6. An applicant, recipient or participant who is not eligible for education or training as set forth in paragraphs 1 through 5 of this subdivision may attend an education or training program with agency approval. In deciding whether to grant an individual approval to attend an education or training program under this paragraph, the agency shall consider extenuating circumstances that have affected the individual's eligibility as set forth in paragraphs 1 through 5 of this subdivision.

d. During the search period, the agency may not assign an applicant or recipient to any activities.

e. The agency shall classify education, training and vocational rehabilitation activities as countable work activities to the maximum extent permitted by state and federal law. Activities which shall be classified as both "on-the-job training" and "community service" in the New York City Social Services District Welfare to Work Plan that is required pursuant to section 333 of the social services law shall include but not be limited to: internships and externships related to the curriculum of a non-graduate student enrolled in an approved post-secondary institution; GED instruction; Adult Basic Education; ESOL; vocationally-oriented training and education programs; and activities engaged in pursuant to an individualized plan of employment as designed by the New York state department of education, office of vocational and educational services for individuals with disabilities (VESID). If the New York state department of labor does not permit the classification of any of the above-listed activities as "on-the-job training," then the agency shall classify the disallowed activity or activities as only "community service". Work-study shall be classified as "unsubsidized employment" in the New York City Social Services District Welfare to Work Plan that is required pursuant to section 333 of the social services law.

f. Credit for Participation. An applicant, recipient or participant who is making satisfactory progress in an approved program or has an undue hardship exemption shall receive program credit for such participation.

g. When assigning an applicant, recipient or participant who is engaged in an educational, training or vocational rehabilitation activity to any additional activity, the agency shall take all reasonable steps to locate an assignment that is either at the site of the educational, training or vocational rehabilitation activity or in reasonably close proximity thereto and which does not conflict with the hours during which such individual's educational, training and vocational rehabilitation activity takes place.

h. The agency shall not require any applicant, recipient or participant who is enrolled at least half-time at CUNY, SUNY, or at any other post-secondary degree-granting educational program or who is participating in any approved program that can be classified as a countable work activity to participate in any other activity for more than 35 hours or the minimum number of hours necessary to count such applicant, recipient or participant as "engaged in work" for purposes of calculating the city's work participation rates as set forth in sections 335-b and 336 of the social services law, whichever is greater.

i. Postsecondary Education: 2- and 4-year degree programs.

1. In every qualifying year, an applicant, recipient or participant may enroll in a postsecondary 2- or 4-year degree program if the individual engages in a combination of educational activities in connection with a course of study time, training, employment, study, or work experience for an average of no less than 35 hours or the minimum number of hours per week that sections 335-b and 336 of the social services law would require for an applicant, participant or recipient to be "engaged in work," whichever is greater.

2. During the period an individual participates in a postsecondary 2- or 4-year degree program under this subdivision, the individual must make satisfactory progress in the program or have an undue hardship exemption.

3. For purposes of determining hours per week under subparagraph 1 of this subdivision, an applicant, recipient or participant who is a parent or guardian of a dependent child will receive one hour of study time for every hour of class time during the first 24 months of participation in the postsecondary degree program.

4. Individuals engaging in activities pursuant to this subdivision shall be deemed to be participating in activities pursuant to Title 9-b of the social services law and shall be eligible for supportive services pursuant to section 332-a of the social services law.

j. An individual engaged in, or accepted to engage in, activities pursuant to an individualized plan of employment (IPE) as designed by the New York state department of education, office of vocational and educational services for individuals with disabilities (VESID), shall be considered work limited pursuant to section 332-b(3) of the social services law upon submission to the agency of the IPE and supporting medical documentation. In such cases, the IPE shall be considered to be a part of the individual's treatment plan pursuant to section 335-b(5)(e) of the social services law.

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. The Council finds that advances in educational attainment, from basic literacy to college, enhance an individual's ability to secure employment, employment longevity and level of earnings. Detailed and persuasive studies indicate that education levels play a major role in determining whether workers will become dislocated and, if dislocated, how successful they will be in securing new jobs and recovering lost earning power. Education and training, including adult education, English classes, vocational training and rehabilitation, and college education, are proven means of helping public assistance recipients move off welfare and into living wage jobs that allow them to achieve lasting self-sufficiency. Moreover, the State Department of Labor reports that 75% of New York City's major employers require college degrees or training beyond high school for entry level jobs.

Education and training are essential components of the next step for welfare reform in New York City, which will better enable people to move from welfare into living wage jobs. Moreover, any removal of a recipient from dependency on tax funded assistance dollars is a service to the community. Therefore, any education or training engaged in to that end serves the community's interest. As a matter of policy, the city should administer its welfare programs so that participation in education and training programs is available to the maximum extent permitted by federal and state law. Treating education and training as an integral part of work requirements would enable staff of the Human Resources Administration, working with public assistance recipients, to craft a plan that maximizes the opportunity for each individual to move into long-term employment at a living wage. The Council adopts this local law to expand public assistance recipients' access to education and training programs so that they may gain independence and become truly and permanently self-sufficient.

§ 21-704 Notice of rights and responsibilities.

a. The agency shall inform applicants, recipients and participants of all rights, entitlements and agency obligations required under this chapter.

b. Any notice directing an applicant, recipient or participant to report for an assessment, the development of an employability plan, or a work-related assignment, shall contain a description of the rights to pursue education and training activities as set forth in this chapter, and shall contain the following statement:

"Your Education and Training Rights When you come for your appointment, we will tell you about your rights to participate in education and training programs. The hours you spend in education and training programs may count toward your work requirement. A Master List of Programs You have a right to receive the complete "HRA Consolidated Master List of Approved Training Programs." This is a list of education and training programs you can choose to go to. Hours spent in any program on that list will count toward your work requirement. Other Choices for Training and Education You can also go to education or training programs that are not on the Consolidated Master List. However, those programs must meet appropriate City or State standards. Time To Find the Right Program for You If you need to participate in an education or training program in order to improve your chances of getting a job, we must give you 15 business days before your assessment, upon your request, to find an appropriate education or training program. If You Are Already In an Education or Training Program If you are already in school we must allow you to remain in your program as long as your program appears on the "HRA Consolidated Master List of Approved Training Programs" or meets the City or State standards mentioned above. Reassessment If you are dissatisfied with the work activity to which you have been assigned for six months or more and you believe that you are eligible to attend education or training, you should request a reassessment of your employability. If you are found to be eligible to attend a training or education program, you can switch into an education or training program. Again, your choice must appear on the "HRA Consolidated Master List of Approved Training Programs" or meet appropriate City or State standards. If you are already in a work activity, you do not have a 15 business day period to find an education or training program. In this case, you must continue in your work activity while you look for an education or training program. Your Right to a Fair Hearing The agency must give you a copy of your employability plan. You have a right to a fair hearing to challenge your assignment."

The commission also may request from any private organization providing services to immigrant day laborers information necessary to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

h. No later than nine months from the effective date of the local law that added this chapter, the Commission shall submit to the Mayor and the Speaker of the Council a report containing the findings and recommendations of the Commission.

[Footnote 142]: * Chapter 8 added L.L. 91/2005 § 2, eff. Dec. 2, 2005. Note provisions of L.L. 91/2005: Section 1. Declaration of legislative intent. The Council finds that immigrant day laborers often work under dangerous conditions, without the benefit of proper training, equipment or safety precautions. An estimated 15,000 day laborers live and work in New York State, including between 5,800 and 8,300 in the greater metropolitan region, the vast majority of whom are believed to be immigrants. A recent survey of day laborers in New York City found that almost 85% of those surveyed have experienced some type of abuse in the industry: 50 percent experienced non-payment of wages, and 56 percent were paid less than the agreed upon wage. The informal congregation of day laborers on City streets while they wait for employment creates additional concerns regarding day labor employment.

In New York City, non-profit and community organizations have set up a handful of formally designated hiring sites, known as job centers, where day laborers and employers are able to connect under regulated conditions. These arrangements provide day laborers with viable and preferable alternatives to congregation on city streets, facilitate monitoring of health and safety conditions and improved enforcement of wage and hour laws, and create more systematic mechanisms for service providers to reach the day laborer community, which is otherwise transient and disorganized. The Council finds that job centers can improve the day labor industry through ensuring the use of contracts that clearly spell out agreed upon wages and dates of payment, assuring the availability of equipment essential for worker safety, gloves, and overalls, and by connecting employers with workers who have appropriate skills. The Council further finds that job centers have proven to be successful models for addressing the issues and concerns regarding day labor employment.

. . . . . § 3. Effect of invalidity; severability. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase or other portion of this local law is, for any reason, declared unconstitutional or invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed severable, and such unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this local law, which shall continue in full force and effect.

To the end that the city may make needful provisions for navigation, intercourse and commerce of the city and adequately to develop and secure the same there is hereby granted in fee to the city, in all the public streams, rivers, sounds, bays and waters of all descriptions at any and all places within the city or adjoining the limits of the city, all and singular the property, estate, right, title and interest of the people of the state of New York, in, to, of, and concerning such lands under water, as are embraced within the projected boundary lines of any street intersecting the shore line, and which street is in public use or which may be hereafter opened for public use entending from high-water mark out into such streams, rivers, sounds, bays and waters so far (and limits in existing grants to the contrary) as the city shall now or at any time hereafter in the opinion of the board of estimate or the commissioner of ports and trade require the same for ferries, public wharves, docks, piers, bulkheads, basins, slips or other public structures, adjuncts and facilities for navigation and commerce. This grant shall include the right to reclaim such lands from such waters, and also all riparian rights and all rents, issues and profit of the premises herein granted. The commissioner of the state department of general services, from time to time, shall convey or patent the lands therein granted to the city for such purposes as and whenever required by the commissioner of ports and trade.

b. Subdivision a of this section shall not impair or affect any existing valid private rights, or the existing riparian rights of owners of private property, or the lawful rights of private owners of docks, piers and other structures in the city or any part thereof.

§ 22-104 Lands under water not within the projected boundary lines of streets; patenting of.

a. Patents of land under water within the city shall be made only to the city or to the riparian proprietor. Where, pursuant to section seven hundred five of the charter or section 22-132 of this chapter, a plan or plans for the construction of docks between street intersections shall be projected, the commissioner of ports and trade, with the approval of the board of estimate, may make application to the commissioner of the state department of general services for a grant of lands under water for that purpose. Such state commissioner thereupon shall give notice to the riparian proprietor before taking action in the matter and shall then make such grant to the city for the purposes specified in section 22-103 of this subchapter. Such grant, however, shall be subject to all the rights of the riparian proprietor, and before the city shall construct such public wharves or other structures in front of the land of such riparian proprietor, the city shall make just compensation to such proprietor for the value of all the riparian rights.

b. Where application is made to the commissioner of the state department of general services by the riparian proprietor for a grant of soil or lands under water within the city, such state commissioner shall give notice thereof to the commissioner of ports and trade who shall examine into such application and certify to such state commissioner whether in his or her opinion the granting of the same will conflict with the rights of the city or be otherwise injurious to the public interests of the city. Such grant, if made, shall be confined to lands under water in front of such riparian proprietor and such state commissioner may insert such terms and conditions in the grant as are recommended by the commissioner of ports and trade and as will protect the public interests of the city in respect to navigation and commerce. The validity of any such grant or patent may be judicially determined in an action brought by and in the

a. The commissioner may agree with the owners of any wharf property, or uplands upon a price for the same and shall certify such agreement to the mayor. If the mayor approve such agreement, the commissioner shall take from the owners at such price, the necessary conveyances and covenants for vesting such wharf property or uplands in, and assuring the same to the city of New York forever, and such owner shall be paid such price by the city. If, however, the commissioner shall determine that the city should acquire such wharf property or uplands by condemnation, without first attempting to agree with the owners thereof for its purchase, the commissioner may, with the approval of the mayor direct the corporation counsel to take legal proceedings to acquire the same for the city. Thereupon, the corporation counsel shall take the same proceedings to acquire such wharf property or uplands as are provided for the taking of private property in the city for public streets or places, and the provisions of subchapter one of chapter three of title five of the code are hereby made applicable, as far as may be necessary, in any legal proceeding taken under this section. Before any such proceeding shall be instituted, a statement shall be furnished to the mayor of the valuation of the real property to be acquired as assessed for purposes of taxation. The title to such property shall vest in the city upon the date of the filing of the survey or map showing the real property to be acquired subdivided into parcels corresponding with the separate ownerships thereof in the office of the clerk of the county where such proceeding is pending; and all of the rights, title and interest of any and all of the owners or persons interested in such wharf property or uplands, shall cease and determine and be extinguished at such time. All the awards made in such proceedings for the value of property acquired or interests extinguished shall draw interest from the time of the vesting of the title in the city.

b. The commissioner, with the approval of the board of estimate, may agree, license and permit private owners of any wharf property, to make the necessary improvements upon their property, so as to conform to the water front plan during the period which shall intervene prior to the extinguishment of such private ownership by the city. Such improvements shall be made by such owners under the supervision of or by the commissioner, as may be agreed upon, at the cost and expense of such private owners, in the first instance, and upon such reasonable terms as to reimburse such private owners for such improvements, and as to wharfage and other riparian rights thereon and therefrom, as may be agreed upon.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Provisions of Administrative Code § 706-3.0 relative to the title of wharf property vesting in the City upon date of filing of map showing the real property to be acquired, was construable as referring to a "damage map", and the form of the filed map was not important where the Board of Estimate clearly indicated what it had directed and the map as filed was sufficient notice as to what was being done. Hence motion by claimant to open final decree upon ground that during trial of the proceedings there was a mistake made with respect to filing of the map and that as a result claimant was deprived of an award for riparian rights, was denied.-In re City of N.Y. (East River Dr., E. 49th St. to E. 93rd St.), 104, (147) N.Y.L.J. (12-26-40) 2198, Col. 5 F.

¶ 2. Damage map attached to City's petition to acquire lands on the waterfront for improvement of the waterfront and harbor of the City sufficiently complied with Administrative Code § 706-3.0.-In re City of N.Y. (Southerly side of E. 30th St., &c.), 30 N.Y.S. 2d 187 [1941]. (2) Court was bound to accept the validity, insofar as it was what it purported to be, of a resolution of the City authorities reciting that the purpose of the proceeding was to acquire lands on the waterfront "for the uses of a marginal street, wharf or place and for no other purposes whatsoever". Motive of the City authorities might not be questioned on ground the property was to be used for purposes diverse to the resolution, and that the proceeding should therefore be considered as a condemnation one and not one to acquire a marginal street in the interest of commerce and navigation. Furthermore, the evidence showed that there was no basis in fact to sustain the contention.-Id.

¶ 3. In proceeding by City of New York to acquire lands on the waterfront between East 30th and East 49th Streets, East River, for uses of a marginal street, wharf or place, damages were required to be paid claimants who had water grants for their bulkhead rights and for whatever properties and property rights had been taken from them in the proceeding, where the grants had given to the claimants the rights of wharfage and craneage as well as the complete use of the properties subject only to restrictions contained therein, upon payment of substantial considerations. City had never asked the claimants to fill out to Avenue A, and such filling out in any event was impossible since the government had put through a pierhead and bulkhead lines.-Id.

¶ 4. The City of New York in a proceeding to condemn a strip of land between plaintiff's land and the East River proceeded under § 706 of the Charter and § 706-3.0 of the Administrative Code, relating to acquisition of land for wharf purposes and the improvement of waterfront, instead of under § H41-10.0 of the Code, prescribing steps to be taken in connection with construction of the East River Drive. The plaintiff's contention that it was entitled to an injunction restraining prosecution of the condemnation proceeding on the basis that the condemnation proceeding should have been brought under § H41-10.0 was without basis since the condemnation court might consider all matters relevant to the question of whether the plaintiff's property, including its riparian and wharfage rights, were being taken or interfered with, even though the taking was said to be an improvement of the waterfront, and an element to be considered in determining such question was the effect of § H41-10.0.-Vanneck Realty Corp. v. City of N.Y., 259 App. Div. 461, 19 N.Y.S. 2d 544 [1940], affirmed, 284 N.Y. 403, 31 N.E. 2d 505 [1940].

¶ 1. Evidence held to establish that the mean high water line at the locus in quo was the line which had for years been accepted by the City, and not the line fixed by the federal government, and hence to establish claim of petitioner to ownership of certain upland, thus entitling it to riparian rights and privilege of erecting a pier.-Matter of Del Balso Bldg. Corp. (McKenzie, comm'r &c.), 167 Misc. 498, 5 N.Y.S. 2d 790 [1937].

¶ 2. High water line of Westchester creek held correctly shown by the Dock Department's map of 1897, inasmuch as a presumption of correctness attaches to the map, and the testimony of lay witnesses and the evidence of certain deeds introduced and a map of the Topographical Bureau of the Borough President's Office were insufficient to overcome such presumption of correctness.-In re City of N.Y. (Brush Ave., E. 177th St. to Schley Ave., Bronx), 109 (113) N.Y.L.J. (5-15-43) 1911, Col. 7 T.

¶ 3. In condemnation proceeding by City of New York involving the location of the mean high water line touching claimant's lands on the date of vesting of title in City, the line was fixed in conformity with the line known as the Dock Department line of 1896.-Matter of City of N.Y. (Lafayette Ave., Metcalf Ave., Bronx River), 99 (92) N.Y.L.J. (4-21-38) 1927, Col. 5 F, at 6 F.

¶ 4. Judgment in prior action to which the City of New York was a party and wherein a determination of the high water line along Sherman Creek was material to the case and was litigated and a finding made, held res judicata as to the location of such high water line in subsequent condemnation proceeding by the City, notwithstanding the City had not offered proof by maps or otherwise to show a different high water line, since such testimony might have been presented by the City.-In re City of N.Y. (Academy St. & Harlem River Dr., at Sherman Creek), 101 (16) N.Y.L.J. (1-20-39) 304, Col. 6 F.

¶ 5. Arbitrary agreement of three different surveyors as to location of the high water line, supported merely by fact that there was an alleged outcropping of rock at one point, was insufficient to warrant the upsetting of the so-called "Randel" high water line, which had been approved and followed since 1820.-In re East River Drive (E. 49th St. to E. 93rd St.), 103 (62) N.Y.L.J. (3-15-40) 1195, Col. 5 M.

¶ 6. Mere outcropping of rock would not necessarily change the high water line, particularly where the line as presently constituted had existed and been acted upon for over a century.-In re City of N.Y. (East River Drive; E. 49th St. to E. 93rd St.), 103 (102) N.Y.L.J. (5-1-40) 1979, Col. 5 F.

¶ 7. Although in the absence of other evidence the Dock Department map of 1895 might control as to the high water line of Westchester Creek by reason of the presumption of correctness attaching to it, the Dock Department line no longer controlled where the claimants' uncontradicted proof had not been impeached. In the immediate case, cumulative evidence of the findings of the surveyors in the Borough President's office in Bronx County, together with the result of the work of the United States engineers and the other evidence in the case, held to show that true line of mean high water was outshore of the damage parcels.-In re City of N.Y. CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. In an action by a taxpayer to declare a contract between the city and a domestic corporation to operate a Foreign Trade Zone on Staten Island null and void it was held that the inclusion in the table of repealed laws to the Administrative Code of Law of 1935, ch. 26 was inadvertent and furthermore this section specifically referred to the continuing operation of the zone and hence the Legislature would not be deemed to have intended an absurd result such as would result from a construction of this section as meaningless.-American Dock Co. v. CHAPTER 1 WATERFRONT PROPERTIES TRANSACTIONS AND TRADE

SUBCHAPTER 1 WATERFRONT PROPERTY

a. As used in this section the following terms shall have the following meanings:

1. "Debris" means any substance or material, whether on land or water, which is capable of becoming drift.

2. "Drift" means any substance or material, floatable or otherwise, which may cause damage to any vessel or craft or which may otherwise obstruct, impede or endanger the navigable capacity of the navigable waters of the city or cause any other condition hazardous to the life or safety of persons using such waters, including but not limited to piles, lumber, timber, driftwood, dirt, ashes, cinders, mud, sand, dredged materials, or refuse of any kind.

3. "Navigable waters" means the waterways which are capable of carrying commerce, and the tributaries thereto, within the geographical limits of the city.

4. "Owner" means a person having title to any premises or structure; a tenant, lessee or occupant; a mortgagee or vendee in possession; a trustee in bankruptcy; a receiver or any other person having legal ownership or control of any premises or structure.

5. "Premises" means any land or land under water and improvements or appurtenances or any part thereof including but not limited to any structure.

6. "Structure" means anything built or constructed including but not limited to a building, wharf, pier, dolphin, boom, weir, breakwater, bulkhead, jetty, derelict vessel, ship, barge, raft or floating craft of any kind.

b. Whenever the commissioner determines that material of any kind placed or deposited on any premises located on or along the shores or banks of any navigable water may be or become a source of drift or debris liable to be washed into such navigable water by any cause whatsoever or that because of the deteriorated or deteriorating condition of any premises or structure located on or along the banks or shores of any navigable water such premises or structure may be or become a source of drift or debris liable to be washed into such water by any cause whatsoever and thereby cause damage to vessels or craft or otherwise obstruct, impede or endanger the navigable capacity of such water or cause any other condition hazardous to the life or safety of persons using such water, the commissioner may declare the same to be a public nuisance and order the owner of such premises or structure to remove, repair, reconstruct, alter or abate it as such order shall specify. It shall be the duty of an owner upon whom such an order has been served to remove, repair, reconstruct, alter or abate such public nuisance in the manner and in the time provided by such order.

c. 1. An order of the commissioner issued pursuant to subdivision b of this section shall specify the work to be performed and shall fix a reasonable time for compliance but not less than thirty days from the date of service of such order. Such order shall contain a statement that upon the failure of the owner to comply with the commissioner's order within the stated time, the department may perform the work specified in the order or apply for a court order directing the owner to comply with the commissioner's order or directing the department to perform the work specified in the commissioner's order. Such statement shall also indicate that if the department performs any of the work specified in the commissioner's order, the expense incurred by the department in performing such work shall be a debt recoverable from the owner and a lien on the premises with respect to which such order was issued.

2. Service of such order shall be made upon the owner personally or by certified mail addressed to the last known address of such person or in any manner provided for service of process by article three of the civil practice law and rules. The commisssioner may serve a copy of such order on any mortgagee or lienor of record in the same manner.

3. A copy of such order shall be filed with the office of the register in the county in which the premises with respect to which such order was issued are situated.

4. Within thirty days after service of such order upon an owner, such owner or a mortgagee or lienor upon whom a copy of such order has been served may request a hearing. At such hearing such person shall be entitled to be represented by counsel and to present evidence. The commissioner may affirm, modify or revoke the order.

d. If the owner fails to comply with the commissioner's order within the time fixed for compliance pursuant to subdivision c of this section, the department may perform the work specified in the order.

e. As an alternative to the remedy set forth in subdivision d of this section, if an owner fails to comply with the commissioner's order within the time fixed for compliance pursuant to subdivision c of this section, the commissioner may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction, upon such notice and in such manner as the court shall direct, for an order directing the owner to comply with the commissioner's order or directing the department to perform the work specified in the commissioner's order.

f. The procedures set forth in subdivisions c, d and e shall not apply to the abatement of a nuisance with respect to any structure not affixed to real property, including but not limited to any derelict vessel, ship, barge, raft or floating craft of any kind. The commissioner shall provide for the abatement of a nuisance with respect to such structures pursuant to the procedures set forth in sections 22-109, 22-110 and 22-111 of this subchapter.

g. 1. The expense of the department with respect to any work performed by or on behalf of the department pursuant to subdivisions d and e of this section shall be a debt recoverable from the owner and a lien upon the premises with respect to which such work was performed.

2. The department shall keep a record of all work performed by or on behalf of the department. Such records shall be accessible to the public during business hours. Within thirty days after the issuance of a purchase or work order for such work, such order shall be entered on the records of the department. Such entry shall constitute notice to all parties.

3. All such expenses shall constitute a lien upon the premises when the amount thereof shall have been definitely computed as a statement of account by the department and the department shall cause to be filed in the office of the city collector an entry of the account stated in the book in which such charges against the premises are to be entered. Such lien shall have a priority over all other liens and encumbrances on the premises except for the lien of taxes and assessments. However, no lien created pursuant to this section shall be enforced against a subsequent purchaser in good faith or mortgagee in good faith unless such transaction occurred after the date of entry of a purchase or work order on the records of the department pursuant to paragraph two of this subdivision.

4. A notice thereof stating the amount due and the nature of the charge shall be mailed by the city collector within five days after such entry to the last known address of the person whose name appears on the records in the office of the city collector as being the owner or agent or as the person designated by the owner to receive tax bills or, where no name appears, to the premises, addressed to either the owner or the agent. Such notice shall have stamped or printed thereon a reference to this section.

5. If such charge is not paid within thirty days from the date of entry, it shall be the duty of the city collector to receive interest thereon at the rate of interest applicable to such property for a delinquent tax on real property to be calculated to the date of payment from the date of entry.

6. Such charge and the interest thereon shall continue to be, until paid, a lien on the premises. Such charge and interest may be collected and the lien thereof may be foreclosed in the manner provided by law for the collection and foreclosure of taxes, sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water charges due and payable to the city and the provisions of chapter four of title eleven of the code shall apply to such charges and the interest thereon and the lien thereof.

7. (1) In any proceedings to enforce or discharge the lien, the validity of the lien shall not be subject to challenge based on (i) the lawfulness of the work done; or (ii) the propriety and accuracy of the items of expenses for which a lien is claimed, except as provided in this paragraph.

(2) No such challenge may be made except by (a) the owner of the property, or (b) a mortgagee or lienor whose mortgage or lien would but for the provisions of this section have priority over the department's lien.

(3) An issue specified in subparagraph one which was decided or could have been contested in a prior court proceeding to secure a court order pursuant to subdivision e of this section shall not be open to reexamination, but if any mortgagee or lienor of record was not served with an order of the commissioner pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision c and with notice of such proceeding, his or her mortgage or lien shall have the same priority over the lien of the department that it would have had but for the provisions of this section.

8. In addition to establishing a lien, the department may recover such expenses and interest by bringing an action against the owner. The institution of such action shall not suspend or bar the right to pursue any other remedy provided by law for the recovery of such debt.

§ 22-124 Covenants to maintain marginal streets; water front covenants generally; release of.

a. The owner of any lands in the city of New York formerly under water but now filled in and having streets physically laid out thereover or adjacent thereto, heretofore granted by the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, or by the city of New York, by a grant containing covenants or conditions requiring the maintenance of such streets, and otherwise, may file with the secretary of the board of estimate an application in writing for a release from such covenants and conditions setting forth a description of such lands, the ownership thereof, the number of feet fronting on the street and the width of such street together with a statement enumerating all of such convenants and conditions relating to such lands. Such application shall contain a statement that all covenants and conditions contained in such grant have been complied with except the covenant or condition for future maintenance of such street. Such secretary, upon payment by the applicant of a fee of fifty dollars to cover the expenses incident to investigating the truth of the statements contained in such application, shall make due inquiry and, if such statements are in fact true, shall present to such board a report and certificate as to the authenticity of the facts set forth in such application. Such board may thereafter adopt a resolution approving of the report of such secretary. If such report is approved by such board, such owner may obtain from the comptroller a release of all covenants and conditions contained in such grant insofar as such convenants and conditions affect the lands of the applicant, upon payment to the commissioner of finance of a sum equal to twenty dollars per front foot of such property based on a street sixty feet in width, or of a proportional sum based on streets having a greater or less width, and upon receipt of such sum, such comptroller for and on behalf of the city, shall issue to such owner a certificate evidencing such release, the same to be in form for recording. Such certificate shall be approved as to form by the corporation counsel and may be recorded in the same manner and in the same recording office as a deed of real property. After such release, with respect to any parcel, such city shall keep in repair or cause to be kept in repair the roadway portion of such street on which the parcel abuts.

b. In the event that any such convenants or conditions, other than those requiring the maintenance of streets, have not been performed in whole or in part, a special application for a release from such covenants or conditions, on a form to be prescribed by the board of estimate, may be made by such owner to such board. Such application shall set forth a description of such land by metes and bounds, or by street and number, the dimensions of such land, a statement enumerating all the covenants and conditions relating to such land, or, in lieu thereof, a copy of the grant of such land, or other instrument, containing all such covenants and conditions and a statement of the particular covenants or conditions, specifying them, for the release from which the application is made, and such other information as such board may deem necessary or appropriate. Such board, upon payment of a fee of fifty dollars, shall cause an investigation to be made concerning the statement contained in such application. If satisfied from such investigation that the interests of the city will not be prejudiced thereby, such board, by resolution may authorize the comptroller to issue to such owner a release from such covenants and conditions for a sum of money to be agreed upon by and between such board and such owner. Upon receipt of such sum, such comptroller shall, for and on behalf of the city, issue to such owner a certificate evidencing such release. Such certificate shall be approved as to form by the corporation counsel and may be recorded in the office of the commissioner of transportation and in the same manner and in the same recording office as a deed of real property.

a. After the adoption and certification of such plans, and the filing thereof in the office of the commissioner, the mayor may direct the commissioner to acquire any and all real property included in such plans or any interest therein, which may be necessary for the creation of the terminal facilities shown upon the map or maps forming part of such plans. SUBCHAPTER 2 WATER FRONT TERMINALS

a. If the board of estimate shall determine that municipal operation of any terminal facilities is inexpedient, it shall advertise for proposals for the privilege of constructing, equipping and operating the same, or for equipping and operating after construction by the city, or for operating after construction and equipment by the city, by a notice to be printed once a week for two successive weeks in not less than two daily newspapers, and may require security from bidders for the execution of their bids, if accepted. Such notice shall describe such terminal facilities in such terms as the board of estimate shall deem proper, and shall state the time and place at which proposals will be received and opened. All proposals shall undertake to equip such facilities, unless equipment shall have been provided by the city, and to maintain and operate such terminal facilities for a period not exceeding twenty-five years, with the privilege, however, of renewing such contract for a further period not exceeding twenty-five years upon terms to be readjusted as provided in such contract. Such proposals may offer to pay to the city for the use of such terminal facilities either (1) a fixed annual sum; or (2) a share of gross receipts; or (3) a share of net receipts. The board of estimate, or a duly appointed committee thereof, shall attend at the time and place specified in such public notice, and shall publicly open all proposals which shall have been received, but such board shall not be bound to accept any proposals so received, and may reject all such proposals and readvertise for proposals in the manner hereinbefore provided, or may accept any of such proposals as will, in the judgment of such board, best promote the public interest, and award a contract accordingly.

b. Any contract for private operation of terminal facilities shall contain a provision whereby the city, at any time after ten years, may terminate the same so far as it relates to the maintenance and operation of terminal ways, and terminal stations, and the equipment thereof, upon terms to be fixed in such contract, upon giving one year's written notice of its intention so to do. Upon termination by the city, pursuant to the privilege so reserved, the city shall purchase the equipment actually used in the operation of such terminal facilities at an amount agreed upon between the owner thereof and the city; or, in the event of failure to agree, at an amount to be fixed by appraisal, each party to name an impartial appraiser, and the two so named to select the third. In the event of failure to agree upon a third appraiser, he or she shall be named by the presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court, first department; provided, however, that the contract for the operation of such terminal facilities may provide for the amortization of all or a part of the operator's investment out of earnings, in which event the portion so amortized shall become the property of the city at the termination of the contract without further payment to the operator.

c. Any contract for private operation may provide for the construction of warehouses, factories or other buildings on land owned by the city, which warehouses, factories or buildings shall, during construction and at all times thereafter, be the property of the city. The contract may provide for the amortization of the cost of such warehouses, factories or buildings out of receipts from their operation, or out of receipts from the operation of all the terminal facilities included in such contract during the term thereof, and may provide for the payment by the city of any unamortized portion of the actual cost plus a reasonable contractor's profit, not to exceed fifteen per centum at the termination of the contract, or on the exercise of an option to recapture reserved in the contract. The contract may provide for the payment to the city for the privilege of operating such warehouses, factories, or other buildings so constructed, either (1) a fixed annual sum; or (2) a share of the gross receipts; or (3) a share in the net profits.

d. Such contract may contain any other provision not inconsistent with this section which the board of estimate may deem necessary or desirable for the protection of the interests of the city.

e. Notwithstanding the provisions of any general or special law, a railroad corporation may, with the consent of the board of estimate, purchase, acquire or hold any stocks or any bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of a corporation which, pursuant to this section, enters into a contract with the city for the operation of terminal facilities in the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, or either of them, and which contract provides for the handling over such terminal road of freight moved by water, or partly by rail and partly by water, and freight moved wholly by rail, without discrimination as between such freight moved by water, or partly by rail and partly by water, and freight moved wholly by rail. The consent of such board shall be granted only upon such notice and after such hearing as may be prescribed under rules and regulations which such board is hereby authorized to adopt.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Neither the United States nor the Foreign Trade Zones Board were necessary or proper parties to taxpayer's action under General Municipal City Law § 51 against City of New York and others for a judgment declaring invalid a contract between the City and a domestic corporation whereby the corporation undertook to operate a Foreign Trade Zone theretofore operated by the City on Staten Island under a federal grant from the Foreign Trade Zones Board, since the action attacked the validity of the operating contract between the City and the corporation and did not involve the federal grant, which would remain in effect regardless of the contract. The expressed view of the Zones Board that the contract did not violate the statute was merely advisory and did not constitute an "order" or "ruling" of the Board as a governing body.-American Dock Co. v. City of N.Y., 174 Misc. 813, 21 N.Y.S. 2d 943 [1940], aff'd without opinion, to extent appealed from, 261 App. Div. 1063, 26 N.Y.S. 2d 704 [1941], aff'd, 286 N.Y. 658, 36 N.E. 2d 696 [1941].

¶ 2. Inclusion, in table of repealed laws annexed to Administrative Code, of Laws of 1935, ch. 246, authorizing City to operate and maintain a Foreign Trade Zone at Staten Island, held inadvertent, in view of fact that purpose of Administrative Code was merely to clarify and restate existing statutes and laws (Admin. Code §§ 1-0.0, 963-1.0, 982-1.0) Administrative Code § 704c-3.0 specifically referred to the continued operation of the zone and Legislature would not be deemed to have intended an absurd result such as would result from a construction of § 704c-3.0 as meaningless, judicial notice would be taken of the haste with which the Administrative Code was enacted and the consequent possibility of error, Charter § 1 provides that the City should continue with the powers possessed at time the Charter took effect, §§ 701 to 712 confer upon the Commissioner jurisdiction over wharf property, and the Administrative Code is only a codifying and supplemental statute and nothing in it could abrogate the powers conferred by the Charter.-Id.

¶ 3. Operating contract with the domestic corporation held not invalid on ground it resulted in a forbidden transfer of the federal grant (19 U.S.C. § 81q), since purpose of the prohibition was to prevent alienation by grantee of the right to establish and maintain a zone, whereas the contract did not result in the City divesting itself of ownership of the grant, and moreover the City exercised a substantial supervision over the operation of the zone and recognized its continuing responsibility to the Foreign Trade Zones Board for its operation in accordance with the grant.-Id.

¶ 4. However, the operating contract was not authorized on the theory advanced that the power of the City to operate the zone carried with it a right to do through the medium of a third party that which it might do directly, since the contract was more in the nature of a lease of real property than a contract for rendition of services only, and in absence of legislative sanction such a lease of public property held by a municipality for public use may not be diverted to a use exclusively private. Legislative sanction could not be found in General City Law §§ 19 and 20, subds. 1, 8 and 23, nor Charter § 1, nor § 708a, which refers to operation by the City itself of its wharf property as a means of revenue in form of wharf collections, nor in Administrative Code § 704c-3.0, subd. 3.-Id.

¶ 5. Although Administrative Code §§ B29-5.0 and B29-9.0 would seem to authorize the continued operation and maintenance of the zone and its private operation under certain express conditions, the present contract did not comply with requirements of § B29-9.0 in that it imposed no obligation of equipment on the operator but obligated the City to furnish all equipment, and also to stand the expenses of maintaining terminal facilities, and to pay operating expenses.-Id.

§ 22-201 Legislative findings.

The council hereby finds that the fulton fish market, the center of New York's wholesale seafood industry located in lower Manhattan, has for decades been corruptly influenced by organized crime; that organized crime's corrupting influence over certain functions in the market, including the unloading and loading functions, has resulted in the commission of numerous crimes and wrongful acts there, including but not limited to physical violence or threats of violence, property damage, and thefts; that organized crime's corrupting influence over the market has fostered and sustained a cartel that has forced seafood suppliers and truckers to use particular unloading crews at fixed prices in an anticompetitive scheme that has been censured by a federal judge; that organized crime's corrupting influence has resulted in retailers parking on city streets and city property nevertheless having to pay high fees to private loading crews whose principal function has been to provide "security" for those vehicles and their contents while retailers have purchased fish in the crime-ridden market area; and that these corrupting influences have further resulted in higher prices for wholesale seafood than would otherwise have to be paid in the absence of this activity. The council further finds that despite the repeated efforts of law enforcement to prosecute crimes there and the presence of a court-appointed administrator for the market, the problem of organized crime corruption in the market has persisted. The council further finds that the market's businesses, including wholesalers, seafood deliverers, unloaders and loaders, have not been effectively regulated by the city in the past under existing laws and regulations governing public markets, even though they often operate on city property, albeit without leases, licenses and registration. The council fur-ther finds that, in the absence of an effective regulatory scheme, wholesalers have established a "gray market" in tenancies at rates in excess of those being paid to the city and have thus deprived the public of its rightful return on city property, and further, that unscrupulous businesses have taken advantage of this absence of regulation to engage in fraudulent practices, such as the creation of "phantom wholesalers" whose businesses disappear from the market before payment can be obtained from them for seafood they have received from suppliers, and that such practices have discouraged suppliers from utilizing the market area

The council therefore finds and declares that in order to provide for the more efficient and orderly conduct of business in the market area, to ensure that any such activities are lawfully conducted, to promote the economic vitality of the market and to protect the public interest, it is necessary for the commissioner of small business services to have expanded authority to license and/or register businesses in the market area and to regulate the conduct of such businesses. In particular, the council finds that, in order to achieve these objectives, the commissioner of small business services should be authorized to issue requests for licensing proposals to provide unloading and loading services in the market area and, at his or her discretion, issue one or more unloading and loading licenses based on the review and evaluation of responses received pursuant to such requests. In the event that no appropriate responses are received to such requests, the commissioner should be authorized to arrange for the department of small business services itself to perform unloading or loading services or to arrange that they be performed by a contractor or a designee of the department.

The council recognizes that complaints have been made about the conduct of seafood distribution activities outside the market area and finds further that the conditions which have given rise to corruption in the market area can exist in other areas where there are wholesale seafood businesses or concentrations of such businesses. The council also recognizes that representatives of such businesses have threatened to move their operations elsewhere and that some may relocate to other parts of the city. The council thus finds and declares that it is also necessary for the commissioner of small business services to have authority to regulate seafood distribution in areas of the city outside the market area in which such seafood businesses may concentrate.

Application of this chapter will enhance the city's ability to address organized crime corruption and to protect consumers and the many honest business persons who do business in or with the market or at other seafood distribution areas. It is thus the council's intent to empower the city to have greater regulatory authority over the conduct business in the market and in other seafood distribution areas.

a. It shall be unlawful to conduct an unloading business or otherwise provide unloading services in the fulton fish market distribution area without having first obtained an unloading business license from the commissioner pursuant to the provisions of this section. An unloding business license shall not be transferable.

b. The commissioner shall issue a request for licensing proposals and shall, at his or her discretion, issue one or more unloading business licenses based upon the review and evaluation of responses received pursuant to such request. Such request for proposals shall solicit information regarding the qualifications of proposers, their proposed methods of unloading, the labor and equipment they propose to utilize in the unloading operation, rates proposed to be charged to wholesalers, procedures proposed to be used to comply with sanitary requirements, and any other information relating to performance standards, responsibility and service that the commissioner deems appropriate. A proposal in response to a request for licensing proposals issued pursuant to this section shall be submitted on behalf of a business entity by all the principals thereof on a form bearing the signatures of all such principals.

c. A license issued pursuant to this section shall state the name, address and telephone number of the licensee and the names and business addresses of all principals of such licensee. A copy of such license shall be presented by the unloading business to any wholesaler upon request.

d. A license issued pursuant to this section shall also contain conditions that: (i) specify the maximum rates to be charged to wholesalers;

(ii) specify the standard and level of performance of unloading and customer service which shall be maintained throughout the term of the license to ensure the continuing efficient unloading of seafood in the market area;

(iii) require that the unloading business obtain a performance bond or such other guarantee of performance that the commissioner determines is appropriate and sufficient to cover any cost incurred by the city in providing or performing unloading services pursuant to section 22-208 of this chapter due to revocation of the license or default in the performance of the conditions specified in the license and specify the amount of such performance bond or guarantee; and

(iv) prescribe any other appropriate requirements relating to performance standards, customer service, security of performance, the use of city property, or such other matters as the commissioner deems appropriate and necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter.

e. An unloading business licensed pursuant to this section may not charge more for the provision of unloading services that the maximum rate set forth in the license without the written permission of the commissioner, nor may an unloading business or any principal, employee or agent thereof request or accept any other fees or gratuities for performing unloading services.

f. No unloading business licensee, shall, by contract or otherwise, assign or delegate to or engage any other business entity to provide the unloading services specified in the license, whether upon an emergency or any other basis, unless the commissioner has provided specific written authorization therefor.

g. (i) The commissioner shall be authorized, upon due notice and opportunity for a hearing, to suspend or revoke a license issued pursuant to this section based upon a determination that there has been a default in the performance of the conditions specified in such license or for reasons set forth in sections 22-217 or 22-218 of this chapter. The commissioner shall also be authorized to pursue other remedies for a default in the performance of the conditions specified in the license, including but not limited to, reimbursement for any expenses incurred by the department in performing or providing unloading services in the market area.

(ii) In the event of such suspension or revocation, or when the commissioner determines that additional unloading services are required because a licensee has discontinued unloading operations in the market area or the existing unloading business or businesses are for other reasons unable to provide adequate or sufficient unloading services in the market area, the commissioner may, as he or she deems appropriate, issue a new license to one or more business entities which responded to the most recent request for licensing proposals, issue a new request for licensing proposals pursuant to this section or arrange for the department, a designee of the department or an entity under contract to the department to provide unloading services in the market area. A new license issued pursuant to a request for licensing proposals shall be valid for the remainder of the term of the original license. The commissioner may also solicit expressions of interest from business entities in providing unloading services on a temporary basis and may issue a temporary license or licenses to provide unloading services in the market area to the most qualified of such entities in a situation where the suspension or revocation of a license or the discontinuance of unloading operations by a licensee has created a shortage of unloading services in the market area or the existing unloading business or businesses are for other reasons unable to provide adequate or sufficient unloading services. A temporary license issued pursuant to this subdivision shall be valid for a period of up to one year, provided that such license shall not extend beyond the remainder of the term of the original license. The fee for such temporary license shall be prorated to the term of the original license.

h. Prior to the expiration of the term of a license issued pursuant to this section, the commissioner shall issue a new request for licensing proposals pursuant to subdivision b of this section. Where the term of such license has been extended for an additional period pursuant to section 22-213 of this chapter, the new request for licensing proposals shall be issued prior to the expiration of such period.

a. It shall be unlawful to conduct a loading business or otherwise provide loading services in the fulton fish market distribution area, or provide such services to purchasers of seafood from wholesalers in such market area, without first having obtained a loading business license issued by the commissioner pursuant to the provisions of this section. A loading business license shall not be transferable.

b. The commissioner shall issue a request for licensing proposals and shall, at his or her discretion, issue one or more loading business licenses based upon the review and evaluation of responses received pursuant to such request. Such request for licensing proposals shall solicit information regarding the rates proposed to be charged to provide loading services in the market area, the areas in which loading operations are proposed to be conducted, the labor proposed to be utilized in providing loading services, and any other information relating to performance standards, responsibility and service that the commissioner deems appropriate. A proposal in response to a request for licensing proposals issued pursuant to this section shall be submitted on behalf of a business entity by all the principals thereof on a form signed by all such principals.

c. A license issued pursuant to subdivision b of this section shall state the name, address and telephone number of the licensee and the names and business addresses of all principals of such licensee. A copy of such license shall be presented by the loading business to any wholesaler in the market area or purchaser of seafood from such wholesalers or to an employee of such wholesaler or purchaser upon request.

d. A license issued pursuant to this section shall also contain conditions that: (i) specify the maximum rate to be charged for loading services;

(ii) specify the standard and level of performance of loading services which shall be maintained throughout the term of the agreement to ensure efficient loading services in the market.

(iii) require that the loading business obtain a performance bond or such other guarantee of performance that the commissioner determines is appropriate and sufficient to cover any cost incurred by the city in providing or performing services related to loading pursuant to section 22-208 of this chapter due to revocation of the license or default in the performance of the conditions specified in the license and specify the amount of such performance bond or guarantee; and

(iv) prescribe any other appropriate requirements relating to performance standards, customer service, security of performance, the use of city property, or such other matters as the commissioner deems appropriate and necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter.

e. A loading business licensed pursuant to this chapter shall not charge more than the maximum rates specified in the loading business license, nor may a loading business or any principal, employee or agent thereof request any other fee or gratuity for performing loading services.

f. No loading business licensee, shall, by contract or otherwise, assign or delegate to, or engage any other business entity to provide loading services in the market area, whether upon an emergency or any other basis, unless the commissioner has provided specific written authorization therefor.

g. (i) The commissioner shall be authorized, upon due notice and opportunity for a hearing, to suspend or revoke a license issue pursuant to this section based upon a determination that there has been a default in the performance of the conditions specified in such license or for reasons set forth in section 22-217 or 22-218 of this chapter. The commissioner shall also be authorized to pursue other remedies for a default in the performance of the conditions specified in the license, including but not limited to, reimbursement for any expenses incurred by the department in performing or providing loading services in the market area.

(ii) In the event of such suspension or revocation, or when the commissioner determines that additional loading services are required because a licensee has discontinued loading operations in the market area or because the existing loading business or businesses are for other reasons unable to provide adequate or sufficient loading services in the market area, the commissioner may, as he or she deems appropriate, issue a new license to one or more business entities which responded to the most recent request for licensing proposals previously issued, issue a new request for licensing proposals pursuant to this section or arrange for the department, a designee of the department or a business entity under contract to the department to provide loading services in the market area. A new license issued pursuant to a request for licensing proposals shall be valid for the remainder of the term of the original license. The commissioner may also solicit expressions of interest from business entities to provide loading services in the market area on a temporary basis and may also issue a temporary license or licenses to provide loading services in the market area to the most qualified of such entities in a situation where the suspension or revocation of a license or the discontinuance of loading operations by a licensee has created a shortage of loading services in the market area or the existing licensed loading business or businesses are for other reasons unable to provide adequate or sufficient loading services. A temporary license issue pursuant to this subdivision shall be valid for a period not to exceed one year, provided that such license shall not extend beyond the remainder of the term of the original license. The fee for such temporary license shall be prorated to the term of the original license.

h. Prior to the expiration of a license issued pursuant to this section, the commissioner shall issue a new request for licensing proposals pursuant to subdivision b of this section. Where the term of such license has been extended for an additional period pursuant to section 22-213 of this chapter, the new request for licensing proposals shall be issued prior to the expiration of such period.

i. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to prevent the commissioner from determining, for a reason other than those set forth in subdivision g of this section, that the department itself, a designee of the department or an entity under contract to the department shall provide loading services on property owned by the city in the market area. In the event that the department determines to provide such services, the provisions of subdivisions a through g of this section shall not apply.

j. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to require the department to authorize any party to use property owned by the city in the market area for the purpose of conducting a loading business.

a. The commissioner may establish by rule such measures as he or she deems appropriate and necessary to ensure the orderly and lawful conduct of loading businesses in the fulton fish market distribution area. Such measures may include the establishment of a voucher system under which (i) loaders are prohibited from accepting cash payments for performing loading services and (ii) persons wishing to have loading services performed for them may purchase vouchers from the market manager and present them to loaders in payment for loading services. CHAPTER 1-A FULTON FISH MARKET DISTRIBUTION AREA AND OTHER SEAFOOD DISTRIBUTION AREAS

a. Notwithstanding any provisions of this chapter to the contrary, the commissioner may determine that the public interest will be best protected by the department providing loading and/or unloading services in the market. Such determination may also be made: (i) in the event that suspensions or revocations of unloading business licenses or loading business licenses have resulted in an insufficiency of such services in the market area; or (ii) following the review of licensing proposals to conduct an unloading business made pursuant to section 22-204 of this chapter or of licensing proposals to conduct a loading business made pursuant to section 22-206 of this chapter, based upon a finding that there are an insufficient number of business entities submitting proposals for unloading or loading licenses, as the case may be, (1) whose principal or principals meet the requirements of good character, honesty and integrity set forth under this chapter or any rules promulgated pursuant thereto; or (2) which are able to provide unloading or loading services, as the case may be, in a manner consistent with the safe, lawful, orderly and efficient operation of the market area at rates which are fair and reasonable to customers.

b. Where the commissioner has made a determination pursuant to this section, the department may provide unloading or loading services, as the case may be, within the market area. Such services shall be provided in accordance with all rules governing the conduct of unloading or loading services prescribed under section 22-205 and section 22-207 of this chapter, other than insurance and bonding requirements.

c. During any period in which the department provides services in the market area under this section, it shall be unlawful for any other person or business entity to provide or perform or offer to provide or perform the same or similar services in the market area; provide, however, that where the department does not provide all unloading or loading services, as the case may be, in the market area, an unloading business or a loading business that possesses a valid license to conduct such business may continue to operate.

d. At any time following the commencement of a department service under this section, the commissioner may solicit interest in order to determine whether there are business entities interested in providing unloading or loading services, as the case may be, in the market area who meet the requirements of this chapter and can substitute for the services being provided by the department. The commissioner may thereupon issue a request for licensing proposals pursuant to the provisions of section 22-204 or section 22-206 of this chapter and issue a license pursuant to such sections. Notwithstanding the provisions of this subdivision, the commissioner may at any time during a period in which the department is proving services pursuant to this section consider an application for an unloading business and/or loading business license from a business entity interested in providing such service. This subdivision shall not apply when the department has determined, pursuant to the provisions set forth in subdivision g of section 22-206, that the department itself shall perform loading services on city owned property in the market area.

e. For the purposes of this section, services provided by the department shall include those services provided by a designee of the department, an entity under contract to the department, or by a combination thereof.

a. It shall be unlawful for any business entity to conduct a wholesale seafood business in the fulton fish market distribution area without having first registered with and obtained a registration number from the commissioner. A registration application shall be submitted by a wholesale seafood business upon a form prescribed by the commissioner containing such information as the commissioner shall require by rule and shall be signed by all the principals of such wholesaler. A registration number shall not be transferable. A wholesaler shall not sublease or assign to another wholesaler the premises, or any portion thereof with respect to which a wholesaler has registered his or her wholesale seafood business, unless such proposed sublessee or assignee has registered with and obtained a wholesaler registration number from the commissioner. A wholesale seafood business shall, in accordance with rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to section 22-223 of this chapter, inform the commissioner of any change in the ownership composition of such business, or of the addition or deletion of any principal at any time subsequent to registration.

b. (i) Notwithstanding any provision of this chapter, the commissioner may, when there is reasonable cause to believe that any or all of the principals, employees or agents of a wholesaler lack good character, honesty and integrity, require that any or all of such principals be fingerprinted and provide to the commissioner the information set forth in subdivision a of section 22-216 of this chapter. The commissioner may thereafter, after notice and the opportunity to be heard, refuse to register such wholesaler for the reasons set forth in subdivision b of such section.

(ii) If at any time subsequent to the registration of a wholesaler, the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that any or all of the principals, employees or agents of such wholesaler do not possess good character, honesty and integrity, the commissioner may require that any or all of such principals be fingerprinted and provide the background information required by subdivision a of section 22-216 of this chapter and may, after notice and the opportunity for a hearing, revoke the registration of such wholesaler for the reasons set forth in subdivision b of such section.

c. No wholesaler shall place seafood on the street without a stand permit issued by the commissioner pursuant to this chapter. A stand permit shall not be transferable. Except where the occupancy of a city street under a stand permit is authorized under the terms of a lease with the city of adjacent premises, the commissioner may set a charge to a wholesaler for such occupancy under a stand permit calculated upon the square footage of the area authorized to be used in such permit.

d. A wholesaler shall not allow any other person to place seafood in the space for which such stand permit has been issued, except that a wholesaler may, on a temporary basis, permit the use of such space by another registered wholesaler who has received a shipment of seafood that cannot be accommodated in the space from which such registered wholesaler operates. No fee may be charged for such temporary use and any such use shall be reported as soon as is practicable to the market manager in accordance with rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to this chapter.

e. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivisions c and d of this section, the holder of a stand permit may, after having first obtained the prior written approval of the commissioner, allow no more than one other registered wholesaler at any one time to place seafood on other than a temporary basis in up to forty-nine percent of the space for which such stand permit was issued. The holder of such permit may charge a fee for the use of such space. Such fee shall be calculated by multiplying the charge paid by the permit holder to the city for such permit by the ratio of the amount of space being used to the amount of space for which such permit was issued and the ratio of the time for which such space will be used to the period of time for which such permit was issued; except that a holder of a stand permit may charge a fee exceeding the charge based on such calculation, provided that the holder of such permit shall remit to the city an amount equal to seventy-five percent of the difference between the actual fee charged and the charge that would result from such calculation. A copy of the written agreement allowing the use of such space shall be filed with the market manager. Such agreement shall specify the amount of space and the period for which use of such space is authorized and the fee being charged.

f. A stand permit shall cease to be valid upon the expiration, revocation or during a period of suspension of the registration of the wholesale seafood business to which such stand permit has been issued. However, where the holder of a stand permit has, pursuant to the provisions of subdivisions d or e of this section, allowed another registered wholesaler to use a portion of the space for which such permit was issued such other registered wholesaler shall be permitted to continue to conduct business in such space during such period of suspension.

g. The market manager shall maintain and publish a list of all wholesalers in the market area who are registered with the market manager and who possess stand permits together with the registration numbers of such wholesalers and the numbers of such permits. The market manager shall make such list available to suppliers, shippers and truckers and shall, upon request, verify to suppliers, shippers and truckers whether such business entity is currently registered with the commissioner and/or possesses a valid stand permit.

b. The commissioner may, after notice and the opportunity to be heard, refuse to consider a licensing proposal from, or refuse to issue a license to, an unloading or loading business or a class A photo identification card to a person required by subdivision a of section 22-203 of this chapter to possess such identification card when any of the principals of such business or such person lacks good character, honesty and integrity or may defer the decision whether to issue such license or photo identification card or to consider such proposal when there is a pending indictment or civil or criminal action or administrative proceeding as provided in paragraph (ii) of this subdivision. Such notice shall specify the reasons for such refusal or deferral. In making such determination, the commissioner may consider, but not be limited to: (i) failure by the applicant to provide truthful information in connection with the application; (ii) a pending indictment or criminal action against such applicant for a crime which under this subdivision would provide a basis for the refusal of such license or photo identification card, or a pending civil action or administrative proceeding to which such applicant is a party and which relates to the fitness to conduct the business or perfrom the work for which the license or photo identification card is sought, in which cases the commissioner may defer consideration of a proposal or application until a decision has been reached by the court or administrative tribunal before which such action or proceeding is pending, unless such applicant demonstrates to the commissioner that such pending action or proceeding should not be the basis for deferral of the license or photo identification card or consideration of the proposal; (iii) conviction of such applicant for a crime which, under article twenty-three-A of the correction law, would provide a basis for the denial of a license to conduct a business in the market area; (iv) commission of a racketeering activity or association with a person who has been convicted for a racketeering activity when the applicant knew or should have known of such conviction, including but not limited to the offenses listed in subdivision one of section nineteen hundred sixty-one of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (18 U.S.C. §1961 et seq) or of an offense listed in subdivision one of section 460.10 of the penal law, as such statutes may be amended from time to time, or the equivalent offense under the laws of any other jurisdiction; (v) association with any member or associate of an organized crime group as identified by a federal, state or city law enforcement or investigative agency when the applicant knew or should have known of the organized crime associations of such person; or (vi) failure to pay any tax, fine, penalty, fee related to the applicant's business for which liability has been admitted by the person liable therefor, or for which judgment has been entered by a court or administrative tribunal of competent jurisdiction and enforcement of such judgment has not been stayed.

c. The factors set forth in subdivision b of this section shall also be grounds for the commissioner, pursuant to sections 22-209 or 22-211 of this chapter, to refuse to register, or to suspend or revoke the registration of, a wholesaler or a seafood deliverer; and to refuse to issue a photo identification card to, or to suspend or revoke the photo identification card of, a principal, employee or agent of a wholesaler or seafood deliverer.

d. The commissioner may require that an applicant submitting a licensing proposal for any license required pursuant to this chapter or an application for registration as a wholesaler or seafood deliverer shall submit such information regarding the applicant's business as the commissioner shall require in order to demonstrate the financial responsibility to conduct the business for which such license or registration is required, and may refuse to issue a license or registration to any applicant who has not, in the commissioner's determination, demonstrated such financial responsibility.

e. The commissioner may refuse to issue a license to, or consider a proposal from, the business of an applicant or issue a class A photo identification card to a person required by subdivision a of section 22-203 of this chapter to possess such identification card when such applicant or such person has knowingly failed to provide the information and/or documentation required by the request for licensing proposals or application or who has otherwise failed to demonstrate eligibility for such license or photo identification card under this chapter or any rules promulgated pursuant thereto.

f. The commissioner may refuse to issue a license to, or consider a proposal from, the business entity of an applicant, or issue a class A photo identification card to a person required by subdivision a of section 22-203 of this chapter to possess such identification card when (i) the business entity of such applicant or such applicant was previously issued a license or class A photo identification card under this chapter and such license or card was revoked pursuant to the provisions of this chapter or any rules promulgated pursuant thereto; or (ii) such applicant has been determined to have committed any of the acts which would be a basis for the suspension or revocation of a license pursuant to this chapter or any rules promulgated pursuant thereto.

(iii) No enforcement action shall be taken on or after the date on which the boundaries of a seafood distribution area have been established pursuant to paragraph (ii) of this subdivision against (1) any business entity or person required to be licensed and/or to possess a class A photo identification card pursuant to this section unless and until one of the following has occurred: (aa) such business entity or person has failed to apply for such license or class A photo identification card by the date specified by the commissioner; (bb) any of the principals of such business entity or such person has failed to submit to fingerprinting or to submit the background information required pursuant to section 22-216 of this chapter; or (cc) such license or photo identification card has been denied by the commissioner; (2) against any wholesaler registered pursuant to subdivision a of this section whose principals have been required by the commissioner to submit to the fingerprinting and disclosure requirements of section 22-216 of this chapter unless and until one of the following has occurred (aa) the principals of such wholesaler have failed to submit to fingerprinting or to submit the required background information; or (bb) the commissioner has revoked the registration of such wholesaler; (3) against any person required to possess a class B photo identification card unless such person has failed to apply for such class B photo identification card by the date specified by the commissioner; or (4) against any person required to possess a class B photo identification card who has been required by the commissioner to submit to the fingerprinting and disclosure requirements of section 22-216 of this chapter unless and until one of the following has occurred: (aa) such person has failed to submit to fingerprinting or to submit the required background information by the date specified by the commissioner; or (bb) the commissioner has denied the application for such class B photo identification card.

c. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b of this section, the commissioner may determine that licenses to conduct unloading businesses in a seafood distribution area may be appropriately issued without application of the provisions set forth in subdivisions b through f of section 22-204 of this chapter, and that licenses to conduct loading businesses in a seafood distribution area may be appropriately issued without application of the provisions set forth in subdivisions b through h of section 22-206 of this chapter. § 22-252 Photo identification card required.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person to be an employee or a principal working in a wholesale business or market business in a market unless such person has obtained a photo identification card issued by the commissioner pursuant to the provisions of this chapter or for a person to work on an occasional basis in a market unless such person has obtained a day pass issued by the commissioner. The commissioner shall set forth by rule the number of occasions within a specified time period that shall constitute occasional work to meet unanticipated needs of businesses in the market and shall make reasonable provision to delegate authority for the issuance of day passes on a twenty-four hour basis to persons hired to work by wholesalers and market businesses on an occasional basis. A photo identification card shall be in the possession of an employee or principal at all times when such person is in the market and shall be produced upon demand by an authorized employee or agent of the department, the department of investigation or the police department. The commissioner shall make provision for temporary photo identification cards to be issued pending the processing of applications for permanent photo identification cards and for the expedited issuance of photo identification cards to family members of principals of a wholesaler or market business and others who work on a seasonal basis. A temporary identification card shall cease to be valid, and shall be returned to the department, upon the refusal to issue a photo identification card pursuant to subdivision d of this section or denial of registration to the business in which the person applying for such identification card is a principal or is employed.

b. A photo identification card shall identify the business of which the individual is a principal or by which he or she is employed and shall be non-transferrable. Upon a change in employment within a market, an individual shall inform the department and the department shall issue a photo identification card reflecting such changed employment.

c. An application for a photo identification card shall be submitted on a form prescribed by the commissioner and shall contain such information as the commissioner shall determine is necessary to establish the identity and background of the applicant. A person required by this chapter to possess a photo identification card shall inform the commissioner of any subsequent material change in the information provided on such application, including but not limited to arrests and/or criminal convictions.

d. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that an applicant for a photo identification card lacks good character, honesty and integrity, the commissioner may require that such applicant be fingerprinted and provide to the commissioner the information set forth in subdivision a of section 22-259 of this chapter. The commissioner may thereafter, after notice and opportunity to be heard, refuse to issue a photo identification card for the reasons set forth in subdivision b of such section.

e. If at any time subsequent to the issuance of a photo identification card, the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that the holder thereof does not possess good character, honesty and integrity, the commissioner may require such person to be fingerprinted and to provide the background information required by subdivision a of section 22-259 of this chapter and may, after notice and opportunity to be heard, revoke such photo identification card for the reasons set forth in subdivision b of such section.

a. No person shall conduct a wholesale business or a market business in a public wholesale market unless such person has registered such business with the commissioner and has obtained a registration number for such business from the commissioner. Application for such registration shall be made upon a form prescribed by the commissioner containing such information as the commissioner shall determine appropriately identifies and demonstrates the fitness of the wholesale business or market business. A registration number shall not be transferable. A person conducting a wholesale business or a market business shall not sublease or assign to another person any portion of any premises in the market occupied or utilized by such business unless such proposed sublessee or assignee has registered with and obtained a registration number from the commissioner. The commissioner shall establish by rule a procedure for the preliminary review of registration applications for businesses not previously operating in a market that are considering the purchase of a wholesale business or a market business, and for the expedited completion of registration review upon entry into a purchase and sale agreement. A business required to register pursuant to this section shall inform the commissioner of any change in the ownership composition of the business, the arrest or criminal conviction of any principal of the business, or any other material change in the information submitted on the application for registration within thirty calendar days thereof.

b. (i) Notwithstanding any provision of this chapter, the commissioner may, when there is reasonable cause to believe that any or all of the principals of an applicant for registration lack(s) good character, honesty and integrity, require that such principal(s) be fingerprinted and provide to the commissioner the information set forth in subdivision a of section 22-259 of this chapter, and may, after notice and the opportunity to be heard, refuse to register such applicant for the reasons set forth in subdivision b of such section.

(ii) If at any time subsequent to the registration of a wholesale business or market business, the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that any or all of the principals of such wholesale business or market business do not possess good character, honesty and integrity, the commissioner may require that such principal(s) be fingerprinted and provide the background information required by subdivision a of section 22-259 of this chapter and may, after notice and the opportunity to be heard, revoke the registration of such wholesale business or market business for the reasons set forth in subdivision b of such section.

(iii) At any time subsequent to the conduct of an investigation of an applicant for registration or a registrant pursuant to paragraph (i) or paragraph (ii) of this subdivision that has produced adverse information, the commissioner may require as a condition of issuance or the continuance of a registration that the wholesale business or market business enter into a contract with an independent auditor approved or selected by the commissioner. Such contract, the cost of which shall be paid by the registrant, shall provide that the auditor investigate the activities of the wholesale business or market business with respect to compliance with the provisions of this chapter, other applicable federal, state and local laws and such other matters as the commissioner shall determine. The contract shall provide further that the auditor report the findings of such monitoring and investigation in a manner to be prescribed by the commissioner to the commissioner on a periodic basis.

(iv) A wholesale business or market business shall provide the commissioner with notice of at least ten business days of the proposed addition of a new principal to such business and shall provide the commissioner with such information concerning such proposed principal as is set forth in the rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to section 22-266 of this chapter. The commissioner may waive or shorten such period upon a showing that there exists a bona fide business requirement therefor. Except where the commissioner determines within such period, based on information available to him or her, that the addition of such new principal may have a result inimical to the purposes of this chapter, such wholesaler or market business may add such new principal pending the completion of review by the commissioner. Such wholesale business or market business shall be afforded an opportunity to demonstrate to the commissioner that the addition of such new principal pending completion of such review would not have a result inimical to the purposes of this chapter. If the commissioner determines, following completion of such review, that such principal lacks good character, honesty and integrity, the registration shall cease to be valid if the commissioner determines that such principal has failed to divest his or her interest, or to discontinue his or her involvement in the business of such business or both, as the case may be, within the time period prescribed by the commissioner.

c. The department shall maintain and publish a list of all wholesalers and market businesses that are registered with the commissioner together with the registration numbers of such wholesalers and market businesses. The department shall make such list available to suppliers, shippers, truckers and any member of the public who requests it and shall, upon request, verify to suppliers, shippers and truckers whether a business is currently registered with the commissioner.

The department or a designee of the department shall be authorized to issue a visitor pass as a requirement for any person to enter a public wholesale market including but not limited to: retailers who enter the market to purchase products and their employees and temporary employees; and, subject to the provisions of section 22-264 of this chapter, officers and business agents of labor unions or organizations covered by such section and officers and business agents of the affiliates thereof, including international unions, pension and welfare funds and others. Such pass shall be in a form prescribed by the commissioner, may contain a photograph of such person and shall indicate the reason the person is visiting the market, whether such person visits the market on a regular basis or, in the event that such person does not regularly visit the market, the date for which such pass shall be valid. The commissioner may provide for the issuance of permanent visitor passes to those persons who regularly visit a market, and shall provide for the expeditious issuance of passes at the market entrance to persons wishing to enter the market on a single or occasional basis. A pass shall be in the possession of such person at all times when such person is in the market and shall be worn and visible in compliance with rules promulgated by the commissioner pursuant to section 22-266 of this chapter. The department or, at the direction of the department, a designee of the department, shall be authorized to deny a visitor pass and entry into a market to any person whose presence may constitute a threat to the orderly operation of a market or who has failed to provide the identifying information required by the commissioner or the designee of the commissioner. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any public wholesale market to which access by the public has routinely been permitted without control, restriction or other regulation for no less than a year directly preceding the effective date of this provision; provided, however, that the commissioner may apply such provisions upon a determination that an emergency exists that necessitates the temporary restriction of access to such a market. For the purposes of this section, a "designee of the department" shall mean an agency of the city or, in the discretion of the commissioner, a wholesaler cooperative or similar organization. Nothing in this section shall be construed to permit the denial of a visitor pass to a representative of a labor union or labor organization solely because such person seeks to engage in the lawful exercise within a public wholesale market of an activity protected under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. §141 et seq., including, but not limited to, the lawful picketing of a place of business of a wholesale business or market business in connection with a legitimate labor dispute, except as may otherwise be prohibited by law. However, such person shall not impede any reasonable measure undertaken by a police officer or authorized employee of the department intended to control vehicle and pedestrian traffic within such public wholesale market or upon any street, avenue, parkway, plaza, square or other public place designated as a public market. The commissioner shall consult with the commissioner of labor relations prior to reaching any determination that an activity be a representative of a labor union or organization is not lawful under the National Labor Relations Act.

a. Where the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that an applicant for registration pursuant to section 22-253 of this chapter or an applicant for a photo identification card lacks good character, honesty and integrity, the commissioner may require that such applicant shall: (i) be fingerprinted by a person designated for such purpose by the commissioner or the department of investigation and a fee shall be paid which shall be submitted to the division of criminal justice services and/or the federal bureau of investigation for the purposes of obtaining criminal history records; (ii) provide to the commissioner, upon a form prescribed by the commissioner and subject to such minimum dollar thresholds and other reporting limitations as the commissioner may establish by rule therein any of the following items that the commissioner determines are necessary and appropriate to evaluate the application of such applicant for registration or the application of such person for a photo identification card, including but not limited to: (a) a listing of the names and addresses of any persons having a beneficial interest in the applicant for registration, the amount and nature of such interest and the acqusition cost; (b) a listing of the names and addresses of all officers, directors, partners and stockholders holding more than ten percent of the outstanding shares of the business, and of the names and addresses of any manager or other person who has policy or financial decision-making authority in the business of an applicant for registration; (c) a listing of the amounts in which such applicant is indebted, including mortgages on real property, and the names and addresses of all persons to whom such debts are owed; (d) a listing of such applicant's real property holdings or mortgage or other interest in real property held by such applicant other than a primary residence and the names and addresses of all co-owners of such interest; (e) a listing of mortgages, loans, and instruments of indebtedness held by such applicant, the amount of such debt, and the names and addresses of all such debtors; (f) the name and address of any business in which such applicant holds an equity or debt interest, excluding any interest in publicly traded stocks or bonds; (g) the names and addresses of all persons or entities from whom such applicant has received gifts valued at more than one thousand dollars in any of the past three years, and the names of all persons or entities excluding any organization recognized by the Internal Revenue Service under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code to whom such applicant has given such gifts in any of the past three years; (h) a listing of all criminal convictions, in any jurisdiction, of the applicant; (i) a listing of all pending civil or criminal actions to which such applicant is a party; (j) a listing of any determination by a federal, state or city regulatory agency of a violation by such applicant of laws or regulations relating to the conduct of the applicant's business; (k) a listing of any criminal or civil investigation by a federal, state, or local prosecutorial agency, investigative agency or regulatory agency of which the applicant has or should have knowledge, in the five year period preceding the application, wherein such applicant has: (A) been the subject of such investigation, or (B) received a subpoena requiring the production of documents or information in connection with such investigation; (l) where applicable, a certification that the applicant has paid all federal, state, and local income taxes related to the applicant's business for which the applicant is responsible for the three tax years preceding the date of the application or documentation that the applicant is contesting such taxes in a pending judicial or administrative proceeding; (m) a statement authorizing the department to verify with federal, state and local taxing authorities, to the maximum extent permitted by law, the facts contained in the certification submitted pursuant to subparagraph (l) of this paragraph; (n) where applicable, the names and addresses of the principals of any predecessor wholesale business or market business of the applicant; and (o) such additional information concerning good character, honesty and integrity that the commissioner may deem appropriate and reasonable; and (iii) appear to be interviewed by the department of investigation or the department. The commissioner may require that fees be paid by or on behalf of such applicants to cover the expenses of fingerprinting and background investigations provided for in this subdivision as are set forth in the rules promulgated pursuant to section 22-266 of this code. A wholesale business or a market business shall be responsible for the payment of any fee imposed by this section with respect to an employee of such business or any person seeking to become an employee of such business.

b. The commissioner may, after notice and the opportunity to be heard, refuse to register an applicant or issue a photo identification card to a person who lacks good character, honesty and integrity. Such notice shall specify the reasons for such refusal. In making such determination, the commissioner may consider, but not be limited to: (i) failure by such applicant or person to provide truthful information in connection with the application; (ii) a pending indictment or criminal action against such applicant or person for a crime which under this subdivision would provide a basis for the refusal of such registration, or a pending civil or administrative action to which such applicant or person is a party and which directly relates to the fitness to conduct the business or perform the work for which the registration or photo identification card is sought, in which cases the commissioner may defer consideration of an application until a decision has been reached by the court or administrative tribunal before which such action is pending; (iii) conviction of such applicant or person for a crime which, under article 23-A of the correction law, bears a relationship to the fitness of such applicant or person to conduct a business or work in a market; (iv) commission of a racketeering activity or association with a person who has been convicted for a racketeering activity when the applicant knew or should have known of such activity, including, but not limited to, an offense listed in subdivision one of section nineteen hundred sixty-one of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations statute (18 U.S.C. §1961 et seq) or for an offense listed in subdivision one of section 460.10 of the penal law, as such statutes may be amended from time to time, or the equivalent offense under the laws of any other jurisdiction; (v) association with any member or associate of an organized crime group as identified by a federal, state or city law enforcement or investigative agency when the applicant for registration or photo identification card knew or should have known of the organized crime associations of such person; (vi) a principal of the applicant was a principal in a predecessor wholesale business or market business where the commissioner would be authorized to deny registration to such predecessor business pursuant to this subdivision; or (vii) in the case of an applicant business, failure to pay any tax, fine, penalty or fee related to the applicant's business for which liability has been admitted by the person liable therefor, or for which judgment has been entered by a court or administrative tribunal of competent jurisdiction and such judgment has not been stayed. An applicant may submit to the commissioner any material or explanation which such applicant believes demonstrates that information submitted pursuant to this subdivision does not re- flect adversely upon the applicant's good character, honesty and integrity.

c. The commissioner may require that an applicant business shall submit such information as the commissioner deems necessary to demonstrate the financial responsibility of such applicant to conduct the activity for which such registration is required, and may refuse to register any applicant who has not, in the commissioner's determination, demonstrated such financial responsibility.

d. The commissioner may refuse to register or to issue a photo identification card to a person when such applicant has knowingly failed to provide the information and/or documentation required by the commissioner pursuant to this chapter or any rules promulgated pursuant thereto or who has otherwise failed to demonstrate eligibility for such registration or photo identification card under this chapter or any rules promulgated pursuant thereto.

e. The commissioner may refuse to register or to issue a photo identification card to a person when such applicant: (i) was previously issued a registration or a photo identification card under this chapter and such registration or card was revoked or not renewed pursuant to the provisions of this chapter or any rules promulgated hereto; or (ii) has been determined to have committed any of the acts which would be a basis for the suspension or revocation of registration or a photo identification card pursuant to this chapter or any rules promulgated hereto.

f. For the purposes of this section: "predecessor wholesale business or market business" shall mean a wholesale business or market business in which one or more principals of the applicant were principals in the five year period preceding the application; and, in relation to investigations of employees pursuant to section 22-252 of this chapter, the term "applicant" shall be deemed to apply to employees or agents of an applicant for registration.

a. Any police officer or authorized officer or employee of the department may, upon service of a notice of violation or criminal summons upon the owner or operator of a vehicle or other property or equipment, seize such vehicle or such other property or equipment which such police officer or authorized officer or employee has reasonable cause to believe is being used in connection with an act constituting a violation of subdivision a of section 22-253 of this chapter where such vehicle or other property or equipment is owned, leased or rented by a person subject to the provisions of such subdivision or such vehicle or other property or equipment is owned by a person other than an employee and is used directly by a person subject to the provisions of such subdivision. Any vehicle, property or equipment seized pursuant to this subdivision shall be delivered into the custody of the department or other appropriate agency. Where a notice of violation has been served, a hearing to adjudicate the violation underlying the seizure shall be held before the environmental control board within five business days after the seizure and such board shall render a decision within five businesss days after the conclusion of the hearing. Where a criminal summons has been served, a hearing to adjudicate the violation underlying the seizure shall be held before a court of competent jurisdiction. In the event that such court or the environmental control board determines that there has been no violation, the vehicle, property or equipment that was seized shall be released forthwith to the owner or any person authorized by the owner to take possession of such vehicle, property or equipment.

b. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision a of this section or where notice has been given that forfeiture will be sought pursuant to paragraph (ii) of subdivision e of this section, a vehicle or other property or equipment seized pursuant to subdivision a of this section shall be released upon payment of a fine or civil penalty imposed for the violation underlying the seizure and the costs of removal and storage as set forth in the rules of the department. Where an action or a proceeding relating to the violation underlying the seizure is pending in a court of competent jurisdiction or an administrative proceeding before the environmental control board, the vehicle or other property or equipment shall be released upon posting of a bond or other form of security sufficient to cover the maximum fine or civil penalty which may be imposed for such violation and the costs of removal and storage.

c. Where a court of competent jurisdiction or the environmental control board makes a finding that the vehicle or other property or equipment has not been used in connection with an act constituting a violation of subdivision a of section 22-253 of this chapter, the vehicle or other property or equipment shall be released forthwith to the owner or any person authorized by the owner to take possession of such vehicle, property or equipment.

d. Any vehicle or other property or equipment that has not been claimed by the owner within ten business days after mailing by first class mail to such owner of notice of a determination by a court of competent jurisdiction or by the environmental control board that there has been no violation or that the vehicle or other property or equipment was not used in connection with a violation of subdivision a of section 22-253 of this chapter shall be deemed by the department to be abandoned. Any vehicle unclaimed under the provisions of this subdivision shall be disposed of by the department pursuant to section twelve hundred twenty-four of the vehicle and traffic law. Property or equipment other than a vehicle shall be disposed of by sale at public auction following notice by publication in the city record describing such property or equipment not less than ten business days prior to such sale. Such notice shall provide that the owner may reclaim such property or equipment until a date that shall be not sooner than ten business days from the date the notice is published.

e. (i) in addition to any other fines, penalties, sanctions or remedies provided for in this chapter, a vehicle or other property or equipment which has been seized pursuant to subdivision a of this section and all rights, title and interest therein shall be subject to forfeiture upon notice and judicial determination thereof if the owner of such vehicle or other property or equipment has been found liable by a court of competent jurisdiction or the environmental control board on one or more prior occasions for using such vehicle or such other property or equipment in connection with an act constituting a violation of subdivision a of section 22-253 of this chapter.

(ii) A forfeiture proceeding may not be commenced more than ten business days after the receipt of a request by the owner for return of the vehicle, other property or equipment. If a forfeiture proceeding is not commenced within such ten day period, the property shall be returned to the owner upon payment of the fine or civil penalty imposed and the costs of removal and storage. A vehicle or other property or equipment which is the subject of such action shall remain in the custody of the department or other appropriate agency pending the final determination of the forfeiture action.

(iii) Notice of the institution of the forfeiture action shall be served by first class mail on: (a) an owner of a vehicle at the address set forth in the records maintained by the department of motor vehicles, or for vehicles not registered in New York state, in the records maintained by the state of registration; (b) all persons holding a security interest in such vehicle which security interest has been filed with the department of motor vehicles pursuant to the provisions of title ten of the vehicle and traffic law, at the address set forth in the records of such department, or for vehicles not registered in New York state, all persons who hold a security interest in such vehicle which security interest has been filed with such state of registration and which persons are made known by such state to the department at the address provided by such state of registration; and (c) for property and equipment other than a vehicle, by publication in the city record describing such property or equipment and by notice served by first class mail to the address of the person from whom such property or equipment was seized. Where such person is other than the owner of such property or equipment, notice shall be served by first class mail both to such person and to the owner of such property or equipment where such owner is known, or can by reasonable effort, be ascertained or, where such owner is not known or cannot by reasonable effort be ascertained, to the employer of the person from whom the property or other equipment was seized. Notice shall also be served by first class mail to any person who holds a security interest in such property or equipment when the name and address of such person has been provided by the owner of the property or equipment or other person from whom the property or equipment was seized, or is otherwise known or can, by reasonable effort, be ascertained.

(iv) Any owner who receives notice of the institution of a forfeiture action who wishes to claim an interest in the vehicle or other property or equipment subject to forfeiture may assert a claim in such action for the recovery of the vehicle or other property or equipment or satisfaction of the owner's interest in such vehicle or other property or equipment. Any person with a security interest in such vehicle or property or equipment who receives notice of the institution of the forfeiture action who claims an interest in such vehicle or other property or equipment may assert a claim in such action for satisfaction of such person's security interest.

(v) Forfeiture pursuant to this subdivision shall be made subject to the interest of a person who claims an interest in the vehicle or other property or equipment pursuant to paragraph (iv) of this subdivision, where such person establishes that: (a) the use of such vehicle, property or equipment in connection with an act constituting a violation of subdivision a of section 22-253 of this chapter that was the basis for seizure occurred without the knowledge of such person, or if such person had knowledge of such use, that such person did not consent to such use by failing to do all that could reasonably have been done to prevent such use, and that such person did not knowingly obtain such interest in the vehicle, property or equipment in order to avoid the forfeiture; or (b) that the conduct that was the basis for such seizure was committed by any person other than such person claiming an interest in the vehicle, property or equipment while such vehicle was unlawfully in the possession of a person who acquired possession thereof in violation of the criminal laws of the United States or any state.

(vi) The department, after judicial determination of forfeiture, shall, at its discretion, either: (a) retain such vehicle, property or equipment for the official use of the city; or (b) by public notice of at least five days, sell such forfeited vehicle, property or equipment at public sale. The net proceeds of any such sale shall be paid into the general fund of the city.

(vii) In any forfeiture action commenced pursuant to this subdivision, where the court awards a sum of money to one or more persons in satisfaction of such person's or persons' interest in the forfeited vehicle, property or equipment, the total amount awarded to satisfy such interest or interests shall not exceed the amount of the net proceeds of the sale of the forfeited vehicle, property or equipment after deduction of the lawful expenses incurred by the city, including the reasonable costs of removal and storage between the time of seizure and the date of sale.

(viii) For purposes of this section, the term "owner" of a vehicle shall mean an owner as defined in section one hundred twenty-eight and in subdivision three of section three hundred eight of the vehicle and traffic law. The commissioner may, if he or she has reasonable cause to believe that such an officer lacks good character, honesty and integrity, require that such officer be fingerprinted by a person designated by the commissioner for such purpose or by the department of investigation and pay a fee to be submitted to the division of criminal justice services and/or the federal bureau of investigation for the purpose of obtaining criminal history records.

c. The commissioner may, after notice and opportunity to be heard, disqualify an officer of a labor union or labor organization from holding office when such person: (i) has failed, by the date prescribed by the commissioner, to be fingerprinted or to provide truthful information in connection with the reporting requirements of subdivision b of this section; (ii) is the subject of a pending indictment or criminal action against such officer for a crime which bears a direct relationship to the lawful and orderly operation of the market, in which case the commissioner may defer a determination until a decision has been reached by the court before which such action is pending; (iii) has been convicted of a crime which, under the standards set forth in article 23-A of the correction law, bears a direct relationship to the lawful and orderly operation of the market, including the specific duties and responsibilities necessarily related to the union office; the bearing, if any the criminal offense or offenses will have on the fitness of the officer to perform such responsibilities; the time which has elapsed since the occurrence of the criminal offense or offenses; the seriousness of the offense or offenses; and any information produced by the person, or produced on his or her behalf, in regard to his or her rehabilitation or good conduct; (iv) has committed a racketeering activity or associated with a person who has been convicted of a racketeering activity, including but not limitied to the offenses listed in subdivision one of section nineteen hundred sixty-one of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization statute (18 U.S.C. §1961 et seq.) or of an offense listed in subdivision one of section 460.10 of the penal law, as such statutes may be amended from time to time, when the officer knew or should have known of such conviction; or (v) has associated with any member or associate of an organized crime group as identified by a federal, state or city law enforcement or investigative agency when the officer knew or should have known of the organized crime associations of such person. An officer required to disclose information pursuant to subdivision a of this section may submit to the commissioner any material or explanation which such officer believes demonstrates that such information does not reflect adversely upon the officer's good character, honesty and integrity. If the commissioner determines pursuant to this subdivision that there are sufficient grounds to disqualify a person from holding office in a labor union or labor organization, the commissioner shall suspend such person from holding office pending final determination and, in the event such person is disqualified, such suspension shall continue pending resignation or vacatur of or removal from office. Upon written request of the suspended person within ten days of the commissioner's determination, the director of the office of collective bargaining shall prepare a list of the names of the first fifteen arbitrators selected at random from the roster of arbitrators approved by the office of collective bargaining and present the first five names on such list to the suspended person and the commissioner. Within alternating periods of five business days the suspended person and then the commissioner shall each strike a name from the list of selected arbitrators. If the parties cannot within two additional business days jointly appoint an arbitrator from those remaining on the list, the suspended person and then the commissioner shall within alternating periods of two business days each strike an additional name from the list. The remaining arbitrator shall thereupon be appointed as the arbitrator for that proceeding and shall establish a schedule for such proceeding. In the event that such arbitrator declines the appointment or for any reason is unable to accept the appointment, then the director of the office of collective bargaining shall within five business days present to the suspended person and the commissioner the next five names on the list of arbitrators previously selected at random and the procedures set forth in this subdivision for appointing an arbitrator shall be applied to this second group. In the event that the arbitrator appointed from this second group declines the appointment or for any reason is unable to accept the appointment then the director of the office of collective bargaining shall present the remaining five names from the list arbitrators selected at random and the suspended person shall select an arbitrator from such group. Such arbitrator shall make a final report and recommendations in writing concerning the disqualification. The commissioner shall accept such report and recommendations and issue his or her final determination consistent with such report and recommendations. In the event that the suspended person does not make a request for arbitration within the ten-day period he or she shall be disqualified from holding office. Upon receiving an order of the commissioner pursuant to this subdivision disqualifying a person from holding office in a labor union or labor organization, such person shall resign or vacate such office within fourteen days or, if such person fails to resign or vacate such office within such time period, such union or organization shall remove such person forthwith from such office. Failure of such a person to resign or vacate office within such time period shall subject such person to the penalties set forth in subdivision a of section 22-258 of this chapter. An officer who has been disqualified or suspended by the commissioner pursuant to the provisions of this subdivision may be excluded by the commissioner from the market. Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the commissioner to disqualify a labor union or labor organization from representing or seeking to represent employees of a business required to be registered pursuant to section 22-253 of this code.

d. In reaching a determination to fingerprint or disqualify an officer of a labor union or labor organization pursuant to subdivisions b or c of this section, the commissioner shall give substantial weight to the results of any investigation conducted by an independent investigator, monitor, trustee or other person or body charged with the investigation or oversight of such labor union or labor organization, including whether such investigation has failed to return charges against such officer.

e. Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter to the contrary, the provisions of this section shall apply to any labor union or labor organization representing or seeking to represent employees of business required to be licensed or registered pursuant to chapter 1-A of this title in the fulton fish market distribution area or other seafood distribution area. The term "market" shall, for purposes of application of the provisions of this section to the fulton fish market distribution or other seafood distribution area, mean such areas.

a. A wholesaler trade association shall, within the time period prescribed by the commissioner, register with the commissioner and shall disclose such information to the commissioner as the commissioner may by rule require, including but not limited to the names of all members of such association and of all persons holding office in such association. The commissioner may promulgate rules requiring that an association required to register pursuant to this section maintain financial statements, records, ledgers, receipts, bills and such other written records as the commissioner determines are necessary or useful for carrying out the purposes of this chapter. Such records shall be maintained for a period of time not to exceed five years to be determined by rule by the commissioner; provided, however, that such rule may provide that the commissioner may, in specific instances at his or her discretion, require that records be maintained for a period of time exceeding five years. Such records shall be made available for inspection and audit at the request of the commissioner at either the offices of the association or the offices of the department.

b. An officer of a wholesale trade association required to register pursuant to this section shall inform the commissioner, on a form prescribed by the commissioner, of: (i) all criminal convictions, in any jurisdiction, of such officer; (ii) any pending civil or criminal actions to which such officer is a party; and (iii) any criminal or civil investigation by a federal, state, or local prosecutorial agency, investigative agency or regulatory agency, in the five year period preceding the date of registration pursuant to subdivision a of this section and at any time subsequent to such registration, wherein such officer has (A) been the subject of such investigation, or (B) received a subpoena requiring the production of documents or information in connection with such an investigation. Any material change in information reported pursuant to this subdivision shall be reported to the commissioner within thirty calendar days thereof. The commissioner may, if he or she has reasonable cause to believe that such an officer of a trade association lacks good character, honesty and integrity, require that such officer be fingerprinted by a person designated by the commissioner for such and pay a fee to be submitted to the division of criminal justice for the purpose of obtaining criminal history records.

c. The commissioner may, after notice and opportunity to be heard, disqualify a person from holding office in a wholesale trade association when such person: (i) has failed, by the date prescribed by the commissioner, to be fingerprinted or to provide truthful information in connection with the reporting requirements of subdivision b of this section; (ii) is the subject of a pending indictment or criminal action against such officer for a crime which bears a relationship to the lawful and orderly operation of the market, in which case the commissioner may defer a determination pending a determination by the court before which such action is pending; (iii) has been convicted of a crime which, under the standards of article 23-A of the correction law, bears a relationship to the lawful and orderly operation of the market; (iv) has committed a racketeering activity or associated with a person who has been convicted of a racketeering activity, including but not limited to the offenses listed in subdivision one of section nineteen hundred sixty-one of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization statute (18 U.S.C. §1961 et seq) or of an offense listed in subdivision one of section 460.10 of the penal law, as such statutes may be amended from time to time, when the officer knew or should have known of such conviction; or (v) has associated with any member or associate of an organized crime group as identified by a federal, state or city law enforcement or investigative agency when the officer knew or should have known of the organized crime associations of such person. An officer required to disclose information pursuant to subdivision a of this section may submit to the commissioner any material or explanation which such officer believes demonstrates that the officer does not lack good character, honesty and integrity. Upon receiving an order of the commissioner pursuant to this subdivision disqualifying a person from holding office in a wholesale trade association, such person shall vacate such office or, if such person fails to vacate such office within the time period specified by the commissioner, such association shall remove such person forthwith from such office. Failure of such person to vacate such office within the time specified by the commissioner shall subject such person to the penalties set forth in subdivision a of section 22-258 of this chapter or to injunctive action by the city pursuant to subdivision c of such section. An office-holder who has been disqualified pursuant to the provisions of this subdivision may be excluded by the commissioner from the market. Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the commissioner to disqualify a wholesale trade association from representing or seeking to represent a business required to be registered pursuant to section 22-253 of this chapter.

Provisions of L.L. 39/2002:

Section 1. Declaration of Legislative Findings and Intent. The effects of September 11 and the deepening recession have been devastating for low income New Yorkers. The volatility of the real estate industry coupled with new trends in the service economy are undermining stable employment relationships and creating a drain on an already overburdened social service system. At a time of great uncertainty, it is the policy of the City to promote stability in employment for building service workers, which will reduce the need for social services resulting from unemployment, and promote stability in the service industry.

(2) Any proceeding to recover any civil penalty authorized pursuant to this section shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation which shall be returnable to the administering agency. The commissioner or other designated person of such administering agency shall, after due notice and an opportunity for a hearing, be authorized to impose the civil penalties prescribed by this section.

(3) Any action or proceeding that may be appropriate or necessary for the correction of any violation issued pursuant to this section, including, but not limited to, actions to secure permanent injunctions, enjoining any acts or practices which constitute such violation, mandating compliance with the provisions of this section or such other relief as may be appropriate, may be initiated in any court of competent jurisdiction by the corporation counsel or such other persons designated by the corporation counsel on behalf of the administering agency.

(5) Any aggrieved person may bring an action in any court of competent jurisdiction against a covered employer for violation of subdivision d of this section. Upon a determination of any such violation, the court may award any appropriate remedy at law or equity and shall award reasonable attorney's fees and costs incurred in maintaining the action to any complaining party who prevails in any such enforcement action.

1. Provisions of L.L. 89/2005:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative findings and intent. In major industries in New York City, such as the grocery industry, responsible employers have long provided employer-paid health care for their employees and the families of their employees. Ensuring that employers do not eliminate employer-paid health care is important for minimizing the burden on taxpayers and the public health care system, protecting the health, safety and well-being of hardworking New Yorkers and promoting safe conditions and stable growth. Furthermore, research shows that ensuring access to employer-paid health care can strengthen industries by reducing employee turnover and improving employers' ability to recruit new employees.

The City Council finds that in order to achieve these goals, employers should make prevailing health care expenditures on behalf of their employees. This local law initially establishes such a program in the grocery industry, where responsible employers have demonstrated that it is economically feasible to pay for their employees' health care, but a growing number of employers in this industry are not doing so.

§ 3. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or other portion of this local law, including any requirement imposed pursuant to it, is for any reason declared unconstitutional or invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed severable, and such unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this local law, which remaining portions shall continue in full force and effect. § 4. This local law shall take effect ninety days after its enactment into law.

2. Provisions of L.L. 1/2006:

§ 4. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or other portion of this local law, including any requirement imposed pursuant to it, is for any reason declared unconstitutional or invalid, in whole or in part, by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed severable, and such unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this local law, which remaining portions shall continue in full force and effect.

§ 5. This local law shall take effect immediately or on the date that local law 89 of 2005 takes effect [L.L. 89/2005 effective Jan. 9, 2006], whichever is later.

CHAPTER 6 REBATES OF CHARGES FOR ENERGY

§ 22-602 Requirement of special rebates and discounts.

(a)(1) Utilities that provide energy services within the city of New York shall be required to make special rebates to eligible energy users and on-site cogenerators certified after June thirtieth, two thousand three, other than clean on-site cogenerators, and to make discounts to vendors of energy services and the New York public utility service as follows:

(i) a utility that sells energy services to an eligible energy user shall be required to make a special rebate to such eligible energy user equal to the product of the applicable percentage specified for special rebates in the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision and the eligible charges for such energy services.

(ii) a utility that delivers natural gas to an on-site cogenerator, other than a clean on-site cogenerator, that uses such gas to produce electricity used by an eligible energy user, which cogenerator and user are certified after June thirtieth, two thousand three, shall be required to make a special rebate to such on-site cogenerator equal to the product of the applicable percentage specified for special rebates in the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision and the eligible on-site cogenerator charges for the energy services related to such delivery of such gas.

(iii) a utility that sells energy services to a vendor of energy services shall be required to make a discount to such vendor in an amount equal to the sum of the special rebates certified to such utility by such vendor as having been made by such vendor to eligible energy users in accordance with subparagraphs (i) through (iii) of paragraph three of this subdivision.

(iv) a utility that sells energy services to a public utility service shall be required to make a discount to such public utility service in an amount equal to the sum of the special rebates and discounts certified to such utility by such public utility service as having been made by such public utility service in accordance with subparagraphs (i) through (iii) of paragraph two of this subdivision.

(2) A public utility service providing energy services within the city of New York shall be required to make special rebates to eligible energy users and qualified eligible energy users and discounts to vendors of energy services as follows:

(i) where, pursuant to a written agreement between a public utility service and the power authority of the state of New York, such public utility service sells energy services to an eligible energy user that has been individually approved by such power authority and certified pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section prior to November first, two thousand, such special rebate shall be in the amount or amounts derived by calculating the full amount of the special rebate to which such eligible energy user would have been entitled pursuant to the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision for eligible charges relating to the purchase of such energy services had such eligible energy user purchased such energy services directly from the utility and subtracting from such full amount the difference between the eligible charges relating to the purchase of such energy services had such eligible energy user purchased the energy services directly from the utility and the eligible public utility service charges relating to the purchase of such energy services actually charged to such eligible energy user by such public utility service for actual purchases of energy services from such public utility service; except that (A) in no event shall the amount of such special rebate exceed the amount of the special rebate to which such eligible energy user would have been entitled pursuant to the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision had such eligible energy user purchased the energy services directly from the utility at the price charged by such utility, and (B) for any monthly billing period where the calculation of such special rebate results in a negative number, the amount of such special rebate shall be deemed to be zero.

(ii) where, pursuant to a written agreement between a public utility service and the power authority of the state of New York, such public utility service (A) sells energy services to an eligible energy user that has been individually approved by such power authority and certified pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section after October thirty-first, two thousand, or (B) sells energy services to a qualified eligible energy user that has been individually approved by such power authority and certified pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section prior to November first, two thousand, such special rebate shall be the product of the applicable percentage for special rebates specified in the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision and the eligible public utility service charges for such energy services.

(iii) a public utility service that sells energy services to a vendor of energy services shall be required to make a discount to such vendor of energy services equal to the sum of the special rebates certified to such public utility service by such vendor as having been made by such vendor to eligible energy users or qualified eligible energy users to which such vendor of energy services has resold such energy services in accordance with subparagraphs (i) through (iii) of paragraph three of this subdivision.

(3) Vendors of energy services may elect to provide a special rebate against an eligible energy user's, qualified eligible energy user's or on-site cogenerator's bill for energy services as follows:

(i) in the case of a vendor of energy services that sells energy services provided by a utility to an eligible energy user, such special rebate shall be the product of the applicable percentage specified for a special rebate in the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision and the eligible charges for such sales of energy services made by such vendor of energy services.

(ii) in the case of a vendor of energy services that delivers natural gas to an on-site cogenerator that is other than a clean on-site cogenerator and that uses such gas to produce electricity used by an eligible energy user, which cogenerator and user are certified after June thirtieth, two thousand three, such special rebate shall be equal to the product of the applicable percentage specified in the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision and the eligible on-site cogenerator charges for the energy services related to such delivery of such gas.

(iii) in the case of a vendor of energy services that sells energy services provided by a public utility service to a qualified eligible energy user that was certified prior to November first, two thousand, or to an eligible energy user that was certified after October thirty-first, two thousand, such special rebate shall be the product of the applicable percentage specified for a special rebate in the schedule contained in paragraph four of this subdivision and the eligible public utility service charges for sales of energy services made by such vendor of energy services.

(4) For purposes of determining special rebates for energy services relating to electricity and natural gas under the provisions of this subdivision, the applicable percentages are as follows:

Months Following Certification	Applicable % for Natural Gas	Applicable % for Electricity
first through ninety-sixth	35%	45%
ninety-seventh through one hundred eighth	28%	36%
one hundred ninth through one hundred twentieth	21%	27%
one hundred twenty-first through one hundred thirty-second	14%	18%
one hundred thirty-third through one hundred forty-fourth	7%	9%

; provided, however, that the commissioner of the department of small business services may increase such percentages at the commissioner's discretion in order to maintain the special rebate at levels comparable to those historically provided under the program, pursuant to rules that are generally applicable to distinct classes of energy users.

(5) A utility that delivers natural gas to an on-site cogenerator that produces electricity for an eligible energy user, which cogenerator and user are certified before July first, two thousand three, or to a clean on-site cogenerator that produces electricity for an eligible energy user, shall be required to make special rebates against the energy bill rendered to such on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator by such utility for the sale or delivery, or both, of such gas in the amount or amounts derived by taking the product of a base adjustment multiplied by an eligibility factor, multiplied by the number of kilowatt hours of electricity produced by such on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator and used by such eligible energy user during the billing period, excluding charges for natural gas used to generate electricity used for heating any premises or by any energy user not located on the same site, any special charges on such bill, including but not limited to, collection charges, late payment charges, excess distribution charges, and charges for energy which is resold; where the base adjustment shall equal three cents increased by nine one-hundredths cent each January first occurring after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven, and ending on June thirtieth, two thousand three, and the eligibility factor shall equal one hundred percent during the first eight years after initial certification as an eligible energy user as defined in paragraphs one and two of subdivision (d) of section 22-601 of this chapter, eighty percent during the ninth such year, sixty percent during the tenth such year, forty percent during the eleventh such year and twenty percent during the twelfth and final such year, such years to be calculated in accordance with the provisions of this section, provided that the number of kilowatt hours on which the total of the special rebates payable to a clean on-site cogenerator is based in any year pursuant to this paragraph shall not exceed thirteen million one hundred forty thousand.

(6) Notwithstanding any provision of this subdivision, the special rebates and discounts provided by the Long Island Power Authority, or its subsidiary, pursuant to this subdivision shall not exceed the amount of the payment made by or on behalf of such authority to the city of New York as a payment that is equivalent to the tax imposed by such city pursuant to chapter eleven of title eleven of the code. Special rebates and discounts shall be reduced and/or allocated proportionate to the benefit they would otherwise be eligible for among eligible energy users, public utility services, vendors of energy services, and on-site cogenerators where necessary to comply with this paragraph pursuant to rules of the commissioner of the department of small business services.

(7) Notwithstanding any provisions of this subdivision, special rebates and discounts shall not exceed ten thousand dollars per year per employee or full-time equivalent with respect to applications certified pursuant to this chapter after June thirtieth, two thousand three.

(b) Eligible energy users meeting the criteria in paragraph one of subdivision (d) and qualified eligible energy users meeting the criteria in paragraph one of subdivision (r) of section 22-601 of this chapter shall be eligible for special rebates for a period not to exceed one hundred forty-four months calculated from the beginning of the month immediately following their date of certification of eligibility. Eligible energy users meeting the criteria of paragraph two of subdivision (d) of section 22-601 of this chapter shall be eligible for special rebates for a period calculated from the beginning of the month immediately following their date of certification for so long as they remain in occupancy in the specially eligible premises, but not beyond the period of one hundred forty-four months from the beginning of the month immediately following the date of certification of the first eligible energy user occupying such specially eligible premises. The amounts of rebates made to such an eligible energy user meeting the criteria of such paragraph two shall be determined in accordance with the schedule contained in paragraph four of subdivision (a) of this section as if such eligible energy user had been certified at the same time as such first eligible energy user was certified. A qualified eligible energy user that takes occupancy of targeted eligible premises shall be eligible for special rebates for a period calculated from the beginning of the month immediately following its date of certification as a qualified eligible energy user for so long as it remains in occupancy in the targeted eligible premises, but not beyond the period of one hundred forty-four months from the beginning of the month immediately following the date of certification of the first qualified eligible energy user occupying such targeted eligible premises. The amounts of rebates made to a qualified eligible energy user that takes occupancy of targeted eligible premises shall be determined in accordance with the schedule contained in paragraph four of subdivision (a) of this section as if such qualified eligible energy user had been certified at the same time as such first qualified eligible energy user was certified. An on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator shall be eligible for special rebates for a period not to exceed the period during which the eligible energy user served by such on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator would have been eligible for a special rebate under the provisions of this subdivision had it purchased energy services directly from a utility.

(c)(1) No eligible energy user, qualified eligible energy user, on-site cogenerator, clean on-site cogenerator or special eligible energy user shall receive a rebate pursuant to this chapter until it has obtained a certification as an eligible energy user, qualified eligible energy user, on-site cogenerator, clean on-site cogenerator or special eligible energy user, respectively, from the commissioner of small business services. No such certification for a qualified eligible energy user shall be issued on or after July first, two thousand three. No such certification of any other eligible energy user, on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator shall be issued on or after July first, two thousand ten. The commissioner of small business services, after notice and hearing, may revoke a certification issued pursuant to this subdivision where it is found that eligibility criteria have not been met or that compliance with conditions for continued eligibility has not been maintained. The corporation counsel may maintain a civil action to recover an amount equal to any benefits improperly obtained.

(2) A utility and a vendor of energy services shall keep records of all transactions subject to this article and make such records available to the department of small business services.

(d) (1) Utilities subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall reduce each bill for energy services or natural gas for each eligible energy user, vendor of energy services, on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator as follows:

(i) a bill for the sale and delivery of natural gas rendered to an on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator entitled to a special rebate pursuant to the provisions of paragraph five of subdivision (a) of this section shall be reduced by the full amount of the special rebate that shall have accrued for the period covered by each such bill;

(ii) a bill for energy services rendered to any other eligible energy user or on-site cogenerator shall be reduced by the full amount of the special rebate that shall have accrued for the period covered by each such bill.

(iii) a bill for energy services rendered to a vendor of energy services that has provided a special rebate to an eligible energy user or on-site cogenerator shall be reduced by such utility in accordance with paragraph three of subdivision (a) of this section by the aggregate amount of all such special rebates;

(iv) provided, however, such utility shall not be required to provide a special rebate or discount in an amount that exceeds the amount of such bill for the sale and delivery of natural gas rendered to an on-site cogenerator or clean on-site cogenerator entitled to a special rebate pursuant to the provisions of paragraph five of subdivision (a) of this section or, in the case of any other eligible energy user or on-site cogenerator, the amount of such bill for energy services, and provided, further, that no utility subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall be required to carry forward on its books and records any special rebate or discounts not made in accordance with this sentence to such bills for subsequent periods. Such discount shall be made within four months from the time certification of special rebates is made in accordance with subparagraph (iii) or (iv) of paragraph one of subdivision (a) of this section. Such amount shall be separately stated and shown on each bill.

(2) A public utility service that provides special rebates for eligible energy users or qualified eligible energy users shall reduce each bill rendered to each such user by the full amount of the special rebate that shall have accrued for the period covered by each such bill in accordance with paragraph two of subdivision (a) of this section. Such amounts shall be separately stated and shown on such bills.

(3) Each such vendor of energy services that has elected to provide special rebates for eligible energy users, qualified eligible energy users or on-site cogenerators shall reduce each bill rendered to each such energy user or cogenerator by the full amount of the special rebate that shall have accrued for the period covered by each such bill in accordance with paragraph three of subdivision (a) of this section. Such amounts shall be separately stated and shown on such bills.

(e) The commissioner of small business services shall, for the purpose of calculating eligible charges, eligible public utility service charges and eligible on-site cogenerator charges, promulgate rules to determine that portion of such charges that shall be deemed attributable to energy services or natural gas used for heating the premises. He or she shall, in addition, promulgate any other rules and regulations necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter, including rules to determine the extent to which charges are eligible charges, eligible public utility service charges or eligible on-site cogenerator charges and rules to provide for such administrative charges or fees as are necessary to defray expenses in administering the special rebates and discounts provided pursuant to this chapter.

(C) such sum may not exceed the limitation amount for such relocation defined in paragraph two of this subdivision.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of other paragraphs of this subdivision, any excess shares that are apportioned pursuant to paragraph one of this subdivision to a relocation to particular eligible premises that are not located in a revitalization area as defined in subdivision (n) of this section, but are attributed pursuant to paragraph three of this subdivision to particular eligible premises that are located in such a revitalization area, shall be treated as if such premises to which they are attributed were not in such a revitalization area.

CHAPTER 6-B RELOCATION AND EMPLOYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

§ 22-622 Authorization to provide relocation and employment assistance credits.

(a) An eligible business that relocates as defined in subdivision (j) of section 22-621 of the code shall be allowed to receive a credit against a tax imposed by chapter five, or subchapter two or three of chapter six, or chapter eleven, of title eleven of the code, as described in subdivision (i) of section 11-503, subdivision seventeen of section 11-604, section 11-643.7 and section 11-1105.2 of the code, and a reduction in base rent subject to tax as described in subdivision f of section 11-704 of the code, provided, however, notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, no such credit shall be allowed against the tax imposed under such chapter eleven for a relocation taking place prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-nine.

(b) No eligible business shall be authorized to receive a credit against tax or a reduction in base rent subject to tax under the provisions of this chapter, and of title eleven of the code as described in subdivision (a) of this section, until the premises with respect to which it is claiming the credit meet the requirements in the definition of eligible premises and until it has obtained a certification of eligibility from the mayor or an agency designated by the mayor, and an annual certification from the mayor or an agency designated by the mayor as to the number of eligible aggregate employment shares maintained by such eligible business that may qualify for obtaining a tax credit for the eligible business' taxable year. Any written documentation submitted to the mayor or such agency or agencies in order to obtain any such certification shall be deemed a written instrument for purposes of section 175.00 of the penal law. Application fees for such certifications shall be determined by the mayor or such agency or agencies. No certification of eligibility shall be issued to an eligible business on or after July first, two thousand thirteen unless:

(1) prior to such date such business has purchased, leased or entered into a contract to purchase or lease particular premises or a parcel on which will be constructed such premises or already owned such premises or parcel;

(2) prior to such date improvements have been commenced on such premises or parcel which improvements will meet the requirements of subdivi- sion (e) of section 22-621 of this chapter relating to expenditures for improvements;

(3) prior to such date such business submits a preliminary application for a certification of eligibility to such mayor or such agency or agencies with respect to a proposed relocation to such particular premises; and

(4) such business relocates to such particular premises not later than thirty-six months or, in a case in which the expenditures made for improvements specified in paragraph two of this subdivision are in excess of fifty million dollars within seventy-two months from the date of submission of such preliminary application.

(c) The mayor or an agency or agencies designated by the mayor shall be authorized to promulgate rules and regulations to administer and assure compliance with the provisions of this chapter, including but not limited to rules and regulations to provide for alternative methods to measure employment shares in instances where an eligible business is not required by law to maintain weekly records of full-time work weeks and part-time work weeks of employees, partners or sole proprietors as defined in subdivision (g) of section 22-621 of this chapter.

(d) An eligible business other than a utility company subject to the supervision of the department of public service shall not be authorized to receive a credit against the gross receipts tax imposed under chapter eleven of title eleven of the code, unless such eligible business elects to take the credit authorized by this section against the tax imposed by such chapter on an application filed with respect to the first relocation of such business that qualifies or will qualify under this section, with the mayor or the agency designated by such mayor pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section. The election authorized by this subdivision may not be withdrawn after the issuance of such certification of eligibility. No taxpayer that has previously received a certification of eligibility to receive such credit against any tax imposed by chapter five or subchapter two or three of chapter six of title eleven of the code may make the election authorized by this subdivision. No taxpayer that makes the election provided in this subdivision shall be authorized to take such credit against any tax imposed by chapter five or subchapter two or three of chapter six of title eleven of the code.

(e) Notwithstanding other provisions of this chapter, an eligible business that has obtained pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section a certification of eligibility for a relocation to particular eligible premises may apply to the mayor of such city or an agency designated by such mayor to have premises in a building, other than the building in which such particular eligible premises are located, certified as designated additional or replacement premises as defined in subdivision (q) of section 22-621 of this chapter. After the certification provided for in this subdivision has been obtained, any aggregate employment shares maintained by the eligible business in such premises shall be treated as if such employment shares were maintained in the particular premises to which the eligible business relocated. No such certification shall be issued after the end of the period during which the credit may be taken with regard to the relocation to such particular eligible premises, and the issuance of such certification shall not extend such period. Provided, however, (i) no premises shall be certified as designated additional or replacement premises if the eligible business maintained employment shares in such premises prior to the application for certification provided for in this subdivision, (ii) no premises shall be certified as designated additional or replacement premises unless such premises meet the requirements for eligible premises in subdivision (e) of section 22-621 of this chapter, and (iii) if the particular premises to which the eligible business relocated are in a revitalization zone, no premises shall be certified as designated additional or replacement premises with regard to such relocation unless such designated additional or replacement premises are located in a revitalization zone.

(f)(1)(i) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (i) of section 22-621 of this chapter, in the case of an eligible business meeting the criteria in subparagraphs (ii) and (iii) of this paragraph, the mayor or his or her designee, in his or her discretion, may for any taxable year in which such business is eligible to receive the credit provided for in this section, determine the number of eligible aggregate employment shares as provided in paragraph two of this subdivision, and such number shall be deemed to be the number of eligible aggregate employment shares determined pursuant to such subdivision (i) of section 22-621 for the purpose of attributing shares pursuant to subdivision (o) of section 22-621 of this chapter to relocations as defined in subdivision (j) of such section 22-621 occurring after July first, two thousand three:

(ii) in the case of a relocation before July first, two thousand five, in the taxable year prior to its first relocation after July first, two thousand three (such prior year being hereafter referred to as the "base year"), such eligible business maintained more than one hundred aggregate employment shares in the eligible Lower Manhattan area as defined in subdivision (f) of section 22-623 of this title, provided that in the case of a relocation after June thirtieth, two thousand five, in the taxable year prior to its first relocation after such date (such prior year being hereafter referred to as the "base year"), such eligible business maintained one or more aggregate employment shares in such eligible Lower Manhattan area, and

of this subdivision, such premises shall nonetheless remain eligible premises, provided that the eligible business or special eligible business continues to occupy such premises; provided however that if, after such property ceases to meet the requirements of paragraph one or two, an eligible business or special eligible business first leases or purchases additional premises contained in such property, such additional premises shall not be considered eligible premises unless they meet the requirements of paragraph three of this subdivision.

(f) "Eligible Lower Manhattan area" means the area in the city of New York in the borough of Manhattan lying south of a line running from the intersection of the Hudson River with the Holland Tunnel, and running thence north along West Street to the intersection of Clarkson Street, then running east along the centerline of Clarkson Street to the intersection of Washington Street, then running south along the centerline of Washington Street to the intersection of West Houston Street, then east along the centerline of West Houston Street, then at the intersection of the Avenue of the Americas continuing east along the centerline of East Houston Street to the easterly bank of the East River.

For purposes of this subdivision, "full-time work week" shall mean a week during which at least thirty-five hours of gainful work has been performed by such employee, partner or sole proprietor and "part-time work week" shall mean a week during which at least fifteen but less than thirty-five hours of gainful work has been performed by such employee, partner or sole proprietor. For purposes of this section, employment shares shall not be based upon work weeks attributable to employees, partners or sole proprietors acquired by an eligible business or special eligible business as a result of a merger with, acquisition of another person, or a transaction having a comparable effect, that occurs after June thirtieth, two thousand five, and before the end of the taxable year in which a credit is claimed by such eligible business pursuant to this section, or to successors, if any, to those employees, partners or sole proprietors.

(h) "Aggregate employment shares" means the sum of all employment shares maintained by an eligible business or special eligible business in a taxable year.

(i) (1) "Eligible aggregate employment shares" means, in the case of an eligible business, the amount, if any, of aggregate employment shares maintained by an eligible business in eligible premises in the eligible Lower Manhattan area in the taxable year in which such eligible business claims a credit pursuant to section 22-624 of this chapter. Provided, however, that such amount shall not exceed the lesser of: (i) the highest number of aggregate employment shares maintained by such eligible business in eligible premises in the taxable year during which such eligible business relocates or in any of the five immediately succeeding taxable years; or (ii) the greater of one hundred aggregate employment shares and twice the number of aggregate employment shares maintained by such eligible business outside the city of New York in the taxable year immediately preceding the taxable year during which such eligible business relocates. In determining eligible aggregate employment shares, work weeks at premises prior to the later of the date of relocation and the date such premises meet the requirements of subdivision (e) of this section shall not be taken into account.

(2) In the case of a special eligible business, "eligible aggregate employment shares" means: the amount of aggregate employment shares determined in subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, provided, however, such amount shall not exceed the lowest of the amounts determined in subparagraphs (ii), (iii), (iv) and (v) of this paragraph.

(i) the amount determined in this subparagraph is the number of aggregate employment shares maintained by a special eligible business in eligible premises in the eligible Lower Manhattan area in the taxable year in which such special eligible business claims a credit pursuant to section 22-624 of this chapter less the number of aggregate employment shares maintained by such business in such premises in the taxable year prior to the year of relocation.

(ii) the amount determined in this subparagraph is the amount, if any, by which the number of aggregate employment shares maintained by a special eligible business in the taxable year in the city of New York exceeds the number of New York city base shares.

(v) the amount determined in this subparagraph is:

(A) for the year of relocation, the number of full-time work weeks worked by relocated employees in eligible premises after the date of relocation divided by the number of weeks in such taxable year, plus the number of part-time work weeks worked by such employees in such premises after the date of relocation, divided by twice the number of weeks in the taxable year of relocation;

(B) for taxable years after the taxable year of relocation, the lesser of: (I) the number of relocated employee base shares plus the product of (a) the excess, if any, of the number of aggregate employment shares determined in subparagraph (i) of this paragraph over the number of relocated employee base shares and (b) a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of relocated employee base shares and the denominator of which is the sum of relocated employee base shares and New York city base shares; and

(II) the highest number of eligible aggregate employment shares maintained by the special eligible business in eligible premises during the year of relocation and the five immediately succeeding taxable years.

(j) In the case of an eligible business, "relocate" means to transfer pre-existing business operations to one or more premises which are or will become eligible premises in accordance with subdivision (e) of this section, or to establish new business operations at such premises, provided that an eligible business shall not be deemed to have relocated unless at least one employee, partner or sole proprietor of the eligible business is transferred to such premises from pre-existing business operations conducted outside the city of New York. The date of relocation shall be the later of: (1) the first day on which the individual so transferred commences work at premises that are or will become eligible premises, and (2) the date of completion of sufficient improvements to the eligible premises at which such individual has commenced work, to meet the requirements of subdivision (e) of this section relating to expenditures for improvements. The taxable year of relocation shall be the taxable year in which the date of relocation occurs. (m) In the case of a special eligible business "relocate" means to transfer pre-existing business operations and employees from one or more qualifying business locations outside the city of New York to one or more premises which are or will become eligible premises in accordance with subdivision (e) of this section. The date of relocation shall be the later of: (1) the first day on which the first individual so transferred commences work at premises that are or will become eligible premises, and (2) the date of completion of sufficient improvements to the eligible premises at which such individual has commenced work to meet the requirements of subdivision (e) of this section relating to expenditures for improvements. The taxable year of relocation shall be the taxable year in which the date of relocation occurs. For purposes of this chapter, a special eligible business may relocate only once but may add additional eligible premises throughout the period during which it is authorized pursuant to subdivision (a) of section 22-624 of this chapter to receive the credit allowed by such section.

(n) "Relocated Employee" means an employee of a special eligible business who (1) has worked at a qualifying business location of the eligible business outside of the city of New York continuously full-time or part-time for the ten work weeks prior to the date of relocation and continuously from the date of relocation until the date of transfer to eligible premises; (2) is transferred to eligible premises; and (3) continues to work for the eligible business at the eligible premises for at least ten full work weeks after the date of transfer.

(o) "Relocated employee base shares" means the number of full-time work weeks worked by relocated employees in eligible premises during the twelve calendar months after the month of relocation, divided by the number of weeks in such twelve months, plus the number of part time work weeks worked by such employees in such premises divided by twice the number of weeks in such months.

(p) "New York city base shares" means the number of aggregate employment shares maintained by the special eligible business in the city of New York in the year prior to the year of relocation.

1. Provisions of L.L. 25/2002:

Section 1. Declaration of legislation findings and intent. Section 961 of the general municipal law provides that a city may adopt a local law authorizing the submission of an application to the New York state commissioner of economic development for designation of an area within the city as an empire zone. Such designation could greatly benefit the city of New York in that new businesses would be encouraged to locate in the zone, existing businesses would be encouraged to expand in the zone, and new and expanded businesses would generate new jobs for city residents.

§ 2. The city of New York is authorized to submit an application to the New York state commissioner of economic development for designation of an area within the city of New York as an empire zone.

§ 3. The boundaries of such area are set forth in section four of this local law.

2. Provisions of L.L. 84/2005:

Section 1. Declaration of legislation findings and intent. Section 961 of the general municipal law provides that a city may adopt a local law authorizing the submission of an application to the New York state commissioner of economic development for designation of an area within the city as an empire zone. Subdivision (f) of section 958 of the general municipal law authorizes the creation of an empire zone designated as the Chinatown Empire Zone, although the boundaries authorized for such zone also include geographic areas generally referred to as "the Lower East Side". The Council believes that the designation of such Chinatown/Lower East Side Empire Zone could greatly benefit the city of New York in that new businesses would be encouraged to locate in the zone, existing businesses would be encouraged to expand in the zone, and new and expanded businesses would generate new jobs for city residents.

§ 2. The city of New York is authorized to submit an application to the New York state commissioner of economic development for designation of an area within the city of New York as an empire zone, the boundaries of which area are set forth in section three of this local law.

CHAPTER 4 [PUBLIC PAY TELEPHONES]*20

a. The commissioner may issue and renew permits under this chapter based upon a determination, at his or her discretion, that issuance or renewal of a permit would be in the best interests of the city, provided that:

1. no permit shall be issued or renewed unless the applicant holds a franchise granted by the city to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones on, over and under the streets and other inalienable property of the city;

2. (i) in the event that the installation of a public pay telephone requires the opening, drilling or other physical alteration of a building facade or other private property, no permit shall be issued or renewed without the written consent of the building owner.

(ii) in the event that the installation of a public pay telephone requires affixing the phone to a building facade or other private property, no permit shall be issued or renewed without the written consent of the building owner.

(iii) in the event the installation of a public pay telephone is to be accomplished in a manner other than as set forth in subsection (i) and (ii) of this section, but requires access through an existing conduit or other opening on a building facade or other private property, or such installation is to be made within six feet of a building line, no permit shall be issued or renewed without the written consent of the building owner or the commercial lessee who shall certify (aa) that the building owner has authorized the lessee to grant such consents; and (bb) that the lessee has provided the building owner or its authorized agent with written notification by certified mail, of the granting of such consent, the name and address of the owner of the public pay telephone and the location of such public pay telephone in relation to the building. Proof of mailing of such notification to the building owner or its authorized agent shall be included in the permit application. It shall be a violation of this chapter where a permittee, without providing justification therefor, fails within a time period specified by the Commissioner to remove a public pay telephone following receipt of a notice from the building owner or its authorized agent by certified mail that he or she objects to the installation, where such notice and copy to the Commissioner are sent within thirty days of receipt of the commercial lessee's consent. Nothing herein shall be construed to limit a building owner or its authorized agent from pursuing such remedies as he or she may have under law with respect to the unauthorized installation of a public pay telephone; and

3. no permit shall be issued or renewed for the installation, operation and maintenance of a public pay telephone at any location where it will unreasonably interfere with the use of a street by the public, or where it will unreasonably interfere with the use of the abutting property.

b. The commissioner shall promulgate rules to implement the provisions of this chapter. Such rules shall include, without limitation: (i) a procedure and timetable for review by the department, and other appropriate agencies, including the department of transportation, of applications for the issuance and renewal of permits to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones at specified locations; (ii) standards governing the location of public pay telephones designed so as to ensure that such telephones will not unreasonably interfere with the use of the street by the public and with use of the abutting property; and (iii) standards and procedures governing the installation, removal, operation, cleaning and maintenance of public pay telephones, including procedures for the expedited removal of any public pay telephone determined to constitute a public nuisance.

c. Permits may contain such other terms and conditions not specifically provided for in this chapter as the commissioner deems necessary to protect the public safety and to safeguard the interests of the city.

a. A permit for a public pay telephone shall continue in effect for the term of the franchise held by the owner of such public pay telephone, unless the commissioner, after giving the permittee notice and an opportunity to be heard, determines: (i) that as a result of changed conditions, the public pay telephone unreasonably interferes or will unreasonably interfere with the use of a street by the public, or constitutes a public nuisance; or (ii) that removal of the public pay telephone is required in connection with a street widening or other capital project or for other purposes as may be specified by rule of the commissioner. Upon making such determination, the commissioner shall order the removal of the public pay telephone within a reasonable time period. In the event the permittee fails to remove the public pay telephone within the time period specified in such order, the commissioner may remove or cause the removal of the public pay telephone and have repair and restoration work performed at the expense of the permittee, who shall be liable in a civil action for the amount expended by the city.

b. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision a of this section, in the event that a public pay telephone is removed in connection with a street widening or other capital project or other improvement specified by rule of the commissioner, the permittee may apply to the commissioner for permission to reinstall the public pay telephone at another location or, following the completion of such street widening, capital project, or other improvement, at or near its original location. Where such permission is granted, the permittee shall not be required to obtain a new permit for the public pay telephone, and the permit previously issued for such public pay telephone shall continue in effect. If such public pay telephone is reinstalled at another location, the permittee may apply to the commissioner for a new permit to install another public pay telephone following the completion of such street widening, capital project or other improvement at or near the original location of the public pay telephone previously removed in connection therewith, provided that the permittee has paid the required fee for such permit.

§ 23-408 Violations; Penalties and Other Enforcement.

a. Any owner who installs, operates or maintains a public pay telephone on, over or under any street or other inalienable property of the city without a permit therefor shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars and imprisonment of not more than thirty days, or both such fine and imprisonment. Such owner shall, in addition, be liable for civil penalties pursuant to subdivisions c and d of this section.

b. An owner who repeatedly fails to provide phone services from a public pay telephone for any sustained period of time or who fails to provide coinless twenty-four hour 911 service from such public pay telephone shall be in violation of this chapter and shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than two thousand five hundred dollars for each violation which may be recovered in a civil action or in a proceeding before the environmental control board. In the case of a continuing violation, each day's continuance shall be a separate and distinct offense.

c. An owner who violates any provision of this chapter, or any term or condition of a permit issued pursuant thereto, or any rule promulgated by the commissioner pursuant thereto shall be liable for a civil penalty of not more than one thousand dollars for each violation which may be recovered in a civil action or in a proceeding before the environmental control board. In the case of a continuing violation, each day's continuance shall be a separate and distinct offense.

d. An owner who is liable for a civil penalty for a violation pursuant to subdivision c of this section shall also be liable in a civil action for an additional civil penalty in the amount of the expense, if any, incurred by the city in the removal of the public pay telephone and the performance of related repair and restoration work.

e. In addition to authorized officers and employees of the department, officers and employees of the department of transportation who are designated by the commissioner shall have the power to issue summonses and appearance tickets returnable in the criminal court and notices of violation returnable before the environmental control board for violations of the provisions of this chapter.

f. An owner of a public pay telephone shall be liable for a violation by his or her employee, agent or independent contractor of the provisions of this chapter, or any term or condition of a permit issued pursuant thereto, or any rule promulgated by the commissioner pursuant thereto, made in the course of performing his or her duties.

g. An owner who submits an application for a public pay telephone permit containing a certification made by a commercial lessee pursuant to subparagraph (iii) of paragraph 2 of subdivision a of section 23-403 of this chapter, knowing that such certification contains a false statement or false information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

h. The commissioner may request the corporation counsel to institute any action or proceeding that may be appropriate or necessary to restrain, correct or abate a violation of the provisions of this chapter.

i. 1. If the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that an owner, or any employee, agent or independent contractor of such owner, has violated the provisions of this chapter, or any term or condition of a permit issued pursuant thereto, or any rule promulgated by the commissioner pursuant thereto, the commissioner may (i) notify the owner of the condition identified by the commissioner as a violation and specify the action that must be taken to correct the condition in such manner and within such period of time as shall be set forth in such notice, and (ii) shall afford the owner an opportunity to contest the commissioner's notice in a manner to be set forth in rules of the commissioner. Upon final determination by the commissioner and failure of such owner to correct the condition in the manner and within the period of time specified by the commissioner, the commissioner shall be authorized, at his or her discretion:

aa. to remove or cause the removal of any public pay telephone which is installed, operated or maintained on, over or under any street or other unalienable property of the city without a permit therefor. Notwithstanding the foregoing, notice shall be provided pursuant to this subdivision prior to removal only where the name and address of the owner is shown on the public pay telephone or can be readily identified by the commissioner by virtue of a trademark prominently displayed on the public pay telephone.

bb. to revoke a permit and, upon revocation, to further order the removal of the public pay telephone. In the event the permittee fails to remove the public pay telephone and to perform related repair and restoration work within the time period specified by such order, the commissioner may remove or cause the removal of the public pay telephone and have repair and restoration work performed at the expense of the permittee, who shall be liable for the amount expended by the city;

cc. to render a public pay telephone inoperable except for the purpose of emergency telephone service through the 911 system or an operator. Such action may continue until the violation has been corrected to the satisfaction of the commissioner and payment has been made of all civil penalties imposed for the violation and any fees for any administrative expense or expense of additional inspections incurred by the city as a result of such violation. The commissioner shall affix to any public pay phone rendered inoperable pursuant to this paragraph a notice advising the public that the phone may be used only for emergency telephone service through the 911 system or an operator and setting forth the provisions of subdivision h of this section. Any device utilized by the commissioner for the purpose of rendering a public pay telephone inoperable shall be designed so as to permit the unimpaired use of the public pay telephone upon the removal of the device;

dd. to suspend review of all applications for the issuance or renewal of permits filed by such owner pursuant to this chapter. Such suspension may continue until the violation has been corrected to the satisfaction of the commissioner and payment has been made of all fines or civil penalties imposed for the violation, any costs incurred by the city for removal and related repair or restoration work, and any fees for any administrative expense or expense of additional inspections incurred by the city as a result of such violation.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph one of this subdivision, if the commissioner determines that an imminent threat to life or property exists, the commissioner may remove or cause the removal of a public pay telephone, and have repair and restoration work performed at the expense of the owner, without affording the owner an opportunity to be heard prior to such removal. An owner who is a permittee or whose name and address is shown on the public pay telephone shall be provided notice and an opportunity to be heard five days after such removal in accordance with rules of the commissioner.

3. The procedures set forth in this subdivision shall be employed by the commissioner in addition to or in lieu of the other remedies set forth in this section and shall not be construed to limit the power of the commissioner to commence a civil action or proceeding before the environmental control board, or to require that the commissioner resort to any procedure set forth in this subdivision as a prerequisite to the commencement of any such action or proceeding.

j. It shall be a misdemeanor for any person: (i) to remove any device installed by the commissioner pursuant to subparagraph aa of paragraph one of subdivision g of this section or to otherwise make operable a public pay telephone upon which such a device has been installed; or (ii) to remove or deface any notice affixed to a public pay telephone pursuant to such paragraph of such subdivision. Such misdemeanor shall be punishable upon conviction by a fine of not more than ten thousand dollars or imprisonment for not more than thirty days or both such fine and imprisonment.

k. Any public pay telephone removed pursuant to this section which is not claimed by the owner within thirty days of removal shall be deemed to be abandoned. All abandoned public pay telephones may be sold at public auction after having been advertised in the City Record and the proceeds paid into the general fund or such abandoned telephones may be used or converted for use by the department or by another city agency. A public pay telephone shall be released to the owner upon payment of the costs of removal, repair and restoration work, and of storage, any fees for any administrative expense or expense of additional inspections incurred by the department as a result of the violation, or, if an action or proceeding for the violation is pending in a court or before the environmental control board, upon the posting of a bond or other form of security acceptable to the commissioner in an amount which will secure the payment of such costs and any fines or civil penalties which may be imposed for the violation.

Provisions of L.L. 68/1995:

§ 5. a. Notwithstanding any provisions to the contrary of section 23-402 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, all licenses previously issued to the telephone company pursuant to former sections 19-131 or 19-128 of the administrative code of the city of New York shall remain in full force and effect for a period of three years following the effective date of this local law or until ninety days following such date as the telephone company may be granted a franchise to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones, whichever is the earlier; provided, however, that a public pay telephone licensed pursuant to former sections 19-131 or 19-128 of the administrative code of the city of New York may be subject to removal pursuant to the provisions of subdivision a of section 23-404 of the administrative code of the city of New York as added by section 2 of this local law. Notwithstanding any provisions to the contrary of paragraph 1 of subdivision a of section 23-403 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, and subject to compliance with the provisions of section 6 of this local law, during the period in which such existing licenses remain in full force and effect, the commissioner of the department of information technology and telecommunications may issue permits pursuant to chapter 4 of title 23 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, for the installation, operation and maintenance of new public pay telephones by the telephone company. Such permits shall expire three years following the effective date of this local law, unless the telephone company is granted a franchise to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones, in which case they shall continue in effect for the term of the franchise.

b. In the event the telephone company is granted a franchise to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones, it may request the issuance of permits pursuant to this local law with respect to any or all of its existing public pay telephones for which a license previously issued pursuant to former sections 19-131 or 19-128 of the administrative code is in effect in accordance with subdivision a of this section no later than thirty days following the date such franchise is granted. Such application shall consist of a letter identifying the location and license number of each existing public pay telephone for which the telephone company seeks a permit. Any existing public pay telephone for which the telephone company does not seek issuance of a permit shall be removed by the telephone company within sixty days following the date the franchise is granted and, if not so removed, shall be subject to removal pursuant to section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. Failure to remove such a public pay telephone shall also be deemed a violation for purposes of subdivisions b and c of section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. Notwithstanding any other provisions to the contrary of section 23-403 of the administrative code of the city of new York, as added by section 2 of this local law, the commissioner shall, no later than ninety days following the date the franchise is granted, issue permits pursuant to this local law for the existing public pay telephones for which the telephone company has requested a permit pursuant to this subdivision, unless: (aa) within sixty days following the date the franchise is granted the commissioner has objected to the continued maintenance and operation of an existing public pay telephone upon the basis that such continued maintenance and operation would be inconsistent with this local law, or would not be in compliance with the rules of the commissioner, or of any federal or state regulatory authority having jurisdiction over the provision of public pay telephone service; and (bb) such condition has not been cured within the time frame specified by the Commissioner. The telephone company shall remove all existing public pay telephones for which a permit has not been granted pursuant to this paragraph on or before the one hundred twentieth day following the date the franchise is granted and, if not so removed, such telephones shall be subject to removal pursuant to section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of the local law. Failure to remove such a public pay telephone shall also be deemed a violation for purposes of subdivisions b and c of section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. No fees shall be required for permits requested under this subdivision.

c. For a period of three years following the effective date of this local law or until such date as the telephone company may be granted a franchise to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones and the terms of the franchise agreement governing compensation to the city thereby take effect, whichever is the earlier, the telephone company shall pay to the city such commissions on revenues derived directly or indirectly from any public pay telephones maintained under license or permit as have been established by agreement between the telephone company and the city, provided, that such city standard public pay telephone commissions shall be paid at not less than the rate in effect as of June 1, 1995. In the event the telephone company fails to pay any such commissions, the commissioner of the department of information technology and telecommunications may suspend the issuance of permits to the telephone company pursuant to subdivision a of this section until such commissions are paid.

§ 6. a. Notwithstanding any provisions to the contrary of section 23-402 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, and subject to compliance with the provisions of subdivision b of this section, an owner of a public pay telephone for which a license has not been issued pursuant to former sections 19-128 and 19-131 of the administrative code of the city of new York shall not be deemed in violation of the provisions of such section for failure to have obtained a permit for such public pay telephone, where such telephone was installed prior to the effective date of this local law, unless and until one of the following has occurred: (i) the owner has declined to respond to the request for proposals or other solicitation of proposals issued by the commissioner of the department of information technology and telecommunications for the purpose of entering into franchise agreements for the installation, operation and maintenance of public pay telephones within the time period specified in such request for proposals or other solicitation of proposals and thirty days have elapsed following such failure to respond; (ii) the commissioner has determined not to propose the award of a franchise to such owner to the franchise and concession review committee and thirty days have elapsed following notification to such owner of the commissioner's determination; or (iii) the franchise and concession review committee has determined not to approve a proposed franchise agreement for such owner and thirty days have elapsed following notification to such owner of the committee's determination; provided, further, that such public pay telephone shall not be deemed in violation of the provisions of section 23-402 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law if, within any such thirty day period, the owner enters into an agreement for the sale of such public pay telephone to another person who, at the time such agreement is concluded, is either a potential franchisee or has been awarded a franchise, and ownership of such public pay telephone is transferred within thirty days after such agreement is concluded.

b. The provisions of subdivision a of this section shall apply only where: (i) such owner has submitted to the department a registry identifying the location of each telephone installed and activated prior to the effective date of this local law and the date of activation for each such telephone; (ii) the owner has certified, upon a form specified by the commissioner, that all telephones identified in the registry have been installed and are maintained and operated in accordance with all applicable safety standards and requirements; (iii) the owner has paid to the city an annual interim occupancy fee for each telephone identified in the registry in the amount of $75.00; and (iv) the commissioner has not objected to the continued maintenance and operation of such telephone as identified and certified in such registry upon the basis that such continued maintenance and operation: (aa) poses a danger to life or property; (bb) unreasonably interferes with the use of a street by the public; (cc) unreasonably interferes with the use of the abutting property; (dd) is a public nuisance within the meaning of subdivision e of section 23-401 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law; or (ee) interferes with a street widening or other capital project, or, if the commissioner has so objected, the condition which gave rise to such objection has been timely cured. A public pay telephone for which an objection has been made and not timely cured shall be removed immediately by the owner, and if not removed, shall be subject to removal pursuant to section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York. Failure to remove such a public pay telephone shall also be deemed a violation for purposes of subdivisions b and c of section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. The commissioner shall promulgate rules governing the format and contents of such registries, the documentation of the information set forth therein, the certification to be provided in connection therewith, a timetable for submission of registries, and a procedure for payment of interim occupancy fees. Such rules shall allow for the payment of the interim occupancy fee in quarterly installments and shall include a mechanism for the prorated application of an interim fee towards payment of a permit fee in the event the owner is awarded a franchise prior to expiration of the annual interim period.

c. Any owner who does not submit a registry and pay to the city interim occupancy fees in the manner provided in the rules promulgated pursuant to subdivision b of this section and in accordance with the timetable established thereunder shall immediately remove all public pay telephones installed prior to the effective date of this local law other than telephones licensed pursuant to former sections 19-128 and 19-131 of the administrative code of the city of New York. Upon failure to remove such telephones such telephones shall be subject to removal pursuant to section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. The failure to submit a registry in accordance with the timetable established pursuant to the rules promulgated pursuant to subdivision b of this section shall also be deemed a violation of section 23-402 of the administrative code of the city, as added by section 2 of this local law, for which an owner shall be guilty of a misdemeanor pursuant to subdivision a of section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law.

d. Notwithstanding any provisions to the contrary of paragraph 1 of subdivision a of section 23-403 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, the commissioner of the department of information technology and telecommunications may issue permits pursuant to chapter 4 of title 23 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, for the installation, operation and maintenance of new public pay telephones to an owner of a public pay telephone other than the telephone company who has not been awarded a franchise to install and maintain public pay telephones, provided, that: (i) such owner has submitted a registry and paid to the city interim occupancy fees in the manner provided in the rules promulgated pursuant to subdivision b of this section; and (ii) none of the following has occurred: (aa) the owner has declined to respond to the request for proposals or other solicitation of proposals issued by the department of information technology and telecommunications for the purpose of entering into franchise agreements for the installation, operation and maintenance of public pay telephones within the time period specified in such request for proposals or other solicitation of proposals; (bb) the commissioner has determined not to propose the award of a franchise to such owner to the franchise and concession review committee; or (cc) the franchise and concession review committee has determined not to approve the proposed franchise agreement for such owner. Permits issued pursuant to this subdivision shall expire upon the occurrence of any of the foregoing. In the event the owner is granted a franchise to install, operate and maintain public pay telephones, such permits shall continue in effect for the term of the franchise.

e. In the event an owner of a public pay telephone other than the telephone company is granted a franchise to install and maintain public pay telephones, such owner may apply for the issuance of permits pursuant to chapter 4 of title 23 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law, with respect to any or all of the public pay telephones identified in a registry submitted pursuant to subdivision c of this section for which: (i) the commissioner made no objection or an objection was timely cured; and (ii) annual interim occupancy fees have been paid; provided however, that the provisions of subparagraph iii of paragraph 2 of subdivision a of Section 23-403 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by Section 2 of this local law, shall not apply with respect to an application for issuance of a permit for a public pay telephone where such public pay telephone was installed in the manner described in such subparagraph and activated on, or before August 1, 1994, and has been in continuous use since such activation date. Such applications shall be made no later than thirty days following the date the franchise is granted. Any such public pay telephone for which such owner does not so apply for issuance of a permit shall be removed by the owner within sixty days following the date the franchise is granted and, if not so removed, shall be subject to removal pursuant to section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. Failure to remove such a public pay telephone shall also be deemed a violation for purposes of subdivisions b and c of section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. In reviewing an application for the issuance of a permit for an existing public pay telephone made pursuant to this section, the commissioner shall notify the owner of any condition which renders the continued maintenance and operation of such telephone inconsistent with the provisions of this local law, or out of compliance with the rules of the commissioner, or of any federal or state regulatory authority having jurisdiction over the provision of public pay telephones and which, if cured by the owner within such time period as may be specified by the Commissioner, shall render such telephone eligible for receipt of a permit pursuant to this local law. An owner shall not be required to remove an existing public pay telephone for which the owner has submitted an application for a permit pursuant to this paragraph unless and until the earlier of the following has occurred: (aa) the owner fails to timely cure a condition specified in a notification provided by the commissioner pursuant to this paragraph; or (bb) the application for such permit is denied. Any such public pay telephone, if not removed within thirty days of such occurrence, shall be subject to removal pursuant to section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York as added by section 2 of this local law. Failure to remove such a public pay telephone shall also be deemed a violation for purposes of subdivisions b and c of section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law. Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the commissioner's authority to issue or deny permits at his or her discretion, or to otherwise pursue the remedies for violations set forth in section 23-408 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by section 2 of this local law.

§ 7. The commissioner may by rule extend any time period provided for in sections 5 and 6 of this local law, based upon a determination that such extension would be in the best interest of the city.

§ 8. All records of the department of transportation relating to the licensing of public pay telephones shall be transferred to the department of information technology and telecommunications according to a timetable to be established by such agencies.

§ 9. The department of information technology and telecommunications shall, upon the effective date of this local law and so far as not inconsistent with the provisions of this local law, be authorized to continue any business, proceeding or other matter commenced by the department of transportation pursuant to former section 19-128 of the administrative code of the city of New York.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. There is a statutory violation where a telephone is not equipped for coinless 911 service. The mere fact that a telephone is broken and lacks a dial tone does not per se mean that the statute has been violated. It is only upon a repeated failure to repair the phone that a statute has been violated. New York Telephone Co. v. NYC Environmental Control Board, N.Y.L.J., Feb. 25, 1999, page 33, col. 1 (Sup.Ct. Queens Co.).

CHAPTER 1 AIR POLLUTION CONTROL

SUBCHAPTER 1 SHORT TITLE, POLICY, AND DEFINITIONS

It is hereby declared to be the public policy of the city to preserve, protect and improve the air resources of the city so as to promote health, safety and welfare, prevent injury to human, plant and animal life and property, foster the comfort and convenience of its inhabitants and, to the greatest degree practicable, facilitate the enjoyment of the natural attractions of the city. It is the public policy of the city that every person is entitled to air that is not detrimental to life, health and enjoyment of his or her property. It is hereby declared that the emission into the open air of harmful or objectionable substance, including but not limited to smoke, soot, fly ash, dust, fumes, gas, vapors, odors or any products of combustion or incomplete combustion resulting from the use of fuel burning equipment or refuse burning equipment is a menace to the health, welfare and comfort of the people of the city and a cause of extensive damage to property. For the purpose of controlling and reducing air pollution, it is hereby declared to be the policy of the city to actively regulate and eliminate such emissions. The necessity for legislation by the enactment of the provisions of this chapter is hereby declared as a matter of legislative determination. This code shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes described in this section. Nothing herein shall be construed to abridge the emergency powers of the board of health of the department of health and mental hygiene or the right of such department to engage in any of its necessary or proper activities.

1. Provision of L.L. 39/1989 § 1:

Section one. Declaration of legislative intent and findings. In the 1960's and 1970's, the council enacted legislation regulating the operation of existing privately-operated incinerators and prohibiting the installation of any additional privately-operated incinerators. The approximately 2500 incinerators that are now operating in apartment buildings, account for nearly all the privately-operated incinerators currently in use in the city. The council finds that these incinerators continue to pose a severe threat to the health, safety, welfare and comfort of New Yorkers. Reliable scientific evidence establishes that because nearly all these incinerators lack effective emissions and/or combustion controls, they emit unacceptable levels of various toxic gases and substances, including particulates, heavy metals, acid gases, dioxins and furans. These incinerators are operated by personnel who lack adequate training in the principles of combustion and who are incapable of effectively monitoring and controlling the operation of the incinerator. As a result, combustion efficiencies are often low, causing incomplete burning and the creation of polluting by-products. Moreover, because these incinerators' stacks rise only ten to fifteen feet above roof level, emissions are poorly dispersed. Finally, these incinerators are not equipped with state-of-the-art pollution control devices to control the wide-range of pollutants that may be emitted.

The council finds that with the institution of the mandatory citywide recycling program and the resource recovery program, the elimination of privately-operated incinerators will not overburden the city's solid waste disposal system. Moreover, the elimination of these facilities is not intended to result in a reduction of services requiring a rent reduction under the rent and rehabilitation law or the rent stabilization law. Accordingly, in order to protect the health and welfare of the public, the council finds it appropriate to ban all existing privately-operated incinerators.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Rule of Commissioner of New York City Department of Rent and Housing Maintenance that rent-controlled buildings which violate the Air Pollution Control Code shall be subject to rent reductions was invalidated when disapproved by New York State Commissioner of Housing and Community Renewal for reasons which had a rational basis. Kerr v. Urstadt, 72 Misc. 2d 942 (1973).

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Petitioner received a "certificate of operation" for use of newly installed boiler/burner equipment from the Department of Environmental Protection within the three-year eligibility period, but did not receive a "sign-off" from the Department of Buildings until after the three-year period had elapsed. Failure to obtain a DOB "sign-off" within the three-year period was not a mere "minor technicality" in determining entitlement to J 51 benefits, §11-243(d)(3), under the Building Code §27-787 et seq and the air pollution control provisions, §24-102 et seq only the DOB can certify that a boiler/burner meets minimum standards of safety and is properly burning fuel, generating energy and providing heat. 31171 Owners Corp. v. CHAPTER 1 AIR POLLUTION CONTROL

§ 24-104 Definitions.

When used in the New York city air pollution control code:

(1) Air contaminant means any particulate matter or any gas or any combination thereof in the open air, other than uncombined water or air.

(2) Air contaminant detector means a device or combination of devices which cause audible and/or visible signals in the presence of an air contaminant of a particular concentration, density or opacity.

(3) Air contaminant recorder means an apparatus which produces a record of the time, duration, concentration and density or opacity of an air contaminant.

(4) Alteration means any modification or change of the design, capacity, process or arrangement, or any increase in the connected load of equipment or apparatus which will affect the kind or amount of air contaminant emitted. Alteration does not include replacement or repair of wornout or defective equipment.

(5) Anthracite coal means the current definition of anthracite coal as classified by the American society for testing and materials.

(6) Apparatus means any device which prevents, controls, detects, or records the emission of any air contaminant.

(7) Bituminous coal means the current definition of bituminous coal and subbituminous coal as classifed by the American society for testing and materials.

(8) Board means the environmental control board of the city of New York.

(9) Boiler means equipment which is used to heat water for the purpose of generating hot water and/or steam.

(10) Btu input means the quantity of heat generated by a fuel fed into a furnace under conditions of complete combustion, measured in British thermal units. Btu input includes sensible heat, calculated above sixty degrees F., available from materials introduced into the combustion zone.

(11) Capacity rating means the fuel burning equipment manufacturer's guaranteed maximum Btu input rating in millions of Btu per hour, or the maximum four-hour average actual rate, whichever is higher.

(12) Certificate means an operating, sulfur exemption, temporary operating, or temporary sulfur exemption certificate.

(13) Charter means the New York city charter, including all of its amendments.

(20) Dust means solid particulate matter which has been released into the open air by natural forces or by mechanical processes.

(21) Emission means dispersion of an air contaminant into the open air of the city.

(22) Emission rate potential means the rate in pounds per hour at which air contaminant would be emitted to the open air in the absence of air pollution control facilities or other control measures. The emission rate potential for cyclic operations shall be determined by considering both the instantaneous emission potential and the total emission potential over the time period of the cycle.

A period of sixty days from publication in the City Record of the commissioner's order shall be allowed for the filing of such registration. In cases of an emergency, the commissioner may designate a shorter period of time.

(b) No person shall cause or permit the following unless he or she has first registered with the department:

(1) the spraying of any insulating material in or upon any building or other structure during its construction, alteration or repair;

(2) the demolition of any building or other structure, unless the building or structure is being demolished pursuant to chapter one of title seventeen or article eight of subchapter two of chapter one of title twenty-six of the code.

(4) The installation, alteration, use or operation of any fuel burning equipment which in the aggregate, feeding into a common emission point, has a Btu input or gross output equal to or greater than three hundred fifty thousand Btu per hour but less than 2.8 million Btu per hour and which uses a fuel gas, gasoline, or fuel oil grades Nos. 1 or 2 as classified by the American society for testing and materials.

(c) Registration shall be made on forms furnished by the department.

(1) Forms for registration pursuant to subdivision (a) of this section may require information concerning the unit of equipment covered by the registration, the kind and amount of air contaminant emitted by the equipment, medical and other scientific information concerning the effects of the air contaminant on persons, animals, and plants, and any additional information required by the commissioner for the purpose of enforcing this code.

(2) Forms for registration pursuant to paragraph one of subdivision (b) of this section shall require information concerning the kind and amount of insulating material that will be sprayed, the composition of the insulating material, medical and other scientific information concerning the effects of the insulating material on persons, animals, and property, the precautions that will be taken to prevent the insulating material from being emitted into the open air, and any additional information required by the commissioner for the purpose of enforcing this code. Registration for spraying of insulating material shall be filed at least five days prior to commencement of such spraying work.

(3) Forms for registration pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision (b) of this section shall require information concerning the kind and amount of particulate matter that it is reasonably anticipated may be released as a result of the demolition, the precautions that will be taken to prevent particulate matter from becoming air-borne, and any additional information required by the commissioner for the purpose of enforcing this code.

(a) The commissioner may grant individual variances, except to governmental agencies, beyond the limitations prescribed by this code, whenever it is found, upon presentation of adequate proof, that compliance with any provision of this code, or with any regulation or order of the commissioner in respect to this code would impose unreasonable hardship. In granting a variance the commissioner may impose such conditions as the policies of this code may require and shall publish in the City Record no later than seven days after the granting of such variance a written opinion, stating the facts and reasons leading to his or her decision.

(b) Any variance granted pursuant to this section shall be granted for such period of time, not to exceed six months, as shall be specified by the commissioner at the time of the grant of such variance and upon the condition that the person who receives such variance shall make such periodic progress reports as the commissioner shall specify. Such variance may be extended for periods not to exceed six months by affirmative action of the commissioner, but only if satisfactory progress has been shown.

(c) Any person seeking a variance shall do so by filing a petition for variance in a form acceptable to the commissioner. The commissioner shall promptly give written notice of such petition to any person in the city who has in writing requested notice of variance petitions, and shall publish notice of such petition in the City Record. If the commissioner, in his or her discretion, concludes that a hearing would be advisable, or if any person files a written objection to the grant of such variance within twenty-one days from the publication of notice in the City Record, then a public hearing shall be held.

(d) The commissioner may grant individual or group variances beyond the sulfur content restriction prescribed by section 24-169 of this code, whenever it is found, upon presentation of adequate proof, that the supply of fuel oil is insufficient to meet the demands of residents of the city of New York for heat, hot water, and electrical power. Where an applicant can show that it has an insufficient reserve of fuel oil meeting the sulfur content requirements of this code and that it is unable to buy a sufficient amount of such fuel oil to meet its fuel oil demands during the pendency of its variance application, the commissioner may grant a variance for up to forty-five days without complying with the procedural requirement of this section, except for the publication requirement of subdivision (a). During the time in which a temporary variance is running, the commissioner shall review, as soon as practicable, the application for a variance treating it as any other variance application.

(e) With respect to a variance for the spraying of any substance containing asbestos in or upon a building or other structure during its construction, alteration or repair the commissioner shall in determining undue hardship take cognizance that such construction, alteration or repair was commenced or a permit has been granted for same by the department of buildings prior to August twentieth, nineteen hundred seventy-one or six months thereafter and that a non-asbestos spray material has not been approved for fireproof purposes by the department of buildings.

SUBCHAPTER 3 REFUSE BURNING EQUIPMENT, REFUSE COMPACTING SYSTEMS AND REFUSE CONTAINERIZATION SYSTEMS

§ 24-117 Existing refuse burning equipment.

(a) Every owner of refuse burning equipment that has been operated at any time subsequent to January first, nineteen hundred sixty-five, whether such operation was required by law or not, shall, except as otherwise provided by this code:

(1) Resume or continue the operation of such refuse burning equipment; or

(2) Construct, maintain and operate a refuse compacting system in conformity with all applicable laws and regulations; or

(3) Install, maintain and operate a refuse containerization system in conformity with all applicable laws and regulations; or

(4) In the case of non-residential buildings or occupancies from which the department of sanitation has not collected refuse at any time subsequent to January first, nineteen hundred sixty-five, arrange for the continued collection of all refuse from such premises by a person, other than the department of sanitation, who is authorized to collect and remove refuse pursuant to applicable provisions of the code.

(b) No person subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall construct a refuse compacting system except with the prior written permission of the department of buildings upon application filed at an office of the department of buildings. The department of buildings shall, in writing, promptly notify the commissioner of the receipt of any such application.

(c) No person subject to the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall install a refuse containerization system to be serviced by the department of sanitation except with the prior written permission of the department of sanitation upon application filed with the commissioner of sanitation. In considering any such application the commissioner of sanitation may take into account:

(1) The number, capacity and specifications of the containers to be used;

(2) The dimensions and suitability of the areas or rooms in which the containers are to be stored;

(3) The accessibility of the containers to vehicles operated by the department of sanitation for the collection of refuse;

(4) The frequency of collection of refuse and the cost to the department of sanitation of such collection which would be necessitated by the installation of the proposed refuse containerization system, as compared with the frequency and cost of such collection which would ensue upon the installation of either a refuse compacting system or other alternate refuse containerization system;

(5) The adverse public health and environmental effects which may arise from the installation and operation of the refuse containerization system, including, without limitation, provision of harborage for rodents, insects or other pests; and

(6) Such other factors as the commissioner of sanitation may deem necessary and proper.

(d) The department of sanitation shall collect, without charge, refuse resulting from the operation of a refuse compacting system constructed, maintained and operated in conformity with subdivision (a) of this section or of a refuse containerization system installed, maintained and operated in conformity with such subdivision, unless prior to May twentieth, nineteen hundred sixty-six, the department of sanitation of the city of New York was not obligated to collect without charge refuse from the structures in which such refuse compacting system or refuse containerization system is installed.

(e) The obligation of the department of sanitation under subdivision (d) of this section shall terminate:

(1) If the use of such structure is changed in such a manner that if such change had occurred prior to May twentieth, nineteen hundred sixty-six, the department of sanitation would not have been obligated to collect, without charge, refuse from such structure; or

(2) If, where the collection of refuse from such structure involves entry by the department of sanitation upon premises which are not owned and occupied by the city of New York, such department is not furnished with such indemnities and insurance protection as it may reasonably require.

(f) In the event of the sealing of refuse burning equipment by the board pursuant to section 24-178 of this code, any collection of refuse by the department of sanitation from the location of said refuse burning equipment shall be at the expense of the owner of said equipment. Said expenses shall be recoverd in a civil action brought in the name of the commissioner of sanitation.

(g) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, the commissioner may authorize the discontinuance of the operation of certain refuse burning equipment as provided herein:

(1) Upon the application of any owner of refuse burning equipment in a multiple dwelling containing forty-two dwelling units or less per unit of refuse burning equipment, provided that the applicant shows to the satisfaction of the commissioner that it would not be reasonably practicable for the applicant to cause the equipment in such multiple dwelling to fully meet the standards and requirements of this code or to install a reasonably efficient refuse compacting system or refuse containerization system by reason of the physical characteristics of the multiple dwelling or otherwise.

(2) Upon the application of any owner of refuse burning equipment in a public building, in a public housing project operated by the New York city housing authority containing forty-two or less dwelling units, or in a building operated by a charitable or non-profit institution.

(3) Operation of such refuse burning equipment shall be discontinued within thirty days after notice to the applicant of the authorization permitting discontinuance. Notice shall be given by the mailing of a copy of the authorization to the applicant at the address designated in the application.

(4) Upon the discontinuance of operations pursuant to such authorization, the department of sanitation shall collect the refuse from the location of the refuse burning equipment designated in such authorization.

(h) Any person who does not resume or who discontinues the operation of refuse burning equipment pursuant to the provisions of this section shall immediately notify the commissioner to such effect in writing, and shall within thirty days after such notice seal such refuse burning equipment in accordance with all applicable laws and regulations. To insure such compliance, the department may from time to time inspect such refuse burning equipment in accordance with section 24-108 of this code, and the commissioner may issue such orders with regard to the sealing of such refuse burning equipment as he or she deems necessary and proper.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A permit to Bronx-Lebanon Hospital Center and its operational consultant, Metro New York Health Waste Processing, Inc., for construction of a medical waste incinerator does not violate §24-118 which provides that a hospital is responsible for its medical waste incinerator but may employ a contractor to operate such equipment. The original permit issued in 1989 mentions only the hospital as operator, but during construction in 1991 the application was revised to name the hospital and its operating contractor. The revised application was a revision of the 1989 construction permit, a procedure regularly used by regulatory agencies for liability purposes. The construction permit was finalized in 1989 and the time to challenge has lapsed. The start-up and trial run shakedown period have been completed. Since the shakedown at issue was central to the original decision but implemented later, any complaints regarding the shakedown operation, as distinct from the operating permit are governed by the four-month period. (1) For fuel burning equipment in which the heat from the combustion of the fuel is transmitted through a heat transfer surface, or in which the heat from the combustion of the fuel is transmitted directly to the material being processed, the fee shall vary with the type of fuel used and the gross input rating at maximum designed fuel consumption of the equipment. The fee shall be as set forth in schedule A.

No person shall cause or permit the emission of air contaminant, including odorous air contaminant, or water vapor if the air contaminant or water vapor causes or may cause detriment to the health, safety, welfare or comfort of any person, or injury to plant and animal life, or causes or may cause damage to property or business, or if it reacts or is likely to react with any other air contaminant or natural air, or is induced to react by solar energy to produce a solid, liquid or gas or any combination thereof which causes or may cause detriment to the health, safety, welfare or comfort of any person, or injury to plant and animal life, or which causes or may cause damage to property or business.

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. New Amber Auto Service v. New York City Environmental Control Board, 163 Misc.2d 613, 619 N.Y.S.2d 496 (Sup.Ct. New York Co. 1994). The court rejected a challenge that the section was unconstitutionally vague. A statute is unconstitutionally vague on its face if it specifies no comprehensible standard or guide capable of interpretation or when it cannot be validly applied to any conduct. So long as a statute has a core meaning that can reasonably be understood it can be applied to conduct within that core meaning. Here, the statute was sufficient since important terms, such as "air contaminant," are defined elsehwhere in the same article of the Administrative Code.

¶ 2. Section 24-141(b), which defines "air contaminants" to include "processing of food stuff," includes the usual odors of spicy foods which escaped into the complainant's apartment, where the odors are detrimental to health or safety. Burrito Factory v. City of New York, 270 A.D.2d 217, 706 N.Y.S.2d 383 (1st Dept. 2000), appeal dismissed, 95 N.Y.2d 848, 715 N.Y.S.2d 523 (2000).

§ 24-146 Preventing particulate matter from becoming air-borne; spraying of asbestos prohibited; spraying of insulating material and demolition regulated.

(a) No person shall cause or permit particulate matter to be handled, transported or stored without taking such precautions as may be ordered by the commissioner to prevent particulate matter from becoming air-borne.

(b) Six months after August twentieth, nineteen hundred seventy-one no person shall cause or permit the spraying of any substance containing asbestos in or upon a building or other structure during its construction, alteration or repair, except if permitted by a variance granted pursuant to subdivision (e) of section 24-110 of this chapter.

(c) No person shall cause or permit a building or its appurtenances or a road to be constructed, altered or repaired without taking such precautions as may be ordered by the commissioner to prevent particulate matter from becoming air-borne.

(d) No person shall cause or permit untreated open areas located within the boundaries of a zoning lot as defined by section 12-10 of the zoning resolution of the city of New York to be maintained without taking reasonable precautions to prevent particulate matter from becoming air-borne.

(e) No person shall cause or permit the spraying of any insulating material, not otherwise prohibited by this section, in or upon any bu- ilding or other structure during its construction, alteration or repair, unless he or she complies with the following precautions: (1) Before the start of spraying operations, all floor areas shall be shoveled clean. Before the application of insulating material commences, the floor of the areas shall be cleared of all objects, material and equipment other than that employed in the application of the insulating material, or all objects, material, and equipment shall be covered with plastic or other approved tarpaulins in a manner that precludes the subsequent dispersal of particulate matter.

(2) The entire floor, or the part of the floor to be insulated, shall be enclosed with plastic or other approved tarpaulins in a manner which shall preclude the escape of particulate matter from the enclosure. All interior open areas, such as elevator shafts and stairwells shall be enclosed in a manner which shall prevent the escape of particulate matter from the working area.

Stack effect of the shafts and stairwells shall be considered in providing proper enclosures. An enclosure will be considered satisfactory only if visible insulating material cannot escape from the enclosure.

(3) Wet insulating material which has fallen to the floor shall be swept up to prevent dispersal of dried material. Under no condition shall this material be removed later than at the end of the working day. Swept-up material shall be placed in a heavy plastic bag strong enough to resist tearing or breaking under normal handling conditions and clearly marked as containing insulating material waste. The contents of the aforementioned plastic bags shall not be transferred to another container. The plastic bags shall be placed upon a vehicle for disposal at a site approved by the commissioner.

(4) All floors shall be vacuumed shortly after drying. The contents of the vacuum bag shall be carefully placed in a container of the type described in paragraph three of this subdivision and shall thereafter be placed on a vehicle for removal and disposal at a site approved by the commissioner.

(5) The materials used to form the enclosure shall be thoroughly vacuumed upon completion of the application of the insulation in the area. The entire floor area and ledges and surfaces including tarpaulins upon which waste insulation material may have fallen, shall then be vacuumed or revacuumed before removal of the enclosures.

(6) Enclosures shall not be dismantled until the area has been thoroughly vacuumed after completion of spraying and clean-up.

(7) All areas used for opening bags containing insulating material and/or changing of hoppers shall be enclosed in such a manner that insulating material shall not be permitted to escape from the immediate area in which such activity takes place.

(8) Signs shall be posted outside enclosures warning persons of the hazards of entering the enclosure without appropriate apparel.

(9) All persons involved in the spraying of insulating material at the site must be furnished with suitable coveralls which must be left at the site. No person shall be permitted in an area in which spraying or handling of insulating material has taken place until the final vacuuming referred to in paragraph five of this subdivision has been accomplished, unless such person is furnished with or wears coveralls of the type described herein. Facilities shall be provided and procedures instituted and supervised that preclude the removal and dispersal of insulating material from the construction site on the clothing or other appurtenances of persons leaving the area.

(10) Any plenum or other structures coated with insulating material which are intended for use in circulation of air in the building must be thoroughly cleaned of all debris, dust and waste insulation. All applied insulation material within a plenum or duct must be coated with a sealant approved by the commissioner which precludes exposure of the material to the circulating air whenever the commissioner after ordering tests to be conducted by the manufacturer in accordance with section 24-107, determines that the insulation material needs such a sealant.

(11) A person shall be assigned the full time responsibility of supervising the spraying and related operations to assure that no insulating material is released from the construction site.

(12) In case of emission of insulation material from the construction site, immediate steps shall be taken to cause the cessation of such emissions by either effective control measures or work stoppage at the source of the emissions. There shall then be immediate and complete clean-up of all material that has escaped the construction site by measures that will insure that no further dispersal of any insulating material into the atmosphere can occur.

(f) No person shall cause or permit a building or other structure to be demolished, except pursuant to chapter one of title seventeen or article eight of subchapter three of chapter one of title twenty-six of the code, unless he or she complies with the following precautions:

(1) Demolition by toppling of walls shall not occur except when approved by the commissioner.

(2) Before the demolition of any section of wall, floor, roof, or other structure, adequate wetting procedures to lay the dust shall be employed. All debris shall be thoroughly wetted before loading and while dumping into trucks, other vehicles or containers. In all cases and at all stages of demolition, wetting procedures shall be adequate to lay the dust. Trucks shall be adequately covered or enclosed to prevent dust dispersion while in transit to point of disposal.

(3) No structural members shall be dropped or thrown from any floor but shall be carefully lowered to ground level by hoists.

(4) Effective January first, nineteen hundred seventy-two, debris shall not be dropped or thrown from any floor to any floor below. In buildings twelve stories or greater in height debris shall be transported from the upper floors via enclosed, dust-tight chutes or via buckets. Where chutes are used, a water soaking spray shall be employed to saturate the debris before it reaches the point of discharge from the chute. Where buckets are used, the debris shall be adequately wetted to preclude dust dispersion when buckets are dumped.

(5) Effective January first, nineteen hundred seventy-two, in the event particulate matter becomes airborne for a continuous period of fifteen minutes, despite the application of the above procedures, or because freezing temperatures preclude the use of water for laying the demolition dust, the work of demolition shall cease at once until other adequate measures can be taken. Alternate procedures shall be evaluated by the commissioner before initiation thereof.

SUBCHAPTER 6 EMISSION STANDARDS

§ 24-146.1 Asbestos work.

(a) For purposes of this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Asbestos" shall mean any hydrated mineral silicate separable into commercially usable fibers, including but not limited to chrysotile (serpentine), amosite (cumingtonite-grunerite), crocidolite (riebeckite), tremolite, anthrophyllite and actinolite.

(2) "Asbestos inspection report" shall mean a report on the condition of a building or structure in relation to the presence and condition of asbestos therein.

(3) "Asbestos investigator" shall mean an individual certified by the commissioner as having satisfactorily demonstrated his or her ability to identify the presence and evaluate the condition of asbestos in a building or structure.

(4) "Asbestos containing material" shall mean asbestos or any material containing more than one percent asbestos by weight.

(5) "Asbestos removal plan" shall mean a plan which will be undertaken so as to prevent asbestos from becoming airborne in the course of an asbestos project as defined in this subdivision.

(6) "Asbestos handling certificate" shall mean a certificate issued to a person who has satisfactorily completed an approved asbestos safety and health program.

(7) "Approved safety and health program" shall mean a program certified by the commissioner providing training in the handling and use of asbestos containing material, and safety and health risks inherent in such handling and use, together with methods for minimizing the exposure of workers and the public to asbestos fibers and, instruction in all applicable federal, state and local laws and regulations pertaining to asbestos related work.

(8) "Asbestos project" shall mean any form of work performed in connection with the alteration, renovation, modification, or demolition of a building or structure, as defined in section 27-232 of this code, or in connection with the replacement or repair of equipment, pipes, or electrical equipment not located in a building or structure, which will disturb more than two hundred sixty linear feet or more than one hundred sixty square feet of friable asbestos containing material or such smaller amounts as the commissioner may establish by regulation.

(9) "Friable asbestos material" shall mean any asbestos or any asbestos containing material that can be crumbled, pulverized or reduced to powder when dry, by hand pressure.

(10) "AHERA" shall mean the asbestos hazard emergency response act of nineteen hundred eighty-six, as amended (15 U.S.C. section 641, et seq.).

(b) (1) It shall be unlawful for any individual to handle friable asbestos material in the course of performing work for compensation on an asbestos project unless such individual is a holder of a current, valid asbestos handling certificate.

(2) It shall be unlawful to employ or otherwise permit any individual to handle friable asbestos material on an asbestos project when such person is not a holder of a current, valid asbestos handling certificate.

(c) The commissioner shall promulgate regulations establishing procedures for the safeguarding of the health and safety of the public and all persons who work at or in the vicinity of an asbestos project.

(d) (1) The commissioner shall promulgate regulations establishing criteria for certifying individuals as eligible to receive an asbestos handling certificate and for certifying programs as approved safety and health programs. The commissioner may restrict the asbestos handling certificate as to certain supervisory and nonsupervisory functions and responsibilities.

(2) The commissioner shall promulgate regulations establishing criteria for certifying individuals as asbestos investigators.

(3) Any certificate issued under this subdivision shall be valid for a period of two years unless sooner suspended or revoked and may be renewed for a period of two years upon submission of proof satisfactory to the commissioner that the individual continues to meet the criteria established pursuant to this subdivision.

(4) The initial certification of safety and health programs established pursuant to this section shall expire six months after the date of such certification. Safety and health program certificates may be renewed upon presentation to the commissioner of evidence satisfactory to the commissioner that the program continues to satisfy the criteria established for such safety and health programs. Such renewal shall be valid for a period of one year unless suspended or revoked before such time. The application to renew a certificate shall be submitted with the appropriate renewal fee thirty days prior to expiration of such certificate.

(5) The commissioner, after providing notice and an opportunity to be heard, may suspend or revoke any certificate issued under this subdivision where it is found that the holder has failed to comply with this section or any rules or regulations promulgated thereunder.

(6) The commissioner shall charge a fee not to exceed one hundred dollars to process the application to issue or renew an asbestos handling certificate and a fee not to exceed two hundred fifty dollars to process the application of an individual as an asbestos investigator.

(7) The commissioner may suspend the processing of applications for certification of individuals as asbestos handlers, investigators, planners, designers, and other titles for which training requirements are specified by AHERA, and the certification of safety and health programs when the commissioner determines that regulations promulgated pursuant to article thirty of the labor law for the certification of such individuals and for the certification of safety and health programs are essentially equivalent to regulations promulgated by the commissioner, and that such certifications are in fact being issued.

b. An asbestos inspection report regarding an asbestos project, where the work to be performed will cause the generation of waste which is asbestos containing material, shall include: (i) the amount of such waste which will be generated; (ii) the name of the person who will remove the waste and the number of the industrial waste transporter permit issued to such person pursuant to article twenty-seven of the environmental conservation law; and (iii) the site at which such waste will be disposed of.

c. If at the time the asbestos inspection report for an asbestos project is required to be filed, any of the information required under subparagraph b of this paragraph is not known, an amended report shall be filed thereafter with the department as soon as such information becomes known. Provided no person shall authorize the transport of waste which is asbestos containing material unless all information required in paragraph b has been filed with the department not less than five business days prior to the time such waste is transported. Provided further, however, the commissioner may for good cause shown and on such terms and conditions as he or she deems reasonable and necessary permit the filing of such report less than five days prior to the time such waste is transported.

d. Copies of all asbestos inspection reports received by or filed with the department and any amendments thereto indicating that waste which is asbestos containing material will be generated shall be forwarded to the department of sanitation.

(2) The commissioner may by regulation also require for any work which is not subject to the provisions of subdivision a of section 27-198.1 of article nineteen of subchapter one of chapter one of title twenty-seven of the code and for which a permit is required under article nine of subchapter one of chapter one of such title that an asbestos investigator certify that the work to be performed will not constitute an asbestos project or that an asbestos inspection report be completed and submitted to the department of buildings in conjunction with an application for such permit. The commissioner may exclude from any regulation promulgated pursuant to this paragraph certain types of work within a permit category.

(f) (1) a. The commissioner shall promulgate regulations establishing the requirements of an asbestos removal plan to be submitted in accordance with the provisions of subdivision c of section 27-198.1 of article nineteen of subchapter one of chapter one of title twenty-seven of the code and shall specify the type or types of demolition or alteration work for which such submission shall be required. Plans submitted shall be approved by the commissioner only upon a satisfactory showing that such plan will effect compliance with all applicable provisions of this section, regulations promulgated thereunder, all applicable federal or state laws or regulations and, in addition, that to the extent feasible, the removal of asbestos will be completed prior to the commencement of any demolition work. No plan shall be considered for approval unless accompanied by the payment of a fee established by the commissioner not to exceed eighteen hundred dollars.

b. Such plan, where the work to be performed will cause the generation of waste which is asbestos containing material, shall include: (i) the amount of such waste which will be generated; (ii) the name of the person who will remove the waste and the number of industrial waste transporter permit issued to such person pursuant to article twenty-seven of the environmental conservation law; and (iii) the site at which such waste will be disposed of.

c. If at the time asbestos removal plan is required to be filed, any of the information required under subparagraph b of this paragraph is not known, an amended plan shall be filed thereafter with the department as soon as such information becomes known. Provided no person shall authorize the transport of waste which is asbestos containing material unless all information required in paragraph b has been filed with the department not less than five business days prior to the time such waste is transported. Provided further, however, the commissioner may for good cause shown and on such terms and conditions as he or she deems reasonable and necessary permit the filing of such amended plan less than five days prior to the time such waste is transported.

d. Copies of all asbestos removal plans filed with the department and any amendments thereto indicating that waste which is asbestos containing material will be generated shall be forwarded to the department of sanitation.

(2) The commissioner shall act within a reasonable time not to exceed sixty days on an application for approval of an asbestos removal plan, and shall notify the applicant in writing of his or her approval or disapproval of the application. If an application is disapproved, the commissioner shall set forth his or her objections in the notice of disapproval. Within sixty days after service on the applicant of the notice of disapproval, the applicant may request the commissioner to reconsider the application by responding in writing to the stated objections. The commissioner shall consider the applicant's responses to his or her objections, and shall notify the applicant in writing within a reasonable time, not to exceed sixty days, of his or her approval or denial of the application. Failure to respond to the stated objections or request an extension of time within sixty days after service of the notice of disapproval shall be deemed a denial of the application.

(g) The commissioner may promulgate any regulations he or she deems necessary to protect the health and safety of workers and the public in connection with work not constituting an asbestos project in which asbestos is or is likely to be disturbed.

(h) A notice or order to stop work may be issued by the commissioner, or his or her authorized representative, at any time when it is found that work is being performed in violation of the provisions of this section, or any rules or regulations promulgated thereunder and which poses a threat to human safety. Such notice or order may be given orally or in writing to the owner, lessee or occupant of the property involved, or to the agent of any of them, or to the person or persons performing the work and may require all persons in or about the building or premises to vacate the same forthwith, and also require such work to be done as, in the opinion of the commissioner, may be necessary to remove the danger therefrom. Such notice or order shall be valid for a period of time not to exceed seventy-two hours and may be extended only upon application to the board in accordance with the provisions of section 24-178 of this code.

(i) The commissioner may grant individual variances for asbestos projects at specific sites, from particular requirements related to asbestos prescribed by this code and regulations or orders of the commissioner promulgated thereunder, whenever it is found, upon presentation of adequate proof, that compliance with such requirements would impose unreasonable hardship. In granting a variance the commissioner may impose such conditions as the policies of this code may require and shall publish in the City Record no later than seven days after the granting of such variance a statement of the reasons leading to his or her decision.

(j) The commissioner may establish a fee to process the applications listed in this subdivision as follows:

(1) For any asbestos project not requiring a permit or plan approval issued by the department of buildings and for which an asbestos inspection report or asbestos removal plan is required by this section and by regulations promulgated pursuant thereto to be filed with the commissioner, the commissioner shall be entitled to charge a fee not to exceed twelve hundred dollars for the asbestos inspection report or eighteen hundred dollars for the asbestos removal plan.

(2) To process an application for a variance submitted in accordance with subdivision (j) of this section, the department shall be entitled to charge a fee as established by the commissioner not to exceed eighteen hundred dollars.

(3) The commissioner may establish a fee not to exceed the following amounts for processing applications for the certification or renewal of certification of safety and health programs established pursuant to this section:

PROGRAM	FEE PER PROGRAM
Asbestos Handler	$1500.00
Asbestos Supervisor	$ 300.00
Asbestos Investigator	$ 750.00
Biennial Review Course	$ 500.00
Refresher Course	$ 300.00

(k) The commissioner may promulgate any additional regulations he or she deems necessary to effectuate the purposes of this section.

(l) The commissioner shall promulgate regulations requiring asbestos investigators to submit on a timely basis to the commissioner the results of any asbestos survey or investigation for asbestos conducted in accordance with this section and with regulations promulgated pursuant thereto if, during or as a result of such asbestos survey or investigation, the asbestos investigator discovers asbestos containing material. The commissioner may require the submission of the asbestos investigator's findings whether or not an asbestos project is planned or scheduled.

(m) (1) In addition to submission of the asbestos inspection report or asbestos removal plan, the commissioner may by regulation require additional notification to the department prior to the start of the asbestos project. No person shall cause or permit any abatement of asbestos containing material without compliance with any such additional notification requirements.

(2) Except as specified in subparagraph c of paragraph one of subdivision (e) and subparagraph c of paragraph one of subdivision (f) of this section, the commissioner may prescribe by regulation the circumstances under which an asbestos inspection report or asbestos removal plan may be amended, and the circumstances under which a new asbestos inspection report or asbestos removal plan shall be submitted to the department. The commissioner may consider the extent of the proposed amendment, including but not limited to change in floor size, quantity of asbestos containing material involved, project phasing, project duration, and replacement of abatement contractor.

(a) If any control apparatus required by this code is or will be inoperative for more than six hours, the commissioner shall be provided with a repair and resumption schedule for his or her approval by the owner of the equipment.

(b) Whenever the emission of an air contaminant, which emission constitutes a violation of any provision of this code, occurs as a result of, malfunction, breakdown or removal from service of equipment or apparatus, the owner of the equipment from which the emission of an air contaminant occurs shall report the emission of the air contaminant and its attendant circumstances to the commissioner not later than thirty minutes from its discovery. The report shall be confirmed in writing, in a form prescribed by the commissioner not later than three days thereafter.

(c) An owner of such equipment shall not continue it in operation during any malfunction, breakdown, or shutdown of the equipment or of the apparatus which serves the equipment, except with the express permission of the commissioner. Such permission shall be given only as may be necessary to protect the public health and safety. This subdivision shall not apply where the emission of air contaminant is of a type or within the limits permitted by this code.

(d) This section shall not apply to refuse burning equipment, refuse compacting equipment and fuel burning equipment which primarily serve residents of a building or structure which is occupied in whole or in part as the residence of one or more persons, or which is occupied for transacting business, for rendering professional services, for rendering public or civic services, or for performing other commercial services that may incidentally involve the storage of limited quantities of stocks of goods for office use or purposes.

The emergency action plan shall detail all activity that will be taken to prevent or control emissions resulting from a malfunction or breakdown.

SUBCHAPTER 6 EMISSION STANDARDS

§ 24-154 Environmental ratings; applications and appeals.

(a) The commissioner may require any owner of equipment to provide pertinent data data concerning emissions so as to show compliance with the requirements of section 24-153 of this code.

(b) When required by the commissioner, the owner of equipment in operation before August twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred seventy-one shall submit a detailed environmental rating report which shall include emission data, pertinent environmental factors and a proposed environmental rating showing either conformity with the requirements of section 24-153 of this code or proposed corrective measures. If this report is acceptable, the commissioner will so notify the person operating or maintaining the equipment. If the report is not acceptable to the department, the commissioner shall notify the applicant as to the reason therefor, together with an environmental rating that is acceptable and a time schedule for compliance. Upon petition to the commissioner within thirty days of such notice, the commissioner shall grant a hearing to such petitioner on the issue of an appropriate environmental rating.

When the ambient temperature is in excess of forty degrees Fahrenheit, no person shall cause or permit the engine of a bus as defined in section one hundred four of the vehicle and traffic law to idle while parking, standing, or stopping (as defined above) at any terminal point, whether or not enclosed, along an established route.

(b) The department of transportation shall post signs relating to prohibited idling that shall comply with the standards set forth in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices and, where practicable, include the maximum penalty that may be imposed for a violation of subdivision a of this section as follows:

(1) a sign shall be posted at each exit within the city of New York of each bridge and tunnel having only one terminus in the city of New York; (2) signs shall be posted at a minimum of five locations in each borough where two or more truck routes, whether local or through routes, intersect; (3) a sign shall be posted at each bus layover area (other than school bus layover areas), designated by the commissioner of transportation pursuant to section 4-10(c)(3) of title 34 of the rules of the city of New York; (4) a sign shall be posted at each multiple use bus terminal point; (5) a sign shall be posted in close proximity to each school bus depot; and,

(12) "Purchase" means purchase, lease, borrow, obtain by gift or otherwise acquire.

b. (1) Except as provided for in paragraphs two and three of this subdivision, beginning July 1, 2006, each light-duty vehicle and medium-duty vehicle that the city purchases shall achieve the highest of the following ratings, with subparagraph one of this paragraph being the highest vehicle rating, applicable to motor vehicles certified to California LEV II standards and available within the applicable model year for a light-duty vehicle or medium-duty vehicle that meets the requirements for the intended use by the city of such vehicle:

f. To the extent not prohibited by law, alternative fuel buses and alternative fuel sanitation vehicles may be purchased by the city in concert with any public or private entity.

g. This section shall not apply:

(1) where federal or state funding precludes the city from imposing the purchasing requirements of this section;

(2) to purchases that are emergency procurements pursuant to section three hundred fifteen of the charter; or

(3)* to32 purchases of buses for use by the department of correction where the commissioner of correction has made a written determination that there are no alternative fuel buses available that meet such department's needs pertaining to bus size, passenger capacity and security, and has within three business days thereafter submitted the determination to the speaker of the council accompanied by the detailed analysis that formed the basis for such determination; provided, however, that purchases of buses for use by the department of correction shall become subject to the provisions of this section immediately after an alternative fuel bus that meets such needs becomes available, provided, further, however, that the city shall not be required to purchase alternative fuel buses for use by the department of correction if the only available alternative fuel buses that meet such department's needs pertaining to bus size, passenger capacity and security cost more than fifty percent more than other buses that meet such needs of such department.

h. The commissioner may by rule require periodic testing of alternative fuel buses and the submission of information concerning the operation and maintenance of such buses purchased or newly operated in the city to ensure compliance with this section and to collect information for reports required by this section.

i. The commissioner may order the owner or operator of a bus to which this section applies to conduct such tests, or the department may conduct such tests, as are necessary in the opinion of the commissioner to determine whether such bus is in compliance with this section.

j. The department may inspect at a reasonable time and in a reasonable manner any equipment, apparatus, fuel, matter or thing that affects or may affect the proper maintenance or operation of an alternative fuel bus to which this section applies.

a. For purposes of this section only, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "City agency" means a city, county, borough, administration, department, division, bureau, board or commission, or a corporation, institution or agency of government, the expenses of which are paid in whole or in part from the city treasury.

(2) "Contractor" means any person or entity that enters into a public works contract with a city agency, or any person or entity that enters into an agreement with such person or entity, to perform work or provide labor or services related to such public works contract.

(3) "Lower Manhattan" means the area of New York county consisting of the area to the south of and within Fourteenth street.

(4) "Motor vehicle" means any self-propelled vehicle designed for transporting persons or property on a street or highway.

(5) "Nonroad engine" means an internal combustion engine (including the fuel system) that is not used in a motor vehicle or a vehicle used solely for competition, or that is not subject to standards promulgated under section

7411 or section 7521 of title 42 of the United States code, except that this term shall apply to internal combustion engines used to power generators, compressors or similar equipment used in any construction program or project.

(6) "Nonroad vehicle" means a vehicle that is powered by a nonroad engine, fifty horsepower and greater, and that is not a motor vehicle or a vehicle used solely for competition, which shall include, but not be limited to, excavators, backhoes, cranes, compressors, generators, bulldozers and similar equipment, except that this term shall not apply to horticultural maintenance vehicles used for landscaping purposes that are powered by a nonroad engine of sixty-five horsepower or less and that are not used in any construction program or project.

(7) "Person" means any natural person, co-partnership, firm, company, association, joint stock association, corporation or other like organization.

(8) "Public works contract" means a contract with a city agency for a construction program or project involving the construction, demolition, restoration, rehabilitation, repair, renovation, or abatement of any building, structure, tunnel, excavation, roadway, park or bridge; a contract with a city agency for the preparation for any construction program or project involving the construction, demolition, restoration, rehabilitation, repair, renovation, or abatement of any building, structure, tunnel, excavation, roadway, park or bridge; or a contract with a city agency for any final work involved in the completion of any construction program or project involving the construction, demolition, restoration, rehabilitation, repair, renovation, or abatement of any building, structure, tunnel, excavation, roadway, park or bridge.

(9) "Ultra low sulfur diesel fuel" means diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than fifteen parts per million.

b. (1) Any diesel-powered nonroad vehicle that is owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by a city agency shall be powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel.

(2) Any diesel-powered nonroad vehicle that is owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by a city agency shall utilize the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants.

c. (1) Any solicitation for a public works contract and any contract entered into as a result of such solicitation shall include a specification that all contractors in the performance of such contract shall use ultra low sulfur diesel fuel in diesel-powered nonroad vehicles and all contractors in the performance of such contract shall comply with such specification.

(2) Any solicitation for a public works contract and any contract entered into as a result of such solicitation shall include a specification that all contractors in the performance of such contract shall utilize the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants for diesel-powered nonroad vehicles and all contractors in the performance of such contract shall comply with such specification.

d. (1) The commissioner shall make determinations, and shall publish a list containing such determinations, as to the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants to be used for each type of diesel-powered nonroad vehicle to which this section applies for the purposes of paragraph two of subdivision b and paragraph two of subdivision c of this section. Each such determination, which shall be updated on a regular basis, but in no event less than once every six months, shall be primarily based upon the reduction in emissions of particulate matter and secondarily based upon the reduction in emissions of nitrogen oxides associated with the use of such technology and shall in no event result in an increase in the emissions of either such pollutant. In determining the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants, the commissioner shall select technology from that which has been verified by the United States environmental protection agency or the California air resources board for use in nonroad vehicles or onroad vehicles where such technology may also be used in nonroad vehicles, but the commissioner may select technology that is not verified as such as is deemed appropriate.

(2) No city agency or contractor shall be required to replace best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants or other authorized technology utilized for a diesel-powered nonroad vehicle in accordance with the provisions of this section within three years of having first utilized such technology for such vehicle.

e. A city agency shall not enter into a public works contract subject to the provisions of this section unless such contract permits independent monitoring of the contractor's compliance with the requirements of this section and requires that the contractor comply with section 24-163 of this code. If it is determined that the contractor has failed to comply with any provision of this section, any costs associated with any independent monitoring incurred by the city shall be reimbursed by the contractor.

f. (1) The provisions of subdivision b of this section shall apply to any diesel-powered nonroad vehicle in use in Lower Manhattan that is owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by a city agency and the provisions of subdivision c of this section shall apply to any public works contract for Lower Manhattan upon the effective date of this section.

(2) The provisions of paragraph one of subdivision b of this section shall apply to all diesel-powered nonroad vehicles that are owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by a city agency and the provisions of paragraph one of subdivision c of this section shall apply to all public works contracts six months after the effective date of this section.

(3) The provisions of paragraph two of subdivision b of this section shall apply to all diesel-powered nonroad vehicles that are owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by a city agency and the provisions of paragraph two of subdivision c of this section shall apply to any public works contract that is valued at two million dollars or more one year after the effective date of this section.

(4) The provisions of paragraph two of subdivision c of this section shall apply to all public works contracts eighteen months after the effective date of this section.

g. (1) On or before January 1, 2005, and every succeeding January 1, the commissioner shall report to the comptroller and the speaker of the council on the use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel in diesel-powered nonroad vehicles and the use of the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants and such other authorized technology in accordance with this section for such vehicles by city agencies during the immediately preceeding*21 fiscal year. This report shall include, but not be limited to (i) the total number of diesel-powered nonroad vehicles owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by each city agency or used to fulfill the requirements of a public works contract for each city agency; (ii) the number of such nonroad vehicles that were powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel; (iii) the number of such nonroad vehicles that utilized the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants, including a breakdown by vehicle model and the type of technology used for each vehicle; (iv) the number of such nonroad vehicles that utilized such other authorized technology in accordance with this section, including a breakdown by vehicle model and the type of technology used for each vehicle; (v) the locations where such nonroad vehicles that were powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and/or utilized the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants or such other authorized technology in accordance with this section were used; (vi) all findings, and renewals of such findings, issued pursuant to subdivision j of this section, which shall include, but not be limited to, for each finding and renewal, the quantity of diesel fuel needed by the city agency or contractor to power diesel-powered nonroad vehicles owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by the city agency or used to fulfill the requirements of a public works contract for such agency; specific information concerning the availability of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision i of this section; and detailed information concerning the city agency's or contractor's efforts to obtain ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision i of this section; and (vii) all findings and waivers, and renewals of such findings and waivers, issued pursuant to paragraph one or paragraph three of subdivision k or subdivision m of this section, which shall include, but not be limited to, all specific information submitted by a city agency or contractor upon which such findings, waivers and renewals are based and the type of such other authorized technology, if any, utilized in accordance with this section in relation to each finding, waiver and renewal, instead of the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants.

(2) Where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision i of this section, information regarding diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million shall be reported wherever information is requested for ultra low sulfur diesel fuel pursuant to paragraph one of this subdivision.

h. This section shall not apply:

(1) where federal or state funding precludes the city from imposing the requirements of this section; or

(2) to purchases that are emergency procurements pursuant to section three hundred fifteen of the charter.

i. The commissioner shall issue a written determination that permits the use of diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million to fulfill the requirements of paragraph one of subdivision b and paragraph one of subdivision c of this section if ultra low sulfur diesel fuel is not available to meet the needs of city agencies and contractors to fulfill the requirements of this section. Such determination shall expire after six months and shall be renewed in writing every six months if ultra low sulfur diesel fuel is not available to meet the needs of city agencies and contractors to fulfill the requirements of this section, but in no event shall be in effect after September 1, 2006.

j. Paragraph one of subdivision b and paragraph one of subdivision c, as that paragraph applies to all contractors' duty to comply with the specification, of this section shall not apply to a city agency or contractor in its fulfillment of the requirements of a public works contract for such agency where such agency makes a written finding, which is approved, in writing, by the commissioner, that a sufficient quantity of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel, or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision i of this section, is not available to meet the requirements of paragraph one of subdivision b or paragraph one of subdivision c of this section, provided that such agency or contractor in its fulfillment of the requirements of a public works contract for such agency, to the extent practicable, shall use whatever quantity of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million is available. Any finding made pursuant to this subdivision shall expire after sixty days, at which time the requirements of paragraph one of subdivision b and paragraph one of subdivision c of this section shall be in full force and effect unless the city agency renews the finding in writing and such renewal is approved by the commissioner.

k. Paragraph two of subdivision b and paragraph two of subdivision c, as that paragraph applies to all contractors' duty to comply with the specification, of this section shall not apply:

(1) to a diesel-powered nonroad vehicle where a city agency makes a written finding, which is approved, in writing, by the commissioner, that the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants as required by those paragraphs is unavailable for such vehicle, in which case such agency or contractor shall use whatever technology for reducing the emission of pollutants, if any, is available and appropriate for such vehicle; or

(2) to a diesel-powered nonroad vehicle that is used to satisfy the requirements of a specific public works contract for fewer than twenty calendar days; or

(3) to a diesel-powered nonroad vehicle where the commissioner has issued a written waiver based upon a city agency or contractor having demonstrated to the commissioner that the use of the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants might endanger the operator of such vehicle or those working near such vehicle, due to engine malfunction, in which case such city agency or contractor shall use whatever technology for reducing the emission of pollutants, if any, is available and appropriate for such vehicle, which would not endanger the operator of such vehicle or those working near such vehicle.

l. In determining which technology to use for the purposes of paragraph one or paragraph three of subdivision k of this section, a city agency or contractor shall primarily consider the reduction in emissions of particulate matter and secondarily consider the reduction in emissions of nitrogen oxides associated with the use of such technology, which shall in no event result in an increase in the emissions of either such pollutant.

m. Any finding or waiver made or issued pursuant to paragraph one or paragraph three of subdivision k of this section shall expire after one hundred eighty days, at which time the requirements of paragraph two of subdivision b and paragraph two of subdivision c of this section shall be in full force and effect unless the city agency renews the finding, in writing, and the commissioner approves such finding, in writing, or the commissioner renews the waiver, in writing.

n. Any contractor who violates any provision of this section, except as provided in subdivision o of this section, shall be liable for a civil penalty between the amounts of one thousand and ten thousand dollars, in addition to twice the amount of money saved by such contractor for failure to comply with this section.

o. No contractor shall make a false claim with respect to the provisions of this section to a city agency. Where a contractor has been found to have done so, such contractor shall be liable for a civil penalty of twenty thousand dollars, in addition to twice the amount of money saved by such contractor in association with having made such false claim.

p. This section shall not apply to any public works contract entered into or renewed prior to the effective date of this section.

q. Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the city's authority to cancel or terminate a contract, deny or withdraw approval to perform a subcontract or provide supplies, issue a non-responsibility finding, issue a non-responsiveness finding, deny a person or entity pre-qualification as a vendor, or otherwise deny a person or entity city business.

1. Provisions of L.L. 77/2003:

Section 1. Declaration of Legislative Findings and Intent. The Council finds that diesel emissions, due in large part to their high concentrations of particulate matter, are associated with severe and multiple health risks to the citizens of New York City. Public health organizations, including the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health, the World Health Organization, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the California Environmental Protection Agency and the United States Department of Health and Human Services' National Toxicology Program, have associated diesel exhaust or diesel particulates with an increased risk of cancer. Additionally, the health effects associated with particulate matter include decreased lung function, aggravated asthma, respiratory symptoms and premature death.[1]22 Nonroad diesel equipment is the single largest mobile source-based source of diesel particulate matter.

Diesel exhaust also contains nitrogen oxides, which combine with volatile organic compounds in the air, such as hydrocarbons-also emitted by nonroad vehicles-to form ground-level ozone, or smog, in the presence of heat and sunlight.[2]23 Ozone may cause a variety of respiratory problems, including aggravated asthma, decreases in lung capacity and increased susceptibility to respiratory illnesses.[3]24 It is damaging to lung tissue in high concentrations and during long-term exposure.[4]25 New York City continues to be classified as a "severe-17 nonattainment area" for ozone.[5]26

to increases in the aggravation of asthma, which can lead to increased rates of preventable hospitalization and premature death. The Council finds that reducing particulate matter and nitrogen oxide emissions may help to stem the tide of the asthma epidemic in New York City. In the year 2000 alone, there were 26,868 asthma-related hospitalizations in New York City.[6]27 These hospitalizations resulted in $242,454,056 of medical expenses-an average of $9023.90 per hospitalization-of which 49.4% of the charges, or $119,772,304, was paid by Medicaid and 23.1% of the charges, or $56,006,887, was paid by Medicare.[7]28

The EPA, recognizing the harmful effects of diesel emissions from nonroad vehicles, issued a proposed rule on April 15, 2003, which would require that sulfur levels in nonroad diesel fuel be limited to 15 parts per million in 2010. This rule would also require, starting in 2008 for smaller nonroad vehicles, that engines meet more stringent emissions standards.

Nonroad vehicles, such as backhoes, bulldozers, excavation machines, generators and cranes, have been and will be used to perform necessary and important functions at Ground Zero and will play a major role in the rebuilding of the area for years to come. The Council finds, however, that the City has a responsibility toward the people who live, work and attend school in Lower Manhattan, to minimize, wherever practical, the pollution such equipment and machinery emit into the air. The Council finds that the use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel to power the diesel-powered nonroad vehicles operating at Ground Zero and in other parts of Lower Manhattan would reduce the amount of particulates released into the air by these vehicles, thereby improving air quality in that area. The Council further finds that using nonroad vehicles that utilize the best available technology for reducing the emission of harmful pollutants, such as particulate matter and nitrogen oxides, would have a dramatic impact on the level of pollutants being released in Lower Manhattan.

The Council finds that air quality is a concern in all parts of New York City, as well as in Lower Manhattan, particularly since the City suffers from some of the highest asthma rates in the country. Therefore, the Council finds that it is in the best interest of the health of our City's residents, workers and schoolchildren for the City to use ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants in its diesel-powered nonroad vehicles in all areas of the City, in addition to Lower Manhattan. The Council also finds that the City should contract for construction services with contractors who use ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and the best available technology to minimize the release of harmful pollutants in diesel-powered nonroad vehicles. Acting with the discretion allowed any private participant in the market, the City should choose to allocate its purchasing dollars in order to protect the health of its residents, thus decreasing the number of asthma hospitalizations and associated costs to the City, as well.

This legislation requires that any diesel-powered nonroad vehicle, fifty horsepower and greater, that is owned by, operated by or on behalf of, or leased by a City agency be powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and utilize the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants. Additionally, this legislation requires that any solicitation for a public works contract and any contract entered into as a result of such solicitation include specifications that all contractors in the performance of such contract use ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and the best available technology for reducing the emission of pollutants for diesel-powered nonroad vehicles. All contractors in the performance of such contract must comply with such specifications. Although these requirements would apply to such vehicles only in Lower Manhattan at first, they would subsequently apply to nonroad vehicles in all other areas of the City. The Council finds that this legislation will have an important impact on improving the air quality throughout New York City and, consequently, may annually save the City millions of dollars in avoided health care costs.

Administrative Code of the City of New York

Title 24 Environmental Protection and Utilities

CHAPTER 1 AIR POLLUTION CONTROL

SUBCHAPTER 7 EQUIPMENT AND APPARATUS: USE AND MAINTENANCE

§ 24-163.4 Use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and best available retrofit technology by the city's diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles.

a. Definitions. When used in this section:

(1) "Best available retrofit technology" means technology, verified by the United States environmental protection agency or the California air resources board, for reducing the emission of pollutants that achieves reductions in particulate matter emissions at the highest classification level for diesel emission control strategies, as set forth in subdivision d of this section, that is applicable to the particular engine and application. Such technology shall also, at a reasonable cost, achieve the greatest reduction in emissions of nitrogen oxides at such particulate matter reduction level and shall in no event result in a net increase in the emissions of either particulate matter or nitrogen oxides.

(2) "City agency" means a city, county, borough, administration, department, division, bureau, board or commission, or a corporation, institution or agency of government, the expenses of which are paid in whole or in part from the city treasury.

(3) "Gross vehicle weight rating" means the value specified by the manufacturer of a motor vehicle model as the maximum design loaded weight of a single vehicle of that model.

(4) "Motor vehicle" means a vehicle operated or driven upon a public highway which is propelled by any power other than muscular power, except electrically-driven mobility assistance devices operated or driven by a person with a disability, provided, however, that this term shall not include vehicles that are specially equipped for emergency response by the department, office of emergency management, sheriff's office of the department of finance, police department or fire department or vehicles, other than buses, specially equipped for emergency response by the department of correction.

(5) "Person" means any natural person, co-partnership, firm, company, association, joint stock association, corporation or other like organization.

(6) "Reasonable cost" means that such technology does not cost greater than thirty percent more than other technology applicable to the particular engine and application that falls within the same classification level for diesel emission control strategies, as set forth in subdivision d of this section, when considering the cost of the strategies, themselves, and the cost of installation.

(7) "Ultra low sulfur diesel fuel" means diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than fifteen parts per million.

b. (1) Each diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle owned or operated by a city agency shall be powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel.

(2) Diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles having a gross vehicle weight rating of more than 8,500 pounds that are owned or operated by city agencies shall utilize the best available retrofit technology or be equipped with an engine certified to the applicable 2007 United States environmental protection agency standard for particulate matter as set forth in section 86.007-11 of title 40 of the code of federal regulations or to any subsequent United States environmental protection agency standard for such pollutant that is at least as stringent, pursuant to the following schedule:

i. 7% of all such motor vehicles by January 1, 2007;

ii. 14% of all such motor vehicles by January 1, 2008;

iii. 30% of all such motor vehicles by January 1, 2009;

iv. 50% of all such motor vehicles by January 1, 2010;

v. 70% of all such motor vehicles by January 1, 2011;

vi. 90% of all such motor vehicles by January 1, 2012;

vii. 100% of all such motor vehicles by July 1, 2012.

c. (1) The commissioner shall make determinations, and shall publish a list containing such determinations, as to the best available retrofit technology to be used for each type of diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle to which this section applies. Each such determination shall be reviewed and revised, as needed, on a regular basis, but in no event less often than once every six months.

(2) The commissioner may determine that a technology, whether or not it has been verified by the United States environmental protection agency or the California air resources board, may be appropriate to test, on an experimental basis, on a particular type of diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle owned or operated by a city agency. The commissioner may authorize such technology to be installed on up to five percent or twenty-five of such type of motor vehicle, whichever is less. Any motor vehicle on which such technology is installed may be counted for the purpose of meeting the requirements of paragraph two of subdivision b of this section. Such technology shall not be required to be installed on other motor vehicles of the same type and shall be subject to the provisions of paragraph three of this subdivision.

(3) No city agency shall be required to replace best available retrofit technology or experimental technology utilized for a diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle in accordance with the provisions of this section within three years of having first utilized such technology for such vehicle, except that technology that falls within Level 4, as set forth in subdivision d of this section, shall not be required to be replaced until it has reached the end of its useful life.

d. The classification levels for diesel emission control strategies are as follows, with Level 4 being the highest classification level:

i. Level 4 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by 85 percent or greater or reduces engine emissions to less than or equal to 0.01 grams diesel particulate matter per brake horsepower-hour;

ii. Level 3 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by between 50 and 84 percent;

iii. Level 2 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by between 25 and 49 percent;

iv. Level 1 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by between 20 and 24 percent.

e. The commissioner shall issue a written determination that permits the use of diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million to fulfill the requirements of this section if ultra low sulfur diesel fuel is not available to meet the needs of city agencies to fulfill the requirements of this section. Such determination shall expire after six months and shall be renewed in writing every six months if such lack of availability persists, but in no event shall be in effect after September 1, 2006.

f. The commissioner may issue a waiver for the use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel where a city agency makes a written finding, which is approved, in writing, by the commissioner, that a sufficient quantity of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel, or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision e of this section, is not available to meet the requirements of this section, provided that such agency, to the extent practicable, shall use whatever quantity of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million is available for its diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles. Any waiver issued pursuant to this subdivision shall expire after two months, unless the city agency renews the finding, in writing, and the commissioner approves such renewal, in writing.

g. (1) Not later than January 1, 2007, and not later than January 1 of each year thereafter, the commissioner shall submit a report to the comptroller and the speaker of the council regarding, among other things, the use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and the use of the best available retrofit technology by diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles owned or operated by city agencies during the immediately preceding calendar year. The information contained in this report shall include, but not be limited to, for each city agency: (i) the total number of diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles owned or operated by such agency; (ii) the number of such motor vehicles that were powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel; (iii) the total number of diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles owned or operated by such agency having a gross vehicle weight rating of more than 8,500 pounds; (iv) the number of such motor vehicles that utilized the best available retrofit technology, including a breakdown by motor vehicle model, engine year and the type of technology used for each vehicle; (v) the number of such motor vehicles that are equipped with an engine certified to the applicable 2007 United States environmental protection agency standard for particulate matter as set forth in section 86.007-11 of title 40 of the code of federal regulations or to any subsequent United States environmental protection agency standard for particulate matter that is at least as stringent; (vi) the number of such motor vehicles that utilized technology in accordance with paragraph two of subdivision c of this section and the results and analyses regarding the testing of such technology; and (vii) all waivers, findings, and renewals of such findings, issued pursuant to subdivision f of this section, which, for each waiver, shall include, but not be limited to, the quantity of diesel fuel needed to power diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles owned or operated by such agency; specific information concerning the availability of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision e of this section; and detailed information concerning the agency's efforts to obtain ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision e of this section.

(2) Where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision e of this section, information regarding diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million shall be reported wherever information is requested for ultra low sulfur diesel fuel pursuant to paragraph one of this subdivision.

(3) The report due January 1, 2007 in accordance with paragraph one of this subdivision shall only include the information required pursuant to subparagraphs (i), (ii) and (vii) of such paragraph.

h. This section shall not apply:

(1) where federal or state funding precludes the city from imposing the requirements of this section; or

(2) to purchases that are emergency procurements pursuant to section three hundred fifteen of the charter.

SUBCHAPTER 7 EQUIPMENT AND APPARATUS: USE AND MAINTENANCE

§ 24-163.5 Use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and best available retrofit technology in the fulfillment of solid waste contracts and recyclable materials contracts.

a. Definitions. When used in this section:

(1) "Best available retrofit technology" means technology, verified by the United States environmental protection agency or the California air resources board unless as otherwise deemed appropriate by the commissioner for a nonroad vehicle, for reducing the emission of pollutants that achieves reductions in particulate matter emissions at the highest classification level for diesel emission control strategies, as set forth in subdivision d of this section, that is applicable to the particular engine and application. Such technology shall also, at a reasonable cost, achieve the greatest reduction in emissions of nitrogen oxides at such particulate matter reduction level and shall in no event result in a net increase in the emissions of either particulate matter or nitrogen oxides.

(2) "City agency" means a city, county, borough, administration, department, division, bureau, board or commission, or a corporation, institution or agency of government, the expenses of which are paid in whole or in part from the city treasury.

(3) "Contractor" means any person or entity that enters into a solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract with a city agency, or any person or entity that enters into an agreement with such person or entity, to perform work or provide labor or services related to such solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract.

(4) "Motor vehicle" shall mean a vehicle operated or driven upon a public highway which is propelled by any power other than muscular power, except electrically-driven mobility assistance devices operated or driven by a person with a disability.

(5) "Nonroad engine" means an internal combustion engine (including the fuel system) that is not used in a motor vehicle or a vehicle used solely for competition, or that is not subject to standards promulgated under section 7411 or section 7521 of title 42 of the United States code, except that this term shall apply to internal combustion engines used to power generators, compressors or similar equipment used in the fulfillment of any solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract.

(6) "Nonroad vehicle" means a vehicle that is powered by a nonroad engine, fifty horsepower and greater, and that is not a motor vehicle or a vehicle used solely for competition, which shall include, but not be limited to, front loaders, excavators, backhoes, cranes, compressors, generators, bulldozers and similar equipment.

(7) "Operate primarily within the city of New York" means that greater than fifty percent of the time spent or miles traveled by a motor vehicle or nonroad vehicle during the performance of a solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract occurs within the city of New York.

(8) "Person" means any natural person, co-partnership, firm, company, association, joint stock association, corporation or other like organization.

(9) "Reasonable cost" means that such technology does not cost greater than thirty percent more than other technology applicable to the particular engine and application that falls within the same classification level for diesel emission control strategies, as set forth in subdivision d of this section, when considering the cost of the strategies, themselves, and the cost of installation.

(10) "Recyclable materials" means solid waste that may be separated, collected, processed, marketed and returned to the economy in the form of raw materials or products, including but not limited to types of metal, glass, paper, plastic, food waste, tires and yard waste.

(11) "Recyclable materials contract" means a contract with a city agency, the primary purpose of which is to provide for the handling, transport or disposal of recyclable materials.

(12) "Solid waste" means all materials or substances discarded or rejected as being spent, useless, or worthless, including but not limited to garbage, refuse, industrial and commercial waste, sludges from air or water pollution control facilities or water supply treatment facilities, rubbish, ashes, contained gaseous material, incinerator residue, demolition and construction debris and offal, but not including sewage and other highly diluted water-carried materials or substances and those in gaseous forms.

(13) "Solid waste contract" means a contract with a city agency, the primary purpose of which is to provide for the handling, transport or disposal of solid waste.

(14) "Ultra low sulfur diesel fuel" means diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than fifteen parts per million.

b. (1) Any solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract shall specify that all diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles and diesel fuel-powered nonroad vehicles used in the performance of such contract that operate primarily within the city of New York shall be powered by ultra low sulfur diesel fuel and all contractors in the performance of such contract shall comply with such specification.

(2) Any solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract shall specify that, as of March 1, 2006, all diesel fuel-powered motor vehicles and diesel fuel-powered nonroad vehicles used in the performance of such contract that operate primarily within the city of New York shall utilize the best available retrofit technology and all contractors in the performance of such contract shall comply with such specification.

c. (1) The commissioner shall make determinations, and shall publish a list containing such determinations, as to the best available retrofit technology to be used for each type of diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle and diesel fuel-powered nonroad vehicle to which this section applies. Each such determination shall be reviewed and revised, as needed, on a regular basis, but in no event less often than once every six months.

(2) No contractor shall be required to replace best available retrofit technology or other authorized technology utilized for a diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle or diesel fuel-powered nonroad vehicle in accordance with the provisions of this section within three years of having first utilized such technology for such vehicle, except that technology that falls within Level 4, as set forth in subdivision d of this section, shall not be required to be replaced until it has reached the end of its useful life.

d. The classification levels for diesel emission control strategies are as follows, with Level 4 being the highest classification level:

ii. Level 3 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by between 50 and 84 percent;

iii. Level 2 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by between 25 and 49 percent;

iv. Level 1 - strategy reduces diesel particulate matter emissions by between 20 and 24 percent.

e. A city agency shall not enter into a solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract subject to the provisions of this section unless such contract permits independent monitoring of the contractor's compliance with the requirements of this section and requires that the contractor comply with section 24-163 of this code. If it is determined that the contractor has failed to comply with any provision of this section, any costs associated with any independent monitoring incurred by the city shall be reimbursed by the contractor.

f. The commissioner shall issue a written determination that permits the use of diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million to fulfill the requirements of paragraph one of subdivision b of this section if ultra low sulfur diesel fuel is not available to meet the needs of contractors to fulfill the requirements of this section. Such determination shall expire after six months and shall be renewed in writing every six months if such lack of availability persists, but in no event shall be in effect after September 1, 2006.

g. The commissioner may issue a waiver for the use of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel where the city agency that has entered into the applicable solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract makes a written finding, which is approved, in writing, by the commissioner, that a sufficient quantity of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel, or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million where a determination is in effect pursuant to subdivision f of this section, is not available to meet the requirements of this section, provided that the contractor, to the extent practicable, shall use whatever quantity of ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or diesel fuel that has a sulfur content of no more than thirty parts per million is available for its diesel fuel-powered vehicles. Any waiver issued pursuant to this subdivision shall expire after two months, unless the city agency renews the finding, in writing, and the commissioner approves such renewal, in writing.

h. The commissioner may issue a waiver for the use of the best available retrofit technology by a diesel fuel-powered motor vehicle or diesel fuel-powered nonroad vehicle where the city agency that has entered into the applicable solid waste contract or recyclable materials contract makes a written finding, which is approved, in writing, by the commissioner, that such technology is unavailable for purchase for such vehicle, in which case the contractor shall be required to use the technology for reducing the emission of pollutants that would be the next best best available retrofit technology and that is available for purchase for such vehicle. Any waiver issued pursuant to this subdivision shall expire after three years.

i. (1) Paragraph two of subdivision b of this section shall not apply to a diesel-fuel powered motor vehicle that is equipped with an engine certified to the applicable 2007 United States environmental protection agency standard for particulate matter as set forth in section 86.007-11 of title 40 of the code of federal regulations or to any subsequent United States environmental protection agency standard for such pollutant that is at least as stringent.

a. Definitions. When used in this chapter:

(1) "Alternative fuel" means a fuel, other than gasoline or standard diesel fuel, which may be used to power a generator subject to the provisions of this section so long as the respective quantities of each pollutant emitted by such generator when operated using such fuel do not exceed the respective quantities of each pollutant emitted when such generator is operated using ultra low sulfur diesel fuel.

(2) "City agency" means a city, county, borough, administration, department, division, bureau, board or commission, or a corporation, institution or agency of government, the expenses of which are paid in whole or in part from the city treasury.

(3) "Generator" means a machine or device that combusts fossil fuel to create electricity.

(4) "Person" means any natural person, partnership, firm, company, association, joint stock association, corporation or other legal entity.

(2) The mayor's office of film, theatre, and broadcasting shall issue to all film, television and advertising production companies that apply for a filming permit a notice that recites the provisions of this section and states that any diesel-powered generator that is utilized in a film, television or advertising production must use ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or an alternative fuel.

(3) The street activity permit office shall issue to all applicants for a street activity permit for a street fair a notice that recites the provisions of this section and states that any diesel-powered generator that is utilized for a street fair must use ultra low sulfur diesel fuel or an alternative fuel.

(a) Whenever the use of an air contaminant detector is required by this code, the air contaminant detector must automatically cause both an audible signal sufficiently loud to be heard by a person of normal hearing twenty feet from the detector and a readily visible flashing red light upon the emission of an air contaminant of a density which appears darker than number one on the standard smoke chart, or of an opacity which obscures vision to a degree greater than smoke of number one density on the standard smoke chart.

(b) The signalling devices of the air contaminant detector shall also be located at the principal work location of the person supervising the equipment.

(c) If two or more units of equipment are connected to a single flue, one air contaminant detector may be used if installed to monitor all of the units.

(d) If the light source of a photoelectric type of air contaminant detector fails to operate properly, the detector must automatically cause an audible signal sufficiently loud to be heard by a person of normal hearing twenty feet away from the detector and a readily visible flashing red light which shall continue to operate until manually reset.

(e) Whenever the use of an air contaminant recorder is required by this code, the air contaminant recorder must:

(1) continuously produce a record of the time, duration, concentration and density of an air contaminant of a density which appears darker than number one on the standard smoke chart, or of an opacity which obscures vision to a degree greater than number one; or

(2) continuously produce a record of the time, duration, and concentration of sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides by volume and particulate matter by weight.

(f) Except as provided in section 24-171 of this code, the record made by the air contaminant recorder shall be dated and retained on the premises where the recorder is located for a period of sixty days from the last date appearing on the record.

§ 24-202 Declaration of policy.

It is hereby declared to be the public policy of the city to reduce the ambient sound level in the city, so as to preserve, protect and promote the public health, safety and welfare, and the peace and quiet of the inhabitants of the city, prevent injury to human, plant and animal life and property, foster the convenience and comfort of its inhabitants, and facilitate the enjoyment of the natural attractions of the city. It is the public policy of the city that every person is entitled to ambient sound levels that are not detrimental to life, health and enjoyment of his or her property. It is hereby declared that the making, creation or maintenance of excessive and unreasonable noises within the city affects and is a menace to public health, comfort, convenience, safety, welfare and the prosperity of the people of the city. For the purpose of controlling and reducing such noises, it is hereby declared to be the policy of the city to set the unreasonable and prohibited noise standards and decibel levels contained herein and to consolidate certain of its noise control legislation into this code. The necessity for legislation by enactment of the provisions of this chapter is hereby declared as matter of legislative determination.

This code shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes described in this section. Nothing herein shall be construed to abridge the emergency powers of the board of health or the right of the department of health and mental hygiene to engage in any of its necessary or proper activities. It is the intent of the council that the police department as well as other agencies of the city designated by the commissioner of the department of environmental protection shall have the authority to enforce the provisions of this code and police officers and designated employees of the department of environmental protection and of such other city agencies shall have the power to issue summonses, appearance tickets and notices of violation for violations of this code.

CHAPTER 2 NOISE CONTROL

SUBCHAPTER 1 SHORT TITLE, POLICY AND DEFINITIONS

§ 24-203 General definitions.

When used in the New York city noise control code the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "A" level means the sound level as measured with a sound level meter using the "A" weighting network. The unit of measurement is the dB(A). This frequency weighting network for the measurement of sound levels shall comply with standards established by the American National Standards Institute specifications for sound level meters S1.4-1971, as amended or S1.4-1983, as amended.

(2) Activity means any act or combination of acts which actually results in the production of sound.

(3) Air compressor means a device which draws in air or gas, compresses it, and delivers it at a higher pressure.

(4) Air horn means a device intended to produce a sound signal by means of compressed air or gas or exhaust gas.

(5) Airport means an area of land or water that is used or intended to be used for the landing and take off of aircraft, and includes its buildings and facilities, if any.

(6) Ambient sound means the sound level at a given location that exists as a result of the combined contribution in that location of all sound sources, excluding the contribution of a source or sources under investigation for violation of this code and excluding the contribution of extraneous sound sources. For purposes of the enforcement of this code, the ambient sound level of a given location may be determined based upon measurements taken at a comparable site (which includes but is not limited to comparable physical locations and time of day) in the nearby area.

(7) Apparatus means any mechanism which prevents, controls, detects, measures or records the production of sound.

(8) Audible status indicator means any sound reproduction device on a motor vehicle that emits or causes to be emitted any continuous or near continuous sound (exceeding 5 seconds if tonal in nature or any duration if verbal in nature) for the purpose of warning that an audible burglar alarm has been installed on such motor vehicle and is operational or for creating the appearance that such an alarm has been installed on such motor vehicle and is operational.

(9) Authorized emergency vehicle means an authorized emergency vehicle as defined by section 101 of the vehicle and traffic law.

(13) Burglar alarm means any sound signal device designed and intended to produce a sound signal upon unauthorized entrance by a person into a building or motor vehicle.

(14) "C" level means the sound level as measured with a sound level meter using the "C" weighting network. The unit of measurement is the dB(C). This frequency weighting network for the measurement of sound levels shall comply with standards established by the American National Standards Institute specifications for sound level meters S1.4-1971, as amended or S1.4-1983, as amended.

(15) Certificate means an operating or temporary operating certificate.

(16) Charter means the New York city charter including all of its amendments.

(17) Circulation device means any device which circulates a gas or fluid, including but not limited to any air conditioner, pump, cooling tower, fan or blower.

(18) Claxon means any manually, mechanically, or electrically powered device, other than an emergency signal device, including but not limited to a motor vehicle horn, which is intended to, and when operated actually does, emit a sound signal.

(19) This code means the New York city noise control code.

(20) Commissioner means commissioner of environmental protection or his or her authorized representative.

(21) Construction or construction work means any or all activity necessary or incidental to the erection, demolition, assembling, altering, installing or equipping of buildings, public or private highways, roads, premises, parks, utility lines including such lines in already-constructed tunnels, or other property, including land clearing, grading, excavating and filling.

(22) Construction device means any device designed and intended for use in construction including, but not limited to any air compressor, pile driver, sledgehammer, bulldozer, pneumatic hammer, steam shovel, derrick, crane, steam or electric hoist, construction vehicle or pneumatic or electric tool.

(25) Decibel means the practical unit of measurement for sound pressure level; the number of decibels of a measured sound is equal to 20 times the logarithm to the base 10 of the ratio of the sound pressure to the pressure of a reference sound (20 micropascals); abbreviated "dB".

(26) Device means any mechanism which is intended to or which actually produces sound when operated or handled.

(27) Department means the department of environmental protection.

(28) Dwelling means any building lawfully occupied in whole or in part as the temporary or permanent residence of one or more natural persons.

(29) Dynamic insertion loss means the difference between two sound pressure levels which are measured at the same point in space before and after a muffler is inserted between the measurement point and the sound source under operating conditions.

(30) Emergency means a public calamity or an exposure of any person or property to imminent danger.

(31) Emergency signal device means any gong, siren whistle, or siren or any air horn or any similar device the use of which on authorized emergency vehicles is permitted by subdivision twenty-six of section three hundred seventy-five of the vehicle and traffic law.

(32) Exhaust source means a system which removes and transports air or gas from a device.

(33) Extraneous sound is sound that is intense, intermittent, not representative of the relatively steady sound levels at a given location and not attributable to a source or sources under investigation for violation of this code. Such sound includes but is not limited to sirens of passing emergency vehicles, unusually loud motor vehicle braking (screeching) or exhaust noise, people shouting, animal vocalization, passing aircraft, horn honking, car door slamming and passing trains. Notwithstanding the foregoing provision, sounds that are individually persistent or controlling of the sound level at a given location shall not be considered to be extraneous sounds if they constitute more than 50 percent of the duration of an ambient or total sound level measurement such as for example the sound of a passing aircraft at a specific location if airplanes regularly pass over such location and the proximity of such passing aircraft to the location, its sound level, and the duration of such sound level, control the sound level at the given location at the time the sound source under investigation is being measured. For the purposes of the enforcement of this code, extraneous sounds are excluded when measuring the ambient sound level at a given location and when measuring the sound level of a source or sources under investigation for violation of this code except where such sounds are themselves under investigation for violation of this code.

(34) Impulsive sound is sound that is of short duration, where each peak of sound lasts 2 seconds or less. The sound is characterized by abrupt onset and rapid decay. As used in this code, the term impulsive sound shall not include music.

(35) Internal combustion engine means a device for the production of energy by means of the combustion under pressure of fossil fuel.

(36) Lawn care device means any device powered mechanically, by electricity, by gasoline, by diesel fuel or by any other fuel, which is intended to be used or is actually used for the mowing of grass, the cutting or chipping of trees, tree roots or tree branches, or the clearing of leaves or other vegetation from lawns, sidewalks, public streets or public highways and shall include, but not be limited to, such devices as lawn mowers and lawn mower attachments, lawn edgers, leaf blowers, leaf vacuums, mulchers and chippers.

(37) Lmax means the maximum measured sound level at any instant in time.

(38) Motor vehicle means any device which is propelled by an engine in or upon which a person or material may be transported on the ground and which is intended to be operated upon a public highway.

(39) Muffler means an apparatus generally consisting of but not limited to a series of chambers or baffles for the purpose of transmitting gases while reducing sound levels.

(40) Owner means and includes the owner of the freehold of the premises or lesser estate therein, or mortgagee thereof, a lessee or agent of any of the above persons, a lessee of a device or his or her agent, a tenant, operator, or any other person who has regular control of a device or an apparatus.

(41) Paving breaker means any powered construction device intended to cut or trench pavement, subbase macadam, gravel, concrete or hard ground.

(42) Person means any individual, partnership, company, corporation, association, firm, organization, governmental agency, administration or department, or any other group of individuals, or any officer or employee thereof.

(43) Personal audio device means a portable sound reproduction device as normally and customarily used for personal purposes including but not limited to a personal radio, phonograph, television receiver, tape recorder or compact disc player. For the purposes of this definition such term shall include a sound reproduction device installed in or operated from a motor vehicle whether or not portable.

(44) Plainly audible sound means any sound for which any of the content of that sound, such as, but not limited to comprehensible musical rhythms, is communicated to a person using his or her unaided hearing faculties. For the purposes of the enforcement of this code, the detection of any component of music, including but not limited to the rhythmic bass by a person using his or her unaided hearing faculties is sufficient to verify plainly audible sound. It is not necessary for such person to determine the title, specific words or artist of such music. In the case of motor vehicles the detection of the sound of a muffler or of an exhaust by a person using his or her unaided hearing faculties is sufficient to verify plainly audible sound. Plainly audible sound does not require measurement with a sound level meter.

(45) Power tool means any device powered mechanically, by electricity, by gasoline, by diesel fuel or by any other fuel, which is intended to be used or is actually used for, but shall not be limited to, the performance of such functions as cutting, nailing, stapling, sawing, vacuuming or drilling.

as a common carrier for hire together with the appurtenances, facilities and equipment thereof.

(62) Unreasonable noise means any excessive or unusually loud sound that disturbs the peace, comfort or repose of a reasonable person of normal sensitivities, injures or endangers the health or safety of a reasonable person of normal sensitivities or which causes injury to plant or animal life, or damage to property or business.

(63) Refuse collection facility means any structure, building or other premises at which solid waste is received for the purpose of subsequent transfer to another location regardless of whether such solid waste is subject to any processing or reduction in volume at such structure, building or premises.

§ 24-206 Testing by order of the commissioner.

(a) If the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that any device is in violation of this code, the commissioner may order the owner of the device to conduct such tests as are necessary in the opinion of the commissioner to determine whether the device or its operation is in violation of this code and to submit the test results to the commissioner within ten days after the tests are completed.

(b) Such tests shall be conducted in a manner approved by the commissioner. If any part of the test is conducted at a place other than the site where the device is located, that part of the test shall be certified by a laboratory acceptable to the commissioner. The commissioner may require that the entire test results shall be reviewed and certified by (i) a professional engineer with acoustical experience as specified in the rules of the department or (ii) a noise consultant with qualifications of education and/or acoustical experience as set forth in the rules of the department.

(c) If in the opinion of the commissioner, tests by the department are necessary, the commissioner may order the owner to provide such access to the device as the commissioner may reasonably request, to provide a power source suitable to the points of testing, and to provide allied facilities, exclusive of sound level meter. These provisions shall be made at the expense of the owner of the device. The owner shall be furnished with copies of the analytical results of the data collected.

§ 24-218 General prohibitions.

(a) No person shall make, continue or cause or permit to be made or continued any unreasonable noise.

(b) Unreasonable noise shall include but shall not be limited to sound, attributable to any device, that exceeds the following prohibited noise levels:

(1) Sound, other than impulsive sound, attributable to the source, measured at a level of 7 dB(A) or more above the ambient sound level at or after 10:00 p.m. and before 7:00 a.m., as measured at any point within a receiving property or as measured at a distance of 15 feet or more from the source on a public right-of-way.

(2) Sound, other than impulsive sound, attributable to the source, measured at a level of 10 dB(A) or more above the ambient sound level at or after 7:00 a.m. and before 10:00 p.m., as measured at any point within a receiving property or as measured at a distance of 15 feet or more from the source on a public right-of-way.

(3) Impulsive sound, attributable to the source, measured at a level of 15 dB(A) or more above the ambient sound level, as measured at any point within a receiving property or as measured at a distance of 15 feet or more from the source on a public right-of-way. Impulsive sound levels shall be measured in the A-weighting network with the sound level meter set to fast response. The ambient sound level shall be taken in the A-weighting network with the sound level meter set to slow response.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision b of this section, where a particular sound source or device is subject to decibel level limits and requirements specifically prescribed for such source or device elsewhere in this code, the decibel level limits set forth in this section shall not apply to such sound source or device.

(d) The decibel level limits set forth in this section shall not apply to sound attributable to construction devices and activities.

(e) Where the commissioner finds that sound from any refuse collection facility regulated by the department of sanitation exceeds the decibel level limits set forth in this section, the commissioner shall order the operator of such facility to submit a certification by a professional engineer as to whether or not the facility is in compliance with the noise standards required by the department of sanitation rules (16 RCNY Ch. 4) and if not in compliance, the mitigation measures that will be undertaken to bring such facility into compliance. The testing and certification must be submitted to the department and to the department of sanitation within forty-five days after the issuance of such order. A facility that complies with an order issued pursuant to this section and with any required mitigation measures shall be deemed to be in compliance with the decibel limits of this section. With respect to any refuse collection facility owned or operated by the department of sanitation such facility shall be deemed to be in compliance with the decibel level limits of this section if it is in compliance with a best management practices plan developed in conjunction with the department. A notice of violation may only be issued for a refuse collection facility pursuant to this section where the operator of such facility fails to comply with an order of the commissioner issued pursuant to this subdivision or the mitigation measures set forth in a certification.

Each permit holder or other person in charge of such construction site will be accountable for compliance with such rules and shall ensure that each person performing construction work at the site shall be aware of the plan and shall be responsible for complying with those provisions that affect his or her work.

(c) A copy of the plan shall be kept at the construction site and shall be made available for inspection upon the request of persons authorized to enforce the provisions of this code.

(d) The plan shall be amended whenever additional devices or activities unforeseen at the commencement of construction are employed at the site or at the direction of the commissioner in accordance with section 24-223 of this subchapter.

(e) A plan need not be filed with or approved by the department prior to the commencement of construction if it conforms in all respects to the rules of the department with respect to construction devices and activities employed or performed at the construction site. A plan that deviates in any respect from such rules or an alternative noise mitigation plan required to be certified in conjunction with a undue hardship application pursuant to paragraph (5) of subdivision (e) of section 24-223 shall be subject to the prior approval of the commissioner in accordance with section 24-221 of this code.

(f) This section shall not apply to construction work in connection with the alteration or repair of an existing one or two family owner-occupied dwelling classified in occupancy group J-3 or a convent or rectory.

§ 24-221 Alternative noise mitigation plan.

(a) Upon application, the commissioner may approve an alternative noise mitigation plan for a particular construction site that deviates from strict compliance with the noise mitigation rules. Application for approval of such plan shall be submitted to the department at least ten business days prior to the commencement of construction or as soon as practicable but no later than 24 hours prior to the commencement of construction in a form and manner and accompanied by such information and documentation as shall be set forth in the rules of the department. The commissioner may approve such alternative noise mitigation plan if he or she finds that:

(1) strict compliance with the noise mitigation rules would not be possible or would create an undue hardship because of the location or unique characteristics of the site or of the construction devices or activities to be employed or performed at the site; and

(2) the alternative noise mitigation strategies, methods, procedures or equipment proposed are consistent with the purposes and policies of this code.

(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, with respect to construction sites where construction is performed pursuant to a permit issued prior to the effective date of this section or in the case of construction by or on behalf of a city agency where construction is performed under a contract bid out prior to the effective date of this section, application for approval of an alternative noise mitigation plan may be submitted within 60 days after the effective date of this section. The commissioner may approve such plan if he or she finds that:

(1) strict compliance with the noise mitigation rules would not be possible or would create an undue hardship because of the location or unique characteristics of the site or of the construction devices or activities employed or performed at the site, or

(2) strict compliance with such rules would be unreasonable or unduly burdensome with respect to construction work that is imminent or ongoing on the effective date of this section, or

(3) with respect to city construction projects, the implementation of contract modifications to achieve strict compliance with such rules would result in unreasonable delay and/or increased expenditure for a necessary public improvement, and

(4) the alternative noise mitigation strategies, methods, procedures or equipment proposed are consistent with the purposes and policies of this code.

(c) Where the commissioner rejects an alternative noise mitigation plan, an applicant may appeal such rejection in accordance with the rules of the department. An alternative plan shall not be in effect unless and until it has been approved by the commissioner except that where a timely alternative plan has been filed with the commissioner for approval, a construction site in compliance with such alternative plan shall be deemed to be in compliance with this section unless and until such plan is rejected by the commissioner and for a reasonable time thereafter as determined by the commissioner.

SUBCHAPTER 4*12 CONSTRUCTION NOISE MANAGEMENT

§ 24-223 After hours work authorization.

(a) Notwithstanding section 24-222 of this subchapter, an agency authorized to issue permits for construction work may, along with such permit, issue an after hours work authorization for the work site. Such after hours authorization may permit construction work to be performed at the site before 7 a.m. or after 6 p.m. on weekdays and/or on Saturdays and/or Sundays subject to the conditions and restrictions set forth in this section.

(b) The agency issuing such authorization must obtain a certification from its permittee that the permittee has developed a noise mitigation plan for the site in accordance with this subchapter and that such plan is in compliance with the noise mitigation rules. In the case of emergency work such certification shall be submitted within 3 days after the commencement of the work.

(c) If after hours work at the site is not being performed in compliance with such plan or where no plan is in effect, the department or the agency issuing such authorization, at the request of the commissioner or on its own account, may take appropriate action, including but not limited to the refusal to renew such after hours authorization.

(d) Where there is full compliance with the noise mitigation plan yet nevertheless aggregate sound levels from the site where an after hours authorization is in effect exceed 8dB(A) above the ambient sound level as measured in any residential receiving property dwelling unit (with windows and doors that may affect the measurement closed), the commissioner may request the person performing the work to confer with representatives of the department regarding additional noise mitigation measures that may be employed at the site to reduce aggregate sound levels. After such conference the commissioner may direct amendment of the noise mitigation plan for the site. Failure to respond to a request for a conference or to amend the noise mitigation plan within the time prescribed in a notice issued by the department shall be a violation of this code.

(e) Authorization for after hours construction work may only be issued in the following circumstances:

(1) Emergency work. Agencies shall authorize such after hours construction work for emergency conditions, inside or outside the property line, involving a threat to public safety or causing or likely to cause the imminent interruption of service required by law, contract or franchise. An emergency authorization issued pursuant to this paragraph shall expire as determined by the agency but no later than the ninetieth day after its issuance and shall be renewable in accordance with agency procedures while the emergency continues.

(2) Public safety. Agencies may authorize such after hours work, inside or outside of the property line, where the agency determines that the work cannot reasonably or practicably be performed on weekdays between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. because of traffic congestion and/or concern for worker and/or public safety. An authorization issued pursuant to this paragraph shall expire as determined by the agency but no later than the ninetieth day after its issuance and shall be renewable in accordance with agency procedures.

(3) City construction projects. Agencies may authorize after hours work by or on behalf of city agencies for projects that are judicially mandated or the subject of consent orders and/or where a project is necessary in the public interest including but not limited to facilities, equipment, and infrastructure for the provision of water, sewerage, sanitation, transportation and other services necessary for the health or safety of the public. An authorization issued pursuant to this paragraph for a city construction project shall remain in effect for the duration of the project.

(4) Construction activities with minimal noise impact. The commissioner shall promulgate rules setting forth a list of construction activities with minimal noise impact and specific noise mitigation measures applicable to such activities. Agencies may authorize the performance of such construction activities after hours in accordance with such rules.

(5) Undue hardship. Agencies may authorize after hours work if the commissioner certifies that the permit holder has substantiated a claim of undue hardship resulting from unique site characteristics, unforeseen conditions, scheduling commitments and/or financial considerations outside the control of the permit holder and that the applicant has received approval from the department of an alternative noise mitigation plan pursuant to section 24-221 of this subchapter, specifying the activities and devices that will be used for such after hours construction and setting forth the additional mitigation measures, above and beyond those measures otherwise required for such devices and activities pursuant to the department's rules, that the applicant will use to significantly limit noise emissions from the site of such after hours work. Applications for such certification shall be submitted to the department in a form and manner to be set forth in the rules of the department. The applicant for an after hours authorization under this paragraph shall submit such certification to the issuing agency.

(a) No person shall make or cause or permit to be made or caused any music originating from or in connection with the operation of any commercial establishment or enterprise when the level of sound attributable to such music, as measured inside any receiving property dwelling unit:

(1) is in excess of 42 dB(A) as measured with a sound level meter; or

(2) is in excess of 45 dB in any one-third octave band having a center frequency between 63 hertz and 500 hertz (ANSI bands numbers 18 through 27, Inclusive), in accordance with American National Standards Institute standard S1.6-1984; or

(3) causes a 6 dB(C) or more increase in the total sound level above the ambient sound level as measured in decibels in the "C" weighting network provided that the ambient sound level is in excess of 62 dB(C).

(b) (1) The commissioner may recommend to the board that there shall be no civil penalty imposed for a first violation of this section if, within 30 days after the issuance of such violation or, if applicable, within the time granted by the commissioner pursuant to paragraph two of this subdivision, the respondent admits liability for the violation and files a certification with the department in a form and manner and containing such information and documentation as shall be prescribed in the department's rules that (i) permanent improvements or modifications have been made to the establishment, including but not limited to the installation of appropriate sound insulation, isolators, suspension mounting and/or sound mitigation devices or materials and (ii) appropriate sound measurements taken in accordance with the department's rules substantiate that the establishment is in full compliance with the sound levels set forth in this section. If the commissioner accepts such certification of compliance, he or she shall recommend to the board that no civil penalty shall be imposed for the violation. Such violation may nevertheless serve as a predicate for purposes of imposing penalties for subsequent violations of this section.

(2) Where the completion of appropriate permanent improvements or modifications and testing within 30 days after the issuance of the violation would cause the respondent undue hardship, the respondent may apply to the commissioner for additional time to submit an appropriate certification of compliance, but not more than 30 days. Application for such additional time must be submitted to the commissioner within 30 days after the issuance of the violation along with an admission of liability and appropriate documents in support of the claim of undue hardship.

(3) Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to prohibit enforcement personnel from issuing additional notices of violation, summonses or appearance tickets where sound levels exceed the limits set forth in subdivision a of this section during the periods of time set forth in paragraphs one and two of this subdivision for submission of a certification of compliance for a first violation.

(c) In any proceeding under this section it shall be an affirmative defense that the receiving property dwelling unit was not lawfully occupied at the time of the violation.

(d) The commissioner may grant a variance from strict application of the limits set forth in subdivision (a) of this section for a commercial establishment or enterprise that was in operation at the same site prior to the date of enactment of the local law that added this section if he or she finds that there are practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship in the application of such provisions in the specific case, provided that as a condition to the grant of any such variance, sufficient evidence or data is submitted by an applicant that there are physical conditions or zoning district conditions, including irregularity in lot size characteristics and zoning changes, and that as a result of such physical or zoning district conditions, practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship arise in complying with such provisions. In granting a variance the commissioner may impose such terms and conditions as he or she deems necessary to carry out the intent of this section to minimize noise emissions from the site. Application for a waiver shall be submitted in such form and manner as shall be provided by rules of the department and shall include in detail proposed measures which the applicant proposes will minimize sound from the site. A variance granted pursuant to this subdivision shall not be transferable but shall expire upon a change in ownership, size or location of the commercial establishment or enterprise in accordance with the rules of the department. Violation of the conditions of any variance shall be deemed to be a violation of this section.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. A landlord obtained a court injunction which restricted musical performances at plaintiff tenant's coffee house to string instruments and piano. The court held that the injunction violated the First Amendment rights of the instrumental musical performers in tenant's coffee house. Since the New York City noise regulations, Adm. Code §25-241.1, limit the permissible volume of sound audible within a building outside of the room where amplified music is played, without regard to the instruments used, the preliminary injunction deprived the musicians of their right to freedom of expression, as well as economic opportunities, without furthering a legitimate state interest. (b) No person shall operate or permit to be operated an emergency signal device installed on an authorized emergency vehicle that when operated at the maximum level creates a sound level in excess of 90 dB(A) when measured at a distance of fifty feet from the center of the forward face of such vehicle. * By the same respondent of the same provision of law, order, rule or regulation and, if the respondent is the owner, agent, lessee or other person in control of the premises with respect to which the violation occurred, at the same premises (all violations committed within two years).

Each day during which such violation continues shall constitute a separate violation. The board may remit, in whole or in part, such a civil penalty if, at the conclusion of the hearing or at the time of the board determination under section 24-266 of this code, the respondent is no longer in violation of a provision of this code, or of any order, rule or regulation promulgated by the commissioner or the board;

(6) Impose a civil penalty of not more than two hundred fifty dollars on any owner of a device for each day such equipment is sealed pursuant to this section;

(7) Impose a civil penalty of not less than one thousand nor more than four thousand dollars on any person who willfully breaks, or causes or permits the breaking of, a seal placed on a device pursuant to this section.

(8) Impose an additional civil penalty in the amount of twenty-five percent of that which would otherwise be imposed for each twelve decibels by which the sound or noise level measured exceeds the maximum sound level as contained in subchapters five and six of this chapter.

(9) Impose an additional civil penalty in the amount of ten percent of the penalty orginally imposed, for late payment of penalty for each month, or part thereof, that the penalty payment is in arrears. In no event shall the total additional civil penalty exceed the maximum set forth in the table of civil penalties, or as modified pursuant to paragraph eight of this subdivision or paragraph ten of this subdivision, or both.

(10) Order any person to be classified as a persistent violator if such person is found to be in violation of this code and has also on one or more prior occasions within the preceding five years been found to be in violation of this code, where such repeated violations evidence substanial*13 disregard thereof. If a person is classified as a persistent violator, the board shall in each instance double the amount of the penalty which it would otherwise impose pursuant to paragraph five of this subdivision. Such double penalties shall be imposed for violations which the board finds a person committed pursuant to the same proceeding at which it classified such person as a persistent violator and for all violations committed within two years immediately following such classification, after whcih such classification shall terminate. However, if at the end of such two year period such person is still in violation of this code because of a failure to take or complete a corrective action as required by the board, such classification shall continue until such time as such person is no longer in violation of this code because of such failure, at which time such classification shall cease. Thereafter, the board may again classify such person as a persistent violator, on the same basis it used originally.

(c) The board may, upon notice pursuant to section 24-259 of this code:

(1) order any person to cease and desist from the operation of any listed device without a certificate as required by section 24-245 of this code and the board may also seal such device;

(2) order any person to cease and desist from tunneling without a tunneling permit as required by section 24-245 of this code and the board may also seal any device used in such tunneling;

(3) order any person not in possession of an after hours work authorization issued pursuant to section 24-223 of this code to cease and desist from construction activities other than during the permissible hours specified in section 24-222 of this code and the board may also seal any device used in such construction activities;

(4) order any person to cease and desist from the operation of a device without registration required by section

24-208 of this code and the board may also seal such device.

(d) The board may order the commissioner to install any apparatus or to repair or alter any device or apparatus which causes or is maintained or operated so as to cause a violation of an order issued pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision (b) of this section, where such repairing or alteration can reasonably be expected to correct such a violation. Any work required under such an order may be executed by the commissioner through the officers, agents or contractors of the department. The department shall be reimbursed promptly for all costs and expenses of such work by the owner of the device to which the order relates and in respect to which such expenses were incurred. Such expenses may be recovered in a civil action brought in the name of the commissioner.

(e) If an order of the board issued pursuant to subdivisions (b) and (c) of this section provides for a period of time during which a person subject to the order is permitted to correct a violation, the board may require the respondent to post a performance bond or other security with the department in a form and amount sufficient to assure the correction of such violation within the prescribed time. In the event of a failure to meet the schedule prescribed by the board, the sum named in the bond or other security shall be forfeited and shall be paid to the commissioner.

(f) (1)* The36 board may order any person to cease and desist from an activity which it reasonably believes causes unreasonable noise which creates imminent peril to the public health and well being, or to cease and desist from an activity which it reasonably believes constitutes a willful or continued violation of any provision of this code or order or regulation, promulgated by the commissioner or board. Such order shall be effective upon service thereof. Any party affected by such an order may request a hearing on written notice, and he or she shall be afforded a hearing, within twenty-four hours after service of such request, pursuant to section 24-263 of this code. If such an accelerated hearing is not requested, then a hearing shall be afforded within ten days of the issuance of the order. The board shall issue its final decision and order thereon within three days from the conclusion of a hearing held pursuant to this subdivision.

Section 1. Legislative Intent. Twenty-five years ago, when the comprehensive New York City Noise Control Code was enacted, it was declared as the public policy of the City that ". . . every person is entitled to ambient noise levels that are not detrimental to life, health and enjoyment of his or her property . . ." and that ". . . the making, creation or maintenance of excessive and unreasonable noises within the city affects and is a menace to public health, comfort, convenience, safety, welfare and the prosperity of the people of the city." The ability of the City's residents, workers and visitors to secure a minimum level of quiet and freedom from noise is critical to the quality of life and the enjoyment of their homes, workplaces, places of recreation and the exterior environment.

It is axiomatic that strong enforcement is essential to the effectiveness of any regulatory program and a significant component of such enforcement is the penalty to be imposed for a violation of the law. Strong civil penalty provisions serve as a deterrent to violations of the Noise Control Code and preserve and advance the public policy reflected therein. However, it is the view of the Council that the existing civil penalties no longer serve as an adequate deterrent. This bill strengthens enforcement by establishing two new tiers of civil penalties in which those penalties are substantially increased for a second violation of the same provision of the Noise Control Code by the same person and for third and subsequent violations of the same provision of the Noise Control Code by the same person.

The Council also declares that nothing in this legislation is intended to limit the authority of the Environmental Control Board to issue "cease and desist" orders under existing provisions of the Noise Control Code.

a. The lands taken, or to be taken, for storage, reservoirs, or for other constructions necessary for the introduction and maintenance of a sufficient supply of water in the city, or for the purpose of preventing contamination or pollution, shall be assessed and taxed in the counties in which they are or may be located, in the manner prescribed by law, exclusive of the aqueducts.

b. This section shall not be construed to prevent the assessors in the county of Nassau from assessing for taxation the pumping stations and buildings located in such county.

HISTORICAL NOTE

Section added chap 907/1985 § 1

DERIVATION

¶ 1. So-called aqueduct lands, consisting of a narrow strip of land four miles in length and underneath which ran a conduit for transferring water from Croton reservoir to distributing reservoirs, held not to constitute a part of the aqueduct within meaning of Greater New York Charter § 480, and hence not to come within tax exemption accorded aqueducts by such statute.-People (City of N.Y.) v. Barker, 17 N.Y.S. 2d 305 [1939].

¶ 2. Inasmuch as the aqueduct lands were assessable, they were assessable at their full market value and not at a nominal value, even though in view of their character, size and presence of easements they had a distinctly depreciated market value.-Id.

¶ 3. Gateway and equipment held exempt from taxation as an essential part of the aqueduct.-Id.

¶ 4. Valuation for 1932 of the Catskill Aqueduct lands, which consisted of a strip of land about four miles long and an average 200 feet in width, was placed at $100 per acre, and the old Croton Aqueduct property, consisting of a strip over two miles long with an average width of 100 feet, was placed at $200 per acre.-People (City of N.Y.) v. Barker, 106 (82) N.Y.L.J. (10-6-41) 924, Col. 6 F, at 7 T.

¶ 5. Gate-house numbers one and two of the Catskill Aqueduct were essential to the maintenance and operation of the aqueduct and were a part thereof, and consequently were exempt from taxation.-Id.

¶ 6. The gravity sections of the gate-houses were an integral part of the dam, and had only a partial and incidental connection with the gate-houses or aqueducts, and consequently they were assessable.-Id.

¶ 7. Reconstruction cost was not the sole measure of fixing the value of a structure such as a dam. Furthermore, reproduction cost, less depreciation, represented the maximum and not necessarily the true valuation.-Id.

¶ 8. In determining the cost of reproduction of the dam, engineering cost and interest were properly added at $10^1/_2$ per cent. Also, an item for contractor's overhead and profit was properly included.-Id.

¶ 9. The straight-line method of computing depreciation was not applicable to property such as a dam. Furthermore, from the evidence it would appear that there was no appreciable depreciation, and that the utility of the structure would be terminated not by physical deterioration but by functional obsolescence. An allowance of 1 per cent per year for obsolescence and depreciation, or a total of 26 per cent for the period from 1906 to 1932, would seem excessive, although respondents were apparently satisfied with such rate.-Id.

¶ 10. Value of the Croton Dam was placed at equal to or in excess of five million dollars, the figure at which it was assessed.-Id.

¶ 11. The pavement on top of the dam, a railing thereon, and a bridge were integral parts of the dam, and the cost thereof was properly included in computing the reproduction cost of the dam, and the items were therefore non-assessable.-Id.

¶ 12. The abutments for the spillway bridge and the bridge itself were integral parts of the dam, the cost of which was not properly deductible in arriving at cost of reconstruction of dam.-Id.

a. It shall be unlawful for any person other than an employee of the department of environmental protection, or the fire department to open, use, operate, or tamper with a fire hydrant or high pressure hydrant, in the city, or a valve in the water supply system of the city, without a permit in writing from the commissioner of environmental protection. It shall also be unlawful to leave such a hydrant open for a longer period than shall be limited in the permit, or use water for other purposes than shall have been authorized by such commissioner.

b. The commissioner may grant a permit to a person, other than an employee of the department of environmental protection or of the fire department, to open, use or operate a fire hydrant in the city, upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the commissioner and upon payment by such permittee of a fee of five dollars for each day for which such permit is granted. A permittee shall be required, at the time of making application for such permit, to pay to the department a sum sufficient to cover the total fee for the entire period for which such permit is granted. If the work for which such permit is granted is completed on a date prior to the termination date of such permit, the permittee shall be entitled to a refund of the fee paid for each day subsequent to such completion date. The City of New York was liable in damages to the owner of an apartment building as a result of water pouring from broken water pipes exclusively owned, operated, controlled, and maintained by the City. Furthermore, the City was not entitled to recover against an electric utility on the ground that its pipes interfered with the water pipes and mains of the City, since under the facts the City was an active wrongdoer.-First National City Bank of New York v. N.Y.C. Transit Auth., 64 A.D. 2d 114, 408 N.Y.S. 2d 538 [1978].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. The court granted an Article 78 proceeding brought by a community located within the Watershed, challenging the adoption by the NYC Dept. of Environmental Protection of rules governing recreational use of water supply lands and waters. DEP maintained that under Admin. Code Section 24-315, it had the authority to issue and renew temporary permits for use or occupation of any City property. In other words, DEP took the position that the regulations were merely a "management tool" rather than "watershed protection rules." However, the court held that the rules in question were designed to protect the water supply, and thus required approval of the State Department of Health under Public Health Law Sec. 1101(1). Since approval was not obtained, the regulations were not effective. IMO Town of Hunter v. City of NY 2007 NY Slip Op. 10016, 46 AD3d 1197, 853 NYS2d 387, 2007 NY App. Div. § 24-316 Leaking tap or service pipe to be repaired.

a. As used in this section:

1. "tap" means a connection made between a city-owned pipe or main supplying water and a service pipe.

2. "service pipe" means a pipe used to carry water from a tap to a house control valve, a building or other enclosure or a point at which the water supply is fully metered.

b. When a test made by the department of environmental protection indicates that there is a leak at a tap or in a service pipe, if conditions permit, a notice shall be served by a representative of such department upon the owner or occupant of the premises being supplied by such tap or service pipe. The notice shall direct that all necessary repairs be made to stop the leak.

c. In the event that a tap is shut off by the department because of a leak, the owner or occupant of the affected premises shall be notified that the tap has been closed and that a licensed plumber should be engaged to make the necessary repair and take charge of the street excavation. If the owner or occupant fails within three days after notice, excepting emergencies as determined by the commissioner to engage a licensed plumber, the tap shall remain closed and the department of environmental protection shall backfill the excavation.

a. There shall be filed in the office of the department of environmental protection a record of all work caused to be performed by or on behalf of the department which relates to section 24-316 of this code. Such records shall be kept on a building by building basis and shall be accessible to the public during business hours. Within thirty days after the issuance of an order to shut off a tap, or backfill an excavation, or both, entry of such order shall be made on the records of the department of environmental protection. Such entry shall constitute notice to all parties.

b. All expenses incurred by or on behalf of the department for services performed pursuant to section 24-316 of this code shall constitute a lien upon the land and buildings upon or in respect to which, or either of which, the work required by such order has been done, or expenses incurred, when the amount thereof shall have been definitely computed as a statement of account by the department and such department shall cause to be filed in the office of the city collector an entry of the account stated in the book in which such charges against the premises are to be entered. Such lien shall have a priority over all other liens and encumbrances except for the lien of taxes and assessments. However, no lien created pursuant to this section shall be enforced against a subsequent purchaser in good faith or mortgagee in good faith unless the requirements of subdivision a of this section are satisfied; this limitation shall only apply to transactions occurring after the date such record should have been entered pursuant to subdivision a and the date such entry was made.

c. A notice thereof, stating the amount due and the nature of the charge, shall be mailed by the city collector, within five days after such entry, to the last known address of the person whose name appears on the records in the office of the city collector as being the owner or agent or as the person designated by the owner to receive tax bills or, where no name appears, to the premises, addressed to either the owner or the agent.

d. If such charge is not paid within thirty days from the date of entry, it shall be the duty of the city collector to receive interest thereon at the rate of interest applicable to such property for a delinquent tax on real property, to be calculated to the date of payment from the date of entry.

e. Such charge and the interest thereon shall continue to be, until paid, a lien on the premises. Such lien shall be a tax lien within the meaning of sections 11-319 and 11-401 of the code and may be sold, enforced or foreclosed in the manner provided in chapters three and four of title eleven of such code or may be satisfied in accordance with the provisions of section thirteen hundred fifty-four of the real property actions and proceedings law.

f. Such notice mailed by the city collector pursuant to this section shall have stamped or printed thereon a reference to this section of the code.

§ 24-326 Regulation of use of lakes and reservoirs used for city water supply.

a. Any natural lake or any reservoir used or built by the city for water supply purposes may be used by the public for boating, cutting ice and fishing. The city and its representatives shall not prohibit such use, and they are required to afford access to such lakes or reservoirs, except that the city may prohibit such use in the event of a declaration of an emergency by the governor as hereinafter provided and except in the event of the declaration of war by or against the United States of America. The city may grant permits to boat owners for the use of boats on such lakes and reservoirs, and may prescribe rules and regulations for their proper use.

b. If any emergency shall have been declared to exist by the governor in the manner hereinafter provided in subdivision c of this section or in the event of a declaration of war by or against the United States of America, the mayor, for the duration of such emergency or of such war, may revoke, in whole or in part, the privileges set forth in subdivision a hereof and prohibit the use by the public of the lakes and reservoirs of the city. The commissioner may make reasonable rules and regulations as to the use of such reservoirs during such emergency or war period. Any such order of revocation shall define the terms and extent of revocation, and shall state the date on which it shall become effective. Any rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner of environmental protection during such emergency shall be published once in a newspaper circulating in each of the counties in which the water supply property to be affected thereby shall be located.

c. The governor is hereby empowered to declare the existence of an emergency affecting the city's water supply sources upon application of the commissioner of environmental protection and subject to the following conditions:

1. Notice of the application by the commissioner to have such emergency declared and of the date and place of the public hearing to be had thereon shall be published at least twice in a newspaper published in each county in which are located the sources of water supply as to which it is claimed the emergency exists and in addition written notice of such application and of the date and place of the hearing thereon shall be served on the clerk of the board of supervisors of each such county at least eight days before such hearing.

2. After such public hearing, at which all persons interested shall have an opportunity to be heard, the governor, may, if he or she deems such emergency to exist, declare the existence of such emergency affecting the city's water supply sources and fix the period for which the emergency shall be deemed to exist. The duration of such period of emergency may be extended after the giving of similar notice and after holding of a similar public hearing.

3. Notwithstanding the requirements of paragraphs one and two of subdivision c of this section, the governor shall have the power to declare the existence of an emergency affecting the city's water supply sources or any part thereof upon application of the commissioner without notice, and without a public hearing for a period not exceeding thirty days. Where such emergency is so declared, however, it shall not be extended or renewed except after notice and public hearing as provided in such paragraphs one and two.

d. In the event of the declaration of an emergency by the governor or of the declaration of war by or against the United States of America, duly designated employees of the department of environmental protection are empowered and authorized to act as peace officers in any county in which any water supply property of the city is located for the purpose of enforcing the rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner for the period of the emergency. The department of environmental protection shall file in the office of the sheriff of each such county a certificate of appointment of each such designated employee, and shall attach to each such certificate a complete copy of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to subdivisions a and b of this section. Copies of all amendments of such rules and regulations shall be filed by the commissioner with each such sheriff. The sheriff of any such county may cancel any such certificate for cause, and forthwith shall mail written notice of such cancellation to the department of environmental protection, specifying the cause of such revocation. Immediately upon any such cancellation, the employee whose certificate shall have been cancelled, shall have no further authority to act as a peace officer. Each employee so appointed at all times when on duty, shall have in his or her possession a shield or other suitable badge of authority which he or she shall exhibit at once to any person upon request.

e. It shall be the special duty of the employees so appointed to prevent breaches of the peace and unlawful depredations and to arrest and bring before the proper judicial officer any person guilty of violating any of such rules and regulations.

f. Any person convicted of violating any of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to subdivision a of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten dollars for the first offense, twenty dollars or ten days imprisonment, or both, for the second offense, or fifty dollars or fifty days imprisonment, or both, for the third or any subsequent offense.

CHAPTER 3 WATER SUPPLY

SUBCHAPTER 1 WATER SUPPLY TO THE CITY OF NEW YORK

§ 24-334 Water meters; when to be placed.

a. (1) The commissioner is authorized to install or cause to be installed water meters, the pattern and maximum price of which shall be approved by the board of estimate in any or all stores, workshops, hotels, lodging houses, factories, office buildings, and public edifices, at wharves, ferry houses, and stables, and in all places in which water is furnished for business consumption and in any or all new or substantially improved or altered dwellings. When authorized thereto by resolution of the board of estimate or by local law, the commissioner may install such meters in any or all other multiple dwellings, and he or she shall install such meter or meters or cause them to be installed upon written demand of the owner of any lot or premises to which such water is supplied.

(2) For purposes of this subdivision an improvement or alteration is a physical change in an existing structure, other than painting, ordinary repairs and normal replacement of maintenance items. A structure shall be deemed to have been substantially improved or altered where:

(a) the cost of improvement or alteration exceeds the sum of one hundred fifty thousand dollars; or

(b) fifty percent or more of the dwelling units or square feet of the structure in multiple dwellings are improved or altered and the cost of such improvement or alteration exceeds the sum of fifteen thousand dollars per dwelling unit; or

(c) there has been a conversion in the use of the structure.

b. Thereafter, as shall be determined by the commissioner, the department shall make out all charges for water furnished by such department to such premises in ratable proportion to the water furnished, as ascertained by meter, subject to such minimum and service charges as may be established. All expense and cost of meters, and their connections, and of their setting, repair and maintenance, unless with the approval of the board of estimate such expense and cost be borne by the department, shall be a charge and lien upon the premises.

c. This section shall not, however, be construed so as to remit or prevent the due collection of arrearages or charges for water consumption heretofore incurred, nor interfere with the proper liens therefor, nor of charges, or rates, or liens hereafter to be incurred for water consumption in any building or place which may not contain one of the meters aforesaid. The moneys collected for service charges and for expense and cost of meters and their connections, and for setting, repairing, maintaining and replacing the same, may be applied by the commissioner to the payment of expenses incurred in procuring meters and their connections and in their setting, repair, maintenance and replacement.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. A regulation promulgated by the Commissioner of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, providing that water meters shall be accepted for repair by a water meter repair company only from the owner of the meter or a licensed plumber holding the meter repair permit and shall not be accepted through plumbing supply houses was held invalid and unconstitutional and no authority for it can be found either under this section or § 737 of the Charter.-Frank's Supply Corp. v. Quilty, 182 Misc. 921, 49 N.Y.S. 2d 943 [1944].

¶ 2. Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity in the City of New York, held without authority to require installation of a water meter in the automatic sprinkler system being installed in plaintiff's five-story building at 25 Bowery, Manhattan, consisting of a basement rented to a laundry supply, a first floor to a clothing dealer, and the second, third, fourth and fifth floors being operated by the owner as a lodging house. Under Multiple Dwelling Law § 66 lodging houses are required to install sprinkler systems for fire purposes but such section does not require installation of a water meter. Also, the operation of the lodging house did not constitute the use of the premises as a business enterprise within Administrative Code § 734(4)-1.0 and rule 43 of the Rules of the Department, which authorize installation of meters in all places in which water is furnished for business consumption. The test was not for what purpose the owner used the premises but for what use the occupants used it, and this was merely for domestic purposes. Furthermore, a lodging house was not a "hotel" within meaning of § 734(4)-1.0.-Lyoles Realty Corp. v. Cannella, 73 N.Y.S. 2d 10 [1947].

¶ 3. Where Administrative Code § 734(4)-1.0 had been amended to include therein "lodging houses", following a ruling of the court that the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity in the City of New York was without authority to require installation of a water meter in the automatic sprinkler system being installed in plaintiff's building on ground that plaintiff's use of its building as a lodging house was not for business purposes within meaning of § 734(4)-1.0 and Rule 43 of the Rules of the Department, the subsequent communication sent to plaintiff by Commissioner of the Department directing it to install a water meter at its premises did not violate the injunction issued in connection with the previous determination restraining the Commissioner from requiring installation of meter. That Rule 43 of the Department's rules remained unchanged was immaterial.-Lyoles Realty Corp. v. Cannella, 118 (121) N.Y.L.J. (12-5-47) 1612, Col. 5 T.

¶ 4. Use of premises partly as a lodging house and partly for other business was not a use "for combined business and domestic purpose", such as would require plaintiff to install a water meter in the building under rule applicable to buildings used for combined business and domestic purposes.-N.H. Lyons & Co. v. Cannella, 82 N.Y.S. 2d 174 [1948], aff'd, 275 App. Div. 705, 88 N.Y.S. 2d 247 [1949].

¶ 5. Where plaintiff's tenant, without his knowledge, installed pipes and connected them with the City water supply in connection with the operation of an illegal alcohol distillery, the City was not entitled to a lien for water and repair charges, since under the circumstances it cannot be said that "the charge was incurred and the lien became operative with the assent of the plaintiff", as required by the decision of Dunbar v. City of New York (177 A.D. 647, 164 N.Y.S. 519 [1917], aff'd, 223 N.Y. 597, 135 N.E. 933 [1918], aff'd, 251 US 516 [1920]).-Cirillo Bros. Land Corp. v. City of New York, 7 Misc. 2d 527, 163 N.Y.S. 2d 767 [1957].

¶ 6. Charity which owned fourteen-story building part of which was used for charitable and part for non-charitable purposes was not entitled to a partial or total exemption from water or sewer charges absent installation of separate meters that would apportion the charges between the charitable and non-charitable uses of the building.-In re Grace Institute (Clark) 163 (85) N.Y.L.J. In all cases where a water meter may have been or shall be placed, the charge for supply of water shall be determined only by the quantity of water actually used, as shown by such meters, except for a minimum charge or an annual service charge and except as provided by subdivision four of section seven hundred thirty-four of the charter.*19

Where, after acquisition by City through condemnation proceedings of the property of the New York Water Service Corporation, with exception of the water meters, the City sent a notice through its Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, stating that water used for domestic purposes might be paid for by an annual frontage charge or by meter measurement with the consent of the Department, and requesting the consumer to state whether he elected to pay by meter measurement or on an annual rent basis, a consumer which neither executed nor returned the notice might not be deemed by the City to have elected to be charged on a water meter basis, and hence such consumer might obtain return of any moneys collected in excess of any tax due on an annual rate basis.-Kingswood Mgt. § 24-337 Waste of water prohibited; remedies.

a. It shall be unlawful for water to be wasted, whether owing to leak or wasteful condition, regardless of fault, from any water pipe, valve, faucet, conduit, equipment, facility or device connected to the city water system or which utilizes city water. It shall be the duty of an owner, lessee, agent, manager, operator and of any other person in charge of or who has control over any premises, plant, equipment, facility, device or operation to make frequent regular inspections so as to minimize the likelihood of leak or waste and within a reasonable time after the discovery or notification of any leak or wasteful condition to effect repairs or take other appropriate corrective action within the power of such person. The commissioner of environmental protection shall promulgate such reasonable rules and regulations as the commissioner may from time to time deem appropriate for the prevention of the waste of water.

b. In addition to enforcement pursuant to section 24-346 the commissioner may serve a leak and waste notice upon any person having a duty to repair or correct a leak or wasteful condition or upon any person in violation of the rules and regulations for the prevention of the waste of water. Such notice shall specify the repair or correction to be made and shall fix a reasonable time for compliance. Where such notice has been served and water continues to be wasted after the time for correction has expired, the commissioner may, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing before the commissioner or his or her designee, turn off the water supply to the premises or impose a penalty not to exceed fifty dollars per day for each day that water continues to be wasted after the expiration date contained in the notice, or both. Any penalty imposed pursuant to this section may be added to the water rents; except that no such penalty may be imposed against any property unless both the leak and waste notice and notice of the proceeding to impose the penalty was served upon the owner by mailing copies thereof to the person whose name appears on the records in the office of the city collector as being the owner or agent or as the person designated by the owner to receive tax bills at the address on file for such purpose or where no name appears to the property addressed to "owner" or "agent" and such person has had an opportunity to be heard.

The provisions of this subdivision shall not be construed to limit the commissioner's power to shut off water supply without notice, or with such notice as the commissioner may deem practicable, where a leak exists; or where emergency action is otherwise deemed essential.

c. The department shall establish or reestablish a permanent committee on water conservation (the "committee") within six months of the effective date of this section consisting of outside experts, representatives of public interest, environmental and professional groups and interested citizens, two of whom shall be appointed by the city council and the rest shall be appointed by the commissioner. The members of the committee shall serve without compensation for a term of three years. The commissioner shall be the chairman.

d. Within one year after the effective date of this section, and annually thereafter, the committee shall submit to the city council a report evaluating the effectiveness of paragraphs a through e, of subdivision P.104.2 of section P.104.0 of RS 16 describing the latest available water-conserving fixtures, and including written recommendations. The department shall make available to the committee any and all information useful and necessary for the committee to prepare and complete the report for submission to the city council. To prepare such report the committee shall utilize any information and/or materials determined to be pertinent that have been published, distributed or in any other manner made available from state agencies, public and private research groups, multistate agencies such as the Delaware River Basin Commission, and other similar public or private agencies or groups with expertise with respect to water-conserving plumbing fixtures. The report shall include, but not be limited to:

(1) a review of compliance with paragraphs a through e, of subdivision P.104.2 of section P.104.0 of reference standard RS 16 of the appendix to chapter one of title twenty-seven of this code, the impact of such compliance, and the relationship of the standards set forth herein to current technology;

(2) recommendations as to the feasibility of requiring more stringent water-saving performance standards than provided in paragraphs a through e of subdivision P.104.2 of section P.104.0 of reference standard RS 16.

e. The department shall establish a city-wide comprehensive public information campaign focusing on water-conserving fixtures, the benefits of good water-saving equipment, and the opportunity for rapid pay-back and long-term money savings, especially in energy costs, for home owners and landlords. Within six months after the effective date of this section, a proposal for the public information campaign shall be submitted to the city council for review and commentary. The department shall report annually to the city council on the status of the public information campaign.

In instances where the city has laid a water main in a street where surface grades have been established but where the surface has not been improved to the established grade and when a new water main is installed by the city because it is required by the grading of such street to the established grade, the commissioner of environmental protection shall issue an order directing the owner of each house which was directly connected with the main as previously laid, to transfer the house service pipe connection to the new main, at the expense of such owner when required in accordance with the rules and regulations of the commissioner.

b. When a new water main is installed by the city to replace a private main, the commissioner shall issue an order directing the owner of each house fronting on the city main and receiving water from such private main to transfer the house service pipe connection to the city main, at the expense of such owner and in accordance with the rules and regulations of the commissioner.

c. An order issued pursuant to this section shall be served upon the owner of the premises, by registered mail sent to the address registered by such owner in the bureau of city collections in the department of finance, or if no address is registered in such bureau, by registered mail sent to the last known address of such owner, or to the address of such owner as shown on the records in the office where conveyances of real property are recorded pursuant to law.

a. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the commissioner of environmental protection and the environmental control board shall enforce the provisions of this chapter and chapter four of this title and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto or pursuant to section fourteen hundred three of the New York city charter as hereinafter provided. Such commissioner and board shall have the power to issue such orders as may be provided for herein and such additional orders as may be necessary for the enforcement of such provisions.

b. Any person who violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this chapter and chapter four of this title or any order, rule or regulation issued by the board or commissioner or with the conditions of any permit issued by the commissioner within the city of New York shall be liable for a civil penalty of not less than fifty nor more than one thousand dollars for each violation. In the case of a continuing violation each days continuance shall be a separate and distinct offense. The environmental control board shall have the power to impose such civil penalties. A proceeding to impose such penalties shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation returnable to such board. Such board, after a hearing as provided by the rules and regulations of the board, shall have the power to enforce its final decisions and orders imposing such civil penalties as if they were money judgments pursuant to subdivision d of section one thousand forty-nine-a of the New York city charter. A civil penalty imposed by the board may also be collected in an action brought in the name of the city in any court of competent jurisdiction. The board, in its discretion, may, within the limits set forth in this subdivision, establish a schedule of civil penalties indicating the minimum and maximum penalty for each separate offense.

c. In addition to the civil penalties set forth in subdivision b of this section and except as otherwise specifically provided, any person who knowingly violates or fails to comply with any provision of this chapter and chapter four of this title or any order, rule or regulation issued by the commissioner or board or with the conditions of any permit issued by the commissioner shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred fifty nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or both for each violation. In the case of a continuing violation each days continuance shall be a separate and distinct offense.

d. 1. In the case of any continued or knowing violation of any of the provisions of this chapter and chapter four of this title or any order, rule or regulation issued by the board or commissioner or of the conditions of any permit issued by the commissioner within the city of New York or where the board finds that the violation of any of such provisions or of the conditions of any such permit presents or may present a danger to the water supply or the water supply system, the board after notice and the opportunity for a hearing in accordance with the rules and regulations of the board, may issue a cease and desist order requiring any person who owns, leases, operates, controls or supervises any building, structure, facility, device, equipment, installation or operation to cease and desist from any activity or process which causes or is conducted so as to cause such violation within the time specified in such order.

2. Such order may provide that if the order is not complied with or so far complied with as the commissioner of environmental protection may regard as reasonable within the time specified therein, the commissioner may take such action as shall be specified therein, including but not limited to:

(a) sealing, blocking or inactivating any equipment, facility or device; or

(b) terminating the water supply.

For such purpose the commissioner or his or her deputies or such other officers or employees as are designated by the commissioner may enter on any public or private property.

e. 1. Whenever the commissioner has reasonable cause to believe that a violation of the provisions of this chapter and chapter four of this title or any order, rule or regulation issued by the board or commissioner or in violation of the conditions of any permit issued by the commissioner within the city of New York creates or may create an imminent danger to the water supply or to the water supply system or to the public health or to the life or safety of persons, the commissioner may issue a cease and desist order requiring any person who owns, leases, operates, controls or supervises any building, structure, facility, device, equipment, installation or operation to take such action as may be necessary to halt or prevent such violation.

2. If service of the order cannot be made personally because such person cannot be located at such time then service may be made by delivering a copy to a person of suitable age and discretion at the residence or place of business of the person sought to be served. If service cannot be made personally or by such delivery to a person of suitable age and discretion because of inability to locate or to obtain the name or address of such person at such time, service may be made by conspicuously posting a copy of such order upon the property to which it relates. The posting of such order shall be sufficient notice of such order to all persons having a duty in relation thereto under the provisions of this subdivision.

3. If the order is not complied with or so far complied with as the commissioner may regard as reasonable, within the time specified therein the commissioner may act to halt or prevent such violation by:

(a) sealing, blocking or otherwise inactivating any equipment, facility or device;

(b) terminating the water supply; or

(c) any other means or method that is reasonable under the circumstances. For such purpose the commissioner or his or her deputies or such other officers or employees as are designated by the commissioner may enter on any public

4. Any person affected by such an order may make written application to the environmental control board for a hearing. Such hearing shall be provided, pursuant to the rules and regulations of the board, and shall be held within forty-eight hours after the receipt of such application. The board may suspend, modify or terminate such order.

f. If the respondent fails to comply with any order issued by the board or commissioner or with the conditions of any permit, or the board or commissioner otherwise deems it necessary, the corporation counsel, acting in the name of the city, may maintain an action or proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction to compel compliance with or restrain by injunction the violation of any order or permit issued by the board or commissioner.

g. Any person who violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this chapter and chapter four of this title or any order, rule or regulation or with the conditions of any permit issued by the commissioner shall be liable to the city for any expense, loss or damage suffered by the city by reason of such violation.

h. Unless otherwise specifically provided, service of any notice or order may be made either personally or by mail addressed to the last known address of the person to be served.

a. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of environmental protection to provide proper police protection to the inhabitants of the localities in which any work may be constructed under the authority of this subchapter during the period of construction, against the acts or omissions of persons employed on such works or found in their neighborhood. To that end the commissioner is authorized and required to appoint a sufficient number of persons to adequately police such localities for such periods. The commissioner shall also have power to remove such persons and to fix or change their compensation in his or her discretion, which compensation shall be paid by the city upon a certificate of the commissioner, as part of the expense authorized to be incurred by this subchapter.

b. The commissioner of environmental protection shall give to each person so appointed a certificate of appointment and certified copies thereof, one of which shall be filed in the office of the sheriff of each county in which any work shall be in process of construction under this subchapter and in which such person shall be authorized to perform that person's duties. Each person so appointed shall be and have all the powers of a peace officer in the county where any work is being constructed under the authority of this subchapter. Such person shall at all times when on duty wear upon his or her clothing or have in his or her possession a shield or other suitable badge of authority which such person shall at once exhibit to any person asking therefor.

c. It shall be the special duty of the persons so appointed to prevent breaches of the peace and unlawful depredations and to arrest and bring before the proper magistrates persons employed on such works or found in the vicinity thereof, who are guilty of offenses against the law punishable by death, imprisonment or fines, or persons whom they may have reasonable cause to believe to be guilty of such offenses.

Such notice may be given by mail. On such cancellation the authority of such person as a peace officer shall immediately cease.

e. Any expense necessarily incurred by a county, town or city in a criminal action or proceeding against any person employed on any works constructed or in process of construction under this subchapter, or in the suppression of riots among persons employed on such work, or in the prevention of the commission of crime by such person, after being duly audited, as required by law, shall constitute a claim in favor of such county, town or city against the city of New York and an action may be maintained on such audit as for money paid to the use of the city.

a. The city is hereby required to build and construct such highways and bridges as may be made necessary by the construction of any reservoir under this subchapter, and to repair and forever maintain such additional highways and bridges and to remove the snow and to sand the highway surfaces whenever necessary, except such as shall be part of any state route; and in case any bridge or highway thus constructed shall cross any railroad, it shall do so above or below such railroad and not upon the same level. The plans and specifications for any highways required to be constructed under the provisions of this section shall be approved by the state department of transportation.

b. The commissioner of environmental protection shall make such reasonable rules and regulations, not in conflict with the highway law, as may be necessary to prevent improper and destructive use of highways and bridges constructed under the provisions of the water supply laws of the city of New York. Provided, however, that the commissioner of environmental protection shall have no greater authority in respect thereto than is now, or may hereafter be, vested by the highway law of the state of New York in the town, county or state authorities in relation to the construction and regulation of town, county and state highways. Any individual or corporation failing to observe such rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, in addition, shall be liable for actual damages to such highways and bridges, to be recovered by the city.

c. The state commissioner of transportation, in his or her discretion, shall have the power to perform, at the request of the commissioner of environmental protection and at the expense of the city, any work of original construction of substituting routes required to be performed by the city pursuant to this section. Whenever the state commissioner of transportation shall grant such a request of the commissioner of environmental protection, he or she shall prepare and submit to such commissioner of environmental protection for his or her approval an estimate of the cost of performing such work. Such estimate of cost shall be an estimate of the cost of performing such work of construction pursuant to plans, designs and specifications prepared by the commissioner of environmental protection and approved by the state commissioner of transportation, and shall include all costs in connection with performing such work, including the costs of engineering, auditing and administration. Upon approval of such estimate by the commissioner of environmental protection, the city shall thereupon deposit with the state comptroller, who is authorized to receive and accept the same, for the purpose of this subdivision, a sum of money equal to such estimate, which shall be subject to the draft or requisition of the state commissioner of transportation and a copy of the resolution of such commissioner of environmental protection authorizing such deposit shall be filed with the state commissioner of transportation and with the state comptroller. If, at any time prior to the award of a contract for the performance of such work or prior to the state commissioner of transportation becoming obligated to award such a contract, it appears to such commissioner of environmental protection that the state commissioner of transportation, for any reason, will be unable to award a contract for the performance of such work or that it is undesirable that such a contract be awarded, any sum or sums so deposited by the city, less the amount of cost which the state commissioner of transportation has already incurred, if any, shall be refunded to the city by the state comptroller upon demand of such commissioner of environmental protection made to the state comptroller and to the state commissioner of transportation. The performance of any such work of construction shall be by contract, to be let, so far as practicable, in the manner provided by section thirty-eight of the highway law, which section shall, so far as practicable, apply to contracts hereunder and payments thereon. Such contract shall be subject to and in conformity with such plans, designs and specifications of the commissioner of environmental protection. No contract shall be executed for any such work until satisfactory proof has been furnished to the state commissioner of transportation that the city has made available any real property required and any easements deemed necessary. When work performed by the state commissioner of transportation hereunder has been completed and the cost thereof paid, the state commissioner of transportation shall render to the commissioner of environmental protection an itemized statement showing in full (a) the amount of money which has been deposited by the city with the state comptroller in connection with such work, and (b) all disbursements made by the state commissioner of transportation in connection with the performance of such work. Any surplus money shall be paid to the city upon the warrant of the state comptroller upon vouchers therefor approved by the state commissioner of transportation.

SUBCHAPTER 3 WATER SUPPLY TO OTHER MUNICIPALITIES

a. It shall be lawful for any of the municipal corporations or water districts in the counties of Ulster, Greene, Delaware, Schoharie, Sullivan, Orange, Westchester and Putnam, and for the village of Deposit in the counties of Delaware and Broome, to take and receive from any of the reservoirs, aqueducts, conduits, streams or pipes of the city a supply of water for the uses and purposes of such municipal corporations or water districts or village and to that end such municipal corporations or water districts are, and each of them is, and such village also is, authorized and empowered to lay the necessary mains, pipes, valves, hydrants, supply pipes and other necessary appurtenances for the use of such water, without the consent of any board, officer, bureau, or department of the state or any subdivision thereof.

b. The connections with such reservoirs, aqueducts, conduits, streams or pipes shall be made at the expense of such municipalities or water districts. They shall pay to the city such fair and reasonable water charges or rates as may be agreed upon between the commissioner of environmental protection and the authorities of such municipal corporations or water districts or as from time to time upon the application of either party shall be fixed by the New York state department of environmental conservation, which department is hereby given power to fix such fair and reasonable charges or rates after hearing all parties interested. The expenses of any such hearing and decision by the New York state department of environmental conservation shall be paid by the applicant. Bills for such expenses shall be certified by such department to the applicant and paid by the applicant directly to the claimant within thirty days of

c. Such charges or rates shall not, however, exceed the charges or rates now charged by the city to persons using water in that city. Such fair and reasonable charges or rates shall be determined on the basis of the actual total cost of the water to the city after deducting from the total cost all construction costs and expenses of operation, maintenance and carrying charges incurred within the corporate limits of the city in connection with the distribution and delivery of the water within such limits. Such charges or rates fixed by the New York state department of environmental conservation shall be subject to review by the supreme court.

d. Any such municipal corporation or water district desiring to take and receive water under the provisions of this section shall make application to the commissioner of environmental protection in writing, showing the place and manner in which it is proposed to make such connections. Such commissioner shall have exclusive jurisdiction in the premises, to the exclusion of any other board, officer, bureau or department of the state or any subdivision thereof. It shall be the duty of the commissioner to grant a permit or authorization for such connections, under reasonable rules and regulations, including the installation of proper meters or other devices for ascertaining the quantity of water thus taken.

e. The daily quantity of water which may be taken and received by any municipal corporation or water district under the provisions of this section shall not exceed the quantity calculated by multiplying the number of its inhabitants as shown by the last preceding census of the United States or the last state or official municipal census by the daily per capita consumption in the city of New York.

¶ 2. Determination pursuant to article 78 proceeding annulling a determination of the City of New York withdrawing permission to an incorporated village to tap-in to the city's Catskill Aqueduct was proper since the right of the city to take water from up-State sources was on the condition that it would permit municipalities along the aqueduct route to be supplied also and because the statute is mandatory and gives the commissioner no discretion as to the issuance of a permit except to promulgate reasonable rules and regulations.-Incorporated Village of Cornwall v. Environmental Protection Administration of the City of N.Y., 45 App. Div. 2d 297, 358 N.Y.S. 2d 459 [1974].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Where an upstate water district or municipal corporation purchases water from the New York City water supply system, it must pay the City the fair and reasonable charges for the water. If the parties cannot agree, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation ("DEC") fixes the rates. The court here upheld a substantial rate increase (the first in 20 years) awarded to the City. The DEC reasonably ordered the increase phased in over a two year period, with 87 percent the first year and 13 percent in the second year, where the New York City Water Board itself had previously proposed the same percentage increases over the two year period. § 24-365 Cemetery and burial grounds.

Whenever for the purposes of this subchapter it shall be necessary to use any land or premises, or any portion thereof, now occupied by graves, burial places, cemeteries or other places of interment of human remains, such graves, burial places, cemeteries or other places of interment of human remains and the human remains located therein, shall be removed and disposed of in the following manner: 1. The city having acquired title to the land where burial places are situated shall cause a notice to be published once in each week for four successive weeks in two newspapers published in the county where such burial place or places are situated, which such notice shall be substantially as follows:

"Please take notice that the undersigned hereby intends to make application relating to the removal of all the remains, all the monuments and all other distinguishing marks from the cemetery or burial place located in the town of _____ county of _____ known as _____ not less than sixty days after (the last publication date of this notice) for an order pursuant to subchapter four of chapter three of title twenty-four of the administrative code of the city of New York;

Please take further notice that any and all person or persons legally entitled to direct as to the disposition of the above may remove the same to any other cemetery or burial place within the same or an adjoining county within sixty days after (the last publication date of this notice) if they so elect upon informing the commissioner of environmental protection in writing of the cemetery or burial place in which said remains are to be reinterred and to which the monuments and other distinguishing marks are to be moved.

2. Not less than sixty days after the last publication date of said notice, the corporation counsel shall make an application to a special term of the supreme court in the same judicial district in which the cemetery or burial place is located for an order authorizing such removal of said remains, monuments and all other distinguishing marks to a cemetery or burial place in the same or an adjoining county from that in which said cemetery or burial place is located.

Such order shall be made upon due proof of not less than ten days' notice to interested parties who have appeared by attorney, or who have filed appearances in writing with the corporation counsel, and of proof of publication of notice of such application once in each week for four weeks in each of two newspapers published in the county where such cemetery or burial place is situated, immediately prior to application to the supreme court. Such notice shall briefly set forth the time and place of the making of such application and a designation of the cemetery or burial place to which said remains, monuments and distinguishing marks are sought to be removed.

All removals and transportation of such human remains shall be done in accordance with the provisions of the public health law and the local rules or ordinances of any town, city or village wherein such cemetery or burial place is located, or wherein any of such remains may be interred. The commissioner of environmental protection on behalf of the city may acquire by purchase such other lands as may be necessary within the county where such cemetery or burial place is located, or in an adjoining county, for the purpose of properly interring such removed remains, which lands shall be acquired with the approval of the supreme court in the same judicial district as that in which the condemnation proceedings were originally instituted. In the acquisition of such lands no cemetery or burial place shall be divided and the acreage acquired must be at least substantially equal to the acreage taken. The commissioner of environmental protection on behalf of the city may also acquire other lands within the county wherein such cemetery or burial place is located, or in an adjoining county, for the purpose of properly interring and removing such remains, in the same manner as provided by this subchapter for the acquisition of water supply and other lands but such acquisition of such lands shall be subject to approval of the supreme court. No lands shall be acquired within the corporate limits of a village or city except within the bounds of an existing cemetery unless by consent of the board of trustees of the village or common council of the city or other authorities within such village or city occupying similar positions as trustees or aldermen, respectively. The supreme court, upon application for the confirmation of the report of the commissioners, shall make inquiry as to the rights of individual lot owners in cemeteries and provide for the protection of such rights as justice shall require. All the bodies removed by said commissioner of environmental protection shall, when distinguishable, be encased each in a separate box or coffin, and each monument, head stone, foot stone, slab, board or other designating or distinguishing mark shall be properly removed and reset at the grave of each body at the time of such reinterment. Members of the same family shall be reinterred in contiguous graves. Whenever any person or persons, legally entitled to direct as to the disposition of any human remains now interred in a cemetery or burial place, shall request, in writing, within the sixty day period aforesaid, the burial of such remains in a cemetery in the same or an adjoining county, the commissioner shall cause such remains to be reinterred where requested within the same county or in adjoining county, and shall carefully and properly remove such remains to such burial plot and properly reinter the same, and in the event that any human remains be removed to, and reinterred in any other place other than that acquired as herein provided, no portion of the expense for the acquisition of any other grave, graves, or other place or places of burial shall be borne by the city, but in such event the city shall bear only the expense of removal and transportation of such remains. Whenever there is no request to remove remains within the sixty day period as hereinbefore provided, the corporation counsel shall apply for an order authorizing such removal in the manner herein provided. Whenever any person or persons legally entitled to direct as to the disposition of any human remains exhumed or to be exhumed from any cemetery or burial place as herein provided, elect to remove the same for reinterment to any burial plot or cemetery not within the same county from which such remains were exhumed, or in an adjoining county, such person or persons so entitled to designate such other burial place or plot shall be permitted to remove such exhumed remains from such county, subject to the provisions of the public health law, and the local rules or ordinances of any town, city or village wherein such cemetery or burial place shall be located, or wherein such human remains may be reinterred, but no portion of the expense of such transportation or burial shall be borne by the commissioner of environmental protection.

When any lands acquired for the purposes of reinterment of human remains as herein provided, to which shall have been removed all remains exhumed from a cemetery or burial place belonging to an individual or individuals, or to a corporation organized under the religious corporations law, the not-for-profit corporation law or by special act, or belonging to a town, village or city, the board of estimate of the city of New York shall, after reinterment, execute and deliver, without expense to the prior owner, if an individual, or if such prior owner be a corporation, to the trustees or other governing body of such corporation, by whatsoever name or title they may hold office, or to the board of trustees, if any, of a town burial ground, and to their successors in office, a quit claim deed covering the lands so acquired, together with all structures erected thereon, and where lands have been acquired for the purpose of reinterment of human remains exhumed from a public or private cemetery or burial place which shall have been used by the inhabitants of any town in this state as a cemetery or burial place for the space of fourteen years and not having a board of trustees pursuant to the provisions of the town law, the board of estimate of the city of New York shall, after reinterment, execute and deliver, and without expense to the grantee therefor a quit claim deed or other proper release to such town wherein such lands so acquired as provided by this section may be situated, and such cemetery or burial place shall from and after the execution and delivery thereof be deemed to be vested in such town, and shall be subject, in the same manner as other corporate property of towns, to the government and direction of directors in town meeting, excepting, however, that where such lands so acquired for the purposes set forth in this section are situated within the limits of a village or city, such quit claim deed or release herein provided for shall be executed and delivered to such village or city and thereafter be and become property of such village or city and subject to the laws governing such village or city. From and after the execution and delivery by the board of estimate as by this section provided, of the quit claim deed or release, the city of New York shall be divested of all right and title to said lands so quit claimed or released and shall not thereafter be liable for the care, custody, maintenance and control thereof. This section does not limit any existing right of burial or removal of remains under other provisions of law applicable thereto. Nothing herein contained shall impose any duty whatsoever upon the city of New York for the care, custody, maintenance and control of any burial grounds, cemeteries or other places of interment for human remains.

CHAPTER 4 GAS AND ELECTRIC LINES

a. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of transportation to carefully investigate any and all methods proposed by any company for electric lighting or electrical communication by the use of conductors along or across any street in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, and, before approving of any such method, such commissioner of transportation shall require that, so far as practicable, all such conductors when constructed shall be underground. The commissioner of transportation shall have full authority to compel all companies operating electric wires to use the subway prepared in accordance with the provisions of sections 24-407 through 24-409 of the code.

b. Wherever, along the streets, in sparsely inhabited or unoccupied portions of such boroughs, the public interests do not require the electrical conductors to be placed underground, and wherever, in any other locality in such boroughs, it is deemed by such commissioner to be, for any cause, impracticable to construct and successfully operate underground the electrical conductors required by any such company, then, it shall be the duty of such commissioner to examine and grant the application of any such company for permission to deviate from such underground system. The commissioner of transportation shall not, however, grant any such permission unless he or she shall be satisfied, upon investigation, that such a permit should be granted for one of the reasons stated above, and that it will not interfere with the successful working of underground conductors elsewhere in such boroughs. Any such permit shall be held and construed to authorize the construction and maintenance of the lines of conductors therein provided for, as and where prescribed by the commissioner of transportation.

c. It is hereby made the duty of such commissioner of transportation, in granting any such permit for other than underground electrical connections, to bear in mind the policy and purpose of sections 24-407 through 24-409 of the code, which is to convert the overhead systems of electrical wires and cables now in use in such boroughs to underground systems, as soon as possible, without impairing the efficiency of their service, and to require that, as far as practicable, all electrical conductors in any street in such boroughs shall be removed from the surface and placed and operated underground, as soon as may be consistent with the convenient use thereof by the public. It is intended to authorize other than underground electrical conductors, to be used in the streets, only when and where the public interests do not require the electrical conductors to be placed underground, or when and where it shall be deemed by the board of estimate to be impracticable to place and operate the conductors advantageously underground. It is also intended to make all aerial or other electrical connections merely incidental to such underground methods, and to require that they be authorized only when and where needed for the convenient use of the public or where the underground conductors can be made more useful thereby.

d. The work of constructing every line of conductors authorized by any such permit, so granted, shall be subject to the rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner of transportation. Every such permit shall specify the location of the structures to be erected and to be used for sustaining the electrical conductors, and shall give the general dimensions thereof.

e. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of transportation to require that the subway may be used by the city for the electric wires or conductors operated by its police, fire or other agencies without expense, except that of the wires or conductors. The city shall not, however, be compelled to place any such wires or conductors underground until the money has been specifically raised therefor, and until that time the city may continue to use and extend such wires.

Whenever any such permit shall be granted by the commissioner of transportation, in extending the connections of any subterranean electrical conductors, for the erection of any structure or structures for sustaining electrical conductors above the surface of any street, or for placing wires or cables on any such structure or elsewhere than underground, or for carrying any such wires or cables across or along and above the surface of any street, or for placing wires or cables on any such structure or elsewhere than underground, or for carrying any such wires or cables over or into or in the rear of any building in such boroughs, any and all such structures, and any and all such wires or cables, shall be so erected and maintained as not to interfere with the other public uses of such streets.

a. 1. The commissioner of environmental protection is authorized and empowered to enter into a contract or agreement, subject to the approval of the mayor, with the appropriate authorities of the following localities:

(a) The town board of any town and the municipal authorities of any village within the Croton watershed in the county of Westchester,

(b) The authorities of the town of Carmel, Putnam county,

(c) The municipal authorities of the village of Brewster, Putnam county, to provide for the disposal of the sewage of any town or village within the Croton watershed, of one or more villages or sewer districts within the town of Carmel, and of the village of Brewster, in the manner provided for in such agreement. The town board of any such town or the municipal authorities of any such village are likewise authorized and empowered to enter into such agreement. They may provide in such contract or agreement that all persons within the area affected owning buildings on streets where sewers are, or may hereafter be constructed or located under such agreement, or any modification thereof, shall connect with the sewer systems as provided in such contract or agreement.

2. In the event of the failure of any such person or persons to connect with any sewer system and the failure of the town board of any such town or the municipal authorities of any such village to compel such person or persons to connect with such sewer system within sixty days after notice and demand, the city shall have the right to cause such connection to be made at the expense of the owner failing or neglecting to connect with such sewer system. The expense of making any such connection may be recovered by the city in a suit in any court having competent jurisdiction.

3. With respect to the town of Carmel, such contract or agreement may authorize or require the construction, operation and maintenance of a sewage disposal plant, equipment and facilities for the disposition of the sewage of one or more villages or sewer districts in the town of Carmel or the extension, improvement, operation and maintenance of existing plants, if any, for such purpose. The town board of the town of Carmel is hereby authorized to contract between one or more sewer districts or between one or more villages and one or more sewer districts for any trunk sewer lines or laterals thereof to convey the sewage of such village, villages, district, or districts to a disposal plant operated by any district, village or municipality. The cost and expense of such trunk sewer, pumping station or appurtenant works shall be apportioned by the town board of the town of Carmel pro rata to the volume of sewage or population, or both, of the area benefited.

b. 1. The commissioner of environmental protection is authorized and empowered, subject to the approval of the mayor, to enter into contracts or agreements with the municipal authorities of any towns or incorporated villages within the Esopus and Schoharie watersheds, in the counties of Ulster, Delaware, Schoharie and Greene, to provide, maintain and operate systems and plants for the collection and disposal of sewage in any such town or village. The municipal authorities of any such village or the town board of any such town are likewise authorized and empowered to enter into such agreements with the city.

2. When a sewerage system shall have been constructed, the city shall lay and thereafter maintain such pipes as may be necessary from such sewerage system to the outside of the foundation walls of buildings containing water-using sanitary plumbing. The cost of such pipes shall be paid by the city and in all cases where such pipes are so laid the owner shall make no claim for damage for such entry on his or her property unless the city shall have failed to replace and leave the surface and all improvements in the same condition as they were before the laying of such pipes.

3. When the city shall have constructed a sewerage system and shall have laid the necessary pipes from such system to the outside of the foundation wall of any building containing water-using sanitary plumbing, the owner of such building shall cause the drainage and sewerage of such building to be connected with and discharged into such pipes.

4. Upon the approval of the state engineer of the plans for any system of sewerage and disposal works prepared pursuant to any agreement entered into under the provisions of paragraph one of this subdivision, and upon the filing of such plans in the office of the state commissioner of health and of the town clerks in the towns in which such sewers and disposal works are located, the city is granted the right to such reasonable use of the highways, roads, streets and other public property of any county, village or town through which such sewer may pass or in which any part thereof may be located as may be necessary to construct, maintain and operate such sewer and disposal works. Where the route of such sewer follows any state highway, county highway or town road, such highway or road shall be replaced and repaired by the city to the satisfaction of the department, body or official having jurisdiction thereover.

c. Notwithstanding any provision of any general, special or local law or of any charter, the commissioner of environmental protection is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into a contract or agreement, subject to the approval of the mayor, with the governing body of the county of Westchester, to provide for the disposal of the sewage of any municipality located in the county of Westchester wherein such disposal is required to protect the water supply of the city of New York. The governing body of the county of Westchester is likewise authorized and empowered to enter into such contract or agreement.

¶ 1. Where plaintiffs made connection with a sewer pursuant to permit granted by borough authorities, such permit could not thereafter be revoked simply because the sewer did not appear on the official map. Plaintiffs were not relegated to an Article 78 proceeding, the determination of which would not prevent the authorities from blocking off the sewer, as they were about to do.-Perosi v. City of New York, 141 (69) N.Y.L.J. (4-10-59) 14, Col. 5 M.

¶ 2. City was not liable for damage to properties of plaintiffs, as the result of overflowing of sewers in the area. The evidence showed that the area was subject to overflowing of waters prior to construction of sewers by the City in 1935, and thereafter. There was no proof that the City was negligent in construction of the sewers, even though the sewers were not adequate for the area. Also, the overflowing from the sewers, on the particular day in question, was due to an unprecedented 12-inch fall of rain, for which the City could not be liable, since due to excessive rainfall.-Beck v. City of New York, 23 Misc. 2d 1036, 199 N.Y.S. 2d 584 [1960].

¶ 3. City was not liable for overflowing of sewers, based on contention, that it was negligent in granting building permits in an area troubled with inadequate sewers for many years, since the City was required to issue building permits to persons lawfully entitled to same.-Beck v. City of New York, 23 Misc. 2d 1036, 199 N.Y.S. 2d 594 [1960].

a. The owners of private property at their cost and expense and in accordance with the provisions of section two hundred twenty-nine of the charter may construct sewers in the streets of the city by filing with the commissioner of environmental protection:

1. Plans and specifications of such sewer;

2. A duplicate copy of the contract for such construction, showing the cost thereof; and

3. A satisfactory guarantee to such commissioner of payment of the expense of supervision of such construction. Upon his or her approval of such plans, specifications and contract, the commissioner shall issue his or her permit for the construction of the proposed sewer.

b. The commissioner of environmental protection thereupon shall file copies of the documents listed in subdivision a with the department of city planning, which shall forward a copy within five days to the community board for the community district in which the property is located, and to the appropriate borough board if the plans involve land located in two or more community districts. Such commissioner shall apportion the cost of construction, according to actual benefit, between the several parcels of property abutting on each side of that part of the street through which the sewer is to be constructed.

c. Until title to such sewer vests in the city of New York, as hereinafter provided, the commissioner of environmental protection shall grant permits for connection with such sewer only to those owners or occupants of the property abutting on that part of the street in which such sewer has been laid who shall prove payment to the party or parties who constructed and paid for such sewer of their proportionate part of the cost and expense shall be paid without the addition of any interest charge. At such time as title to any such sewer shall vest in the city, owners or occupants of the property abutting on that part of the street in which such sewer has been laid who have not requested permission to connect with such sewer, and who have not made payment to the party or parties who constructed and paid for such sewer, shall have the right to connect with such sewer without payment of any part of the cost and expense of such sewer.

d. Except for the purpose of supervision, maintenance and use by the city in connection with its public sewer system, such sewer shall be deemed the private property of the parties or party who shall have paid for its construction. When the owners of all the property abutting on that part of the street in which any such sewer has been laid shall have paid their several shares of the cost of its construction, or when a period of seven years from the time of issuance of the permit pursuant to subdivision a hereof has elasped, whichever is earlier, it shall be the property of the city. The city in no event shall be liable for any part of the cost and expense of construction of any such sewer.

e. It shall be unlawful for any person to represent to any prospective purchaser of property that a sewer constructed in any street is a city sewer unless such sewer shall have been constructed by the city in accordance with the legally adopted drainage plan of the city and/or accepted as a public sewer in accordance with the provisions of the code.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Where the procedure before the Board of Assessors relative to apportionment of costs of construction of petitioner's private sewer was entirely regular and a notice to present objections had been published in the "City Record" as required by the Administrative Code, petitioner was not entitled to have the assessment reopened to consider its objection, on ground it did not know that the Board would hold a meeting and therefore could not timely present its objections. Furthermore, considerations that the construction cost exceeded by $250 the assessment allowed by the Board, and that there was a possibility of not recovering the full amount paid for the sewer because certain property abutting the proposed private sewer utilized an existing sewer, did not constitute "fraud or substantial error" within meaning of Administrative Code §§ 311-2.0 and 311-6.0, which authorized relief in such cases.-NuArt Homes, Inc. v. City of N.Y., 106 (32) N.Y.L.J. (8-7-41) 294, Col. 6 T.

¶ 2. While the assessment levied by the Board of Assessors with respect to construction of a private sewer does not really affect any property, but merely constitutes a proposed charge to be paid by an owner desiring to connect to the private sewer constructed pursuant to Administrative Code §§ 82d9-5.0 and 82d9-6.0, the precedents controlling the interpretation of Administrative Code § 311-2.0 were applicable.-Id.

¶ 3. Administrative Code § 82d9-6.0, providing for apportionment of cost of construction of sewer in City street by owner of private property, according to actual benefit, between the several parcels of property abutting on each side of the part of the street through which the sewer was to be constructed, did not authorize apportionment of cost of construction of petitioner's sewer against respondent's property, the southern boundary of which was 70 feet north of petitioner's northern boundary, notwithstanding respondent's sewer emptied into petitioner's sewer, through which it flowed to the City constructed sewer system.-165 Corp. v. Kriger, 127 (90) N.Y.L.J. (5-8-52) 1850, Col. 5 F.

¶ 4. Section of sewer constructed by petitioner was its private property within limitations set forth in Administrative Code § 82d9-6.0, subd. d. One of the limitations is "use by the city in connection with its public sewer system," and hence Borough President would not be directed to revoke permit granted respondent, whose property was located north of petitioners' and which had connected its private sewer with the public sewer system by connecting into petitioner's sewer.-165 Corp. v. Wagner, 127 (90) N.Y.L.J. (5-8-52) 1850, Col. 6 F.

¶ 5. Denial of permission to petitioner for house connections to a sewer main on the ground that the sanitary sewer was "presently inadequate" constituted a deprivation of property without due process of law when the notice of denial gave no indication of when, if ever, the sewerage system would be improved.-Kaweco Const. Corp. v. Department Administration, 171 (61) N.Y.L.J. (3-29-74) 17, Col. 2 M.

a. The commissioner of environmental protection shall prescribe the manner of opening sewers or drains and the form, size and material of which the connections therewith shall be composed.

b. It shall be unlawful to make a connection with any sewer or drain without the written permit of the commissioner of environmental protection, except that, in conjunction with the issuance of a permit for the construction or alteration of a structure within the curbline, the commissioner of buildings may issue a permit for connection with a sewer or drain. Such connection shall be in the manner prescribed by the commissioner of environmental protection. The commissioner issuing the permit shall require an applicant for such permit to demonstrate to his or her satisfaction that the proposed discharges to the sewer will be in compliance with section 24-523 of this chapter and the regulations promulgated pursuant to such section. For such purpose the commissioner issuing the permit may require the submission of plans, specifications and such other information as he or she may reasonably require.

c. When public sewers are made available, the individual on site private sewage disposal system or any other means of sewage disposal or discharge shall be abandoned in a manner prescribed by the commissioner of buildings. The building house sewer shall be connected to the available public sewer within six months of the date of notification that the sewer has been accepted to receive flow. As used in this subdivision the term "individual on site private sewage disposal system" shall mean a system of interconnected structures, units, pipes and devices, including a septic tank and an absorption area, which does not connect to the city sewer system, and which is used to collect, convey, treat and dispose water-flushed or water-carried domestic or commercial sewage on one tax lot.

d. Any person who violates subdivision c of this section, or any order issued by or rule promulgated by the commissioner pursuant thereto, shall be liable for a civil penalty in an amount not greater than five thousand dollars for each violation, which may be recovered in a proceeding before the environmental control board. A proceeding to recover any civil penalty authorized pursuant to this section shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation returnable before the environmental control board, which shall have the power to impose the civil penalties prescribed herein.

a. As used in this section:

1. The term "agency having jurisdiction" shall mean the department of environmental protection.

2. The term "curb-to-sewer connection" shall mean the connection from the curb line to the sewer or to a sewer riser constructed with the sewer.

3. The term "cost" shall mean the actual cost of constructing each sewer-to-curb connection.

4. The term "curb line" shall mean the curb line determined pursuant to the resolution of the board of estimate establishing street and roadway widths.

b. The owner of any parcel of real property to be connected with the sewer system shall pay the cost of each curb-to-sewer connection serving such real property, if such curb-to-sewer connection was or shall be constructed in connection with the construction, reconstruction or replacement of a sewer duly authorized on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-two. Such cost shall become due and payable and shall constitute a lien against such property when the amount thereof shall have been computed by the agency having jurisdiction and an entry thereof shall have been made against such premises in the office of the city collector in the book in which charges for curb-to-sewer connections are to be entered. A notice thereof, stating the amount due and the nature of the charge shall be mailed by the city collector, within five days after such entry, to the last known address of the person whose name appears upon the records in the office of the city collector as being the person designated by the owner to receive tax bills or where no name appears, to the premises addressed to either the owner or the agent, together with a statement that if such charge is not paid within ninety days from the date of entry the amount thereof with interest thereon at the rate of seven percent per annum, to be calculated to the date of payment from the date of entry, will constitute, until paid, a lien against the premises which shall be prior and superior to every other lien or claim except the lien of an existing tax, water rent, sewer rent, sewer surcharge or local assessment. If such charge is not paid within ninety days from the date of entry, it shall be the duty of the city collector to collect and receive interest thereon at the rate of seven percent per annum, to be calculated to the date of payment from the date of entry. Such charge and the interest thereon shall continue to be, until paid, a lien on the premises served by such curb-to-sewer connection. Such charge and interest shall be calculated and the lien thereof may be foreclosed in the manner provided by law for the collection and foreclosure of the lien of taxes, sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water rents due and payable to the city, and the provisions of the code applicable to the collection and foreclosure of the lien of such taxes, sewer rents, sewer surcharges and water rents shall apply to such charge and the interest thereon and the lien thereof. Such lien shall be prior and superior to every other lien or claim except the lien of an existing tax, water rent, sewer rent, sewer surcharge, or local assessment. The provisions of section 11-307 of the code applicable to the payment of assessments shall also apply to the charge established pursuant to this section.

c. Nothing contained in this section shall affect, impair or diminish the duty, obligation and responsibility of the owner of real property connected with the sewer system at his or her own cost and expense: (1) to maintain any curb-to-sewer connection serving such real property; and (2) to repair, reconstruct or replace such curb-to-sewer connection except when the necessity for such repair, reconstruction or replacement is caused by the reconstruction or replacement of the sewer or by any other construction work performed by the city.

d. The cost of constructing a curb-to-sewer connection in connection with the construction, reconstruction, or replacement of a sewer duly authorized on or after July first, nineteen hundred sixty-two, shall be paid initially out of the real property fund upon the authorization of the board of estimate. All sums received or collected in reimbursement of such cost pursuant to this section, including interest and penalties thereon, shall be paid into the real property fund. This subdivision shall not apply to or affect the manner of financing the cost of repairing, reconstructing or replacing a curb-to-sewer connection when such repair, reconstruction or replacement is necessary because of the reconstruction or replacement of the sewer or because of any other construction work performed by the city.

Before being so licensed, such persons shall execute a bond to the city in the sum of one thousand dollars, with one or more sureties to be approved by such commissioner, conditioned:

1. That they will make all openings into any sewer or drain carefully and in the manner prescribed by such commissioner without injuring the same;

2. That they will leave no obstruction of any description whatever in the connection made by them;

3. That they will properly close up the sewer or drain around such connection and make no opening into the arch of any sewer or drain;

4. That they will faithfully comply with the provisions of section eighty-six of the charter, subchapter one of chapter one of title nineteen and sections 3-508 and 3-509 of the code;

CHAPTER 5 DRAINAGE AND SEWER CONTROL

a. Sewer system, defined. As used in this section the term "sewer system" shall mean and include the sewers, manholes, intercepting sewers, sewage pumping, treatment and disposal works, and any other plants, works or equipment and accessories within the city, which are used or useful in connection with the collection, treatment or disposal of sewage and waste, and which are owned, operated or maintained by the city as part of the public sewer system.

b. Imposition and computation of sewer rent or charge. 1. In addition to any other fees or charges provided by law, the owner of any parcel of real property connected with the sewer system, including but not limited to real property connected with the sewer system by means of a private sewer or drain emptying into the sewer system, shall pay a sewer rent or charge for the use of the sewer system. Such rent or charge shall be based on the water supplied to any such real property as measured by the amount charged for such water, except as otherwise provided by this section. Such rent or charge shall be computed by the commissioner of environmental protection in accordance with the provisions of this section.

2. For any such property supplied with water from the municipal water supply system the sewer rent or charge shall be equal in amount to sixty percent of the charges for water supplied to such property from such system.

3. For any such property supplied with water by a private water company, the commissioner of environmental protection shall, by rule and regulation, subject to the approval of the board of estimate, fix the fraction of the charges for such water, which shall constitute the sewer rent for such property, so that the sewer rent or charge for such property shall, as nearly as possible, be equivalent to the sewer rent or charge imposed under paragraph two of this subdivision for property supplied with water from the municipal water supply system.

4. If any such property is supplied with river water or water from private wells, the sewer rent or charge for such property shall be equal in amount to sixty percent of the amount that would be charged for the quantity of water supplied from such sources if such water were supplied by the city at the rates charged for water supplied to metered premises. The commissioner of environmental protection shall estimate the quantity of water supplied from such sources and shall compute the sewer rent or charge, on the basis of such estimated quantity, in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph. However, if a water meter, approved by the commissioner of environmental protection, has been or shall be installed by the owner or occupant of the premises to measure the quantity of water supplied from such sources, the quantity of water measured by such meter shall constitute the basis for computing the sewer rent or charge in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph. In the event that such property supplied with river water or water from private wells is also supplied with water from the municipal water supply system or by a private water company, the sewer rent or charge for such property shall consist of the rent or charge computed pursuant to this paragraph and the rent or charges computed in accordance with paragraph two or three of this subdivision as the case may be.

5. The commissioner of environmental protection shall have the power to promulgate rules and regulations, subject to the approval of the board of estimate, prescribing reasonable sewer rents or charges for any such property which is used for an industrial or commercial purpose of such a nature that water supplied to it cannot be entirely discharged into the sewer system. The sewer rent or charges prescribed pursuant to this paragraph shall be based, as far as practicable, upon the amount of sewage discharged into the sewer system as estimated by the commissioner of environmental protection, or where an estimate of such amount is impracticable, upon any other basis bearing a reasonable relationship to the amount of sewage discharged into the sewer system.

c. Additional rule making powers. The commissioner of environmental protection shall have the power to make such additional rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. Such rules and regulations shall be subject to approval by the board of estimate.

d. Cooperation by private persons, water companies, and public agencies. The commissioner of environmental protection may require every person who owns or occupies real property within the city, every private water company supplying water to property within the city, and all municipal agencies, officers, and employees to furnish him or her with such information as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. Every such person, water company, or municipal agency, officer, or employee shall cooperate with the commissioner of environmental protection in carrying out the provisions of this section and shall comply with all rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this section. Such commissioner shall have the power to hold such hearings and to subpoena such witnesses and direct the production of such books and papers as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

e. Exemptions from sewer rents or charges. Any real property which is entitled to an exemption from the payment of water rents or charges shall also be exempt from payment of the sewer rents or charges imposed hereunder.

f. Payment and enforcement of sewer rents or charges. All sewer rents or charges imposed hereunder shall be due and payable at the times and in the manner provided in chapters three and four of title eleven of the code. Such rents or charges shall constitute a lien upon the real property served by the sewer system and such lien shall be prior and superior to every other lien or claim except the lien of an existing tax, water rent or local assessment. Such rents or charges shall be collected and the liens thereof may be foreclosed in the manner provided in chapters three and four of title eleven of this code.

g. Sewer fund. The revenues derived from the sewer rentals imposed hereunder, including penalties and interest thereon, shall be kept in a separate and distinct fund to be known as the sewer fund. Such fund shall be used for the payment of the cost of the management, maintenance, operation and repair of the sewer system, the cost of administering and enforcing the provisions of this section and the cost of collection of the sewer rents or charges imposed pursuant to the provisions of this section, and any surplus in such fund shall be used for the payment of the interest and amortization on any debt which has been or shall be incurred for the construction of intercepting sewers and sewage treatment and disposal works, and for the enlargement, replacement, or addition of intercepting sewers or sewage treatment works. However, such funds shall not be used for the extension of sewers to serve unsewered areas.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. General City Law § 20, subd. 26, providing for a "sewer rent" method of financing the construction of sewerage treatment plants and empowering cities to charge "sewer rents" for the use of sewers and making such rents a lien on the real property served by the sewers, and Administrative Code § 82d9-9.1, held constitutional.-Tursellino v. Paduano, 202 Misc. 74, 107 N.Y.S. 2d 839 [1951].

¶ 2. In the absence of any provision in the lease relative to the payment of sewer rents, which were first imposed by the City of New York in June of 1950, about a year and a half after the lease was executed, the liability to pay such rents held to fall upon the landlord, and not the tenant.-Black v. General Wiper Supply Co., 305 N.Y. 386 [1953], affirming, 280 App. Div. 807, 113 N.Y.S. 2d 493 [1952].

¶ 3. Under lease providing that tenant would pay as additional rent all taxes and charges for water and assessments, extraordinary as well as ordinary, as should during the term demised be levied, assessed or imposed upon the premises by virtue of any present or future law, tenant held liable for sewer rents notwithstanding the passage after execution of the lease of Administrative Code § 82d9-9.1, requiring the owner of realty connected with the sewer system to pay all sewer rent or charge for the use of the sewer system. The nature of the sewer rents under the new law was the same as when the parties entered into the lease, with the exception of the method of financing.-Rubber Corp. of Am. v. Chalfin, 129 N.Y.S. 2d 409 [1954], modified, 284 App. Div. 991, 135 N.Y.S. 2d 483 [1954].

¶ 4. Under a factory lease, the lessee was obliged to pay "all of the charges of water in accordance with the bill produced by the Department of Water Supply or other municipal authority". The lease was executed before the enactment of this section and made no mention of any sewer charges which had previously fallen on property owners.

Held, the tenant was not obligated to pay the sewer rents imposed by this section.-Valenti v. Tepper Fields Corp., 282 App. Div. 212, 122 N.Y.S. 2d 599 [1953].

¶ 5. Apartment building owned by the Society of the New York Hospital, and used as living accommodations by the hospital's interns, resident doctors and their families was exempt from payment of water and sewer rents pursuant to Laws of 1957, ch. 433 and this section. The test of the exemption is whether apartments in the building occupied by hospital personnel and their immediate families are devoted to a use which is reasonably incident to the major purpose of the hospital.-Soc. of the N.Y. Hospital v. D'Angelo, 149 (92) N.Y.L.J. (5-13-63) 15, Col. 5 F.

¶ 6. A community center was exempted from the payment of water and sewer rents (see L. 1957, ch. 433) even though it had no resident workers, was not in a blighted area and served many persons who were not impoverished.-Matter of Associated YM-YMHA'S of Greater New York, Inc., 38 Misc. 2d 1082, 239 N.Y.S. 2d 722 [1963].

¶ 7. Water and sewer rates not being real estate taxes but charges for benefits and there being a "reasonable standard" for fixing such charges consisting of such rate-making procedure as is not prescribed by the limitations contained in Article IX it is not an unconstitutional delegation of power to allow the city to fix these charges.-Battista v. Bd. of Estimate of City of N.Y., 51 Misc. 2d 962, 274 N.Y.S. 2d 729 [1966].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. Sewer rents can be charged only based on actual use. Thus where, unknown to the owner, the property was not connected to the sewer system, the owner did not have to pay sewer rents. Chelsea Piers Mgmt., Inc. v. Chapin, 777 N.Y.S.2d 97, 7 A.D.3d 389 (1st Dept. 2004).

CHAPTER 5 DRAINAGE AND SEWER CONTROL

a. The following terms, as used in this section, shall have the following meanings:

1. A "dwelling" is any building or structure or portion thereof which is occupied in whole or in part as the home, residence or sleeping place of one or more human beings.

2. A "private dwelling" is any building or structure designed and occupied for residential purposes by not more than two families. Private dwellings shall also be deemed to include a series of one-family or two-family dwelling units each of which faces or is accessible to a legal street or public thoroughfare, if each such dwelling unit is equipped as a separate dwelling unit with all essential services, and if each such unit is arranged so that it may be approved as a legal one-family or two-family dwelling.

3. A "multiple dwelling" is a dwelling which is either rented, leased, let or hired out, to be occupied, or is occupied, as the residence or home of three or more families living independently of each other. A multiple dwelling shall also include residential quarters for members of personnel of any hospital staff which are not located in any building used primarily for hospital use, but any building which was erected, altered or converted prior to July first, nineteen hundred fifty-five, to be occupied by such members or personnel or is so occupied on such date shall not be subject to the requirements of the housing maintenance code only so long as it continues to be so occupied if there are local laws applicable to such building and such building is in compliance with such local laws. A multiple dwelling does not include (i) a hospital, convent, monastery, asylum or public institution; or (ii) a fireproof building used wholly for commercial purposes except for not more than one janitor's apartment and not more than one penthouse occupied by not more than two families.

4. The term "putrescible solid waste" shall mean solid waste containing organic matter having the tendency to decompose with the formation of malodorous by-products.

b. Food waste disposals for the discharge of putrescible food wastes from dwelling units may be installed in private dwellings and multiple dwellings, provided that:

1. all putrescible food wastes discharged to a sanitary sewer or to a combined storm and sanitary sewer are discharged in fluid form and at a reasonably uniform rate so as to prevent clogging or stoppage of the drain line, sanitary sewer or combined storm and sanitary sewer;

2. the installation of such food waste disposals is approved by the department of buildings and is in compliance with applicable provisions of the administrative code.

c. 1. The department shall conduct a pilot study of the use of food waste disposals in private dwellings and multiple dwellings served by combined storm and sanitary sewer systems. The study shall include, but need not be limited to, an analysis of the following:

i. the impact of grease and food solids on combined sewers;

ii. the impact on water consumption;

iii. the impact on the nutrient content of raw and treated effluent; iv. the impact of increased pollutant loadings to receiving waters, including increases in biological oxygen demand and suspended solids;

v. the impacts on wastewater treatment processes;

vi. the impact on sludge treatment processes and management;

vii. the impact on the city's ability to comply with applicable statutes, rules, regulations, permits and orders;

viii. the impact on solid waste management as determined by the department of sanitation; and

ix. any other impacts on the environment, public health and safety, and the cost of operating the water and sewer system.

2. The department may select an appropriate number of private dwellings or multiple dwellings within the city served by combined storm and sanitary sewer systems to participate in the pilot study. The number of food waste disposals that will be installed as part of the pilot study shall be no fewer than one hundred and shall not exceed one thousand. The study shall be deemed to have commenced when food waste disposals are installed in at least fifty percent of the dwelling units in the dwellings selected for the study and the commissioner has authorized the operation of these disposals; provided, however, that the department may deem the study to have commenced upon the installation of food waste disposals in less than fifty percent of the dwelling units within the dwellings selected for the study if the department finds that a valid study may be conducted with such lesser percentage of installations. In combined storm and sanitary sewer areas, food waste disposals may be installed only in those dwellings selected by the department to participate in the study.

3. The department shall within fifteen months of the commencement of the pilot study, but not later than twenty-one months from the effective date of this local law submit a report to the mayor and the council which shall include a detailed analysis of the findings of such study and conclusions and recommendations based on such analysis with respect to the installation of food waste disposals in private dwellings and multiple dwellings served by combined storm and sanitary sewer systems.

1. Provisions of L.L. 74/1995 § 1:

Section 1. Declaration of legislative intent and findings. The council finds that lifting the ban on the installation of food waste disposals in residential dwellings served by combined storm and sanitary sewers could afford all city residents the potential convenience of using this household appliance. Moreover, the council finds that the installation of food waste disposals in residential dwellings could assist the city in its effort to manage solid waste by diverting putrescible solid waste from disposal in landfills.

However, the council finds that there are potential adverse impacts associated with lifting the ban on the installation of food waste disposals in residential dwellings served by combined storm and sanitary sewers. These adverse impacts could include a decrease in the quality of the city's receiving waters, obstruction of the city's sewer system, increased water consumption, impact on the city's ability to comply with applicable statutes, rules, regulations, permits, and orders, and increased operating costs for conveying and treating wastewater.

Accordingly, the council hereby authorizes the department of environmental protection to conduct a pilot program to determine the relative costs, benefits and problems associated with the installation of food waste disposals in residential dwellings served by combined storm and sanitary sewers. If at the conclusion of the pilot program it is determined that food waste disposals should be allowed on a more widespread basis in residential dwellings served by combined storm and sanitary sewers, the council may act to permit further installation by local law.

Section 1. Legislative findings. In 1995, local law number 74 was enacted, which provided for the limited installation of food waste disposals in dwellings served by combined sewer systems as part of a pilot study, the results of which were to be submitted to the mayor and the council no later than 21 months after the effective date of local law number 74. The findings were compiled in a June 1997 report prepared by the department of environmental protection entitled, "The Impact of Food Waste Disposers in Combined Sewer Areas of New York City." In short, the study found that the prohibition on the installation of food waste disposals in combined sewer areas should be lifted.

The study assessed the long-term impact of food waste disposals based on a maximum installation rate of one percent each year. The department of environmental protection has assured the council that it will supplement its ongoing monitoring of other factors that affect the City's treatment and disposal of wastewater by monitoring the introduction of food waste disposals to identify any problems that may materialize. In the unlikely event that problems do begin to surface, the department of environmental protection has further assured the council that it will immediately inform the council and recommend corrective action. With these assurances by the department of environmental protection, and in consideration of its own authority to oversee the implementation and effect of the installation of food waste disposals, the council finds, after review and analysis of the report, that at this time the prohibition of food waste disposals in combined sewer areas is no longer warranted.

CASE NOTES FROM FORMER SECTION

¶ 1. Defendant would be required to pay plaintiff the reasonable cost of removing, relocating and protecting its pipelines which interfered with the construction of sewers which plaintiff was under contract with the city to install if at the trial it was proved that defendant failed to do so and that plaintiff necessarily had to relocate and protect defendant's facilities.-Paterno & Sons, Inc. v. Jamaica Water Supply Co., 52 A.D. 2d 595, 382 N.Y.S. 2d 114 [1976].

CASE NOTES

¶ 1. A public improvements contract which implements the City of New York's new joint bidding procedures on projects involving a combination of public work and utility interference work, so a contractor is required to competitively bid both on the utility work and the city work in the same contract does not represent an improper shift from the utilities to the contractor the responsibility for maintaining utility facilities. While a utility is obligated to relocate its facilities when they interfere with a public work, §24-521, there is no prohibition against including the cost of utility interference work in a public works contract. HHM Assocs. v. Appleton, 157 Misc. 2d 759 [1993].

¶ 2. In one case, plaintiff alleged that certain overhead electric, cable and telecommunications wires owned and operated by the defendants were interfering with his public works contract with the City for the milling and grinding of certain public streets. The court held that where defendant had an affirmative legal obligation under the statute to remove or alter their wires for public works construction, the defendant's decision not to do so, which decision allegedly was motivated by disinterested malevolence, gave rise to an action for prima facie tort. DeMicco Bros., Inc. v. Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, 8 A.D.3d 99, 779 N.Y.S.2d 10 (1st Dept. 2004).

§ 24-522 Maintenance of private sewers or drains located in public property or in private or public streets and emptying into the public sewer system.

a. As used in this section:

1. The term "private sewer or drain" shall mean any private sewer or drain located in public property or in any public or private street or streets and emptying into the public sewer system, but shall not include a curb-to-sewer connection as defined in section 24-512 of the code or a house sewer connection.

2. The term "private street" shall mean a privately owned street in which the public has a right of user not subject to revocation by the owner thereof.

b. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, it shall be the duty of the department of environmental protection to control, maintain, supervise and repair, and to inspect periodically, private sewers or drains as defined in subdivision a hereof, provided, however, that the department shall have no obligation or duty to replace or reconstruct any such sewer or drain. The cost of such control, maintenance, supervision, repair and inspection shall be borne by the city, within the amounts duly appropriated therefor.

c. Right of entry. 1. The commissioner of environmental protection, his or her deputies and any other officers and employees of the department of environmental protection, when authorized by such commissioner, may enter upon public or private property and bring in necessary equipment at reasonable hours, for the purpose of exercising the powers or performing the duties of the department under this section. Refusal to permit such entry or equipment shall be punishable as provided in section 24-524 of this chapter.

2. The owner of any parcel of real property connected to the public sewer system, as a condition precedent to the continuance of such connection, and the owner of any parcel of real property who makes application or causes an application to be made on his or her behalf for connection with the public sewer system, as a condition precedent to the granting of permission for such connection, shall be deemed to have consented and agreed that the commissioner of environmental protection and his or her deputies and such other officers or employees of the department of environmental protection as are authorized by such commissioner may, without fee or hindrance, enter the premises connected with the sewer system, or any part thereof and bring in any necessary equipment at proper or reasonable hours for the purpose of exercising the powers and duties of such department prescribed by this section.

CHAPTER 5 DRAINAGE AND SEWER CONTROL

a. Definitions. As used in this section, the following terms shall mean:

1. Commissioner. Commissioner of environmental protection.

2. Sewer system. The sewers, manholes, intercepting sewers, sewage pumping, treatment and disposal works, and any other plants, works or equipment and accessories within the city, which are used or useful in connection with the collection, treatment or disposal of sewage and waste, and which are owned, operated or maintained by the city as part of the public sewer system.

3. Sewage. The water-carried human or animal wastes from residences, buildings, industrial establishments, or other places, together with such ground water infiltration and surface water as may be present. The admixture with sewage as above defined by industrial waste or other wastes as hereafter defined, also shall be considered "sewage" within the meaning of this section.

4. Industrial waste. Any liquid, gaseous or solid substance or a combination thereof resulting from any process of industry, manufacturing, trade or business or from the development or recovery of any natural resources.

5. Other wastes. Garbage, refuse, decayed wood, sawdust, shavings, bark, sand, lime, cinders, ashes, and all other discarded matter not sewage or industrial waste.

6. B.O.D. (Denoting biochemical oxygen demand). The laboratory determination of the quantity of oxygen utilized in the biochemical oxidation of organic matter in a given time and at a specified temperature. It is expressed in parts per million (p.p.m) or (mg/liter) of oxygen used in a period of five days at twenty degrees C.

7. S.S. (Denoting suspended solids). The laboratory determination of the dry weight expressed in parts per million (p.p.m) or (mg/liter) of solids that either float on the surface or are in suspension in sewage and can be removed from sewage by filtration.

8. pH. The logarithm of the reciprocal of the hydrogen ion concentration. It indicates the intensity scale of acidity and alkalinity expressed in terms of pH scale running from 0. to 14. A pH value of 7.0 the midpoint of the scale, represents exact neutrality. Values above 7.0 indicate alkalinity and those below 7.0 acidity.

9. Chlorine demand. The amount of chlorine expressed in milligrams per liter which will complete the normal reactions with all chemicals and materials in the waste leaving an excess of 0.1 milligrams per liter after thirty minutes contact time at room temperature.

10. Normal Sewage. Sewage, industrial waste or other wastes having all of the following characteristics:

and such other characteristics as may be specified by the commissioner by rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to the provisions of subdivision e of this section.

12. Pollutants. Substances which may be present in sewage, industrial waste or other waste, whether gaseous, liquid or solid, the amounts of which, for the purposes of this section, shall be determined by the sum of the B.O.D. and the S.S. present therein.

13. Toxic substances. Any substance on the list of toxic pollutants or combination of pollutants published by the administrator of the federal environmental protection agency pursuant to section 307(a)(1) of the federal water pollution control act, commonly referred to as the clean water act, as amended, or any substance whether gaseous, liquid or solid, which when discharged to the sewer system may tend to (i) interfere with or inhibit any sewage treatment plant process or disposal operations, or (ii) be detrimental to the health of human beings or animals or to aquatic life.

14. Cost per pound of removing pollutants from sewage discharged into the sewer system. An amount certified annually by the commissioner which shall be determined by dividing the total costs of removing pollutants from the sewage discharged into the sewer system during the calendar year immediately preceding the date of certification (including the interest and amortization paid in such year upon indebtedness for capital improvements in connection therewith other than original plant construction or expansion) as computed by the commissioner, by the total number of pounds of pollutants removed in such year as computed by the commissioner. The amount so certified shall be filed in the department of public works on July first of each year and shall be used in computing the surcharges hereunder for the use of the sewer system during the one year period commencing on such July first.

15. Laboratory determination. The measurements, tests and analyses of the characteristics of waters and wastes in accordance with the methods contained in the latest edition at the time of any such measurement test or analysis, of "Standard Methods for Examination of Water and Sewage" a joint publication of the American public health association, the American waterworks association and the water pollution control federation or in accordance with any other method prescribed by the commissioner by rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this section.

b. Imposition and computation of sewer surcharge.

1. In addition to any other fees, charges or sewer rents provided by section 24-514 of the code or any other law, the owner of any parcel of real property connected with the sewer system, including but not limited to real property connected with the sewer system by means of a private sewer or drain emptying into the sewer system, shall pay a surcharge for the use of the sewer system for discharging any sewage, industrial waste or other waste, accepted for admission thereto in which the characteristics resulting from pollutants contained therein exceed the maximum values of such characteristics in receivable industrial waste as defined in subdivision a of this section and the rules and regulations of the commissioner adopted pursuant to this section.

2. i. Such charge shall be computed by the commissioner in accordance with the following formula: The amount of the surcharge shall equal the product of:

(A) the cost per pound of removing pollutants from the sewage in the sewer system, (B) a conversion factor and (C) the volume of sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged into the sewer system, multiplied by the sum of (A) the average concentration in parts per million by weight of suspended solids for sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged into the sewer system, in excess of three hundred fifty parts per million, and (B) the average concentration in parts per million by weight of the biochemical oxygen demand for sewage, industrial waste, or other wastes discharged into the sewer system in excess of three hundred parts per million. Such formula expressed in symbols shall be as follows:

$$Ds = C \times F \times V \times [(S.S. - 350) + (B.O.D. - 300)]$$

Ds =	amount of surcharge, in dollars;
C =	cost per pound (in dollars) of removing pollutants from the sewage discharged into the sewer system expressed to the nearest tenth of a cent;
F =	62.4 1,000,000, i.e., the factor for converting parts per million by weight to pounds per million cubic feet;
V =	volume, in cubic feet of sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged from such premises into the sewer system;
S.S. =	parts per million by weight of suspended solids in sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged from such premises into the sewer system;
350 =	maximum parts per million by weight of S.S. allowable in receivable industrial waste;
B.O.D. =	parts per million by weight of B.O.D. in the sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged from such premises into the sewer system;
300 =	maximum parts per million by weight of B.O.D. allowable in receivable industrial waste.

ii. In applying such formula the commissioner may use, as the figure representing the number of cubic feet of sewage discharged into the sewer system, (A) the amount of water supplied to the premises by the city or a private water company as shown upon the water meter if the premises are metered, or (B) if the premises are supplied with river water or water from private wells, the amount of water supplied from such sources as estimated by the commissioner, pursuant to paragraph four of subdivision b of section 24-514 of this chapter, or (C) if such premises are used for an industrial or commercial purpose of such a nature that the water supplied to the premises cannot be entirely discharged into the sewer system, the estimate of the amount of sewage discharged into the sewer system made by the commissioner, pursuant to the provisions of paragraph five of subdivision b of section 24-514 of the code, or (D) the number of cubic feet of sewage discharged into the sewer system as determined by measurements and samples taken at a manhole installed by the owner of the property served by the sewer system at his or her own expense in accordance with the terms and conditions of the permit issued by the commissioner pursuant to this method, or (E) a figure determined by the commissioner by any combination of the foregoing or by any other equitable method.

c. 1. The commissioner may require that a permit be obtained for the discharge whether direct or indirect into the sewer system or into any private sewer or drain emptying into the sewer system, of sewage, industrial wastes or other wastes, the characteristics of which do not conform to the characteristics prescribed for normal sewage in accordance with the provisions of paragraph ten of subdivision a of this section or for the discharge of any toxic substance or any other objectionable material or substance specified by the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to subdivision e of this section. The commissioner, in his or her discretion, may require a permit for all such discharges or for any class or category of such discharges. Any discharge pursuant to such permit shall be upon such terms and conditions as may be established by the commissioner in the issuance of such permit. Such terms and conditions may include requirements of a limitation upon the volume of sewage and the rate of flow permitted from the premises which are the subject of the permit, the installation and maintenance by the permittee at his or her own expense of facilities or equipment for intermittent or continuous measurement of sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged into the sewer system from such premises, the installation and maintenance by the permittee, at his or her own expense, of detention tanks or other facilities or equipment for reducing the maximum rates of discharge of sewage to such percentage of the twenty-four hour rate as may be required by the commissioner, the installation and maintenance by the permittee, at his or her own expense of such preliminary treatment facilities as may be required by the commissioner, the installation and maintenance by the permittee, at his or her own expense, of a suitable control manhole in the house sewer, if any, carrying such sewage; the submission to and approval by the commissioner of the plans for any of the facilities or equipment required to be installed and maintained by the permittee pursuant to such terms and conditions; and such other terms and conditions as may be necessary to protect the sewer system and carry out the provisions of this section. Such terms and conditions may also provide that subsequent to the commencement of operation of any preliminary treatment facilities required by the commissioner, periodic reports shall be made by the permittee to the commissioner, setting forth adequate data upon which the acceptability of the sewage, industrial waste or other wastes, after treatment, may be determined. A violation by the permittee of any term or condition of the permit shall constitute cause for revocation or suspension of the permit.

2. Whenever required to carry out the provisions of this section and the regulations promulgated pursuant to this section, the commissioner may require any person discharging directly or indirectly into the sewer system or into any private sewer or drain emptying into the sewer system to (i) establish and maintain such records, (ii) make such reports, (iii) install, use and maintain such monitoring equipment or methods (including where appropriate biological monitoring methods) (iv) sample such effluents (in accordance with such methods, at such locations, at such intervals and in such manner as the commissioner shall prescribe) and (v) provide such other information as he or she may reasonably require.

3. Any person discharging directly or indirectly into the sewer system or into any private sewer or drain emptying into the sewer system, shall be deemed to have consented and agreed that the commissioner or his or her deputies or such other officers or employees as are authorized by the commissioner may enter on the premises from which such discharge is emitted or in which any records required to be maintained under paragraph two are located and may at reasonable times have access to and copy any records, inspect any monitoring equipment or method required under paragraph two and sample any effluents discharged from the premises to the sewer system.

4. It shall be unlawful to make any false statement, representation or certification in any application, record, report, plan, or other document filed with or required to be maintained by the commissioner or to falsify, tamper with or knowingly render inaccurate any monitoring device or method required to be maintained by the commissioner.

d. Sampling of industrial wastes. Whenever sewage, industrial waste or other waste which has characteristics which do not conform to the characteristics prescribed for normal sewage or receivable industrial waste pursuant to paragraphs ten and eleven of subdivision a of this section, or which contains toxic substances or other material or substance excluded from the sewer system by the commissioner pursuant to this section is discharged into the sewer system from any premises, the commissioner shall have the power to take such samples and tests as may be necessary to determine the nature and concentration of such wastes, and shall have the power to reassess his or her findings by taking such additional samples or tests at any time or by periodic rechecks without notice to the owner or person discharging such wastes. Samples shall be taken and flow measurements made, whenever possible, at a common manhole into which all flows of sewage, industrial waste or other waste from such premises are combined. Such manhole shall be constructed by the owner of such premises, at his or her own expense, when directed by order of the commissioner.

Whenever the installation of such a manhole is impossible or impracticable, the owner of such premises shall construct and maintain at his or her own expense, any additional manholes required by order of the commissioner, for accurate measurement of all flow of sewage, industrial waste or other wastes discharged from such premises into the sewer system. Failure to comply with an order of the commissioner issued pursuant to this subdivision may subject the premises to temporary termination of water supply in accordance with the provisions of section 11-314 of the code.

e. Rules and regulations. 1. The commissioner shall have the power to promulgate rules and regulations:

(a) identifying toxic substances and regulating, restricting or prohibiting the discharge of such substances into the sewer system in amounts or concentrations which may cause any of the adverse effects described in paragraph thirteen of subdivision a of this section;

(b) regulating, restricting or prohibiting the discharge into the sewer system of any material or substance which is or may be detrimental or destructive to the sewer system or the treatment processes thereof or to the public health or welfare;

(c) specifying the characteristics and the minimum and maximum amounts thereof, in addition to those specified in paragraph eleven of subdivision a hereof, for receivable industrial waste;

(d) such additional rules and regulations as may be necessary to protect personnel, the sewer system and the treatment process thereof and the receiving waters; and

(e) regulating the amount and concentration of substances contained in industrial waste discharged directly or indirectly into the sewer system to achieve compliance with effluent limitations imposed upon city discharges to receiving waters by federal or state law or regulation or a discharge permit issued pursuant thereto.

2. The commissioner shall by rule or regulation adopt the standards, prohibitions and requirements promulgated under the federal water pollution control act, commonly referred to as the clean water act, as amended, except where such standards, prohibitions and requirements are less stringent than those which are established by the commissioner pursuant to paragraph one or three of this subdivision.

3. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of paragraphs one and two of this subdivision, the commissioner may order any person discharging a toxic substance directly or indirectly into the sewer system or into any private sewer or drain emptying into the sewer system to reduce the amount or concentration of such toxic substance to a level which the commissioner determines to be economically achievable by the discharger notwithstanding that such level is lower than that which is prescribed in the regulations adopted pursuant to paragraph one or two or that the discharge is not regulated under such provision. Within twenty days after the issuance of an order by the commissioner, any person affected by such order may request a hearing before the commissioner. The commissioner may suspend, revoke or modify the order.

f. Cooperation by private persons, water companies and public agencies. The commissioner may require every person who owns or occupies real property within the city and every private water company supplying water to property within the city, to furnish him or her with such information as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. The commissioner shall have the power to hold hearings and to subpoena any such persons or company, or any officer, employee or agent of any such company, and direct the production of books and papers in order to carry out the provisions of this section. Every such person, water company or public official or municipal agency, officer or employee shall cooperate with the commissioner in carrying out the provisions of this section and shall comply with all rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this section.

g. Payment and enforcement of sewer surcharges. All surcharges imposed hereunder shall be due and payable at the times and in the manner provided in chapters three and four of title eleven of the code with respect to the payment of sewer rents based upon the metered supply of water. Such sewer surcharges shall constitute a lien upon the real property served by the sewage system and such lien shall be prior and superior to every other lien or claim except the lien of an existing tax, water rent, sewer rent or local assessment. Such sewer surcharges shall be collected and the liens thereof may be foreclosed in the manner provided in chapters three and four of title eleven of the code. The revenues derived from the sewer surcharges imposed hereunder, including penalties and interest thereon shall be paid into the sewer fund established pursuant to section 24-514 of the code and shall be used in the manner and for the purposes provided therein.

Administrative Code of the City of New York

CHAPTER 5 DRAINAGE AND SEWER CONTROL

a. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the commissioner of environmental protection and the environmental control board shall enforce the provisions of sections 24-504 through 24-522 and 24-523 of this chapter and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto. Such commissioner and board shall have the power to issue such orders as may be provided for therein and such additional orders as may be necessary for the enforcement of such provisions.

b. 1. Whenever the commissioner of environmental protection has reasonable cause to believe that a discharge in violation of the provisions of sections 24-504 through 24-522 and 24-523 of this chapter or any order, rule or regulation issued by the board or commissioner or in violation of the conditions of any permit issued pursuant to such provisions creates or may create an imminent danger to the sewer system or to the public health or to the life or safety of persons, he or she may issue a cease and desist order requiring any person who owns, leases, operates, controls or supervises any building, structure, facility or installation from which the unlawful discharge is emitted to take such action as may be necessary to halt or prevent such discharge.

2. If service of the order cannot be made personally because such person cannot be located at such time then service may be made by delivering a copy to a person of suitable age and discretion at the residence or place of business of the person sought to be served. If service cannot be made personally or by such delivery to a person of suitable age and discretion because of inability to locate or to obtain the name or address of such person at such time, service may be made by conspicuously posting a copy of such order upon the property to which it relates. The posting of such order shall be sufficient notice of such order to all persons having a duty in relation thereto under the provisions of this subdivision.

3. If the order is not complied with or so far complied with as such commissioner may regard as reasonable, within the time specified therein such commissioner may act to halt or prevent such discharge by:

i. sealing, blocking or otherwise inactivating any equipment, facility, or device;

ii. terminating the water supply to the premises;

iii. sealing, blocking or otherwise inactivating any private sewer or drain emptying directly or indirectly into the sewer system;

iv. any other means or method that is reasonable under the circumstances. For such purpose the commissioner of environmental protection or his or her deputies or such other officers or employees as are designated by the commissioner may enter on any public or private property.

4. Any person affected by such an order may make written application to the environmental control board for a hearing. Such hearing shall be provided, pursuant to the rules and regulations of the board, and shall be held within forty-eight hours after the receipt of such application. The board may suspend, modify or terminate such order.

d. 1. In the case of any continued or knowing violation of any of the provisions of sections 24-504 through 24-522 and 24-523 of this chapter or any order, rule or regulation issued by the environmental control board or commissioner of environmental protection pursuant thereto or of the conditions of any permit issued pursuant to such provisions or where the board finds that the violation of any of such provisions or of the conditions of any such permit presents or may present a danger to the environment or threatens to interfere with the operation of the sewer system, the board after notice and the opportunity for a hearing in accordance with the rules and regulations of the board, may issue a cease and desist order requiring any person who owns, leases, operates, controls or supervises any building, structure, facility or installation to cease and desist from any activity or process which causes or is conducted so as to cause such violation within the time specified in such order.

2. Such order may provide that if the order is not complied with or so far complied with as the commissioner of environmental protection may regard as reasonable within the time specified therein, such commissioner may take such action as shall be specified therein, including but not limited to:

i. sealing, blocking or inactivating any equipment, facility or device;

ii. terminating the water supply to the premises;

iii. sealing, blocking or inactivating any private sewer or drain emptying directly or indirectly into the sewer system.

For such purpose the commissioner of environmental protection or his or her deputies or such other officers or employees as are designated by such commissioner may enter on any public or private property.

e. If the respondent fails to comply with any order issued by the environmental control board or commissioner of environmental protection or with the conditions of any permit, or such board or commissioner otherwise deems it necessary, the corporation counsel, acting in the name of the city, may maintain an action or proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction to compel compliance with or restrain by injuction the violation of any order or permit issued by such board or commissioner.

f. Any person who violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of sections 24-504 through 24-522 and 24-523 of this chapter or any order, rule or regulation issued by the environmental control board or commissioner of environmental protection pursuant thereto or with the conditions of any permit issued pursuant thereto shall be liable for a civil penalty not exceeding ten thousand dollars for each violation, provided that this subdivision shall not apply to subdivision c of section 24-509 or subdivisions a and b of section 24-521. In the case of a continuing violation each day's continuance shall be a separate and distinct offense. The environmental control board shall have the power to impose such civil penalties. A proceeding to impose such penalties shall be commenced by the service of a notice of violation returnable to such board. Such board, after a hearing as provided by the rules and regulations of the board, shall have the power to enforce its final decisions and orders imposing such civil penalties as if they were money judgments pursuant to subdivision d of section one thousand forty-nine-a of the New York city charter. A civil penalty imposed by the board may also be collected in an action brought in the name of the city in any court of competent jurisdiction. The board, in its discretion, may, within the limits set forth in this subdivision, establish a schedule of civil penalties indicating the minimum and maximum penalty for each separate offense.

g. In addition to the civil penalties set forth in subdivision f of this section, any person who knowingly violates or fails to comply with any provision of sections 24-504 through 24-522 or section 24-523 of this chapter or any order, rule or regulation issued by the commissioner of environmental protection or environmental control board pursuant thereto or with the conditions of any permit issued pursuant thereto shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred fifty nor more than ten thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days, or both for each offense, provided that this subdivision shall not apply to subdivision c of section 24-509 or subdivisions a and b of section 24-521. In the case of a continuing violation each day's continuance shall be a separate and distinct offense. In addition to its application to any other person, the fine provided for in this paragraph shall be deemed a special fine for a corporation within the meaning of section 80.10 of the penal law of the state of New York.

h. Any person who violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of sections 24-504 through 24-522 and 24-523 of this chapter or any order, rule or regulation issued pursuant thereto or with the conditions of any permit issued pursuant thereto shall be liable to the city for any expense, loss or damage suffered by the city by reason of such violation.

i. Unless otherwise provided in this section, service of any notice or order required by this section may be made either personally or by mail addressed to the last known address of the person to be served.

(a) Definitions. As used in this section:

(1) "Building combined sewer" means a building sewer intended to convey all types of wastewater, subject to certain restrictions;

(2) "Building sewer" means a sewer consisting of the part of the horizontal piping of a drainage system that extends from the end of a building house drain, as defined in section P100.00 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, to a street sewer or to another point of disposal. Building combined sewers and building storm sewers are types of building sewers;

(3) "Building storm sewer" means the part of the horizontal piping of a storm water drainage system that extends from a building house storm drain, as defined in section P100.00 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, to a street storm sewer, a street combined sewer or another point of disposal;

(4) "Catch basin" means a storm sewer inlet connected to a storm sewer or a combined sewer;

(5) "Development" means a tract of land which has been subdivided into two or more lots, whether or not such tract has been developed as by the installation of any utilities or the construction of any streets or buildings or other structures;

(6) "Lot" means a portion or parcel of land considered as a unit; a zoning lot;

(7) "Owner" means a person in whom legal or equitable title to property or premises is vested, a mortgagee or vendee in possession of premises, as assignee of rents, a receiver of premises, or a person listed as owner or agent for an owner on the records as to real property ownership maintained by the bureau of city collections of the department of finance unless such person establishes that such records are erroneous or, if claiming that he or she is an agent of the owner, furnishes the identity of the owner;

(8) "Person" means a natural person, company, partnership, corporation, association, governmental body or other legal entity, including any individual or entity acting in a representative capacity;

(9) "Private" means not public;

(10) "Public" means owned by the city and intended for use by the public, subject to restrictions which the city or agencies thereof may impose;

(11) "Storm water" means rainwater or surface water;

(12) "Street combined sewer" means a street sewer which is intended to receive the discharge of all types of wastewater, subject to certain restrictions, from one or more building sewers and catch basins and to convey such wastewater to an intercepting sewer, a private sewage disposal system or some other point of disposal;

(13) "Street sewer" means a sewer located in the bed of a street or elsewhere which is intended to receive the discharge of all or certain types of wastewater from one or more building sewers and, in some cases, from catch basins, and to convey such wastewater to points of disposal. Street combined sewers and street storm sewers are types of street sewers;

(14) "Street storm sewer" means a street sewer which is intended to receive the discharge of storm water from one or more building storm sewers and catch basins and to convey such storm water to a point of disposal; and

(15) "Tidal creek" means any creek where the level of water rises and falls with tidal action, or would do so if not impeded by artificial structures including but not limited to tide gates.

(b) Required conveyance of storm water for off-site disposal when public sewers into which discharge is feasible are located within five hundred feet of property. If the commissioner determines that a public street storm sewer or a public street combined sewer is located within five hundred feet, measured along a street, alley or right-of-way, from any point on the boundary of a development or of a lot which is not within a development into which it would be feasible, as described in subdivision (g) of this section, to discharge storm water from such development or lot:

(1) An owner of a lot within such a development or of such a lot not within a development, who is constructing or causing to be constructed on such a lot a single one-family or two-family detached or semidetached building, may dispose of the storm water falling or coming to rest within such lot which is required, by paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section P110.2 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, to be conveyed to a boundary of such lot abutting a street for off-site disposal, by causing such storm water to be discharged through an under-the-sidewalk drain or across a sidewalk onto a paved street improved in accordance with the requirements of the department of transportation and containing curbs; provided that catch basins adequate to receive such storm water are located, or are installed in accordance with the requirements of this code and of the department, within five hundred feet from the farthest point of storm water discharge onto such street; provided further that the commissioner determines that such means of storm water disposal is feasible, as described in subdivision (g) of this section, and also provided that the commissioner of buildings agrees with such determination.

or causing to be constructed a building on such lot shall dispose of the storm water falling or coming to rest on such lot which is required, by paragraph three of subdivision (b) of section P110.2 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, to be conveyed to a boundary of such lot abutting a street for off-site disposal, except as provided in paragraph one of this subdivision, by conveying such storm water, together with all storm water falling or coming to rest on all streets and other paved areas outside of such lot constructed or altered in connection with the construction of such building for the primary purpose of improving vehicular or pedestrian access thereto, by sewers, constructed in accordance with requirements in subdivision (e) of this section and elsewhere in this code and of the department, to such public sewer; provided that no sewage shall be discharged into any such public street storm sewer. If installation of a controlled flow storm water system, in accordance with the requirements of section P110.6 of this reference standard, is necessary to make it feasible to discharge such storm water into such public sewer, the owner of the lot shall install such a system.

(c) Required conveyance of storm water for off-site disposal, prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, when no public sewers into which discharge is feasible are located within five hundred feet of property. The requirements set forth in this subdivision shall apply to the construction of all new buildings for which new building permits have been filed prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four. If the commissioner determines that no public street storm sewer or public street combined sewer is located within five hundred feet, measured along a street, alley or right-of-way, from any point on the boundary of a development or of a lot not contained in a development into which it would be feasible to discharge storm water from such development or such lot:

(1) An owner of a lot within such a development or of such a lot not within a development who is constructing or causing to be constructed on such lot a one-family, two-family or three-family building, where more than thirty percent of the area being developed, exclusive of streets, shall have no structures and shall be unpaved, but which area may have not more than twenty percent of the floor area of all the structures in the development devoted to nonresidential uses, may dispose of all or some of the storm water falling or coming to rest on such lot which, pursuant to paragraph three of subdivision (c) of section P110.2 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, is conveyed to a boundary of the lot abutting a street, by discharging such storm water through an under-thesidewalk drain or across a sidewalk onto a paved street improved in accordance with the requirements of the department of transportation and containing curbs, provided that:

(A) such person provides for the installation of all street storm sewers or street combined sewers and catch basins, constructed in accordance with the requirements in subdivision (e) of this section and elsewhere in this code and of the department, such that a catch basin adequate to receive such storm water, together with all storm water falling or coming to rest on all streets and other paved areas outside of such lot constructed or altered in connection with the construction of such building for the primary purpose of improving vehicular or pedestrian access thereto, shall be located within five hundred feet from the farthest point of storm water discharge onto such street, and such that the street storm sewers or street combined sewers extend from such catch basin to a point of disposal described in paragraph three of this subdivision; the requirements of this subparagraph shall not apply if private catch basins and sewers meeting all the requirements of this subparagraph are already present; and

(B) the commissioner determines that such means of storm sewer disposal is feasible, as described in subdivision (g) of this section, and the commissioner of buildings agrees with such determination.

(2) An owner of a development which shall only contain buildings described in paragraph four of subdivision (c) of section P110.2 of reference standard RS-16 of this code who conveys storm water falling or coming to rest within such development to a boundary of such development, pursuant to such paragraph, or an owner of a lot, whether or not within a development, who is constructing or causing to be constructed on such lot a new building and who is required to convey storm water falling or coming to rest within such lot to a boundary of such lot abutting a street, pursuant to paragraph five of subdivision (c) of section P110.2 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, shall convey such storm water, together with storm water falling or coming to rest on all streets and other paved areas outside of such development or lot which are constructed or altered in connection with the construction of such buildings or building for the primary purpose of improving vehicular or pedestrian access thereto, from such boundary by sewers, constructed in accordance with the requirements in subdivision (e) of this section and elsewhere in this code and of the department, to a point of disposal described in paragraph three of this subdivision.

(3) Points of disposal for storm water disposed of pursuant to this subdivision are:

(A) the New York Harbor, or a point on a tidal creek acceptable to the commissioner as an adequate storm water outlet; provided that only building storm sewers and, if necessary, street storm sewers are constructed and that no sewage is discharged at such a point of disposal; and provided that such outlets shall only be used in compliance with applicable provisions of law;

(B) a public street storm sewer or public street combined sewer, regardless of its distance from the property, to which the commissioner determines that conveyance of storm water is feasible, as described in subdivision (g) of this section, provided that no sewage shall be discharged into a street storm sewer; or

(C) an existing private street storm sewer or private street combined sewer to which the commissioner determines that conveyance of storm water is feasible, as described in subdivision (g) of this section; provided that such street sewer connects with a public street sewer or, if it is a private storm sewer, discharges directly into the New York harbor, or into a point on a tidal creek acceptable to the commissioner as an adequate storm water outlet, in accordance with applicable provisions of law; and provided further that no sewage shall be discharged into a street storm sewer.

(d) Required conveyance of storm water for off-site disposal, on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, when no public sewers into which discharge is feasible are located within five hundred feet of property. The requirements set forth in this subdivision shall apply to the construction of all new buildings for which new building permits have been filed on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four. If the commissioner determines that no public street storm sewer or public street combined sewer is located within five hundred feet, measured along a street, alley or right-of-way, from any point on the boundary of a development or of a lot not contained in a development into which it would be feasible to discharge storm water from such development or such lot, an owner of a lot within such a development or of such a lot not within a development who is constructing or causing to be constructed a building on such lot shall dispose of storm water falling or coming to rest within such lot, together with storm water falling or coming to rest on all streets and other paved areas outside of such lot which are constructed or altered in connection with the construction of such building for the primary purpose of improving vehicular or pedestrian access thereto, by means acceptable to the commissioner and the commissioner of buildings, including but not limited to those set forth in section P110.13 of this reference standard; provided, however, that such persons shall not be required to construct street storm sewers or street combined sewers for distances greater than seven hundred fifty feet.

(e) Maximum required capacity for street storm sewers or street combined sewers required by this section. The commissioner may require an owner of a lot or a development who is required by this section to construct street storm sewers or street combined sewers to construct such sewers with a capacity not to exceed twenty-five percent above and beyond the capacity which the commissioner determines is needed for the disposal of storm water falling or coming to rest on such property together with storm water falling or coming to rest on all streets and other paved areas outside of such property which are constructed or altered in connection with the construction of a building or buildings on such property for the primary purpose of improving vehicular or pedestrian access thereto. The department reserves the right to construct catch basins connected to such sewers at the cost and expense of the city, to alleviate flooding or ponding conditions, provided that the commissioner determines that the capacity of such sewers shall not be exceeded.

(f) Repair of defects in catch basins and sewers required. Any owner of property who causes any catch basin or any sewer which shall lie outside of such property to be constructed pursuant to subdivision (b), (c) or (d) of this section shall cause all defects in such catch basin or sewer and all faults in its installation to be repaired for a period of two years after it has been installed, immediately after the department orders such person to do so.

(g) Feasibility of discharging storm water into a street storm sewer or a street combined sewer. The commissioner shall determine that the discharge of storm water into a street storm sewer or a street combined sewer pursuant to this section is feasible if he or she finds that:

(1) the sewer is of adequate capacity to receive all such storm water or would be adequate to receive it if the owner of property installed controlled flow storm water systems, in accordance with the requirements of section P110.6 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, to restrict the maximum anticipated storm water flow to a level set by the commissioner;

(2) the sewer is in adequate physical condition to receive such storm water;

(3) no physical obstacle which would make conveyance of such storm water to the sewer impracticable exists between the sewer and the boundaries of the development or lot from which such storm water shall be discharged;

(4) conveyance of such storm water to the sewer is not impracticable because of the elevation of the sewer in relation to the development or lot from which such storm water shall be discharged; (5) the sewer is located in the same drainage area as all or most of the development or lot from which such storm water shall be discharged; and

(6) no other factor reasonably related to the conveyance of such storm water from such development or lot to the sewer would make the discharge of such storm water into the sewer impracticable or undesirable as a proper means of storm water disposal.

(h) Time by which construction of the part of the storm water drainage system required by this section shall be completed. The part of the storm water drainage system for property required by this section shall be completed prior to the issuance of a certificate of occupancy by the department of buildings for, and actual occupancy of, the building in connection with which such storm water drainage system is being constructed.

(i) Performance bond, license and insurance required. If an owner of property is required to construct or repair defects in catch basins or sewers which shall lie outside of such property, in connection with the construction of a new building pursuant to this section, he or she shall provide the department with:

(1) a performance bond or other security satisfactory to the department and approved as to form by the law department of the city for the full cost, as estimated by the department, of performing all such construction and repair work;

(2) any license or other written instrument which the commissioner or the law department of the city may reasonably request which gives the department, its agents and contractors and the surety for a performance bond described in paragraph one of this subdivision the legal right to enter private property to perform such construction and repair work, pursuant to the terms of the performance bond or in accordance with the conditions of acceptance of other security described in paragraph one of this subdivision, and the legal right to connect to, to extend or to discharge storm water into any private sewer authorized as a point of disposal pursuant to paragraph three of subdivision (c) of this section, in the event that the owner of property fails to do so as required by this section; and

(3) insurance of a kind and in an amount which the commissioner and the law department of the city deem satisfactory to insure the city fully for all risks of loss, damage to property or injury to or death of persons to whomever occurring arising out of or in connection with the performance of such sewer construction and repair work.

(j) Contractual obligations of the city not abrogated. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to abrogate or contravene any contractual obligation of the city to construct storm water drainage systems or parts thereof. The requirements of subdivisions (b), (c), (d), (f) and (i) of this section shall be inapplicable to an owner of property insofar as they relate to any construction work required to be performed by the city pursuant to such a contractual obligation.

(k) Determination by the board of standards and appeals. Any determination made by the board of standards and appeals with reference to the disposal of storm water, pursuant to the provisions of section 27-160 and section P110.2 of reference standard RS-16 of this code, shall be binding upon the department for the purposes of the enforcement and administration of this section.

b. Development of sustainable stormwater management plan. 1. The office shall develop a proposed and final sustainable stormwater management plan. Such plan shall identify and provide for the implementation throughout the city, on both public and private properties, of efficient, effective, and feasible technological and non-technological source control measures to reduce the volume of water flowing into the city's sewer system and the pollution loadings carried by stormwater into the city's waterbodies. The overall goals of such plan shall be to reduce the volume of stormwater flowing into the city's sewer system, to improve water quality in the city's waterbodies and to protect the public health through the restoration and protection of the ecological health of the city's waterbodies, and to enhance use and enjoyment of the city's waterbodies for recreational activities.

2. No later than October 1, 2008, the office shall submit a draft sustainable stormwater management plan that meets the requirements of this section to the mayor, speaker of the council, and the public for review and comment. Submission to the public may be made by posting a draft plan on the internet.

3. Two months after the release of the draft plan, but no later than December 1, 2008, the office shall submit a final sustainable stormwater management plan that meets the requirements of this section to the mayor, speaker of the council, and the public. Such plan shall be reviewed and revised by the office as necessary to achieve such plan's goals; provided that such review must occur at least once every four years. Any such revisions and the reasons for such revisions should be clearly indicated in such plan.

4. No later than October 1, 2010, and no later than October 1 of every second year thereafter, the office shall submit a report to the mayor, the speaker of the council, and the public, which shall include, but not be limited to, the implementation status of the measures included in the plan prepared pursuant to this subdivision, including a quantitative assessment, where susceptible to quantification, and a qualitative assessment of the progress made toward achieving each of the milestones identified in such plan and, where revised, an explanation for such revision.

(vi) amending provisions in the building code, housing maintenance code, zoning resolution, and other applicable federal, state and local laws, rules and regulations applicable to all new or existing public or private construction projects or property, to require the implementation of source control measures and to institute quantitative performance standards for the minimum amount of stormwater that must be retained, detained, infiltrated, and/or reused on-site;

(vii) using new and existing public open space, public building roofs, parks, and plazas for detention, retention,

(ix) supplementing high-level storm sewers with source control measures to reduce stormwater runoff volume and/or pollutant loadings at sites where high-level storm sewers are built, have been proposed, or are under consideration;

(x) promoting water conservation;

(xi) adapting ongoing ambient water quality monitoring programs to provide for regular collection of samples in the immediate vicinity of combined sewer outfalls during or immediately following combined sewer overflow events; and

(xii) encouraging the development of existing and new local markets, job training, and employment opportunities to support the implementation and maintenance of source control measures.

2. For purposes of the assessments carried out pursuant to paragraph one of this subdivision benefits considered shall be quantified to the greatest extent practicable and shall include, but not be limited to (i) water quality benefits to particular waterbodies, stormwater capture rates, reductions in combined sewer overflow discharge volumes, the potential savings in hard infrastructure, construction and maintenance costs, and reduction of the city's operating expenses for sewage treatment and (ii) non-water quality related environmental, public health, aesthetic, and economic benefits, such as those associated with cooling and cleansing the air, reducing energy demand, sequestering and reducing emissions of greenhouse gases, beautifying neighborhoods, providing habitat for birds and other wildlife, and developing new local markets that can stimulate job growth.

e. Public input. 1. The office shall solicit public input during the development of the plan prepared pursuant to subdivision b of this section. Opportunities for such input shall include, at a minimum, (i) a thirty day comment period immediately following the release of the draft plan pursuant to this section, at which time the office shall consider all comments received on such plan and (ii) quarterly public forums at which representatives of the office shall provide updates on the office's progress in preparing such plan and invite feedback from participants. The office shall respond to all substantive comments received pursuant to subparagraph (i) of paragraph 1 of this subdivision.

2. The office shall involve the public and organizations and members of the public with relevant knowledge and expertise in the implementation of the measures included in such plan.

f. Each management report and preliminary management report submitted to the council by the mayor pursuant to section 12 of the New York city charter shall include, with respect to each agency or office identified in paragraphs 3 and 4 of subdivision c of this section, quantitative indicators of progress towards implementing the measures included in the plan prepared pursuant to subdivision b of this section.

HISTORICAL NOTE

1. Provisions of L.L. 5/2008:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. The Council finds that New York City receives, on average, 44 inches of precipitation a year, more than most other major United States cities. The combined sanitary and storm sewer system is designed to divert stormwater runoff during certain precipitation events to ambient surface waters so that the flow to wastewater treatment plants does not exceed their capacity or cause the backup of sewer water into residences and onto streets. As a result of combined sewer overflows, an average of approximately 27 billion gallons of combined sewage and stormwater are discharged, untreated, into the City's ambient surface waters in a typical year.

It has been reported that such combined sewer overflows ("CSOs") introduce significant amounts of bacteria such as fecal coliform and other pollutants such as nitrogen, into the City's waterbodies, posing a danger to the public health, damaging the ecology, and making some of such waterbodies unsuitable for many recreational activities. In portions of the City where separate sewers convey sanitary sewage and stormwater, untreated stormwater discharge carries significant amounts of bacteria and other pollutants, as does stormwater that by-passes the sewer system altogether and flows directly into the City's waterbodies.

Source control strategies that decrease the amount of stormwater entering the wastewater treatment system are valuable tools to reduce the occurrence and volume of CSOs and other stormwater discharges. Effective source control strategies also provide other benefits, such as decreased energy consumption and economic benefits associated with supporting local markets for source control strategies. The Council finds that the development and implementation of a sustainable stormwater management plan is vital to improve water quality in the City and thereby better protect the public health through the restoration and protection of the ecological health of the City's waterbodies and to the enhanced use and enjoyment of the City's waterbodies for recreational activities.

1. Provisions of L.L. 71/2005:

Section 1. Legislative findings and intent. In October of 1972, the United States Congress established the Gateway National Recreation Area ("Gateway") as part of an effort to bring the National Park System and its ethic of preserving and protecting outstanding resources closer to major urban areas.

Gateway encompasses the largest collection of natural systems, wildlife habitats, historic resources, and recreational opportunities in the New York City/New Jersey metropolitan area. It also encompasses numerous sites of critical natural and cultural importance to the health of local ecosystems, to the life of migratory and native species and to the military, navigational and aviation history of the region and the nation, especially in the context of attendant defenses of New York Harbor.

According to the National Park Service (NPS), Gateway is the only extensive public natural area in the New York City region. The Jamaica Bay Unit is one of several units, consisting of lands, waters, marshes and submerged lands, comprising Gateway. The Jamaica Bay Wildlife Refuge ("Refuge"), established by the City of New York in 1948, is located within the Jamaica Bay Unit. The Refuge, a State and nationally recognized important bird area, encompasses 2,500 acres within the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens. The only wildlife refuge in the National Park System, it provides a shelter for rare and endangered birds and a variety of habitats for more than 325 kinds of waterfront and shorebirds. It is also a critical stop-over area along the Eastern Flyway migration route and is one of the best and world renowned bird-watching locations in the western hemisphere.

Jamaica Bay is one of the largest and most productive coastal ecosystems in the State of New York, as well as within the Northeastern United States, and is an important recreational destination for local, national and international visitors. It contains approximately 13,000 acres of surface waters, including the largest tidal wetland complex in New York State. These wetlands provide benefits such as natural water quality improvement, flood protection and shoreline erosion control for the commercial and residential areas in and around the Bay in Brooklyn and Queens. Unfortunately, construction and development within the Jamaica Bay watershed has often been conducted without consideration of potential adverse impacts on the Bay and sometimes without notice to all interested governmental agencies, civic groups and other interested parties. One such governmental agency is the NPS, which is the primary steward of the Bay, itself, and with whom, among many other agencies, it is critical for the City to collaborate in order to protect the Bay.

Jamaica Bay's future as an oasis of great ecological importance is in severe jeopardy due to the fact that thousands of acres of the Bay's marshy islands, which serve as nesting and feeding areas for an abundance of birds and other wildlife, are rapidly and mysteriously vanishing. Scientists predict that the Jamaica Bay marshlands will completely vanish in less than twenty years if the cause of their deterioration and a solution to their preservation are not found.

This legislation would require the New York City Department of Environmental Protection to create a watershed protection plan for the watershed/sewershed of Jamaica Bay, and would create a Jamaica Bay watershed protection plan advisory committee. The Council finds that such watershed planning is vital to the future of Jamaica Bay. This legislation establishes the initial pathway towards restoring and maintaining the water quality and ecological integrity of the Bay by comprehensively assessing threats to the Bay and coordinating environmental remediation and protection efforts in a focused and cost-effective manner. Watershed protection planning for Jamaica Bay is an efficient and effective means of promoting the sustainability of the Bay's environment, the economy associated with the Bay, and the linkages between the two.

Section 1. Declaration of legislative intent and findings. The council finds that the release or threatened release of hazardous substances into the environment presents a substantial danger to the public health, welfare and the environment. The enactment by the state legislature of a plan for the management of hazardous wastes has not reduced the need for or authority of the city to respond to emergencies caused by hazardous substance releases. The council declares that the response measures taken by the city must be effective and thorough so as to prevent injury to human, plant and animal life and damage to property and the environment.

Therefore, the council hereby determines that the department of environmental protection should specifically be authorized to respond to emergencies caused by releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances into the environment. The council provides herein that responsible persons shall be jointly and severally liable for all lawful response and remediation costs incurred by any city agency authorized by law to respond to such emergencies, including but not limited to the departments of environmental protection, health and sanitation and the police and fire departments. It shall be the policy of the city to seek the recovery of such costs in the first instance from the persons whose actions contributed most to the release or threatened release of hazardous substances into the environmental. The council intends that this local law shall not in any way alter or limit the functions, powers and duties of the department of health, including but not limited to its authority regarding nuisance abatement and declarations of imminent peril.

It is hereby declared to be the public policy of the city to respond to emergencies caused by releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances into the environment so as to preserve, protect and improve the public health, safety and welfare, and to prevent injury to human, plant and animal life and property. It is the policy of the city that every person is entitled to an environment free of hazardous substances that are detrimental to life, health, and enjoyment of property. It is hereby declared that the release or threat of release of hazardous substances into the environment is a menace to the health, safety and welfare of the people of the city and may cause extensive damage to the environment and to property. This chapter shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes described in this section. Nothing herein shall be construed to abridge the powers of the board of health or the department of health and mental hygiene to engage in any of their authorized activities.

CHAPTER 6* HAZARDOUS14 SUBSTANCE EMERGENCIES

When used in this chapter:

a. "disposal" means the placing of any hazardous substance into or on any land or water so that such hazardous substance or any constituent thereof may be released into the environment.

b. "hazardous substance" means each listed hazardous substance or any other chemical substance which when released into the environment may present a substantial danger to the public health or welfare or the environment.

c. "listed hazardous substance" means any substance listed in accordance with section 24-609.

d. "person" means any individual, trust, firm, corporation, joint stock company, association, partnership, consortium, joint venture, commercial entity or governmental entity.

e. "release" means any spilling, leaking, pumping, pouring, emitting, emptying, discharging, injecting, escaping, leaching, dumping or disposing into the environment, or the abandonment of a container or containers containing hazardous substance or substances.

f. "response measures" include actions taken by a city agency or ordered to be taken by a city agency: (1) to prevent, minimize or mitigate the release of hazardous substances so that they do not migrate to, or in any other manner, cause or threaten to cause substantial danger to the public health or welfare or the environment, (2) to clean up or remove released hazardous substances from the environment, and (3) which are necessary and appropriate to protect the public health or welfare or the environment from an immediate and substantial danger caused by a release or a substantial threat of a release of a hazardous substance into the environment, including but not limited to security measures to protect the public.

g. "responsible person" means

(1) any owner, operator, lessee, occupant or tenant, other than a residential lessee, occupant or tenant, of property at the time there is a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of a hazardous substance from such property into the environment or at the time of any response measures implemented in connection with any emergency involving such release or threat of release, provided that if such property is comprised of an owner-occupied residential building consisting of six or fewer dwelling units used exclusively for residential purposes, an owner of such property shall be deemed to be a "responsible person" for purposes of this paragraph, only if the willful, knowing, reckless or negligent acts or omissions of such owner caused or substantially contributed to such release or threat of release, and further provided that a federal or state chartered and regulated financial institution which has received title to the property through abandonment, foreclosure, a deed in lieu of foreclosure, or through a judicial or bankruptcy order shall not be deemed to be a "responsible person" for purposes of this paragraph, unless (i) willful, knowing, reckless or negligent acts or omissions of such person caused or substantially contributed to such release or threat of release, or (ii) the title was received in order to secure the underlying credit extension which had been entered into for the purpose of assisting the responsible person in avoidance of the provisions of this chapter, or

(2) any person whose acts or omissions caused or substantially contributed to a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of a hazardous substance into the environment, provided that where there is a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of a hazardous substance into the environment from property used for residential purposes, a person using such property as a residence and any invitee or licensee of such person who enters such property, other than an invitee or licensee engaged in a business involving the use or transport of any hazardous substance, shall be deemed to be a "responsible person" for purposes of this paragraph, only if the willful, knowing, reckless or negligent acts or omissions of such person or invitee caused or substantially contributed to such release or threat of release, or

(3) any owner, operator, lessee, occupant or tenant of the property at the time of disposal of any hazardous substance thereon, who had caused, authorized or permitted such hazardous substance to be so disposed, where there is a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of such hazardous substance into the environment, or

(4) any person who, pursuant to contractual arrangement, accepts or has accepted any hazardous substance for transport, transports such hazardous substance and there is a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of such hazardous substance into the environment, or

(5) any person who by contract, agreement, or otherwise arranged for disposal or treatment or arranged with a transporter for transport for disposal or treatment of a hazardous substance owned or possessed by such person, and there is a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of such hazardous substance into the environment; provided, however, that no person, who is an entity independent from an otherwise responsible person, authorized by the commissioner of environmental protection to implement response measures at the site of a release, or a threat of a release, of a hazardous substance into the environment, shall be deemed to be a "responsible person" solely on the basis of any authorized response measures attempted or implemented by such person at such site, unless such person's willful, knowing, reckless or negligent acts or omissions caused or substantially contributed to a release, or a substantial threat of a release, of a hazardous substance into the environment.

h. "treatment" means any method, technique, or process, including neutralization, designed to change the physical, chemical, or biological character or composition of any hazardous substance so as to neutralize such substance or so as to render such substance nonhazardous, safer for transport, amenable for recovery, amenable for storage, or reduced in volume. Such term includes any activity or processing designed to change the physical form or chemical composition of a hazardous substance so as to render it non- hazardous.

a. Each responsible person shall be jointly and severally liable without regard to fault, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, for the total cost incurred by the city for response measures implemented in connection with any emergency involving a release or substantial threat of a release of a hazardous substance into the environment.

b. In any action brought by the city to recover its cost for response measures implemented in connection with any emergency involving a release or substantial threat of a release of a hazardous substance into the environment, it shall be an affirmative defense that the release or threat of release of a hazardous substance into the environment was caused solely by,

(1) an act of God;

(2) an act of war;

(3) an act or omission of a third party, other than an employee or agent of the defendant or a party whose act or omission occurs in connection with a direct or indirect contractual relationship with the defendant, if the defendant establishes by a preponderance of the evidence that (A) he exercised due care with respect to the hazardous substance concerned, taking into consideration the characteristics of such hazardous substance, in light of all relevant facts and circumstances, and (B) he took precautions against foreseeable acts or omissions of any such third party and the consequences that could foreseeably result from such acts or omissions; or

(4) any combination of paragraphs one, two or three.

c. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to impair any remedy that a responsible person, or a guarantor of a responsible person, has or would have, by reason of indemnification, contribution, subrogation or any other lawful basis against any person, including any action to recover costs incurred for response measures.

d. Recovery by the city for response measures resulting from a release expressly authorized or permitted by applicable federal, state or local law shall be pursuant to existing law in lieu of this section. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to affect or modify in any way the obligations or liability of any person under any other applicable federal, state or local law, including common law, for damages, injury, or loss resulting from, or for response measures implemented in connection with, any emergency involving a release or a substantial threat of a release of a hazardous substance into the environment.

a. All costs incurred by the city, including but not limited to the costs of the departments of environmental protection, health and sanitation, and the police and fire departments, for response measures implemented pursuant to this chapter or any other applicable provision of law shall be a debt recoverable from each responsible person and a lien upon the real property of or at which an owner, operator, lessee, occupant or tenant is a responsible person and at which such response measures were implemented.

b. The mayor shall designate the agency or agencies which shall receive for filing the certificate of expenses prepared in accordance with section 24-606 and shall keep a record of all such costs incurred. Such records shall be accessible to the public during business hours. Within thirty days after the issuance of a purchase or work order for any response measure such order shall be entered on the records of the designated agency or agencies. All such records shall constitute notice to all parties.

c. Any lien imposed by this section shall arise at the later of the following:

(1) the time that the amount of any costs incurred by the city for response measures shall have been definitely computed as a statement of account and an agency designated pursuant to subdivision b of this section has caused to be filed in the office of the city collector: (i) an entry of the account stated in the book in which such charges against the property are to be entered, and (ii) copies of any notices of potential liability for such costs and statements reciting the

(2) the third day after a responsible person, who is an owner of real property at which the response measures were implemented and whose liability for any costs incurred by the city for such response measures authorizes the imposition of a lien in accordance with subdivision a of this section, is sent by both certified or registered mail and first class mail notice of such person's potential liability for such costs. Such notice may be provided prior to the mailing of the notice pursuant to subdivision d of this section, but any notice provided pursuant to subparagraph (ii) of paragraph two of subdivision a of section 24-610 shall not be deemed to be notice of such person's potential liability, unless such person's potential liabililty is specifically referred to in such notice.

d. A notice stating the amount due and the nature of the costs shall be sent by both certified or registered mail and first class mail by the city collector within five days after such entry pursuant to paragraph one of subdivision c of this section to the last known address of the person whose name appears on the records in the office of the city collector as being the owner or agent or as the person designated by the owner to receive tax bills or, where no name appears, to the property, addressed to either the owner or the agent. Such notice shall have stamped or printed thereon a reference to this section. Such notice shall constitute notice of the potential liability of such owner for such costs for purposes of paragraph two of subdivision c of this section, where no prior notice of potential liability for such costs has been sent.

e. The city collector shall maintain copies of any notices of potential liability for the costs of response measures, together with statements indicating the dates such notices were mailed, filed by any agency designated pursuant to subdivision b of this section, and copies of any notices sent pursuant to subdivision d of this section, together with statements reciting the dates such notices were mailed.

f. If such costs are not paid within thirty days from the date that notice is sent pursuant to subdivision d of this section, it shall be the duty of the city collector to receive interest thereon at the rate of interest applicable to such property for a delinquent tax on real property to be calculated to the date of payment from the date of entry.

g. Such costs and the interest thereon shall continue to be, until paid, a lien on the property. Such lien may be satisfied in accordance with the provisions of section thirteen hundred fifty-four of the real property actions and proceedings law.

h. Any lien imposed by this section shall be subject to the rights of any mortgagee or lienor whose interest is perfected before notice of the lien has been filed in the office of the city collector, as provided in subdivision c of this section. Any such mortgagee or lienor shall be afforded the same protections against such lien as afforded under law against a judgment lien which arises out of an unsecured obligation and which arises as of the time of the filing of the notice of the lien imposed by this section.

i. (1) In any proceedings to enforce or discharge the lien, the validity of the lien shall not be subject to challenge based on (i) the lawfulness of the response measure implemented; or (ii) the propriety and accuracy of the items of expenses for which a lien is claimed, except as provided in this subdivision.

(2) No such challenge may be made except by the owner of the property.

(3) An issue specified in paragraph one which was decided or could have been contested in a prior court proceeding or action shall not be open to re-examination.

(4) With respect to any issue specified in paragraph one of this subdivision the certificate filed pursuant to section 24-606 shall be presumptive evidence of the facts stated therein.

j. In addition to establishing a lien, the city may recover such costs and interest thereon by bringing an action against the responsible person. The institution of such action shall not suspend or bar the right to pursue any other lawful remedy for the recovery of such costs.

Section 1. Declaration of legislative intent and findings. The council finds that the release or threatened release of hazardous substances into the environment presents a substantial danger to the public health, welfare and the environment. The enactment by the state legislature of a plan for the management of hazardous wastes has not reduced the need for or authority of the city to respond to emergencies caused by hazardous substance releases. The council declares that the response measures taken by the city must be effective and thorough so as to prevent injury to human, plant and animal life and damage to property and the environment.

Therefore, the council hereby determines that the department of environmental protection should specifically be authorized to respond to emergencies caused by releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances into the environment. The council provides herein that responsible persons shall be jointly and severally liable for all lawful response and remediation costs incurred by any city agency authorized by law to respond to such emergencies, including but not limited to the departments of environmental protection, health and sanitation and the police and fire departments. It shall be the policy of the city to seek the recovery of such costs in the first instance from the persons whose actions contributed most to the release or threatened release of hazardous substances into the environmental. The council intends that this local law shall not in any way alter or limit the functions, powers and duties of the department of health, including but not limited to its authority regarding nuisance abatement and declarations of imminent peril.

This chapter shall be known and may be cited as the "New York city community right-to-know law."

Section one. Legislative Findings. The Council finds that the storage, processing, handling and use of certain hazardous substances may pose a significant risk to human health and the environment in the event of an accidental or threatened release of such substance. Recent tragedies around the world relating to the accidental release of certain hazardous substances clearly indicate the need to have in place an effective plan for dealing with such emergencies.

The Council has determined that there is a need to protect the environment, health and safety of community members, emergency response personnel, the general public and private and public property against exposure to hazardous substances as a result of fire, spill or accidental release, whether actual or threatened, and to assist emergency response personnel in the mitigation of such fire, spill or accidental release from industrial, commercial or public facilities which handle these substances. Certain information, such as chemical names, amounts stored, characteristics of the substances, methods of safe treatment and potential health effects, should be provided to the department of environmental protection. This information is needed to facilitate planning for the prevention and control of fires, accidents and spills; to enable government inspectors to ensure compliance with other local environmental and public safety laws; and to permit public and private agencies to conduct diagnoses, screenings and health studies on behalf of community residents. Such information will be made available to the emergency response personnel of city agencies, other relevant government agencies, medical care providers, regulatory agencies, community boards and other interested persons.
