A. INTRODUCTION

NextEra Energy Transmission New York, Inc. (NEETNY) has filed a Part A Application for a Certificate of Environmental Compatibility and Public Need pursuant to Article VII of the Public Service Law to construct a 345kV, single circuit transmission line extending approximately 178 miles from the Edic Substation (Town of Marcy, Oneida County) to the Pleasant Valley Substation (Town of Pleasant Valley, Dutchess County) (hereafter referred to as the “Thruway Route” or the “Project”).

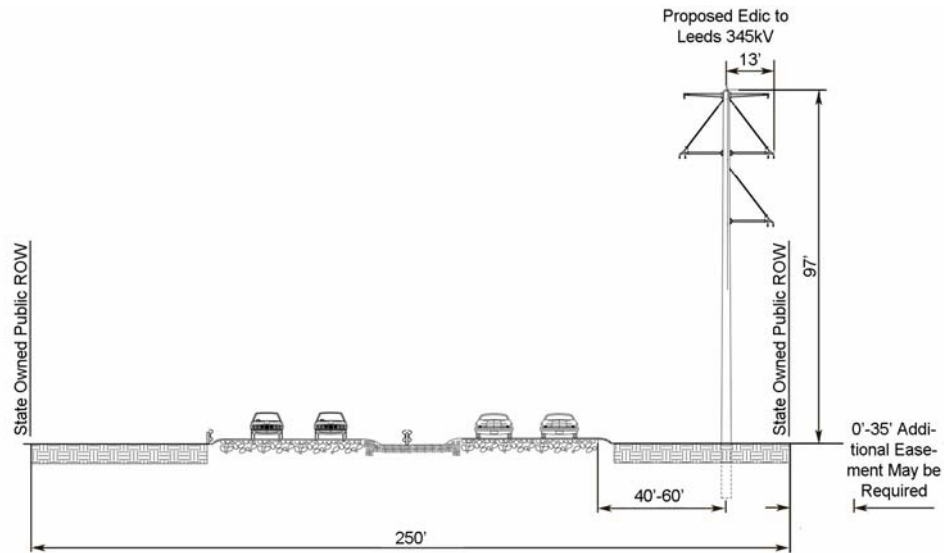

The following report provides additional information concerning potential impact of the Project on visual resources. Consistent with the State of New York Public Service Commission Order Establishing Modified Procedures for Comparative Evaluation, issued on and effective December 16, 2014 (referred to as the “December 2014 Order”), this summary report includes:

- > Quantitative Impact Analysis
 - Viewshed mapping within three (3) miles of the Project centerline (“Study Area”). The Study Area is extended to five (5) miles wide where the project centerline is within five (5) miles of a New York State Department of State Scenic Area of Statewide Significance (“designated SASS”).
 - Inventory of visual resources within the Study Area.
- > Analysis of potential impacts
 - Analysis of impacted visual resources.
 - Assess the degree of project visibility.
 - Assess the probable extent of visual contrast change from existing conditions.
 - Assessment of visual contrast based on photo simulations depicting facility appearance from representative receptor locations.
- > Description of mitigation measures appropriate to minimize adverse visual impacts.

1. Project Description

The Project proposes to construct a 178-mile long 345kV overhead transmission line within the existing right-of-way (ROW) of the New York State Thruway (Interstates 90 and 87). The Thruway Route will begin at the Edic Substation, (Town of Marcy, Oneida County), traveling approximately 2.6 miles south to the NYS Thruway (I-90) ROW where the transmission line will be located within the Thruway ROW for approximately 125 miles. In the Town of Athens (Greene County), the line will turn east approximately 1.1 miles to the Leeds Substation. From the Leeds Substation, the transmission line will travel approximately 1.1 miles west and reenter the Thruway ROW. The transmission line will continue south along the Thruway for approximately 38.2 miles. In the Town of New Paltz (Ulster County), the transmission line will turn east from the Thruway ROW approximately 7.2 miles to the Hudson River, where it will cross the River using horizontal directional drilling (HDD). On the east side of the Hudson River, the transmission line will travel approximately 6.1 miles to the Pleasant Valley Substation (Town of Pleasant Valley, Dutchess County).

The Project includes 97-foot tall gray colored concrete monopole structures with braced polymer post insulators that will run parallel to the Thruway approximately 40-60 feet from the edge of pavement. The proposed transmission line will parallel either the north/east or south/west side of the Thruway depending on local ROW conditions. In order to achieve proper placement of the transmission line it may be necessary to widen the ROW up to 35 feet in certain locations. Illustrations of typical ROW configurations for different Project segments are provided in the Marcy/Edic to Pleasant Valley Project, Article VII Part A Supplemental Application, Exhibit 5.

At both ends of the route and at the Leeds Substation, the proposed transmission line will terminate at dead end structures adjacent to existing substations. Detailed design of interconnections will be determined during the New York Independent System Operator, Inc. (NYISO) review process.

Vegetative clearing will be necessary in areas where woodland vegetation presently encroaches the road edge. The clearing will be mowed or maintained as a shrub habitat or other low-growing vegetation types consistent with other portions of the existing Thruway ROW.

B. VISUAL RESOURCE ANALYSIS

1. Quantitative Impact Analysis (degree of project Visibility)

a) Viewshed Analysis

A series of preliminary vegetated viewshed maps were prepared identifying the geographic area within which the proposed transmission towers would be theoretically visible. The viewshed was calculated using the high point of each of the 2,161 proposed transmission structures with an assumed height of 97 feet throughout. The viewshed area under study was specified to extend three (3) miles on either side of the proposed Project centerline and extend to five (5) miles wide where the project is within five (5) miles of a designated SASS. Viewshed analysis includes the screening value of both intervening landform and vegetation.

ArcGIS 9.3 and ArcGIS Spatial Analyst software were used to generate viewshed areas based on publicly available digital topographic and land cover datasets. Topographic data was derived from a 30-meter resolution digital elevation model (DEM) acquired from the United States Geological Survey National Elevation Dataset (NED). Forest cover data was extracted from the 30-meter resolution National Land Cover Data Set 2001 (NLCD) Percent Tree Canopy dataset. The screening effect of vegetation was incorporated by adding 40 feet (12.2 meters) of height to DEM grid cells that are forested (>50 percent canopy closure).

It is important to note that the NLCD dataset is based on interpretation of forest areas that are clearly distinguishable using multi-spectral satellite imagery. As such, the potential screening value of site-specific vegetative cover such as small hedgerows, street trees and individual trees and other areas of non-forest tree cover may not be represented in the viewshed analysis. Furthermore, the NLCD dataset does not include the screening value of existing structures. This is a particularly important distinction in the populated areas where existing structures are likely to provide significant screening of distant views. With these conditions, the viewshed map conservatively overestimates potential Project visibility in areas where the Project may be substantially screened from view.

To account for areas of existing and expanded vegetative clearing within the existing transmission corridor, forest cover data was clipped to the edge of the cleared corridor based on air photo interpretation. A minimum, mostly existing cleared offset of 150 feet was assumed for the side of the roadway where the transmission line is proposed. A conservative offset of two (2) meters was applied to the calculation to account for the observer's eye level. The computer then scanned the forest adjusted DEM to identify grid cells with a direct line-of-sight to one or more of the proposed towers.

Affected grid cells are coded based on the number of proposed structures visible. Cumulative visibility is summarized using the following groupings¹:

¹ Cumulative visibility is limited to a distance of five (5) miles from the subject tower. Beyond this distance it is assumed that natural conditions of atmospheric and linear perspective will significantly mitigate most visual impacts.

- > 1-3 structure visible;
- > 4-6 structures visible;
- > 7-9 structures visible;
- > 10-12 structures visible;
- > 13-15 structures visible;
- > 16-18 structures visible; and
- > 19 or more structures visible.

Viewshed maps are provided in Appendix A.

Table 1 summarizes the degree of theoretical project visibility, as illustrated on the viewshed maps, within the Study Area.

Table 1 – Degree of Project Visibility Based on Viewshed Analysis

Number of Structures Visible	Affected Acreage	Percent of Study Area
None	624,220	70.6%
1 - 3	30,851	3.5%
4 - 6	21,495	2.4%
7 - 9	17,704	2.0%
10 - 12	15,535	1.8%
13 - 15	13,626	1.5%
16 - 18	12,626	1.4%
19 or more	148,886	16.8%
Total	884,946	100.0%

Viewshed analysis indicates that one or more of the proposed Thruway Route structures will be visible from approximately 29.4 percent of the Study Area. Approximately 70.6 percent of the Study Area will likely have no visibility of any proposed structures due to intervening landform or vegetation. Structure visibility is most common within the Thruway ROW and from agricultural areas where cleared lands provide long vistas in the direction proposed Project. It should be noted that due to the scale of the viewshed maps (contained in Appendix A) and graphic representation of the centerline, visibility in the cleared transmission ROW might be obscured.

b) Aesthetic Resource Analysis

A preliminary inventory of visually sensitive places was completed based on guidelines established in the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation Program Policy on Visual Impact Assessment and Mitigation Visual Policy (DEP-00-2). Aesthetic resources of statewide significance are derived from the following categories:

- > National/State Register Site or District
- > State Parks and State Historic Sites
- > National/State Register Eligible Site
- > Heritage Areas (formerly Urban Cultural Parks)
- > State Forest Preserve
- > National Wildlife Refuges
- > State Game Refuges
- > State Wildlife Management Areas
- > National Natural Landmarks
- > National Park Resources (Recreation Areas, Seashores, and Forests)
- > National or State Wild, Scenic, or Recreational Rivers
- > Designated Scenic site, area, lake, reservoir or highway
- > Scenic Areas of Statewide Significance
- > State or federally designated trails
- > Adirondack Park Scenic Vistas
- > State Nature and Historic Preserve Areas
- > Palisades Park
- > Bond Act Properties purchased under Exceptional Beauty or Open Space

Most aesthetic resources of statewide significance were identified through existing public data sources. Resources considered eligible for listing on the National or State Register of Historic Places (Register Eligible)² were inventoried by cultural resource consultant TRC Companies, Inc. (TRC). The location of Register Eligible sites were determined by geo-coding the data by street address. Of 502 Register Eligible data points identified by TRC as being located within the Study Area, 226 were dropped from further analysis at this time because of missing or incomplete address information. Upon selection of a project by the Commission, NEETNY will consult with the New York State Office of Parks and Recreation (OPRHP) to verify the location of all Register Eligible sites within the Study Area.

Table 2 lists 747 aesthetic resources of statewide significance located within the Study Area. The location of identified aesthetic resources is referenced by numeric code within on the viewshed maps provided in Appendix A.

Each inventoried visual resource was plotted on the viewshed maps to determine whether or not a visual impact might exist. Based on viewshed analysis alone, of the 747 inventoried resources, the proposed Project may be visible from 337.

Table 2 further identifies visual resources that are potentially affected based on viewshed analysis. The viewshed analysis conservatively overestimates Project visibility within populated areas, to correct this, all visual resources located in urbanized areas more than one (1) mile from the nearest Project structure are classified in Table 2 as “View Unlikely”. Applying this criterion, of the 747 inventoried resources, the proposed Project may be visible from 337 resources.

The proposed Thruway Route will result in a new transmission corridor. With the exception of existing ROW’s crossing the interstate highway, no existing transmission structures currently exist within the Thruway ROW.

² Eligible resources were identified using the New York State Parks Cultural Resource Information System (CRIS).

Maximum Number of Structures Visible:

Urbanized Area: Receptor located in urbanized area and is more than one (1) mile from the nearest project structure. Project views are considered unlikely.

Note: The maximum number of structures visible is based on viewshed analysis alone. The presence of localized vegetation and extended distance may result in fewer structures visible. Field analysis is necessary to confirm actual view potential.

Visibility Class:

Not Visible: Screened by intervening landform or vegetation.

View Unlikely: Receptor located in urbanized area more than one mile from nearest proposed structure.

Class "A": No change in extent of visibility. New structures at same height as existing, or shorter than existing.

Class "B": Minor change in visibility. Structures height increase by 10 feet or less.

Class "C": Structure height increase by more than 10 feet.

As requested by the December 2014 Order, Table 3 summarizes the total number of identified visual resources and the number of affected visual resources by category.

2. Qualitative Impact (Analysis of Visual Contrast)

Photo simulations have been prepared from two (2) representative locations along the proposed Thruway Route corridor. These simulations are provided to compare the typical visual character of the proposed Project with the existing landscape. Photo Simulations are provided in Appendix B.

Field Photography – An experienced visual analyst visited multiple locations along the proposed Thruway Plan route and photographed roadside scenes likely to have an unobstructed view of the proposed Project. Photographs were taken using a single lens reflex (“DSLR”) camera with a lens setting of approximately 50mm (film equivalent) to simulate normal human eyesight relative to scale. The precise coordinates of each photo location were recorded in the field using a handheld global positioning system (GPS) unit.

³ Of 502 Register Eligible data points identified as being located within the Study Area, 226 were dropped from further analysis because of missing or incomplete address information.

⁴ Four receptors were removed from Table 2 as they were found to be invalid or duplicates.

Photo Simulation Methodology – Photo simulations were developed by superimposing a rendering of a three-dimensional (3D) computer model of the proposed Project into the base photograph taken from each selected viewpoint. The 3D computer model was developed using Autodesk Civil 3D® and 3D Studio Max Design® software. The simulations are based on the proposed transmission line improvements as illustrated in the typical right-of-way cross-sections (contained in the Marcy/Edic to Pleasant Valley Project, Article VII Part A Supplemental Application, Exhibit 5) for the simulated location.

Simulated perspectives (camera views) were matched to the corresponding base photograph for each simulated view by replicating the precise coordinates of the field camera position and the focal length of the camera lens used (e.g. 50mm). Precisely matching these parameters assures scale accuracy between the base photograph and the simulated view. A 3D terrain model was created using digital elevation model (DEM data) to replicate existing local topography. The camera's elevation (Z value) is derived from DEM data plus a six (6) foot offset. The camera's target position was set to match the bearing of the corresponding existing condition photograph. To verify the camera alignment existing elements (e.g. existing transmission structures, vegetation, buildings, etc.) visible within the photograph were digitized from digital orthophotos. Each element was assigned a Z value based on DEM data and then imported to 3D Studio Max. The digitized elements were then aligned with corresponding elements in the photograph by adjusting the camera target.

Once the camera alignment was verified, a to-scale 3D model of the proposed transmission structures and conductors were merged into the model space. The 3D model was constructed in sufficient detail to accurately convey visual character and reveal impacts. Post production editing (i.e., airbrush out portion of transmission towers that fall below or behind foreground topography and vegetation) was completed using Adobe Photoshop software.

b) Visual Character Analysis

Existing Landscape Character – The proposed Project is located in the Mohawk and Hudson Valley Regions of New York State. The Project closely parallels the New York State Thruway for approximately 160 miles between Exit 31 at Utica and Exit 18 at New Paltz. The Mohawk Valley segment parallels the Mohawk River, which is visible to motorists in many locations. The Hudson Valley segment generally parallels the Hudson River approximately two (2) to six (6) miles inland.

The New York State Thruway is a heavily traveled limited access interstate highway with two lanes of traffic in each direction for most of the study corridor. The highway widens to three lanes in each direction for approximately 17 miles between Rotterdam (Exit 26) and Albany (Exit 23). The average daily traffic volume for the New York State Thruway is approximately 21,000 to 26,000 vehicles per day in the Mohawk Valley (Exits 31 to 26), 41,000-73,000 in the Albany/Schenectady area (Exits 26 to 23), and 34,000 to 43,000 in the Hudson Valley (Exits 23 to 17).

The Study Area has great topographic variety consisting of rolling hills and small ravines interspersed with large open fields, meadows, orchards and woodlands in a predominantly agricultural landscape. The landform consists predominantly of gently rolling uplands ranging in elevation from 300 to 1,200 feet in the Mohawk Valley and surrounding uplands to 200 to 600 feet in the Hudson Valley. The undeveloped areas contain a mixture of woodlands and meadows of diverse vegetation. Scattered throughout is mature woodlands typically covering steep slopes, hilltops, ravines, stream corridors, and other areas historically unsuitable for agricultural use. The woodlands are mature and create a substantial visual contrast to the open fields. While there are some small ponds and streams, water is not a dominant feature in the landscape.

Agriculture is the principal land use within view, with a mix of tilled fields, pastures, orchards and woodlands. Coinciding with the mix of open field and woodlots is a significant area of secondary growth edge habitat. For the most part, this secondary growth takes the form of hedgerows, wood borders, and old fields. Farmsteads are of vernacular architecture and are generally well-maintained. Single family residences are scattered along lightly to moderately traveled roads.

The Thruway corridor passes through or adjacent to several major cities and smaller population centers along the study route. These include Utica, Herkimer/Mohawk, Little Falls, Canajoharie, Fultonville, Amsterdam, Schenectady, Albany, Kingston and New Paltz as well as numerous populated communities and neighborhoods. These population centers are characterized by a mix of manufacturing, commercial, institutional uses and residential districts of varying density.

The Mohawk River is also a notable natural feature within view for a portion of the corridor. The Mohawk River is part of the contemporary Erie Barge Canal system; a designated national Heritage Corridor. Numerous locks, gates, and bulkheads and other early 20th century canal infrastructure are frequently visible from the Thruway and surrounding areas.

Qualitative Change in Landscape Character – The proposed Project will be a new development type within the Thruway corridor. The new transmission structures parallel to the highway would be visible to all motorists for virtually the entire 160-mile highway segment between Utica and New Paltz. Proposed monopole structures (97-feet tall) will appear distinct and unlike other features within view.

Vegetative clearing will be necessary in areas of the ROW where woodland vegetation presently encroaches the paved roadway. The expanded clearing will be mowed or maintained as a shrub habitat and will be visually consistent with other portions of the existing Thruway ROW.

The qualitative change in visual character resulting from the proposed Project would result in a qualitative change class of “B”, as identified in the December 2014 Order⁵.

Next Steps – This summary analysis provides preliminary information regarding the potential visual compatibility of the proposed Project within the regional landscape. Upon selection of a route by the Commission, NEETNY will conduct a supplemental detailed visual study as outlined in the Project's ⁵ Based on the December 2014 Order a qualitative change of “B” is assigned when structure types are changed with other lines remaining in the ROW, however, since this is a new line where others are not, a qualitative change of “B” has been assigned to this route.

Preliminary Scoping Studies submitted with the Part A Supplemental Application in accordance with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC) Visual Policy goals (NYSDEC 2000). The results of the supplemental visual studies will be summarized in the Part B Application.

C. MITIGATION MEASURES

Although existing transmission structures are visible within the ROW, additional measures may be implemented to minimize visibility and perceived impact of the proposed structures. Strategies to be considered and further evaluated in subsequent studies include:

1. Screening

- > Vegetative clearing will be in accordance with best management practices (BMP) for safety and operational requirements. Vegetation clearing should be kept to a minimum, where possible, yet not impede operation.
- > Where possible, leave hedgerow of vegetation between Thruway travel lanes and the transmission line. Remaining vegetation should not impede operation.

2. Camouflage/Disguise and Alternate Technologies

- > Alternate color selection for proposed structures could blend with the natural landscape in select locations

3. Non-specular Materials

- > Where possible, non-specular conductor material should be considered.

4. Lighting

- > Design measures should be investigated to minimize light trespass beyond the substation fence while still satisfying the needs of personnel safety and security of the station.

5. Maintenance

- > A vegetative management plan should allow, where possible, slow growth and low vegetation to be established within the ROW limits.
