four months where original petition was mailed by petitioner to the Department of Real Estate within four months after the date of acquisition by the City but petitioner was informed by this Department several months later that the petition could not be located.-Matter of Agar v. Bd. of Estimate, 52 Misc. 2d 285, 276 N.Y.S. 2d 334 [1966].

¶ 2. This section does not give City of New York which had a possible lien for building repairs made by its Commissioner of Real Estate as receiver pursuant to Multiple Dwelling Law § 309 in removing a nuisance priority over third mortgagee of subject premises for if so construed it would be unconstitutional.-Chmielewski v. City of N.Y., 29 App. Div. 2d 862, 288 N.Y.S. 2d 396 [1968].

¶ 3. Former owner has a paramount right under this section to reacquire title from City after it has vested therein subject to reinstatement of any liens which may have been placed by or against him affecting the land. Moreover, after the owner fails to exercise his right the lienors have the opportunity to reacquire the title which was vested in the owner.-Astoria Bldg. Corp. v. Old Dutch Lands, Inc., 27 A.D. 2d 905, 280 N.Y.S. 2d 899 [1966], aff'd 20 N.Y. 2d 905, 233 N.E. 2d 122, 286 N.Y.S. 2d 27 [1967].

¶ 4. Section was upheld as constitutional in Old Dutch Lands v. City of N.Y., 55 Misc. 2d 384, 286 N.Y.S. 2d 86 (1967), modified on other grounds, 32 A.D. 2d 649, 301 N.Y.S. 2d 437 [1970]; although court stated that statute should be amended so as to eliminate discrimination in favor of former "lienors" as against former owners of property.

¶ 5. In proceeding to compel Board of Estimate to release its interest in property formerly owned by petitioner which was foreclosed by city on its tax lien, and which was opposed by Board on ground that part of the premises was rented to a saloon and it presence was inimical to the pupils of a public school contiguous to the property, court held that Board had discretion to deny owner of property the right of redemption only if the city had a use for the property and hence had improperly denied petition. In reversing the Court of Appeals held that statutory power of Board of Estimate to grant a release or reconveyance of property acquired by City through in rem foreclosure of a tax lien which is not to be exercised where property has been assigned to any agency of the city does not mean that whenever assignment to a city agency has not been made an application for redemption must be granted. It means that the Board has a discretion only when there has been no assignment and objection by community representatives to the use being made of premises could properly be considered by Board of Estimate in exercising its discretion not to grant a release or reconveyance of property acquired by city through in rem foreclosure of a tax lien.-Matter of Dwyer v. Lindsay, 23 N.Y. 2d 562, 245 N.E. 2d 708, 297 N.Y.S. 2d 942 [1969] reversing, 29 App. Div. 2d 363, 288 N.Y.S. 2d 116 [1968].

¶ 6. Procedure for in rem foreclosure of tax liens in Admin. Code is constitutional and where the city had complied with this procedure the owner of property would not be relieved of his default by permitting him to pay taxes into court some nine months later where the statutory procedure provides for an application to the Board of Estimate within four months after title vests in the City.-In re Foreclosure of Tax Liens (Kahave), 163 (18) N.Y.L.J. (1-27-70) S 13, Col. 6 M.

¶ 7. Method of redemption by discretionary action of Board of Estimate after time to apply to Commissioner of Real Estate has expired is not exclusive and relief compelling a nunc pro tunc consideration of a misplaced or lost application would be granted by the court.-In the Matter of Foreclosure of Tax Liens by the City of N.Y., Borough of Manhattan, 102 Misc. 2d 801 [1979].

¶ 8. Where plaintiff was the owner of a number of delinquent parcels and failed to pay some $227,000 in tax arrears for about nine years the Board of Estimate, which has absolute discretion to grant or deny a release of the city's interest in a parcel of real property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure pursuant to this section, did not arbitrarily or capriciously refuse the release.-Solomon v. City of N.Y. Dept. of General Services, 94 App. Div. 2d 283 [1983].

¶ 9. Charitable and educational organization which qualified for partial tax exemption, owning realty foreclosed upon in rem by city for failure to pay tax bills which did not reflect partial tax exempt status due to organ.'s failure to register prop. with city as partially tax exempt, was entitled to cancellation of tax items accrued to extent of exemption originally granted. City's refusal to cancel same was arbitrary and capricious.-U.O.T.S., Inc. v. Goldin, 120 Misc. 2d 345 [1983].

¶ 10. Board of Estimate, in deciding whether to grant application for redemption of real prop. acquired by N.Y.C.

through in rem foreclosure of tax lien (subd. g) need not make specific findings nor explain the reasons for its decision since the relief sought is discretionary. However, review of bd.'s action is permitted where it exercises it in an illegal or unconstitutional matter, which is not the case here.-Anthony Benigno v. N.Y.C., 123 Misc. 2d 375 [1983].

¶ 11. Placing burden on property owner to recoup "excess value" after an in rem foreclosure for nonpayment of taxes is constitutional.-Matter of In Rem Tax Foreclosure Action No. 37, 189 (72) N.Y.L.J. (4-14-83) 14, Col. 5 M.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The Board of Estimate has "absolute discretion to grant or deny release" and "is not required to give any reasons for its actions".-Cecil Wilson v. City of New York, 135 AD2d 441 [1987].

¶ 2. Delinquent taxpayer may not commence a proceeding challenging the accuracy of the city's figures or demanding production of the city's records regarding the "deficiency" charges without paying such charges first.-Meadows v. Real Prop. Div. Commissioner, 139 AD2d 46 [1988].

¶ 3. Dissolved corporation is ineligible to apply for release of its formerly owned property which city has acquired.-Matter of Lewis v. Schwartz, 119 AD2d 116 [1988].

¶ 4. Statute of limitations began to run on the date of the city's letter (July 27, 1984) proposing to release its interest in property upon the plaintiffs payment of penalties and deficiency charges. Plaintiffs did not challenge the accuracy of the figures, which allows a 4-month statute of limitations, but that the city wrongfully refused their timely tender of cash previously (January 14, 1983). Statute of limitations applicable to the instant action is 2 years from recording tax foreclosure deed, § 11-412(c). The instant action was commenced within that period and city's motion for summary judgement denied.-Rosa v. City of NY, 142 AD2d 564 [1988].

¶ 5. Where a corporation owned real property and subsequently was dissolved by reason of failure to pay franchise taxes, the corporation still may apply for release of the property under this section. Matter of 172 East 122 Street Tenants Association v. Schwarz, 73 N.Y.2d 340, 540 N.Y.S.2d 420 (1989).

¶ 6. A court appointed referee in a mortgage foreclosure action does not qualify as an "owner" under this section and cannot apply for release of the City's interest in the property. Hartsfield v. City of New York, Division of Real Property, 146 A.D.2d 141, 539 N.Y.S.2d 896 (1st Dept. 1989).

¶ 7. Petitioner applied to the Board of Estimate for release of properties, acquired by the City of New York pursuant to a judgment entered in an in rem tax foreclosure action, pursuant to the Admin. Code of the City of New York § 11-424. The city's motion to dismiss on the ground that it was barred by the statute of limitations was proper because under Admin. Code § 11-412(c) upon execution of the deeds to the city, the prior proceedings in the foreclosure action including the notices issued, were presumptively regular and in accordance with the law. Thus, since there was adequate notice provided the presumption of regularity became conclusive two years from the date the deeds were recorded.-ISCA Enters v. City of New York, 160 AD2d 698.

¶ 8. Pursuant to Admin. Code § 11-424, 502 West 135th Street Corporation (corporation) filed in application with the Department of General Services' Division of Real Property (DRP) seeking release of the City's interest in the subject property which had been previously acquired in an in rem proceeding. Although this court was required to reverse respondent corporation counsel's approval of corporation's release application and void the transfer of the building to tenant's association, who had made vast improvements to the property, it calls for legislation to relieve this type of inequity and injustice.-502 W. 135th Street Tenants Assoc. v. Zimroth, 160 AD2d 453.

¶ 9. Where the taxpayer failed to avail itself of the four month mandatory release period, delayed its request for relief until the 20 month discretionary release period had nearly expired and failed to appear at a hearing, the City reasonably exercised its discretion in denying the application for release. Matter of 195 South 4th Street Realty Corp. v.

¶ 10. Discretionary denials of applications for release of properties made pursuant to Admin. Code § 11-424 (g) will be overturned by courts only upon showing of fraud or illegality.-Alleyne v. Board of Estimate, 176 AD2d 607 [1991].

¶ 11. Application for discretionary release denied pursuant to § 11-424(g) after petitioner failed to pay required assessment pursuant to mandatory application granted under § 11-424(f). Petitioner's application for an installment agreement was more than 30 days after respondent acquired title giving city absolute discretion under § 11-424(g) to grant or deny the release. Finally, actual notice of pendency of the foreclosure proceeding suffices to meet the requirements of due process.-Upper East Side v. City of NY, 186 AD2d 383 [1992].

¶ 12. Once four months have passed since the acquisition of the property by the City and the petitioner failed to pay the outstanding taxes due within 30 days of the date of a letter requesting her to do so, the release of the property become discretionary rather than mandatory. That discretion will not be disturbed absent a showing of fraud or illegality. Matter of Grant v. In Rem Release Board, 640 N.Y.S.2d 227 (App.Div. 2d Dept. 1996).

¶ 13. The City was authorized, under § 11-424(e), to create a lien on the subject premises for all taxes, deficiencies, management fees which accrued subsequent to those paid by the owner for the procurement of a release of the City's interest in the property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure, or which were, for whatever reason, omitted from the payment made to obtain the release. Alexis v. City of New York, 211 A.D.2d 738, 622 N.Y.S.2d 106 (2nd Dept. 1995).

¶ 14. The City took over the property under a tax deed where the owner failed to pay for sidewalk repairs which the City had made. However, the court set aside the tax deed as unconscionable, where the property owner was never notified when the City foreclosed and took over the property, where the City continued to bill the owner for real estate, water and sewer taxes, which the owner continued to pay, and where the property owner did not learn of the foreclosure until the four month redemption period specified in the statute had expired. In Re Application of 317 West 145th Street Corp. v. City of New York Department of Finance, 630 N.Y.S.2d 316, 218 A.D.2d 508, leave to appeal granted, 87 N.Y.2d 809, 642 N.Y.S.2d 195 (App.Div. 1st Dept. 1995).

¶ 15. After a judgment of foreclosure was entered and the deed transferring title to the City was recorded, the application of petitioners to release the City's property interest was approved upon the condition that they pay the arrears and charges within 30 days of billing. Where they failed to make the required payments within the deadline, petitioners could not be heard to complain of any procedural defects in the underlying foreclosure action. In Rem Tax Foreclosure Action No. 34, Borough of the Bronx, 189 A.D.2d 681, 592 N.Y.S.2d 374 (1st Dept. 1993).

¶ 16. The only permissible method for reviewing the City's denial of an application for release of the City's interest in property acquired through in rem foreclosure, is an Article 78 proceeding. Seagate Sisterhood v. Department of Housing Preservation and Development of the City of New York, 184 A.D.2d 503, 584 N.Y.S.2d 602 (2nd Dept. 1992).

¶ 17. The four month redemption period began when the City sent the owner notice of the in rem foreclosure, not the later time at which petitioner allegedly received actual notice. Moreover, absent a showing that fraud or illegality was involved, the court will not interfere with the City's exercise of discretion as to whether to allow the redemption of property (acquired by in rem tax foreclosure) after the four month mandatory release period as expired. Swift v. Board of Estimate of the City of New York, 178 A.D.2d 534, 577 N.Y.S.2d 636 (2nd Dept. 1991); see also Matter of the Application of Upper East Side Community Development Corp., 183 A.D.2d 383, 588 N.Y.S.2d 176 (1st Dept. 1992).

¶ 18. Once the four month mandatory release period has expired, the City has discretion as to whether to release the property upon tender of taxes due. Thus, even in a sympathetic case where the owner was 80 years old when she purchased the property and had delegated the management of the property to tenants, who had neglected to pay the taxes, the court did not have the power to compel the City to redeem the property. Izquierdo v. Board of Estimate, 141 A.D.2d 337, 529 N.Y.S.2d 91 (1st Dept. 1988).

¶ 19. Where an applicant has applied for a discretionary release of property (application made beyond the four month period for redeeming property as of right) and the application has been rejected by the City, the court will not grant the applicant discovery of the policies of the Division of Real Property, absent an initial showing of fraud or illegality. Levine v. Board of Estimate, 143 A.D.2d 598, 533 N.Y.S.2d 280 (1st Dept. 1988).

¶ 20. Where tax delinquencies were frequent, chronic and substantial, the City reasonably exercised discretion in refusing to return the property to the petitioner. Vanech v. City of New York, N.Y.L.J., Nov. 15, 2000, page 26, col. 2 (Sup.Ct. New York Co.).

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-424.1 In rem foreclosure release board.

There shall be an in rem foreclosure release board consisting of the mayor, the speaker of the city council, the affected borough president, the corporation counsel and the commissioner of finance. For the purposes of this section, the affected borough president shall be the president of the borough in which a property proposed for release pursuant to this section is located. Members of the board may, by written authority filed with the board and with the city clerk, appoint delegates to act on their behalf as members of the board. The board shall have the power, acting by resolution, to authorize the release of the city's interest in property acquired by in rem tax foreclosure in accordance with sections 11-412.1 and 11-424 of the code based upon a determination, in its discretion, that such release would be in the best interests of the city. The board shall act after a meeting at which the public has been provided an opportunity to comment on the proposed action. A resolution of the board authorizing a release of the city's interest in any property shall be adopted only upon the affirmative vote of not less than a majority of all the members of the board. The board may consider any information it deems relevant to a determination. The board shall not be required to state the reasons for its determination.

1. Provisions of L.L. 16/1991:

§ 5. The in rem foreclosure release board established in section 1 of this act shall succeed to the powers of the board of estimate of the City of New York relating to the discretionary release of property acquired by the city by in rem tax foreclosure and shall exercise such powers in continuation of their exercise by such board of estimate. The in rem foreclosure release board shall determine any applications or other matters relating to such powers which were timely filed under the provisions of section 11-424 of the administrative code of the City of New York in effect prior to the effective date of this local law and which were pending on such effective date.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-425 Agreements for payment of delinquent taxes and charges in installments.

a. During the period beginning on May ninth, nineteen hundred seventy-seven and ending on June thirtieth, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, the commissioner of finance or, when so specified hereinafter, the commissioner of general services, shall be authorized and empowered to make and execute agreements in the circumstances and subject to the terms, conditions and limitations set forth in the following subdivisions of this section; provided, however, that if the commissioner of finance or, where applicable, the commissioner of general services determines in his or her sole discretion that good cause exists, he or she may make and execute such agreements during an additional period ending not later than July thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven.

b. (1) Whenever it shall appear that a tax lien on a parcel has been due and unpaid for a period of at least six months from the date on which the tax, assessment or other legal charge represented thereby became a lien, the commissioner of finance may enter into an agreement with the owner of such parcel or other person claiming to have an interest therein providing for the payment of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and interest and penalties in installments, the first of which shall be equal to at least fifteen percent of such arrears and shall be payable upon the execution of such agreement. Each remaining installment shall be equal to at least an amount produced by dividing the balance of such arrears by a factor determined by multiplying the number of quarters of such arrears by two hundred per cent. In no event, however, shall the factor referred to in the preceding sentence be in excess of thirty-two. Each such remaining installment shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April.

(2) If an agreement authorized by the preceding paragraph is executed prior to the time the commissioner of finance files in the office of the appropriate county clerk a list of delinquent taxes covering the borough or portion of the borough in which the subject parcel is located, such parcel shall be excluded from such list of delinquent taxes, provided, at the time such list is filed, there is no default in the agreement and all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges have been paid as they became due or within the period of grace provided by law. In the event of any default in the agreement or any failure to make timely payment of any current item, the parcel shall, if then delinquent for the applicable period specified in section 11-404 of this chapter, be eligible for inclusion in any list of delinquent taxes thereafter filed.

(3) If an in rem foreclosure action has been commenced against any parcel prior to May ninth, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, the commissioner of finance may, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph three of subdivision a of section 11-413 of this chapter, enter into an agreement authorized and described in the foregoing provisions of this section with respect to such parcel. However, if such an agreement is entered into subsequent to the last date for redemption specified in subdivision a of section 11-407 of this chapter, there shall be paid to the commissioner of finance at the time said agreement is executed an amount equal to the penalty which would have been payable under subdivision c of section 11-407 of this chapter had the person executing the agreement made a late redemption payment. Such amount shall be in addition to any installment payments required to be made under the agreement and shall not be credited against any such installment payments. Any parcel which is the subject of an agreement made pursuant to this paragraph may, prior to final judgment, be withdrawn from the action, provided there has been no default in the agreement, and provided further that all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges are paid when they become due or within the period of grace provided by law. Such withdrawal shall be effected by the commissioner of finance in the manner provided in section 11-413 of this chapter.

(4) Any person who, prior to May ninth, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, has made, executed and filed with the commissioner of finance an agreement pursuant to the provisions of paragraph three of subdivision a of section 11-413 of this chapter, shall be permitted to make application to the commissioner of finance for the purpose of having such agreement cancelled and a new agreement executed as hereinabove provided.

If an agreement executed prior to May ninth, nineteen hundred seventy-seven is not cancelled as herein provided, any installments due and payable under such agreement on or after July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven shall be subject to interest at the rate specified in paragraph five of this subdivision, but only if, as of July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, there is no default in the agreement and all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges have been paid within the time allowed by law. Such rate of interest shall be calculated in the manner and shall be subject to all the conditions provided in said paragraph five.

(5) When an agreement has been entered into pursuant to any of the preceding paragraphs of this subdivision, the commissioner of finance shall, notwithstanding the rates of interest prescribed in section 11-224, 11-312 or 11-313 of this title, charge, collect and receive interest on the arrears due and payable under such agreement, to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment of each installment. Any interest accrued or accruing prior to July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven shall not be affected by the provisions of this paragraph, but shall be charged, collected and received in the manner and at the rates specified in section 11-224, 11-312 or 11-313 of this title. The seven percent rate of interest specified in this paragraph shall be applicable only if (i) there is no default in the agreement entered into as provided in this section, and (ii) all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges are paid as they become due or within the period of grace provided by law. In the event of any default or failure to make timely payment of any current item, the seven percent rate of interest specified in this paragraph shall thereupon cease to be applicable and the commissioner of finance shall thereafter charge, collect and receive interest in the manner and at the rates otherwise specified in this title.

(6) In addition to the terms and conditions required by the preceding paragraphs of this subdivision to be included in agreements authorized by this section, the commissioner of finance may in his or her discretion include in such agreements such additional terms and conditions, not inconsistent with this section, as he or she determines to be necessary in order to properly carry out the provisions of this section. The commissioner may also adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

c. (1) If, pursuant to the provisions of section 11-424 of this chapter, an application for the release of property acquired by the city through in rem tax foreclosure is made within the four-month period specified in subdivision f of section 11-424 of this chapter, and provided such application is made during the period specified in subdivision a of this section, the following paragraphs of this subdivision shall, at the election of the applicant, apply with respect to such application and the release sought thereby.

(2) At the time of filing the application for release, an applicant who elects to have the provisions of this subdivision apply to him or her, shall pay to the city the amounts specified in paragraphs two, three and four of subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter, for this purpose, the amount specified in paragraph two thereof shall be deemed to be the amount which would have been required to be paid thereunder had this section not been in effect. Concurrent with the making of such payment, the applicant shall enter into an agreement with the commissioner of general services providing for the payment of all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges on the property as they become due or within the grace period provided by law, and, in addition, providing for the payment of the amount specified in paragraph one of subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter in installments, the first of which shall be equal to at least twenty-five percent of such amount and shall be payable upon the execution of such agreement. The balance of such amount shall be payable in twelve equal quarterly installments, each of which shall be paid quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April.

(3) Pending approval by the corporation counsel of an application for release as to form, timeliness and eligibility of the applicant, all payments made pursuant to the preceding paragraph shall be held in escrow; in the event the corporation counsel disapproves the application, such payments shall be returned to the applicant, and the agreement executed by the applicant shall thereupon be cancelled.

(4) In the case of any agreement made and executed pursuant to paragraph two hereof, interest on any installment due and payable thereunder shall, notwithstanding the rates of interest prescribed in section 11-224, 11-312 or 11-313 of this title, be charged, collected and received at the rate of seven percent per annum from July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven to the date of payment of each installment. Any interest accrued or accruing prior to July first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven shall not be affected by the provisions of this paragraph, but shall be charged, collected and received in the manner and at the rates specified in section 11-224, 11-312 or 11-313 of this title. The seven percent rate of interest specified in this paragraph shall be applicable only if (i) there is no default in the agreement entered into as provided in this subdivision, and (ii) all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges are paid as they become due or within the period of grace provided by law.

(5) No release for which application has been made pursuant to this subdivision shall be granted until the final payment under the agreement herein provided is received by the city. Upon receipt of such final payment by the city the corporation counsel shall effect the release in the manner provided in section 11-424 of this chapter. In the event of any default in an agreement executed as provided in this subdivision or any failure to pay current taxes, assessments or other legal charges as they become due or within the grace period provided by law, such agreement shall thereupon become void, the release process shall be terminated, and all payments theretofore made shall be forfeited to the city.

(6) In addition to the terms and conditions required by the preceding paragraphs of this subdivision to be included in agreements authorized thereby, the commissioner of general services may in his or her discretion include in such agreements such additional terms and conditions, not inconsistent with this subdivision, as the commissioner determines to be necessary in order to properly carry out the provisions hereof. The commissioner of general services may also adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this subdivision.

CHAPTER 4 TAX LIEN FORECLOSURE BY ACTION IN REM

§ 11-426 Agreements for payment of delinquent taxes and charges in installments.

a. During the period beginning on December second, nineteen hundred seventy-seven and ending on March thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight, the commissioner of finance, or, when so specified hereinafter, the commissioner of general services, shall be authorized and empowered to make and execute agreements in the circumstances and subject to the terms, conditions and limitations set forth in the following subdivisions of this section.

b. (1) Whenever it shall appear that a tax lien on a parcel has been due and unpaid for a period of at least six months from the date on which the tax, assessment or other legal charge represented thereby became a lien, the commissioner of finance may enter into an agreement with the owner of such parcel or other person claiming to have an interest therein providing for the payment of such delinquent taxes, assessments or other legal charges and interest and penalties in installments, the first of which shall be equal to at least fifteen percent of such arrears and shall be payable upon the execution of such agreement. Each remaining installment shall be equal to at least an amount produced by dividing the balance of such arrears by a factor determined by multiplying the number of quarters of such arrears by two hundred percent. In no event, however, shall the factor referred to in the preceding sentence be in excess of thirty-two. Each such remaining installment shall be payable quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April.

(2) If an agreement authorized by the preceding paragraph is executed prior to the time the commissioner of finance files in the office of the appropriate county clerk a list of delinquent taxes covering the borough or portion of the borough in which the subject parcel is located, such parcel shall be excluded from such list of delinquent taxes, provided, at the time such list is filed, there is no default in the agreement and all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges have been paid as they became due or within the period of grace provided by law. In the event of any default in the agreement or any failure to make timely payment of any current item, the parcel shall, if then delinquent for the applicable period specified in section 11-404 of this chapter, be eligible for inclusion in any list of delinquent taxes thereafter filed.

(3) If an in rem foreclosure action has been commenced against any parcel prior to December second, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, the commissioner of finance may, notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph three of subdivision a of section 11-413 of this chapter, enter into an agreement authorized and described in the foregoing provisions of this section with respect to such parcel. However, if such an agreement is entered into subsequent to the last date for redemption specified in subdivision a of section 11-407 of this chapter, there shall be paid to the commissioner of finance at the time said agreement is executed an amount equal to the penalty which would have been payable under subdivision c of section 11-407 of this chapter had the person executing the agreement made a late redemption payment. Such amount shall be in addition to any installment payments required to be made under the agreement and shall not be credited against any such installment payments. Any parcel which is the subject of an agreement made pursuant to this paragraph may, prior to final judgment, be withdrawn from the action, provided there has been no default in the agreement, and provided further that all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges are paid when they become due or within the period of grace provided by law. Such withdrawal shall be effected by the commissioner of finance in the manner provided in section 11-413 of this chapter.

(4) Any person who, prior to December second, nineteen hundred seventy-seven, has made, executed and filed with the commissioner of finance an agreement pursuant to the provisions of paragraph three of subdivision a of section 11-413 of this chapter, shall be permitted to make application to the commissioner of finance for the purpose of having such agreement cancelled and a new agreement executed as hereinabove provided.

If an agreement executed prior to December second, nineteen hundred seventy-seven is not cancelled as herein provided, any installments due and payable under such agreement on or after April first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight shall be subject to interest at the rate specified in paragraph five of this subdivision, but only if, as of April first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight, there is no default in the agreement and all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges have been paid within the time allowed by law. Such rate of interest shall be calculated in the manner and shall be subject to all the conditions provided in said paragraph five.

(5) When an agreement has been entered into pursuant to any of the preceding paragraphs of this subdivision, the commissioner of finance shall, notwithstanding the rates of interest prescribed in section 11-224, 11-312 or 11-313 of this title, charge, collect and receive interest on the arrears due and payable under such agreement to be calculated at the rate of seven percent per annum from April first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight to the date of payment of each installment. Any interest accrued or accruing prior to April first, nineteen hundred seventy-eight shall not be affected by the provisions of this paragraph, but shall be charged, collected and received in the manner and at the rates specified in section 11-224, 11-312 or 11-313 of this title. The seven percent rate of interest specified in this paragraph shall be applicable only if (i) there is no default in the agreement entered into as provided in this section, and (ii) all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges are paid as they become due or within the period of grace provided by law. In the event of any default or failure to make timely payment of any current item, the seven percent rate of interest specified in this paragraph shall thereupon cease to be applicable and the commissioner of finance shall thereafter charge, collect and receive interest in the manner and at the rates otherwise specified in this title.

(6) In addition to the terms and conditions required by the preceding paragraphs of this subdivision to be included in agreements authorized by this section, the commissioner of finance may, in his or her discretion, include in such agreements such additional terms and conditions, not inconsistent with this section, as such commissioner determines to be necessary in order to properly carry out the provisions of this section. The commissioner of finance may also adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

c. (1) If, pursuant to the provisions of section 11-424 of this chapter, an application for the release of property acquired by the city through in rem tax foreclosure is made within the four-month period specified in subdivision f of section 11-424 of this chapter, and provided such application is made during the period specified in subdivision a of this section, the following paragraphs of this subdivision shall, at the election of the applicant, apply with respect to such application and the release sought thereby.

(2) At the time of filing the application for release, an applicant who elects to have the provisions of this subdivision apply to him or her, shall pay to the city the amounts specified in paragraphs two, three and four of subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter, for this purpose, the amount specified in paragraph two thereof shall be deemed to be the amount which would have been required to be paid thereunder had this section not been in effect. Concurrent with the making of such payment, the applicant shall enter into an agreement with the commissioner of general services providing for the payment of all current taxes, assessments or other legal charges on the property as they become due or within the grace period provided by law, and, in addition, providing for the payment of the amount specified in paragraph one of subdivision d of section 11-424 of this chapter in installments, the first of which shall be equal to at least twenty-five percent of such amount and shall be payable upon the execution of such agreement. The balance of such amount shall be payable in twelve equal quarterly installments, each of which shall be paid quarterly on the first days of July, October, January and April.

(3) Pending approval by the corporation counsel of an application for release as to form, timeliness and eligibility of the applicant, all payments made pursuant to the preceding paragraph shall be held in escrow; in the event the corporation counsel disapproves the application, such payments shall be returned to the applicant, and the agreement executed by him or her shall thereupon be cancelled.
